3. The philosophic tendency. Present-day philosophy has expressed itself in such terms as pragmatism, empiricism, and constructive realism. Whatever works in experience is right and practical. Out of this concrete experience, however limited, we construct our philosophy of life. Here the danger has been to bar out many indisputable facts and to delimit this constructive realism to the things of sense. The personal religious experience is frowned upon as unreal and God is reduced to an empty concept.

Now these tendencies are fraught with serious consequences for the youth of our time. They have been born in this period of a cold and crass materialism. Both the college and the church are suffering from its invasion. The church has developed machinery of organization which has replaced, in large measure, the vital working of the organism. The college has fallen a prey to various forms of materialism. Its instruction has been standardized and mechanized. The inevitable consequence has been that the level of intelligence has been lowered rather than raised.

The burning issue, I repeat, in the American college is the conflict between the mechanistic and the personalistic views of life. It is the question whether the church will still be able to point humanity to the Creator, the Living Intelligence, or whether this worship is to be usurped by the idolization of eternal energy. If science is sufficient unto itself, if the reality of the personal experience is rejected, then the process of mchanizaion will continue and the materialistic explanation.

The crisis in the American college is indeed grave. The imperative call is for men of profound faith, of large intelligence, of devoted purpose, of consecrated life, who will restore to its rightful place the personalistic conception of reality. We cannot long tarry on the mechanical plane without wrecking the religious life of the present generation. Our faculties in the colleges and universities should be manned by those whose lives are anchored in the reality of the personal, in a profound belief in a Personal God and the Living Intelligence.

The situation may give us cause for alarm but it is only temporary. We shall be convinced of the insecurity of false psychology and unsound philosophy parading under the guise of high-sounding names and empty phrases, and once again we shall work our way through the maze of unbelief out into a positize, constructive belief in God, the Creator, our Father and Friend.—Zion's Herald.

There is one automobile to every six people in the United States and the factories are turning out many new ones. However, in the world there is a car to every 71 persons, so that the need is by no means supplied, assuming that everybody needs the service of an automobile.

We have received a number of compliments on the improved appearance of the HERALD last week. These we pass on to the young men who constitute the new printing firm. It is their aim to please in all their work.

The preacher must not be a sort of glorified errand boy, he must not forsake the major task of preaching and saving souls for that of organization and administration—Ozora S. Davis.

Thirty-two nations were represented in the recent Boy Scout Conference held in Switzerland. There are in the world about two million Boy Scouts.

Denominational Enterprises

IT HAS BEEN GIVEN—BUT

The appeal published in last week's papers, for $500 to provide the balance needed to build a chapel at Chai Kou Pu, China, was supplemented with a letter to the widow of one of our sainted ministers, Mrs. C. A. Isner, who had expressed some time ago to the writer her desire to provide a memorial, in the foreign field, to her husband.

She informed the president of our Union Board a few days ago that she would give the amount called for, and a cablegram has been dispatched to Rev. C. G. Soderbom that the amount needed has been provided, and he could secure the contribution so generously promised by the Chinese magistrate, who is not a member of our church.

After reading Editor Benson's article in last week's Protestant which called attention to the appeal, and strengthened it greatly, I felt moved to write him that "so great is my faith in the money coming that I have just taken the code book and begun a cablegram notifying Bro. Soderbom that the money would come, so the Chinese magistrate might know we are providing our share, and appreciate his interest and help."

That was written the very day, or the day before Mrs. Isner saw Dr. Broomfield, as stated above.

Now by today's mail a check for $25 has come from our friend and brother, J. C. Barwick, at Greenwood, Delaware, stating "This one of 20 would build the chapel in China. Trusting you to place it where most needed in your judgment to the glory of God."

In the recent reports from India, stress was laid upon the need of a chapel at the Settlement, four miles from Dhulia, where we have families of our native people being taught self-support.

Then at the town or village of Ner a very encouraging development has been made where there were 25 Christians and there is a growing need of a chapel. The Executive Committee of the Union Board was so impressed with the situation that they directed Brother Cassen to submit plans and estimates for a neat structure.

Thus two chapels in India are as urgently needed as the one for Chai Kou Pu, China, and Brother Barwick's generous gift will go towards the chapel in India designated by the Executive Committee.

Another $25 will be given by the writer to make the second of the needed 20 to make $500. Any gifts on their way to me, or which may be sent to me later in response to the China Chapel appeal will be held until the donors are given an opportunity to state where they wish their gifts placed.

It ought to be easy for 18 more to give $25 each, or any amount to make up the $500.

Liberal Souls In Korea

Rev. William Newton Blair, at Pyeng Yang, Korea, states in the September Missionary Review of the World, that the large increase of Korean believers created many building problems. "Every one gives to the limit, and many beyond. I have seen many a deed for a part of a small farm given by farmers without money.

"Hundreds of wedding rings are placed on the plates by Korean Marys, and many dry the Master's feet with their hair, pulling down the long coils of shining black false hair so prized by the Korean women and piling them in heaps on the altar.

"Kim Nam-po, a widow, and a Christian only a few years, is possessed of some property, but is by no means a rich woman, gave the largest single offering I have known to be made by a Korean for a church building, and made by an old woman only escaped from heathenism five years; made very simply with two uplifted fingers which meant Yen 2,000," or $1,000.

Fred C. Klein.

BOARD OF ELUCATION ITEMS

Coming Fine!

Since the sample copies of the Rally Day material have reached our people the orders are coming in encouragingly. It is later than usual to distribute them but it is by no means too late to hold the service. The second Sunday in October is the day generally observed. An earlier or later date will accomplish as much if the right kind of plans are used.

We are as interested in the offering as ever. In fact, more so, due to the failure of the General Conference Budget. This distribution to September 1st to the Board of Education was the smallest it has ever been. The situation may change later but all our schools are financially embarrassed at the present time. The Seminary is in the poorest shape it has been in in the last 30 years. Adrian and High Point have both been forced to borrow to carry them over the summer months. Generous Rally Day offerings will quickly correct this situation.

If you have failed to receive a copy of the Rally Day material send in your order for what you think is necessary and the order will be filled in 24 hours.

Every cent of the Rally Day offerings counts on your General Conference budget apportionment and every cent goes directly to the Board of Education for its work.

Frank W. Stephenson.

613 W. Diamond St., N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE PASTOR'S FINANCIAL OBLIGATION

No one questions the fact that the shepherd ought to be an example to his flock, for as the shepherd leads the flock goes, and yet some of our pastors show an indifference to their financial obligations that is appalling. They go away from their field to another, leaving behind obligations not met and the new pastor comes after him and must suffer as a result of his sins. We have seen these things with our own eyes.

There should be a remedy for this ill and it may be found at the Annual Conference before the committee on ministerial moral character.

We attended a Methodist Episcopal, South, Conference some time ago and there seemed to be some long drawn out accounts with their book concern, so the bishop announced the accounts would be placed on the conference table next morning for inspection. It is needless to say there was a scuddling for the book room.

Why not? Who wants a pastor who won't pay his debts?

Pessimist.

OUR STORY PAGE

UNCLE DAVID'S BIRTHDAY CHECK

Uncle David's birthday check never came as a surprise to young Davd. Always the same, a check for $5, it had been arriving punctually on his birthday farther back than the boy could remember. With scarcely a word besides, just a businesslike note wishing his nephew many happy returns of the day in the crisp business size envelope. Naturally David had grown to count on it. Indeed, on his fourteenth birthday, the day our story opens, he had all but spent the money.

"Wish the postman would make it lively," he remarked to his mother. "I'm in a hurry to get started down town; those sweaters since they've been marked down $5 have been going like hot cakes. I'm afraid there won't be much choice left."

"Counting your chickens, I see," laughed Mrs. Dwight. "Supposing your uncle forgot you this year?"

"He won't, and there's the postman—so long, I'll lift the check from him as I go by." And out flew the cheerful, young figure in his new gray overcoat and warm Christmas gloves. The cold weather had no terrors for him. And with a Rugby sweater for skating—

"Hey, there, Uncle Sam," he greeted the loaded postman, "got a letter for David G. Dwight, haven't you?"

"Thought so," he grinned as a long crisp envelope was placed in his hand. "And there's my car." With a triumphant wave at his mother, watching from the window, he made a dive for the corner, just catching the car.

With the envelope still unopened in his coat pocket, he rattled along in the street car. Of course the check was inside; indeed it never occured to him that it might not be there. And as for a letter, there wouldn't be one, there never was. Time enough to open it when he got to the store.

"Hope they'll have a blue one left my size," he was thinking. "If they don't I'll get a gray one, they're almost as nifty."

Swinging off the car in front of Alder's big store, he was very soon battling his way toward the sporting goods section. Literally battling his way in good football fashion, too. For it was not the usual football crowd at all. Nearly all men on this Saturday morning. Then David remembered. This was the day of the much advertised overcoat sale, the one mother had been urging dad to attend. And dad had half promised but—

"Gee, I don't believe he will," David told himself regretfully. "Dad's great on spending money for his family or for lending it to any one who needs it, but throw it away on himself—not dad." And the words of a popular song snapped into his head.

"Doctors' bills, lawyers' bills, merchants bills, too!
Not a cent left for dad, boo hoo hoo."

A jolly tune, a rollicking tune, but—"Tell you what," David told himself sharply, "if my $5 would buy even a patch on a new overcoat I'd sure buy one. He had to chip in and round out the price of mine; $2.75 per, delivering papers, does not go far now I'm in high school. By jinks!" Here David was flung by the crowds straight into an overcoat on a dummy, and the price tag flew out, almost hitting him in the eye.

By all rights that tag in some miraculous way ought to have read just $5, but it didn't. Instead the sum of $48 met David's eye.

"Marked down from $75 for this day only," offered a clerk suavely. "Only two left; wish to try it on?"

"No, oh, no. I'm on my way to look at sweaters," said David quickly, relinquishing his hold on the tempting overcoat.

He discovered there was a blue sweater left in his size. But, as he told the clerks, he wanted to look around first before deciding. "Guess I'll try some of the others on," he concluded, and started to remove his overcoat. As he did so Uncle David's letter gave a crackle, reminding him of his mother's words. Maybe he'd better make sure that his chickens really had materialized.

Yes, they had. The expected pink check was undoubtedly there. But—ah, David gave a whistle and just stared at that check.

A clerk approached. "Have you decided on a sweater? Better choose today; the stock is getting low."

David looked up blankly. "Yes, that is, no," he mumbled, then walked quickly away in the direction of the overcoat crowds.

Forty-eight dollars for that overcoat and he could buy it now. (For the check to his utter amazement had read $50 instead of $5. No mistake either, for the short note had confirmed the amount.) But—David's brow furrowed in perplexity—dad never would allow him to spend the money that way. Not if he knew it at any rate. But need he know?

Jostled this way and that, the boy eagerly worked out a deep, dark plot that made him gasp at the audacity of it. Steadying himself against a counter, he pulled a blank card from his pocket and printed three words carefully on it. "And that's no lie," he told himself seriously as he hurried over to make his exciting investment.

Yes, they had his father's size. Yes, they'd put a special on it, certainly, and send it out that night. A card? Why, of course, and the obsequious salesman held out his hand.

But David slipped the card inside the box himself.

Then reluctantly he walked over and bought the blue sweater, $2 down, promising to pay the rest in the next two weeks. He had to have the sweater, he felt, or his mother would ask questions and that would never do.

On the homeward bound car he ran over the evidence. Not a loophole now. Without a doubt the sweater would account for Uncle David's annual $5 check. When the coat arrived no one would certainly connect it with him. Why should they? Especially with that card inside. No, the mystery of the coat would be complete and remain so.

Smiling to himself, he stepped down from the car at his corner. But—the very instant he entered the house he knew he was undone, for who should be the first to greet him but his Uncle David?

"Well, many happy returns," rang out the hearty voice, and then and there he began administering birthday slaps on his nephew's back. And David just stood there stupidly and let him do it. Fourteen slaps and one to grow on—all with scarcely a wriggle.

Uncle David! Why, he hadn't been east for years, and now to come today of all days!

"Some surprise," smiled his mother. "I told him you were out spending his birthday money, started just as soon as you got the check. Did you get the blue sweater?"

Unrolling his parcel, David brought the blue sweater to view. "It was awfully generous to—to send all that money," he stammered at his uncle.

"Tell you what," his mother put in swiftly, "not many boys have uncles who throw $5 checks around regularly and persistently. But come, I hear dad's car stopping at the corner; I'm going to put dinner on immediately."

So in they went to dinner, John Dwight arriving just as they sat down. In he came, too, shabby overcoat and all, to welcome his brother most cordially. David blinked uncomfortably. Would the business of the new coat go through, or would the whole thing come out and dad insist upon sending it back? If he only hadn't insisted upon having it sent out tonight he would have had time to explain to his uncle. But now what ought he to do?

The front doorbell rang with a loud jangle. Parcel for Mr. John C. Dwight, special from Alders'. At sight of the large suit box Mrs. Dwight exclaimed: "Then you did get an overcoat; oh, I'm so glad."

"Why, no," said Mr. Dwight, "reckoned my overcoat would last another year; lots of warmth left in it yet. This must be some mistake."

"John C. Dwight, right address and all," announced his wife. "What can be in it? I'm going to look."

And with David shaking nervously, she did, too, and out came the overcoat, looking more splendidly regal even than it had in the store.

"Well, I'll be—I'll be—" Mr. Dwight rose from his chair and inspected the coat. Indeed all eyes were on it—although with varying expressions.

Suddenly Mr. Dwight turned and exclaimed sternly: "David, you bought this for me; it was kind, but I—"

"I, why, I," mumbled David, then realized that it was the other David dad was addressing.

"Tut, tut, man," Uncle David was answering. "I came straight from the train to the house: I wouldn't think of presuming to buy you an overcoat."

"Well, then who?"

Young David quaked in his boots. Why didn't they look for a card? "Isn't there a card or something?" he offered weakly.

"Why, yes," said his mother, pouncing upon it. "And it says—why how funny: 'Owed to you.' Did you ever hear of such a thing?"

"Let me see." Dad Dwight took the card and read the printed words.

"You don't suppose," began Mrs. Dwight, "one of those bad debts of yours—"

"Looks mighty like it. Didn't I always say they'd pay if they could? Now, mother, you'll have to admit—" But here the coat captured the whole of his attention. "I'll say the buyer had first class taste," he said boyishly as he slipped into the handsome garment. "But who can it be?"

David began to glow happily; his plot was going over big. He looked out of the corners of his eyes at his uncle; he must guess, but he wasn't going to say anything. But—wasn't he?

"Well, David," on the instant came Uncle David's voice, "I think you showed fine taste in the way you spent your money."

Poor David! He stared agonizingly at his Uncle. Now dad would insist upon sending the coat back. "What's that?" he was saying already.

"Oh!" exclaimed Uncle David, smiling wickedly at his squirming namesake, "you're not the only one with something new; David has a fine new sweater. Get it, David."

And David quickly did. But needless to say the attention still centered on the mysterious overcoat. Admiration, wonderings and more wonderings. "Well," chuckled Mr. Dwight at last, "It's mine anyhow," and, wheeling about to face his wife, he exclaimed: "How do you like your stylish new husband?"

But Mrs. Dwight only smiled proudly for answer. As for the two Davids they were smiling just as proudly at each other.—Allen Burdock, in The Continent.

THE BOY WHO BROKE INTO THE REFORM SCHOOL

A True Story

Judge McClintock kept on writing for fully five minutes after Tony entered his office in the country courthouse. Tony was a slender, dark-eyed Mexican lad.

The judge was aware of his presence, but wished, to test the boy's manners and see whether he would wait with patience without interrupting until the judge had finished the task in hand.

Tony waited respectfully, cap in hand, until the judge looked up and asked with a winsome smile, "Well, what can I do for you?"

"Please, sir," began the boy, not knowing exactly how to state his case, "I want you to send me to the reform school."

"Why, this is unusual. What have you done?" the judge inquired.

"I haven't done anything, sir, that is bad; but I promised my mother that I would always be good, an' not do anything which wicked boys do."

"Where is your mother?" the judge inquired.

"She's dead, sir," answered the boy, his large eyes swimming in tears.

"What is your name?"

"Tony, sir."

"Tony what?"

"Tony Alhaja."

"Tony Jewel," commented the judge.

"How long has your mother been dead?" the judge inquired.

"She died last winter," answered Tony in a tearful tone, recalling that greatest sorrow that ever comes into a boy's life.

"Where have you been living since she died?" inquired the judge.

"After my mother died I lived with my aunt. One day I came back from school, an' she'd gone."

"Where did she go?"

"The people next door told me she'd moved back to Mexico."

"Then what did you do?"

"I found a place in an alley where I slept for many weeks."

"Where did you get food?"

"I sell papers."

The judge surveyed the lad with a searching, sweeping inspection. His feet were bare. He wore a pair of blue denim overalls and a checked shirt. His heavy dark hair was neatly combed, and his face was clean.

"How have you kept so clean when you have to sleep in an alley?"

"I wake early, before the sun is shining. I run to the park, an' wash my face an' hands in the fountain. Then I run over to the bank an' look in the glass door with the shade pulled down back of it. I see how to comb my hair and slick it back." Tony drew from his pocket a broken piece of comb, and showed the judge how he combed his hair.

"Where do you eat?"

"I sell papers very early. When I sell enough, I eat something. Sometimes when it rains very hard I can't sell papers. Then I don't eat."

The judge stared at this unusual boy and finally asked: "Tony, tell me, why do you want me to send you to the reform school? I think you are a very good boy."

"The police, they chased me out of the alley where I have been sleeping. Then I found another place, not so good; but I can sleep there in the new alley. Now the police chase me out of that, an' they say I can't sleep in alley nowhere." Here Tony's emotions got the better of him. He wiped the hot tears from his cheeks with a rough sleeve.

There were tears in the judge's eyes also as he thought of the wrongs this Mexican lad had suffered from the aunt who abandoned him and the harsh enforcement of the necessary ordinance against vagrants' sleeping in alleys.

The noon whistle sounded its long siren blast. Tony started. "I must run an' sell my papers," he explained, rushing for the door.

"Come back at one o'clock," called the judge after the vanishing figure.

That afternoon Tony Alhaja boarded the train for Gainesville to spend three years in the Juvenile Reformatory. Judge McClintock bade the boy goodby, and encouraged him to make the best of his opportunity.

In a letter the judge made clear to the superintendent the unusual character of the boy who came alone and at his own request to find a refuge in the State institution.

Tony won the sympathy and help of the superintendent from the first. He was given work in the hospital, where he rapidly won the confidence and admiration of those in charge.

Tony grew to be a slender, clean-cut, attractive young man. When he returned to El Paso, he was given a position in one of the large hospitals of the city. His willingness to serve, his reliability, and his efficiency won the admiration of all with whom he came in contact.

An official of the government from Mexico City was in El Paso on business, and was taken suddenly and violently ill. He was rushed to the hospital where Tony worked. During the days that followed the Mexican official fell in love with the quiet, efficient, unassuming young man. Later he secured for Tony a position as nurse in the government hospital in Mexico City, at a salary of three hundred pesos per month. This, being in gold, is an extraordinary wage for that country.

"I little realized that morning," declared the judge, "when the waves of wronged, neglected childhood washed that little sprout into my office, that with half a chance it would grow into such a fruitful tree."—Rev. Frank Hampton Fox, D. D., in C. E. World.

Hold Thou My Thoughts

Hold Thou my thoughts, for as I kneel
To worship Thee and pray,
Some vagrant thought, some trifling thing,
Doth lead my mind astray.

Hold Thou my thoughts, for while mine ear
Would listen to Thy Word,
Some sight, some sound, claims eye or ear;
Thy message is unheard.

Hold Thou my thoughts; even as I strive
To lift my heart to Thee,
The evil one slips in between
And steals Thee, Lord, from me.

Hold Thou my thoughts, for when I seek
To give my heart to Thee,
A host of Satan's darts drive in
And storm the heart of me.

O, hold my thoughts, and shield mine eyes
From all distracting things,
And aid my praise, my thoughts, my heart,
To rise upon Faith's wings!

—F. B. Stone, in The Southern Churchman.

LIVING OUR RELIGION

A certain evangelist we have heard sometimes uses this illustration:

"Two merchants went to a revival service to listen to the preacher, a man of some reputation, and preacher of the whole Gospel. These men were competitors in business, and each one knew the heartburnings that arose in their business life. After some nights, one of them went to the altar as a seeker. The other was under a measure of conviction, but unyielding. As he saw his competitor go forward, he said within himself: 'I will watch him, and if he lives it one year I will believe there is really something in it, and will become a Christian myself.' For one whole year he watched that man. There was a complete change in his whole life—business life, social life, every-day life; he could not find one flaw, and, at the end of the year, the watcher sought and found God in the forgiveness of sins. He then went to the merchant whose life he had watched so closely, and said to him, 'For one whole year I have watched you, and your life has convinced me there is something real in religion.' How glad the merchant was that he had lived straight. One failure might have wrecked a soul. Actions speak louder than profession."—The Presbyterian and Herald and Presbyter.

How to Keep Good Company

Read the Bible and it brings you into the association of the best people that ever lived. You stand beside Moses, and learn his meekness; beside Job, and learn his patience; beside Daniel, and learn his courage to do the right; beside Isaiah, and learn his fiery indignation toward evil-doing; beside Paul and catch something of his enthusiasm; beside Christ, and feel His love.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, D. D.

Notes and Sundries

—The men of America are not only wearing more clothes than are their sisters and wives, but are actually buying more, according to statistics compiled by the Federal Reserve Board.

—The moving picture houses of the United States received $700,000,000.00 in paid admissions last year.

—Canada is selling the United States 41 million pounds of fish a year.

—American farmers now own 4,332,000 automobiles, trucks and tractors, or nearly one-fifth of all the motor vehicles in the country.

—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous Rochester, Minn., surgeon, praises sunshine as a tuberculosis cure, especially tuberculosis of the skin and joints. He warns that sunshine through window-glass really is not sunshine, but a pallid imitation of the real article. Window-glass, he explains, lets only 64 per cent of the sunshine through and traps or keeps out the ultraviolet rays which are the most valuable part for human beings. Those who bathe in real sunshine and receive the beneficent touch of the ultraviolet rays, in his opinion, receive stimulation therefrom. Their cells are protected and germs are destroyed. He claims rickets in children are benefited greatly by sunshine treatment. Getting one's skin well tanned by the sun is good for the health, he says, but it should be done with discretion.—Pathfinder.

—The latest cancer theory is that this disease is caused, not by any particular germ, but by the suffocation of cells, causing them to secrete an acid like sour milk, which stimulates abnormal growth. This theory was advanced recently by Prof. O. Warburg, of Berlin, as a result of his researches into the physiology of the disease. A cancer serum that has cured cancer in a number of laboratory rats and has rendered them immune to the disease over a long period is the latest news of a cure for the disease. The serum was discovered by Dr. Thomas Lumsden, working at the Lister Institute under a grant from the British empire cancer campaign.

—During the past year the Gideon Association has placed more than 100,000 copies of the Word of God in American hotel guest rooms. "There are 2,000,000 guest rooms in the hotels of the United States and Canada," says one of the officers of the association. "To date we have placed in them 800,000 Bibles. We will adopt as our objective for next year another 100,000 Bibles."

—As an auto passed down a Chicago street a wheel picked up a stone and hurled it at a four-year-old boy. It hit him in the chest, making a hole like a bullet wound. The boy died.

—As E. A. Knudson was driving near Milwaukee, Wis., a bee flew under his spectacles and stung him on the eye. In trying to brush the bee away he lost control of the car. He was injured fatally when it struck a telegraph pole.

—Ralph Hepburn, automobile racing champion, who was qualifying for a race at Charlotte, N. C., was going at about 125 miles an hour when a sparrow smashed into the goggle over his left eye. Broken glass got under Hepburn's eyelids and he was forced to come to a stop. He was taken to a hospital.

—Dr. Joseph Kossuth Dixon, clergyman, author, educator, and lecturer, and especially distinguished as a loyal friend of the American Indian, died at his home in Philadelphia on Tuesday, August 24. He was the son of Brigadier-General and Mrs. Adam Dixon and was a graduate of Jewell College and Rochester Theological Seminary. Most of Dr. Dixon's life was spent in studying the history and customs of the red men and in espousing their cause. In 1913 he led the Rodman Wanamaker Expedition of Citizens to the North American Indians, covering 25,000 miles in a specially equipped car and visiting 189 tribes or sub-tribes. Upon the completion of the trip he brought back and laid before President Wilson a document in which the chief of each tribe swore eternal fidelity and allegiance to the American flag. Active in every movement to assure justice to the Indian, Dr. Dixon went to Europe after the World War to collect data about those of the race who fought with the American troops.

—Thomas Moran, who died recently at his winter home in Santa Barbara, Cal., at the age of eighty-nine years, was one of the most distinguished of American painters. His pictures of the Grand Canyon won him the greatest fame, although his work was by no means confined to this one subject. His companion pictures, "The Chasm of the Colorado" were bought by Congress for $10,000 each and placed in the Capitol at Washington. Mr. Moran became an academician in 1884. He was also a member of the American Water Color Society and the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts.

—Tenko Nishida, founder of "Ittoen," who is widely known as the "Socrates of Japan," has reached Honolulu on his way to San Francisco, where he expects to arrive on September 28. He is making the trip with the purpose of spreading the doctrine of his sect, which is summarized in the teaching that there can be no real life without conflict, and that "labor is prayer and prayer is labor." The Japanese Socrates is sixty years old and although he had paid for his passage, he helped wash decks and did other work en route to Hawaii, practising his preachments of labor. His wife performed similar work. The life of Ittoen is the life of repentance.

—Thomas Carlyle was the originator of the term "The Unspeakable Turk." It occured in an article written by him before he attained fame.

—Three hundred and fifty years ago an English micrographist wrote within the circle of an English penny the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Decalogue, two short prayers in Latin, his own name, a motto, the year of the Lord, and year of the reign of the Queen (Elizabeth).

—The following declaration will take the place of the oath formerly sworn before notaries public: "This is a true statement, made under the penalties of perjury."

—A statistical expert recently has made a study of the use of the word "please" in the telegraphic communications of the country and finds that the toll paid by Americans for writing this courteous expression into their messages amounts annually to $10,000,000.

—Germany has been admitted to membership in the League of Nations. Spain recently took offence and withdrew. Brazil withdrew some time ago.

—Trouble has arisen between Great Britain and China which threatens to be serious. The Chinese have seized two of England's ships and when an effort was made to release them the Chinese fired upon the party attempting the release and killed seven of them and seriously wounded others.

—A startling rumor got going last week to the effect that Henry Ford's daughter is to be married to a Pole named Skyrzynski. Relief came with the information that Henry Ford has no daughter.

—The Roman Catholics have opened a parochial day school in Greensboro. It starts with 62 pupils: They do not believe in the public schools, but others do.

—The contention of two factions in Greece brings on bloodshed and virtual anarchy.

—A most illuminating survey of the prohibition situation from the journalistic angle was published editorially in The Newton Graphic of Newton, Mass., in its issue of Aug. 13. The editor of this newspaper was assigned the task of obtaining the opinions of the delegates at a meeting of the National Editorial Association, recently held in Los Angeles, Cal., on the subject of prohibition, in order if possible to get at the truth in these days of biased propaganda on both the dry and wet sides of the question. The poll covered 170 newspapers from 31 different states and resulted in a vote of over 100 in favor of strict enforcement of the Volstead act, 29 for modification, 6 for government control of liquor, and 3 for repeal. Most significant, however, was the report on the amount of drunkeness in the country since national prohibition has gone into effect, 110 stating that there was less drunkeness in their particular communities and only 15 saying there was more. It should be borne in mind that these figures were given by local editors, who naturally are in closer touch with community conditions than almost any other class of people. In commenting on the result of his survey the editor of the Graphic declares: "It leads emphatically to the conclusion that no mater what particular sections may flout the prohibition law, the country as a whole is dry."

—The Stationing Committee of a Methodist Protestant Annual Conference is something more than a committee. It is an institution! For in the Stationing Committee, uniformly composed of two ministers, two laymen, and the President of the Conference as chairman, symbolizes and embodies the essence of our denominational polity. The responsibilities of this committee are very great. Pray for the Stationing Committees, that they may have divine guidance in their all-important task of assigning the ministers to their various charges.—Methodist Recorder.

In the North Carolina Conference this "institution" consists of one minister (the president) and one laymen.

—A picture by Michelangelo representing the flagellation of St. Anthony has just been discovered at Bologna. It is painted on wood and is said to be valued at $650,000.

Our Children's Home

FINANCIAL REPORT

Spring Hill, W. Thomasville, $2; Welch Memorial, High Point, $12.13; Concord, First Church, $31.47; Midway, Guilford, $3; W. W. Hedrick, Pleasant Grove, $1; Mrs. H. A. Garrett, Treas. H. M. S., $175; State Street Church, Lexington, $5.65; Union Grove, Orange, $3.30; Flag Springs, Why Not, $2; Friendship, N. Davidson, $3; Lena Hunsucker, Fairmont, W. Va., $2.50; Whitakers Chapel Enfield, $2; Bethel, Flat Rock, $3.85.

Sunday Schools

Whitakers Chapel, $2; Midway, Haw River $5; Winston-Salem, $22.90; Fountain Place, Burlington, $3.07; Graham, $7.56; Reidsville $5; Whitakers, $8; West Lexington, S. Davidson, $5; Charlotte, Second Church, $2.28; Asheboro, $9.76; First Church, Charlotte, $13.61; First Church, High Point, $22.38; Siler City, $4.35; Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, $3; English St. Philathea Class, High Point, $2; Denton, $17.38; Friendship, Mt. Hermon, $3.45; Bethel, Mocksville, $5.97; Calvary, Greensboro, $10.85; Concord, Saxapahaw, $2.15.

Other Gifts

Mrs. Wm. Loy, High Point, goods for three shirts; Mrs. J. M. Clapp, Burlington, two pair pants; Mrs. Emma Bivans, Hillsboro two nice scarfs; Miss Ruby Isley, Mt. Hermon Church, a nice dress and a pair of shoes; L. B. Daile of Mt. Olive, twenty bushels of sweet peppers; Mrs. H. A. Garrett, High Point, invited and entertained the children to their delight on Tuesday, September the 7th.

Our school started off last Thursday, September 9th with much promise. Teachers are as follows: Mrs. J. N. Atwater, who was with us last year, Mrs. May Cooke, of Thomasville, Miss Edna Dixon, Route 4, Greensboro.

Thank you for all the contributions that come to us for the purpose of helping to do the good work we are engaged in.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

Bootleg Poison. Nearly 50 persons died in and around Buffalo, N. Y., after drinking bootleg liquor which contained wood alcohol. Several men were arrested. They are charged with selling 3500 gallons of the booze even after being told that it was poisonous.

Evolution Echo. Mississippi has followed Texas in requiring publishers to delete all references to the theory of evolution from school textbooks.

—A Burglar entered the home of Brother George Shaw of Calvary Church last Saturday night and took all the money he had in his pocket. He entered by a window and departed leaving a knife which he had used in his entrance.

—Dr. J. Henry Highsmith, State High School Inspector, declares that it is a sheer waste of time for many children to study Latin and French.

—Cloudbursts in Indiana and Illinois last week caused immense damage to property and the loss of several lives.

LADDIE AT THE CROSS ROADS

1. It is highly commended by Bishop Theo. S. Henderson, and Dr. R. S. Copeland, former Health Officer of New York City, who together introduce the book.

2. It has speedily gone into several editions, and another is about to appear, which will probably be the last, as it is published WITHOUT ANY PROFIT TO THE AUTHOR, in order to keep price low.

3. IT HAS SAVED THOUSANDS OF BOYS, and will save thousands more, if the true friends of boys will help in the distribution IN RESPONSE TO THIS SPECIAL APPEAL AND OFFER.

4. It is enthusiastically commended by PASTORS, PHYSICIANS (a prominent one in Detroit says it should be given to every High School boy in the land), by JUDGES, Scout-Sunday school—and "Y" workers and by happy PARENTS.

5. It is clean, safe, simple and not technical, and BRIEF—a boy often takes it to his room and reads it before retiring.

6. It stresses clean thinking, and candidly sets forth the dreadful results of perverted sex-habits.

7. The chapters are interspersed with original poems to make the book appear like any other and not a remonstrating specific.

8. The author is a Christian minister and father, knows and loves boys and so easily wins and holds their confidence.

9. It is INEXPENSIVE. Generous laymen have enabled the author to reduce the regular price of 25 cents to 15 cents, and, in quantities of eight or more for distribution to eight cents per copy!

This offer holds for 40 days! Order a supply direct of him NOW, 1109 Tenth Avenue, Port Huron, Michigan.

—Gypsy Smith, the famous English evangelist, according to The Methodist of Australia, in an interview with Rev. Kingscote Greenland of London answered the question, "Why are you an Evangelist?" by saying "Because I cannot help it—I must. Necessity is laid upon me. I am as sure of my commission as of my conversion. I should no more dare to live without preaching Christ's gospel than to live without eating. I've got to do this thing—why, I don't know, but I have. It's my business, my divine work, and woe is me if I preach not the gospel. And God has set his seal on my ministry in five continents by permitting me to see tens of thousands of men and women brought back home to Him through my humble agency. Go out and call men in I must, and I will; I can do no other, as Martin Luther said." The British "Who's Who" notes that Gypsy Smith was self-taught" and is a member of the Order of the British Empire.

—The widow of a farmer had some difficulty with her hens, and wrote the following letter to the board of agriculture: "Something is wrong with my chickens. Every morning I find two or three lying on the ground cold and stiff, with their feet in the air. Can you tell me what is the matter?"

After a little while she received the following reply: "Dear Madam—Your chickens are dead."

—The scientist who was to lecture on "The Infinitude of Space" was half an hour late. He couldn't find a place to park.—Boston Transcript.

MARRIED

Brand-Lambeth

On September 8, Mr. Albert G. Brand, and Miss Ollie Lambeth were united in marriage by the writer. Miss Ollie is a member of Friendship church, and for a long time has been our organist. Mr. Brand is a young business man in Florida.

Immediately after the marriage they left for their home in Florida.

Her going away takes from our community one of our best girls. The good wishes of many follow her. W. D. REED.

GUIDANCE

To understand each passing day as on we serve and wait,
To know the path our feet should take to keep us from ill-fate—
For this, dear Lord, we plead, day by day.

To honor Thee in thought, in speech, in deeds we do,
Not wealth nor fame, nor worldly joys we do,
Not wealth nor fame, nor worldly joys we crave,
But grant, dear Christ, to guide, to guard, to save.
Lead thou us on, we would not ask to be Kept in the flowery paths of ease, apart from thee.
If steep and rugged is the way, be thou quite near,
To strengthen, to uphold and keep our hearts from fear.

REBECCA B. LINER.
Hillsboro, N. C., September 6, 1926.

He dashed into the police station at midnight, explaining that his wife had been missing since eight o'clock that morning, and asking that search be made for her.

"Her description," said the sergeant. "Height."

"I—I don't know!"

"Weight?"

The husband shook his head vaguely.

"Color of eyes?"

"Er—average, I expect."

"Do you know how she was dressed?"

"I expect she wore her coat and hat. She took the dog with her."

"What kind of a dog?"

"Brindle bull terrier, weight fourteen and one half pounds, four dark blotches on his body, shading from gray to white. Round, blackish spot over the left eye, white stub tail, three white legs and right front leg brindled, all but the toes. A small nick in the left ear, a silver link collar, with"—

"That'll do!" gasped the sergeant. "We'll find the dog!"—Boston Globe.

A kindly old lady stooped over a reclining beggar and produced a penny. The beggar eyed it disdainfully. "Ma'am," he began. "Did ye read in de paper, about de beggar dat died and left a million dollars to a lady dat give him a quarter?"

"I seem to remember something of the sort," replied the old lady, "but—"

"Well, dat guy was me brother. Dat's de kind of a family we are!"

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Burlington.—The regular monthly communion service was held at the First Church Sunday, and the following persons were received into the church—Mrs. A. P. Cates, Mrs. H. A. Kemp, and Mr. Raiford Dawkins. Mrs. Cates and Mr. Dawkins come to us from the M. E. Church, and Mrs. Kemp from the Haw River M. P. Church. We welcome them. Others are to join soon.

Our vacation period is over, and we are settling down to real earnest work again. Only a few weeks remain of this conference year, and there is much yet to be done; however we hope to close the year with all budgets paid and the church well organized and in good working condition.

We are passing through an unusual experience just now in the number of our people who are dying. On Sunday night, August 29, Brother S. W. Crutchfield passed away. He was not a member of the Burlington Church (he belonged at Efland) but he lived in Burlington and was a member of our Sunday school and an attendant upon our preaching services. On Wednesday evening following, Lee Brady, the thirteen-year-old son of Bro. and Sister W. R. Brady, was killed in an automobile accident. On the same night Mrs. Sarah Blackwell died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Carden; and on the following Saturday morning Sister J. R. Wiles passed away after an illness of one month. This seems to us to be a very unusual number of deaths for a church in a week's time. Surely we should be impressed with what a frail thing life is! Our hearts are very tender towards these bereaved homes.

Our Rally Day is the FOURTH SUNDAY in September, at which time church and Sunday school officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The slate has already been made out by the nominating committee.

The large columns in the Herald last week. Bro. Editor, added very much to the form of the paper. Now if you could have it fastened together I would "Hurrah " again.

I believe steadfastly in the "Herald." It has been of untold good to our conference. I desire also to wish for the new printing concern early and increasing success.

S. W. TAYLOR.

September 9, 1926.

Eden, Halifax Charge.—I have so much to report this time I will probably leave off something till later.

After the regular service at the church on Sunday, July 18, our pastor and quite a number of people from the church and community went to the home of Mrs. Mary Ponds and at this time and place our pastor administered the rite of baptism to Mr. John J. Brown. Mr. Brown is in his eighty-seventh year and has been confined to his bed most of the time for fifteen months. On this day be was unable to sit up in his bed, but his voice was clear and calm as he made his responses. Every word seemed to come from a heart filled with joy and peace. It seemed then that the feeble spark of life must surely burn out in a few days, but I am glad to say he has been spared to enjoy this new found joy and peace.

Following the custom of years we met at the church on Thursday before the first Sunday in August for the purpose of giving the church and cemetery a general cleaning up. (Yes, we have the church cleaned up twice a month, but we give it an extra polishing at this time.)

Our revival meeting began on Sunday, August 1. Our pastor was assisted in this meeting by Rev. G. H. Hendry of Burlington, who preached some great and good sermons. Much interest was manifested, especially on Friday. Mr. Hendry preached to the parents that day, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hendry were with us only a few days but their influence remains and is being manifested in the renewed interest being shown in the Sunday school and other phases of church work.

Our Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. J. W. Hardee on Thursday, September 2. (Did I hear some one say "She just can't resist mentioning that Ladies' Aid Society," Well, just cheer up—the worst is yet to come. Some time I am going to write about that and nothing else, so keep your seat.) After the devotional and business program was dispensed with the question of making a donation to the High Point College was presented, and the vote to do so was unanimous. We hope other societies have already taken this step.

Sunday, September 5, Rev. Mr. Spencer filled his oppointment with us and preached a wonderful sermon. We of Halifax charge are fortunate indeed in having Mr. Spencer serve us.

We will have children's day service on third Sunday in September. Fifth Sunday in October will be home-coming day. We hope to have a full attendance on that day.

REPORTER.

Rockingham.—Here we come again with something else.

The members of the church of Rockingham have had their election for the delegate to annual conference. The spiritual working man whom we have elected is Mr. Robert Gardner. Mr. Gardner is a man that is willing to do anything for the work of God. He is a great leader in all our church work. He puts God before all, as every one of us should do.

We will begin in a revival here at our church Wednesday night, September 15. Dr. Dixon, the President of the conference, and Mrs. Dixon will be with us. Dr. Dixon will be with us until Sunday and we hope Mrs. Dixon will remain during the next week. We had a great revival in June, but we hope for even a greater one this time. We ask the Christian people to remember us in their prayers. Pray that our meeting may be a success.

The children that meet on Thursday afternoons made a special offering to our appreciated pastor, Rev. James Trollinger; we hope they will be greatly benefited in the future by these Thursday afternoon meetings.

We have prayer meetings in the house of different members in the village. There are several held each week with one in our church building on Wednesday night. These prayer meetings have a great influence on the lives of our people. We have had several members to walk out and take their stand for God in these prayer meetings. Every time we meet in this manner it keeps us strong and helps us to always realize that as we meet, we meet to fill a date with God.

Our Sunday school on September 12 was an enjoyable one. There were 91 members present. The collection was $4.27. Next Sunday will be our special offering day for the debt on our equipment; we hope to make it count.

We are sad to report the misfortune that came to our beloved Mrs. Trollinger, the pastor's wife, during last week. As she was out in the grass, a snake bit her on the foot. We are more than pleased to say that she is getting along fine and was able to accompany her husband, Rev. Mr. Trollinger, to Virginia this week end.

BIRDIE CONNELL.

Friendship Church.—One of the most helpful meetings of this year was held Saturday night, September 11, Mrs. J. H. Harkey as leader. Only a few of the Aid members were present but every one seemed to be afire with the spirit of "doing something." All the ladies have been working on some articles for a linen sale, Saturday evening, September 18, and from all reports we will have a fine number of pieces for sale. We are expecting a large crowd and hope to have something to add to our fund with which we are trying to pay off some small debts. Altho few in number we are pushing on, having as our leader the Great Leader, and feeling like he will magnify our small deeds to his honor.

AID REPORTER.

Asheville.—Rev. Raleigh Hunter spent one week with us, August 27 to September 3.

His preaching was most enjoyable. He endeared himself to every one. All regret that he could not stay longer. REPORTER.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—First Sunday our revival meeting began here. Brother O'Briant gave us a splendid sermon that morning. After noon Brother Stubbins came and preached every day there after;—not every sermon; Rev. A. D. Shelton from Spring Church came Tuesday morning and favored our people with one of his good sermons.

We had two services and dinner on ground every day. A good time socially as well as spiritually. We were glad to have Brother Stubbins with us because he served us as pastor some years ago. All his sermons were good and helpful. We are always glad to have those who have served us as pastor to visit us, because we feel near them still.

Our church was much revived. Several were converted, seven or eight joined church.

Had a number of brides and grooms attend the meeting. Our Mrs. Robert Morris was taken with appendicitis during the meeting and is now in Roanoke Rapids hospital for operation.

Wednesday during the meeting the eight-month-old infant of Mrs. S. M. Thompson was brought here for burial. Died of stomach trouble in Seaside Sanatorium of Norfolk, Va.

At this writing Mr. Will Thornton of Littleton is very ill, though he was at church last Sunday night to hear Brother Stubbins preach.

There is lots of sickness among the aged ones now. FANNIE BARNES.

Liberty, Siler City Charge.—We had 140 present at Sunday school Sunday morning.

This shows a marked increase as the September days come with their invigorating atmosphere; and new zest and ambition spring into being. The Baracca Class had charge of the Sunday school Sunday a. m. The large number present and their songs were especially inspiring.

The Senior Philathea Class will have charge the next second Sunday.

Our pastor brought to us as usual a soul-stirring sermon. His Theme was "Doubt and Its Cure." The congregation was large and attentive.

Our pastor has received 49 members into the church this year and others are yet to join.

A business meeting was held after the service. A Rally Day Committee was appointed, and the fourth Sunday in September was named as Pay-Up-Day. The Treasurer made a report of the amount needed to pay all claims in full. An optimistic spirit prevailed throughout the meeting.

Mr. Gibbs, pastor, led the Senior C. E. Society Sunday evening. Two teachers of our graded school faculty joined: Miss Selma Watt and Miss Jewel Sumner. We are delighted to have them with us.

At a recent meeting the Society elected officers as follows: Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. John W. Curtis, Mrs. Jack Crowson and Miss Bertine Shephard.

We are making new plans for the autumn days. BERTINE SHEPHARD.

Tabernacle Church.—The 17th annual session of the Singers' Convention met at Tabernacle Church, five miles northwest of Julian, for an all-day session on Sunday, September 12th. The attendance this year was large, singers coming from Forsyth, Rockingham, Randolph, Alamance, and various points in Guilford. Fully one third of the crowd was unable to find room in the large Tabernacle Church; the visitors being crowded out in many instances to make room for those composing the various delegations of singers. Throughout the day duets, quartettes, chorus numbers, solos and other musical numbers held the interest of the large gathering.

The report of the executive committee reviewed the work of the past year, and presented for the officers for the coming year the following: President, Prof. A. M. Fentriss of Pleasant Garden; Vice President, Thomas Reynolds of Julian; Secretary, Miss Myrtle Garrett of Julian. These were all elected. It was decided that the next annual convention would meet at Smithwood Church north of Liberty on the first Sunday in September of 1927, and that a called meeting of the convention would meet sometime during the year at Glenwood, date to be fixed by the officers.

During the afternoon a talk on the influence of music in the home and church was made by Dr. W. T. Whitsett of Whitsett.

Much of the continued success of the convention during its seventeen years of existence is due to the untiring labors of Prof. A. M. Fentriss who has been a teacher of vocal music throughout the county and surrounding counties during this time, and who has aroused much interest in music wherever he has labored.

West Lexington, South Davidson Charge.—Our work has been moving along as usual for the past few weeks during which we have not reported to the Herald. The Sunday school has maintained the attendance very well during the summer months and we are expecting an increased attendance during the fall months. The congregations at the church service have been fairly large and the church attendance is expected to increase also.

Our pastor, Brother Crutchfield, spent a vacation of about two weeks with his parents and other relatives in Orange county during August. He was absent for one Sunday and this writer conducted services at Jerusalem and West Lexington Churches. Our church and Sunday school sympathize with Brother Crutchfield in the death of his uncle, S. W. Crutchfield, which occurred at the Burlington hospital.

Brother G. G. Gibson, one of the members of the West Lexington Church who was confined to his home for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to be able to go to the home of his daughter.

The fourth quarterly conference for the South Davidson Charge has been called for Saturday, September 25. It will be held at the West Lexington Church, beginning at three o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Dixon will be present and preside over the conference.

Dr. Dixon will preach at three of the churches on South Davidson Charge on Sunday, September 26. He will be at Mount Carmel at 11 a. m., at Yadkin College at three p. m., and West Lexington at 7:30 p. m.

The finances of West Lexington Church are a little behind at this time, but special efforts will be made by the stewards to raise the balance of pastor's salary and as much as possible on the budgets. The date for the meeting of the Annual Conference is rapidly approaching and we will have only about seven weeks in which to finish the year's work.

Our church was delighted to have Rev. E. G. Cowan, of Greensboro, at the night service last Sunday. He consented to preach for our pastor and delivered a good sermon on the subject, "Ingratitude." It was a very helpful message.

Services will be held at West Lexington Church at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. next Sunday, and the pastor will preach according to the regular plan of appointments for the charge. C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Tabernacle Charge.—We began our special meeting on this Charge the first Sunday in August at Tabernacle Church. Rev. S. W. Taylor came to us on Monday and did the preaching from then till the close of the meeting. All who heard Brother Taylor were delighted with his preaching. At the close of the meeting we received five members into the church. At our last appointment we received ten members, making a total of 16 received this year at this church.

The fourth Sunday in August we began our meeting at Moriah. This was a good meeting. We feel sure the church was greatly revived. Rev. J. D. Williams was our help at this place. He came to us on Monday and remained till the close of the meeting. Brother Williams seemed to be at his best. Every sermon he preached seemed to be better than the one just before it. All enjoyed his preaching. As a result of this meeting we received six members into the church.

The fifth Sunday in August we began our special meeting at Julian. Rev. B. M. Williams was our engaged help. He came to us on Sunday and did all the preaching till the close of the meeting. We had never been with Brother Williams in a meeting, but we enjoyed his preaching. He endeared himself to the people and they will be glad for him to come their way again. We feel that the church was revived and built up because of this meeting. At the last service we received four members.

We have been kindly remembered by several of our good people. They have supplied us with beans, corn, apples, melons, chickens, and many other useful gifts. We thank one and all who have been so mindful of us.

EDW. SUITS.

Mt. Lebanon, Randleman Charge.—On yesterday funeral services for Mrs. Eliza Stalker were conducted by the writer. Mrs. Stalker had been critically ill for several weeks. She was a member of the Holiness Church, and a good woman.

At night an interesting children's service was held, and was attended by a big audience. Miss Sallie Caudle trained the children, and to her much credit is due for the excellent rendition by the little folks and others.

New Salem,—On next Sunday at eleven o'clock our special meeting begins here. The afternoon hour will be a general home-coming service. Short talks and special singing will make up the program. On Monday, 2:30 p. m., Rev. B. M. Williams of Orange Charge will preach, and will assist the pastor afternoon and night throughout the series.

Five of our young people left recently for college. Miss Esta Brookshire returns to Elon to enter the junior class, Miss Jewel Hughes enters the senior class at High Point College. Miss Dorothy Lambe, Miss Leona Wood and John Perry Dosier enters the freshman class at High Point College.

Miss Mae Parsons and Mis Opal Hughes are teaching in the graded school here. Both have taught here several successive years.

Miss Alta Hudson, a Methodist Protestant of Liberty, is one of our graded school teachers. W. H. NEESE.

Pleasant Grove.—The first Sunday in September the annual reunion of the Morris family was held here. A very large crowd was present and many of the Morris family from Virginia and this state attended. Sunday school was held at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. Hon. E. H. Morris, of Mocksville, Davie county, delivered a splendid address. Judge Boylen, of Hillsville, Va., was on the program for that hour, but an automobile accident prevented his coming. Mr. Morris, however, filled his place to the satisfaction of all present. After this address one of the most sumptuous dinners ever served at the Grove was spread on the long table prepared especially for this occasion. Rev. J. D. Newton, of Thomasville, returned thanks and the large crowd helped themselves, had plenty and to spare. Many were the compliments passed on the good people who prepared the dinner. Only those who are acquainted with the good cooks at the Grove know what to expect on occasions like this.

In the afternoon the principal address was given by Rev. J. A. Morris, pastor of Walnut Cove circuit, M. E. Church, South. Just before Mr. Morris spoke a choir from near Welnut Cove sang a number of songs to the delight of the congregation.

After the address the local choir sang several splendid selections.

In the business meeting our own highly esteemed brother, Z. B. Morris, was re-elected president for another year.

Our third quarterly conference was held a few weeks ago and Brother Fred Kennedy was found elected delegate to the annual conference.

Steps are now being taken to finish the Sunday school rooms upstairs. At the time of building last summer, many thought we would never need the rooms upstairs, but within a year's time we need them badly.

When these rooms are finished we will have one of the largest and best equipped country churches in conference. Under the superintendency of Brother I. A. Teague the Sunday school has steadily grown until now we have a large school and expect soon for it to become larger. We are working to develop it into a graded school. Our prayer meetings have been well attended through out the summer. We hold three separate prayer meetings on Friday night of each week. The Senior and Junior C. E. societies meet in their rooms for their services while the adults meet in another room for prayer and Bible study. We are pleased with the progress made, yet there is much room for improvement.

Since the special meeting held last July we have been pounded almost continuously. The folks have kept us well supplied with all kinds of vegetables and other things needed. One noticeable feature about it is they have given us the very best. We have heard of folks who would give the preacher nothing until they had something they could neither use nor sell, then they would give him this. Far from such in this case. They have not only given the best but have given it in large quantities. We certainly thank these good people for these very generous acts of kindness. Really we do not know how to express ourselves in a way that will enable them to know the extent of our appreciation. We have been in the ministry for about 25 years and in all this time we have never received so many gifts in any one year.

Mrs. Orville Cecil has been at home with diptheria for several days. We miss her at all our church services and hope soon to have her and daughter back at their usual places in church. GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

High Point.—Rally Day was observed in the Sunday school last Sunday morning in a very happy manner. There were 500 in attendance, and the collection amounted to $45.00. A most interesting program was rendered. After several songs by the school, the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison, a prayer by the pastor, Dr. Brown, and a delightful quartette given by Messrs. Dan W. Smith, J. A Gray, Carey Davis, and Arnold Koonce without accompaniment and with fine effect, Mrs. S. S. Coe made a most pleasing talk on "The Value of Sunday School." Mrs. Coe's talks are always characteristic of herself, very practical and effective. Mr. R. C. Boyd then told us about "The Value of Team Work in Sunday School," and this talk was timely and highly appreciated by the large audience. Another splendid talk was that of Mr. A. J. Koonce, who spoke on "How you can make our Sunday School grow." This was very appropriate for Rally Day when we are all thinking of plans to make our Sunday School bigger and better. Prof. J. D. Hardy of the College was unavoidably absent, and his talk on "How we can make the Sunday School more evangelistic" was omitted. Mrs. R. M. Andrews then rendered a delightful vocal solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd," with pleasing effect and with Miss McIntire at the piano. The program was closed with remarks by Dr. Brown, who gave a resume of the work of the Board of Education, for which purpose Rally Day is annually observed. The classes then met in their respective class rooms when the rolls were called and the offering taken. Superintendent Shaw and his various coworkers are heartily congratulated on the highly successful service, the largest and best ever held in our Sunday school.

At the 11 o'clock service President R. M. Andrews of High Point College occupied a seat in the pulpit with the pastor, and led the opening prayer. Mrs. J. Hobart Allred, nee Miss Pearl Perry of Thomasville, the bride of Prof. Allred of the College, rendered an exquisite vocal solo, "Repent Ye" by Scott. Mrs. Allred possesses a soprano voice of unusual sweetness and volume, and she is a very valuable addition to our choir and congregation. Dr. Brown delivered a splendid sermon, "Does it Pay?" basing his remarks on the text found in Phil. 8:3; "I count all things but loss.....that I may win Christ." His sermon was especially given for the students of High Point College, who were present for the first time after summer vacation. He extended a cordial welcome to these young folks and a warm invitation to worship with us each Sabbath. He begged them to take Jesus Christ into their student life, and warned them that it is not always easy to serve Him while in College. He admonished them to beware of the many pitfalls and temptations that will beset them.

At the evening service Mrs. J. H. Allred and Mr. Clarence Schultheiss sang a charming duet, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" by Ambrose, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the congregation.

The Ladies' Aid Society held its monthly meeting with Mrs. W. P. Pickett Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock with Mesdames John H. Walker, S. C. Vuncannon, W. L. Kivett, J. J. Frazier, W. C. Hammond, and Miss Mary Lyndon as associate hostesses.

The A. M. Idol Philathea Class will meet tomorrow evening with Miss Nellie Martin on N. Main St.

The Christian Endeavor Society is enjoying a delightful wienie roast this evening in Jones Field. This Society is unusually active and faithful this summer. May the good work go on!

The Junior Mission Circle, Mrs. R. M. Andrews Superintendent, will meet Saturday afternoon at the church.

Circle number four of the Foreighn Missionary Society, which is composed of the young ladies, of the Philathea Class, will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church.

Last Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock the doors of High Point College were opened for the third annual session. Impressive Chapel services were held with approximately 250 students in attendance. Dr. Andrews, Mayor H. A. Moffit, Dr. Geo. R. Brown, and others delivered appropriate and timely remarks to the student body welcoming them to our midst and assuring them of a readiness to be of service to them in every way possible. High Point College is no longer an experiment, but a substantial, honest-to-goodness, College, which is recognized by the State University, the State Board of Education, and the leading denominational colleges of the state, and due credit is given for the work of its students. A recent substantial gift to the College is made by R. G. Lassiter and Co., highway contractors, who will not charge for the paving of 1000 feet of roadway in front of the College. The Greensboro-High Point Highway is being widened to 30 feet with shoulders five feet in width on either side. This will be the premier Highway of N. C., and the College is most fortunate in its ideal situation.

On last Saturday afternoon a delightful party was tendered Mrs. John S. Pickett, a recent bride, by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. H. Walker, Jr., at the Country Club.

We are pleased to welcome Miss Gertrude Hughes back to the city after a summer vacation spent with relatives in Penn. She will resume her position in the City Schools.

James Moffit and Garland McPherson are entering the State University as Freshmen this week. Holt McPherson is returning as a Junior.

Chas. C. Robbins, Jr., has entered High Point College, and will live in the Boy's Dormitory.

Miss Daisy Lee York, daughter of Dr. A. A. York, will enter N. C. College for Women as a student this week.

Miss Vista Dixon, daughter of Dr. A. G. Dixon, has returned to High Point College as a member of the Junior Class. Miss Eugenia Williams of Greensboro, daughter of Mr. R. F. Williams, chairman Board of Trustees, has returned from a recent operation for appendicitis at High Point Hospital, and has returned to her work in the College as a member of the senior class.

Miss Novella McIntire, of Asheville, the popular and efficient teacher of piano at the College, has resumed her work.

Miss Vera Idol of the English Department attended the second session of Summer School at Columbia College, N. Y., and has returned to her post.

Mrs. Henry A. White, Prof. of Greek, spent the month of August in New England with relatives, and has resumed her work in the College.

Mr. C. L. Gray was elected delegate to the Annual Conference at Greensboro at quarterly conference last Wednesday evening.

Wyatt A. Pickens is expected to arrive from Washington, D. C., Thursday morning for a visit of two weeks to home folks before going to Cambridge, Mass., to enter Howard University for his last year's work leading to a Ph. D. degree.

A delightful Reception was tendered to the students of the College by the Faculty last Saturday evening, which proved to be a happy occasion. The receiving line was composed of Dr. and Mrs. Andrews and the members of the Faculty with their wives and husbands, and delicious refreshments of punch and cake were served. Old-fashioned games were played, and the freshmen soon forgot their home-sickness, and entered joyously into the fun and frolic.

Yarborough's Chapel Charge.—We are not heard from very often, but we are glad indeed to say that our church is still wide awake. We have good attendance both for Sunday school and for preaching service.

Our revival was held last week. Several souls were led to Christ and four united with the church.

Mr. Koons preached interesting sermons which we all enjoyed. It was very unfortunate to us though, the last sermon which was Sunday night was called off as the pastor was taken ill. Many were disappointed. A large crowd had assembled to hear the last sermon. We wish him a speedy recovery.

We are planning to reorganize our Christian Endeavor Society again next Sunday. We are hoping to have the best society this time that we have ever had.

LIZZIE BELLE GOSSETTE,
SARAH LOU STONE,
Reporters.

Chatham Circuit.—Since the death of Brother Bowman the people of the Chatham work have been without a regular pastor. Regardless of the great loss sustained by his death the plans which he laid have been carried out by his people and those who were engaged before his death to help in meetings.

Hickory Grove.—It was the privilege of the writer to carry on the work at Hickory Grove immediately after our brother passed away. We were all benefited by the meeting.

Last Sunday afternoon we held the regular preaching service and a goodly number were present. The Sunday school was reorganized and much interest was shown in the work.

Piney Grove.—Rev. A. O. Lindley held the meeting there. He reports a good meeting. Some were converted and the church was strengthened by his good preaching.

Flint Ridge.—Flint Ridge was glad to have Rev. W. H. Neese, of Randleman, to hold the services for them. The services which the writer attended were of a spiritual uplift and I am sure that the meeting strengthened the work there.

Zion.—It was the privilege of the writer to hold the last of the five meetings arranged by Brother Bowman before his death. This was at Zion M. P. Church last week. We began the first Sunday and continued through Thursday evening. There were ten conversions and five united with the church as follows: Annie Belle and Ruth Pike, Harold and Alton Lowe, and Albert Richardson; five others gave names for other churches. Miss Vera Mendenhall will join at Siler City M. P. Church.

I enjoy working with the Chatham Churches the little time that I have to give them.

The appointments at the churches are as following:

Zion, first Sunday, 3 p. m.
Hickory Grove, second Sunday, 3 p. m.
Piney Grove, third Sunday, 3 p. m.
Yours in the Master's work. F. L. G.

Mt. Pleasant Circuit, Pleasant Union.—On the fourth Sunday in July, our protracted services began; ceased on Thursday following. Rev. B. M. Williams was our help. Brother Williams is a good preacher, quiet, yet plain. Our people were very well pleased with him. In the last service there were four professions, one reclaimed, three conversions.

At Mt. Pleasant, revival services began on the third Sunday in August, closing on Friday night following. Rev. W. D. Reed was our help there. He hits hard, not afraid, preaches well—people liked him. There were about 15 professions, five joined the church, others, I think, will join. The revival at both churches was good. No great stir, but encouraging. G. F. MILLAWAY.

Julian Church, Tabernacle Circuit.—Church and Sunday school attendance and interest have not been quite up to the average this quarter, due in a large measure to the special meetings at nearby churches.

The pastor filled his regular appointment the first Sunday afternoon in September. We were glad to see some new faces, hope they come often.

Our revival meeting began the fifth Sunday and closed the following Thursday night. Rev. B. M. Williams did the preaching. Mr. Williams came to us an entire stranger, but endeared himself to us by his forceful, earnest, gospel sermons. Our people appreciated his efforts and were helped greatly.

Visible results were not what we had hoped for. Ten professed faith in Christ and five joined the church. These were Mark Deviney, J. C. Clapp, John Ross Hardin and Lucile and Hallie Clapp.

During our meeting we were glad to have with us Rev. and Mrs. Millaway, and Rev. and Mrs. Burgess. This church always welcomes a former pastor.

Mr. John S. Deviney attended the National Rural Carriers' Convention in Philadelphia and visited the Sesqui-Centennial.

Miss Ezda Deviney left Thursday to resume her work as teacher in the Florida State College at Tallahassee. J. Norman Deviney has also returned to Tallahassee where he finishes High School this first semester.

Keith Whitaker left today for Chapel Hill where he enters the medical school.

Miss Mearle Garrett will teach music at Nathaniel Greene High School and Elizabeth Hanner is at High Point College.

Mrs. Z. M. Rea of Charlotte spent a few days recently with the family of W. T. Hanner.

This community has had a number of visitors during the summer, some of whom were: Rev. Lowell Wilson, Kenneth Yost and Milton Schnider of Richmond, Ind., Prof. and Mrs. Stafford of Chicago. Mrs. Stafford and Miss Stafford of Kernersville, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fulton, Washington, D. C., Misses Myrtle Rich and Vera Penn, Randleman, Miss Naomi Oakly, Greensboro, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pugh, Trinity, Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Taylor and family of Burlington.

Mt. Pleasant, M. P. Circuit.—Our special meeting began the third Sunday in August and closed on Friday night. Brother Reed was the pulpit help; he did some good preaching. The church was revived, some backsliders reclaimed and five new members added to the church.

Some members of our Sunday school attended the County Sunday School Convention held in Jamestown and brought back the pennant with them for the largest attendance from any Sunday school in the county. This is the third pennant our Sunday school has won in the last four years: in 1923-1924-1926 and in 1925 it was held at Mt. Pleasant and therefore we could not compete.

Some of the girls and boys are attending colleges and some are teaching. We wish for them much success in life.

The Trustees of the church have appointed collectors to solicit funds to paint the church which is very much needed. If any one reads this that has not had an opportunity to give and wants to for this cause, please mail your check to Rev. G. F. Millaway, R 2, Liberty, N. C., and it will be highly appreciated.

Our Sunday school has been well attended during the summer months, and as autumn is approaching we hope that we won't shrivel up and fall off as the leaves from some of the trees, but as the evergreens flourish all the winter.

MRS. J. T. SHOFFNER, Reporter.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND.

Amount previously reported	$168,772.23
Mrs. D. I. Offman	45.00
O. F. Jones	5.00
Mrs. C. L. Wagner	10.00
	$168,832.23

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$5,840.86
C. E. Society, Mt. Pleasant Church	5.00
Mrs. J. M. Lloyd	5.00
Glen Raven Baraca Class	25.00
Miss Clata F. Andrew	10.00
DeWitt Pender	10.00
T. M. Crutchfield	5.00
Mrs. O. E. Bivens	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Minnis	10.00
T. M. Snipes	6.00
Mrs. W. C. Hammer	3.00
Mrs. J. M. Hunter	5.00
	$5,929.86

J. NORMAN WILLS, Treas.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

September 19.—Leviticus 26. Devotional reading, Proverbs 23:29-35.

September 26.—Review: Early Leaders in Israel. Devotional Reading—Psalm 125.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPICS.

September 19.—Missionary Advance in India, Isa. 11:1-10. (Missionary meeting.)

September 26.—What Work Shall We Plan This Year? 1 Cor. 3:6-17.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Stallings

We miss thee from our home, dear mother.
We miss thee from thy place.
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.
We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care,
Our home is dark without thee,—
We miss thee everywhere.

Today our home is blighted with a gloom of sorrow, because of the absence of our dear mother, who has finished her earthly career and entered her heavenly home.

The sunshine of our sorrow is the sweet realization that our mother is free from all suffering and joyously spending her time with loved ones gone before.

I feel we have a greater interest in heaven because our mother is there, waiting until the day when the family circle will again be complete.

In early childhood she united with the church.

During the sixteen years of her sickness she was never heard to grumble or complain. Always cheerful and expected to get well.

As a wife and mother kind and always ready to lend a willing hand.

On July 2nd, just after sundown, The Golden Gates were opened wide, a gentle voice said, "come," and angels from the other side welcomed our loved one home.

MRS. ROY STEWART, Her Daughter.

Sykes

Died at his home a few miles south of Efland on August 26, 1926, Joseph G. Sykes in the 69th year of his age.

On April 9, 1883, he was united in marriage to Martha E. Reeves. To this union there were born twelve children, eight boys and four girls. Three of the boys preceded their father to the Spirit World, two in infancy, and one after growing to young manhood.

Mr. Sykes professed faith in Christ at an early age and connected himself with Chestnut Ridge Church, and remained a faithful believer and church worker throughout life In late years his health having failed and he not being able to work, he read his bible and searched the Scriptures, as Paul directed. He was a kind father, a loving husband, and a good neighbor, who had many friends. Besides his widow, and eight children one sister and a host of other relatives and friends are left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Funeral services were conducted at Chestnut Ridge the following day, by Rev. B. M. Williams, assisted by Revs. D. R. Williams, T. A. Williams, Ivey Crutchfield and Connor An unusually large audience were in attendance at his funeral. He was laid to rest in the old church yard and his grave covered with many beautiful designs of flowers.

May God comfort the sorrowing widow and children and when they are gathered in may they meet their dear one where parting is no more.

Lonely the home and sad the hours
But oh, a brighter home than ours
Since the dear father has gone,
In Heaven is now thy own.
The echoes of his voice and step are gone,
There is silence still and deep;
But we know he sings by God's white throne:
Then why, should we weep?

A FRIEND.

—Rev. L. W. Gerringer reported last Sunday that a man outside Calvary Church has offered to give half the cost of concrete walks from the front to the rear of the church. The total cost would be $150, and Brother Gerringer is looking for other friends who will give the other half. May he find them. The walk on the north side is urgently needed, as the children pass that way in going to their Sunday school rooms. The church yard has now a fine covering of peavines. Mr. Gurley Coble, another friend outside the church, is preparing to give the church a fine lawn. Calvary church has been and is fortunate in the number and quality of its friends.

—Rev. N. M. Harrison arrived in Greensboro on Tuesday morning from Chicago. He comes as associate pastor of Grace Church. He has been pastor for the past year of Wakefield M. P. Church in Chicago. There are four M. P. Churches in that city. Western Methodist Protestants have the courage of their convictions and dare where the timid would not venture.

—Mrs. H. C. Nicholson of Mebane has presented to High Point College a copy of Miss Anna Starr's great book, "The Bible Status of Woman."

—Mrs. J. M. Stone has been visiting her old home near Raleigh. Her health has been somewhat impaired for some time. We hope for her a complete recovery. She is a very useful woman.

—Rev. O. B. Williams moves from Hendersonville where he has been in the real estate business to his farm near Hillsboro. His daughter with a daughter of Baxter Terrell of Greensboro has gone to Stetson University, Fla.

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

ODELL'S

INCORPORATED

Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIS[T] AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N. C., SEPTEMBER 23, [1914] NUMBER 45

Tragic Fate of the Fruitless, Flamboyant Fig Tree

Mark 11:12-14.—And on the morrow when they were come from Bethany, he was hungry: and seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find anything thereon: and when he came to it he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet. And Jesus answered and said unto it, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter forever.

Matt. 21:19, 20.—And presently the fig tree withered away. And when the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered away.

The time of figs was not yet. Most of the fig trees were still leafless and fruitless because the summer had not yet come. It was still spring time, and most of the trees, true to nature, were waiting for the warm sunshine to quicken in them the forces that ultimate in foliage and fruitage. But this particular tree did not wait upon the order of the seasons, but rushed forth into prominence with a great display of foliage, visible afar off. It was a pretender in the world of trees. It sought to draw attention to itself, not to render service to others, for it had a great mass of foliage and no fruit at all. Had it been true to the nature of its kind, it would have brought forth fruit as it brought forth leaves. The fruit buds would have appeared along with the leaf buds, if not before. But it stood there by the wayside a great cheat, a fraud in the vegetable kingdom.

Some one was sure to come looking for fruit and be disappointed. But what cared the fig tree for the disappointment of the few if the many should say in passing, What a splendid fig tree, so beautiful at this season, so far in advance of the other trees!

But one unfortunate day there came that way a Man who was hungry and who thought of fruit before he thought of leaves, a Man who was accustomed to associate fruitage with foliage. Surely this tree so abundant in foliage will have some fruit. He saw the tree in the distance and quickened His step that He might the sooner appease His hunger with its luscious fruit. He, too, was disappointed, for when He came He saw that the tree had only leaves. Did the fig tree care? Perhaps not at first, but when the Man said, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter forever, and the tree began to feel the withering effect of His words in all the tissues of its being, as leaf and branch and root quickly dried up, then the fig tree realized how utterly futile and deplorable is the life that yields nothing but leaves.

Dr. J. C. Broomfield made a very inspiring address at High Point College yesterday. A number who heard it said that they wished that every Methodist Protestant in North Carolina had heard it. We hope to print the substance of it for our readers.

Mislocating Our Troubles

There is a world within us and a world without us. Few of us realize that the world within us, small, insignificant creatures as we seem to be, is comparable with the great world we see about us, extending away in every direction in space to unlimited extent. But a little observation and reflection may convince us of the importance of the world that lies within our own souls, the world of our own consciousness. Really the world about us derives its importance from the world within us. If a man becomes blind, all the beauty and glory of the visible universe pass away. If a man becomes deaf, for him all music ceases as well as all harsher sounds, and there is unbroken silence. If he loses his sense of smell, the world of odor and fragrance passes. If his nerves cease to function, he can feel neither bodily pain nor physical pleasure. If the soul loses its power to feel, there could be for him no heaven and no hell.

The Greeks called the world about us the macrocosm, the great world, and the world within us the microcosm, the little world. But really is the world within us not the more important of the two? On it depends directly our happiness. It is this world that is subject to disorder. God controls the macrocosm, and it is a perfect system. Law and order prevail everywhere. Of this world it may be said always, It is very good. But the world within us is far from perfect. It may be and much of the time is in great disorder and confusion. It is the world of trouble and sorrow and anguish and bitterness of soul. Storms arise and rage for hours and it may be for days and weeks. In the midst of our troubles we are in poor condition to diagnose our own cases. We are almost sure to err in trying to do so. It seems to us that our troubles come in from the outer world, the great macrocosm, when in fact the outer world is pursuing its regular course of law and order, and the cause of our troubles is within our own inner world. Like a serpent stinging himself to death with its own poison, we are stinging our own souls to death.

God would come into this inner world, too, and establish law and order, bring peace and joy and abiding happiness. When we come to recognize the need, the absolute need of God in our world, the world of our inner life, the world of feeling and impulse and moral action, our troubles may pass away to return no more. Till then we have no security and no escape from the awful sorrows that are self-gendered. When Jesus said, The kingdom of God is within you, did he not refer to this world of the individual soul? When John in his Patmos vision saw the New Jerusalem coming down to the earth, did he not see what is possible to the individual soul in every age of the world? You need not wait for the world's millennium to have your millennium. God's reign, perfect reign, within your soul will bring a millennium to you. Let your inner world, now without form and void, be wrought

(Continued on Page Three)

THE BRITISH EMPIRE AND WORLD PEACE

By Dr. Edward Shillito

Article I

The peace of the world will not be won without struggle. In that struggle there will be need of all the distinctive gifts and powers which each nation has to offer. No one nation can avert war; but the nations in concert can do this great thing.

The British commonwealth by its very history and character has something distinctive to give to the fight for peace. The question whether there is to be another great war or not, will not be settled by Great Britain alone; but if her influence is not cast upon the side of peace, something will be lacking in the struggle.

Great Britain's geographical position brings it into direct relations with most of the nations of the wrold. A glance at the map will make this clear. It is on the Atlantic and on the Pacific.

Peace can only come in the last resort through the right ordering of such relations. Reconciliation in the religious meaning of the word involves the restoration of true relationships between God and man. The reconciliation of the nations means simply the establishment of new relations of trust and good will, mutual helpfulness.

The British empire has also an opportunity of making experiments in the fellowship of races. It is in itself a miniature league of nations. The winning of peace depends upon the discovery of ways in which peoples with different traditions may co-operate without sacrifice of their individuality. In the quest for this new way of life much depends upon the solution by the British commonwealth of its problems. It may give and in a large measure is giving for its contribution to the peace of the nations, the evidence that the sacred traditions of a race may be preserved without war.

Wars in the modern world are more likely to arise from the struggle for natural resources than from any desire for glory. The nations talk largely of honor but they are thinking of markets.

The British empire has command of resources which may be the occasion for conflict, or for experiments in good will. This is true no less of other nations such as the United States. Much of the hope of peace depends upon the willingness of these nations to use in a just and a large-minded way such natural resources.

There will be no enduring peace so long as nations—especially the rich and powerful nations—refuse to make sacrifices to win it. A student from the Orient said lately, "The nations of the West are civilized nationally. They are uncivilized internationally." It would show that this was no longer true if the great nations showed more evidently a conscience in the public action of Great Britain. To quicken this conscience more and more, and to awaken public opinion to the call of the world is one of the tasks of the Christian Church.

Be good to parents and kindred, to orphans, to the poor, and to a neighbor, whether he be of your own people, or a stranger; also to a fellow-traveler, a wayfarer, or a slave.—Koran.

ANCIENT KNOWLEDGE OF NATURE

The Hebrews, like other Semitic peoples, were not very clear and wise in matters of nature-study. The Greeks were much superior in observation and conclusions concerning nature, and the Romans were dependent on them for their main ideas.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, gives some interesting quotations in his monumental book, "Men of the Old Stone Age."

Aeschylus, in Prometheus Bound, shows one of the earliest and finest conceptions of the early evolution of the life of men:

> And let me tell you—not as taunting men,
> But teaching you the intention of my gifts,
> How, first beholding, they beheld in vain,
> And hearing, heard not, but, like shapes in dreams,
> Mixed all things wildly down the tedious time,
> Nor knew to build a house against the sun
> With wicketed sides, nor any woodwork knew,
> But lived, like silly ants, beneath the ground
> In hollow caves unsunned. There came to them
> No steadfast sign of winter, nor of spring
> Flower-perfumed, nor of summer full of fruit,
> But blindly and lawlessly they did all things,
> Until I taught them how the stars do rise
> And set in mystery, and devised for them
> Number, the inducer of philosophies,
> The synthesis of Letters, and, besides,
> The artificer of all things, Memory
> That sweet Muse-mother.

Horace adopted the Greek conception of the natural evolution of human culture:

> When men first crept from out earth's womb, like worms
> Dumb, speechless creatures, with scarce human forms,
> With nails or doubled fists they used to fight
> For acorns or for sleeping-holes at night;
> Clubs followed next; at last to arms they came
> Which growing practice taught them how to frame,
> Till words and names were found, wherewith to mould
> The sounds they uttered, and their thoughts unfold;
> Thenceforth they left off fighting, and began
> To build them cities, guarding man from man,
> And set up laws as barriers against strife
> That threatened person, property, or wife.
> 'Twas fear of wrong gave birth to right, you'll find,
> If you but search the records of mankind.
> Nature knows good and evil, joy and grief,
> But just and unjust are beyond her brief:
> Nor can philosophy, though finely spun,
> By stress of logic prove the two things one,
> To strip your neighbor's garden of a flower
> And rob a shrine at midnight's solemn hour.

Lucretius, in his philosophical poem, De Rerum Natura, accords in a broad and remarkable way with our present knowledge of the pre-history of man:

> Things throughout proceed
> In firm, undevious order, and maintain,
> To nature true, the fixed generic stamp.

Yet man's first sons, as o'er the fields they trod,
Reared from the hardy earth, were hardier far;
Strong built with ampler bones, with muscles nerved
Broad and substantial; to the power of heat,
Of cold, of varying viands, and disease,
Each hour superior; the wild lives of beasts
Leading, while many a lustre o'er them rolled.
No crooked plough-share knew they, nor to drive,
Deep through the soil, the rich-returning spade;
Nor how the tender seedling to replant,
Nor from the fruit-tree prune the withered branch.

. . . . .

Nor knew they yet the crackling blaze t'excite,
Or clothe their limbs with furs, or savage hides.
But groves concealed them, woods, and hollow hills;
And when rude rains or bitter blasts o'erpowered,
Low bushy shrubs their squalid members wrapped.

. . . . .

And in their keen rapidity of hand
And foot confiding, oft the savage train
With missile stones they hunted, or the force
Of clubs enormous; many a tribe they felled,
Yet some in caves shunned, cautious; where at night,
Thronged they, like bristly swine; their naked limbs
With herbs and leaves entwining. Nought of fear
Urged them to quit the darkness, and recall,
With clamorous cries, the sunshine and the day:
But sound they sunk in deep, oblivious sleep,
Till o'er the mountains blushed the roseate dawn.

. . . . .

This ne'er distressed them, but the fear alone
Some ruthless monster might their dreams molest,
The foamy boar, or lion, from their caves
Drive hem aghast beneath the midnight shade,
And seize their leaf-wrought couches for themselves.

. . . . .

Yet when, at length, rude huts they first devised,
And fires, and garments; and, in union sweet,
Man wedded woman, the pure joys indulged
Of chaste connubial love, and children rose,
The rough barbarian softened. The warm hearth
Their frames so melted they no more could bear,
As erst, the uncovered skies; the nuptial bed
Broke their wild vigor, and the fond caress
Of prattling children from their bosom chased
Their stern ferocious manners.

NOTICE!

Daily Vacation Bible Schools

The Board of Young People's Work is compiling a list, as nearly complete as possible, of the Daily Vacation Bible Schools conducted by Methodist Protestant Churches, or in which our churches participated, during the past season. This list will be published in a booklet for distribution throughout the church, and we wish to have the list complete.

Did you have a Vacation School in your church or community? Do you know of other Methodist Protestant Churches which participated in a school? If so, won't you please jot down the names of the churches and their pastors, with the principals of the schools and addresses, and rush the list to Rev. Lawrence Little, Executive Secretary of the Board of Young People's Work, Concord, N. C. Thank you!

RALLY DAY

I want to call the attention of our people to the importance of observing Rally Day this year. Last year our contributions from this source fell considerably behind the previous year. We sincerely hope that we will atone for this failure and make the largest contribution we have ever made.

When I remind you that High Point College receives a certain per cent of the money contributed to this cause, which last year was more than North Carolina put into it, you will see at once the reason why I am especially anxious that we make a large contribution this year. Our people in North Carolina should not wait for members of our church outside the Conference to contribute to the running expenses of the college. In a very particular sense the college is for North Carolina people. Geographically it is the closest college to us the denomination has. For that reason alone the expense of attending it is less than to go elsewhere. And it permits our youth to be trained among the young people with whom they will more than likely associate in later life—an important fact that is appreciated very much by those who have received their educational training outside the state in which they are now living.

But besides the fact that our contributions go to High Point College largely, we ought to rally to the Rally Day because it is a day set apart by the General Church. For that reason every loyal soul among us ought to rejoice to take a part and to make as large a contribution as possible.

Let us rally all of our forces, do our best, and show Dr. Stephenson what North Carolina can do when it has a mind to.

R. M. Andrews.

One of Dr. Broomfield's Pictures

Dr. J. C. Broomfield is an adept in word-painting. In his sermon in Grace Church on Monday night, in which he spoke of The Abundant Life, he drew the following picture to represent the case of those who, loud in profession, really have a very slight hold on spiritual life:

"I was visiting at a country home one summer day. It was evening time and I heard the sound of a coming procession along the lane leading to the house. I walked out that I might the better see what was coming, and this was what I saw: heading the procession was a calf about two months old, walking with a very awkward and uncertain gait; following was an old nag, very poor and tottering, and on this nag rode a man who had been paralyzed on one side, carrying a whip in his usable hand and singing at the top of his squeaky voice, 'We are marching upward to Zion.' "

Mislocating Our Troubles

(Continued from Page One)

upon by the same Spirit of God that reduced the primeval chaos to the present cosmos, and you will have within you a world full of glory because full of God, a world of endless happiness, a world to which no night shall come because the Lord God and the Lamb are the light thereof.

Yes, our troubles are largely of our own making. God is not responsible, our fellowmen are not to blame, but we are slaughtering our own happiness or preventing the coming of happiness to our own souls. That was a very wise counsel given by a heathen philosopher to his countrymen, "Know thyself."

Denominational Enterprises

THE INSISTENT APPEAL

The Cross exemplifies the greatest thing known. Without that manifestation we could not so completely understand God, or rise to our present conception of what love really is.

As thus portrayed it seeks not to obtain, it is giving, a sacrificing for the uttermost good of others.

Its divine exhibition calls for our exercise of it in the same manner, to the same extent, bounded by our limitations.

Certainly no greater, more potent appeal can be made to man, or receive a readier response than real evidence of love in life and service.

The world has never needed, it will not accept a religion, regardless of its claims and offers, that is based on selfishness and its train, for it is still "dying for a little bit of love," and can be won, is being won to God and to noble ideals and righteousness by it.

Great sages in different ages and lands have sought to reach that objective by other agencies and plans, but there can be no other plan to accomplish what God purposes to do or have done, except the plan He Himself set forth.

Nor can there be anyone in whom men are to believe, to whom they are to submit, by whom they can be exalted than Jesus, because "He shall save His people from their sins," and His rich bestowments necessarily follow that experience.

The Apostles and early Christians believed it, lived it, proclaimed it despite hardships and impending martyrdom, and their successors continued in the way until that deplorable period When Christians forgot God's love and provisions for the whole world, and selfishly harbored, because they wrongly interpreted the Gospel which plainly teaches it was designed to be shared by all mankind.

But there followed the awakening of modern time, in which God mightily used the English cobbler, Cary, in India; the man from the loom, Livingstone, and the Scotch student, Moffat, in Africa; the Englishman, Morrison, in China; the Hollander, Verbeck, in Japan; and a host of others in many lands and isles of the sea.

The extent of territory covered, the number of workers in self-sacrificing service, the amount of money expended, the results secured in all departments of life, and the prospects and sureties of the immediate future stamp the modern foreign missionary enterprise as the farthest-reaching, the most beneficent in human annals.

All praise and glory be unto God, all possible recognition of the office and work of His Blessed Spirit be accorded, all conceivable power be conceded to His Gospel which has led millions to the cross from which, after service, the many have gone, others are now going, and millions more are to come to meet and crown Him "Lord of Lords and King of Kings" before the great white throne.

Conditions throughout the world are an insistent call to every Christian to realize that the mission of the church is world-wide, at home, of course, but also abroad where millions are most wretched and needy in dark and most populous regions, who can only learn of God and life and salvation from Christians, according to God's plan.

God expects us to help them of His love in Christ Jesus. How are you answering His call?

What are you doing and giving to help on the great work of His Kingdom represented by your own church?

Fred C. Klein.

JUST A CARD

That is all that is required to secure the material published by the Board of Education for Rally Day. No charges are made for this material. The only condition is that an offering be taken for the work the Board is trying to do.

Please do not forget the offering. Judging from the minutes of our Annual Conferences and the special reports from our Conference treasurers, some do not observe the day. We guessed as much since the orders last year were less than 500 in number and we have fully 2,000 pastoral charges! The offerings received last year averaged $27.50 per school or church. They ranged from a few to over six hundred dollars.

This fact be recognized: Unless more of our churches observe Rally Day and unless the offerings average higher we will be forced to discontinue one more school. That school is making the venture again this year. The leaders are working hard, making real sacrifices and doing their utmost to make the school go. The rest of the church must show a far larger interest or the cause is lost.

Every cent of the Rally Day offering goes directly to the Board of Education for its work. Send in your order and it will be filled at once.

Frank W. Stephenson,
Executive Secretary, Board of Education.

RALLY DAY

The Place.—The two great functions of the church are evangelization and education. This is true of the local church and of the denomination. The work of the local church is carried on by the local membership under the direction of the pastor. The work of the denomination is conducted by the missionary boards and societies and the Board of Education. The Board of Home Missions uses Easter Day for presenting its program to the churches. For presenting its program the Board of Education uses Rally Day.

The Need.—By Christian Education we mean the introduction of Christian control into life. This involves instruction in Christian knowledge, culture in Christian attitudes and training in Christian conduct. A part of this work can be done in the homes and the local church schools. But Christion colleges and seminaries must be maintained for the training of both missionary and educational leaders. That these institutions may be best patronized and supported by the church they must get information concerning their work and needs to the church membership. The most effective way of disseminating this information is through the presentation of the Rally Day program.

The Program.—A fine program has been prepared for use by the local churches on Rally Day. It includes suitable songs and recitations. It gives very valuable information concerning our educators. The programs are as fine as those of any church, and for our churches they are finest. They are for free distribution to all churches that will use them and take an offering for the Board of Education.

The Appeal.—Make the offering large and generous. Our educational institutions are greatly needing funds. The growing student bodies compel the erection of new buildings and the employment of larger faculties. The developing standards of education demand better equipped buildings and more thoroughly trained faculties. All this necessitates larger financial outlays. Large appropriations are made by states to assist state institutions to meet growing financial demands. Church schools must look to the church for such financial support. PROF. C. E. FORLINES

A RALLY DAY MEDITATION

IF you observe Rally Day send the offering to your annual conference treasurer and specify that it is for the Board of Education.

IF the second Sunday in October—the time observed by most of the church as Rally Day—should not suit your local condition, select the date nearest that day that may be suitable.

IF the General Budget is totaling 10 per cent more than last year and the Board of Education has fallen short about $10,000, what is the cause? Who is sufficiently wise and brave to propose the cure?

IF our colleges and Theological Seminary are forced to continue borrowing to meet the failure of the Budget to provide the amounts appropriated to them by the Board of Education, they will be compelled to close their doors unless deliverance comes from some quarter not yet found. But all will be well on Rally Day IF our Zion will show her loyalty by her liberality. PRESIDENT H. L. ELDERDICE

THE RALLY DAY NEED

1. The need of a special day. In spite of an increase in total benevolent offerings in the church, less for actual distribution on the budget basis. The educational institutionas have suffered. The Board of Education needs a large contribution on this Rally Day.

2. Need of emphasis on educational work. Back of all that the church attempts is the work of education in colleges and seminary. Everything depends upon the trained leadership of the church. Missionary programs, preaching programs, religious education programs, all wait for the coming of trained leaders.

3. Being a special day, Rally Day does not mean the end of interest in educational institutions and programs. Churches ought to make Rally Day a starting point. Working throughout the year, they ought to raise the Budget in full in such a way as to insure to the Board of Education its share. Throughout the year the churches should maintain an interest in the work of educational institutions in training for leadership. PROF. M. J. SHROYER

A hurricane swept over Florida near the end of last week and left death and desolation in its wake. Hundreds of people are reported to have perished. Miami was perhaps the worst sufferer. Destruction of property has left thousands homeless and helpless. "Happy Florida" has in a day been changed into "Wretched Florida." The whole country is represented in Florida and the whole country will sympathize with those who remain there. Well will it be if men will learn not to build where the storm is sure to demolish their dwellings. The storm preceded man and claims right of way. Birds may build their nests where the rising waters will sweep, but men should be wiser.

THE QUESTION OF THE INTERRELATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

DR. HENRY C. SHELDON

Interest in the subject has recently been much stimulated by the imbroglio in Mexico. To believers in the maxim of "A free church in a free state," which has been dominant in the thought and policy of our nation from its beginning, it is hardly possible to sympathize fully with either party in the disturbance which afflicts our southern neighbor. The civil government violates that maxim in ordaining that no foreigner may exercise the religious profession in Mexico; in forbidding publications, devoted in large part to religious interests, to comment on national political affairs; and also, to some extent, in authorizing the legislation of the several states to restrict the number of the ministers or priests within their limits. We recognize the immense provocation to these measures afforded by long chapters in the history of the country from the date of the Spanish conquest. The element of ecclesiastical and foreign domination has been exceedingly aggravating. But, in spite of large sympathy on this score, we are compelled to regard the governmental measures as neither politic nor justifiable. They are not politic as tending to perpetuate jealousies and ill-natured wrestlings in the relations of church and state. They are not justifiable as being inconsistent with the proper independence and ecumenical character of the church. We therefore hope that negotiations in the interest of a modification of the governmental program may prove to be successful at no distant date.

The apprehension of ecclesiastical aggression, so acutely felt by the civil rulers of Mexico, is not altogether foreign to other and wider domains. For Roman Caatholicism specifically and authoritatively denies the parity of church and state. The ideal of a free church in a free state it squarely repudiates by plainly asserting that the church has the superior authority and is qualified to pass decisive judgment on the legitimacy of state enactments. Perhaps a modern official would not care to affirm this point of view in the precise tone used by Pope Boniface VIII in the bull Unam Sanctum issued in 1032. But the given point of view is far from being so remote as the Middle Ages. Assertions of it abound in the last half of the 19th century and the first years of the 20th.

Within the limits of this recent period, eminent writers on canon law, moral theology, and kindred topics, as we have undertaken to demonstrate in the volume on "Sacerdotalism in the Nineteenth Century," have clearly voiced the doctrine of the superiority of the church and of its right to review and to revise the enactments of the state. Thus G. Phillips (in his "Kirchenrecht") asserts: "The clergy is the sanctifying, the teaching, the ruling church; the laity is the church to be sanctified, to be taught, to be ruled. . . . A glance at the difference between spiritual and worldly sovereignty shows the impossibility of coordination. . . . So far superior is the one to the other that in the last resort the church can depose the temporal ruler." E. S. Purcell, in an essay forming part of the content of a book edited by Archbishop Manning, and apparently copying not a little from Phillips, declares: "The state is not competent to determine by its own authority its proper range and sphere; these are shaped out for it by the action of the church. . . . In all civil matters affecting spiritual interests the church is predominant."

M. Liberatore maintains that the bull Unam Sanctum of Boniface VIII, confirmed as it has been by Leo X and the Fifth Lateran Council, which is rated as ecumenical, is of decisive dogmatic weight. "The state," he says, "has no inherent power over the church, but, on the contrary, the church has indirect power over the state. And so it is able to annul the civil laws or the sentences of the external forum, when they are opposed to the public good ("La Chiesa e lo Stato," 1872). M. Molitor seems to agree with Liberatore's estimate of the ex cathedra and authoritative character of the bull Unam Sanctum, and so to rate the coordination of church and state as no better than Manichæen dualism ("Philosophia Moralis," 1886).

Phillip Hergenrother, though taking on some points a more moderate position than that of many recent expositors of ecclesiastical and civil law the preference is intrinsically due to the ecclesiastical; for the aim of the church is the higher" ("Lehbuch des Katholischenrechts," 1905). According to S. B. Smith, "the church alone can fix the limits of its jurisdiction; and if the church can fix the limits of its own jurisdiction, it can fix the limit of all other jurisdiction—at least so as to warn off its own domain" ("Elements of Ecclesiastical Law," 1889). Thus clearly and positively, right in the lifetime of many who are now living, Roman Catholic scholarship has affirmed the superior right and authority of the church as compared with the state—the prerogative of the former to amend or annul the laws of the latter.

More significant than the voice of the scholars is that of the popes. Accredited by the decisions of the Vatican Council of 1869-'70 with infallibility when they speak formally or ex cathedra on matters of faith and morals, they can require their subjects to attach tremendous weight to their decisions. What, then, let us inquire, is the tenor of their decisions on the proper relations of church and state?

Pius IX gave very definite indications of his conviction of the relative incompetency of the state, by formally condemning in his "Syllabus of Errors" such propositions as these: "In the present day it is no longer expedient that the Catholic religion should be held as the only religion of the state, to the exclusion of all other modes of worship.. It has been wisely provided by law in some countries called Catholic, that persons coming to reside therein shall enjoy the public exercise of their own worship" (Nos. 77, 78). Still further, as was noticed by Gladstone, Pius IX counted it as a part of his prerogative to declare null and void items of legislation which he regarded as obnoxious to the interests of the church. So in dealing with the governments of Piedmont, Spain, Sardinia, Mexico, New Granada, and Austria. In the last named instance he employed this language: "In virtue of our apostolic authority we reject and condemn the aforesaid laws, and everything which in them and other matters touching upon the rights of the church has been enacted, done, or attempted by the Austrian Government or by any subordinate officials; we declare in virtue of our authority that these decrees have been and will remain null and empty of all force" (June 22, 1868).

Leo XIII was a man of too great prudence to imitate the example of his predecessor in attempting to annul the laws of contemporary states. But in his teachings on pontifical prerogatives he in no wise fell short. "If the laws of a commonwealth," he declared, "are openly at variance with divine right, if they involve an injury to the church, or violate the authority of Jesus Christ in the supreme pontiff, then truly to resist is duty, to obey is crime. . . . It belongs to the pontiff not only to rule the church, but in general so to order the actions of Christian citizens, that they may be in suitable accord with the hope of obtaining eternal salvation" (Encyclical Letter, January 10, 1890). A few years later, the pontiff in an encyclical addressed to his American subjects took pains to criticize the plan which obtains with us of separating church and state, and to suggest that the church of which he was the head would bring forth more abundant fruits, if in addition to liberty, she "enjoyed the favor and patronage of the public authority" (Encyclical Longinque Oceani, January 6, 1895).

Pius X in his teaching on the relations of church and state followed the two pontiffs who preceded him. Moreover, in at least one instance, he made bold to nullify state law. Referring to the recently installed republican constitution of Portugal, he declared: "We of our apostolic authority reprobate, condemn, and reject the law separating church and state in Portugal. . . . We proclaim that whatsoever it contains contrary to the inalienable righs of the church is null and void, and to be so held" (Encyclical Jandudum, May 24, 1911). A similar exhibition of scanty deference to state authority was put on record in his decree (October 9, 1911) forbidding, under pain of excommunication, that Catholics should bring suit against members of the clergy and compel them to appear before lay judges.

What answer is Protestantism to render to the claims of Roman Catholicism on this theme? Making room for only a few words in reply, we contend that it is to adopt the same expedientts with which, in general, it is to meet the overreaching assumptions of Roman Catholicism. It is not to proceed weakly and indolently on a sentimental basis. Rather, it is to demonstrate by a clear preponderance of historical and rational evidences the falsity of the characteristic assumptions of its restless and intolerant opponent. A Protestantism which lacks the requisite energy and scholarship for this method is entitled to a very scanty hope of a victorious contention.—Zion's Herald.

Dr. Broomfield's Preaching

About a dozen years ago we were privileged to hear Dr. J. C. Broomfield in a series of evangelistic services in this city. We had previously known him when he was a young man in college. Later we had heard him in a few addresses. We were gratified at the ability he had developed as an evangelistic preacher. He exhibited rare elocutionary power and at the same time showed himself a student of the Word. But the lapse of these dozen years has brought still further changes. There has been a manifest deepening of spirituality. The truth of God is seized upon now not for elocutionary exercise, but for its power in saving the souls of men. He preaches for moral effect. He realizes responsibility as a handler of the truth and knows that the Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto the salvation of those who really believe it. Those who hear him preach wish others to have the same privilege. Those who attend the services in Grace Church this week are making an effort to induce others to attend. Dr. Broomfield has consented to remain until Tuesday night of next week.

The WORK and the WORKERS

Conference is coming on rapidly, so what is done in winding up the Conference year, in order that pastors may make the very best possible reports, must be done speedily. Of course all charges will make an honest effort to pay pastors' salaries in full—you cannot afford to do less. Then of course all honest pastors, and they are honest or they would not be pastor, will endeavor to lead the people to pay the budgets in full, because if the budgets are not paid then the causes of righteousness which the Methodist Protestant Church is endeavoring to carry forward will suffer.

Rally Day

It is pleasant to note that Rally Day is being held in many of our churches. Let me urge that pastors and Sunday school superinendents plan a Rally Day service in every church in the Conference, and secure the best possible offering. This offering is for Christian education, and the High Point College will be directly benefited by it through the General Board of Education, and the offering will also count on your General Conference Budget. Please send all monies for the budgets to Mr. V. W. Idol, High Point, N. C., as soon as raised.

Pay-Up Month

Stress September 26th to October 24th, inclusive, as pay-up month on all causes. The Lord has blessed with good crops this time, and the mill conditions in most places are much better, and business men are prospering. Thanksgiving offerings to the Lord for His goodness should put us ahead of anything we have ever done before on the budgets. Let us have one good strong, steady pull, all together, during these four weeks and see what can be done in the Name of our Christ.

Whatever you wish me to put into my annual report to Conference concerning your charge should be in my hands not later than Thursday, October 28.

Committees

The regular committees for Conference will be announced just as soon as I can make them up after getting names of delegates from the secretary, Rev. C. W. Bates. He cannot send them to me until pastors send them to him.

It is my purpose to announce the chairman for each committee next week. Remember that Conference meets on Wednesday, November 3rd, at 9:30 A. M. in Grace Church, Greensboro.

Visitation

During the last few days I have visited Lincolnton, Bessemer City, Shelby, Caroleen, Bess Chapel, Macedonia and Rockingham.

At Lincolnton I only met with a few of the people, but we had a meeting that should do good. The people are encouraged in the work. They love their pastor; Brother Carson loves them and the work seems to be going well.

I visited and preached to the people in Bessemer City at 9:30 Sunday morning. Had a good congregation of earnest listeners, and we had a good time together. This church seems to have taken on new life.

From here we drove to Shelby for the 11 o'clock service. Here I preached to a small congregation. They listened well and we enjoyed each other. The people here are very much discouragd, and it is going to take some time to pull the forces together at this struggling church.

In the afternoon we drove to Caroleen and preached to a good sized congregation at the opening service of their fall revival. Rev. C. W. Bates also came that afternoon and remained with Pastor Helms through the week in this meeting. We trust they had a good meeting. Someone there will report.

Monday morning we drove to Bess Chapel and found their faithful pastor, Rev. E. A. Bingham, in the school room, where he has engaged to teach this winter in the North Brook High School. Brother Bingham is doing a splendid work among the Bess Chapel people; they love him and are working well with him. The Woman's Missionary Society of this church has about three acres in cotton, and the money from this cotton is to go to the G. C. B. These are "God's acres." Many could do somehing like this and thus increase the offerings. Bess Chapel is also planning to build a new church in the near future.

Rev. J. M. Morgan was conducting revival services at Macedonia Church, so we drove over to Fallston Tuesday morning and went with him to his revival. Mrs. Dixon spoke in the morning and I spoke in the evening. They were having a good meeting, and we enjoyed being with them for this one day.

On our way from Fallston to Rockingham we stopped for dinner at Stallings with Rev. and Mrs. Robert Short. They gave us a good dinner and we had the privilege of talking over the work with him.

Wednesday evening we landed in Rockingham where we are spending a few days in a meeting with Rev. J. H. Trollinger and his people. There have been 15 or more conversions in the meeting up to Sunday night. Brother Trollinger is doing fine work here, and the people seem greatly encouraged and they are working with him splendidly.

Appointments

Sept. 25 and 26—South Davidson.
October 1—Union Grove.
October 2—Mocksville.
October 3, 9:30 a. m.—North Charlotte.
October 3, 11:00 a. m.—Charlotte.
October 3, 7:00 p. m.—Love Joy, Why Not.
October 9 and 10—Granville.
October 10, 7:30 p. m.—Henderson.
October 13, 7:30 p. m.—West End, Greensboro.
October 15—Mount Hermon.
October 16—Tabernacle.
October 24, 11:00 a. m.—Spencer.

Yours in the Master's service,

A. G. Dixon.

My horse invariably comes home in less time than he makes the journey out. He pulls the carriage with a hearty good-will when his face is toward home. Should not I also both suffer and labor the more joyously because my way lies toward heaven and I am on pilgrimage to my Father's house, my soul's dear home and resting place?—Charles Spurgeon.

Our Story Page

THE UNGRATEFUL LITTLE SQUIRREL

Betty Fairbanks had been spending a month at her aunt's camp among the pine trees that grew around a lovely lake in northern Massachusetts. It was the first time that she had ever been there, for other summers her mother had taken her to the beach. But this year Mrs. Fairbanks had been taken suddenly sick in the middle of vacation and Betty's father had decided that the best person to take care of the little girl was his sister, who had several children of her own and a splendid place for them to be well and happy out of doors.

At first it had been very hard for Betty, for she had never been separated from both her father and mother before and she missed them terribly. But her aunt and cousins did so much to make her enjoy herself that she soon got over her homesickness and declared the days were not half long enough for her to do all she wanted to. There was swimming and fishing and rowing on the lake, long walks of exploration and picnics in the woods, swinging, and tea parties on the wide piazzas, and story-telling and games in the living room before a blazing fire on rainy days or cool evenings.

And then there were the birds and squirrels to watch and feed. This seemed to fascinate Betty more than any of the other children but it was probably because she had never been to a place before where there were so many of them. After a while there came to be one squirrel that was her especial pet, for she declared it had got to know her and when she called "Chippy" it would come up to her hand to eat whatever she held out for it. She never left the table without taking some crumbs or pieces of food to offer chippy, in case he put in an appearance. And most of the small sum of spending money that her father had given her went for peanuts, which she bought at a small store near the camp.

Very close to her interest in birds and squirrels was her delight in swimming. Of course she had been in the ocean many times, but just to paddle and jump about. Fresh water was very different and she was learning to swim and float, for her cousins all knew how and were very patient in trying to teach Betty. And then, besides, there was a lovely new red bathing suit, American Beauty Red they called it, that her aunt had bought in the city because daddy had forgotten to put her old green one in the suitcase that he had packed so hurriedly, and she loved to get into it twice every pleasant day, once in the morning and again in the late afternoon. She was making such progress that every one said by the end of the summer she would be swimming as well as the rest of the children.

When Aunt Clara had given Betty the bathing suit and cap and shoes she told her she should expect her to take care of them as the other children did theirs. Every time she came out of the water she must wring out the wet things and hang them on the line to dry, and then before she went upstairs to bed, they must all be taken into the house and put away for the next day.

Betty did very well at remembering but because she had never had to look out for any of her things before, she sometimes forgot and had to be reminded by some of the others, or else her things would have stayed out all night. To help all the children to remember, Mrs. Hayden had made the rule that if any one did leave a suit out, he or she could not go swimming at all the next day. So far Betty had not forgotten once and she said she didn't intend to.

But one night after supper she went out on the piazza with some extra nice bits for the squirrels, and although she whistled and called repeatedly, not one of them came in sight. So she went down on to the ground in hope that she would find Chippy. She saw nothing of him but discovered her bathing suit on the line, and taking it down dropped it on the ground, intending to carry it into the house a little later. Then she started walking and after she had gone a little way she caught sight of two frisky fellows playing together at the base of a great pine tree, and she felt sure that one of them was her pet.

However, they were having such a good time that they didn't want to stop just then for anything, not even food. They frisked and frolicked and jumped from limb to limb of first one tree and then another, and Betty followed after, hoping all the time that they would soon listen to her calling and come to her.

Evidently the squirrels had no intention of stopping, and on they went, and so did Betty, without realizing that she was getting farther away from home all the time. Finally she had to stop, for she was almost out of breath from so much running, and at the same time the two squirrels stopped too perhaps for the same reason, and when Betty held out her hands with the nuts and pieces of cake they came right up to her and without a bit of coaxing devoured every last bit

"You're Chippy, aren't you?" Betty kept saying. "And is this your little brother? Will you both be my friends and come whenever I call you?"

She had sat down on a stone and suddenly as she looked about her in the gathering twilight discovered that her aunt's camp was nowhere to be seen; in fact, there were no camps at all, just trees big and tall. And she couldn't see the lake either or the boathouse or anything else that was familiar.

She said to the squirrel, "I do not know where I am. You'll have to show me the way to get home; you brought me here."

But the squirrels made never a sound, only quirked their tails saucily and ran higher up in the tree and left a somewhat frightened little girl wondering what she should do next.

After a minute or two she jumped up, saying to herself: "Well, if the squirrels are so mean they won't help me I'll have to help myself; it won't do to sit here any longer."

But she didn't know which way to go; there didn't seem to be any path, and the woods were about the camp. She wandered about for some minutes without making any headway and was about ready to cry when she heard voices calling her name.

As loud as she could she shouted back "Here I am, right over here," and she kept shouting until her cousins and her uncle and aunt came through the thick underbrush and found her. She was so relieved to see them that she threw herself into her aunt's arms and burst out crying.

"Why, Betty," said Mrs. Hayden as she kissed her, "whatever made you come 'way into the woods alone when it was growing dark? It isn't a safe place for children; it's so easy to get lost."

Then Betty dried her tears and told her about following two squirrels because she was sure one of them was Chippy. When she had finished, her aunt told her why she must not do such a thing again; then they started for home, and it was quite dark when they reached the camp. In fact, it was so dark and Betty was so tired and excited that she forgot all about her lovely red bathing suit that was still on the ground where she had dropped it. And the other children knew nothing about it, and there it lay all night long until after breakfast next morning, when it was time for the first swim of the day.

When Betty first thought of it, she was sitting at the table just finishing her toast She didn't say anything about it then, for she was ashamed at having forgotten to bring it in and she was sorry, too, that she would have to miss her swims that day. She hoped no one else would notice it and speak of it, for she would get it in just as soon as the meal was over.

Fortunately, not a word was said and when Mrs. Hayden excused the children Betty ran out of the room and down under the line before any one could ask her where she was going. There lay the suit, just as she had dropped it, and she quickly picked it up and shook it out. But suddenly she stopped and looked hard at it for several minutes. Then she rushed back into the house to her aunt, saying: "O, Aunt Clara, something awful has happened to my lovely new bathing suit. It's down under the clothes-line where I left it all night. Please come out with me and look at it."

Taking hold of Betty's hand to comfort her, for she saw that she was feeling badly, Mrs. Hayden hurried down to the line and took a look at the bathing suit. Indeed, it was a sorry sight, for there were holes all over it and a large one right in the middle of the upper part. She didn't say anything for a minute and then a smile came over her face.

"Why, do you know, I think the squirrels have done this! I couldn't imagine what it was at first. They certainly got busy when they found what a nice wooly suit it was and finished the job up in one night."

"But why should they want to spoil my new suit like that? We've given them so much to eat they couldn't be hungry. Oh, if it was Chippy or any of his brothers and sisters, I think he's the most ungrateful little squirrel in the world! After all I've done for him this summer! I'll never feed one of them again, so there!"

"Oh, my dear, you mustn't talk like that! How did they know but what you left the suit there for them, just the way you leave food? You see Chippy, or some other squirrel, perhaps the very two you ran after last night, want to build a nest for their babies and the nice warm wool in your suit was just what they needed for a lining, so they helped themselves, without a thought of how you might feel about it. You really can't blame them for taking what they found on the ground, can you?"

"I suppose not, but they made me leave it there, chasing after them until it was dark."

"Oh, no, you can't blame it on them. It was your own fault and I'm very sorry. But don't cry about it, that won't do any good. I'll darn the holes the best I can and the suit will last you for the rest of the season. Then perhaps around Christmas time I can find another red one just like it that you can have for next summer, and I'm sure you won't ever forget and leave that one outdoors all night."

"I guess I won't and I'm not going towaste any more of my time this summer on ungrateful squirrels, Chippy especially."

"Oh, yes, you will. There's one now and it looks as though it were listening to what we are saying."

"I believe it's Chippy and I'm going to show him my suit." Then she called and whistled but the squirrel would not come up to her. After a little time she said to her aunt: "That proves it, Aunt Clara, I'm sure now it was Chippy, for he's so ashamed he won't come near me. He knows just how ungrateful I think he is. We aren't going to be friendly any more."

"Oh, yes, tomorrow you'll both have forgotten all about it. Bring the suit into the house now and I'll see what I can do with it You won't need it today, will you? We'll find something nice to do together while the others are in swimming. There's Bobby calling me."

Aunt Clara started up toward the house with Betty just behind her. The little girl hugged the tattered bathing suit close up to her and never once looked backed to see what the squirrel was doing.—Gertrude Fisher Scott, in the Zion's Herald.

"THE BOY WHO MEANS TO BE A MAN"

Only a little boy, my friends,
But I'll do the best I can;
For by and by, in the coming years,
I mean to be a man.

Not something that wears a coat and hat,
Kid gloves and curling hair,
Whose only ambition seems to be
To dress with the nicest care.

Not something that carries between his lips
A cigar or pipe of clay,
And keeps the article in full blast
A dozen times a day.

Not something that digs and delves so hard,
But is as poor as poverty still,
While a goodly part of his hard-earned cash
Goes on the drink-seller's till.

But a man, an honest, whole-souled man,
Brave-hearted, kind and true;
Who is always found in the foremost ranks
Whenever there's work to do.

Now, boys, be wise! join hands with me!
There's work enough for us all;
And, by and by, in the strife we shall fill
The places of those who fall.

And let us resolve in childhood's years
To be faithful in all things, and then
We shall fill an honored station in life,
If we live to be men.

—Selected.

THE LITTLE BUILDERS

By Mrs. E. J. Richmond

John Brown and Jemmy Atkins were great friends. At school, at play, everywhere, they were together, and when one learned anything new it was not long before the other knew it also. Now they had been watching the masons, who were building a fine store on Main Street.

"Did you know that we are builders, John?" said Jemmy, who had watched the men putting brick after brick upon the wall.

"No, we aren't; we're only boys," said John.

"But we are; we are building a house which is to last for ever and ever," said Jemmy, earnestly.

"Pooh! now you are fooling," said John. Nothing in the world lasts for ever and ever. That old Morgan house is only a hundred years old, and it won't last a hundred more."

"I can't help that," said Jemmy. "Mother told me our souls would live forever, and we were building houses for them to live in."

"How is that?" said John soberly.

"Well, she said that we build our characters day by day, brick by brick, just as that man is doing. And if we build well, we shall be glad for ever and ever; and if we build ill, if we use shaky bricks or rotten wood, or stubble, we shall be sorry for ever and ever."

"That is queer. We ought to be pretty careful, then," said John. "But your mother is such a good woman, she knows."

"I think it is jolly nice to be builders, don't you?" said Jemmy.

"Yes, if we build right. But let's see; what kind of bricks had we better use?"

"Always tell the truth; that's a big sill. Be honest, that's another," said Jemmy.

"Good!" cried John. "Mind your mother; there is another."

"Yes, and fathers and teachers too," said Jemmy. "There's a big beam of temperance in my building. Mother says that's a gospel beam and keeps the frame steady."

"Be courteous; there's a brick," said John. "And don't swear; there's another."

"And don't speak against anybody, and don't say any bad words," interrupted Jemmy. "And we shall go on building as long as we live, mother says; every single day we add something to our house."

The gentleman who owned the new building stood beside the boys, hidden from sight by a high wall. He listened to their talk intently, and then he stepped around beside them, and said: "Pretty good work, my boys; only build on the sure foundation."

The boys looked a little frightened, but he smiled so pleasantly upon them that they soon felt at ease, and listened while he said: "Give your hearts to God, my boys; He is the great Master Builder. He will teach you to build so that He will say, 'Well done.' 'Seek first the Kingdom of God and all things else shall be added unto you.'" Then he added: "I wish everybody would build as wisely as you plan, dear boys. May God help you to keep your resolution!"

"Rest! I wish I could impress upon the general public the idea that it is rest, systematic rest and not raw eggs, milk, sleeping porches or climate, that cures tuberculosis," said Dr. P. P. McCain, superintendent of the North Carolina Sanatorium.

JACK JOUETT'S RIDE

A Revolutionary "ride" as thrilling as the famous ride of Paul Revere was commemorated last week by the unveiling of a monument at Cuckoo, Va. The monument is a huge bowlder, seven feet high and four feet wide, in which is imbedded the gold star of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The bowlder marks the spot where, on June 3, 1781, Jack Jouett, Revolutionary patriot, began his fifty-mile ride to warn Thomas Jefferson, then Governor of Virginia, and the members of the Virginia Legislature, then meeting at Charlottesville, that the British troops were coming to capture them.

By taking some "short cuts" Jack Jouett, on his splendid horse, reached Charlottesville and Monticello, Jefferson's home about three miles from there, just ahead of the British troops under Lieutenant Colonel Tarlton. Jefferson barely had time to escape before Tarlton rode up the steps of Monticello and into the entrance hall in search of the author of the Declaration of Independence. The hoof mark of Tarlton's horse may be seen today. The Daughters of the American Revolution have marked the spot with a gold star.

Had Jack Jouett failed to "sound the alarm" the British probably would have captured Thomas Jefferson; Patrick Henry, who said, "Give me liberty or give me death;" Richard Henry Lee, who introduced in Congress the resolution for the Declaration of Independence, and other famous patriots. They might have been taken to England and executed as rebels.—Current Events.

MOUNTAIN PEAKS

Herbert Taylor Stephens, D. D.

Bewitching drapery hangs around,—
The mountain top concealing;
The winds blow soft the clouds away,
Its fair outlines revealing.

The eagle makes thy cliffs its home,
Above thy bare peak sailing,
And guardeth his own nestlings there,
With vigilance unfailing.

While, far below, the valley smiles,
With fields and laughing river;
And man dreams on, toils on, sings on,
With love that lives forever.

The clouds oft veil the certain truth
For which men's souls are yearning:
Oft Sunlight, too, the rift shines thru,
And man is ever learning.

The outlines of God's table-lands,
And all the glories fringing,
Are even now upon my mind,
In golden tints impiring.

I love the vales and fields below,
Where purling streams meander;
But, O, I love the crags and heights,
And their vast, lonely splendor!

I find God here, I find God there,—
My heart His praise is singing,
In humbler paths, or upper air
Heaven's music e'er is ringing!

Mother—You silly boy! There you've gone and fallen in the mud with your new suit on.

Boy—I didn't have time to take it off.—Paris Rire.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid all Claims In Full

1. State Street, Lexington.

Paid A. C. B. in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Fountain Place.
3. Charlotte.

Churches

1. Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson Circuit.

Paid G. C. B. in Full

1. Asheboro.
2. Asheville.

Paid College Assessment in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Grace.
3. Mebane.
4. Glen Raven.
5. Burlington.
6. Fountain Place.
7. Reidsville.
8. South Winston.
9. English Street.
10. Asheboro.
11. Concord.
12. Graham.
13. High Point, First.
14. Welch.
15. Mt. Pleasant.
16. Siler City.
17. Charlotte.
18. West End.

Churches

1. Julian on Tabernacle.
2. Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit.
3. Gray's Chapel on Randolph.

Paid on College Assessment

1. Tabernacle	$24.00
2. Randolph	23.00
3. Halifax	22.80
4. Forsyth	19.90
5. Alamance	17.88
6. West Forsyth	15.40
7. Enfield	15.00
8. St. Paul	15.00
9. W. Thomasville	10.55
10. Friendship	10.00
12. Saxapahaw	8.46
13. Weaverville	8.25
14. Spencer	6.70
15. Albemarle	5.00
16. Thomasville First	5.00
17. So. Davidson	4.30
18. Spring Church	3.50
19. Union Grove	1.00

Paid on A. C. B.

1. Grace	$300.00
2. High Point First	280.00
3. Burlington	215.00
4. Forsyth	192.30
5. Concord	185.00
6. Mt. Pleasant	170.00
7. Henderson	150.00
8. Mebane	130.00
9. Siler City	125.42
10. Reidsville	117.50
11. N. Davidson	110.00
12. Orange	106.00
13. Davidson	102.01
14. Richland	100.28
15. Thomasville First	100.00
16. Pleasant Grove	100.00
17. West End	95.00
18. Mt. Hermon	87.76
19. Glen Raven	87.50
20. Flat Rock	80.62
21. Haw River	70.00
22. Lebanon	70.00
23. Bess Chapel	67.97
24. Asheboro	63.33
25. St. Paul	60.00
26. West Forsyth	57.75
27. Littleton	56.75
28. Randolph	55.00
29. Granville	51.17
30. Mocksville	50.25
31. Calvary	50.00
32. English Street	50.00
33. Friendship	48.25
34. Welch Memorial	47.00
35. Anderson	43.45
36. Why Not	42.03
37. Asheville	40.00
38. Spring Church	38.66
39. Halifax	38.60
40. Albemarle	35.00
41. South Davidson	34.35
42. Roberta	31.50
43. Tabernadle	30.65
44. Weaverville	30.00
45. Saxapahaw	29.01
4 , Yarborough	29.00
47. Pinnacle	27.80
48. Randleman	26.35
49. Vance	26.06
50. Cleveland	25.50
51. Rockingham	25.00
52. Midland	23.80
53. Kernersville	21.72
54. Chase City	19.20
55. Pageland	16.05
56. Spencer	10.00
57. South Winston	10.00
58. Alamance	10.00
59. Melton's Grove	10.00
60. Union Grove	8.50
61. Denton	8.28
62. Guilford	4.45
63. Draper	3.22
64. Fairview	2.50

Paid on G. C. B.

1. Winston-Salem	$336.44
2. High Point First	188.63
3. Grace	179.65
4. Forsyth	136.86
5. Asheville	136.00
6. Concord	135.00
7. West End	127.00
8. Charlotte	114.88
9. Mt. Pleasant	105.69
10. Enfield	99.25
11. Spring Church	92.59
12. Mebane	89.60
13. Siler City	85.00
14. Whitaker	79.41
15. Glen Raven	78.94
16. No. Davidson	74.92
17. Vance	63.33
18. Saxapahaw	59.33
19. Gibsonville	58.68
20. Randleman	58.31
21. Littleton	58.25
22. Burlington	52.68
23. Graham	50.39
26. Mt. Hermon	46.56
27. Richland	45.72
28. Why Not	44.59
29. Randolph	41.65
30. Thomasville First	39.60
31. Orange	39.00
32. Guilford	37.28
33. Albemarle	36.00
34. Midland	35.20
35. Haw River	35.00
36. Pleasant Grove	34.30
37. Alamance	33.45
38. Friendship	32.78
39. Fountain Place	31.53
40. Anderson	31.22
42. Henderson	27.50
43. Mocksville	26.09
44. West Thomasville	24.30
45. Pinnacle	22.75
46. Cleveland	21.08
47. St. Paul	20.84
48. West Forsyth	20.76
49. Lebanon	20.05
50. Bess Chapel	17.98
51. Flat Rock	16.34
52. Roberta	14.05
53. Granville	13.50
54. Denton	13.14
55. English Street	13.02
56. Rockingham	13.00
57. South Davidson	13.00
58. South Winston	10.00
59. Union Grove	9.58
60. Halifax	9.10
61. Lincolnton	7.52
62. Yarborough	7.40
63. Weaverville	7.00
64. Mecklenburg	6.50
65. Chatham	504
66. Pageland	4.30
67. Porter	3.35

A. G. DIXON.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$168,832.23
E. W. Teague	100.00
Rev. C. W. Bates	50.00
Mrs. Mamie Garrison	10.00
E. H. Pratt	5.00
Miss Janeth Youginger	5.00
Miss Wennonah Joyner	5.00
Miss Maggie Willis	1.00
Special—Asheville	10.00
	$169,018.23

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$5,929.86
Miss Mary Collins	25.00
L. C. Sykes	10.00
L. S. Helms for Caroleen Church	4.50
	$5,969.36

ANOTHER APPRECIATED COMPLIMENT

I wish to congratulate you and the "boys" on the splendid appearance of the "new" Herald. I have always considered the Herald equal to the very best religious periodicals in the state, and now I am more confident of that fact than ever before. Long live the Herald! I shall always be thankful for the time I spent as a linotype operator in the Herald office. Those days were among the most happy and profitable of my life.

RALEIGH A. HUNTER.

—Miss Virla Coble, formerly of Liberty, is now Mrs. Parker, of Enfield. She was at Grace Church this week.

Our Children's Home

Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $10.16; Pleasant Grove Station, $23.15; Rev. R. G. Koons, Greer, S. C., $5; Rehoboth, Granville, $6; Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion, $3.55; B. W. Sprinkle and wife, Pleasant Hill, W. Forsyth, $1; James Braswell, Kannapolis, $2:50; Stallings, Mecklenburg, $3:40; Rev. J. F. Dosier, Randleman, $1; Charlotte, Richland, $1.50.

Sunday Schools

Ray Bible Class, Graham, $2.70; Beginners Class, Harmony Church, S. C., $2; Worthville Randleman, $3.12; Haw River, Glen Raven, $4.65; Shiloh, Randolph, $8.10; Lebanon, High Point, $6.84; Fair Grove, Haw River, $2.05; Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, $5.21; Bethesda, N. Davidson, $9; Bethany, Randolph, $2.10; Mrs. D. T. Gaster, Sunday eggs, $1.10; Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge, S. C., $10.

Other Gifts

Mrs. H. R. Lee, Tate Street, Greensboro, one pair shoes.

Please note the following:

All sending donations to the Home, should give their names, address, also the name of their church and charge. Miss or Mrs. should accompany the name of each female also.

Every contributor in this report has our many thanks. Please remember enlarged expenses call for enlarged contributions.

SUPERINTENDENT.

A NEW CABLE

over its entire length with a sheath of permalloy only six-thousandths of an inch thick. Permalloy is a new metal—an alloy of iron and nickel. It prevents leakage of electric current passing through the wire and increases the sending speed of a cable about eight times. Messages may be sent at a speed of about 2,500 letters a minute over the permalloy cable. The sending speed of the old-fashioned cable is only a little more than 300 letters a minute.

The new cable is the nineteenth to span the Atlantic Ocean. It was built for the Western Union Telegraph Company and is one of eight transatlantic cables owned by that company.

—In his book "Prohibition at Its Worst," published today by TheMacmillan Company, Irving Fisher, Professor of Economics at Yale, declares that "evidently Constitutional Prohibition came on the country somewhat prematurely." But he adds that "after an examination of all the data, I have estimated that the flow of alcohol down human throats in the United States is at present certainly less than 16 per cent, probably less than 10 per cent, and possibly less than 5 per cent of the preprohibition consumption." For this reason, and because of new facts set forth in the book tending to show that new recruits to the army of drunkards are slackening among the young first offenders, Professor Fisher urges that the experiment be continued.

—The Jews are observing the Feast of Tabernacles this week.

NINTH DISTRICT RALLY OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Belwood Consolidated School Building, September 25th and 26th, 1926

PROGRAM

Saturday Morning

10—Devotional service by Rev. W. L. Carson.

10:15—Purpose of meeting by Rev. E. A. Bingham.

10:20—Report of Sunday School Superintendents.

11:20—Quartet singing.

11:40—Report of C. E. Societies, Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, Ladies Aid Societies etc.

12:30—Dinner on the ground, all bring dinner and eat together.

Saturday Afternoon

2:00—Laymen's attitude toward pastor—Mr. Edley Ivester.

2:15—Recitations, songs, etc. by Kistlers, Mt. Pleasant Mt. Moriah, and Macedonia churches.

Saturday Evening

7:30—A short play by Friendship.

8:00—Wright quartet.

8:15—Pageant by Bess' Chapel.

Sunday Morning

10:00—Sunday School, Mr. R. G. Wood, Superintendent.

11:00—Talks, recitations, dialogue, Lincolnton quartet, and Bessemer City Quartet, and C. R. Upton and Quartet, by Lincolnton, Laurel Hill, Pleasant Hill, Bessemer City, and Hebron Churches.

12:30—Lunch.

Sunday Afternoon

2:00—Recitations etc., by Fairfield, Lawndale and Knob Creek churches. Quartets by Knob Creek Quartet and other Quartets present.

3:00—Presentation of Bible and Flag to Belwood Consolidated School by the Belwood Junior Order.

Sunday Evening

7:00—C. E. Society led by Mrs. E. O. Peeler.

7:45—Debate—Resolved that the objects and pictures we see have more influence for good or evil, than what we read.

Affirmative by Shelby C. E. Society, and Negative by Caroleen C. E. Society.

8:25—Pageant by Oak Grove Church.

NOTICE, SOUTH DAVIDSON CHARGE OFFICIALS

The Fourth Quarterly Conference will convene at the West Lexington Church Saturday, September 25th, at three o'clock. Dr. A. G. Dixon, President of the Annual Conference, will have charge of the business of the conference. All officials are urged and expected to be present. Matters of importance in connection with the coming year's work will be discussed and your presence is earnestly desired.

Dr. Dixon will preach Sunday a.m. at 11:00 o'clock at Yadkin college, Mt. Carmel at three p.m. and at West Lexington at 7:30 p.m. Please be present and hear him.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

—Rev. C. M. Compher will assist Brother Trogdon at Flat Rock in a meeting beginning next Sunday. Brother Compher will arrive in time for the afternoon service on Sunday.

Woman's Missionary Department

Miss Esther Ross, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

Central Committee of Woman's Board Home Missions Makes Request For Funds. Other News

Mrs. A. P. Badger, chairman of the Central Committee of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, urges that all auxiliaries send in all money to Branch Treasurer, in order that she in turn may forward to Treasurer of the Woman's Board of Home Missions. As is usual after the summer months the treasury is depleted, and expenses continue.

The executive committee of the Woman's Missionary Societies will hold their quarterly meeting early in October, date and place of which will be designated next week.

A Young People's Missionary Society was organized at Mt. Herman church, Graham, Route 1, recently with Miss Lois Coble president, Truth Isley vice-president, and Miss Alene Keck secretary and treasurer.

All Missionary Districts should hold meetings if they have not already done so, this year.

First Church Thomasville held a Missionary service Sunday evening, the result of which was that a dozen or more ladies said they would join on Wednesday evening, when, it was decided, that an organization would be created.

Mrs. H. C. Nicholson asks for reports from every Home Missionary society in order that she may have for her report for the Executive Committee meeting.

As we take up the work of missions after the summer's vacation may we not strive to be more energetic, and lay larger plans than ever before?

MRS. Wm. C. HAMMER, Pres. W. H. M. S.

Thompson

We the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Salem Methodist Protestant Church of Graham, N. C., wish to offer a tribute of love to the memory of Mrs. J. A. W. Thompson who died April 17th, 1926.

She was ever faithful in the Master's service even though she had been in declining health for some years. Her church officers were always first with her and her presence was an inspiration to the members of our society.

Whereas we recognize God's mercy and we know "He doeth all things well," therefore be it

Resolved that we extend our sympathy to the relatives and friends, that a copy be put on the minutes of our Society, one sent to the Missionary Record and a copy be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald.

MISS LOLA PARIS,
MISS LIDA THOMPSON,
MRS. L. F. DURHAM,
Committee.

—Mrs. J. R. Ball of Durham is among the attendants at Grace Church this week.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Bess' Chapel.—We were glad to have Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon with us at Bess' Chapel Monday, September 13, at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Dixon brought us a wonderful message. A goodly number of the members were present to hear him. We feel that the message will help us to live better, and do more for our Heavenly Father. Mrs. Dixon made a talk about our college at High Point. She also told about a student at High Point College, from our school at Pine Ridge, Ky. It only took a few minutes to raise about twelve dollars to help keep her at High Point College. We were glad to have Rev. J. D. Morris in the congregation who led in the opening prayer. We hope they will come again.

E. A. BINGHAM.

Mizpah.—The Mizpah Philathea class held its regular meeting Wednesday night, September 8th, at church.

The meeting was called to order by assistant president, Mrs. M. L. Wagner, roll called by secretary, Miss Ruth Hill, after which she read the minutes of last meeting.

Plans were then discussed in which we might raise money for benefit of church.

We were very much pleased again when the Baracas invited us to a Brunswick stew Saturday night, September 25th, at church. The meeting then adjourned to meet again in October.

REPORTER.

Palistine, Flat Rock.—Our revival meeting began third Sunday in July and closed the following Friday. Pastor had for his help Rev. A. Ridge. Brother Ridge did good preaching and we all say come again, Brother Ridge. Fourteen united with the church. One to be baptised later.

Third Sunday in August pastor gave us a good sermon that every one seemed to enjoy.

Fifth Sunday pastor preached another good sermon, partly on, "Take heed to yourselves," and neglecting to do the work the church has put upon us to do. That strikes us reporters very much, doesn't it? Especially when we fail to fill the place our church has given us to fill. At the close of this service communion service was held. The larger part of the congregation partook of the Lord's Supper. Collection was taken for Children's Home that amounted to $3.02.

I heard Brother T. E. Pierce on Sunday afternoon of the Betheny meeting, was glad to hear him preach again. Brother Pierce helped Pastor Hutton at Palestine, three or four years ago, and we learned to like him.

Mr. Jasper Sharron has been confined to his room again.

Aunt Betty Sharron has been very feeble.

Mother stays up fine.

GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

Davidson Circuit.—I began my first meeting at Alleghany Church on the second Sunday in August, with Rev. Geo. Clay, pastor of Uwharrie M. E. church, as helper. His preaching was satisfactory and we had a splendid meeting; fourteen conversions and seven united with the church.

Liberty: On the third Sunday in August I began a meeting at Liberty. Brother H. W. Bell preached for me at the 11 o'clock service, and I preached in the afternoon.

A large crowd was present and the meeting started off good. On Monday morning Rev. B. M. Williams of Orange Circuit came to us and did the preaching and did it well. He made many friends while in our midst and his service was greatly appreciated.

Brother Williams is a good preacher and a firm believer in the old time revivals.

The church was revived and Christians shouted and praised God aloud. As a result of our efforts, seventeen were led to the altar and accepted Christ.

Several of these came from nearby churches and only two have united with the church, but others may join.

Pleasant Grove.—On the fourth Sunday in August we started our special meeting at Pleasant Grove with Rev. E. W. Jones of High Point, Wesleyan Methodist Church, as help.

Brother Jones came for the first service and did all the preaching. He is a wonderful man and his preaching has done the church good. We had a good revival and four fine young boys and girls were saved. The best service came on Friday afternoon when nine adults joined the church; three came on confession of faith and six by letter. Brother Maynard Garner comes from the Baptist Church and Brother and sister Matthew Varner and Brother and Sister Jonah Varner and Sister Mittie Kinney all from the M. E. Church. We welcome them to a place among us.

The fifth Sunday in August found me with Brother Hulin at Pine Bluff in a special meeting. I am not Brother Hulin's reporter but sufficient to say that I found some mighty good folks over there and they told me that they were going to keep their pastor just as long as he is able to preach the Gospel.

Lineberry.—The first Sunday in September found us back home starting our meeting at Lineberry. Rev. T. E. Pierce, from Welch Memorial Church, High Point, came to us in the very beginning and did the preaching and did it well. We have had a real revival at Lineberry. The windows of Heaven were opened indeed, and the rain of divine influence continued to pour down throughout the meeting. Large crowds attended the meeting, and it seemed that the whole assembly felt the power of the Holy Ghost. Twenty-five came to the altar and were saved, and went on their way rejoicing. The doors of the church were opened on Friday afternoon and night for the reception of members, and, to our delight seventeen united with the church. May the God of Heaven bless them and lead them on to victory. Brother Pierce is a good evangelist and made many friends during his stay among us.

Camp Meeting.—When you read this no doubt we will be engaged in our camp meeting at Chapel Hill. It always begins third Sunday in September. Rev. J. M. Morgan is coming to me Saturday evening and stay through the meeting. Perhaps this meeting will last two weeks if the interest demands it. Brethren, pray for us.

C. E. RIDGE, Pastor.

Cid, South Davidson Circuit.—The special meeting of Cid will begin next Sunday, the 26th, so pray for us, brethren, that we may have a good revival and that many precious souls will be saved.

The prayer meeting at Mr. Israel Black's Saturday night was very well attended. Spiritual interest good. It goes to Mr. C. O. Leonards next Saturday night.

We are glad to note that a right prosperous Sunday school is going on at Jerusalem Church.

Mrs. Carmon Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunt, who has been at the hospital for two weeks, (appendicitis) was to return home Sunday evening. Mrs. Hunt, her mother, kept the three little children, and sorry to say her baby has been sick with something like Colitis. They have our deepest sympathy.

Mrs. Joshua Morgan of Jackson's Creek, and her four children attended Fairview special meeting yesterday and many other old friends from other parts met together at their old home church. Two most excellent sermons were delivered by Rev. Mr. Brown, of Pispah, Randolph county. He is assisting Rev. Mr. Mendenhall, the pastor.

We hope to see many of our old acquaintances of Cid next Sunday; come over and help us.

We are always glad to read the good news in the Herald.

MRS. N. W. LEWIS.

State Street Church.—Work on the new building has been resumed after a delay of about two weeks on account of some material which was overlooked at the time the first order was given.

The builders work so rapidly that it will not be long before we will be using the Sunday school rooms. They are much needed now, our Sunday school is growing so large. Visitors and new members are recorded almost every Sunday.

Mr. Bethea gave the last of his series of lectures on his trip to Palestine last Sunday night. These talks have been so interesting and have drawn large crowds. Many have expressed regrets that they are over.

Mr. Bethea went to Mebane Monday morning to conduct Revival services for Dr. Johnson. Brother C. B. Way will be with us Sunday morning and night to fill our pastor's place.

We were glad to have Mrs. Aycock with us in all the services Sunday. She is spending a short while visiting at the parsonage.

The Christian Endeavor Society is doing fine work. All the young people of the society are faithful and willing workers as well as the older members.

REPORTER.

Macedonia.—The Sunday school is still going nicely.

Our special meeting began September 12 with three services on Sunday and two during the week, closing Friday night.

Brother J. M. Morgan, our pastor, did the preaching. He preached so faithfully, labored so hard to win souls for Jesus. He preached such good gospel sermons, throughout the week, it was a treat for any one to hear him, not only during the meeting, but at all times he brings us good messages.

We feel that his labor was not in vain for the church was much revived and many souls were saved. Eight united with the church.

Macedonia feels much honored, a rare treat for on Tuesday of the meeting who should visit us but Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon of High Point. We were much pleased to have them with us. We had read about them in the Herald but had never seen them, now when we read about them how much more interesting it will be, for having seen them.

Tuesday at the 11 o'clock service Mrs. Dixon preached for us a splendid sermon. Her text was: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have ever lasting life." John 3:16. In the evening at 7:30 Dr. Dixon preached a splendid sermon also, his text being: "But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear." 1 Peter 3:15.

Both sermons were indeed fine. They went on their way, and our very best wishes go with them in their great work. We as a church have a warm place in our hearts toward Dr. and Mrs. Dixon; hope they can visit us again some time.

One of the members of our church had the misfortune of losing his house and all its contents by fire one night during the meeting. He carried no insurance.

With best wishes to the Herald.

PEARL BARNES, Reporter.

High Point.—On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Lord's Supper was celebrated, and a large number of the congregation joined in a delightful communion. Dr. Brown was assisted in this ordiance by Rev. Paul S. Kennett.

The pastor announces that a special series of meetings will begin in the church on Sunday, October 10th, and if he is unable to secure a minister to assist him, he will conduct the services alone. The interest and cooperation of every member should be assured to their pastor in this undertaking.

Two additions to the Faculty of High Point College are Miss Bessie Battle of Greensboro, who will have supervision of the Art Department, and a recent exhibition of her work at the College brought forth much favorable comment. The school of Journalism will be in charge of Prof. T. C. Johnson, who taught last year in Anderson College, Anderson, S. C. He will have oversight of The Torch and all student publications.

Dr. J. C. Broomfield of Pittsburgh, Penn., who is conducting special services in Grace Church, Greensboro, accompanied by Dr. S. K. Spahr, came to High Point College Monday morning, and spoke to the students at Chapel services. His address was greatly enjoyed.

A delightful supper was tendered to the members of the congregation by two prominent laymen, Messrs. H. A. Moffit and John S. Pickett, on last Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. This supper was prepared and served in Cafeteria style by a large number of members of the Ladies' Aid Society. A delicious two-course menu was served to the guests, and the occasion proved a delightful one.

The Junior Mission Circle of which Mrs. R. M. Andrews is Superintendent, met Saturday afternoon at the church with a good attendance.

Mayor H. A. Moffitt and G. H. Kearns of this city have bought a large tract of land in Kirkwood, a new residential development of Greensboro, adjoining Irving Park. It has a frontage of 10,000 feet, and will be subdivided into lots, and put on the market. A number of handsome homes have already been built in Kirkwood, which will soon be a most attractive section of the city.

Plans are being made for a Reception in the First church given in compliment to the Faculty and students of the College at an early date.

At a recent meeting of the Junior Class of the College which will be Class of 1928, the members voted to donate handsome iron gates to be placed at the entrance to the campus as a memorial of the second graduating class.

Capt. A. M. Rankin has returned from a business trip to Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Elizabeth Reitzel has entered St. Mary's, Raleigh as a student.

Messrs. Lester and Carl Teague have commenced building an attractive new residence in Sunset Hills.

Haw River.—Just held our third quarterly conference. Reports were good. Dr. W. A. Johnson was elected delegate to the Annual Conference.

This has been a good year for us in many ways. In addition to the meetings already reported, there were meetings held at Midway and Mizpah churches. We had splendid revivals at each of these churches with 18 additions at Midway and 11 at Mizpah. Brother Carson was the help at both churches and the people were pleased with his work. He is a good preacher and is full of zeal and the revival fire and the people heard him gladly.

The first Sunday in September our meeting began at Brown Summit. Unfortunately, the time was in the midst of the tobacco-curing season which made our attendance small. Brother Edward Suits was our help and in his characteristic way hewed to the line, leaving the chips to choose their own course. The people were greatly edified.

Conference is near and our hands are full.

W. D. REED.

Siler City, Siler City Charge.—Sept. 20—Our Sunday school showed an increase yesterday. The largest atendance of any Sunday this year. Every teacher was present. Mr. Ed Woody is doing a good work as superintendent.

The services of the day were well attended. Miss Leo Sowell sang a beautiful solo at the morning service and was accompanied in a duet at Christian Endeavor in the evening service by Miss Minnie Cooper. Miss Sowell is visiting friends here. We regret that she is returning to South Carolina soon. We were glad to receive into our fellowship Sunday Miss Vera Mendenhall and Mrs. Frank Smith. Miss Mendenhall was baptized at the morning service. She is a graduate of ou rhigh school and is entering training at St. Leo's Hospital soon. Our best wishes and prayers go with her. Mrs. Frank Smith comes to us from Piney Grove. We are glad tto have these join into our fellowship.

F. L. G.

Anderson Circuit, Liberty Hill Church.—It has been some time since we have sent in a report, but we are still alive. We held our Children's Day service the fifth Sunday night in August; the offering was $7.25. We expect to have our Rally Day service the third Sunday in October.

Our protracted meeting began the second Sunday in August and lasted two weeks. Our pastor, Rev. R. G. Koons, did most of the preaching. Rev. W. K. Polk, of Greer, and Rev. Lee Leonard, of Greenville helped some. There were several conversions, five joined the church, making a total of 10 received in the church this year. We have lost two by death.

On July 23 the death angel visited the parsonage and claimed the wife of our pastor, Mrs. Lizzie Miller Koons; though her death was expected for some time, it was a shock to the church and community. During her sickness she never murmured nor complained, but was always bright and cheerful. Mrs. Koons was loved by all who knew her and she is missed greatly in church work and especially in the C. E. prayer meetings; she always took part when present.

On September 4 Mrs. Jane McCarter, the wife of Mr. Joe McCarter, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. G. Pearson. Mr. McCarter preceded her to the grave several years ago. Mrs. McCarter was almost 92 years old. She leaves three children: Mrs. B. G. Pearson, Mrs. Emma Foster and Mr. Bud McCarter, all of Greer, S. C. In her old age her Bible was her daily companion. She read it most all the time.

REPORTER.

Draper.—Our meeting came to a close last Sunday night; we had a wonderful meeting. There has been a good number added to the church. We had a three weeks' meeting. Brother Riddle did some great preaching; he brought to us some great truths. Thirty have united with the church.

We have recently given our church a new coat of paint, outside and inside.

We will hold our last quarterly conference October 23. REPORTER.

Henderson.—The attendance at Sunday school and the regular preaching services held up splendidly during the summer months, and now, since cooler weather has come, we are expecting an increase in every department of the work.

The thing that we are thinking about and praying about just now is our special meeting, which will begin next Sunday, with Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Mebane, as pulpit help. The church is anxious for a real revival, and we ask that all who read these lines join us in earnest prayer that such a revival may come.

The choir has been re-organized, with W. P. Garrett as director and Miss Fannie Cunningham as organist. Miss Cheatham, who has been organist for about two years, resigned to accept a position as teacher in a college in Raleigh. Miss Elizabeth Fox, one of our leading sopranos, is teaching in Graham. While we regret the loss of these two splendid workers we feel sure that the choir, under the direction of Brother Garrett, will keep up the reputation it has had for some time of being one of the very best in Henderson.

We regret, also, to report, that our Sunday school superintendent, Brother Kenneth Faulkner, has left us to take a business course in the city of Charlotte. Brother J. M. Baity, who for some time has been assistant superintendent, has taken over this important work. Brother Baity is one of our most consecrated, efficient and enthusiastic workers, and we are expecting the Sunday school to continue to go forward.

We are glad to report that Mrs. George B. Harris, who has recently been a patient in the hospital, has returned to her home greatly improved in health, and we are hoping soon to see her back at church.

The people of the church and community have been very thoughtful of the pastor and his family throughout the entire year, pounding us from time to time with many good things to eat. In addition to these things, the Young Ladies' League early in the spring, re-screened the back porch, and at a recent meeting of the official board the members of that body voted unanimously to buy some new fixtures for the bath room. We thank all who have had a part in contributing to our comfort and happiness.

The Conference year is drawing near to its close. There is much to be done, but when the final reports have been made Henderson will take her place on the Honor Roll as heretofore. R. A. HUNTER.

West Lexington, South Davidson Charge.—Our Sunday school attendance last Sunday was 118. We had preaching by our pastor, Brother Crutchfield, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The text of the morning sermon was Gen. 13:11, 12, 13. The theme of the sermon was "Lot's Choice." At the night service the subject of the sermon was "The Unavoidable Step," and the text was I Samuel 20:3. There was the usual attendance at these preaching services.

Death has removed one of our oldest and highly esteemed members. Brother George G. Gibson was called to his reward early on the morning of September 15. He had been ill for several weeks, but during the week preceding his death he was apparently much improved, being able to leave his son's home and go to the home of his daughter, where he died. He was found dead in bed at 5 o'clock when the family of his daughter arose. Heart disease was the cause of his death. Funeral services were held in the church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. N. G. Bethea, pastor of State Street Church, in the absence of our pastor. Rev. J. R. McGregor, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. C. B. Way assisted in the services. Brother Gibson was 73 years of age, and is survived by two sons, W. C. and R. H. Gibson, members of our church; and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Miller. An obituary will be prepared by the pastor.

Mrs. Morris, mother of Mrs. R. M. Gibson, of our church, died on Wednesday of last week and was buried the following day. Unusual sorrow came into the home of Brother and Sister Gibson because of the death of Brother Gibson's father and the death of Mrs. Gibson's mother, both deaths occurring the same day and the funerals of both being held the same afternoon. Our church and Sunday school deeply sympathize with these good people in the extreme bereavement they have been subjected to and the sorrow they have experienced.

Our fourth quarterly conference will convene at our church Saturday afternoon of this week at 3 o'clock with Dr. Dixon presiding. Dr. Dixon will preach next Sunday at three of the churches on South Davidson charge. At 11 a. m. he will preach at Yadkin College; at 3 p. m., at Mount Carmel and at 7:30 p. m., at West Lexington.

A sign of progress is evidenced by the Ladies' Aid Society of our church in a movement to raise funds with which to paint the exterior of our church. They will have an ice cream party next Saturday night for the benefit of the fund, and with their spirit of enterprise they will doubtless succeed in their efforts to improve the church building with a new coat of paint and thus beautify our house of worship.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Lebanon, High Point.—Our special meeting started the second Sunday in September and closed yesterday (third Sunday). Rev. L. W. Gerringer was with us in most of the services during the week. Both he and our pastor preached some very helpful sermons. Although the visible results were not very great, we feel that the church has been greatly helped. One young man joined the church as a result of the meeting. This makes a total of 46 members received this Conference year.

The September meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was held with Mrs. H. E. Pitts, with Mrs. A. J. Payne as leader. The program was a very helpful one with all members taking part in the "Question Box." It seems that interest in the work grows with every meeting. The society will meet with Mrs. C. M. Brown October 6 with Mrs. J. W. Thacker as leader.

The Christian Endeavor societies are also doing fine work.

The pastor announced that the fourth quarterly conference will be held in the near future, the exact date to be announced later.

MRS. PERCY PAYNE, Reporter.

September 25.

First Church, Burlington.—In the absence of the pastor on the second Sunday, the pulpit was filled both morning and evening by Rev. W. T. Walters, D. D. field agent for Elon College and a near neighbor of the church. Dr. Walters gave us two very inspiring sermons which were greatly enjoyed by the people. We were glad to have him with us.

The services on last Sunday were perhaps better attended than any in recent months, fine congregations greeting the pastor at each service. Brother Taylor gave us two great sermons. His subject at the morning service was "She Hath Done What She Could," and in it he emphasized the fact that one who is capable of doing only small things should do it just as well and in the same spirit as he who can do larger things. At the night service his subject was "The Woman Who Talked About Jesus" and was based on the story of the woman at Jacob's Well. He pointed out that this woman had something to tell about Jesus and that she told it and her telling resulted in the winning of a large number of the people of her city to Jesus. He urged that all of us do likewise.

At the morn service, the vote was taken on delegate to the approaching Annual Conference. The nominees were Bros. Glenn A. Huffman and J. G. Rogers. The vote will be counted by the stewards and the result announced at the third quarterly conference which is to be held on Wednesday evening, September 29.

The doors of the church were also opened at the morning service and Mrs. K. L. Thompson was received by letter from Salem Church, Saxapahaw Charge, and Miss Marie Luck was received on profession of faith. The congregation welcomes these additions.

The church treasurer made a report of the financial condition of the church for the Conference year and showed that we are quite far behind with our budget at this time. However, unpaid pledges to the budget amount to as much as the deficit and it is expected that all claims will be met in full as usual. Sunday, October 17, was set as final "Pay-Up Day," at which time it is hoped every claim will be met and the pastor given plenty of time to complete his report before the sitting of the Annual Conference.

Brother Taylor announced that a special program of services was being prepared for the Sundays in October and further announcements will be made from time to time. Next Sunday is Rally Day and the election of all church and Sunday school officers will be held. A large attendance of the membership is urgently requested to transact this part of the business of the church.

Since our last writing death has entered the home of one of our new members. Mr. Paul Lewis, son of Mrs. A. P. Cates, died suddenly in Toledo, where he was engaged in work, and his body was brought to Burlington. The funeral service was conducted from the home on last Monday by Brother Taylor, after which his body was taken to Greensboro for interment in Green Hill Cemetery. The sympathy of the congregation goes out to Mrs. Cates in her bereavement. REPORTER.

September 20.

Dulin's, Mocksville Charge.—Our work is moving along very well, although we are behind with our pastor's salary, but hope to be paid up in full by the close of the Conference year.

We hope that Conference will send Brother Sisk back to us for another year. He didn't fill his appointment yesterday. He is helping Brother Love in a revival meeting at Kernersville.

Rev. F. M. Furr, a young man from Concord, filled his appointment with a splendid sermon. We would be delighted to have him come this way again.

There will be a Home-Coming Day held at this church the first Sunday in October. We would be glad to have all former pastors to worship with us that day and anyone else who may be interested.

The Fourteenth District Rally will be held at Union Chapel October 2; also, the quarterly meeting will be held in the afternoon.

At the third quarterly meeting Brother Sain was elected delegate to go to Annual Conference. REPORTER.

Saint Paul.—We began our special meeting on the first Sunday in this month, and closed on Wednesday night after second Sunday. Brother S. W. Taylor, of Burlington, came to us on Monday night after the first, and did all the preaching until the close, except one sermon preached by Brother T. A. Williams. Brother Taylor's preaching brought joy and uplift to all who heard him prayerfully. Truly, he is one of our very best preachers; he believes what he preaches and preaches what he believes with demonstration and power. Brother Taylor endeared himself to both pastor and people.

We had a good meeting from start to finish, the church was greatly revived, and a goodly number came forward and renewed their covenant. There were also a number of professions of faith, and up to this date five have given their names to join the church, and we think others will do likewise.

J. H. MOTON.

Charlotte Church.—First Methodist Protestant church Charlotte will be dedicated first Sunday in October, 11:00 a.m. Dr. A. G. Dixon will deliver the sermon. All our friends are invited and especially all former pastors.

Rally Day service will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening of the same day.

H. FREO SURRATT, Pastor.

Rockingham.—The Sunday school on September 19 was very helpful and enjoyable. The classes met in their respective rooms for the business part; then returned in the main hall without going into the lesson. There in the hall Mrs. Dixon delivered a fine sermon to the children. It was very, very helpful to them as well as to the older ones. There were nine, if no more, of the children that confessed Christ as their Savior in this morning meeting. We had 93 members present besides the visitors. The collection was $8.46.

Dr. and Mrs. Dixon have been with us every since Wednesday night, September 15, in a revival meeting and they will remain with us a few days longer. The writer feels that there is and is going to be a great revival as we all hoped and prayed. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon have delivered to us some very fine and helpful sermons. There have been, from Thursday the 16th until Sunday 19th, thirty-nine, if no more, that have stepped out and confessed Christ as their personal Savior. We hope before this meeting closes we will have a great many more. We are just now beginning to get into it. It takes a little while to get into a revival as we should. The "Girls' Christian Club," and the "Boys' Prayer Circle," have been meeting every night, just before the regular hour for service, for a consecrated prayer for courage and for the meeting as a whole. We are glad to say we have the cooperation of some of the members from other churches which is a great help.

The little children met for a Bible Study Sunday afternoon just before the three o'clock service. BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Mebane.—Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock Rev. D. R. Williams of Graham brought us an interesting message, Dr. Johnson being at the Graham church in a revival meeting.

Sunday evening a class of children from our Children's Home gave a delightful program. We are always glad to have these children come. Mr. Lowdermilk gave us some pleasing facts about the home and also brought us some of its needs. The offering taken at this time amounted to $26.00. We are holding our revival meeting this week with Rev. N. G. Bethea as pulpit help. We are hoping much good may be accomplished.

Monday evening, September 13, at 7:30 the W. H. M. S. and W. F. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Wes Jobe; very good attendance. At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Jobe served ice cream and cake. Yesterday (Monday) afternoon the Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Fletcher Smith, with a good attendance. At this meeting special prayers were offered in behalf of two of our members, who are sick, Mrs. W. D. Fogleman and Mrs. J. M. Kennedy.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Smith served sandwiches and tea. Our Missionary and Ladies' Aid societies are doing splendid work and we hope our interest may increase.

REPORTER.

ATTENTION TO AN ARTICLE

No one would expect even every subscriber to read everything that is printed in the Herald.

But I want to call our attention to an article on page 2 in the issue of September 16, and ask those who read it to look it up and read it again carefully, and those who did not read it to look up the paper and read it again and again. Every intelligent member of the Methodist Protestant church in North Carolina will agree that the young people of our church have been and are still being woefully neglected and we need not be surprised that so many of them have drifted and are still drifting into other churches. Especially those who move from the rural districts into the cities and towns.

Put yourself in their places just a little while.

And now I wonder how many of the members of the Methodist Protestant church in the North Carolina conference read any of our church papers. There was a time not long ago when in one of our churches every family received every week one or more of our own church papers. I wonder how many there are who never saw or maybe never heard of the Herald.

R. F. WILLIAMS.

Greensboro, N. C.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Bowman

"Howe'er it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good;
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood."

Miss Millie L. Bowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Bowman, was born near Tabernacle church, in Guilford county, on August 19, 1866, and passed away at the Children's Home on August 3, 1926, lacking just sixteen days of attaining the age of 60 years. The child of pious and godly parents, it was small wonder that she gave her heart to God when quite young, and began to teach in the Sabbath school at an early age. She attended the public schools of her neighborhood, was a student at Mt. Pleasant High School, and attended Pleasant Lodge Academy for some time. She afterwards taught in the schools of Guilford county for several years.

From childhood she was greatly interested in the Bible, studied it thoroughly because she loved it, and showed her love by obeying its teachings. "For what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." This was the rule and law of her life. She had an intense interest and zeal for Missions, and was instrumental in organizing both Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies at her home church, Pleasant Union. Many young men and women today are indebted to her for their religious training and spiritual experience.

In January, 1915, she came to the Children's Home as assistant matron and teacher of the Bible. A great lover of little children, her chief delight was in teaching them the truths of the Holy Book and the way of salvation. She gave a Bible to every boy and girl of the Home family who is old enough to read, and paid for them from her own small salary. She helped to support a Bible woman in India, contributing one-half of her expenses for several years. She was herself a great Home Missionary, and devoted the closing years of her life to the Children's Home and the welfare of its inmates. She patiently drilled the children, and all who have heard the programs rendered by them in public, can attest to the thoroughness of her teaching.

Impressive funeral rites were conducted in the spacious hall of the Home on the afternoon of August 4th, and Pres. A. G. Dixon, her pastor, Dr. Geo. R. Brown, the former Superintendent, Mr. H. A. Garrett, and the present Superintendent, Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, with whom she was closely associated in work for several years, made talks and each paid high tributes to the excellence of her character and the deep devotion of her life to her Lord and Master. It was a touching scene when the motherless and fatherless children filed reverently past her bier, and looked with moist eyes for the last time upon the peaceful face of their teacher and benefactor.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

Her body was taken to the home of her brother, Mr. W. A. Bowman, where it rested for a night, the final funeral services being conducted at Pleasant Union, the church of her childhood and young womanhood, and the body was laid to rest in the cemetery there beside her parents and other loved ones on Thursday. The following Sunday as her brother, Rev. J. H. Bowman, was on his way to begin a special series of meetings at one of his charges, Bonlee, he suffered a severe stroke of heart disease, and expired at the steering-wheel of his car. Truly "they were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in death they were not divided."

BLANCH A. PICKENS.

Gibson

George G. Gibson, a faithful and devoted member of the West Lexington Methodist Protestant Church, was born July 25, 1853. He died September 15, 1926. In early life he joined the Methodist Protestant Church to which he was faithful, loyal and devoted until the one whom he served saw fit to call him from his labor in this world to be with Him.

Brother Gibson was twice married. The first time to Margarette Loftin. God blessed these good people with four children, two boys and two girls three of which are still living. Brother W. C. Gibson and Brother R. H. Gibson both of whom are faithful members of the West Lexington Church and hold important positions with the Dacota Cotton Mill in South Lexington, and Mrs. Frank Miller of South Lexington. Brother Gibson had been in declining health for a number of weeks, but was improving rapidly and for a while it was thought that he would again be able to attend Sunday school and church. It was my privilege to see and talk with him on the porch of his home the last time I saw him and with deep regret I learned of his sudden death. He was always faithful and a regular attendant upon all services at his church until his health became such that it would not permit it. His sudden death should be a warning to those who are left behind to mourn because of his going and to every one that God causes the brittle thread of life to break when we think not. Brother Gibson preached his own funeral sermon in the life he lived and we who still live have the comforting assurance that he fell asleep in this world to awake in Heaven. He leaves to mourn for him besides his three children thirteen grand-children and sixteen great-grand-children.

In the absence of the writer the funeral was conducted at West Lexington, Methodist Protestant Church by Rev. N. G. Bethea, pastor of State Street Church, Rev. C. B. Way and Rev. J. R. McGregor, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lexington. Interment was in Shiloh cemetery of which church Brother Gibson was at once a member. The large number of people and beautiful floral offering showed the esteem that our friend and brother was held in and his many friends mourn their loss in his going. May they be comforted and so live that noble Christian life as he lived.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD.

—Dr. F. C. S. Schiller of England, the famous humanist, by many considered the great man of Oxford University, has been secured as a member of the faculty in philosophy of the University of Southern California for the fall quarter. Dr. Schiller has until his recent resignation been head of Corpus Christi College. He is the second English philosopher to be brought to the Los Angeles institution through the efforts of Professor Ralph Tyler Flewelling of the department of philosophy, the other being Dr. H. Wildon Carr of London University, who has now joined the permanent faculty of the university. That this branch of study is popular in Los Angeles is indicated by the fact that in 1924-'25 the registration in philosophy totaled 938. The enrollment this past year was smaller owing to the absence of Dr. Flewelling, who has been taking his sabbatic year.

December 5 has been designated by the American Bible Society as Universal Bible Sunday. The topic this year, as announced by the Society, will be "The Voice and the Book," or the spoken and the printed Word. Special free literature, which includes a brochure written by Mr. Willard Price, has been prepared by the Society for use on this occasion.

The revival meeting will begin at Shady Grove Church September 26.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER

PLATED WARE :: CHINA

CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

ODELL'S

INCORPORATED

Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS

For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES

SELF-PRONOUNCING

Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.

Send for Illustrated Catalog

THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers

American Bible Headquarters

85 Winston Building Philadelphia

After wondering thousands of years how to fix their hair, women finally decided to cut it off.—Norfolk Post.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVE[illegible]HRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N. C., SEPTEMBER 30, 1926 NUMBER 46

Pres Elderdive Sdech
Westminster MD

Saving and Unsaving Faith

We were recently called upon to visit a dying man who had said of himself that he had tried to do the best he could, but somehow he didn't feel satisfied. That testimony of his suggested the thought that he was a believer in salvation by works. There was no mention of Jesus Christ as a ground of hope. If he was looking merely to his own life, of course he could not be satisfied. Who could? Where is there a man or a woman with a perfect record? There can be no assured hope of eternal salvation apart from faith in Jesus Christ. There is no other name given under heaven among men whereby we must be saved. We must be saved by Him if saved at all. It is not faith that saves but faith in Christ. Really it is Christ that saves and faith merely brings us to Him for salvation. By grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God. It is through grace, unmerited favor, that a way of salvation is provided, and it is through the providence of God that the evidence has come to us that makes it possible to believe to the saving of our souls. God does not compel the faith, but He makes it possible and we must believe for ourselves in order that we may come into possession and enjoyment of the promised salvation.

But from the Scriptures we learn that there are two varieties of faith, faith that saves and faith that disappoints. In His sermon on the mount near the conclusion of it Jesus said, "He that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them shall be likened to a man that built his house on a rock; and he that heareth and doeth not shall be likened unto a man that built his house on the sand. James tells us that faith without works is dead. Even Paul, the great expounder of the doctrine of justification by faith, takes pains in his letter to the Romans to show the fallacy of continuing in sin because salvation is by grace. He says:

"Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness. . . . . For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. . . . . But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Jesus tells us that many shall come to Him in the day of rewards professing to have done wonderful things in His name, but He will say unto them, "Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity; I never knew you."

So we see that expectation of salvation through Christ may lead to bitter and everlasting disappointment. There is a faith that saves, but it is not a reliance based on nothing more than the great goodness and mercy of God. It is a trust in Christ that leads to love and obedience; it is a sympathy with Jesus that brings one to share his effort to bring men into harmony with God, the Righteous One. Saving faith is inconsistent with a sinful life. The man who is not striving after righteousness in his life cannot claim to possess saving faith in Christ. He may sometimes fail of perfect righteousness, but he will deeply regret his failures and try and try again. And he will realize as he sincerely tries to live the righteous life that the power of Christ is within him, helping him to walk uprightly. From mere righteousness of life he will pass on to benevolence in his living, being a true son of God. Saving faith has very manifest effects in the present life and may be recognized by all that possess it. Examine yourselves to see whether yours is the saving faith.

The Heavenly Host

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow,
Praise Him, all creatures here below;
Praise Him above, ye heavenly host:
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

The author of this doxology rises to the highest height of sublimity when he calls upon the heavenly host to join in singing the praises of God. It is a great call when it is addressed to "all creatures here below." How greatly must the spirit of praise be extended before the call is heeded. But the writer turns from the great multitude of earthly creatures, thankful and unthankful, and directs his exhortation to the heavenly host. How immensely different from any earthly congregation is this heavenly host. What an innumerable company it is. There are myriads and myriads of angels, the glorious spirits of God's early creation who have always kept their first estate. Then there are the spirits of just men made perfect, spirits that have come up from the earth and been admitted to the heavenly society. There are millions and millions of them. What a great host they alone would make. Then we must suppose that other worlds of God besides the earth have made contributions to the heavenly host. Of all the countless worlds that swing in space, is our little planet the only one that is inhabited by creatures capable of praising God? It does not seem probable. Jesus said, In my Father's house there are many mansions, many dwelling places. If earth's inhabitants are admitted to the heavenly host, will not the inhabitants of other worlds also be admitted? Probability seems largely in favor of the supposition. The heavenly host is a cosmopolitan multitude.

Then think of the character of those making up this great host. Among them are spirits of profound intelligence, spirits capable of looking into the deep things of God. Among them are angels that have served as the messengers of God in the most important affairs between God and His creatures. Some of them have come to earth with messages of hope for the race of men. Gabriel is there, Michael is there, and all those who have spoken for God to any of the sons or daughters of men.

Moses and Elias are part of that heavenly host. Abel is there, Stephen is there, Peter and Paul and John and all the

(Continued on Page Five)

OUR COUNTRY CHARGES

By Rev. R. C. Stubbins

There are 230 organized churches in our conference. We have 15 city churches, 16 large town churches, 24 small town churches, and the remaining 175 are in the open country.

The open country churches have an average of 127 members to each church. If we could so arrange these churches into two-church charges, with 254 members to the charge we would need 87 1-2 ministers to serve them. We believe we can find the one half minister, but where are the eighty and seven?

Suppose we could supply these country churches in this way and they would pay an average of ten dollars per member—it would pay pastor $1800 and $740. conference claims. Could and would the people on these country charges pay that much? It is an undisputed fact that there is very little money cleared on the farm at present. For a country member to pay the average ten dollars would not be so easy as for the member in towns or city, but we have seen that when a country member gets a fair amount of service and attention he will "be there with the goods" when it comes to paying.

Suppose again that we cannot supply the 175 country churches divided into two church charges for lack of ministers to serve them—what would you do? Another remedy could be this. Instead of dividing the 175 churches into two church charges and not be able to supply them, we might consolidate some for better and more service—as the schools have done. If we could make four churches into two we would then have 44 charges in the country with an average membership of 508. If these would pay as above averaged it would be $5080. Enough to pay a pastor $2000; a trained worker $1500; and $1580 conference claims. One might think at a glance that this cannot be done, but we know it can. Give people in the country a service every Sunday and one half the attention given to city churches—and that's what a two church charge would mean—and they will quickly and easily pay the average ten dollars per member. We have a charge that is not more than average in wealth and they pay considerably over that. Of course the matter of consolidation could be made stronger by putting five churches into two and so on—you can work that out for yourself. There are other plans for better arrangements of country charge, one of which is known as "The Larger Parish." It is the uniting of two or more circuits into one charge and the charge being served by two or more pastors. Each man a specialist along some line of ministerial service. This permits larger programs and the use of many conveniences that a smaller charge could not afford. Such a plan has proven very successful with many denominations.

None of the above plans or suggestions would work greater hardship on the members, but would lighten them on many and at the same time give more than double service to every church member.

These things cannot all be worked out in a day or a year, but they can be begun now and advance carefully toward what we believe will be a great day for the country church.

The regrouping of our cuntry churches would not mean "moving to town" as some would think, but would be worked out by the mutual agreement of all the people on the charge and the committee of the Annual Conference.

The time has come that if we expect to get much out of the country churches we must put much into them. We too often figure on "our large strong country membership" and what they ought to do, but fail to consider that a rich field poorly cultivated will not yield as much on a poor field intensively cultivated. Our aim is to see that these country charges are brought to the front where they may be served and cared for in the best possible way and then we may expect to see the rural charges serving the denomination and the kingdom with greatly multiplied spiritual and financial power and in fluence.

FINDING THE REAL CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

By Georgia Robertson

You threw down your newspaper in despair. On page after page murders, robberies, holdups and other crimes; some of them committed by mere youths, until you were heartsick.

Did you stop to think of the cause of the increase in crime? Did you try to find the motives back of the thefts and robberies? Do you realize we are today living in a luxurious age; that there is a lavish expenditure of money not only by the wealthy but by many others. The great mass of our people demand luxuries that even two generations ago the rich did not have. Expensive clothing, furs, diamonds, costly house furnishings, clubs, dinner and theater parties, radios, and automobiles are demanded by the great mass of our young people just starting out in life.

Have you ever thought of the tremendous appeal of the fascinating shop windows? There never was a time in our history when so much that is ardently desired was to be had if only one possessed the means to buy! This has increased the desire for money, and more money. Have you thought of the determination in the minds of many to secure these things, if not by fair means then by sharp practices just within the law, or failing this then by illegal means? Have you thought of the effect the piling up of enormous fortunes by questionable means that crushed out all competitors, or that took unfair advantage of others or of the government has had in dulling the moral tone of the country and made dishonesty seem less hideous.

Have you thought how the easy procuring of fire arms by the unscrupulous aided crime? Only an order through the mails necessary! The telephone, the automobile and the acetylene torch have made burglaries and holdups a hundred times easier to accomplish, and escape easy. When captured, the long delay before trial offers ways of escape, and if convicted the prison term is shortened by good behavior. Under such conditions the prize to be won and the thrill seem to many worth the risk.

While there has been an increase in church membership during the last 30 years it has not kept pace with the growth of population. There has been a general breaking down of the family altar, and the blessing at table discontinued. Certainly the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," is openly disregarded even by church-going people, who make of the day a time of entertaining, of week-end auto trips, and attendance at lectures, concerts and movies. They think nothing of making unnecessary purchases of gasoline, and many other things on Sunday or of spending a large part of the day cleaning, tinkering over the family automobile. Children are constantly sent to the store for supplies on Sunday. Is it strange there is disregard for man-made laws when the laws of God are openly violated by the majority of respectable people of the community?

We hear much of immoral conditions among high school boys and girls. Remember joy rides and parked automobiles have greatly increased the opportunity for evil practices among them. Is modern dress, or lack of it, not responsible for some of the evil? Is the abominable jazz music (imported from the under-world) and the indecent modern dance, and the objectionable movies responsible for some of it?

Is not the present day apartment house with no place for the young people to entertain their friend without father or mother sitting by ready later to criticize the foolish but innocent remarks another cause for the young people to spend their evenings away from home, often in questionable surroundings? Is not the lack of religious training, and the lack of high ideals and conduct on the part of parents also responsible?

How many of the younger generation of today can say as did Calvin Coolidge the other day in referring to his father, "I cannot recall that I ever knew of his doing a wrong thing." "He always stuck to the truth." What a tribute, and what an inspiration for any son!

Some young people in every generation have "gone wrong," and there will continue to be those who will, until better conditions for child nurture and spiritual training prevail. It takes good material and expert workmen to turn out a perfect watch, auto, or other piece of intricate workmanship. It takes a trained gardener or florist to produce vegetables and flowers perfect of their kind and entirely free from imperfections and blight. It takes a high grade of parents to produce and rear noble, fine boys and girls. They need not be possessed of much in worldly goods, indeed observation would indicate they are rather a hindrance when looking to the early homes of our truly great men. But think you a mother lacking in high Christian principles could have sent forth an Abraham Lincoln? Think you a frivolous, shallow, selfish, worldly woman, and a father utterly and completely absorbed in business or pleasure will ever have sons and daughters distinguished for nobleness of character and splendid deeds?

How many children today are receiving even proper physical care? "Statistics show that 70 per cent of our school children have either physical or mental defects." "That 60 per cent of all men and women in America over the age of 40 years are suffering from constitutional disease." Look at the teeth of our school children. How could nature build strong, sound teeth without calcium, phosphorous, iron and vitamines. These are not to be had at the drug store, they were in our foods before they were taken out to make bigger profits for the dealers by making foods keep longer so they could be indefinitely stored on the dealers' shelves. So for the last 60 years we have had roller process flour with the essential minerals and roughage all taken out and denatured cereals, and our consumption of refined devitalized sugar and its products have increased enormously in the same time. These are both acid formers in the system, and they destroy the alkaline balance that we now know is so essential to health. Then these minerals in our vegetables are also destroyed by cooking and are dissolved in the water that is poured down the kitchen sink, leaving the vegetables insipid and tasteless as well as devitalized.

The cigarette habit which injures the lungs, heart, brain, nerves, blood vessels, kidneys and liver has increased appallingly. It also deadens the higher instincts and true sense of honor.

Our people in the last generation have been crowding into the cities with their deadly auto gases and stifling smoke-laden air, nerve destroying rush and interminable noise, and they are physically and mentally unable to cope with the situation that confronts them, neither have they the Christian character and stamina nor the physical fitness to adjust themselves to present day conditions. We are still in the wake of the World War, and always war has been followed by a period of lower moral standards.

In the light of all these facts are you willing to believe as some would have you, that prohibition caused the increase in crime we see today? Prohibition or no prohibition, the stage was all set for the crime wave that has come and many factors entered into its preparation, as we have just seen. The poll that was taken in last May and June in many of our colleges showed a majority, and some instances an overwhelming majority in favor of the Volstead Act, and the 18th Amendment. Beer and wine cause inefficiency thereby increasing cost of production and the price of articles to the consumer. Industry will never again tolerate the return of alcoholic liquors. The working man was never so well off as today, never enjoyed so many luxuries. Think you he would willingly give them up for beer and wine? No indeed! It is those who profit through the drink traffic, and a few idle rich who want its return. Do your duty to your God, your country and your children by voting dry this fall.

HISTORICAL

We heard Rev. E. H. D., pastor of the M. E. Church, South, at Rockingham, in a sermon say: "I was reading in a historical book on Methodism the other day"—I do not remember the name of he book—"of Rev. Peter Doub's preaching three hours on sanctification at Pleasant Garden, N. C. Rev. Peter Doub was contemporary with Rev. Alson Gray, D. D., of the M. P. Church. We never knew Rev. Peter Doub, but we have known his home neighborhood and church, Doub's Chapel, in Forsyth county, N. C., within the bounds of our own Forsyth Circuit, near Pleasant Hill, now of West Forsyth.

The historical statement to which the Rockingham pastor referred in his sermon shows two things: That long sermons were not barred in those days, and that "santification" (entire, we suppose), was not an unusual subject of discourse in those days for Methodist preachers. Peter Doub was a strong man in his day, and so was Alson Gray. We never knew Peter Doub, as above said, but knew Alson Gray. We used to hear a number of traditions about Peter Doub in his home section. We've heard that Peter Doub and Alson Gray had a spirited debate, or discussion, at a certain time. Alson Gray was at first an M. E. So was Rev. A. W. Lineberry, D. D. Both were strong men, strong preachers. Were Alson Gray alive today, the Modernist would be likely to "take to tall timber" before his merciless onslaughts. He gave no quarter to sin nor false doctrine. He was not a "scholar" of the modern type, but he knew God and the Bible—a master theologian—and fear he did not know. His sermons at times were as a cyclone of fire. Sinners would fall as dead men under his preaching, cry for mercy and be saved. Why was this? Why do we not see such things today? Alson Gray believed the Bible and knew God. His sermons were explanations and proclamations of the Word, and not discussions nor criticisms of it. He had convictions. He believed, therefore he spoke. The people listened, they felt, they feared, they quaked. His sermons were not flowers, nor beautiful imagery, but sharp swords that pierced and cut. You say, "Times have changed." The style of preaching has changed. But God, His Word, sin, and human nature have not changed. A line of men carrying beautiful bouquets of flowers would never have broken the Hindenburg line, and it is just as impossible to carry the strongholds of sin and satan by flowers of rhetoric, nice inanities, discussions, doubts, and quibbles. This but makes the devil laugh, like the "young sauce-box" up the old man's apple tree, when he threw grass at him. But when he pelted him with stones he came down. And it takes stones of truth and faith, and not flowers, and discussions, and quibbles, and doubts to bring the devil down. Alson Gray used stones. So did Jesus in the wilderness.

We heard an old brother in Orange county, some 20 years ago, speaking of the camp-meetings of other days, say that he heard Joseph Causey, whom we used to know, preach two hours on Sunday afternoon, at Mt. Hermon camp-meeting; one hour in the "stand," and one in the aisles, and 20 were converted under that sermon that Sunday afternoon. Long sermons in those days did not "kill the meetin'." Neither do they now, if they are of the kind that holds the people. We remember hearing Evangelist R. A. Pearson of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, preach four times at Tarboro, N. C., in 1889. And at each service, in making his announcements, just before reading his text, he would say, "I'll preach one hour," with emphasis on the "one hour." And he did. We timed him each time. And this writer did not tire, nor any one else, so far as we saw or heard. The tabernacle was packed and jammed at each service, with doors closed at the beginning of the sermon, and policemen saw that there was no "racking in and out" by any one, without absolute need. And you could have heard a "pin drop," as the saying is, during that 60 minutes, had there not been sawdust on the floor. But he preached the Word. He did not rant, nor scream, nor vociferate, nor cut up any antics, "didos," whatever they are, nor "monkey shines." He even wore a long-tailed coat, that some of our modern, cheap—not in cash sometimes—evangelistic "lambastics" are delighted to make merry over and denounce. It does not take any extra amount of brains nor piety to do this latter named thing, but it does require quite an amount of both to make a real, sensible preacher.

When R. A. Pearson passed away a few years ago the Charlotte Observer said, editorially, that Pearson's meeting of some 40 years ago, was the most solid, permanent and abiding of any of the special meetings held in Charlotte. He was a preacher of the Word, a believer of the Word and a scholarly man also. But his scholarly attainments had not weakened his faith in God nor His Word.

Who ever knew of a Modernist to do the work of a Pearson, a Gray, a Torrey, a Moody, a Spurgeon, a Billy Sunday, a Ham, or a Jim Green? The Modernist is so intent on searching for "motes" and specks in the Bible, and proclaiming what he does not believe, that he has no time to get sinners saved, even if he knew how to do this. But this the poor man does not seem to know.

Nearly 60 years ago we heard an aunt of hours telling our mother in a naive, matter-of-fact manner, of a certain young man in the Climax, N. C., community, near Bethlehem M. E. church, fasting and praying and seeking "sanctification." In later days we learned to know this same young man, after he became an effective minister of the Gospel, noted for his piety and spirituality. And it was a subject of common remark that this same man who fasted and prayed for the fullness of the Spirit, preferred to be assigned to the missions and weaker fields of labor. We also learned to know his father and mother. His mother was an old-time shouting Methodist. We heard of no controversy in those days, 50 and 60 years ago, on entire sanctification as we have heard of it in the last 25 or 30. If persons spoke about it, it was in that artless, simple, unaffected manner in which they spoke of other Christian doctrines and experiences, as the aunt did of Mr. C. Methodists were supposed to believe in these things 50 years ago. Not that everybody believed these things, nor realized these experiences. But these things were taken for granted as belonging to Methodism. They caused no disturbances. Nearly 51 years ago, to be exact, we heard a good Quaker brother at a prayer meeting in New Salem Quaker church speak about the "second blessing." We had been a member of the church but a few months, and listened eagerly to all he had to say. We do not remember a word he said, but we remember that we saw nothing to question. All he said seemed perfectly reasonable and scriptural as he set it forth. If anyone questioned him, I never heard of it. There were noisy extravagances in the meeting that night, but a deep, full spiritual tide that at times overflowed in spontaneous laughter of joy in the Holy Spirit. Those were gracious days.

In these days when anything of the above kind is set forth, it is too often in a light, superficial, jesting, semi-boastful manner. This we regret. It is often painful to us. But in those days a half century ago, the tide, as on the night above referred to, was "too full for sound and foam." Oh, that we could keep from cold, dead conventionalism form on the one hand, and superficial, empty noisiness, froth and foam on the other!

As to long sermons, we heard Rev. Charles Phillips, (Uncle Charlie) preach two hours, at Bethlehem camp meeting, over 40 years ago, and it was all good. Perhaps some got a little "tired," but it did not "kill the meetin'." We are not contending for long sermons nor short sermons, but these facts show that if a man is "fillled with the Spirit" and has something to say, the people do not tire. Why is it that lawyers in the courthouse, and politicians on the "stump" can speak for hours, whose message is not as vital as the preacher's, without special criticism?

We've seen criticisms of Paul's preaching so long on one occasion. But see the contrast in result of Paul's preaching and his little superficial critics. Paul's influence is as potent today as it was 19 hundred years ago, and will continue to the end, while his little critics soon pass into oblivion. Of course, a man must have something to say, and believe what he says, and quit when he gets out of anything to say. Use common-sense and discretion. What we are condemning is that morbid notion that a sermon—anything else can be as long as the speaker elects—must just be so long (short) and no longer. Some fools—who have never preached—seem to think a sermon can be stopped just at any time, like measuring cloth. But all sermons are not like joint-snakes, be broken off at just anywhere, but are a unity, and cannot be stopped before finished without loss. Like leaving a house without roof, or one story lacking, when another is contemplated.

We think it a mistake for the preacher at the beginning of his discourse to look at the clock, and begin to apologize for preaching before he begins. This just sets the people to looking at the clock, and expecting a sermonette, as Bishop Pierce used to say. Pierce, one of the strong men of Methodism, used to say, "These little sermonettes are killing the church." By starvation, we presume. We've noticed, as a rule, strong men are not afraid to preach 40, 45, and 60 minutes, and longer, if occasion requires. J. F. DOSIER.

DR. J. C. BROOMFIELD'S RECENT ADDRESS AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE

During the past 20 years I have made frequent visits to this section of North Carolina, and have kept in touch with the phenomenal development of our church interests here. This growth has been a great joy to me personally, and an inspiration to our whole denomination. As I have gone in and out among our churches and conferences, I have not hesitated to say to them that you folks in North Carolina were building in your midst a new hub for Methodist Protestantism. Your virility, your optimism, your daring, and your achievement have been refreshing, and unparalleled in our church life. The one word that seems to me to explain, not only our growth in these parts, but also the marvelous growth of your cities and towns and villages, and industries, is the word investment. The folks here seem to be obsessed with the idea of making investments. All eyes are turned in that direction. The air is full of it, and the visitor hasn't time to get his bearings before he has it thrust upon him.

I am here today to call your attention to an investment that is simon-pure, non-fluctuating, guaranteed, and really worth while—and that investment is your own College, within whose walls we meet today.

It has been said that "Distance lends enchantment." I am wondering if it is possible that High Point College, if moved 500 miles away, would make a stronger appeal to you than it does today. Are you looking for diamonds elsewhere, when your own acres here are full of them?

The latest conclusion of the leaders in the educational world, and of those who are directing the great educational foundations, is that the small college, with about 300 students, is the ideal school for the academic training of young men and women. Thus you have planned here, better than you knew.

Allow me to congratulate you on what I am seeing here. After only three years you have more to show here in your equipment and student body than some of our schools that have been operating for a half century.

Knowing our denominational schools as I do, I do not know of one whose location can compare with yours, and whose outlook promises more for the future.

I beseech you to awake to your wonderful opportunity to glorify God, and bless the generation that now is, and the generations that are to come.

There are four things I would have you do, beginning with this very hour. First, think your College up. The position of any college is determined by the place it occupies in the thoughts of its friends.

Second, talk your College up. God has endowed us with the instinct to want to climb on the "band-wagon." Nobody wants to board a sinking ship; even the rats will scamper ashore. Talk success and success is yours.

Third, pray your College up. This is a church college; this is a christian institution, born in prayer, and nurtured thus far in the prayers of God's people.

Fourth, pay your College up. Talk may be cheap, and thinking may be cheaper, but money counts. Here is a chance to make a financial investment that will be paying dividends in developed leadership for the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina, and the kingdom of God throughout the world, long after you are dead and gone. In all of this I am not overlooking the difficulties in your situation here, and I would be the last man in the world to ask you, ostrich-like, to stick your head in the sand, and say there is no danger. You have a man's job on your hands, and if you hadn't, I couldn't afford to be here. A man's job is a challenge to your strength, or an occasion for despair.. "The only difference between the possible and the impossible is that the impossible takes a little longer." "When you say a thing is impossible watch somebody do it."

A few days ago, when I stood before the monument, erected in front of the Union Depot in Washington, D. C., in honor of Columbus, I read these words: "Erected in memory of Columbus, whose high faith and indomitable courage gave to mankind a new world." Then I thought of his "high faith" in the truth he believed concerning the shape of the world, and his "high faith" in himself as the one called of God to sail West. Knowing that faith without works is dead, he added to his faith "indomitable courage;" and with this combination he triumphed over poverty, skepticism, uncharted seas and mutiny, "giving to mankind a new world.."

This combination always wins. These two elements, blended in Abraham, founded a nation and established a religion; in Gideon they defeated an enemy and saved a people; in Daniel they won a premiership and provided a challenge for the ages; and in Paul they developed a church, and directed the thought of the world.

These two elements, "high faith and indomitable courage," were rampant here eight years ago, and as a result you poured your wealth lavishly into the lap of Uncle Sam, and you sent your sons to the battlefield in his defense. How nobly they served, and how nobly you backed them up! You said, "There is not a drop of blood in my veins, nor a dollar of money in my possession, but what if they are needed to win the war Uncle Sam can have them."

I plead for a similar devotion to your College here. Rejoicing in its present, recognizing its immediate problems, and with high faith in its future, I challenge you, with indomitable courage to stand by your College.

The Heavenly Host

(Continued from Page One)

Christian martyrs, besides millions of lesser note among the departed sons of men. O, it is a glorious company, and what a privilege it will be for you to be admitted to its ranks and join in the everlasting song of praise to our God. Can any journey be too long or too hard that leads to that great throng of happy spirits?

DENOMINATIONAL ENTERPRISES

TIME TO RESUME

Reports of the prosperous condition of the church as reflected in the reports submitted to the Annual Conferences which have already met, and in the plans adopted by them for the ensuing year are very heartening.

It indicates that our pastors and people are imbued with the purpose to rightly manifest their devotion to the Lord Jesus, and their loyalty to the church of their choice.

Surely, then, a hearty welcome will be accorded the agency duly authorized to broadcast information, to stimulate interest, to enlist cooperation in one of the great departments of our denomination, as well as help every local church that accepts its aid freely offered.

It becomes more and more a necessity in these times to overcome as quickly as possible the falling off in church attendance and the consequent marked reduction in activities and contributions, which occur in so many places during the summer, and something more than the ordinarily slow resumption is called for.

The insistent demands upon us, after vacation is over, to promptly return to our regular daily tasks, by which life's necessities and comforts are secured, are fully recognized and met.

There is no uncertainty as to the time to resume our work, for vacation is brief, specified, limited, and its expiration means duties and labors must be resumed at its close.

To counterbalance that, to be as responsive and prompt, to have a general, united participation in the resumption of public worship, Bibblical instruction, and all other phases of the work of our local churches, it has been found highly advantageous to designate an approximate date when our people throughout the denomination, shall meet at the altars of their churches, in the Sunday schools, the Missionary Societies, the C. E. Societies and all other organizations and start to do anew what they vowed they would do when they joined the church.

In order to make the day one of notable significance, of decided value, and to use the opportunity presented by a large number present it is planned to spread abroad much information of our Colleges, Seminary, and the work of helping young men to prepare for the ministry, and to direct aspiring young people to make determined efforts to get an education in one of our own schools, since the General Conferenee authorized the observance of Rally Day, and assigned to the Board of Education the duty of publishing and distributing to our churches, free of cost, a suitable service.

Its Secretary, Rev. Dr. F. W. Stephenson, has prepared an excellent service for this year, and samples were sent out and orders have been coming in at a gratifying rate.

But every school should order the supplies from him at 613 West Diamond, N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa., and hold a service, and make the largest possible offering, for there is now great need of funds.

The offering will count on your church's budget, and you thus will help your church and our institutions by holding a Rally Day service. Send in your order today to Rev. F. W. Stephenson, as above.

Yours for a greater church, FRED C. KLEIN.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ITEMS

The Adrian College campaign committee with President H. L. Feeman as campaign director, has set up its offices in the Publishing building in Pittsburgh, 613 West Diamond Street. Rev. Roy I. Farmer has resigned the pastorate at Steubenville and will devote his entire time to the work of the campaign. Miss Bertha Larsen, of Chicago, is also in the field for this purpose, devoting her efforts to interesting the women of the Adrian area in the cause of Christian Education. In a recent communication to the pastors, Dr. Feeman says: "This campaign is a life and death issue for both the church and the college. So far its promise of success has grown constantly brighter and bigger."

Dr. Elderdice informs us that the Seminary has opened with a larger class than expected. Ministerial students from other denominations are coming each year in increasing numbers, indicating that the school is having a widening reputation and being recognized more and more as one of the best.

The Adrian College-Methodist Recorder campaign has closed. In order to carry their candidates to a certain victory. Michigan and Pittsburgh Conferences, at their recent sessions took time to secure subscriptions. Pittsburgh pastors and delegates pledged themselves for a sufficient number to reach the goal, while Michigan made a splendid gain. Miss Anna Starr took the matter in hand for Illinois and at last reports the required number had been almost reached. All but one are now in Adrian.

The orders for Rally Day programs have been coming in steadily from all parts of the church. So far as we are able to determine, the record is as follows:

Maryland	75	Illinois	4
Ohio	54	Colorado-Texas	2
Indiana	32	South Carolina	2
North Carolina	22	Missouri	2
Eastern	21	Georgia	1
Michigan	17	Ft. Smith-Okla.	1
Pittsburgh	14	Alabama	1
Onondaga	12	Texas	2
Kansas	9	Georgia (Colored)	1
West Virginia	8	Arkansas	1
Iowa-Missouri	7

The number of orders received is ahead of two years ago but not quite equal to those received to this date last year.

The special articles supporting the Rally Day program furnished our church papers by the president, professors and general secretaries are greatly appreciated. They are an evidence of the spirit of unity and co-operation prevailing among the leaders of the denomination. A quotation from a letter recently received from another of our secretaries is worth passing along: "I long for, pray for, and will do all I can for the success of every department of our church work, for we all suffer if one department is hurt." "All the work of our church has the unbounded, unrestrained love of my heart, and for whose success to add to the glory of God I am doing and will do the best I can."

The friends of Christian education will help the cause not a little if they will do their part to see that a Rally Day service is held in their local church. Sometimes pastors are preoccupied, sometimes indifferent, but an earnest member of the congregation can exert sufficient influence so that the day is not overlooked. Program prepared by the Board of Education are free for the asking. All we ask is an offering for the work with which we have been charged by the church. Send orders to the undersigned.

FRANK W. STEPHENSON.
613 W. Diamond St., N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa.

"MAKE IT PLAIN"

That was the subject of an arousing sermon delivered by Rev. T. H. Lewis, president of the General Conference, at the last session, which was held at Tiffin, Ohio, May, 1924. What we would like o "make plain" now is this: No church receives credit for offerings taken on Rally Day unless the local church treasurer clearly specifies that it is for that purpose. The Annual Conference treasurer has no way of knowing what the money is for unless definitely stated by the one sending it to him. Pastors can help in this matter if they will give it the necessary attention.

SHOCKS

Recently we asked the Annual Conference treasurers to send us a list of those churches who sent in Rally Day offerings last year. We were delighted to read the record. It told the story of faithful leadership on the part of a large number of our pastors. But the thing which shocked us not a little was to learn that some church where we knew the service had been held and splendid offerings taken were not on the lists received. In one case the offering amounted to over $500, another nearly $100, etc. It is little wonder our income last year fell $1,400 short. Is it any wonder we are anxious to have you "make it plain?"

It is still time to make adequate preparation for a fine Rally Day service. Send in your order at once and everyone will be happy. Send to

BOARD OF EDUCATION.
613 W. Diamond St., N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE RALLY DAY PROGRAM

I am in receipt of the Rally Day program, published by Rev. Frank W. Stephenson, D. D., the Executive Secretary of the Board of Education. This Program has been prepared with care and is a great credit to the denomination both as to is attractive appearance and its contents. The proper rendering of it by our Sunday schools and churches will not only furnish an interesting and profitable service, but should do much toward giving our people information concerning the great work being accomplished by our Board of Education.

Let all the churches use the Program and receive an offering that will be encouraging to Dr. Stephenson and greatly assist in meeting the financial needs of our educational institutions. Remember that the offering counts on our General Budget. With best wishes for a great Rally Day in all of our churches, I am,

Yours in the Master's service,

J. M. SHERIDAN,
Secretary of the Board of Home Missions.

"Smith pledges himself to observe 'dry' law," but it's not Al.

CHAIRMEN FOR CONFERENCE COMMITTEES

I am hereby appointing a chairman for each conference committee that wherever it can be done reports may be drafted before conference.

Credentials—C. W. Bates.
Fraternal Relations—R. A. Hunter.
Group Insurance—J. E. Pritchard.
Literature and Education—P. E. Lindley.
Methodist Protestant Herald—C. H. Whitaker.
Missions—S. W. Taylor.
Moral Character—T. M. Johnson.
Obituaries—These committees will be named in full soon.
Official Charter—E. A. Bingham.
Ordinances—H. F. Fogleman.
Pastoral Work—L. W. Gerringer.
Parsonages—B. M. Williams.
President's Message—J. A. Burgess.
Pulpit Service—S. K. Spahr.
Social Reform—Paul S. Kennett.
Superannuates—George R. Brown.
Rural Church Work—R. C. Stubbins.
Young People's Work—N. M. Harrison, Jr.

A. G. DIXON.

A COUPLE OF REQUESTS

Up to this writing 74 out of the 89 charges in the Conference have sent in Delegate's Credential cards. Which, by a simple process of subtraction, means that 15 pastors have failed to do what the election law requires. It may be they failed to get cards, or it may be neglect. In the meantime the secretary cannot complete the Conference Roll, neither can the president make out the committees, nor can a list of the delegates be sent to the entertainment committee of the Conference church. It would seem that if the secretary can spend a whole day getting out the cards, the brethren ought to be able to spend five minutes filling them out.

Another word about the Journal money. Please send it in. I still lack $50 having last year's Journals paid for. I'd like to close the account. Thank you. And when you send your check, please make it payable to "C. W. Bates, Sec'ty."

Grace Church Receives Magnificent Gift

The members of Grace Church, this city, are rejoicing over the receipt of a great gift—a pipe organ that cost nine thousand dollars. They planned for an organ when they planned the church and went ahead and ordered it built. It took faith and courage to take this step with all they had assumed in undertaking to build such a church and such Sunday-school rooms as they have built. Imagine their joy when it was announced that one of their number, Mrs. T. A. Hunter, would pay for the pipe organ. This she does as a memorial of her husband, Brother T. A. Hunter, who departed a few years ago, and her daughter, Miss Annie, who departed recently. It is a magnificent offering to the service of the church and will serve to inspire others to give largely for the promotion of the work for which the church stands.

A Greensboro lady recalls that Evangelist George Stephens predicted more than once in the Greensboro meeting that something awful would happen to Florida, because the people were so forgetful of God. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

The WORK and the WORKERS

Clean and Attractive

In my notes last week I meant to comment on the clean, attractive church and grounds at Melton's Grove. When we drove upon the grounds we could but note how clean and neat and well kept were the grounds and the church.

Then in my visit to South Davidson Charge this last week-end I found a similar condition at Mt. Carmel Church. The appearance was so clean and attractive. It is encouraging to note how many of our country churches are cleaning up and beautifying the grounds. It does not cost much, but it adds so much to the attractiveness of our places of worship.

South Davidson

Saturday afternoon and Sunday, September 25 and 26, were spent with Rev. M. I. Crutchfield and his people on South Davidson. The fourth quarterly conference was held Saturday. The conference was well attended, and the people are greatly interested in the work; but they are very much behind with their finances. We urged the stewards to get busy during the remaining five weeks to collect pastor's salary, and the pastor with the help of the folks will do the best they can on budgets.

It is fair to say of them that they have already paid three times as much on the budgets this year as they paid last year.

I enjoyed preaching at 11 a. m. to the people of Yadkin College, at 3 p. m. at Mt. Carmel, and at 7:30 p. m. at West Lexington. The people heard the Word gladly.

State Street

Brother Bethea was away assisting Dr. T. M. Johnson in a meeting, so I did not get to see him. But I did look over the new Sunday school rooms, which are now in course of erection, and all the friends of State Street will rejoice with them that within a very few months they will be using these Sunday school rooms. They will serve as a church plant also for a few years.

Pastors' Salaries

For four years now I have striven in every reasonable way to better the living conditions of our pastors by getting charges to increase salaries, and by urging charges to pay salaries in full. I cannot collect pastors' salaries. This is the business of the stewards, and I am hereby urging stewards to put in good, faithful service during pay-up month, which ends with Sunday, October 24. Please read the following clipping, "Pay Your Preacher," from The Methodist Protestant of September 15:

"It is a marvelous thing in these days that any church would determine the salary of a minister and make a sacred promise to pay him and then send him to his conference with only a part of his salary paid. This seems to us not to be square dealing. The salaries are so small and ministers have difficulty living upon them anyhow, but after having made his arrangements to live upon his salary to come to the end of the year with only a part of it paid is not in strict conformity to the idea of religious obligations taken by the church. We have the minutes of a number of conferences and in some of them we find this evil thing is still persisting. We remember in the old days when it was a rather common thing, but we thought we had got beyond the point where a congregation would make a sacred obligation to pay a minister a certain salary and then be satisfied to send him to conference with part of it unpaid. It is high time that this practice was abolished forever. If the church promises a minister to pay him a certain amount it is a most sacred obligation to pay it all and promptly."

Many charges should increase their salaries for next year. Think about it, and pray about it, and if your charge should increase the salary, see that it is done in the fourth quarterly conference.

The Budgets

The amount paid on the budgets depends largely on the attitude of the pastor toward the budgets, so we must look to our pastors and our leading laymen to see that the budgets are paid in full during these last weeks. Our church extension work lags for lack of dollars. Our superannuates certainly need every dollar promised them. And the conference expenses must be met. Our only way to meet these obligations is through the Annual Conference budget.

Our Foreign Mission Boards, and Home Mission Boards, and the Board of Education and the Board of Young People's Work are all dependent upon the General Conference budget for their support. They have not other way to get money except through the G. C. B.

God has blessed us this year with good crops and better material conditions. Let us show our gratitude through increased offerings.

Rally Day and the College

Please bear in mind that if you hold Rally Day, and send an offering to Mr. V. W. Idol for the Board of Education, you will directly help High Point College. You will also pay that much on your G. C. B. We cannot go on asking the Board of Education to put more back into the High Point College than we raise for that board. This it is doing at present, and we should show our appreciation by increasing our Rally Day offering. Whether the Rally Day program can be put on or not, surely every church and Sunday school can and will take a special offering and send it to Mr. Idol as Rally Day offering. Please do this without fail. The article by Mr. T. T. Hicks two weeks ago was so striking and so appropriate and so much to the point that I am asking THE HERALD to reprint it this week. Look it up and read it and heed it. It can be done, and more. Also, please send the amount of that College Assessment for your charge in real soon. Thank you, and God bless you.

Appointments

October 1—Union Grove.
October 2—Mocksville.
October 3—9:30 a. m.—North Charlotte.
October 3—11 a. m.—Charlotte.
October 3—7 p. m.—Love Joy, Why Not. (Will remain here a few days in a meeting).
October 9 and 10—Granville.
October 10—7:30 p. m.—Henderson.
October 15—Mt. Hermon, quarterly conference.
October 16—Tabernacle, quarterly conference.
October 17—Forsyth.
October 24—11 a. m.—Spencer.
October 24—7 p. m.—Albemarle.

Facts you wish mentioned in my annual message must reach me by October 28.

A. G. DIXON.

OUR STORY PAGE

BEN'S SHOWER

"Why can't I have a shower?" Ben asked. He had often heard his older sisters talk about showers for brides and for other people on their birthdays. They sounded like pleasant things, Ben thought.

"We men are out of it, Ben," his father said. "It's only women-folks that have that kind of fun."

Ben looked downcast. "But I do wish somebody would give me a shower, all the same," he said.

That was at breakfast time, but before supper time Ben had forgotten all about his wish for a shower; he had only one wish, and that was to find his lost kitten, Fluff. Never before had little black Fluff strayed away for even an hour. But now she had been gone all day, and though Ben had searched the whole neighborhood she could not be found.

Before dark some one telephoned that a black kitten with two white feet had been run over by a car in front of the drug store. Fluff was black, with two white feet. Ben tried not to cry, but it was hard work. Every one in the neighborhood felt sorry for him, for they knew how he loved cats, particularly Fluff.

The next morning, while Ben was trying to eat his oatmeal, the door bell rang. Following his mother out into the hall he saw a man hand in a queerlooking box made of straw. There was a card attached to the box; on it was written: "With many regrets, from the owner of the car that ran over the little cat." Ben unfastened the catch; inside the basket was a beautiful white kitten.

Ben could not help loving the newcomer, which was soon racing round the hall after spools, as lively as a cricket.

Very soon the doorbell rang again, and that time Ben answered it himself. A little girl was standing on the porch with a black kitten in her arms.

"Please, won't you take this?" she said. "I heard about the kitten you lost, and so I brought you one of mine."

The two kittens played joyfully together; Ben, watching them, almost forgot his grief. He had just made up his mind to name them Ink and Snowball when for the third time the bell rang. That time it was Ben's favorite teacher, Miss Cary, who stood at the door.

"Ben," she said, "I haven't a kitten to give you, but if you will take old yellow Tom I'll be very glad. He needs a good settled home."

"Mother," said Ben as Miss Cary went away, "I am getting rich in cats. Oh, just look how old Tom stares at the kittens!"

The old cat's face was so funny and solemn that Ben laughed aloud for the first time in twenty hours.

He laughed still more when, a little later, his grandmother's hired man drove up to the door with a large wicker basket. Grandmother had heard of Ben's loss and sent the old gray-and-white farm cat, Patches, with her four gray-and-white kittens.

"They're to visit you as long as you like," Jim said.

Ben spent the rest of the morning surrounded by cats. Patches purred on his knee, old Tom dozed at his feet, and the six kittens played wildly all round the room.

"If any more come we'll have to enlarge the house," mother said.

"Won't daddy stretch his eyes, though!" answered Ben.

Daddy did. "Great Scott!" he exclaimed, as he came in for luncheon. Here's a nice mixup—look what old Colonel Hill sent Ben. Said he thought 'twould help to console him."

Daddy raised the flap of his pocket. A black-and-tan head was poking out over the edge. There was a sharp bark, and quick as a wink a tiny fox terrior scrambled out into Ben's willing arms. There he sat erect and barked with might and main.

But the cats! With one bound old Tom was on top of the piano; Snowball and Ink disappeared under the sofa like two streaks of black and white; old Patches arched her back and bristled, while her four kittens went scrambling wildly up the lace curtains at the window. Such a bristling and spitting and barking as never was seen or heard before!

Ben laughed until he could barely stand. "Oh, daddy, I am having a shower, sure enough!" he cried. "And makes almost as much noise as a thunder shower, too!"

Then, just as he was about to carry the little dog out of the room, he had a great surprise. Through the open door, right into the midst of the barking dog and angry cats and kittens, came Fluff—walking briskly and purring loud with joy.

Ben dropped the dog and grabbed her. "It must have been another cat that was killed!" he cried. "Oh, look how alive she is!"

That night it was hard to find sleeping places for all Ben's new family.

"Well," said his father when the last drowsy kitten had been tucked away, "it has rained cats and dogs sure enough this day."

"No, it wasn't a rain," said Ben, "it was my shower. And the best part of the shower was the last!"—Eva O. B. Gilbert, in The Youth's Companion.

Dr. J. C. Broomfield, who is preaching a series of sermons in Grace Church, spoke to a meeting of Greensboro people in the National Theater last Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of Greensboro. His discourse was a very effective one, and immediately results were seen in the number who arose and asked to be prayed for. He has promised to continue in the church until Tuesday night. Those who have attended the services have been greatly inspired and helped. Dr. Broomfield's faith and consecration, with his knowledge of the truth and his ability to state it clearly and forcibly, make him a most effective preacher of the Gospel. He was a fisherman in his boyhood days. Jesus has made him a successful fisher of men.

Saying Grace Aids Digestion

Saying grace before a meal not only is an excellent religious practice, but a good aid to digestion, Dr. Gilbert Fitzpatrick, president of the American Institute of Homeopathy, finds. Too many persons carry their troubles and worries to the table, thus hindering digestion. But anything that brings a feeling of reverence or of good cheer is an excellent digestive aid. If you have a pet grouch, tie it outside and go into the dining-room smiling.—Capper's Weekly.

NOTES AND SUNDRIES

—More Jews live in the United States than in any other country in the world, according to David Trietsch, a German-Jewish scholar and authority on Jewish statistics. Mr. Trietsch estimates the Jewish population of the world at 18,800,000—an increase of 150 per cent. since 1881—and figuring on this basis, gives the number of Jews in this country as 4,400,000. Poland comes next, with 4,000,000, and Russia third, with 3,600,000. Among the world's cities with large Jewish populations, New York leads with 2,000,000, followed by Warshaw, with 400,000, and Chicago and Vienna, with 300,000 each.

—That the United States now has its first billionaire, and that there are 11,000 millionaries in the country today, is the estimate made by Joseph S. McCoy, Government actuary, United States Treasury, in an article in the current American Bankers' Association Journal. This means, says Mr. McCoy, that one person out of every 10,450 Americans has accumulated a fortune of $1,000,000. In 1914, according to Mr. McCoy, there were probably about 4500 millionaries in the United States. The maximum number at any one time is given as about 11,800 in 1917.

—During 1925 snakes in India were responsible for more than 19,000 deaths. Wild beasts killed 2000, of whom 1000 were victims of tigers. Wolves, bears, leopards, elephants, wild hogs, crocodiles and hyenas accounted for the remaining victims.

—"Copec," the widely known London society which has had a profound influence upon British social ethics since the war, is sending its secretary, Miss Lucy Gardner, to make a speaking tour of the United States and Canada. The name "Copec" by which this organization is now best known is a popular contraction of "Christian Order in Politics, Economics, and Citizenship." Miss Gardner is making this visit at the invitation of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches. She will arrive in New York, October 20, and will address audiences in that city and also at Boston, New Haven, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Vassar College, Mount Holyoke College, and other places, Miss Gardner, who is a Quaker, began life as a teacher, then was a nurse for some years in the slums of London, and later, feeling called to consecrate herself to helping forward the establishment of a Christian order of society, trained for social work under the Charity Organization Society. She soon became interested in the work of the honorary secretary for many years of the Conference of Christian Social Unions. Out of this grew "Copec," the organization of which was largely in her hands. While in Boston Miss Gardner will fill a number of engagements, among them one to speak before the Twentieth Century Club, October 30, and one to give an address at Wellesley College on the following day.

—Soviet leaders do not intend that the Russian people shall forget how political offenders were treated under the czarist regime. As a constant reminder, the famous fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in Leningrad is to be transformed into an historical museum. A press item from Leningrad says that all the cells and dungeons in the fortress which for more than two centuries was both citadel and prison, are to be restored as they were in the beginning of the eighteenth century, when Peter the Great laid the foundation of St. Petersburg.

—With the progress of time, bringing old age and inlrmities, the days of the Grand Army of the Republic are rapidly becoming numbered. Indeed, it is possible that the next national encampment, at Des Moines, Ia., may see the disbanding of the organization. For at that time a committee of three past commanders is expected to report on plans for final disintegration of body and disposition of its records and funds.

—Master Sergeant C. L. O'Briant, and Lieutenant L. L. Berry of Kelly Field, Tex., in a trip from San Antanio, Tex., to Washington, D. C., by air plane, made stops as follows: Dallas, Tex., Muskogee, Okla., Kansas City, Mo., Chicago, Ill., Cleveland, Ohio, New York City, and Washington City. Spending a few days in Washington Sergeant O'Briant came to Rosemary, N. C., by railroad and spent three days with his father, Rev. J. B. O'Briant. They were to leave Washington Wednesday, September 29, on their return to San Antonia, Tex.

—Thomas R. Kirkman, of Tabernacle, is very seriously ill. Cicero Hardin of the same church last week passed on. His funeral was conducted on Friday, conducted by Pastor Suits, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. J. A. Suits.

—Dr. Broomfield made addresses to the Greensboro high school on Monday and Tuesday mornings of this week.

—It is rumored that two of our young preachers are to take unto themselves wives in the near future. We do not vouch for the correctness of the rumors, but we have seen enough to make us suspect that they are well founded. Just wait and see.

—Great Britain's coal strike has cost that country a total of more than two billion dollars since it began last May 1. With winter coming on Prime Minister Baldwin is trying hard to bring about a settlement.

—The death of Mrs. Rev. W. D. Fogleman is reported this week. She had been afflicted for some time and had suffered much, but she is now released. She left one daughter, Mrs. Henry Nicholson, of Mebane, who kindly cared for her in her last years. She was a woman of excellent character, a worthy mother of our good sister, Mrs. Nicholson.

—We wonder whether every person receives as many offers of "paint" as we do—paint made of coal tar.

—Brother Cicero H. Jones of Orange Circuit is Register of Deeds of Orange County.

—Book-dealers report that Charles Dickens is still a best seller. The humor of Dickens is the element to which his continued popularity is attributed.

—Catnip is being grown by the United States Biological Survey. The oil obtained from the plant is to be used in trapping mountain lions. Catnip is a lure for all members of the cat tribe, save the cheetah, or hunting leopard, of India.

—Early Saxon pennies had four grooves in them so that they could be easily broken. Each section was called a fourthing, the word later being corrupted to farthing.

—The White House has had telephone communication for forty-five years, the first instrument being installed by order of President Grant.

—The east coast of England is rapidly being eaten away by the sea. The town of Dunwich lies beneath the waves, and Holderness is fighting a losing battle.

—A half-million people live on the desert lands of the Sahara.

—A Charlotte lady who worshipped in Grace Church last Sunday and heard Dr. Broomfield preach writes: "He brought us so near to our Christ as to seem even face to face."

—The Concord Times urges the people of North Carolina to devote more attention to poultry raising. The number of hens now averages 27 to the farm. The Times thinks this number should be doubled and by intensive treatment the number of eggs per hen could be doubled. The value of the egg crop is surprisingly large. The American Hen is one of our most substantial friends.

A REAL PUBLIC SERVANT

Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, is an official who is not in public life to make money. He has served one term in the Massachusetts General Court, or Legislature, two terms as a member of the national House of Representatives, two two-year terms as Lieutenant Governor, and he is now completing a two-year term as Governor. Yet he has never cashed a salary check as a public official. Had he accepted payment he would have received a total of about $50,000.

He says: "I consider it a duty every man owes to his country to render public service to his State and country, to interest himself in the business of the public and to see to it that his children and children's children maintain this great democracy which we cherish. There is no particular credit due me in this matter. I am simply another of those $1 a year men."

Most rich men feel the compulsion of making a gift to religion or education in their wills. W. F. Dowd, Charlotte captain of industry, who died last week, left $5,000 to Pritchard Memorial Baptist church in Charlotte. His estate is valued at one million dollars.

Rev and Mrs. O. B. Williams spent the week-end in Greensboro visiting relatives and friends. He stated that he was much improved after spending the summer in the mountains of North Carolina. He expects to spend some time with his father at his country home until Conference, when he expects to take up his work again as pastor.

Our Children's Home

New Hope, Vance, $3; Glen Raven, Children's Recital, $14.27; Mebane, Children's Recital, $26; Chas. W. Misenheimer, Midland, $5; Yadkin College, $2.61.

Sunday Schools

Mitchell's Grove, Guilford, $2.76; Glen Raven, $6.50; Palestine, Flat Rock, $3; Burlington, $17.06; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $6.20; Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, $3.25; Flat Rock, Vance, $1.85; Friendship, Haw River, $5; Shiloh, N. Davidson, $7.77; Maple Springs, Forsyth, $3.60; Macedonia, Why Not, $5.16; Mebane, $9; Mill Grove, Midland, $4.05; Kistlers, Cleveland, $3. Burlington, $17.06.

Other Gifts

Miss Martha Parsons, Mitchell's Grove, Guilford Circuit, a nice coat and a pair of shoes; Mebane Vacation Bible Class, Mebane, N. C., 12 pair pillow cases, 12 book racks, and eight dresses. Vacation Bible Classes are good things, and I would heartily commend them all. Their work is much appreciated by us.

Mrs. J. R. Osborne, of Mt. Pleasant Church, N. Davidson Charge, two bags of pears; W. H. M. S. of Rose Hill M. P. Church, Kansas, four combination suits, and three underskirts. Dr. F. C. Klein, Burwin, Md., a package of valuable magazines.

Out of the 19 cash contributions in this report 14 came from Sunday schools. I think the Sunday schools ought to have more help to do a big thing like this, don't you?

Thank the Sunday schools and all others who helped to make this report.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

The dirigible Norge which carried Amundsen and Ellsworth over the north pole is stored in a Seattle warehouse pending shipment to Italy. It was open to public inspection until so many small parts disappeared with souvenir hunters that it had to be put under lock and key.

A young man claiming to be Baron Frederick von Krupp, son of the noted German manufacturer of the same name, was arrested at Albuquerque, N. Mex., on a charge of passing worthless checks. The German Krupps denied that any member of their immediate family was in America. The "baron" had been royally entertained by the General Electric Company and Henry Ford.

The $252 a year that the American soldier receives is 11 times as much as the Japanese soldier's pay, 41 times that of the Italian soldier and 58 times that of the French soldier. British soldiers get $240 a year. The war department adds that the American "doubhboy" is also better fed than the foreign fighting man.

In a published article Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in Wilson's cabinet, urged cancellation of war debts due to the United States and attacked the Dawes plan for working too great a hardship on the German people.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$169,018.23
Mrs. S. J. Kernodle, Reidsville	500.00
Shiloh, North Davidson—Furnishing Room	53.31
D. M. Davidson	100.00
Mrs. J. M. Foust	3.00
John W. Sharp	10.00
Mrs. John W. Sharp	10.00
E. S. Taylor	2.50
Spring Church Sunday school	1.81
G. W. Dodson	2.50
Mrs. B. F. Harris	2.00
	$169,703.35

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$5,969.36
Miss Espa Bullard	5.00
J. F. Pratt	4.00
Mrs. C. A. Cecil	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cox	100.00
Miss Lula M. Cox	10.00
H. Floyd Amick	4.00
A. L. Foust	10.00
Miss Marcia Foust	5.00
Cicero H. Jones	10.00
Miss Ruby Braxton	9.00
W. M. Crouch	10.00
W. A. Davies	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sides	200.00
J. L. Self	5.00
Miss Mamie Johnston	10.00
Miss Mollie Wheless	5.00
Mrs. J. J. Crawford	25.00
J. H. Pritchard	10.00
Miss Clara Bullard	5.00
Mrs. Emma B. Siler	10.00
D. A. McLaurin	50.00
Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lindley	10.00
Mrs. Ellen Ingold	5.00
Mrs. Glenna Lane	1.25
J. T. Bowman	10.00
Miss Flora Keiger	5.00
J. M. Blackwelder	20.00
Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Johnson	10.00
Cletus Whitehead	1.00
Miss Callie Isley	5.00
	$6543.61

The five hundred dollars contributed by Mrs. S. J. Kernodle was applied on the note for $1000., which was endorsed by the Reidsville people. This makes a total of $6500. contributed by this "elect lady" of our church.

J. NORMAN WILLS, Treas.

PROHIBITION AND PERSONAL LIBERTY

A citizen who is in favor of the enforcement of only the laws for which he has voted, and in the principle and wisdom of which he agrees, is not a law-abiding citizen of a democracy. He has something of the autocratic spirit. He is willing to govern, but not to be governed. He is not willing to play the game according to the rules of the game. —William Howard Taft, in "Is Prohibition a Blow at Personal Liberty?"

Preaching versus Practising.—Judge—"Why did you run down this man in broad daylight on a perfectly straight stretch of road?"

Prisoner—"Your honor, my windshield was almost totally obscured with safety-first stickers,"—Ohio Northern Review.

Woman's Missionary Department

Miss Esther Ross, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

Bowman

We the members of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies and the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Protestant church, High Point, N. C. desire to offer a tribute of love and esteem for our beloved co-worker, Miss Millie Bowman.

Resolved first: that in her going we have lost a faithful member who was zealous in good work. During her term of office as Matron of the Children's Home she made an indelible impression for good on the young life there, as she taught the Bible to the children, and lest they forget any of these teachings she presented a Bible to each child in the Home and those who have gone out. May the memory of her loyalty to her church, her consistent Christian character, her cheerful disposition, and her faithfulness in the performance of duty, inspire in us nobler aspirations so that we too may win the Master's plaudit, "She both done what she could."

Resolved second: that we extend our deep sympathy to her relatives.

Resolved third: that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her relatives, a copy each to the Herald and The Missionary Record, and that they be inscribed on the books of these societies.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS,
Mrs. H. A. GARRETT,
MRS. W. P. PICKETT.

Fire Prevention Week.—October 3rd to 9th has been set apart as Fire Prevention Week in the United States. Last year in North Carolina 293 people were burned to death and nearly seven million dollars worth of property was destroyed by fire. Governor McLean has issued a proclamation calling on the people of our State to observe this week in such a way as will reduce the danger from fire.

Stolen Ms. Returned. The Latin manuscript stolen recently while being exhibited at the National Art Club, New York, was returned by a man who, not knowing it had been stolen, had purchased it for $1500. He refused to accept the $1000 reward.

Young mothers and expectant mothers may obtain valuable information on how to care for baby or for themselves by writing direct to the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. That government bureau issues bulletins and booklets on such matters, which may be had free as long as the supply lasts.

An Irishman, while crossing the ocean, was seasick.

"It's all right, old man," said an acquaintance, "you're not dead yet."

"True," moaned the sufferer, "but it's only the hope of dying keeps me alive."

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mill Grove, Midland, N. C.—I will at the request of our beloved pastor write a few lines.

We raised in our Sunday school on last Sunday $4.05 for the Orphan's Home and $5.00 from C. W. Misenhemer.

We are glad to say that our Sunday school is growing since our revival. We had over double last Sunday what we had before the meeting. The interest is better both Sunday school and preaching. We have a good consecrated, old fashioned Gospel preacher. We all love him, not only the members but other churches and non-church members as well. We are going to keep him if it is possible to do so. He is a great favorite among all. We are planning to have rally day the second Sunday in October at Love's Grove. All three churches together. We are expecting a fine time and a large attendance and some good old-time singing.

We are trying to push our finances all possible so as to get out by the last quarterly conference.

We have had a good year; there have been 38 accessions to the work this year with a good many reclamations.

With best wishes for the Herald and its Editor.

REPORTER.

Weaverville Circuit, Clark's Chapel.—Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society are holding their own splendidly. We can boast of more young people and childern than we have had for several months previous. If we can keep them in Sunday school, as we are endeavoring to do, we prognosticate a progressive future.

The superintendent, Mr. L. T. Watts, took the boys on a camping trip last week-end to Andrew's Geyser. Every one enjoyed the trip immensely.

Mrs. L. T. Watts entertained the Ladies' Aid Society at her home last Wednesday evening with a program and refreshments. Every one is taking a very enthusiatic part in the plans the Ladies' Aid have made for improvements.

REPORTER.

Fairview Charge.—The work on the Fairview charge is progressing nicely. The Sundoy schools are running well and the general condition of the work is good.

Since my last report quite a bit of repair work on the Fairview property has been completed. The parsonage has been covered and other work on it done; and the church has been painted. These improvements are very timely, and add much both to the actual value and appearance of the buildings.

At the last regular appointment at the Fairview church, both the attendance and the interest were good. At this appointment, Brother Shaw gave a chicken and some vegetables; and Brother Barber a quanity of apples for the pastor, for which his thanks are extended to them.

May God's blessings rest upon the entire charge.

C. G. ISLEY.

Saxapahaw Charge.—Revival services were held at Concord, Salem, and Orange Chapel the first three weeks of August. Rev. R. A. Hunter was our pulpit help at Concord, Rev. S. W. Taylor at Salem, and Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon at Orange Chapel. The people were highly pleased with their splendid Gospel messages. As a result of these meetings there were 14 accession to the three churches. Others will join later. There was no lack of preachers at Orange Chapel. Besides Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon and the pastor, there were present part of the time Revs. T. A. and D. R. Williams, Rev. Carson Crawford, of the M. E. Church, and Rev. Mr. Carrick of the Baptist Church. Revs. W. F. Kennett, T. A. and B. M. Williams also attended the Salem meeting one day. We were glad to have these brethren with us.

Our union meeting at Saxapahaw began the first Sunday in September and closed the following Sunday night, Rev. J. W. Authrey, of Webb Avenue M. E. Church, Burlington, doing the preaching. Here we had no visible results, but we trust that good seeds were sown that will yet bring forth a bountiful harvest to the honor and glory of God.

We are grieved to report the prolonged illness of Brother T. H. Moore, one of the faithful members of Concord church. He is missed so much from Sunday school and preaching services.

Brother J. C. Guthrie, who spent some time in the Burlington hospital for treatment, is improving rapidly. Brother Guthrie is chairman of the board of stewards of Concord church.

Brother R. S. Woody will represent Saxapahaw Charge in our next Annual Conference.

The good people of this Charge continue to remember their pastor with gifts from time to time. We are grateful to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Percy Smith, corn, beans, watermelons; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Overman, grapes and peaches; Mr. Adrian Jobe, some choice peaches; Mr. J. M. Crutchfield, watermelons; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thompson, tomatoes and beans; Mrs. G. W. Thompson, onions; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Curl, grapes; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Durham and Son, apples, pears, muscadines; Messrs. W. F. Lindley, W. G. Crawford, and W. M. Ferguson, fine watermelons.

Mr. John Ingold has the sincere thanks of the pastor for one half barrel of good flour.

H. L. ISLEY.

Fountain Place Church, Burlington.—Vacation time is over and our work here is well under way again. We had no service Sunday nights during August. Our Sunday school held up well and what preaching services we held all during the summer.

The church was kind in letting us have a few days vacation early in July. Upon my return home I found that the church had provided both State and City license for my Dodge. All this was much appreciated by the pastor.

We are having cottage prayer meetings almost every night in the week preparatory to our evangelistic meetings which will begin next Sunday, October 3rd. Rev. G. F. Millaway will assist in the meeting.

Yesterday, September 26th, was Rally Day. Had a program in the morning rendered by the Junior and Primary departments, and a Pageant at night, "At The Cross Roads." This entire program was taken from the Education Day program issued by the department of Education. Fine attendance was in evidence at both services. The day was well spent.

Three live Christian Endeavor societies continue to enlist most of our young people in training for service. Our Senior society brought back the Efficiency Banner from the denomination rally of the Third District held at Mount Hermon church the fifth Sunday in August.

The Ladies' Aid Society is doing well. They have finished paying for the furnishings of the kitchen and have a nice balance. They recently gave a supper in the basement of the church and realized a nice sum.

We now have a fine work started among the boys and young men of the church through the organization of a Kappa Sigma Pi. It is going forward in a fine way.

One of the beauty-spots of our church and Sunday school is the Primary Department. The workers have taken such an interest in decorating and beautifying it until it equals for beauty and attraction any I ever saw. Draperies, pictures, stains and all that have been used to good effect. It is showing up too in the work of the department. Every member of the department was there yesterday.

This church will pay all claims, notwithstanding we are a little behind now. The Ladies' H. M. Society has paid a good payment on our claims. The Christian Endeavor society is paying more this week.

G. H. HENDRY, Pastor.

Burlington, First Church.—Our Christian Endeavor is taking on some new life, it seems. We recently adopted The Methodist Protestant Christian Endeavor Efficiency Chart as our standard to work by. We have already had increase in the attendance at the regular weekly prayer-meetings. One of our members conducted a cottage pray-service for The Fountain Place church last week.

Mr. Glenn A. Huffman is our new president and, we believe that our society will experience a marked increase in interest and attendance during his term of office, as he is a consecrated young man of our church.

One of our members, Miss Inez Way, is confined to her home recovering from a throat operation. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Many of our members attended The Third District C. E. Union meeting held at Mt. Hermon the last Sunday in August and all seemed to enjoy this rally.

Let's all work together and make the rest of this year count for much in the Lord's Vineyard.

L. A. BRAXTON, Vice-President.

West Lexington, South Davidson Charge.—Last Sunday was a good day for us. There was a good increase in the Sunday school attendance, and the men's class was almost doubled as compared with the previous Sunday.

Only one preaching service was held last Sunday, and that was at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Dixon, president of our Annual Conference, was the preacher for the service. He delivered a very forceful and effective sermon, using as a text: Matthew 28:20, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." The sermon centered around the thought of having God in the heart, and Dr. Dixon declared among other things, that "the greatest need of the people of this age is God." He said that next to the great need of God in the hearts and lives of men, women and boys and girls is will-power. The congregation that heard the sermon was the largest that has gathered in our church for several weeks, the church auditorium being nearly filled. Dr. Dixon returned to his home in Greensboro after the service Sunday night. This writer was privileged to hear the greater part of the sermon, after conducting a brief service at State Street church.

Quarterly Conference

The fourth quarterly conference for the South Davidson charge was held in our church last Saturday afternoon from 3 o'clock till about 5:30 o'clock. Dr. Dixon was with us and presided over the conference. The reports of the pastor, one unstationed preacher, class leaders, Sunday school superintendents and one Christian Endeavor society president were made to the conference. The pastor's report was a summary of his work for the entire year, and also indicated the financial work of the year. The unstationed preacher, (this writer), made a report of the appointments filled for the pastor and other work done for the West Lexington church. Class leaders reported that prayer meetings had been held regularly during the year. Reports of Sunday school superintendents indicated that good work is being done in the Sunday schools on the charge. During the period of reports from Sunday school superintendents, Dr. Dixon took occasion to speak of the effect of new class rooms for adult classes in the Sunday school, and commended West Lexington church for the addition of the four new class rooms. He urged the curtaining off of rooms for the younger pupils in the Sunday school, and also the purchase of small chairs for the little ones. (West Lexington has no small chairs for little "tots," we are sorry to report.)

Among the business transacted in the quarterly conference was the election of an alternate delegate. Brother W. C. Gibson, of the West Lexington church, was elected by a majority vote of the conference. Brother C. O. Leonard, of the Cid church, applied to the conference for license to preach. After being examined by the committee on examination, composed of C. L. Hedrick, Herman Byrd, C. B. Way and Dr. Dixon as chairman, Brother Leonard was recommended by the committee to the conference for license to preach. The conference voted unanimously to grant him license as a local preacher in the Methodist Protestant church.

All of the churches on the charge were represented in the quarterly conference, with the attendance of representatives as follows: West Lexington, five; Mount Carmel, four; Cid, three; Yadkin College, two; Jerusalem, two. In addition to the official members mentioned above there were a number of members of the different churches present. Dr. Dixon urged the charge to pay the pastor's salary in full and as much on the budgets as is consistent with the ability of each church on the charge. West Lexington will pay the salary in full and some more on the budgets. Only $84. is due on the salary from West Lexington, and this amount is assured by the fourth Sunday in October.

The next quarterly conference will meet with the Yadkin college church.

C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Asheville.—All here rejoice in the improvement in the Herald.

Our pastor recently spent ten days in a meeting at Caroleen.

We are very glad to have our brother J. H. Stowe in our congregation. He has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. C. McNeil, and her family.

Last week Brother Wiley C. Hunter at Jupiter passed away and was buried at Mt. Zion. He had never moved his membership from the old Laurel Branch M. P. church. Many of our older ministers will remember his hospitality, before he moved to Jupiter. Every one who has been to Mt. Zion will testify to his friendliness. He indeed lived by the side of the road. He lived in the forks of the road.

Asheville will come up with all budgets paid in full.

Brother James Moore recently returned from the hospital where he underwent a painful and serious operation.

Brother "Lush" Eller, of Clark's Chapel, Weaverville, is recovering from an automobile accident which he received some three weeks ago. He is in the French Broad Hospital.

One of our most faithful members, Brother Ward Mitchell, is critically ill in a hospital here.

Brother I. W. Gashatt is our delegate-elect to Conference.

Mrs. N. W. Brooker, nee Miss Lucile Michaux, and her little daughter, Nancy Brooker, returned a few days ago to their home in Philadelphia. They had been visiting Mrs. Brooker's sister, Mrs. J. S. Williams.

Our Ladies' Aid and Missionary societies meet regularly. Both have been active in their respective undertakings.

We are all praying for the "best yet" Annual Conference. REPORTER.

Hobbs Chapel, Greenville Circuit.—Brother Powell filled his regular appointment at Hobbs yesterday. His subject was, The Godly Man; the basis of his discourse being the first Psalm. He told how one could tell a godly man; the things he should do, and the things he should not engage in. One was that he should not go down on a brooklet and make moonshine liquor. Brother Powell fights Old John Barley corn on every hand. At the next service he will preach about The Ungodly Man. We are anxious to hear it.

Brother Shelton from Spring church, assisted in our special meeting. He did some good preaching. He preached two as good sermons as I've ever listened to. His subjects were, Take Heed How You Hear, and, After Death The Judgment. There was sickness in three homes of our membership, and one death. Our meeting was not as good as we had expected—outwardly, but some good was done in spite of hindrances. One man has told me since that one of Brother Shelton's sermons did him more good than any he'd ever listened to. He seemed to be despondent over his business, and Brother Shelton spoke of people failing in life, and if they would only try again they would be successful where they were apparently failures. This kind of preaching helps folks. It's true, there's so much sin in the world that it should be condemned, but it's also true that the faithful few need encouragement along the way—something like Brother Troxler's "Fear Not, Little Flock, In God's Good Time He'll Give You The Kingdom."

DORA PAIR.

Liberty, Siler City Charge.—A male quartet was rendered at Sunday school, Sunday morning by Messrs. Otis Brower, J. L. Spencer, Will and R. P. Smith.

At the 11:00 o'clock service Mr. Gibbs had for his Theme: "Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God." An attentive and prayerful attitude prevailed throughout the service. Six new members joined us: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Spencer and three daughters, Anna, Sarah, and Eva, also Mrs. Will Smith. We are glad to have these good folk come into our fellowship.

At the evening service the subject of the sermon was: The Great Commission."

The officers, superintendents and committee chairmen of the Junior, Intermediate and Senior C. E. societies were installed with a dedicatory service; in the preliminaries of this service about thirty leaders in this work were installed.

A solo, "Alone," was rendered by Miss Helen Johnson. There were about forty present at the Senior C. E. meeting. Mrs. T. L. Smith, the new president, led the meeting.

Mrs. Ross Ward was hostess to the Philathea class Friday evening, September 24.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

High Point.—On next Friday evening, October 1st, at 7:30 o'clock, the members of our congregation will tender a Reception at the church in honor of the faculty and students of High Point College, the teachers at the Children's Home, and also the teachers in our City schools, who belong to the Methodist Protestant church. No doubt this will be a delightful occasion.

On Friday evening, October 8th, an address on "Famous Writers I have known personally" will be delivered by Dr. John F. Cowan of San Diego, Cal., in the Assembly Room.

Dr. Cowan was editor of our Sunday school publications for several years, and is one of the outstanding literary men of our denomination. It is hoped that a large number of our people will take advantage of the opportunity to hear this gifted speaker.

Last Wednesday, September 22, an inspirational meeting was held at the College, which was attended by 50 ministers and prominent laymen. A bountiful dinner was served to the guests in the College dining room, and a splendid message was delivered by Dr. J. C. Broomfield of Pittsburgh, Penn. In the course of his remarks he said that North Carolina is rapidly becoming the hub of Methodist Protestantism in America.

Revival services will commence in the First church on Sunday, October 10th, and Dr. Brown pleads for the cooperation of our members in this effort to quicken and awaken the religious life of our congregation, to convict sinners of the error of their ways, and to bring them to the cross. Let us all pray for a great in-gathering of souls.

At the morning service Mrs. J. Hobart Alred delighted the congregation with a rarely beautiful vocal solo, "How beautiful upon the mountain," by Harker. Her rich soprana voice is fast becoming a great favorite with our people.

Dr. Brown will be out of town for a few days; he is assisting Rev. J. B. Trogdon in a series of meetings at Flat Rock, Rockingham county.

We gladly welcome to our congregation a newly wedded couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitesell, who were married at Ramseur a few days ago, the bride having been Miss Madge Moffitt. They are living for the present with Mrs. P. L. Crawford and her son, Mr. Lynn Trout on South Hamilton, St. Mrs. Whitesell has a beautiful voice, besides having been assistant to the pastor of the Christian church at Burlington, and we feel that she will be a valuable acquisition in the work of the church. We are congratulating ourselves on these splendid additions to our congregation.

We are grieved to note the serious illness of Dorothy Dean, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis, who has typhoid fever at the home on Centennial Avenue. The sympathy and prayers of many friends are extended to them, and we earnestly trust that the little girl will soon recover her usual health.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Leroy Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Montgomery, who sprung a surprise on his friends by getting married on July 4th, and keeping it a secret until last week. His bride was Miss Gladys Godwin of Parkton, N. C. The young couple are living for the present with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pickett Montgomery, on Steele street. Roy is one of our finest young men, and the best wishes of a host of friends are extended to him and his bride for a long, happy, and useful life together.

We are exceedingly sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mrs. E. E. Wall of Greensboro, who is a sister of Mrs. J. G. Snipes of High Point. Mrs. Wall underwent a serious operation at St. Leo's Hospital, and is still there.

The meeting of the Seventh District of the N. C. Federation of Women's clubs will be held in the First church next Tuesday, October 5th, with the president, Mrs. W. C. Hammer of Asheboro, presiding.

Mrs. Weaver M. Marr and two children of Jacksonville, Fla., are guests of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, at the parsonage.

Mrs. W. P. Pickett is visiting her father, Mr. John Eller in Davidson county, who will soon reach his 95th birthday.

West End.—The Philathea class held their monthly business and social meeting Tuesday, September 21, with Miss Gladys Routh and Mrs. L. W. Routh at the home of the latter.

After the regular routine business, officers for the following year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. S. H. Stapleton; Vice-President, Lurlei Smith; Secretary, Stella Bull; assistant secretary, Mrs. June Routh; Treasurer, Helen Stockard.

On Monday evening, September 27, the executive committee of this class met to elect committees and plan class work for coming year.

One thing the class is most interested in is an adequate S. S. building which is badly needed, and hope to have in near future.

Last quarter this class gave $27.00 for the Sunday School Building Fund, and have now on hand $40 for same, to offer next Sunday, the first Sunday school offering in the quarter being given to Building Fund.

A musical cantata, "The Brownie Band," will be presented by the Philathea class of West End M. P. church, Friday, October 1, 8 p.m., at Guilford High School. Proceeds for a new Sunday school building. Every one invited.

Siler City Charge, Siler City.—The school is increasing. Seventy-six were present last Sunday morning at Sunday school.

The class-rooms being new are now being furnished by the different classes.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society held its meeting Sunday morning after Sunday school. A large number of boys and girls were present. The Topic: Who are our best friends? A good program was rendered.

A good number was present at the prayer service Wednesday evening. In the absence of our pastor, Mr. L. L. Wrenn conducted the service. Since the last prayer service 472 chapters had been read. Since we first began 896 have been read.

The Senior Christian Endeavor and B. Y. P. U. societies were invited to hold a joint meeting with the Epworth League Sunday night.

A program was made consisting of members from each society. Missionary talks were made. There was plenty of good music, both vocal and instrumental. REPORTER.

A CORRECTION

The term "Pastor" was affixed to my name under the report from West Lexington church, South Davidson charge, in last week's issue of The Herald. I beg permission of the Editor to state that I feel sure it was an error on the part of the linotype operator, because all of my reports during this year have been signed as reporter. It has been a peculiar pleasure for me to have assisted Rev. M. Ivey Crutchfield, the pastor of South Davidson charge and West Lexington church, during the past year, and I want the readers of the Herald to know that the Rev. Marion Ivey Crutchfield, of Lexington, is pastor of West Lexington church yet regardless of the ascription placed after my name in the Herald last week. (Thanks to the Editor for a correction, with apologies to the readers for the error.) C. B. WAY.

(The Editor craves pardon for overlooking the error in reading proof.)

Customer—(on Sunday morning)—Give me change for a dime, please.

Druggist—Sure, and I hope you enjoy the sermon.

THE COLLEGE

Can we not regard every one of our ministers as traveling agents for every one of the interests of our church?

There are certainly no other men in the church who have as keen senses and perceptions of the needs of education as our ministers. Their duties require them to visit frequently every family on their charge. They are presumed to know and do know all the young people on their respective charges; which of them are or can be interested in education, and which of their parents are or can be induced to encourage the educational ambitions of their children.

There should be not less than two well endowed young people of every church in the conference every year in attendance upon our college. The ministers should feel that their salaries are paid, not only for preaching and for looking after the finances of the general interests of the church; but to nourish and keep alive and cause to grow all the time the interest of every person in the church in the college. There has been to date an average of not quite one from each church in our College. It should be at least two at once and increase to more and more. To say there is a church in our conference that does not finance yearly two young people capable of college development is to belittle us. It must not be admitted. To say that we can not pay a dollar per member per year to support the college is to belittle us. It must not be admitted. Let us all pull together for the College—preacher foremost.

T. T. HICKS.

A SUGGESTED RESOLUTION

Whereas it is the custom and practice of a number of our Methodist Protestant conferences, and also the customs and practice of a number of charges in our own North Carolina Conference to call and make agreements with pastors for supply for the coming year; and whereas the practice seems to be very satisfactory; we recommend that all the charges in our conference be accorded the privilege of openly calling pastors and making agreements for supply for the ensuing year—subject to the approval of the Annual Conference Stationing Committee.

We feel a resolution something like the above would not be out of order for our coming Annual Conference. If such a resolution is passed favorably it will not violate our constitution nor conflict with any act of the General Conference. It may be just what we need to boost pastor's salaries and to make for more progress and better adjustments. However the subject would come before the conference for a thorough consideration to find out just where we stand in regard to such procedures.

R. C. STUBBINS.

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., founder of the Christian Endeavor Society, arrived at his seventy-fifth birthday two weeks ago last Sunday. On that day the members and friends of Swift Memorial Church, Sagamore, gathered to do honor to Dr. Clark, who holds the title of pastor emeritus of the church. The following evening, at Sandwich, Dr. Clark was tendered a banquet by the Cape Cod Association of Churches, of which he is honorary president.

MARRIED

Pickard-McBane

Miss Nellie Pickard and Mr. Frank McBane, both of South Alamance, were happily married by the writer at his home on Saturday, September 18.

Mrs. McBane is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pickard, and is popular with a large circle of friends because of her personality and sweet disposition. She is a graduate of Eli Whitney High School and a loyal member of Orange Chapel M. P. church.

Mr. McBane is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBane. He is a young man of sterling character, and is a graduate of the Agricultural College at Raleigh.

After a brief wedding trip in the western part of the state, they will make their home near Saxapahaw, where Mr. McBane is engaged in farming. H. L. ISLEY.

McAdams-Nelson

A. K. McAdams and Eva Nelson were married by the writer September 18th, 1926, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. F. W. Nelson. Only a few of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Thompson, left for Asheville and other points of interest in Western North Carolina.

Mr. McAdams is the son of the late John F. McAdams, his bride the daughter of Mrs. F. W. Nelson, all of Orange county.

They are both members and good workers of Hebron Methodist Protestant Church. We wish for them much happiness through life.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic For October 3.—What is Education? How Get It? How Use It? Rom. 12:1-3: 2 Tim. 2:15.

Topic For October 10.—How to Pull Together, Mark 2:1-5; 1 Cor. 3:1-9.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson For October 3.—Numbers 10:11-36. Devotional reading, 1 Tim. 4:11-16. 2 Tim. 2:15.

Lesson For October 10.—Numbers 13:1 to 14:45. Devotional reading, Matt. 7:1-5; 9-12.

The settler burned the forest around his cleared land,
He burned it when the weeds were dry,
and burned it to the sand,
With timber burned to ashes,
no fuel wood was nigh:
Now the settler has a coal bill and coal comes mighty high.

Merele Myers, 23, fell asleep at the wheel of his car while driving to his home at Rocky Springs, Pa. He was killed when the car hit a telegraph pole.

Bank For Prison. Thrift of prisoners at the Maryland penitentiary made it necessary to open a bank there. The convicts save between $200,000 and $300,000 a year.

KRISHNAMURTI ARRIVES

Jiddu Krishnamurti, hailed by the theosophists as the "voice piece of the new Messiah," landed at New York en route to the shrine at the Order of the Star of the East in the Ojai valley, California, where he will go into retirement for several months. His entry into this country was protested on grounds involving "moral turpitude" but immigration officials declared the evidence submitted was "so flimsy" that no action could be taken to bar him.

Krishnamurti is sponsored by Mrs. Anna Besant, a wealthy Englishwoman, who assures the world that this young native of India is the vehicle through which "The Great Nameless One" sends his messages. Though 80 years old, Mrs. Besant is a member of the party accompanying Krishnamurti. The Ojai shrine will be the mecca for many theosophist pilgrims during the time that Krishnamurti is there.

Mrs. Besant is head of the international Theosophical Society, founded at New York in 1875 with the avowed purpose of working to "form a universal brotherhood without distinction of race, creed or color; to promote the study of Aryan and other Eastern literature, religions and sciences, and to investigate unexplained laws of nature and the phychical powers latent in man."

Krishnamurti is about 28 years old. He is even darker than the average Hindu and has inky-black hair. He is thin and very frail in appearance. He weighs less than 100 pounds. He alternates in wearing modern dress and native costume. At the age of 12 he was selected as "the vehicle" and studied in Madras. When 13 years old he wrote a spiritual work, "At the Feet of the Master." He claims to be "inspired." However, he plays golf, tennis and other earthly games. He eats no meat. He had been furnished by Mrs. Besant with a palace-like house in England in which to "meditate." Krishnamurti has been to America twice before—incognito—but this time he comes, followers say, to wean America away from materialism.—Pathfinder.

Only ten of the one hundred counties in North Carolina make special housing provisions for their tuberculous. Four of these have provisions only at county homes. Cumberland county has a preventorium that takes only children and inactive cases alone of children. Guilford and Mecklenburg are the only counties that have modern, well-equipped county sanatoria. These sanatoria solve the tuberculosis problem in Guilford and Mecklenburg as nothing else would.

Previous to Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacilli, and among ignorant people since, it has been held that tuberculosis is inherited. It is now known that it is not inherited, but infectious or communicable. It is also generally agreed that most infections occur in childhood.

Aunt—"Elsie, why don't you eat your egg?"
Elsie—"I don't want it."
Aunt—"When I was your age I should have been glad to have that egg."
Elsie—"Perhaps it was fresh then, auntie."
—Boston Transcript.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Boroughs

James Presley Boroughs died suddenly while riding in a car on Saturday, September 4, 1926. He lived to a ripe old age and fell asleep at the age of 75 years, six months and five days. He was married on September 17, 1874, to Louise Auman. To this union were born five children, four girls and one boy; Ella, May, Jessie and Laura. all of the girls preceded him to the life beyond. His wife died September 17, 1924. His son Earl is living.

Brother Boroughs was converted in young manhood, and united with Fair Grove M. P. church and lived a consecrated Christian life until the end came. He was a useful man to the church and county and will be greatly missed by both. He served the county as register of deeds for eight years, 1900 to 1908. But the greater part of his life was spent in the school room teaching. How this man was held in esteem was demonstrated by the large crowd which thronged in and around the church for the funeral service. It took twenty or more minutes for the people on the outside to march in the church and look at the remains of this highly esteemed man of God.

The church has lost a loyal and consistent member, the county of Randolph a valuable man, the son a most noble father, the relatives a congenial kinsman.

But we feel that our lost is heaven's gain.

D. I. GARNER.

Mathews

Mrs. Margaret Harrison Mathews, age seventy years, the wife of Mr. H. Clay Mathews of Enfield, N. C., passed into eternity on September 20, 1926.

Mrs. Mathews joined the Methodist Protestant church in childhood and remained faithful to her vows throughout her life. She was at church service on Sunday before she passed away the next evening.

She was a good wife and mother and the devotion of the husband and children to the mother was beautiful to look upon.

She was a lover of folks, flowers, music and most of all, the Savior.

She leaves besides the husband, three devoted sons: Cecil, Lloyd and Leonard; and two brothers—Mr. N. M. Harrison, Sr., and Dr. J. H. Harrison.

Her body was laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery to await the coming dawn. The writer officiated at the funeral service.

"Her children rise up, and call her blessed; her husband also, and praiseth her."

R. C. STUBBINS.

Lowe

The Tabernacle community was made sad on August 6th, when it was announced that Brother Hugh Lee Lowe had passed from labor to reward. Brother Lowe was born in Chatham county April 18th, 1865. He was 61 years and 3 months and 18 days old when he died. In 1893 he was married to Miss

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

Mattie Causey. In 1911 he joined Tabernacle Methodist Protestant church and remained a loyal member till death. It was said by some one who knew him, "If he could not speak well of others he would not say anything." This is a splendid tribute to pay to anyone. He was a very quiet man, and one who did not meddle with the affairs of others. He attended to his own business. He was laid to rest in the cemetery at Tabernacle church on Sunday, August 8th. Funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. T. F. McColloch.

He leaves to mourn their loss his wife, one sister, Mrs. Guy Branson, of Durham, two brothers, B. B. Lowe, of Siler City, and M. M. Lowe, of Chatham county. May the Lord comfort the bereaved. EDW. SUITS.

"JALCOSE"

Steel of a new kind called "jalcose" can be produced at less cost than the material now used in the manufacture of many kinds of machinery. The new product, which has a hard surface with a tough but ductile inner core, has just been perfected by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, after years of research. That the new steel will meet a great need, an official of the company has pointed out, appears from the fact that there has arisen an insistent demand for a material for parts of automobile and airplane engines as well as labor-saving devices for the home, office, and factory which would serve the same purpose as special alloy steels without being as costly. "Jalcose," which is a product of the open-hearth furnace, will be exhibited at the coming exposition of the American Society for Steel Treating in Chicago, in the form of hot-rolled and cold-finished bars and automobile and other machinery parts.

SNAKES WHICH DIG HOLES.

There are at least four families of snakes which live a wholly or a partially subterranean life, according to the biological survey. Those that perform the work of excavating their own burrows are known as the blind snakes (Typhlopidae), the ground snakes (Glauconiidae), the coral snakes (Ilysiidae), and the shield tails (Uropeltidae). In these burrowing snakes, the head, body and tail are more or less cylindrical, a modification suited for their peculiar mode of life. Ordinary snakes make use of crevices in the rocks and holes dug by various animals.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

NAPOLEON'S AMERICAN HOME

"For Sale" reads the modest sign on a dilapidated but once pretentious mansion on Chartres street, New Orleans, known locally as the "Napoleon house." It was built, it is said, by Nicholas Girod as a place of refuge for the "Little Corporal" should he have succeeded in escaping from his second exile. But Napoleon was guarded more closely at St. Helena than he was at Elba. It was from Elba that he escaped only to meet his fate at Waterloo. His friends had formed an expedition in America to rescue him. A vessel was fitted out, commanded by Captain Bossierwith Dominick You, an associate of Lafitte, the pirate, as second in command. Three days before the "Seraphine" was to sail news was received of Napoleon's death. The rich furnishings were removed from the Chartres street house and for the past century the once imposing three-story building has been wasting away—Pathfinder.

SHOULD FEEL TRUSTEESHIP

The Presbyterians claim their members give more per capita to religion and education than members of other churches. They say the same thing is true in gifts by will. Last week when the will of A. T. McCallum, of Red Springs, was probated, it was seen he had left most of his estate to the Synod of North Carolina for the propagation of religion and for education. The will of the late Mrs. Joseph C. Irwin, of Statesville, has these bequests; $1,000 to Barium Orphanage; $2,000 to the Statesville Presbyterian church; $1,000 to Davidson College and $1,000 to Mitchell College.

It was once said that it was regarded as a disgrace for a rich man to die in Boston without leaving money to Harvard. It is a reflection upon a proper sense of trusteeship for a rich man to die anywhere without making gifts to good causes, and it is to be hoped this truth will be more and more acted upon in North Carolina. It is even better for men and women, when justice to those dependent on them permits, to become their own almoners while living. The wisest course is to give in life and also add to gifts in wills.—Charlotte Observer.

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

ODELL'S
INCORPORATED
Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Contain specially prepared Helps to Bible Study and many Attractive Illustrations suitable for children.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 Winston Building Philadelphia

He who does not love his labour, and does not put interest or dignity into it, is a bad workman.—Wagner.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER E[illegible] CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBO[illegible], OCTOBER 7, 1926 NUMBER 47

Pres. Blanchard Theol Westminster MD

Should We Cancel France's War Debt to Us?

A Two-Sided Question

Rev. Francis E. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, who recently spent six months in Europe, has written regarding France's present attitude toward the payment of its debt to us. He says:

"In France Americans have been insulted and stoned on the streets; and vicious posters are displayed all over the country, abusing our country, calling Washington 'the Calvary where France is being crucified,' and describing Americans as 'callous money-grubbers,' who are growing rich at the expense of poor France. Poor France, nevertheless, can maintain a huge army of useless soldiers, with no possible dangerous enemy in sight, and can subsidize her allies, and enable them also to keep up great military establishments.

"I must say I have little sympathy with this Gallic cry of poverty and this refusal to pay war debts, since there is one sure and certain way for France to relieve this poverty and to get upon a good financial footing once more; and that is by reducing her terrible military expenditures, which are enough to swamp any national treasury."

The question, however, is not whether France can or could pay, but whether we ought to require her to pay. Secretary Baker, of Wilson's cabinet, says America ought to cancel the debt. Others are of the same mind. One of these, Frederick W. Peabody, of Ashburnham, Mass., a lawyer, has written a letter to President Coolidge urging that justice and our national honor demand that we cancel the debts incurred to us by our allies in the war. While they were fighting for themselves directly, indirectly they were fighting for us and we lent them money because we felt that they were our defenders. Here are some of the statements of the letter:

"Upon our entrance of the war, it was perfectly plain to the government of the United States that, if we were not to be left to face Germany alone, our associates, Great Britain, France, Belgium, and Italy must be maintained by us with all necessary supplies until we could join them in the field. The security and defence of the United States imperatively demanded it at whatever cost. The allies needed it for their own interest, of course; but they needed it before we went into the war and only got it when it would be of benefit to the United States, when it became a matter of necessity to us, a legitimate, an inevitable war measure. There can be no two opinions about this, for the government of the United States so declared.

"In his speech to Congress asking a delcaration of war against Germany, the President definitely pledged 'our lives and our fortunes, everything we are and everything we have' to its prosecution. He didn't suggest loans for our defence to be repaid with interest. He committed America to the contribution of everything we had to the winning of the war, and Congress promptly proceeded to carry out his pledge.

"In a little more than a week thereafter, Congress voted to make the war supplies that had accumulated in the country available to the allies, as the law put it, 'to the government engaged in war with the enemies of the United States.' This act of the national legislature providing for the establishment of credits in favor of 'the governments engaged in war with the enemies of the United States' opened with words that should be known to every citizen as well as they are known to you and to me. But for them, this petition would not be sent to you. These words (would that they might be blazed across the sky!) were: 'For the purpose of more effectually providing for the national security and defence and for prosecuting the war.'

"How could anything be plainer than that? The credits were established and some nine billions and a half of dollars were advanced to our associates in the war, solely and only the more effectually to provide for the security and defence of the United States; in other words, to enable the war-weary allies to prosecute the war alone against the enemies of the United States until we could join them, and thus save us from having to fight Germany without allies, or crawl on our knees at her feet.

"It was our bounden and officially avowed duty thus to defend America, as well as our only way possible for upwards of a year after we entered the war. And America performed her duty as became America. She poured out money like water. While her associates were holding the trenches with men, America was helping them with money. All that was done in battle during the first year of our war with Germany to save us from the catastrophe of having to stand against her alone was done by Great Britain and Belgium and France and Italy. All the blood shed was British and Belgian and French and Italian blood, not a drop of it was American. Our money was used both for them and for us; and their blood was shed for us and for themselves.

"The government of the United States bases its right to demand repayment upon the merest technicality, a naked promise. It would seem that somebody in authority took advantage of the great need of our associates to require of them a promise to repay money advanced for our security and defence, and that, God knows, was so used. It was a mean and unAmerican thing under such circumstances, and in any court of morals, before any tribunal of honor, yes, as justice is administered between man and man, in any court of law the United States would have no standing whatever. You and I, as lawyers, know that an agreement made without consideration is of no effect. As I have shown, and shall further show, the allies gave full value for the money they received and the agreement to repay is void for want of consideration.

(Continued on Page Five)

GOD IN HUMAN HISTORY

Rev. Arthur H. Goodenough

History is like a rolling prairie, like an undulating landscape. Nations rise and fall; political parties win and lose. All things human change, sometimes up, sometimes down. The church is no exception to that rule. The history of the church is a succession of hot and cold waves. There have been great epochs in church and state of importance and value, and there will be again. There is a loud call for the best brains and the truest hearts to meet the exigencies of the hour. The response is encouraging. Great events do not break forth suddenly and unexpectedly. Era-making events cast their shadows before them.

To thinking people, people with open eyes and intuitions, there are always certain precursory signs indicating what is coming. Something is coming. What is it? A new era—a better world. Not a perfect world, by any means. It is not well to expect too much. Sin and suffering will be here just the same. But it will be in a better world. The tendency is to righteousness.

The church itself is changing and will be a better church in the near future. The church's best days are before it. Of this there are unmistakable portents. What are the portents, pray? One is the consolidating of the dfferent Christian organizations and the concentrating of the forces that are operating for the progress and uplifting of the children of men. Another is the immanent God. Ecclesiastical legislators, various religious bodies in their synods, assemblies, and conferences—everywhere thoughtful people are asking, "What is the great need of this world?" What is the crying want of the church? Great questions are flung at us from countless sources. The answer is, the recognized presence of the Holy Spirit.

The Holy Spirit is a divine person in the world and in men, working out the present good and happy destiny of the race. There are many of us who believe that we are nearing a great religious awakening. We ground our belief on the signs of the times. There are certain peculiar indications similar to those that preceded Luther and the birth of Protestantism. All that is needed is another Luther. There are signs resembling those that were observed prior to Wesley's coming and the great religious awakening of the 18th century. The only thing lacking is another Wesley. We must believe that the needed men are in the making. God moves slowly, but surely. The horizon is full of promise. Dr. S. D. Gordon in one of his books says, "The great opportunity is yet to come—its ultimate aim is the dethronement of the brute and the kinghood of man."

A few months ago J. St. Loe Strachey had an article in The Forum which was a eulogy of George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends. In it he said: "The sleepy materialism of the world before the war and the active and fiery materialism since the war must end in a violent reaction. The longer it is in coming, the fiercer and more complete it will be." By that reaction he means a widespread and conquering revival of New Testament religion.

In the book of Acts we have the beautiful story of Pentecost. The life of Jesus, except for a brief period before His death, was uneventful. His life was both human and divine. But whatever it was, it hardly touched the world at all. The real presence was essential to the plan of redemption. His stay was planned to be brief. He assured his followers that He must leave them. He was "God manifest in the flesh," "God with us." But the visible presence was necessarily brief. In His announcement, however, that He must go away, He gave a promise that the "Comforter" should come to stay. The Holy Spirit would be God the Father and God the Son everywhere—the universal and permanent divine Presence. The day of Pentecost represents the fulfilment of that promise. The coming of the Holy Spirit was marked by signs and manifestations hard to explain. That was one of the most momentous hours in the history of the human race. The world's best life began in that moment. The disciples had been men at the minimum point—even though they had been converted and were disciples. Discipleship may be a cheap thing and often is—converted and disciples, but men at the minimum point. The emphasis of the pulpit today is that life and true religion are more than conversion or discipleship.

In the touch of the Holy Spirit men leaped up to the maximum point; they became bold, determined, mighty. That is what happens to people when they give God the right of way in their lives. Then they start out to do something. The results of the disciples' doing are with us yet. They sent out great spirit-influences and mighty thought-waves which are potent forces in the best life of today. The Holy Spirit in us—we mean by that, God the Father and God the Son in us—is the hope of the world. God in a man multiplies, intensifies the man. It enhances his value as a man. Man plus God is man at his best. Man minus God never reaches his best. Achievement is the result of conscious power. Man at one with God can do all things.

In the New Testament story of Pentecost is a striking statement: "Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them." Peter had something to say. Instantly he became a valuable asset to society. Pentecost stimulated his mind and losened his tongue. The man had courage and confidence. God in a man makes him a citizen and a character of the highest order. What this age wants is ideas. The person who has ideas is in demand and can command his price. People like to listen to a man who instructs them or enthuses them, or moves them to do something that is worth while. The great makers of history—who have been builders and not destroyers—have been men and women who have had a vision of things eternal and have been climbing while others slept.

Montanus, than whom Wesley says no better man ever lived, had this saying: "The soul of man is like a lyre and it breaks forth into sweetest music when the strings are swept by the plectrum of the Paraclete."

God is in all history past. The student can see the footprints of God in every step of progress. He must we wilfully blind and stubborn who does not see God in the ages gone and also in current events. God is in every man, in every man who has a soul in him. If Christianity means anything, it means that the divine Spirit moves in all human history. We rejoice in the progress the world has made up to now. Did the World War block the way to advancement? It seemed so. But it was only in the seeming. The conflict did retard progress. But the way is opening up once more. The age of humanity is dawning—human brotherhood is becoming a reality. The altruistic spirit is gripping the souls of the people. The best brains of today are leading in the path of clear thinking and social and commercial fellowship. Glorious things are ahead of us.

The results of the Spirit's movements and operations are everywhere. Christian progress has put a new heart-beat into suffering, hoping Africa. Africa, surely destined for great things, is coming into its own. The same may be said of China. Italy is an uncertain quantity. Mussolini is at present in the saddle, but his grip may break any time for good or ill. Things are not always what they seem in Italy. But we venture to say Italy will yet open its eyes to the larger light, and its artistic people will yet individually see their Lord. Russia—bleeding, prostrate Russia—will yet be saved. It must be so.

Jesus said, "When he, the Spirit of truth is come, he . . . . will show you things to come." Things to come! A world redeemed and cleansed and beautified; humanity healed and glorified; political trickery and religious hypocrisy put into the pit and burned. Things to come! Kaiserism, in all lands, not only in Germany, but in France, in England, in the United States, shot into a thousand atoms and sent to the bottom of the sea. Sin and wickedness defeated.: That is the pledge of God, and the promise of Jesus. That is the mission of the Holy Spirit. Let us think of it and live for it.

I have in mind a group of people who were chief actors in the world's life some year ago; their names are familiar to many of my readers: William E. Gladstone, a world citizen and statesman, a devoted churchman, and prime minister of England three times; Queen Victoria, ruler of the world's mightiest empire, a womanly woman and a motherly mother; Abraham Lincoln, the man of humble beginnings but who filled a big place in the affairs of men and whose good influences are growing with the passing years; Frances Willard, an American woman of whom we are justly proud, a thinker, a brilliant speaker, and an eternal enemy of liquor; Pasteur, one of the greatest of great Frenchmen, a world benefactor, a semi-invalid himself, but whose life was consecrated to the arrest of disease and the prolonging of life, a prodigious worker; William Booth, founder and general of the Salvation Army, whose achievements were marvelous; Cardinal Mercier, a saintly man whose religion was larger than his church, heroic and godlike figure in the World War, who brought cheer and hope and comfort to the homeless and dying soldiers and civilians of his beloved Belgium.

Each of these seven persons filled a wide place and exerted a boundless influence. They were widely apart in their thinking. Each had his and her own world, with strong convictions and of eloquent expression, but there was room in the world's work for all of them and for what they represented. Truth is a tremendously big thing. No human mind can comprehend the whole world of truth—nor can any one mind comprehend the matchless influence of the seven persons just named. What was the secret of t? God in them. Is there any other way of accounting for it? They have all gone—one by one they went. Where are they now? Not asleep; not nonexistent. They live. We believe that such characters are immortal. Where are they now? There is but one place in the universe of God where I can think of their being. That is up in heaven. There, their differences do not count. They have, without doubt, their own personality as of yore. But the little, petty, non-essential things that were made so much of when they were here, were lost in the transit. The best in each is merged into all of them, and they see in each other the image of thir adorable Lord. For life there is perfect as well as sweet, and their high service is to celebrate the triumph of Jesus Christ, Son of God.

Then, would it not be well for us to see and appreciate the good and not magnify the faults in one another? Is not that good sense? Then it must be good religion. Why not be content to be unlike, as God made us, and be magnanimous as God wants us to be? Peter, we repeat, was filled with the Holy Spirit. Then he was worth 20 Peters up to that time. Our selfishness belittles us, dwarfs us, torments us. We so readily sip from the world's goblet and quickly jump at the devil's bait. God in us means victory every day.

Let me close with some lines from the beloved William F. Warren:

I worship Thee, O Holy Ghost,
I love to worship Thee;
My risen Lord for ay were lost
But for Thy company.

I worship Thee, O Holy Ghost,
I love to worship Thee;
With Thee each day is Pentecost,
Each night Nativity.

—Zion's Herald.

TOBACCO AND MOTHERHOOD

Will H. Brown

Here is what may happen in tens of thousands of cases if the habit of smoking becomes common among the women of our country: A young married woman gave birth to an apparently normal baby, but when eight days old it died. Perplexed as to the cause of the sudden passing of the little one, the doctor performed a post mortem examination. He found that the babe possessed "a well defined nicotine heart," and reported that it was due to the smoking of the mother, which had poisoned the blood with nicotine. This incident was reported in the Outlook, of Providence, R. I., in the issue of April, 1926.

What a real mother thinks of tobacco in relation to motherhood is related by Mrs. Mabel Strickland, the champion all-around cow-girl of the world, doing stunts with horses and cattle that amaze all beholders. Quoted in an interview, reproduced in the Literary Digest, she said: "You may think I am a paradox. I cannot tolerate the mannish woman any more than I can the womanish man. I don't chew, smoke, drink or get on the front pages of New York, Chicago or Washington newspapers."

She expresses love and loyalty for her husband and little girl, saying their home-life is sweet and complete.

Picture in your mind the sweetness and completeness of such a home, compared with what it would be if she were a cigarette-smoking wife and mother. In the first place, had she been a smoker, you probably would never have heard favorably of her, for she would not have been the champion cow-girl of the world. It is possible you might have heard of her through some unwomanly conduct, on her part.

You can always find somebody who knows more than you do; if you don't believe it, ask somebody.

Denominational Enterprises

EN ROUTE TO JAPAN

By the time this is read the newest missionary of the Union Board, Miss Margueretta E. Sampson, will be on board the Canadian ship—Empress of Canada—speeding westward to Japan to take her place as a kindergarten teacher in Yokohama. The ship is scheduled to leave Vancouver September 30th.

Miss Sampson is a Methodist Protestant, her home is at Kinde, Michigan, and she has had excellent training and experience for the work to which she feels called and to which the Union Board is happy to send her to meet an increasing need.

Her arrangements to go had to be very much hurried and the ship reservation had to be exchanged for the later one as above.

An impressive consecration service was held at the Michigan conference at beautiful Gull Lake, and numerous friends expressed their esteem and good wishes by kind words and substantial gifts.

She will be accorded a most hearty welcome when she steps on the pier at Yokohama, for if the time of the ship's arrival is at all seasonable some of our missionaries and Japanese friends will greet her most heartily, and, passing through the customs will soon have her comfortably quartered in the home on Maita hill with its fine outlook, and glorious Fuji in sight in clear weather.

She will be remembered at home altars in Michigan and elsewhere, and I appeal for prayers in her behalf next Sunday in our churches that voyage may be safely made, that health may be vouchsafed, and that God's blessings may rest upon her efforts to acquire the language, and to carry on her important work, and also upon all our workers and work.

Miss Ethel L. Hempstead will be homeward bound in a few months after faithful and efficient service rendered, and will be welcomed most cordially by all who know her, and most warmly by those in the circle of her American home.

Dr. Fleagle's furlough is overdue—for she has given over six years of earnest and helpful medical service at Kalgan, China—through which she has earned deserved recognition, but civil war's alarms and devastations have been sweeping over that part of China, for the Christian army has retreated from its base at Kalgan, and the contending army has occupied the city and surroundings, and the needs are inexpressibly great and the supplies pitiably low and insufficient.

Our missionaries were safe, our properties undisturbed, save at some outstations up to September 2nd. But under date of Aug. 17th, Mrs. C. G. Soderbom wrote, "Long before six o'clock Sunday morning we were awakened by the sound of carts coming into the compound. All day Sunday they came, it was like a caravan, carts, rickashaws, one after the other as close as they could come. Nearly 300 women and children with their bedding and food came in that day. We put up 147 in the girls' school, and the remainder in the boys' school. We had to build outdoor stoves for them to cook with. We held our regular services at the chapel at Tungjuan, but very few workers from here could go, as every one was needed to take care of the numbers of people that were flocking in. Our girls asked to stay at home, because they were afraid to go on the streets, as the whole city was in an excited state as it was beginning to be known that the Christian army was in retreat.

"From five in the morning until ten at night this place was like a beehive, every one as busy as bees. At about nine o'clock at night a big fire broke out in the city, and frightened many for they did not know whether the retreating soldiers were looting, or whether bandits had entered the city, but the Christian army has not been known to loot, and later some one told us it was three railroad cars full of gasoline that had accidentally caught fire, and soon all settled down quietly." More anon.

Fred C. Klein.

THE DENOMINATIONAL OUTLOOK

Alabama.—The churches on the Union Circuit are buying a car for the pastor, Rev. W. O. Lynch.——The Lee Circuit, said to be the oldest circuit in the Conference, is taking on new life. One of the churches has been painted, plans are on foot to repaint two more, and a new church building is planned for another of the appointments.——Sixteen new members were received into the Pleasant Hill church as a result of the revival services.——Cedar Grove church, Clanton Circuit, had 13 additions from the special meeting.

Eastern.—Improvements have been made on the church and parsonage at Shickshinny at a cost of $1,700.——The church at Pittston has paid $8,000 on the debt this year.——Two of the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Inwood church had a prominent part in the State Christion Endeavor Summer Assembly.

Indiana.—At the recent session of the Annual Conference eight candidates were ordained to the Gospel ministry, one of them a woman, the first in the history of the Conference.

Maryland.—The Hallwood church expects to have a real Thanksgiving service when it proposes to have in hand $4,700 with which to pay off the remaining indebtedness.——Fourteen additions to the membership of the Liberty and Grace churches, on the Amelia Circuit as a result of the special meetings.——The Sunday school rooms of the St. John's church, Baltimore, have been re-decorated, and cushions placed in the church pews. (Evidently the folks propose to be at ease in Zion!)——The cornerstone of the new church at Maryland Line was laid on September 5. The church will cost about $20,000.——The Holly Run church celebrated its 98th birthday on Sunday, September 12. This is perhaps the oldest Methodist Protestant church building in existence.

Mississippi.—The Camp Spring church, Choctaw Circuit, has been remodeled, the expense being borne by one of the laymen of the church.——Rev. J. W. Brand reports about 100 members added to the church of his charge as the fruits of the special meetings.

Ohio.—The president's report to the Annual Conference is very comprehensive and encouraging. He reports having traveling 18,173 miles; the largest amount ever raised on the Annual Conference Budget; a bequest of several thousand dollars from one of the laymen of the Conference; 77 charges report 901 additions to the membership; 39 churches report improvements totaling many thousands of dollars; $38,830 paid on the General Conference Budget.

Pittsburgh.—Rev. J. R. Clark, pastor of the First Church, South Side, Pittsburgh, made the "keynote speech" at the National G. A. R. Encampment which was held at Des Moines, Iowa.——Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Colhouer celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage on September 7. The Second Church, Uniontown, of which he is pastor, presented them with a chest of gold and silver.

West Virginia.—Rev. B. M. Mitchell, president of the West Virginia Conference, in his report to the annual meeting, indicates considerable improvement. Among the church building enterprises now under way are the following: Spencer, $50,000; West Morgantown, $25,000; Parsons, $25,000; South Clarksburg, $7,500. He reports a considerable gain in membership. C. W. B.

RALLY DAY

The duties which come to us from time to time may be divided into two classes—those that we feel that we may perform (or omit) and those we feel must be undertaken. I trust that every church in the Conference will place the proper observance of Rally Day in the latter class.

Rally Day is primarily a getting together of the forces of the Sunday school, following the period of partial disorganization incident to the summer.

The last General Conference made it the occasion for taking an offering for the Board of Education. I have felt for years that it was a appropriate time for this offering, when the young people had but recently begun to attend the schools and colleges. The successful observance of this day, which includes a good offering, is especially important to us in North Carolina. The General Board has made a liberal appropriation to High Point College. Their ability to pay this appropriation depends largely upon the offerings received on Rally Day. We certainly cannot expect the Board to take very much of the money collected in other Conferences and in the territory of other colleges, and pay it to High Point College if the North Carolina Conference should be to a great degree indifferent to its opportunity to aid its own college. Let every pastor and every Sunday school superintendent say, "We must have a good offering on Rally Day."

J. Norman Wills.

ANSWER TO "PESSIMIST"

This writer had hoped that someone else would answer the article in the issue of September 16 entitled, "The Pastor's Financial Obligation," by "Pessimist." After perusing the columns of The Herald for last week I failed to see an answer, so I desire to "give vent to my feelings in print" in reply to "Pessimist" on the very important subject of his breezy article which terminated with the interrogation: "Who wants a pastor who won't pay his debts?"

In the first paragraph of Mr. Pessimist's epistle of criticism of the poorly paid, under-paid and sometimes unpaid pastor, the writer of the article charges indifference of "some of our pastors" as to meeting their financial obligations. The degree of indifference is declared by "Pessimist" to be appalling.

In answer to the charge made by the writer of said article, I wish to state that in many instances the pastor does not receive all of his salary from the churches he serves faithfully during the year, and the Annual Conference sends him to another field. He faces moving expenses and the problem of becoming acquainted with the new field and its people. The pertinent question to Mr. Pessimist is, "How can a pastor pay his financial obligations when the charge he has served does not pay his salary in full?" Think a little, Mr. Pessimist, and perhaps you will arrive at a conclusion. Another answer to the question: "Who wants a pastor who won't pay his debts?" is in the form of a question: "What pastor wants to serve a church that shows an indifference to its financial obligation to its pastor?"

Now, Mr. Pessimist, reflect in your mind a little, and turn your question around. Have those charges, whose former pastors went away leaving obligations not met, paid the salary in full as promised? If they did, then your criticism is just; if they did not, your charge is unjust.

I am not ashamed to sign my real name to this answer to "Pessimist." C. B. Way.

The Glorious Life of the Soul-Winner

This was the theme of Rev. J. D. Williams' sermon on Monday night in Calvary church. The glory of the man of wealth or the man of power will pass like the flash of a meteor, but the soul-winner will shine as the stars forever and ever. The preacher outlined clearly the conditions for becoming a soul-winner. First, it is absolutely necessary that your own soul be won to Christ before you can win other souls to Him It is utterly useless to try to bring men to Christ unless you have found Him yourself. (This might be questioned by some, as evangelists have seemed to succeed sometimes when they were afterwards found to be hypocrites. However, it is certain that a personal consciousness of the saving power of Christ will make one a much more effective witness for Christ.)

Secondly, in order to be a successful soul-winner one must believe that without the salvation of Christ souls are lost. No matter how correct the moral life is, Christ must save or perdition will be the certain end. We must be convinced of this before we can move in earnest for the salvation of any soul.

Thirdly, we must believe firmly that salvation is possible to the soul we would win. We must not be paralyzed by any doubts on that point. Jesus Christ tasted death for every man and made salvation possible to every man. We must have assurance that our labor need not be in vain in the Lord.

Then we must begin with those about us—our relatives, our friends, our most intimate associates. And we must feel that God would move us in the matter and that He will lend the influence of His Holy Spirit to give effect and direction to our efforts.

Soul-winning is the greatest work in the world, the privilege of doing which the angels in Heaven might envy us.

Should We Cancel France's War Debt to Us?

(Continued from Page One)

What man of fair mind and honorable instincts can say that the United States government has not enacted the role of a cruel and harsh extortioner in the matter of these so-called debts?"

President Coolidge is said to be opposed to the cancellation of the debts referred to, feeling that they are real debts and that nations as well as individuals should pay their debts.

The first question to be settled is whether the debts are real debts. It is a two-sided question and the probability is that large concession should be made to the considerations that Mr. Peabody advanced. The truth usually lies between two extremes.

OUR STORY PAGE

HELPING POLLY

As the door closed behind Polly, Tom looked across at his mother.

"How long has this been going on?" he asked. "She used to be the jolliest little youngster in the world."

Polly's mother shook her head at him, although her eyes were troubled.

"Don't be severe on her, Tom. Polly's growing up, and sometimes a girl takes growing up rather hard. Just now her sense of proportion is a little out of focus and small troubles loom large, but she'll find herself presently, and it will all come right."

"I should hope so," Tom replied fervently. Upon second thought he decided to say nothing to his mother of the plan he had half resolved upon, but wait his opportunity with Polly. It came in a few days, when Polly came from school tearful and indignant over her French mark.

"It isn't fair!" she declared. "Margaret Judson didn't do a bit better work than I, yet Margaret had 96 and I only 93. I do think I have the hardest times!" she wailed.

"Yes," Tom agreed, "I think you do."

Polly looked at him in surprise. Tom's attitude since he came home had not been sympathetic—that was one of her grievances.

Tom pulled a note-book from his pocket and began to read:

"Monday was a horrid, dull day and your hair wouldn't stay in curl and everything went wrong—as things do on rainy days. Tuesday you went down-town and couldn't find any silk like Lena Andrew's and had to get a homely old thing that you never would like. Wednesday you discovered that nobody ever did understand you anyway. Thursday evening at Miss Jacob's Miss Jacob acted 'queer,' and you wished you hadn't gone. Friday Bridget let the cream custard curdle when she knew it was your favorite dessert! Saturday—

But Polly interrupted. "Oh, Tom, don't! I didn't know I—" and then, a deluge impending, she rushed tumultously from the room.

"O, Tom!" the mother remonstrated, her own eyes full of tears.

"Don't you worry," Tom answered. "I know Polly. She's grit, and she'll come through all right. I'm just helping her grow up."—Selected.

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

"Mr. Conductor," said little Louis Rhodes, pulling at a gilt-buttoned coatsleeve, "please tell me a story."

"Bless my life!" exclaimed Captain Sam, of express No. 55; the train had just pulled out from Newcastle, and as there was a long run without a stop, the tired conductor had dropped into a back seat to rest a bit, when Louis came up and asked for a story.

"Bless my life!" said Captain Sam, "I don't know a story to my name, except 'Here is the house that Jack built.' "

"Don't tell me that!" answered the little boy. "I know that myself," and he began to rattle off:

"This is the house that Jack built;
This is the rat that lived in the house that Jack built;
This is the cat that caught the rat—"

"Stop right there!" said the conductor; "that reminds me of something. On my last trip east, as I went through one of the coaches to look at the tickets, I found a little girl about your size sitting in a seat by herself. 'Tickets,' I said without thinking. 'Mamma has 'em,' says she, 'an she's gone to get a d'ink of water. But won't you please take my orange to that little girl back there with a red hand'cher on her head? Her mamma has forgot to give her any.'

"I looked for the little girl with the red handkerchief, and saw a poor woman with five children. They didn't have on much clothes. They didn't look as if they had had much to eat, but nobody was paying any attention to them.

"Maybe your mamma won't like you to give away your orange,' said I.

"The little girl opened her eyes very wide and says she: 'Why, Cap'n, my mamma loves me to give things!'

"'All right,' says I, and I went back to the little party and gave them the orange; and says I, in a loud tone of voice, 'This is from a little girl whose mamma just loves her to give things.'

"At that, ever so many mothers pricked up their ears, and presently I saw another little girl bring a box of lunch to the poor children. 'Ah,' says I to myself, 'this is like that old song about the house that Jack built. This is the cat—' when I got that far a lady pulled a pretty little cap out of her bag, and says she: 'Won't you let your little girl wear this Tam-o-Shanter?'

"I went on singing easy to myself, 'Where is the dog that worried the cat, that killed the rat that lived in the house that Jack built?' And sure enough here was a boy giving some things out of his pocket—I don't know what. So it went on till those forlorn little chicks had more things than a few; all because one little kind heart gave 'em her orange. Now, small boy, get off my knee. I've got to ring the bell for the engineer to whistle. Go and see if you can start another 'house that Jack built.'"—Dew Drops.

A LUCKY GIRL

Jessie was so tall for her age that people were always making remarks about it and her mother scarcely knew how to dress her. If she bought 10-year-old dresses for her they were too short but the 12-year old dresses were too old-looking. The only thing Mother could do was get busy and make Jessie's clothes and this she did, and that was why Jessie was the best dressed girl in school. Mother's dresses were much nicer than the bought ones so many of the girls wore.

Pete was a year older than Jessie, but he was much shorter. Then there was little Betty, who was six and Buddy, who was only four years old. Jessie sometimes wished she was small like the others, for then grown folks would not expect so much of her.

Buddy was rather mischievous and Mother was having an awful time with him that summer. She complained to Jessie:

"I simply must write those important letters and Betty and Pete are so noisy; as for Buddy, I don't know what to do with him. He's supposed to take his nap, but I've put him to bed three times already and every time he gets out and comes and bothers me."

"Why don't you lock him into his room? It would be a good lesson to him," suggested Jessie, who wanted to read. "I'm going to stuff cotton in my ears so I can't hear the other kids."

"That's a good idea!" cried Mother. "I just must write these important letters. I'll lock up Buddy the next time he comes out, and I think I'll stuff up my ears, too."

Just then Buddy appeared at the door, grinning and rosy. His mother gently led him to bed, and after explaining why she had to do so, she locked the door of the room. Then she stopped up her ears.

Jessie got the pretty book, full of pictures, and took it to the hammock on the lawn. It was cool and shady there and in her hurry to get at her book, she forgot to stuff up her ears with cotton.

In the yard she heard the merry cries and shouts of her brother and sister who were playing roughly with their two dogs, but the noise did not disturb her. She opened her book and lazily turned the pages, looking at the pictures.

Suddenly she heard a little noise from the house, and looking slowly up she was not surprised to see Buddy's little face peering out longingly. She shook her head at him and he ducked away.

"He can't get out," she thought. "Daddy nailed the window shut all but a few inches for fresh air."

Then she began to read. The shouts and laughter in the yard went on, but Jessie did not hear it, she was so interested in her book, but when there was a funny little noise from the house, she looked up. In a moment she jumped to her feet with a cry of surprise. At Buddy's window something was going on. As she looked, a pair of little feet slid through the partly opened window. Jessie gave a scream and dashed towards the house.

In a moment Buddy's fat little body appeared through the window, and Jessie, screaming loudly for help, scrambled up a trellis to the porch roof.

She had figured it all out in her quick mind. The window had been nailed shut all but a few inches. Daddy had measured Buddy's head to make sure that the window would not open wide enough for him to get out of it. But his head was the biggest part of him, for his legs and body had squeezed through and there he hung by his head which would not go through. Jessie knew she had not time to run into the house and up the stairs and unlock the door and pull her brother in. By the time she had done all that the little fellow might be strangled to death.

The poor little girl was not sure she could save Buddy. But she acted quickly and was up on the porch roof almost as fast at a cat could have climbed. Then she rushed under the window and stretched up as far as she could. Her hands touched Buddy's little feet.

"Stand on my hands!" she cried.

Buddy's legs straightened, and, my! he was heavy!

"Can I hold him?" thought his sister. "I must hold him. God help me!"

It was a desperate moment, but Jessie steadied herself, and began to call for help.

Suddenly she noticed how quiet it had become, and glancing over her shoulder, she saw her brother Pete and sister Betty racing far down the road with the dogs. Well, Mother was in the sitting-room. Jessie called her as loudly as she could. Then an awful thought same to her. Mother had stuffed up her ears with cotton. She could not hear.

It seemed to Jessie that she could not hold those little feet up over her head any longer, but she knew that her brother would very likely be strangled.

"Can you get your arms inside and pull yourself back in?" she asked him.

"I t'ant!" sobbed Buddy. "I'm f'ightened, Tita."

"It's all right, darling," said Jessie. "Sister will save you."

But she really did not know how. The tears streamed down her face, and oh, how cruelly her arms ached! She began screaming: "Help!" "Help!"

There might have been a sad ending to the story, because the other children had gone away and the mother sat writing with cotton plugged in her ears. There was no one to help, and Jessie's thin little arms were giving way under the weight of Buddy. Well, just as the last bit of strength seemed to leave the girl, she heard a cry below her. Her father had happened to come back early from business and what a sight met his eyes! He said afterwards God must have sent him home early, because he really had no reason for coming. He just came and arrived in time to save the children.

In a moment he had dropped his briefcase and swung up on the roof, and his strong, sure hand grasped little Buddy's legs.

"Go and pull him in, dearie," he said quietly, and Jessie hurried down.

All this time the mother sat writing, and when she heard what had been going on, she very nearly fainted away.

"I'll never stuff my ears again!" she sobbed, clasping her children to her. "It was awful of me."

"No, how could you tell what would happen?" said Daddy. "It's all over. I'll get some strong chicken-wire and nail it over the windows."

"I won't do it any more," sobbed Buddy, who had had a good scaring. "I didn't want to be locked in. I was detting out."

"And if you had gotten out, you would have fallen off the roof and been killed," said his father. "Bad boy! Don't ever do it again."

"You owe your life to your sister," said his mother, but Buddy was playing with her wrist-watch and had forgotten all about his troubles.

"I'll never be sorry I'm tall," said Jessie, putting her head down on her father's shoulder. "If I'd been shorter—"

"And I'll be proud to make dresses for my brave, resourceful daughter!" cried Mother, and Jessie felt that she was the luckiest girl that ever lived.

"But I gave you bad advice, darling," she told her mother.

"I took it and so I'm to blame," Mother insisted.

"I won't det up any more if you don't lock the door," said Buddy. So everything turned out all right in the end.—Selected.

"When you are satisfied with your attainments you've started on the down grade.

Notes and Sundries

—The many friends of Brother Lucius Eller of Clark's Chapel, Weaverville Circuit, will be glad to know that he is recovering from a serious accident which occurred four weeks ago. He is now in the French Broad Hospital, Asheville. He would be glad to hear from any of his friends whenever it is convenient for them to write him.

—More than four hundred tramps, recently arrested in New Orleans, were put to work cleaning the streets.

—A fifth of New England's farms are now operated by the foreign-born, and many more by the sons of the foreign-born. The proportion has for years shown a steady increase in all the New England States, with the smallest increase in Maine and the greatest in Connecticut. Two extremes in the total proportions are likewise found in these states. According to the most recent census figures, the proportion of foreign-born farm operators to the total number of farm operators was 9.1 per cent. in Maine, 12.8 in New Hampshire, 13 in Vermont, 23 in Rhode Island, 27.9 in Massachusetts, and 33.7 in Connecticut. No figures are available as to the sons of the foreign-born engaged in farming in New England.—The Nation.

—Fourteen per cent of the students in women's colleges work their way through school, a survey indicates.

—Despite reductions in rates, federal tax collections for the fiscal year ending June 30, last, increased by $251,859,623, according to the annual report of the Internal Revenue Bureau. The total collections of internal revenue from all sources for the last year were $2,835,999,892.

—Significant, apparently, of a changing sentiment in England regarding the traffic in intoxicating drink is the decision of London Punch to refuse to print advertisements of liquor after the existing contracts expire. "No explanation for this revolutionary move has been vouchsafed," says the Associated Press dispatch announcing the action, "although it is understood the matter has been under consideration for some time."

—The question of disbanding the Grand Army of the Republic seems not to have come up at the annual encampment just closed, or at least if it did was decided in the negative. For the veterans adjourned at Des Moines to meet in Dayton, O., next year.

—A party driving through the mountains, meeting a small native, questioned him as to the roads and country in the vicinity. His answers were so intelligent and his manners so attractive that it brought out the praise: "You are a bright little fellow; have you any brothers and sisters?"

"Yes, there are four of us, but I'm the only one that amounts to anything."—The Boston Herald.

—The longest English word recorded by any dictionary is "antidisestablishmentarianism," which contains 28 letters. It is defined by the Standard dictionary as "a doctrine of opposition to disestablishment: said specifically of a state church."

—The percentage of safety in airplane travel in Germany during 1925, according to official statistics, was 99.997. During the first eight months of 1926 not a passenger on the seventy-five airplane routes of that country was injured.

—The Jordan River in Palestine has never been navigable. No important towns exist along its banks and it empties into a salty inland sea. Its valley was the Wilderness of Hebrew times, and today is thickly forested.

—Seventeen years ago a number of beet seeds were stored away by a Danish seed-testing station. Each year some have been withdrawn for experimental purposes. Tests proved that eighty-five per cent. of germination took place in the second year and twenty-four per cent. in the seventeenth year of dormancy. Seeds of white clover germinated after a lapse of twenty-five years.—The Dearborn Independent.

—Few people, we venture to say, have ever heard of the Chinese Encyclopedia, and yet it is the largest in the world and was compiled two centuries ago. Attention is drawn to it now by a report from Geneva that a copy of the encyclopedia is to be presented, as soon as its reprinting is finished, to the League of Nations by the Chinese delegate to that body. The encyclopedia consists of 800 large volumes, comprising 800,000 pages. A set owned by the British Museum occupies nine large bookcases. The information collected in the volumes is grouped in six categories— heaven, earth, man, science, literature, government. The scholar Chen Ming-lei edited the work. There are no original articles, it is said, but simply grouped extracts from previously existing literature.—Zion's Herald.

—Wesley's chapel, City Road, is accorded deserved recognition as an historical shrine, in the following Associated Press dispatch from London, dated September 25:

One of the little advertised American pilgrimages in London is to John Wesley's Chapel in City Road. The tourist automobiles miss the little chapel of the famous Methodist divine, but hundreds of foreigners, particularly Americans, seek it out in the labyrinth of twisting streets of Old London. Recently the chapel was renovated and now is open daily for prayer and meditation. A Wesleyan museum has been founded in a neighboring house where Wesley lived, and where he died on March 2, 1791, in his eighty-eighth year.

—Moslem women are not allowed to marry Christians by the terms of the modified form of the Swiss civil code now before the Turkish national assembly for ratification. The law which prohibits polygamy and divorce by the mere whim of the husband, declares as null marriages contracted with Christians.

—Bobby was sent by his father on an errand to an elderly relative who placed great stress on manners. On his return his father questioned him as to his reception.

"Tain't no use to write any more letters to him, pa. He can't see to read them. He is blind!"

"Blind!"

"Yes. He asked me twice where my hat was, and I had it on my head all the time."—Exchange.

—Berlin has more than two hundred bee-keepers who have more than three thousand hives on the flat roofs of buildings.

—The number of church members in America increased 800,000 during 1925. Methodists led in the increase. There are now 46,883,000 church members out of a population of 116,000,000.

—Brother Tom Pender lost to thieves a few nights ago. They entered his store in Mebane and carried away his safe with the cash contents amounting to $150.00. Thieves are growing very bold. They removed a safe from an upper story of the Jefferson Standard Building in Greensboro some time ago and got away with it.

—Moody Bible School, Chicago, is now using a radio station to broadcast lectures on the Bible at 8:30 each evening. Those who hear may be enrolled as students and may answer questions by letter and receive certificates of credit. All broadcasting of WABI is on a wavelength of 268.3 meters.

—In its brief lifetime the silkworm spins about 4,000 yards of thread.

UR OF THE CHALDEES

Dr. C. L. Woolley, director of the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania Museum, reported to the British Association of Science the latest results of excavations at Ur of the Chaldees, which figures in Biblical history as the home town of Abraham. He said that in the temple at Ur he found the soil riddled with vertical terra-cotta drain pipes, through which the Chaldeans poured libations down to the nether gods. In the temple to the Deity Bur-Sin the archeologists discovered what seemed to them to be a modern kitchen, which contained a welts oven and a cooking range still in serviceable condition.

TIDES SLOWING DOWN EARTH

According to Prof. Harlow Shapely, director of the Harvard observatory, the days are growing longer, due to the tides which are slowing down the earth. In his book entitled "Starlight" Prof. Shapely says: "The tides raised by the moon on the earth's rotational speed, and thus lengthening the day—but less than a thousandth of a second a century. At the same time the moon is receding from the earth, its mean distance increasing, however, only about seven feet in a century."

Want a Buffalo? You can have a real, live buffalo—if you will pay express charges on it. The Yellowstone national park has a surplus of both bulls and cows.

"APPLY THE BRAKES"

"My brakes saved me," is the testimony of every driver. And it is true that every man at the wheel owes his life to his brakes. Of course so long as the roads are smooth and the speed safe nobody cares a breath for the brakes. They are a kind of emergency aid. But how essential! Imagine some new auto salesman so foolish as to brag about his car being entirely equipped without brakes. Then imagine a purchaser, still more foolish, who buys that car claiming that he will never use any brakes anyway!

Better have the brake in the hub than the "break" in the neck! By using the appliance mechanically one can save the friendship of the soul and body. That is, he can enjoy life longer.

You need the brakes simply because there is something else ahead on the road. Some fellows seldom apply their speed-checker and find trouble after they have dashed into the property of some one else. This happens when one yields to his anger and oversteps his rights. Another's privilege is my obligation. We must respect the rights of others. But here we must apply the brakes because, naturally, the temptation is too strong for us and we clash words or even blows of violence. After the fight, with face bruised and limbs crashed, we realize we should have slowed up and completely stopped the angry fit.

Don't put too much faith in the other man's bumper! It was never intended to take the place of your own brakes. Every sane person has a will, naturally, to react vigorously when you crash into his personal affairs. Truth is, the man who is careless about putting on brakes generally is ready to bump all the harder. So to avoid trouble apply the brakes.

Some people also need to step on the brakes to obtain a little rest from their work. Do you know how to rest? Many are killing themselves at work and worry. The high tension of modern life is overtaxing the nervous system throwing great numbers out of active life into early old age. Just set aside some definite time for relaxation. Play a game Try a swim or take up some musical instrument for fun. It will pay.

Then by checking the speed we will have time for something else. You can't enjoy the scenery at 80 miles an hour. First thing we know we are going to be over the road of life with no joy nor no report to make of the sublime grandeur along the way. Live a little as you go along! Don't be living in the future always. Slow down and look about; there is too much we are missing.

Here are some of the things we are missing Good reading. Stop long enough to buy the American magazine then find time to read the first article about the tremendous force of brain power. Books, books. All waiting to be read. Even the Bible remains an unknown book. "Pilgrim's Progress" has for you a message of light. Oh, the library is eager to help us push back the falls of every-day drudgery.

Then too, we must slow down and think more. Privacy and solitude are necessary for best thinking. Brain work counts. Let's give considerable thought to the labor question, the prohibition subject, home organization, the future church, economy, self-improvement and a hundred other vital topics.

Finally give the brakes a trial and thereby bring to the soul a chance to enjoy meditation and prayer. Jesus said to His followers: "Come ye yourselves apart and rest awhile." You know His record for prayer. Prayer long before day, prayer at the tomb, prayer at the seaside or in the tossing ship. Prayer takes time. But it is the food for the soul. The danger is that our speed will rob us of what we absolutely need.

So why rush. Life is short at best. With Longfellow we will have to "Learn to labor and to wait." P. E. LINDLEY.

CHANGING PASTORS

Conference will soon be here and with it will come the usual cry for a change of pastors.

Some charges have a mania for frequent changes. It makes but little differences who the pastor is, they want to change. Sometimes this demand comes from those who were his most ardent supporters when he entered the field, but as soon as the pastor begins to get the inside traces of his life, he wants a new man. He's like the young man who married a young lady: He said when he first married her he loved her well enough to eat her up, and now he wished he had, to have gotten rid of her.

The rule is, that these frequent demands for change do not come from the rank of the most consecrated members of the church, but from the class that desires much petting, rubbing and icing.

And it is wonderful how active they become about the last quarterly conference. They, perhaps, never have time to attend any other during the year, but they will be on hand at the last conference, and they will leave no stone unturned to have all of their persuasion on hand ready to instruct the delegate to conference for a change of pastors. And they are so determined to have a change that the better class will yield rather than have a row. Of course all changes do not come this way, but we believe that most of them do.

When will the people learn that most of the pastors are as good or better than the people they serve. PESSIMIST.

OUR COUNTRY CHARGES

We wish to give some thoughts we have not seen mentioned about our rural churches. We do not believe that every Sabbath preaching in a consolidated church will build up God's kingdom any more than once a month is doing in our churches now. As we have been observing the schools and making inquiries of ones in different parts of the state and it is the same everywhere; they are an expensive privilege, for a part of the children, work more hardship on parents than schools in walking distance. When you consolidate churches you are going to leave a good many souls without a church home of worship, for all do not have automobiles to ride in. A pastor can do better service now than ever before.

The greatest need of our nation today, we believe, is more spiritual minded preachers and teachers, see Jer. 50:4, 5, 6.

We enjoyed Rev. J. F. Dosier's "Historical" last week. God's truth will draw people, and they do not tire listening to it, God's house should be a place of worship and instruction, not a place of entertainment. We believe in education, the kind that continues while we live. Too much fairy tales and foolishness in our schools; get down to common sense essentials and we will have a better citizenship. Let rural people have schools and churches. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself." We are too prone to be thinking of self and easy way of living. Let us get nearer to God; give Him our first and best and all will be well.

MRS. J. M. LLOYD.

A REWARDING BOOK

"Building For Religious Education," by Henry Edward Tralle and George Earnest Merrill, is a highly worthwhile book for pastors and other leaders in the church who must deal with the problem of religious education.

The book, as the title indicates, deals with building and equipping churches in the way that makes them best suited for the purpose of teaching religion—the real aim and end of the church. A careful and detailed discussion is given to the Sunday school building, and many drawings of churches now in use illustrate the ideas of the authors.

Chapter 10 is headed, "Thirty-eight Suggestions." These are alphabetically arranged and start with the "Architect" and close with the "Vestibules." In between are important suggestions on what would appear to be every phase of a modern and well equippel church. Nothing seems to be omitted. Helpful plans for financing church projects are also given.

It is evident that the authors have brought to the problem of church structure—both large and small churches—years of pains-taking study, and an earnest interest that the church building contribute the greatest possible advantage to the religious training of the people.

The book contains 187 pages, and is written in a style that is clear, simple and pleasing. A careful reading is sure to be rewarding.

The Century Co., New York, 353 Fourth Avenue, are the publishers. Price, $1.75. Either of our publishing houses can, no doubt, supply the book. S. W. TAYLOR.

WHY NOT MORE LAYMEN IN PULPITS?

In British Methodism, laymen have been a great help as local preachers. On Sundays thousands of able, consecrated laymen go miles from their homes into city and country to preach the gospel. This keeps the small churches open on the Sabbath and furnishes the laymen opportunity to give out of the wealth of their experience to the people.

Laymen of fair educational as well as exceptional educational and business ability could do a unique service by preaching in Methodist pulpits and even in schoolhouses and public buildings.

Rural Methodism needs a revival of lay preachers, and city churches would benefit by hearing big business and working men preach the gospel from a breast and life filled with love. It would develop the laymen and prepare them for public speaking in social, business, and political life.—Zion's Herald.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid all Claims In Full

1. State Street, Lexington.
2. West End, Greensboro.

Paid A. C. B. in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Fountain Place.
3. Charlotte.
4. Melton's Grove.

Churches

1. Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson Circuit.
2. Jerusalem, on So. Davidson.
3. Yadkin, on So. Davidson.

Paid G. C. B. in Full

1. Asheboro.
2. Asheville.
3. Calvary.

Paid College Assessment in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Grace.
3. Mebane.
4. Glen Raven.
5. Burlington.
6. Fountain Place.
7. Reidsville.
8. South Winston.
9. English Street.
10. Asheboro.
11. Concord.
12. Graham.
13. High Point, First.
14. Welch.
15. Mt. Pleasant.
16. Siler City.
17. Charlotte.
18. Gibsonville.

Churches

1. Julian on Tabernacle.
2. Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit.
3. Gray's Chapel on Randolph.
4. Bethesda on North Davidson.

Paid on College Assessment

1.	Randolph	$31.00
2.	Tabernacle	24.00
3.	Littleton	24.00
4.	Halifax	22.80
5.	Forsyth	19.90
6.	North Davidson	18.00
7.	Alamance	17.88
8.	West Forsyth	15.40
9.	Enfield	15.00
10.	St. Paul	15.00
11.	West Thomasville	10.55
12.	South Davidson	10.28
13.	Friendship	10.00
14.	Saxapahaw	8.40
15.	Weaverville	8.25
16.	Spring Church	7.00
17.	Why Not	7.00
18.	Spencer	6.70
19.	Randleman	5.25
20.	Albemarle	5.00
21.	Thomasville First	5.00
22.	Union Grove	1.00

Paid on A. C. B.

2.	Concord	285.00
3.	High Point First	280.00
4.	Burlington	215.00
5.	Forsyth	192.30
6.	Mt. Pleasant	170.00
7.	Henderson	150.00
8.	Davidson	135.31
9.	Mebane	130.00
10.	Siler City	125.42
11.	Reidsville	117.50
12.	North Davidson	110.00
13.	Orange	106.00
14.	Richland	100.28
15.	Thomasville, First	100.00
16.	Pleasant Grove	100.00
17.	Mt. Hermon	88.76
18.	Glen Raven	87.50
19.	Bess Chapel	84.92
20.	Flat Rock	80.62
21.	Randolph	80.00
22.	Haw River	70.00
23.	Lebanon	70.00
24.	Asheboro	63.33
25.	St. Paul	60.00
26.	West Forsyth	57.75
27.	Littleton	56.75
28.	Granville	51.17
29.	Mocksville	50.25
30.	Calvary	50.00
31.	English Street	50.00
32.	Friendship	48.25
33.	Welch Memorial	47.00
34.	Anderson	43.45
35.	South Davidson	42.33
36.	Why Not	42.03
37.	Asheville	40.00
38.	Spring Church	38.66
39.	Halifax	38.60
40.	Albemarle	35.00
41.	Roberta	31.50
42.	Tabernacle	30.65
43.	Weaverville	30.00
44.	Saxapahaw	29.01
45.	Yarborough	29.00
46.	Pinnacle	27.80
47.	Randleman	26.35
48.	Vance	26.06
49.	Cleveland	25.50
50.	Rockingham	25.00
51.	Midland	23.80
52.	Kernersville	21.72
53.	Chase City	19.20
54.	Pageland	16.05
55.	Spencer	10.00
56.	South Winston	10.00
57.	Alamance	10.00
58.	Union Grove	8.50
59.	Denton	8.28
60.	Guilford	4.45
61.	Draper	3.22
62.	Fairview	2.50

Paid on G. C. B.

1.	Winston-Salem	$336.44
2.	Concord	265.00
3.	High Point, First	232.98
4.	Grace	179.65
5.	Forsyth	136.86
6.	Charlotte	114.88
7.	Mount Pleasant	105.69
8.	Enfield	99.25
9.	Whitakers	93.85
10.	Spring Church	92.59
11.	Mebane	89.60
12.	Siler City	85.00
13.	Glen Raven	78.94
14.	North Davidson	74.92
15.	Vance	63.33
16.	Randolph	62.65
17.	Why Not	59.88
18.	Saxapahaw	59.33
19.	Gibsonville	58.68
20.	Randleman	58.31
21.	Littleton	58.25
22.	Burlington	52.68
23.	Graham	50.39
24.	Tabernacle	49.01
25.	Mt. Hermon	46.56
26.	Richland	45.72
27.	Thomasville, First	39.60
28.	Orange	39.00
29.	Guilford	37.28
30.	Albemarle	36.00
31.	Midland	35.20
32.	Haw River	35.00
33.	Pleasant Grove	34.30
34.	Alamance	33.45
35.	Mocksville	32.84
36.	Friendship	32.78
37.	Fountain Place	31.53
38.	Anderson	31.22
39.	Davidson	28.90
40.	Henderson	27.50
41.	West Thomasville	24.30
42.	Pinnacle	22.75
43.	Cleveland	21.08
44.	Saint Paul	20.84
45.	West Forsyth	20.76
46.	Halifax	20.68
47.	Lebanon	20.05
48.	Bess Chapel	17.98
49.	Flat Rock	16.34
50.	Roberta	14.05
51.	Granville	13.50
52.	Denton	13.14
53.	English Street	13.02
54.	Rockingham	13.00
55.	South Davidson	13.00
56.	South Winston	10.00
57.	Union Grove	9.58
58.	Lincolnton	7.52
59.	Yarborough	7.40
60.	Weaverville	7.00
61.	Mecklenburg	6.50
62.	Chatham	5.04
63.	Pageland	4.30
64.	Porter	3.35

Concord went up to second place on both budgets this week. Good work, Concord. West End went over the top on all budgets. State Street has been standing alone the greater part of this conference year. Melton's Grove paid the A. C. B. in full and so did Jerusalem and Yadkin College on South Davidson charge. Calvary went over the top on the G. C. B. Gibsonville went over the top on the College Assessment, and Bethesda on North Davidson charge also.

Other charges made splendid progress. See where yours is.

There are 68 charges reporting on A. C. B. leaving twenty three to be heard from. Only six weeks to work.

Sixty-seven have reported on the G. C. B., and only forty on the College Assessment.

A. G. DIXON.

A woman living in an apartment, said to the new elevator boy: "If anyone calls while I am out, tell her to wait. I shall be right back."

There was no answer.

"Did you hear me? Why don't you answer?" asked the woman with some heat.

"I never answers, ma'am, unless I doesn't hear," was the calm reply, "and then I says 'What?'"

Our Children's Home

Mrs. Emma Bayliff, Graham, $5; Bellemont, Children's recital, $15.15; Friendship, Children's recital, Mt. Hermon, $35.75; Mt. Hermon, Children's recital, $26.31; Mrs. Mary Hull, Cherryville, $1; Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson, $7; New Hope, Why Not, $11.45; English Street, Children's recital, $15.68; Spring Hill, West Thomasville, $1.84; West End, West Thomasville, $4.85.

Sunday Schools

Bellemont, Mt. Hermon, $3.36; Creswell, $3.58; Center, Alamance, $4.34; Hebron, Orange, $7; Spring church, $2.02; Charlotte, second church, $2.56; Midway, Haw River, $5; Asheboro, $15.33; Moriah, Tabernacle, $3.40; Roberta, $4.22; English Street Philathea class, $2; Welch Memorial, High Point, $11.70.

Other Contributions

Rev. J. F. Dosier, Randleman, a box of books; Mrs. Dr. Pickett, Bellemont, pants and shirts; Junior Philathea class, Randleman, a nice collection of gingham, dress and other things; Bethel church, Alamance, W. M. S., a nice quilt; Mrs. W. P. Pickett, High Point, pears; Dr. Joy Glascock, Greensboro, a pair of shoes, overcoat, and sweater.

All contributions, cash or otherwise for the Children's Home, to be reported to the Annual Conference, must reach this office not later than October 31st. All friends of this institution who desire the contributions for this Home to equal that of last year will necessarily need to increase their offerings to make it so.

Let us go on unto perfection.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

KIPLING SLAPS AMERICA

Rudyard Kipling, premier British poet who has long been very popular in the United States, has just issued a new book, "Debits and Credits." It is made up of stories and poems of the war and the post-war period, and critics find him up to his old standard.

One of the poems which caused much attention and some criticism was clearly aimed at the United States—her part in the war and her attitude after the war. This with a whimsical story about prohibition in America caused one English critic to remark that such treatment was "not kind to a great republic." The poem was call "The Vineyard," from which the following verses are taken:

At the eleventh hour he came,
But his wages were the same
As ours who all day long had trod
The winepress of the wrath of God.

Since his back had felt no load,
Virtue still in him abode;
So he swiftly made his own
Those lost spoils we had not won.

We went home, delivered thene,
Grudging him no recompense,
Till he portioned praise or blame
To our works before he came.

Till he showed us for our good—
Deaf to mirth and blind to scorn—
How we might have best withstood
Burdens that he had not borne!

—The Pathfinder.

NOTICE

The 101st session of the North Carolina Annual Conference will sit in Grace church, Greensboro, N. C., beginning Wednesday, November 3, at 9:30 a.m. All ministers, preachers, and delegates will be expected to be present at this place and hour to answer to the first roll call.

Let those who come do so not primarily for the purpose of getting a charge or a pastor; but to transact the business of the Annual Conference. Let us come in the spirit of prayer that the Divine Guidance may be in all our deliberations to the end that Christ's Kingdom may be enlarged through the work of our hands.

Let those who stay by the tents and the stuff, be earnestly in prayer for the success of the Conference, that God's name may be glorified in all that is said and done.

A. G. DIXON, President,
C. W. BATES, Secretary.

A CORRECTION

On page four, column two, of the Herald, last week, in article, "Historical," occurs this sentence: "There were noisy extravagances in the meeting that night." It should read, "There were no noisy extravagances in the meeting that night." I hope this correction will be made, as the statement is wholly misleading as it stands. The meeting was anything but "noisy." Especially Quaker meetings are quiet, and so was the meeting referred to at New Salem. J. F. DOSIER.

RUMORS CONFIRMED

Rev. E. L. Ballard is to be married to Miss Lena E. Martin in West End M. P. church at eight o'clock in the evening of October 19, 1926.

Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., is to be married to Miss Nancy R. Lewis at the home of her father, Mr. J. Stanback Lewis, in Asheboro, at eight o'clock in the evening of October 23, 1926.

We tender congratulations and best wishes for the future to all these contracting parties.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic For October 10.—How to Pull Together, Mark 2:1-5; 1 Cor. 3:1-9.

Topic for October 17.—What Ideals are Found in the Constitution of the United States? Rom. 13:1-8. (Citizenship day.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson For October 10.—Numbers 13:1 to 14:45. Devotional reading, Matt. 7:1-5; 9-12.

Lesson for October 17.—Deut. 32:45-52; 34-5—Devotional reading, Rom. 13:7-10 14:7, 8, 13, 17.

MORE APPRECIATION OF IMPROVEMENTS

Dear Doctor McCulloch:

I have just received the Herald this week, and have read the two leading editorials with considerable pleasure. There are other features which deserve commendation. The improved press work will be worth a great deal to the church, even though the character of the contents should not be improved. I think I see, however, an improvement in the contents, owing to the fact that you can give it additional time. J. NORMAN WILLS.

Woman's Missionary Department

Miss Esther Ross, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

TO ALL HOME MISSIONARY AUXILIARIES

The Executive Committee of the North Carolina Branch of Home Missions has asked me to act as Secretary of Blessing Boxes this year. I have a supply of Blessing Boxes on hand and shall be glad to hear from any society that can use some.

MRS. J. D. COLTRANE.
902 West Market Street, Greensboro, N. C.

THE POINT OF VIEW

"What! Another mite box?" in petulant tones
Remarked Mrs. Montgomery Madison Jones.
"I'm very sure if they managed better,
They'd not have to send out this kind of a letter.
I'm sure we have given quite all that we're able.
Oh, well, I suppose it can stay on the table."
And then she went merrily off down town
To purchase a love of a new dinner gown.
(While the poor little mite box sadly sighed,
I'm afraid I'll be terribly empty inside"—
And it was.)
"Self-denial box?" in pleasant tones
Said Mrs. Thomas Henry Jones.
"Let's fill it full, I'm sure we'll be able
If we keep it right here on the living room table.
I suppose if we'd done our duty before,
They would not have had to ask for more."
And then she slipped in with a murmured prayer
The price of the dress she had hoped to wear.
("Dear me," said her mite box, glowing with pride,
"I do feel so very contented inside"—
And it did.)
Dear reader: What is your point of view,
And which kind of a Mrs. Jones are you?
Secure in the loving Father's care,
With his needy ones will you gladly share?
The Savior pleads so tenderly:
"Deny thyself and follow me.'"

—Rachel Geddes Smith, in Woman's Missionary Friend.

MARRIED

Neville-Pullen

On Monday night, September 20, at the M. E. parsonage in Nashville, N. C., Miss Ethel Neville became the bride of Mr. James Pullen, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Ewing, of the M. E. church.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Neville of Whitakers, and the groom the son of the late late J. D. and Mrs. Pullen. Our best wishes go out to this young couple. MAMIE JOHNSTON.

Voice (on the telephone)—Zander! Zander! Z! Z!! No, not C! ABCDEFGHIJKLMN OPQRSTUVWXYZ!

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

NINTH DISTRICT RALLY NEWS

The ninth District Rally of the Young People of the Methodist Protestant church was held at Belwood consolidated school building, September 25th, and 26th. After the devotional service, the purpose of the rally was stated by the chairman. Professor Ledford, principal of the school, gave a few words of welcome and asked that we call upon him and the Belwood people for any service they might render during the rally.

We then had the reports of the Sunday school superintendents, as to the number on roll, average attendance, number of teachers, if they observed the special days, if they had a teacher training class, or Sunday school council, etc. Mr. N. J. Wright, superintendent of Friendship Sunday school, meets his teachers each Sunday morning before time for Sunday school and goes over the lesson with them. He also considers his teachers his Sunday school council, and receives any helpful suggestions at the regular teachers' meetings. Oak Grove on Cleveland Circuit, and Bess' Chapel were the only churches that observe most all the special days. Only a few of the Sunday schools reported that they were not contributing to our Children's Home at High Point. Very few of the Sunday schools held Sunday school picnics or anything special for the children. A goodly number of helpful suggestions were given by the different Sunday school superintendents.

We also had reports from the C. E. Society presidents. Many of our churches in this district do not have any C. E. Society. Those that have societies gave helpful and encouraging reports. Rev. J. D. Morris stated that before they organized their Senior society at Oak Grove, only a couple would lead in prayer, and that at present there were a goodly number that would lead in public prayer. Oak Grove church was the only church having both Junior and Intermediate societies. Several churches have organized junior C. E. societies. Some of the churches reported good prayer meetings where they did not have C. E. societies.

There seemed to be no active ladies' aid society in the district. Bess Chapel Women's Home Missionary Society was the only missionary society to report. This society has been very busy doing the work of a Home Missionary Society and a Ladies' Aid Society. It seems that our country churches have almost forgotten the command of Christ to carry the Gospel to all the world.

All the congregation put their dinner together. After the feast of good things to eat we assembled for the afternoon service.

Mr. Edley Ivester, from Kistlers church, made us a fine talk on the "Laymen's attitude toward the Pastor." Mr. Ivester is always faithful to his pastors, and gave some helpful thoughts as to how the laymen might help the kingdom by standing by their leader. The Mt. Pleasant Sunday school had several recitations for the afternoon. We wish all of our Sunday schools would have done as well for their opportunity. Mr. R. G. Wood, superintendent of the Lincolnton school, made a helpful talk on the Sunday school superintendent, after which his school favored us with several good quartets.

The evening service included a pageant by Bess' Chapel, and a Rally Day play by Friendship. The Wright Quartet also sang several selections that were greatly appreciated.

The Sunday schools assembled at ten o'clock Sunday morning. We were glad to have the Baptists from Norman's Grove, unite with us in the Sunday school. After the close of Sunday school, the Pleasant Hill school gave a few helpful recitations. Mr. Francis Lutz, superintendent of the Bessemer City School, made an earnest talk on "How laymen can win souls for Christ." The Bessemer Quartet sang several appropriate selections. Mr. Upton, Boyles, and Houser Quartet, from Hebron church, also sang several soul-stirring selections.

Sunday afternoon, the Knob Creek school, rendered an unusually good Rally Day service. The Belwood Junior Order, presented the Belwood consolidated school with a Bible and Flag. The county superintendent of schools of Cleveland county presented the Bible. Honorable Judge Mull presented the flag. Professor Ledford received the Bible and flag for the school. All three of the speakers gave valuable information and held the attention of the congregation.

Sunday evening Miss Gantt, and Fletcher Sain from Belwood consolidated school, and Miss Edith Sain and Frank Houser from North Brook High School, debated the query: "Resolved that the objects and pictures we see have more influence for good or evil, than what we read." All the speakers did fine, but the North Brook school representatives received two votes for the affirmative and Belwood one vote for the negative.

The Oak Grove school favored the congregation with several recitations and a pageant. All present enjoyed the program.

We had large congregations during the Rally, except Saturday, and we had a goodly number present on Saturday. We hope those who attended were not only entertained, but helped.

E. A. BINGHAM.

West End, Greensboro. — The Woman's Home Missionary Society recently held a very interesting program at Brown Summit. A goodly number of our members attended, and the Brown Summit ladies gave them a cordial welcome.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held the September meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. J. R. Holden. A picnic supper was served on the lawn of the Holden home, followed by a business meeting and the regular program.

We held our fourth quarterly conference at the church on Wednesday evening, September 29th, with Dr. Dixon as chairman. He expressed his pleasure on hearing the very excellent reports from the various organizations of the church. The annual conference, general conference, and college assessments have been paid in full, and the outlook is encouraging for the coming year. At this meeting the pastor, Rev. E. L. Ballard, announced his intention of leaving West End this year and his many friends expressed their sincere regret. The work has been carried on successfully during his pastorate and he has made many warm friends at West End.

Mr. Ogburn F. Stafford has been recently elected as Sunday school superintendent for the coming year. He succeeds Mr. V. C. Stockard, who has faithfully carried on this work for the past year. Mr. Stafford is one of our most promising young men and his ability, his genial personality, and his enthusiasm bespeak for him success in his new work.

One of the most enjoyable and successful events of the kind ever held by any organization of the church was a brunswick stew sponsored by the Foust Bible Class at Pomona High School Friday evening. The receipts amounted to a little more than $90.00. Mr. W. W. Eldridge is president of the class and was largely responsible for this achievement.

Anniversary Day was observed September 26th, at which time Rev. P. E. Lindley, professor at High Point College, delivered an inspiring address. In the evening the presidents of the various organizations of the church outlined their plans for the coming year and the program was altogether inspiring. The theme for the day's program was "Forward."

October 10th will be observed as Rally Day for the Sunday school. In the morning Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., will make an address and will be followed by a short pageant by several young people of the Sunday school. Mrs. A. E. Pleasants is chairman of the committee.

Among our very welcome visitors last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Wade from Fountain Place Church, Burlington. We are glad to have with us again, after several weeks' absence, our beloved Mrs. Ida Moore.

Each Wednesday evening at 7:30 Mr. C. J. Williams, former professor at Pomona High School, is conducting a Stewardship study course. Mr. Williams is making this study very interesting and instructive, and we invite anyone who is interested to hear him.

REPORTER.

Greenville Circuit.—We have been too busy to write. We are getting on pretty well over this way except finance. The low price of cotton has broken the camel's back. Our cotton is at least one month late opening.

Special Meetings

Our first meeting at Hobbs Chapel, the first Sunday in August, was a good meeting for the church. It was greatly revived, two conversions, no accessions. We were assisted by Rev. A. D. Shelton who did all the preaching and did it to the satisfaction and edification of all.

My next meeting commenced at Ebenezer on second Sunday in August. Rev. G. W. Holmes was my help, doing all the preaching. The church greatly revived. Sinners repented and ten joined the church. All fell in love with Brother Holmes and his preaching.

On third Sunday in August we commenced at Matthew's Chapel. Brother Holmes was again my help and did all the preaching. Here church people rejoined in the Lord and sinners repented, and backsliders were reclaimed. Six joined the church. Here Brother Holmes endeared himself with the people.

On the fifth Sunday in August we commenced our special meeting at Wesleys Chapel. Rev. R. S. Troxler, my engaged help, was present, also Rev. A. D. Shelton and Rev. H. S. B. Thompson were present and assisted in the services, Rev. A. D. Shelton preached in the afternoon. I've heard much compliment of Brother Shelton's sermons. It was warm and Brother Troxler went out of his coat and went hard for the church member and sinner, preaching twice each day, closing Friday night. On Friday night the floods of the mighty deep were broken up. Christians worked and praised God aloud. Backsliders came back to God in droves, sinners repented, four gave names for churcvh membership, two for the M. E. church and two to Wesley's Chapel. Brother Troxler is a great favorite among this people.

Brother Troxler stayed over and on first Sunday in September we were greeted by a tremendous audience at Philadelphia. Rev. H. S. B. Thompson was present again and opened divine worship with a most able prayer. Brother Troxler did all the preaching. Here Brother Troxler went out of his coat and hit sin with no uncertain stroke. The Devil howled and hit the grit. The church greatly revived, backsliders reclaimed, sinners repented. Six joined the church.

Our meetings have been good and all my help have done excellent preaching. Still the old hardened sinner remains among us.

Thanks to all these dear brethren for their efficient help. Pastor and people will all be glad when these brethren can come this way again.

Much sickness on this charge at present. Some have been bedfast for several years. Some deaths—last of August James Phillips, one of the famous twins of Greenville Circuit, was laid to rest in the family grave yard in a few hundred yards of Philadelphia church. Age 87 years—long a member of Philadelphia. A loyal member. Brother Thomas Pearson, for a long time an invalid, of Triplet, passed from us. Age 75. He was also a twin.

We greatly miss these aged brethren. The personnel of the church quictly changes.

H. L. POWELL.

Henderson.—The special revival services which commenced last Sunday week, will continue through Wednesday night. Rev. T. M. Johnson, D.D., of Mebane, has been doing the preaching. He has been giving us some very inspiring sermons. Sunday morning was decision day in the Sunday school. Sixteen boys and girls gave their hearts to God during the service. We are praying that there will be a great ingathering of souls in the next three days.

The doors of the church will be open next Sunday for the reception of new members.

On Sunday evening, October 10, Dr. A. G. Dixon will preach. Rev. R. A. Hunter called attention to the week of prayer for High Point College, beginning October 10.

We are very glad to see several of our members who have been on the sick list, back in their regular places again. But we are sorry to say that quite a number are still on the sick list. REPORTER.

Flat Rock.—The revival services began at Flat Rock September 26 and closed October 1. Dr. Brown from High Point came to us on Monday and did all the preaching except one sermon by the pastor of the church. But we did not see the results that had been hoped for. We feel that some good was accomplished. There were three conversions, one reclamation, and three accessions to the church.

We were very glad to have with us, the Evangelistic Club of Winston-Salem the third Sunday in September instead of having prayer meeting. REPORTER.

St. Paul's Church.—It has been quite a time since we have made a report, but that doesn't mean that we are not in the race, for we are still fighting for our Master.

We have just recently closed our meeting with several conversions. Mr. Sam Taylor of Burlington helped in the meeting. We heard some wonderful sermons, sermons that will be long remembered by people who heard them. Mr. Taylor seemed to put his whole interest in his sermons, with the result of arousing the interest of the church people.

We have good attendance at Sunday school, our superintendent, Mr. G. H. May, is very much interested in his work. He is always at his post, doing something for the upbuilding of the Sunday school.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Saturday night at the church, with the president, Mrs. J. S. Wade, presiding over the meeting. Also the third Saturday night will be the fourth quarterly conference. We are hoping to have good reports from all the officers.

Our pastor, J. H. Moton, has served us faithfully during the past year and with a good sermon, every Sunday.

May all the churches continue to grow stronger during the next conference year.

NELL WADE.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society are moving along nicely. Last night the C. E. Society was conducted by Milton Wright. We are glad to report that when any of our young people are asked to take a part they never refuse. In Sunday school yesterday we had 67 present; collection was $1.59. The program is being prepared for Rally Day which will be some time in October.

Our pastor was with us the fourth Sunday, and we are expecting him next Sunday. We always look forward with pleasure for his coming, as he always brings us good messages, and seems so interested in our church and work.

Plans are being made to begin on our new church.

Pray for our success.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Hickory Grove, Guilford Circuit.—At the present time we are very well pleased with our Sunday school work. We have had a very good attendance. Our offering for foreign missions amounted as much this year as before, and as jack frost will soqn be here, we will have more "pep" to carry on the work than in the hot summer days. The Sunday School Convention was held at our place and we found that our school was like other schools, "The Best," but, still room for improvement.

We held our revival meeting the fourth Sunday in August at which time Rev. Mr. Hill from Asheboro preached for us. We enjoyed having with us Brother Hill, also Mrs. Hill, and we hope that they will be back with us again.

Our pastor, Brother Loy, filled his regular appointment the fourth Sunday in September at 11:00 o'clock. The first Sunday in October at 3:00 p.m., he also preached for us. We are always looking forward to hear our pastor for we know that he has something worth while in store for us.

It was announced at the meeting that the quarterly meeting would be held at the parsonage, October 9th, at 2:30 p.m., we hope to have our church represented.

Best wishes to the Herald and it's readers.

REPORTER.

New Hope, Why Not Circuit.—Our special meeting began the fourth Sunday in September and closed Friday night following.

Our pastor did all the preaching and we had a very good meeting.

There were ten joined the church but some of them were converted at other meetings.

Brother Garner did some splendid preaching. We have learned to like him very much and we want him for our pastor again next year.

Brother Robert Yow aided much by being present a part of the time to lead the singing for which we are very grateful to him.

Miss Louzena Presnell and Mrs. Howard Skein of Asheboro also Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cheek of Franklinville were attendants of the meeting during the week.

A number of our people attended the camp meeting at Love Joy Sunday. There was a large crowd there and we hope they will have a great revival this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Dixon are assisting Brother Garner. We are having a good Sunday school at New Hope and we have prayer meeting once every month.

MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS.

Orange Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference is called to meet with the Efland church, Saturday, November 16th, 2:00 p.m.

Please be there promptly on time. Important business. B. M. WILLIAMS.

Philadelphia, Greenville Circuit.— Since our last report we have been gloriously revived. It was the first Sunday in September when Brother Troxler came with his "Heavenly Attitude," to direct us in another revival meeting. To us his sermons are almost beyond compare, and may we repeat again that our church has been gloriously revived through his splendid preaching. Several renewed their faith in Christ, while we had two new conversions, one of which we had been trying to win for several years. We feel blessed to have her counted in our membership. May God richly bless her with a long life in which to serve Him.

Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, Brother Powell filled his regular appointment and brought us a very interesting message, his subject being, "The Godly Man and What He is Like." He brought out some plain points telling us how we could tell the godly man from the ungodly. He will fill his next appointment on the third Sunday night, and his subject will be, "The Ungodly Man and What He is Like." Everybody come and hear him. Brother Powell has preached such good sermons throughout the year. It is a treat for anyone to hear him.

Our last quarterly conference will be held at Matthews Chapel on Saturday, October 9th.

We hope that conference will send Brother Powell back to us for another year.

We have opened up our Sunday school again and hope by the work and co-operation of all the members that we will have a better school than ever before.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

BERNICE PEARSON, Reporter.

Bess' Chapel.—The September meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society was at the home of Mrs. B. L. Heavner. The President, Mrs. J. C. Beam, called the meeting to order. Scripture lesson, Mal. 3:10-12, and prayer were by the President. Roll call and minutes of last meeting read.

Report of Society to be given at the Ninth District Rally of the young people of the M. P. church, was read for approval by the corresponding secretary. The treasurer's report was splendid; we have reached our goal on pledge for the proposed new church at Bess Chapel.

A very interesting reading on "Stewardship" was given by Miss Edna Dellinger. The President favored us with a reading from the Record.

Miss Edith Dellinger was appointed as agent for the Missionary Record.

The hostess assisted by Miss Edna Dellinger served refreshments during the social hour.

MRS. B. L. HEAVNER, Cor. Sec.

Greensboro, Grace.—The congregation of Grace church extended a cordial welcome to Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., who arrived recently to take up his work as associate pastor. Mr. Harrison's fine record as pastor of West End church, as Dean of Men in High Point College, and as pastor of Wakeford Methodist Protestant church, Chicago, gives the assurance that he will be a most valuable addition to Grace church.

The meeting held recently, with Dr. J. C. Broomfield as preacher, was not attended with any visible results such as are expected in the usual evangelistic meeting. However, a number of decisions were made in the Sunday school and the importance of this feature of the meeting should not be overlooked. Dr. Broomfield preached a number of most excellent sermons, which we believe were quite helpful.

The new organ, presented to the church by Mrs. T. A. Hunter and family in memory of Mr. Hunter and daughter, Anne, was dedicated last Monday evening. A brief but impressive service was conducted by Dr. Spahr, after which a recital was given by Professor George M. Thompson of the North Carolina College for Women. The large congregation was delighted with the instrument, as well as the rendition of the selections by Professor Thompson. The tone is full and rich, and the mechanical construction is of the highest type.

We are looking forward to the coming of the Annual Conference early next month, and trust that this session may prove to be one of hope and faith and works. Certainly the condition of our church was never more hopeful, but it will require a large measure of that faith which produces works, to enable us to enter the open door.

J. N. W.

State Street Church.—Brother Bethea was back with us Sunday after being in Mebane for more than a week, where he conducted a very successful revival meeting. Rev. C. B. Way preached for us at both the morning and evening hours the Sunday that Mr. Bethea was away, which was last Sunday a week ago.

The new building is well under way now, and if no unlooked for delays are encountered it will not be a great while before we can use it. Sunday school is rapidly out-growing our present quarters. The new rooms are badly needed already.

The Foreign Missionary Society will meet Thursday afternoon at the parsonage.

First Church, Charlotte.—We were very happy to meet last Sunday for the dedication of the church. The debt on the church was paid some time ago. Recently the church was gone over inside and out with paint and other repairs and finishing up done. Mr. Surratt had charge of the service with Dr. A. G. Dixon preaching the dedication, sermon. Rev. Lawrence Little and Rev. D. A. Braswell, of Concord, were present. The sermon was fine indeed. Dr. Dixon said, "We could not be the biggest church but we could be the best." Mr. R. S. Garmon gave the history of the church and the presentation of the church was by Mr. Geo. E. Young. The special music was very sweet and appropriate for the occasion.

Sunday evening the rally service was conducted. The program, though short, was very good with a splendid congregation and collection.

On the night of the 14th we will have our annual church membership meeting. At this time we will have the election of church officers followed by a special program and social hour.

Mr. Kenneth Faulkner, of Henderson, is in the city for a few weeks. He is one of the regulars at all services and when he goes we shall miss him.

The Ladies' Aid met Monday p.m. at the home of Mrs. J. A. Pressley with good attendance. After the regular devotional and business we had the election of officers which are Mrs. J. H. McCall, president; Mrs. J. E. Hankins, vice-president; Mrs. Geo. E. Young re-elected Secretary, and Mrs. Carl Stikeleather, treasurer. After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Pressley, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Muse, served delicious refreshments.

The W. F. M. S. and the W. H. M. S. are both moving along nicely and so far both are ahead in finances according to the apportionment.

Mrs. Coe, mother of Mrs. Surratt, returned to Greensboro Monday after a visit here of several days.

Our Sunday school officers have been elected: B. S. Garmon, superintendent; J. E. Hankins, assistant superintendent; Geo. E. Young, secretary; Roy Garmon, assistant secretary; Mrs. Geo. E. Young, treasurer; Mrs. C. A. Stikeleather, librarian; Mrs. P. C. Carpenter, pianist; Miss Lucille Sechrest, assistant pianist; Mrs. Z. A. McKinnon, superintendent Home department; C. H. Daughtry, superintendent Intermediate department; Mrs. B. W. Little, superintendent Junior department; Mrs. C. H. Daughtry, superintendent Beginners and Primary department, and Mrs. A. F. Love, Cradle Roll superintendent.

REPORTER.

High Point.—A very enjoyable reception was tendered to the faculty and students of High Point College, the officials and teachers of the Children's Home, and the teachers of the Methodist Protestant faith in the city schools at the First church last Friday evening. A brief program of organ music by Prof. Dan W. Smith and a reading by Mrs. Fred B. Klein was first given in the auditorium after which the guests were invited down-stairs to the assembly room, where a receiving line, composed of the pastor, Dr. Brown, and his wife and a number of trustees and stewards of the church and their wives, was formed. At the end of this line a guide directed every one to the Dean's office to be classified in one of the four colleges classes. Each class then put on a stunt, game, race, or contest of some kind which afforded much merriment. At the close of this entertainment a delicious ice course was served by the ladies of the church. There was a large crowd present, and the young people especially seemed to enjoy this delightful occasion very much.

Two happy announcements in which High Point people are greatly interested, have been made recently. At a party in Asheboro given by Mrs. L. L. Whitaker, the engagement and approaching marriage of Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., who was the popular Dean of men at High Point College until a year ago, and Miss Nan Lewis of Asheboro, was announced. The wedding will be solemnized on October 23rd. The groom-to-be is the associate pastor of Grace church, Greensboro, and is a most likable young man of pleasing personality and sterling qualities, while his bride-to-be is pretty and charming, being the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lewis, of Asheboro. She was graduated last June from Converse college, Spartanburg, S. C., and is a talented musician. The other interesting announcement is that of Rev. E. Lester Ballard, the popular and beloved young pastor of West End church, Greensboro, and Miss Lena E. Martin, who has been private secretary to President Andrews of High Point College since its inception. Miss Martin is an attractive young lady of much charm and gracious manner, and is a thoroughly consecrated Christian. Rev. Mr. Ballard is to be highly congratulated on winning such a congenial helpmate. Showers of congratulations and good wishes are being heaped upon these happy young people. Miss Mary Young made the announcement for Miss Martin at a delightful party at the College last Thursday.

The Third District of the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs will hold a meeting in the church on Tuesday, October 5th, at which the president, Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, will preside. The president of N. C. Federation, Mrs. E. L. McKee of Sylva, N. C., will be present, and deliver an address.

The local Alumnae of N. C. College for Women, Greensboro, are enjoying a delightful luncheon and get-eogether meeting in the assembly room of the church this (Monday) evening. Mrs. S. S. Coe is chairman of committee on arrangements, and with the aid of her capable assistants, has prepared a very delicious menu. Approximately 50 "old girls" of High Point and vicinity are present. These occasions are always enjoyable on account of the renewal of old ties of friendship and happy reminiscences of joyous, care-free girlhood.

The Woman's Foreign and Home Missionary Societies held an interesting meeting Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. M. Rankin. It was voted to continue the Mission Study Class as heretofore, and we will study "Moslem Women," the Foreign book for the coming six months. Six new members, Mesdames M. R. Green, J. H. Allred, R. C. Boyd, H. M. Seehrest, J. W. Meredith, and M. B. Poling, were gladly welcomed. The Scholarship Loan Fund amounts to $142.00. Miss Millie Bowman was made a Memorial member.

The Alexander Martin Chapter, D. A. R. will be hostess to the Second District Convention next Wednesday, October 6th, in Wesley Memorial M. E. church here. Mrs. S. S. Coe, one of our local Daughters, will deliver the address of welcome, and Misses Virginia Pickens and Annie Robbins will serve as pages. The State Regent, Mrs. E. C. Gregory of Salisbury, daughter of Senator Lee S. Overman, will be present and deliver an address. An elaborate luncheon will be tendered the visiting Daughters at the Country Club.

We are grieved to announce the serious illness of Mrs. S. P. Montgomery, who underwent an operation today at High Point Hospital. Many friends unite in prayers for her early recovery.

Dr. John F. Cowan of San Diego, Cal., will deliver a lecture in the assembly room next Friday evening, October 8th, his subject being "Famous Writers I Have Known Personally." Dr. Cowan is a warm personal friend of Dr. Brown, and is on a lecture tour in the East. This lecture will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, and merits a large attendance.

Revival services will begin next Sunday morning, and Dr. Brown has secured the services of Mr. T. J. McKinley as singer. If present plans are carried out, the opening sermon on next Sunday morning will be delivered by Dr. J. F. Cowan. Each evening at 7:30 o'clock a song service will be held, followed by a brief sermon and an after meeting of enquiry and personal work.

The State Executive Board of the Missionary Societies will hold a meeting with Mrs. C. L. Whitaker next Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and lunch will be served at the College, followed by an afternoon session. A number of out-of-town visitors will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Poling of West Virginia are on an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. E. L. Douglas, and will most probably make their permanent home here.

We are exceedingly sorry to learn that Mrs. R. L. Allred was in a bad automobile wreck recently, and was painfully injured.

The Herald in its new form and dress is attracting much complimentary notice recently. Best wishes for success to the young publishers. REPORTER.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$169,703.35
W. R. Carter	10.00
Walter Carter	6.00
R. W. M. Harper	1.00
Miss Fannie Barnes	25.00
N. M. Hockady	10.00
Mrs. Rabie Sillery	20.00
A. B. Holt	20.00
Floy Rogers	15.00
Lynn Durham	5.00
Marshall Durham	5.00
Mrs. Dave DeMoss	10.00
Miss Annie Williams	87.50
J. C. Jones	25.00
Rev. S. W. Taylor	5.00
Mrs. L. E. Anthony	7.50
Land Anthony	7.50
H. E. Isley	10.00
J. L. Sharp	1.00
W. A. Glenn	2.50
T. J. Hargrove	11.50
O. N. McPherson	25.00
Mrs. C. A. Stanford	5.00
Mrs. J. L. Thornberg	1.00
Mabel Thornberg	1.00
	$170,019.85

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$6,543.61
J. G. Rogers	50.00
J. A. Pickett	50.00
	$6,643.61

NOTICE TO PASTORS

Official Blanks were mailed out on Tuesday of this week. If you failed to get yours by the time you read this, please drop me a card and I will send another supply.

At this writing ten charges have failed to return delegate's credentials. If you failed to get a credential card, put the delegate's name and address, and your name and charge on a card, and send it in at once.

Please send in your Journal money.

C. W. Bates, Secretary.

NOTICE

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of Greenville Circuit will convene at Matthew's Chapel on Saturday before third Sunday in October, 1926. Preaching at 11 o'clock, lunch for members of quarterly conference after which business of quarterly conference will be transacted. May each church send its full quota of officials. Brethren, come and bring your pockets full of money.

I am counting on you. H. L. POWELL.

—Rev. J. D. Williams is preaching nightly, also every morning, to growing congregations in Calvary church. Mr. Roy Bethune is leading the singing. Both preaching and singing are much appreciated by the discerning. The meeting is expected to go on through next week. A spirit of earnestness in the church seems to promise a good meeting. May it be so.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Wiles

Sarah Albertine Wiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cook, was born August 7, 1872. She departed this life September 4, 1926. Her age is 54 years and 27 days.

Sister Wiles was born and reared near Gibsonville, in Alamance county. In August, 1900, she was happily married to her surviving and devoted husband, Mr. J. R. Wiles. Soon after their marriage they established their home in South Burlington, and it was there that they were living when Sister Wiles was called to her home above.

Six children were born to bless this union, all of whom are living except one, which died in infancy. The surviving children are Walter, Bennie, and Agnes, and Mrs. Archie Johnson, and Mrs. William Huffines. There are two surviving brothers—Mr. M. P. and Mr. J. D. Cook, of Elon college..

Sister Wiles united with the First M. P. church, Burlington, in 1899, under the pastorate of Rev. C. A. Cecil, and remained an acceptable member throughout the twenty seven years that intervened before her death.

The sickness of which she died was not of long duration—only about one month. She underwent an operation at the Rainey Hospital, and had sufficiently improved, to return to her home. She appeared to be recovering, and the indications were that she would soon be entirely well. However, other troubles developed, and in her weakened condition she was not able to combat them. She endured her afflictions in Christian fortitude, and we are comforted to believe that she died in the Christian's faith. A devoted wife, a loving mother, a kind neighbor, and a humble Christian has passed from us, but we do not weep as those who have no hope.

Our tender sympatheties go out to her surviving loved ones, and we most earnestly hope and pray for them a reunited family in that good place where separations never come.

The funeral service was held at the home in the presence of a large group of sympathizing friends and neighbors. The writer was assisted in the service by Rev. Mr. Jones of the Primitive Baptist church and by Rev. Mr. Rourk of the Presbyterian church. Her body was laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery, and the flowers that marked her grave are typical of that heavenly inheritance that we believe is hers. S. W. TAYLOR.

Matthews

Whereas Mrs. Henry Clay Matthews was an active and loyal member of the Methodist Protestant Ladies' Aid Society of Enfield church and whereas our Heavenly Father in his wise Providence has called her to her eternal reward and whereas her noble spirit and sweet influence will be missed in our organization,

Be it resolved, we the members of this organization experience a deep feeling of loss at Mrs. Matthews' passing and be it resolved, we the members of this organization do herein collectively and individually extend to the

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

bereaved family our deepest sympathy and be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, a copy to the Methodist Protestant Herald, a copy to the Enfield Progress and a copy spread upon our minutes.

MRS. R. C. RIVES,
MISS MARY B. COLLINS,
MRS. R. C. STUBBINS.

Smiley

With hearts full of sadness, we the Ladies' Aid of Flat Rock M. P. church record the death of Mrs. Henry Smiley, sister of one of our ever ready, and faithful members.

Be it therefore resolved:

1. That we submit to God's will, as thus we pray, "Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

2. That we resolve to live in readiness unto death, then we will meet our loved ones gone before, and parting will be no more.

3. That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved sister, Mrs. B. W. Jones, and family, and commend them to our Heavenly Father, who alone can give comfort and consolation in all trouble.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Ladies' Aid Society; a copy sent the M. P. Herald, and a copy sent the bereaved family.

Mrs. S. W. Reavis, Pres.,
Miss Rosa Satterwhite, Sec'y.,
Mrs. T. P. Hester,
Mrs. U. J. Parrott,
Mrs. J. T. Hester, Treas.

Kennedy

Mrs. Mary J. Kennedy, born December 30, 1847, died at her home near Pleasant Grove church September 21, 1926.

She was in her usual good health Tuesday morning, but was stricken and died about noon of same day.

She professed religion and joined Pleasant Grove about 40 years ago and lived a member in good standing to the time of her death. Sometime near the close of the civil war she was married to William Kennedy who died some 34 years ago. To this union four children were born all living except one. Charles, Alvin, and Mrs. Malinda Yates, live in the community, not far from the church. She also leaves 19 grand children, 17 great grand children, and a host of friends who mourn because she is gone.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

The funeral was conducted at the church by her pastor and her body deposited in the family burying plot in the church cemetery. A large crowd attended the services. Our sympathy is extended to the children, friends and relatives. GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

McInnis

Melba Florence McInnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. McInnis, of Rockingham, N. C., was born September 29, 1925, and departed this life August 25, 1926. Age 10 months and 24 days.

Melba Florence was sick five weeks or more. A few days before her death she was carried to the James Walker Hospital, Wilmington, N. C., and it was there she departed this life to be with the Lord. Her body was brought back to the home of her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. McKenzie, where the funeral was conducted, after which her body was laid to rest in the Northam cemetery to await the resurrection.

"We speak of the realms of the blest,
That country so bright and so fair;
And oft are its glories confessed—
But what must it mean to be there.
"O Lord, in this valley of woe,
Our spirits for Heaven prepare;
Then shortly we also shall know,
And feel what it is to be there."

JAMES H. TROLINGER.

Coble

Mrs. Sarah J. Coble was born January 29, 1848, and died September 29, 1926, age 78 years and eight months.

She was married to John A. Coble February 20, 1872, by John C. Hunter, Esq. To this union one child was born which died in infancy. She also leaves one brother, D. H. Hunter, and a number of other relatives and friends.

She joined Tabernacle church early in life and remained a faithful member to her death.

Her remains were laid to rest in Mt. Pleasant cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by two of her former pastors, G. F. Millaway and J. A. Burgess, assisted by Rev. D. I. Offman. J. A. BURGESS.

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
TEACHERS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Containing References, a Concordance and the most authoritative Aids to Bible Study. Printed in Black Face Type. Beautiful Bindings.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

It is estimated that there are more than 20,000,000 blind persons in the world.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER — EVEN CHRIST — YE ARE BRETHREN.

Pres Elderdice Sdeeb
Westminster MD

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N. C., OCTOBER 14, 1926 NUMBER 48

Could You Do It?

Last Sunday was "Communion Sunday" at our church. We recalled the injunction of our Lord,, "This do in remembrance of me." We recalled the agony of Gethsemane and the extorted prayer, "If it be possible, let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless, not my will but thine be done." We remembered the succeeding hours of weary and painful trials before human tribunals. There came to mind the march out to the place of crucifixion, the Man of Nazareth meekly bearing the tree to which he was to be nailed. We recalled His amazing prayer, "Father, forgive them—they know not what they do." We tried to realize His excruciating sufferings as they drove the nails into His flesh and as the weight of His body hung upon the wounded hands and feet. We remembered that a few days before this He had steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem, knowing and predicting that all this was to befall Him.

In connection with this recollection of the Man of Galilee, there came to mind the estimate of Jesus which places Him in the rank of the sons of Adam, implying that He did not tower far above themselves. To such men let us present for serious consideration the question, Could you have measured up to the demands of Gethsemane and Pilate's Hall and Calvary and stood the test as that man stood it?

Albert Bowman

Last Sunday afternoon the largest congregation we have ever seen at a funeral service gathered at Pleasant Union to pay the last trbute of respect to Albert Bowman, who departed this life last Friday. About two months ago his only sister, Miss Millie Bowman, died, and about a week later his only brother, Rev. J. H. Bowman, died in his automobile on his way to church. This conjunction of deaths is startling. Keen is the sense of loss in the hearts of survivors. All three were people of earnest, active life. Their going made a difference.

Albert Bowman might be spoken of as Rev. Albert Bowman, for he was a licensed preacher. He might be called Hon. Albert Bowman, for he served for three terms in the legislature of North Carolina. But there are men that titles detract from rather than add to, and Albert Bowman seems to have been one of these. George Washngton is more than General Washington or President Washington, and to us Albert Bowman means more than Rev. or Hon. W. A. Bowman. These titles do not express all the fulness of his life. He was far more than a mere legislator, far more than a mere preacher. These offices did not cover the half of his outer activities, much less the activities of his soul. In addition to being a legislator and a preacher, he was a farmer and for 35 consecutive years a Sunday school superintendent. He was interested in all that contributed to the welfare of his community. He was interested in public education. He was interested in good roads. He was a public-spirited citizen and a church member with a wide horizon. In the special session of our Annual Conference at High Point College last year he made a fervent address in the interest of that institution. He took special interest in our Children's Home. The orbit of his life involved many interests. He was wide awake and active even after the hand of disease had been laid upon him. He had premonition of the coming end even years before the end came.

Rev. T. M. Johnson, a playmate of boyhood days, had charge of the funeral service. Minor parts were taken by Rev. G. F. Millaway, Prof. T. C. Amick, Rev. J. D. Williams, and the editor of THE HERALD.

The deceased was in his 63rd year. He was born on January 7th. Less than two years ago his wife passed over. Since then of course he has been more or less lonely. Now he has awakened in a realm where loneliness and sorrow are unknown. Shall we not try to live in constant readiness for the change that has come to him?

Was It a Mistake to Send the Spies?

And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, Send thou men, that they may search the land of Canaan.—Numbers 13:1, 2.

And ye came near unto me every one of you and said, We will send them before us and they shall search us out the land.—Deut. 1:22.

Who initiated the motion to send the spies? According to one of these records it was God; according to the other it was the people of Israel. If God did it, of course there was no mistake in it. If the men of Israel did it, there may have been a mistake in the movement. Accepting both statements as true, it seems that it must have been a case similar to the choice of a king for Israel in later days. God did not approve that step though He permitted it and went so far as to choose the men that should occupy the throne for the first two or three reigns, at least. It may be that God did not sanction the sending of the spies, but when the people demanded it He permitted it and gave some directions as to how it should be done.

Whether it was a mistake or not may be argued from the nature of the case and from the results.

God had chosen the land of Canaan for the Israelites and had promised it to them. It was therefore the place for them to go. Why send men to spy out the land? Was human judgment better than divine judgment? Does not the very act of sending spies imply doubt of God, either of the correctness of His judgment or of His ability to establish His people in the land He had chosen for them? Of course it may be said that men are not presumptuously to trust in God to do for them what they can do for themselves. But would this have been a case of presumption had they gone on without sending the spies? Does it not seem more like a case of

(Continued on Page Seven)

PROVISIONAL PROGRAM

For the 101st Session of the North Carolina Annual Conference, to Be Held In Grace Church, Greensboro, November 3-8, 1926

Wednesday, November 3

9:30 A. M.—Conference called to order. Roll call. Devotional exercises conducted by the President of the Conference, Rev. A. G. Dixon, D. D. Reading of the President's report. Incidental business.

10:45 A. M.—Conference sermon. Sermon preached by the President of the Conference.

11:45 A. M.—Calling of the roll of the Honored Dead. Communion service in charge of the President.

12:30 P. M.—Lunch hour.

1:45 P. M.—Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. W. F. Ashburn.

2:00 P. M.—Address by Rev. T. H. Lewis, D. D., LL. D., President of the General Conference.

3:00 P. M.—Election of Conference Officers. Election of Lay Member of the Stationing Committee. Election of Standing Boards and Committees. Adjournment at pleasure.

7:30 P. M.—Devotional service conducted by the pastor of the Conference Church, Rev. S. K. Spahr, D. D.

7:45 P. M.—Welcome address and response.

8:15 P. M.—Address by Rev. J. H. Straughn, D. D., Washington, D. C. Subject: "The Methodist Protestant Church in the To-morrow."

Thursday, November 4

9:00 A. M.—Roll Call. Devotional service conducted by Rev. H. F. Fogleman. Reading and correction of Minutes. Incidental business.

10.00 P. M.—Submission of Pastors' Official Reports. Adjournment for Committee Work.

12:00 P. M.—Lunch Hour.

1:30 P. M.—Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. A. L. Hunter.

1:45 P. M.—The first in a series of addresses by Rev. H. L. Elderdice, D.D., LL.D., President of the Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md. The subject of the series is "Soul Winning." The topic for this address is "The Meaning and the Message."

2:30 P. M.—Church Extension Hour. Brief reports from the mission charges of the Conference.

3:00 P. M.—Business session. Adjournment at pleasure.

7:30 P. M.—Devotional service conducted by Rev. J. A. Burgess.

7:45 P. M.—Address by Dr. Carl C. Taylor, University of North Carolina. Subject: "Rural Church Opportunities."

Friday, November 15

9:00 A. M.—Roll Call. Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. H. L. Isley.

915 A. M.—Second address by Dr. Elderdice. Subject: "Soul Winning: The Motives."

10:00 A. M.—Reading and correction of Minutes. Reports of Committees: Education and Literature, Methodist Protestant Herald, Missions, Official Character, Pastoral Work, Social Reform, Superannuates. Business session.

11:15 A. M.—Address by the official representative of the General Conference, Rev. L. C. Little, Secretary of the Board of Young People's Work.

12:00 A.M.—Lunch Hour.

1:30 P. M.—Devotional conducted by Rev. T. M. Johnson, D. D.

1:45 P. M. Committee Reports continued: Moral Character, Ordinances, President's Report, Parsonages, Young People's Work.

2:15 P. M.—Meeting of the Conference Brotherhood. (Report of the Committee on Group Insurance.)

3:00 P. M.—Report of Committee on Rural Church Work. Open discussion on the Rural Church. Adjournment.

7:30 P. M.—Missionary Hour. Devotional service conducted by Rev. P. E. Lindley. Reports from the Woman's Home Missionary Society and from the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

8:15 P. M.—Pageant given by the Missionary Societies of Grace Church.

Saturday, November 6

9:00 A. M.—Roll call. Devotional service in charge of Rev. F. L. Gibbs.

9:15 A. M.—Third in the series of addresses by Dr. Elderdice. Subject: "Soul-Winning: The Methods."

10:00 A. M.—Reading and correction of minutes. Reports of Standing Boards and Committees: Boundary, Conference Trustees, Church Extension and Survey, Evangelism, Church Music, Conference Faculty.

10:45 A. M.—Reports from the Children's Home.

11:15 A. M.—College Rally. Report of the Board of Education, College Trustees, and the President of the College.

12:00 M.—Lunch hour.

1:30 P. M.—Devotional service conducted by Rev. W. D. Reed.

1:45 P. M.—Reports of Officers: Secretary, Statistical Secretary, Treasurer. Reports of Standing Boards: Board of Young People's Work, Church Extension, District Parsonage, Trustees, Superannuated Fund Society.

2:30 P. M.—Address by representative of the Seminary.

3:00 P. M.—Address by representative of the Near East Relief.

3:20 P. M.—Business session.

7:30 P. M.—Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. E. Pritchard.

7:45 P. M.—Young People's Rally. Addresses by Rev. L. C. Little and Mrs. H. W. Maier.

Sunday, November 7

11:00 A. M.—Ordination service. Sermon preached by Rev. J. R. Hutton, Greensboro, N. C. Ordination of Elders.

2:30 P. M.—Sermon. (Preacher to be announced).

Monday, November 8

9:00 A. M.—Devotional service conducted by Rev W. M. Loy.

9:15 A. M.—Reading and correction of minutes. Business session.

11:30 A. M.—Reading of the report of the Stationing Committee.

Final adjournment.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE COMMITTEES

These committees are being published this week with a hope that members of the committees may make suggestions to the chairman of their respective committees, and that anyone, whether a member of the conference or not, may make suggestions to any one of the committees, if they so desire.

Credentials—C. W. Bates, F. W. Paschall, F. R. Stout, L. W. Jobe.

Fraternal Relations—R. A. Hunter, J. D. Williams, J. E. Pritchard, R. L. Hethcox, W. M. Loy, C. E. Phillips, E. G. Cowan, J. F. Leonhart, S. S. Holt, J. M. Cutchin, D. B. Eldridge, J. J. Hartman, Delegate from Kernersville.

Group Insurance—J. E. Pritchard, L. W. Gerringer, F. R. Stout.

Literature and Education—P. E. Lindley, R. M. Andrews, G. W. Holmes, W. F. Kennett, J. F. McCulloch, Homer Casto, J. B. Hicks, W. M. Ward, S. C. Whitaker, C. F. Finch, J. E. Foust, Dee Sasser, Frank Sain, W. L. Craig, J. W. H. Isley.

Methodist Protestant Herald — C. H. Whitaker, W. T. Totten, L. S. Helms, H. S. B. Thompson, J. H. Trollinger, W. H. Henderson, W. T. Kennedy, H. M. Tarleton, Charles Shepherd, J. C. Cook.

Missions—S. W. Taylor, Edward Suits, J. D. Morris, R. S. Troxler, T. F. McCulloch, J. S. Williams, C. L. Spencer, J. D. Cranford, C. L. Gray, R. G. Ward, Mrs. C. L. Davenport, T. T. Ellis, J. R. Stone, L. G. Kiger, F. M. Kennedy, Rom Ward.

Moral Character—T. M. Johnson, J. H. Moton, W. F. Ashburn, T. A. Williams, A. O. Lindley, M. P. Chambliss, J. W. Montgomery, J. E. Hankins, J. H. Harkey, J. L. Cachatt, W. H. Mabry, J. M. Trogdon.

Obituaries—For Rev George E. Hunt—W. T. Totten, J. H. Moton, W. F. Ashburn, H. A. Leonard, S. S. Templeton, R. S. Barber.

For Rev. C. L. Whitaker, D. D.—R. M. Andrews, J. R. Hutton, J. F. Dosier, J. M. Cutchin, J. M. Millikan, Mrs. W. C. Hammer.

For Rev. J. W. Quick—C. E. Phillips, J. T. Sisk, T. A. Williams, J. E. Smith, Earl Cook.

For Rev J. H. Bowman—J. E. Pritchard, G. F. Millaway, J. A. Burgess, G. W. Wright, W. M. Taylor, S. A. Alexander.

For Mrs. Harriet Swain—C. W. Bates, J. S. Williams, J. H. Moton, B. M. Watts, Mrs. G. W. Edwards.

For Miss Millie Bowman—H. A. Garrett, D. A. Neese, Mrs. A. G. Dixon.

For Mrs. R. G. Koons—Delegate from Anderson, Miss Anna Henderson, Mrs. L. H. White, Miss Sallie McClimmons.

For Mrs. W. D. Fogleman—T. M. Johnson, N. G. Bethea, J. F. McCulloch, T. O. Pender, C. H. Jones, Mrs. H. E. Vasser.

Official Character—E. A. Bingham, J. L. Trollinger, W. D. Reed, J. S. Riddle, Atlas Ridge, T. E. Pierce, A. A. Self, R. R. Devinil, J. O. Glenn, R. S. Woody, R. T. Gardner, R. H. Love, J. Wade Siler.

Ordinances—H. F. Fogleman, N. G. Bethea, J. F. Dosier, J. D. Hardy, A. D. Shelton, H. Brittain, Glenn Madison, Robert Walter, F. M. Cook, C. R. Reed, Frank Glenn, C. A. Berrier.

Pastoral Work—L. W. Gerringer, George L. Reynolds, J. B. Trogdon, J. T. Sisk, D. I. Garner, O. C. Loy, Jr., Elwood Carroll, J. E. Bowman, C. E. Wilson, R. C. Jackson, G. W. Massey, F. A. Boyle, J. J. Watts, Gwyn Cash.

Parsonages—B. M. Williams, W. M. Pike, O. B. Williams, C. H. Hill, D. A. Braswell, C. B. Way, C. L. Hatley, L. E. Setzer, F. R. Stockard, Eugene Wiggins, T. J. Phillips.

President's Message — J. A. Burgess, D. R. Williams, George L. Curry, W. H. Neese, G. H. Hendry, L. C. Little, Robert Short, W. L. Ward, H. L. Scott, D. A. McLaurin, Dr. W. A. Johnson, J. W. Hardee, G. A. Berrier, R. A. Shouse.

Pulpit Service—Dr. S. K. Spahr, L. W. Gerringer, N. M. Harrison, Jr., E. L. Ballard.

Social Reform—Paul S. Kennett, D. A. Highfill, H. L. Powell, J. F. Dosier, W. L. Carson, C. G. Isley, I. W. Cashatt, M. A. Proctor, E. S. Pearson, R. E. Sides, Delegate from Yarborough.

Superannuates—George R. Brown, E. G. Lowdermilk, J. H. Hulin, J. B. O'Briant, A. L. Hunter, J. R. Hutton, J. G. Rogers, N. H. Johnson, T. F. Humphreys, Delegate from Democrat, Delegate from Fallston.

Rural Church Work—R. C. Stubbins, B. M. Williams, E. A. Bingham, G. F. Millaway, H. L. Isley, M. J. Morris, Ernest Sharp, Lester Watts, Frank Hulin, Delegate from Forsyth.

Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Greensboro, N. C.

Where the Approaching Annual Session of the North Carolina Conference Will Be Held

Young People's Work—N. M. Harrison, Jr., H. F. Surratt, P. E. Lindley, L. E. Ballard, C. E. Ridge, F. R. Love, M. I. Crutchfield, J. M. Morgan, F. L. Gibbs, Mrs. C. L. Koontz, M P. Efland, Delegate from Gibsonville.

I have given a great deal of time and care to these committees, and have tried to include all whose names should appear in these committees. If anyone has been omitted, or if anyone's name is incorrect in any way, I will thank you to call my attention to it. If these reports are ready in the main when we come to Conferecne it will aid much in expediting the business of the Conference.

Pray, and again I say pray, that the will of God our Father may be worked out in every department of the Conference sessions. Pray that He may have perfect right-of-way in every action fo the conference.

Yours in the Master's service,

A. G. Dixon.

THE RURAL CHURCH

Rev. R. C. Stubbins

The following excerpts are from papers handed in at the Young People's Summer School at High Point College. The papers were written by young people from town and country—the majority being from the country. They give a little insight to the mind of our young people as to how they think. "The Rural Church May Be Brought Up to the Times," which was the subject they were writing on.

The following by a girl in the country: "Great progress is being made in rural life, but the rural church is not keeping up with the times. Some steps that would help bring the church up to date would be to arouse, inform and cultivate leaders who would and could carry out a real Christian program. The greatest need is wideawake ministers, for country folks are responsive and glad to co-operate with good, progressive leadership. Another great need is the uniting or consolidating of many large circuits and the enlarging of the church's program of activities. The church must adapt itself to meet the needs of the new rural life spiritually and socially."

The following by a young school teacher brought up in the country: "Since the trend of the times decidedly demands new methods in the country church if it is to live, we believe the following may help:

"Desire of a higher Christian spirit or standard, which will convince the people that all new ideas are not worldly, and that the church must be modern in its methods to be compatible with its surroundings.

"Co-operation is necessary since we live in a day of getting together. Denominational competition must stop. A well planned program must be followed. To do this we need ministers that have not only been trained, but who are doing their best to keep trained by home study courses and in college and university summer courses."

Next, from a paper by a girl from the city and now attending college: "First, let the people in the rural districts see that the new and progressive plans used by city churches can be modified and easily adapted to the churches in the country. The country people are progressive in their schools and in their methods of farming and why should the church hold on to the old ideas of the community and not try some new and practical help given by our great leaders?"

A high school girl in the country: "Most of all to bring the country church to what it should be we need wide-awake pastors. If we have good wide-awake pastors we will wake up, too, and co-operate in any kind of good church work. The pastor is the one who puts impressions on our minds. We must also have a Christian Endeavor and keep in mood of prayer, usefulness and helpfulness."

REPLY TO BROTHER WAY

When I wrote the article on the pastors' financial obligations, it was my purpose to save someone from financial disaster. Three of our number have already drifted upon its sands and others may be drifting. My best friends are those who try to correct my blunders; but evidently Brother Way got the wrong idea.

Sam Jones said "The hit dog always hollers." I had no idea that my reminder would get close to Brother Way. I am reminded of the conversation between the old darkey and the infidel. The infidel said:

"Auntie, don't you know there is no such thing as a God?"

The old darkey answered:

"Lawdy, Lawdy, Mars Bob, de Bible done say the fool hath said in his heart, dey ain't no God, and you done own it."

How any minister of the Gospel can afford to justify a minister or anyone being dishonest is more than we can see. If the people whom the pastor serves fail to pay his salary it is unfortunate and dishonest—if he earns it. But I can't see how two wrongs can make one right. If the people are dishonest they need the Gospel more; but if the pastor is dishonest it disqualifies him for the ministry. The same reasoning would hold if I steal from you, you steal from the other fellow. The rule is that the pastor owes someone else than his flock. It is possible for us to be too presumptuous about our salaries and spend or contract too much. It might be well for us to pray with David: "Lord, save us from the sin of presumption."

If some of us were co-laborers with Paul, I am sure he would have us build tents rather than leave our grocery bills unpaid; or with Cary, he would have us cobble boots to pay expenses.

I am sure that some preachers fail because they have never learned the worth of a dollar. They have never learned to wield a razor on their faces, a brush on their shoes, or an iron on their pants, and when the year closes they find that they have overdrawn their income.

May I repeat: Who wants a pastor who won't pay his debts? I am sure the Herald will be open to carry an ad free of charge to the party applying.

Pessimist.

MEETING OF CONFERENCE FACULTY

The Conference Faculty will meet in Grace Church, Greensboro, N. C., on Tuesday, November 2, at 2:30 p. m. All members of the Faculty are urged to be present at that hour.

All young preachers in the Conference Course are expected to appear at 4 o'clock the same day for examination. Please be prompt.

A. G. Dixon, Pres. of the Conference.
N. G. Bethea, Sec. of the Faculty.

REGARDING WAR DEBTS

By T. T. Hicks, Esq.

To the Editor:

I have read the article you quote from Rev. Francis E. Clark in which he quotes F. W. Peabody, advocating the cancellation of the War debt of France to the United States. The principal arguments in favor of cancellation are some utterances in the heat of passion by some Americans after Germany had been provoked by our conduct to treat us as her enemies. That is not the time or the place to look for reasons for cancelling the debt. We are under as much obligation to cancel our war debts against England, Belgium, Italy and Russia as we are those against France, and, I think, more; for Italy and Belgium and Russia have not kicked and insulted us as France has when reminded of the debt, and England has not acted near so meanly about it.

We must go a little farther back to determine whether these moneys shall be paid.

Before the War and for a long time after it began, Americans were told by their governmental spokesmen to be neutral; that is, to take sides with neither; to be neutral in our thoughts. We tried to be so. But before we knew it the millionaires of America had loaned multiplied and untold millions to France and England and had suceeded in inducing our government to insist that our ships be allowed to carry war supplies to England and France uninterrupted by German ships, while if we sold and attempted to deliver such to Germany and England prevented and took the war supplies sold by Americans to Germany it was nothing. That attitude on the part of America was in effect war against Germany. The attempt in our declaration of war of April 7th, 1917, to make good the statement that Germany was fighting us was impossible. It was based on the world-known fact that we insisted as against Germany on the right to deliver war supplies to England, and did not insist, but refused to insist as against England and France on the right to deliver war supplies to Germany.

The Germans sent representatives here when the war started, just as England and France did, to show us their side of the controversy. Owing to the influence of the millionaires and their press, who were lending millions to England and France the tide was soon turned against Germany. The Eastern Seaboard cities, where the wealth of the country is controlled, where the big loans to the English and French were beng made, continually expressed great fear that German warships would blow them up.

There is no more doubt that England, France and Russia wanted the war than there is that America did not. Lord Grey in his book published last year dwells at great length on the feeling between France and Germany, and the persistent efforts for many years to induce him as England's Minister of Foreign Affairs to commit England to fight for and with France. That France had arranged years before for the support and help of Russia when the war started was known throughout the world. England for a generation had insisted that she must be mistress of the seas, and that Germany must not have a navy as large as hers. The jealousy of England and France against Germany became acute, says Lord Grey, England's Minister of Foreign Affairs. President Wilson was inaugurated March 4th, 1913. Immediately he sent Col. E. M. House to England, France and Germany to try to prevent the war that they all knew was imminent. House's book says he tried to throughout 1913.

Now racial dislikes have ever been the chief causes of war. Germany has been a battleground from the days of Julius Caesar and I know not how much longer. Her population and wealth had been almost destroyed many times. There were the Slavonic race and the Yellow race East of her, the French to the West of her, the Italians, whom she made her allies, to the South. However, she lost the Italian allies by the threat of England to destroy Rome and Italy's other cities if she helped Germany. In view of her racial surroundings Germany and all her people, regardless of party, thought it best to be prepared for war. Lord Grey in his book says Russian mobilization, that is, the moving of her armies toward the German frontier, did not mean war and that Germany ought to have known it and ought not to have struck so quick. The English are in the main descendants of the Germans. If they had not gone against their race and taken sides with France there would have been no war. But England knew Germans worked harder and grew faster than the English. They feared Germany's navy would some day blow England and her ships out of the water. So England joined her ancient enemies, hostile races, France and Russia, whom she had previously fought to the death, against her mother Germany, and when they were all, as the world knows, whipped, in the Spring of 1917, England and France induced America to join them on these grounds: "We are whipped and you will lose the billions your citizens have loaned us. You have joined with us in distorting and disobeying international law to the prejudice of Germany until Germany is mad with you and will fight you as soon as we are finished; France helped you whip us one time, so now you must help us both whip Germany, our enemy, not yours. Germany can go to America and whip America." With such speeches they frightened Wall Street and Wall Street frightened Wilson, who "kept us out of war," and Wilson frightened Congress, which on threats of death if we did not, forced the people to go and to die and to spend ten billions of our own and lend France and England nearly ten billions more. And didn't England take more value from Germany in her Colonies than England had spent in the War? Just read the treaty of peace, in which more coal and iron, gold and silver and livestock that Germany possessed were required to be delivered to France. And though England and France took all Germany's war implements and ships and bound her hand and foot, so that she should never again have a pop-gun, yet the yearly expenditures since by France and England on their armies and navies, are nearly as much as they owe us. And they are continually telling us they are mad with us and we are mean because we will not forgive them the debt they owe us.

They will not disarm, though asked by President Harding. They will not return to Germany her colonies, and they are mad because we would not join their league of nations and thus bind ourselves to fight Germany or anybody else when they say so. "Forgive us our debts as we forgive those who are indebted to us." How would that do as a principle for England and France to consider?

Henderson, N. C., October 9th, 1926.

The WORK and the WORKERS

Be Praying

The Annual Conference will soon be in session in Grace Church, Greensboro. Let all believers in prayer be praying very earnestly that God's will may prevail in all the Conference actions. We long for a deeply spiritual Conference, so that its influences may reach on down through the years. If we offer united prayer to this end then we will have a great and good Conference.

Money In Hand

In many instances church and circuit treasurers have money in hand for the budgets. Please send it in to Mr. V. W. Idol, High Point, N. C., at the earliest possible date so he can post his books accordingly and be ready for Conference. You can thus help him and at the same time help the causes for which the money was collected.

Pastors will also please make report to me just as soon as you are assured that all claims will be paid in full. This will greatly help me in making up my report to Conference. Fourth quarterly blanks will reach you soon.

Mocksville

On Saturday, October 2nd, we attended a circuit rally at Union Chapel on Mocksville charge. It was a good meeting. In the afternoon the fourth quarterly conference was held. The reports were good, indicating that the budgets will be paid almost, if not quite, in full. Mocksville seems to be developing rather wonderfully under the pastorate of Brother Sisk. The conference voted unanimously for the return of the present pastor, and we believe that in their adjourned quarterly conference to be held late in October they will increase the salary for next year by about $300. We certainly hope they will.

North Charlotte

On Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock we were with Rev. D. A. Braswell and his people in North Charlotte. The outlook there seems to be promising. The people there have purchased a lot which is well located. They have the lot about one-half paid for, and on the rear of the lot they have erected a hut which is to remain as a permanent part of the plant. In this hut they are now running their Sunday school and holding their preaching services. One cannot judge fully in so short a visit, but it seems to me that there is a good prospect here of building up a good church.

Charlotte

At 11 o'clock on Sunday morning it was our pleasure to participate with Rev. H. F. Surratt and his people in Charlotte in the dedication of our splendid church building there. Mr. R. S. Garmon read a history of the church, which I presume will be published, so I will not go into that. We were glad to have Rev. D. A. Braswell, the first pastor, and Rev. Lawrence Little present to participate in this service. It was a great day for our Charlotte people. They had not only lifted all debt on the church, but had already met all financial obligations for the year except pastor's salary, and that will all be paid before Conference. This church has an absolutely clean financial record. They have always paid all claims. Now their church and Sunday school rooms are clear of debt. It now remains for them to build a good parsonage on their splendid lot adjoining the church. Brother Surratt and his wife are doing a fine work in Charlotte.

Why Not

For five days Mrs. Dixon and I assisted Rev. D. I. Garner in meetings at Love Joy camp grounds on Why Not charge. During those days Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Hulin were there three days. Brother Hulin preached once. Also Rev and Mrs. J. H. Trollinger one day. We enjoyed being with them. We also thoroughly enjoyed being in this camp meeting. The people seemed thoroughly interested in the work, and we were privileged to hear some old-time camp meeting shouting among the new-born souls, and also among the older soldiers of the Cross. It was good to be there. Brother Garner is doing a good work on this circuit, which is entirely too large for any one man. Some churches on this charge should be combined, and if this can be done it will undoubtedly help.

Granville

On Saturday, October 10th, and Sunday, October 11th, we were with Rev. W. F. Kennett and his people on Granville charge. The fourth quarterly conference was held on Saturday. It was a splendid conference and well attended. The reports were all good. There is scarcely a doubt that pastor's salary and all claims will be paid in full, and the pastor will be privileged to come up to Conference with a complete report financially. I preached in two of the churches on Sunday and Mrs. Dixon spoke in the other, thus giving services to all three of the church in one day. At all the churches the stewards vouched for finances in full. Brother Kennett is finishing up his second year on Granville. The Lord has abundantly blessed, and the ingatherings have been good, and so have the financial reports. The people speak in the highest terms of the preaching of Brother Kennett, and of the services of both himself and his good wife. We predict that Union Chapel will soon be a splendid country station.

Henderson

On Sunday night we were in Henderson with Rev. R. A. Hunter and his people. It is always a joy to visit this church where three years of my life were once spent as pastor. Brother Hunter is popular with his people, and is doing a fine work. This church will also meet its, financial obligations. They had just closed a two weeks' meeting in which Dr. T. M. Johnson had helped, and as a result the pastor had received 19 members into the church.

Quarterly Reports

Fourth quarterly report blanks will be sent out soon, and if these can be returned soon it will help much in getting ready for Conference. May God bless and help all of us to round up good reports.

Appointments

October 13—Draper.
October 15—Mount Hermon, quartely conference.
October 16—Tabernacle, quarterly conference.
October 17—Forsyth.
October 18—Calvary, quarterly conference.
October 24—11 a. m.—Spencer.
October 24—7:30 p. m.—Albemarle.
October 31—10 a. m.—Chestnut Ridge, Orange.
October 31—3 p. m.—Liberty, quarterly conference.
November 2—2:30 p. m.—Faculty meeting, Grace church.
November 3—9:30 a. m.—Annual Conference, Grace church.

A. G. Dixon.

Denominational Enterprises

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR

Continuing last week's account of war conditions at Kalgan, China:

Sunday night the Christian marshal left Kalgan, and the army is in full retreat, only those remaining who are covering the retreat.

Since the officers have all left, the city is being governed, until the new army arrives, by a council composed of all the leading men, bankers, merchants, etc., our Mission also being represented in it.

The work we are doing for the refugees has the approval of this council. We have also reported it to the American consul here, and are keeping in touch with him.

Everything throughout the city seems to be going on in an orderly way, but one incident will show how easily it can become unsettled.

Monday morning someone at the outer city gate saw some soldiers coming. Not knowing whether they were retreating soldiers or bandits, they did not wait to see, but hurriedly closed the outer gates, and two men on horseback galloped madly through the city shouting out that the bandits were coming. The city council hauled cannon out on the streets, all merchants and people ran quickly to their homes and shut themselves in, all lost in a panic of fear. Later they discovered that it was only the retreating soldiers, so the gates were again opened and the city quieted down.

More people are constantly coming to us so that we have had to enlarge our quarters to accommodate them all, so we have acquired a large place bordering on ours so that we will be able to take care of nearly seven or eight hundred women and children, and I think we may have more than that if they still keep coming in.

It is rumored that the new governor general, Tutung, who will arrive is one that has been here before and is well liked by the people of this city. If this rumor is true, and we have reason to believe it is, there will probably be no trouble here after he comes, as he rules wisely and well. Apparently the only trouble that the people are afraid of arising is bandits and a close watch is being kept for them as the above incident will show.

4:00 P. M.—Chang Tso Ling's troops are at Hsuan Hua Fu, just two stations away from here. The city council is sending a delegation to meet them at that place, telling them that the city will be turned over to them on their arrival, and requesting that there be no fighting here. There are still several thousand of the other troops here who have come in on the retreat. We are hoping their mission will be successful.

6:00 P. M.—A delegation from Chang Tso Ling's troops has just arrived in Kalgan. Mr. Soderbom and other members of the city council have gone to meet them. They may spend a good part of the night in conference. It looks like there may be no fighting here, as the retreating troops have all been disarmed by the city council.

When the Christian army retreated they took with them all their wounded that they were able to move, leaving behind those whom they left in the barracks. Fearing their fate by starvation at the hands of the others, seven of them committed suicide before anyone could go to see about them. Three others tried to do so by beating their heads against the walls. Yesterday the matter was put before the city council and they agreed to move them to a safer place and to provide them with food and water to drink and the foreigners were to arrange with some native doctors to look after them personally, so the Norwegian Mission and the Bible Society are taking care of this work, and our native doctor with some others are doing all they can.

Fred C. Klein.

A SIMPLE REQUEST

Having been appointed chairman of the Committee on Superannutes, I am appealing to the brethren to send me any suggestions they have to offer that will enable the committee to submit a report to the Conference that will be worth while.

Something ought to be done to arouse the members of our church and cause them to feel the importance of giving our superannuates an adequate living appropriation. Brethren, help us to do this. Please send your suggestions at once.

George R. Brown.

Was It a Mistake to Send the Spies?

(Continued from Page One)

dishonoring doubt of God to send men to investigate the condition of what God had selected for them?

The results of the movement, instead of facilitating the accomplishment of the end in view, delayed for 38 years what under the favor of God might have been achieved in a few weeks.

To us it looks like a mistake. When God says go, we would better take Him at His word.

An international convention—the second in the history of the organization—will be held by the World League Against Alcoholism toward the end of June, 1927, according to Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general sacretary, who announces that the gathering will be held in some American city. Among the cities favorably considered, Dr. Cherrington said, are Atlantic City and Detroit. The first international convention was held in Toronto in November, 1922. Representatives of temperance organizations in every country in the world will be present, the general secretary said. It is planned to hold the convention for an entire week.

When a church seeks a pastor
They often want
The strength of an eagle,
The grace of a swan,
The gentleness of a dove,
The friendliness of a sparrow,
And the night hours of an owl,
And when they catch that bird
They expect him to live
On the food of a canary.

—Record of Christian Work.

A man is never as bad as other people say, nor as good as he says himself.

From the mistakes of others a wise man corrects his own.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE WHITE PRINCESS

Sally could scarcely restrain her impatience when she saw furniture being unloaded at the little shingled cottage next door.

The first thing the moving-man lifted down from the load was a doll carriage. Sally knew at once that there was to be a little girl neighbor and she was so glad.

Sure enough, when the family came next day, there was a small person just about her own age, and Sally ran right through the opening in the hedge and introduced herself.

"I am Sally Sanders," she beamed, "an' I live over there in the big white house. I'm glad you are going to live here because we'll have heaps of fun together. I'm going to have a birthday party next week, an' I'll ask my mamma to invite you to come."

The little stranger flushed with pleasure, although Sally saw in a minute that she was quite shy.

"My name is Patty," she said softly. "An' you may wheel my doll carriage if you like."

So in a few minutes the little girls were good friends, and Patty was carrying Sally's lovely Paris doll Pon Pon tenderly in her arms and admiring her beautiful silk dress and dainty little kid slippers; while Sally was happily wheeling the shabby little doll carriage with Patty's Flossie May in it.

"My mamma sews hours an' hours," Patty informed her companion proudly. She gets up early in the morning an' she works late at night, 'cause my daddy was hurt an' is in the hospital. When he comes home, he'll be all well again."

"That'll be fine, an' how glad you'll be!" smiled Sally. Patty nodded wistfully.

"It's lonesome without my daddy," she said, "but I'll remember an' tell him about the party."

Mrs. Sanders went over to call on Patty's mother and took her a beautiful brown basket of rosy cheeked apples, and invited Patty to come to Sally's birthday party. There would be a lot of children, and Mrs. Sanders said they would be sure to have a nice time.

Patty's mother was young and very sweet-faced.

"It's very kind of you to ask my little daughter," she said, "but I am afraid she can't dress like Sally and her friends—and so perhaps it wouldn't be wise for her to come."

"Oh, but we want her!" exclaimed Mrs. Sanders. "And children have a lot better time when they are not fussed up. Besides, we like Patty for what she is, and she is always dainty and clean and so gentle in her manners. She and Sally are fine friends for each other, and I am glad you have come to live near us."

But the children in the neighborhood didn't think that way, for some of them were quite rude to the little girl who had come to live in the shingled cottage.

"Kalico kid!" "Kalico kid!" "Kalico kid!" they would chant as soon as Patty came in sight, so that she would run and hide behind the house when she saw any of them coming.

She began to wonder if she wanted to go to the party. Of course, there would be lots of nice things to eat, and they would all play and have lots of fun—that is, if no one started to say hateful things about her plain little clothes.

Her very best dress was a little white one, with a pretty red dot in it, and there was a white collar and a red bow, and little white socks and small red slippers went with it. Patty had always thought this very nice before, but now her heart was heavy, for she knew that the other children would be in dainty little frocks of muslin and lace.

"There," said her mother as she finished dressing Patty on the afternoon of Sally's birthday, "remember that 'Handsome is as handsome does.' People will love you if you try to help everyone else have a good time. And just go around by the sidewalk, dear," she advised, "for you must not muss your dress."

So Patty ran down the path, and just as she came to the end of the hedge, there were five or six children going into the beautiful Sanders grounds.

"Oh. ho!" jeered Billy Harter. "If there isn't the Kalico kid! I wonder if she's coming to the party!"

That was enough. The sun stopped shining in Patty's sky, and she turned quickly back. In that brief moment, she had noticed that all of the children in the group she had seen were carrying packages, and she knew right away they were birthday presents for Sally.

It was bad enough to be a "Kalico kid," but she couldn't bear to go empty-handed. At the thought the tears ran down her cheeks and she threw herself down on the grass.

"I wish my daddy'd get well," she burst out, wthout in the least realizing that she was speaking aloud. "Then we'd have money'n' ever'thing."

"P'raps he will." And Patty looked up to see Sally standing near.

Sally was very sweet in a dainty little dress of pale blue silk muslin, embroidered in pink roses. Her shining, curly black hair was bound with pink and blue ribbons, and Patty thought she had never seen anyone look so nice before.

"Come," urged Sally, "nearly everyone is at the party, an' Mamma sent me over to get you."

"I'm not coming," wailed Patty, the tears starting again, "not one single step!"

"Oh, very well," returned Sally coldly, "if that's the way you feel about it, I'll not bother you," and she turned away sharply.

It was more than Patty could bear.

"Oh, Sally," she entreated, "please, please don't feel that way. But they call me the 'Kalico kid,' an' I've nothing to bring for a nice present although I'd love to."

Sally turned back quickly and patted two hands together so sharply that a bird on a branch above flew away quite frightened.

"Listen," said Sally. "I never heard anything so silly in why whole life! Your dress is just as pretty as it can be. An' I have so many presents I don't want any more—but I do want you, Patty, an' I'll think you are real mean if you don't come."

Suddenly the sun came out again in Patty's sky. "Do—do you really want me?" she doubted.

"Of course, I do," laughed Sally. "Run into the house an' dry your eyes an' I'll wait for you."

Patty hopped up and was out of sight in a moment.

"Why, why, what in the world have you got?" exclaimed Sally, as Patty reappeared.

"A birthday present," giggled Patty. "Muvver said I could give it to you. It's the White Princess!"

In her arms Patty carried a beautiful, plump, snow-white hen which had a very, very red comb, and golden-yellow feet. The fowl winked rapidly, for she couldn't quite understand what was happening.

"Let's pretend," exclaimed Patty, enthusiastically, "that she was once a beautiful, beautiful lady, an' that a wicked dwarf who wanted to be king some day, changed her into a chicken so people wouldn't know where she was. An' that some day a good fairy will come along an' change her back into the White Princess once more!"

"More'n likely she'll be changed into a pot pie," jeered Billy Harter, who had crawled through the hole in the hedge and was listening.

Sally frowned.

"The White Princess will never be made into a pot pie," she said, "for this is the very nicest birthday present I've got yet."

Sally put her arm around Patty, who was holding the White Princess firmly, and the two little girls strolled happily around the end of the hedge and joined the other children on the Sanders lawn.—Selected.

THE SURPRISED SQUIRRELS

Allen and mother were hunting for checker-berries in the woods.

Suddenly as he poked around the ground with his stick Allen gave a squeal of delight.

"See, mother," he cried, "some boys have hidden a whole lot of hickory nuts here in this hollow under the leaves. I suppose they are coming back for them later, but they won't find them," and he began stuffing his pockets until they were full.

"I don't think it was boys," said mother quietly. "I think it was a squirrel. Do you want to rob him of his winter's store?"

Benny, who had begun to crack the nuts, stopped with his eyes full of interest.

"Wait," said mother, "let's go over and sit under the tree and keep very still and see what happens."

They did not have long to wait. Soon a big gray squirrel came running quickly along the ground to where the nuts had been stored. When he reached the spot and found his hoard gone, he sat back on his haunches and began to scold furiously. Then he began to burrow deeper into the earth to see if perhaps they were buried deeper than he thought.

Failing to find one he scolded away some more and finally ran to a big tree some distance away and ran up the trunk, still scolding.

"Gone to tell his wife and children that all the hard work they have done day after day has gone for nothing, and that this winter they must all starve," said mother.

"No, they won't," cried Benny, jumping up and emptying his pockets of the nuts, putting them all carefully back in the hollow.

Then they sat down to watch.

Pretty soon Mr. Squirrel came back and Mrs. Squirrel with him. Quickly he led her to the hollow as if telling her to see for herself that all the nuts were gone.

She began to dig and out popped the nuts. Both Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel looked for a minute as if they did not understand, then they began to fill their cheeks with them and raced away. Soon they were back for more and Allen and his mother watched until the nuts were all hidden away again in some safer place.—Selected.

THE VALUE OF SMALL THINGS

"Didn't I hear you say that such a little thing couldn't amount to much?" asked Uncle Ben, as he came into the sitting-room where Roy and Bud were engaged in an earnest conversation.

"Yes, uncle," replied Roy, "I was just trying to talk Bud out of a notion he has in his head. I say such little things waste too much valuable time."

"Ah, they do, you think?" replied their uncle, smiling, as he took a chair near the window. "Just let me tell you a few things which counted, and more than made up for the time used in planning them.

"You see this rubber erasing tip on the end of this pencil, do you not?" continued Uncle Ben, taking a lead pencil from his inside pocket.

"Yes, sir," responded the boys, looking a little surprised.

"Very well. The New Jersey man who hit upon the idea of putting this tip to the lead pencils is worth two hundred thousand dollars. It all came from this little idea."

"You don't mean it, uncle?" exclaimed Roy.

"Indeed I do, my boy," said Uncle Ben. "Yes, and furthermore, the man who thought of the metal plates that are used to protect the heels and soles of rough shoes realized two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in ten years from it, while the inventor of the roller skate has made one million dollars from his invention. The man who made the returning ball with the rubber string—didn't think he would ever become a millionaire by so small an invention; and the minister in England who made an odd toy that danced by winding it with a string, didn't realize the value of small things until he was five hundred thousand dollars richer by his small idea. I tell you, boys, it always has been, and always will be, the little things that count for most in this life.—Boys and Girls.

A TRUSTWORTHY BOY

A boy is sent by someone to convey some message. He must be attentive to hear every word, he must repeat the message exactly. One mistaken word put in may make a difference of life or death in the result. Samuel might have said to himself, "I can't believe my ears. It must be there was a 'not' in that place. Anyhow, I can repeat it this way, 'I will not perform against Eli.'" Suppose Samuel had said this—he would have committed Jehovah to an untruth. Instead, however, he gave the message word for word, painful as it was to tell it to his kind master.

In the commercial world today these elements of accuracy and faithfulness command their price. Business men are on the lookout for boys like this. Better than a money reward, though, is the effect on a boy's own character. He deserves and gets a reputation for trustworthiness, and in a very true sense to record is that "none of his words fall to the ground." They are sustained because truth is under them. Such boys become men whose testimony cannot be broken down by the most hair-splitting cross-examination, and of them it is affirmed, "His word is as good as his bond."—Selected.

Notes and Sundries

—Dr. J. F. Cowan, literary man, formerly editor of our Sunday school publications and later associate editor of the Christian Endeavor World, who now lives in San Diego, Cal., is making a tour through this part of the country. He lectured in High Point last Friday night, preached in the Frst Church there on Sunday morning and in Grace church, Greensboro on Sunday night. The editor of the Herald was once associated with him in Adrian college, and was pleased to have this opportunity to see and hear him again. We especially enjoyed his lecture on "Famous People I have Met." Most of the people referred to were authors of books, such as Mary Roberts Rinehart (whose husband, by the way, was once a pupil of the editor of the Herald,) Ray Stannard Baker, now writing a biography of Woodrow Wilson, Jack London and others. The most famous man interviewed was Lloyd George with whom it was not easy to obtain an interview, but Dr. Cowan persisted and finally succeeded in spite of policemen.

—Leon McCulloch, of the Westinghouse Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., attended a meeting of the American Electro-Chemical Society in Washington last week and presented a paper on The Corrosion of Iron. After the meeting he came to Greensboro for a few days' visit in his old home.

—Rev. O. B. Williams has been an attendant at part of the services in Calvary church the past week.

—The Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations came to an end September 25. Just before final adjournment the Assembly adopted a convention, or agreement, against slavery throughout the world which was later signed by nearly all the member nations of the League. The pact was drawn up by Viscount Cecil of England.

—We have never heard a series of evangelistic sermons uniformly of a higher order than those Rev. J. D. Williams has been preaching in Calvary church the past two weeks. The attendance at the morning service has been remarkably good, though not so large as that at the evening service. We will be sorry when the meeting closes and we do not have the opportunity to hear Dr. Williams further.

—Pastor Gerringer has solicited money to pay for concrete walks for Calvary church from front to rear, and they are in process of construction. For nearly two years we have enjoyed the wide walk in front made for the church by Mr. R. C. Woodburn and his daughters.

"The bhyes say ye licked poor Clancy, Mike. Sure, an' he nivver hurt iny man's feelin's."

"He's a shnake in the grass," averred Mike. "The blackguard referred to me as his contimperary, and I'll be the contimperary to no man livin'!"

THE JEW'S CONVERSION.

Some interesting facts concerning the conversion of the Jews have recently come to our attention. There is much greater progress in this direction than is commonly supposed. Let the following encourage us to greater faithfulness in our efforts for those who gave us the Bible, and through whom the Savior came.

There are 115 missionary societies laboring among the Jews of the world, with about 700 missionaries, or one for every 20,000 Jews. About 204,540 Jews were baptized as converts to Christianity in the nineteenth century.—The Wesleyan Methodist.

A GOOD ADVERTISEMENT.

A brick manufacturer, who is a very substantial man, advertised for a boy. A boy appeared, and he was running over with questions. "How much wages do you pay?" was the first question. "Five dollars a week and board," was the reply. "What kind of board?" said the sharp applicant for a position. "Well," said the corpulent and good-natured manufacturer, "I eat it." "Give me the job," said the boy, with a smiling glance at his prospective employer. The proprietor was a good advertisement of the food that he gave his workmen. If you and I should ask some one to become a Christian, would he look at the gospel's results in our lives and say, "I want it?"—S. S. Chronicle.

TREES

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

—JOYCE KILMER.

RIDDLES

1. When has a man four hands? When he doubles his fists.

2. What trees has fire no effect upon? Ash-trees because when they are burned they are ashes still.

3. A man had twenty sick (six) sheep and one died: How many were left? 19.

4. Which is the best day for making a pancake? Fri-day.

5. Which is the smallest bridge in the world? The bridge of your nose.

6. What is that which everybody has seen, but will never see again? Yesterday.

7. What four letters would frighten a thief? O I C U.

"The voice of the people in any one generation may or may not be inspired but that the voice of the best men of all ages, expressing their sense of justice and of right in the law, is and must be the voice of God. The spirit and body of its decrees are as indestructible as the throne of heaven. You can overthrow them, but until their power is reestablished, as surely it will be, you will live in savagery."—Abraham Lincoln.

DIAGNOSTIC CLINICS FREE TO EVERYONE IN STATE

The North Carolina Sanatorium wants every man, woman and child in North Carolina who has tuberculosis to find it out in time to be cured. By a conservative estimate there are now from fifteen thousand to twenty thousand cases of active tuberculosis in North Carolina. It is only when the disease is discovered in the early stages that it can be cured. It is a disease that in its early stages rarely makes one feel very sick. Only one case out of every five is discovered in the early stage.

To find, and help the physicians to find tuberculosis early the North Carolina Sanatorium employs two physicians, especially trained in the diagnosis of tuberculosis and conducts diagnostic clinics both at Sanatorium and traveling clinics. The Sanatorium clinic is open every day except Sunday and is free provided the patient or his doctor will write for an appointment. No red tape is necessary. A postal card saying "please give me a date for examination" is sufficient. For the traveling clinics the Sanatorium will be glad to arrange for a clinic in any county or city in which it is requested to do so by the local physicians or the County Health Officer. If you would like to have a clinic get your Health Officer or your doctor to write to us about it.

DEVIL'S ITCH

The devil's itch is an ism in the heart, jazz music in ear, card playing in the fingers, moving pictures in the eyes, dancing in the feet, swimming pools in the hide, gadding in the tongue.

Lard and sulphur will cure the seven year itch and a good dose of old time heart-felt religion will cure the devil's itch.

"Heart-felt religion." What is it? It is an inward soul power that is automatic, ball-bearing and self-starting; divinely steered and celestially greased.

What is the matter of your cold storage church? Got the devil's itch.

W. L. CARSON.

Why are the letters on a typewriter keyboard all jumbled together instead of running alphabetically?—

The universal or standard keyboard is almost as as old as the typewriter itself. It was developed by Christopher Latham Sholes and James Densmore, two typewriter pioneers, who worked together. Just how they arrived at the hodge-podge arrangement is unknown. But it seems that the keyboard arrangement was influenced mainly by mechanical difficulties. In the first machines made by Sholes and Densmore the type bars would collide and stick fast. Naturally they resorted to any arrangement which would eliminate this trouble. The result was that a keyboard was adopted with the letters all jumbled together instead of running in alphabetical order.

Faith That Moves Mountains.—Here is a story about the most optimistic man: Totally bald, he went to a drug-store and asked for a bottle of hair-restorer. "Yes, sir," the clerk said, "here is a preparation that is sure to make your hair grow." "All right," replied the optimist, "I'll take a bottle. And please wrap up a comb and brush with it."

Our Children's Home

Fairfield, Guilford, $2.60; Charlotte, Richland, $1.75; Bethel, Flat Rock, $2.10; Mrs. Sannie Coble, Benaja, $2; State Street, Lexington, $5.41; Mrs. T. F. Humphreys, Wentworth, Sunday eggs, $5; Pleasant Grove Station, $8.25; Paul E. Cheek, no church mentioned, $8.74.

Sunday Schools

Stony Knoll, West Forsyth, $2.47; Friendship Station, $5; Antioch, Mecklenburg, $3; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $7; West Lexington, S. Davidson, $5.50; Bethel, Mocksville, $4.69; Rose Hill, Pageland, S. C., $3; Grace Baraca, Greensboro, $25; Grace, Greensboro, $35; Efland, Orange, $3.24; Bethesda, Halifax, $1.75; Whitakers, $6; Whitakers Chapel, Enfield, $23.73; Bethel, Randolph, $2.16; Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, $6.90; Friendship, Mt. Hermon, $3.50; Calvary, Greensboro, $12.42; Pleasant Hill, West Forsyth, $7.72.

Other Gifts

E. L. Bennett, High Point, a fine male Hampshire hog; a warm Friend of the Home, King, N. C., several loads of apples. These apples make every member of the big family smile, and say to that good friend, Thank you. All contributors have our many thanks.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for October 17.—What Ideals are Found in the Constitution of the United States? Rom. 13:1-8. (Citizenship day.)

Topic for October 24.—Lessons from Great Athletes. 1 Cor, 9:24-27; Heb. 12:1-3.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for October 17.—Deut. 32:45-52; 34-5—Devotional reading, Rom. 13:7-10 14:7, 8, 13, 17.

Lesson for October 24.—Joshua, Israel's New Ruler. Numbers 27:18-20; Joshua 1:9. Devotional reading—Luke 4:16-19; John 17:18.

NOTICE

The fourth quarterly conference of Littleton Circuit will be held in Litlleton church Saturday, October 23rd, 2 o'clock p.m.

All official members are requested to be present. Special business that concerns the church will be discussed. Come.

J. B. O'Briant.

—Willie was dejectedly walking home from school and his wobegone appearance attracted the attention of a kind-hearted old lady.

"What is troubling you, my little man?" she asked.

"Dyspepsia and rheumatism," replied Willie.

"Why, that's absurd," remarked the old lady. "How can that be?"

"Teacher kept me in after school because I couldn't spell them," was Willie's dismal answer.—Selected.

Barber—Your hair is getting very thin on top, sir. Have you tried our wonderful hair tonic?

Customer—No, it isn't that.

State Street Church.—Two events of interest last week were the service at the county jail, and a Christian Endeavor social. Thursday evening was the appointed time for the meeting with the prisoners, and a very interesting and helpful program was prepared by Mrs. Curtis Koonts, the theme of her talk being an interpretation of the twenty-third Psalm. Another service will be held at the jail on Friday night of next week.

The Christian Endeavor social on Friday night proved a source of enjoyment to all who were present. Games and "stunts" were enjoyed, and delicious refreshments were served.

The Woman's Missionary Society held its regular monthly meeting last Thursday afternoon at the parsonage.

Last Sunday, from two to five o'clock, the members of State Street congregation visited the parsonage to make their pledges for the coming year. This plan has proved much more satisfactory in every way than the old method of a few persons canvassing the entire membership.

Rockingham.—Our Sunday school for the past three Sundays have been good. Our Sunday school for September 10th, had present 91 pulpils. Our collection for this time has dropped off to what it has been; it was only $2.81 this time, but we hope to come to the front again next Sunday.

Mr. Trollinger, our pastor, delivered to us two very appreciated sermons on Sunday, September 3rd. These sermons were enjoyed by all. In the afternoon Mr. Trollinger baptized six by immersion in a stream near by the church.

Our revival meeting was a great success as we had all hoped and prayed for. There were a great number, I don't know the exact number, that confessed Christ as their personal Savior. There were a good many that united with our church. Our meeting ran a week and a half.

We are still having prayer meeting about in the homes. These meetings are very inspiring and helpful. The mid-week prayer meetings at the church are continuing with interest and force.

The "Girls' Christian Club" and "Boys' Prayer Circle" meet on ever Wednesday night when prayer meeting meets.

The "Girls' Christian Club" is planning to take on a little more duties and do an outside mission work as well as have home mission and other duties of the club. We hope we will have a success in our work and make it count something worthwhile. We ask the prayers of the Christian people to be with us in our work.

We hope to have our fourth quarterly conference on Saturday night before the fifth Sunday. We hope by this time we will have all our financial problems straight.

Our pastor, Brother Trollinger, will give us the fifth Sunday of this month. We are all looking forward to that time for we always enjoy hearing him speak and we know he will bring us some inspiring messages.

Our heart's desire for great success goes out to every church.

(Miss) BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Woman's Missionary Department

Miss Esther Ross, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

QUESTION BOX

Queer some people do not know their own missionaries.

Unless you read your Missionary Record you will hardly know them by name.

Every work supported by your church should be familiar to you.

So try to acquaint yourself with the work as well as the workers.

Try reading the Missionary Record and

In doing this you will read the only missionary paper your church publishes.

Omit no article and you may be able to answer all the questions in the Question Box each month.

Nothing should pass unnoticed in a single number and by this careful reading you will keep yourself well informed of the work and the workers.

Believing information is the source of inspiration,

Our knowledge of the needs will inspire us to give to the work both of our time and money, then we should eXpect the Lord to bless us in all we undertake to do.

Mrs. C. L. WHITAKER, Sec. of Education N. C. Branch.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Young People's Missionary Society of the First M. P. Church, which was organized September 22, 1926, held its first monthly meeting at the church on Monday evening, October 4, 1926, with four new members. Mrs. W. J. Loftin, president, presided over the meeting. Several committees were appointed and all seemed very enthusiastic over the newly organized society.

Rev. J. L. Trollinger gave the principal talk of the afternoon, discussing Home Missionary Work and what it is, telling many interesting things concerning the great work that is now being done.

The society adjourned to meet again the first Monday in November.

ELLA TEAGUE, Reporter.

Thomasville, N. C.

Assyrians As Scientists

According to R. C. Thompson, scientist, the Assyrians were among the greatest scientists of antiquity. They knew 250 drug plants, could make colored glass, were expert mathematicians, distinguished between the solar and lunar years and were able to foretell lunar eclipses.

Teacher—Do we eat the flesh of the whale?

Scholar—Yes, ma'am.

Teacher—And what do we do with the bones?

Scholar—We leave them on the side of our plate.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

North Davidson Circuit, Shiloh Church.—We regret to report the illness of our beloved pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler. A small blister on his foot became infected and he has been confined to his bed since last Thursday night. He is not improving as fast as we should like for him to. We sincerely hope he will soon be able to take up his staff and lead his flock as before.

Our usual first Sunday prayer meeting was held last Sunday at eleven. Such a fine prayer meeting it was! The church was half full, and many testified of the goodness of God. One of the blessings mentioned was restored health to many of our members. Brother N. H. Leonard has had two children operated on for appendicitis and now both seem to be well. Mrs. J. B. Leonard has recovered from a serious operation and now has better health than she has known for years. Brother M. W. Koontz returned only a few days ago from the Charlotte Hospital where he underwent a very serious operation and for days his life seemed to hang by a thread. Now the physicians think in due time he will be a well man again. Now we are pleading for the early recovery of our pastor. If you have not been coming to prayer meeting, start now and "we will do thee good."

Miss Beulah Leonard and Mr. Baxter Everhart have recently been married and now live near Pilgrim. Congratulations to these fine young people and our very best wishes for a useful and happy life.

Shiloh church is deeply interested in the building of Sunday school rooms. The church is expecting to vote on it on the third Sunday of October.

Our Sunday school enrollment has reached 304. We had 225 present on last Sunday. We hope to keep on growing in numbers and usefulness.

MRS. WILEY SHOAF, Reporter.

Bethel, Alamance Charge.—Our special meeting began the third Sunday in August and continued through the following week. Brother Edward Suits was with us until Thursday evening. He did some earnest preaching; each sermon seeming to get better. We trust that the memory of his sermons and earnest work among us will so influence our lives that we will be more faithful in the Master's service. The remainder of the time the meeting was carried on by the Federation members of Bethel, Cane Creek, and Cedar Cliff. There were ten converts and our church much revived. We know there is much work yet to be done and we are trusting God to help us accomplish this through our Sunday school. We know that the Sunday school should be the stepping stone to the church.

Our pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, filled his regular appointments last third and fourth Sundays, giving us, as usual, interesting and instructive sermons. Our people are well pleased with Brother Burgess and are hoping and expecting to have him remain with us the coming year.

Our Home and Foreign Missionary Societies met the first Sunday in September with Miss Jewel Stafford. Subject—Happiness. Next meeting to be held the second Sunday in October with Mrs. D. H. Thompson. Subject—Neglected Duty. We will hold our annual Thank-Offering service for both Home and Foreign societies the third Sunday in October. Everyone cordially invited to attend and help in this great work both by your presence and contribution.

MRS. J. M. FOUST.

Winston-Salem Church has just closed a most successful week of services known as "Home Coming Week" which was as unique as it was helpful. They began the last Sunday of September and closed yesterday.

The first Sunday was Rally Day in the Sunday school as well as Promotion Day for the scholars. The pastor preached a Home coming sermon using the welcome of the Prodigal as his theme and at night a special sermon to the large Baraca class.

On Monday evening a large audience greeted Rev. N. G. Bethea of Lexington to hear his lecture on the Holy Land. It was both amusing and instructive. Rev. Lester Ballard was present with us that evening.

Tuesday, Rev. A. G. Dixon, president of the conference, preached a helpful sermon using as his theme, "Why I am a Christian."

Wednesday evening there was the largest prayer meeting attendance we have seen in the church for a long time. On Thursday evening the Board of Stewards were "at home" to the entire membership of the church. A fine program was rendered and refreshments served to all present.

Friday evening was Sunday school night and the program consisted of music and readings interspersed by class songs. Mr. Mott, a young lawyer of the city, gave a fine address which was helpful to all. The week of services closed yesterday with a large congregation and communion at both services. The new officers were elected and the outlook promises much for the coming year.

REPORTER.

Stallings Church.—Vacation time is over and our work here is well again under way. We had no service through the month of August on account of the Jimmy Little Evangelistic meeting at Indian Trail, which was very successful, and I think some of the best preaching I have ever heard. We held our revival meeting last week, and Mr. Short did some real good preaching, which I think was a benefit to everyone.

Our Bible Class will open its regular meeting next Thursday night; I hope everyone will attend and help Brother Cassady and Brother Short in this work. It will help them just as much as it will help yau.

The Ladies' Aid Society will entertain the Juniors of our Sunday school on next Saturday afternoon at Mrs. M. L. Stallings'; the hours are from three o'clock to 5:30. The society will also hold its regular meeting Sunday morning, immediately after Sunday school.

We appointed officers for our church for the next year, on Sunday last; I hope everyone will serve. "Take heed to yourselves, not neglecting to do the work the church has put upon you to do." That strikes us reporters very much, especially when we fail to mail our reports.

We did not have preaching Sunday, but had just as interesting meeting as preaching. Mr. Short had some very good readings, and later opened the doors of the church. Communion service was then held and a great number of the congregation partook of the Lord's Supper. Let's all work together and make the rest of this year count much in the Lord's Vineyard.

(Miss) LILLIAN NOLES, Reporter.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Last Sunday morning Brother O'Briant gave us a good sermon. Text: "The time is short, brethren." We know we have not used our time to the best advantage. Had, we would not be so far behind financially, nor in many other ways. His text was appropriate and helpful.

After service our old officers were reelected: Mrs. Bernard Morris, who has been working so faithfully for a few years was received in full membership here Sunday. She comes from Reedy Creek Baptist church. We extend to her a hearty welcome.

Mr. Garrett Walker, member of this church, and Miss Pearl Mabry of this vicinity were married last Wednesday. Walker works in Hope Well. He took his bride back with him. We wish for them all the pleasure they are looking for.

Our fourth quarterly conference will be in Littleton M. P. church fourth Saturday, 2 o'clock afternoon.

Brother Stubbins is expected to be with us

Members of Corinth voted Sunday for Brother O'Briant's return. We all love him and we pray that conference will do what they think best for pastor and people.

We know that Brother O'Briant wishes to do the right thing always. Whether it is go, or stay he stands for right.

FANNIE BARNES, Reporter.

Saxapahaw Charge.—Brother H. G. Paris, the efficient superintendent of Salem Sunday school, is planning to hold a Rally Service at Salem in the near future. Orange Chapel and Concord will take offerings for the Board of Education.

The Missionary societies are still functioning. Mrs. L. F. Durham is president of the Salem society, Mrs. R. T. Woody of the Concord society, and Mrs. Foust Thompson of the Orange Chapel Society. These good women are doing their best to raise the apportionments in full. Concord church has a Home Missionary society with Mrs. B. S. Curl as president. "The Myra Crawford Mission Band," of Orange Chapel is still being directed by Mrs. Ira Lewis.

Mr. James W. Morrow, one of our Orange Chapel boys, graduated from the Bonlee high school last spring, being valedictorian of his class, also making the highest grade of any student in school. He is a brilliant young man, and we hope he will decide to attend High Point College.

A meeting of the trustees and members of Concord church has been called to discuss purchasing new pews. It is hoped that ere long this church will have new pews—the present ones are not in keeping with this prosperous community.

On October 6th, the writer conducted the funeral service for Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Shore's infant at Salem church, the burial taking place in the Salem cemetery.

Mrs. John Morrow and Mrs. Clay Perry have our thanks for some fine apples, and Mrs. Henry Isley of Burlington, for canned peaches.

H. L. ISLEY.

West Lexington, South Davidson Charge.—We had a good increase in the Sunday school attendance last Sunday, there being 142 present. The inside of the church had been painted during the previous week and showed a splendid improvement in the appearance of the auditorium of the church. This improvement was made possible by the Ladies' Aid society of our church. The ladies have been quite active during the past few weeks and have manifested an interest in the improvement of the church. During the past year the society placed runners of rubber carpet in the church. Their work is very much appreciated by the church.

One preaching service was held last Sunday, being at 7 o'clock in the evening. Pastor Crutchleld delivered a helpful sermon, and favorable comments were heard concerning the sermon, it being declared better than any delivered previously. The text was Ezekiel 36:36. The theme of the discourse was, "The Promise of God." Just preceding the sermon Brother Crutchfield made a brief talk on the work of High Point College and read a letter from the board of education, asking that the Convenanted Week of Prayer be observed. A special prayer was offered for the college, and the people were urged to make payments to the college for its financial support.

This writer was privileged to attend one service during the revival meeting at Fountain Place church at Burlington last week and heard a very helpful and inspiring sermon by Rev. G. F. Millaway, pastor of Mt. Pleasant charge, who was assisting Rev. G. H. Hendry, the pastor, in the services. Brother Millaway may be regarded as one of the best exponents of the Gospel in the North Carolina Conference. He preached the sermon that preceded the conversion of this writer about twenty years ago, and it was a genuine pleasure and blessing to sit under his preaching once more.

West Lexington church will have two sermons by the pastor next Sunday. The election of church officers and Sunday school superintendent will be held after the service next Sunday morning.

Annual Conference is rapidly approaching!

C. B. WAY, Reporter.

First Church, Spencer.—Our revival meeting began the first Sunday in September with Rev. W. F. Ashburn as pulpit help. Brother Ashburn was no stranger here. He knows every member, and all were pleased to meet and hear his good Gospel messages again. Our church was revived. Eight were received in the church. Our pastor, Rev. D. A. Braswell, has baptized 11 children at Spencer this year. So you see we have some young M. P.s at Spencer. Our fourth quarterly conference was held in the home of our pastor at Concord, Saturday, October 9. Eight members were present, four from Charlotte, four from Spencer. Quarterly conference recommended Spencer church be detached from Spencer charge and be made a mission. Second church, Charlotte, and Alton Grove be attached to Roberta and be made a Circuit. Spencer church will pay pastor's salary in full, notwithstanding we are a little behind now and hope the charge will pay up. Brother Braswell needs all and more and he has been faithful and so should we. Our Sunday school, we are glad to say, is growing and the interest is better both at Sunday school and preaching since our revival. We are looking forward to having our president with us October 24, 11 A. M.

MRS. A. L. MOORE.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Sunday morning Rev. J. B. O'Briant preached one of his good sermons which was enjoyed by quite a number of people. After the morning sermon the communion services were held.

Mr. Gradie Jenkins was taken into the church, Mr. Jenkins at one time was a member of Weavers Chapel M. P. Church of Littleton Charge.

The officers were elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Trustees, J. H. Hawkins, Z. V. Hawkins, J. D. Pittard, C. F. Hawkins, Baldy Greene; Stewards, W. M. Hockady, T. B. Hawkins, E. B. Pair; Class-leader, C. F. Hawkins; Reporter, Miss Beatrice Hawkins; Organist, Maggie Hawkins; Assistant Organist, Beatrice Hawkins; Junior Choir Organist, Mary Berryman.

We sincerely hope that the conference will not take our beloved pastor, Rev. J. B. O'Briant, from us.

May the Heavenly Father be with the Herald and its readers.

MAGGIE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Tabernacle, Tabernacle Charge.—The people of our church here are pleased with the new light plant we now have. We wish to thank everyone who had a part in making this possible. Some of the people who gave so graciously are not members of our church but we appreciate them and what they have done for us.

Our pastor, Brother Suits, filled his appointment here first Sunday in October with an inspiring sermon.

The illustrated lecture given by Brother Ballard here last Friday night was enjoyed by quite a number of people. We thank him for coming.

Our last communion service, first Sunday in September, was an unusual service to many of us, as practically everyone in the large congregation communed, and just before this service ten new members were received into our church. Some of these are heads of families and have never joined any church before. Others have joined us recently by certificate. We trust that these new members will prove a blessing to the church.

While we are rejoicing over the renewed interest our people are taking, we have been saddened by the sudden passing of one of our members, Brother Cicero Hardin.

The Home Missionary society is putting forth much effort to give a good financial report at quarterly conference next Saturday afternoon. Our society is expecting to report all claims paid in full for conference year.

We hope to have many things to report during the coming year; then perhaps our church reporter will get busy.

MRS. R. R. HORNEY, Rec. Sec. W. H. M. S.

Bethesda, Halifax Circuit.—Mr. Spencer gave us a good sermon yesterday from two texts, one in Genesis and the other in Revelation. He assured us, however, in the beginning that he would not preach "from Genesis to Revelations." At the close of the preaching hour, the communion service was held and after this the annual church election. On motion of Mr. F. M. Taylor, the entire official body was re-elected. The same reporter, also, was elected for another year.

Many brilliant fall flowers in baskets and vases, added much to the occasion.

We greatly miss from the services the young people who have gone away to teach or to attend college.

Mrs. Spencer has not been well for some time, and we missed her at church yesterday.

Mr. Willie Hull, one of the faithful members here, has just returned from the hospital, and we hope that he will soon be out again.

This community has become quite "dry," in a literal sense; several wells have almost, or quite, given out, and and people are forced to go some distance to get water for their stock and for other purposes.

The folks here are hoping that Mr. Spencer will be sent back to this work for next year.

REPORTER.

Cid, South Davidson.—The cottage prayer meetings are still going on; had one convert a few weeks ago. It goes to Mr. Street Hughes next Saturday night.

Our special meeting began the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock; two sermons on Sunday, dinner on the ground in picnic form. Rev. W. H. Brown of Rigah, N. C., was the pulpit help; also Rev. C. O. Leonard and Rev. Avery Wooddell assisting. Some of the best and inspiring sermons were delivered by Brother Brown, as well as the others. It seemed that we were provided for in an unusual way to get the Rev. Mr. Brown to help us. There was a good revival and many shouts went up for lost souls, but seemed as if the day has come when nothing can touch the hard, stony hearts of men and women, girls and boys, but there was one mother gave her heart to God and expects to join us. And one man gave his name to join us. so we feel that we did our best. Had large congregations from start to finish. The meeting lasted eight days. A most bountiful dinner was spread on the last Sunday, and Sunday night the church was about full, but sorry to say there were left several penitents. Everyone that heard Mr. Brown praised him to the fullest. He made many friends that hope he may come again.

The little baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. Cormas Leonard died and was buried at Jerusalem on the fourth Sunday among a large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral was conducted by Rev. M. Ivey Crutchfield and Rev. Mr. Sigman. Sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Henry Easter was buried on Tuesday, the 28th, at Liberty Baptist church, of which she was a member. Funeral conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Cornell, of Denton, assisted by Rev. W. H. Brown. We closed our services that evening, owing to this dear woman. She had often come to our church. She leaves a husband and one son and many relatives. Age abut 62. Sympathy to the bereaved.

An offering was gotten up for Brother Brown, and he received $25.00.

We are all looking forward to the annual conference that is soon to come off, several from here are expecting to attend.

Our delegate to the annual conference accompanied by a Mr. Swicegood of Mt. Carmel was with us on the first Sunday of our meeting.

MRS. N. W. LANIER, Reporter.

Alleghany, Davidson Circuit.—Brother Ridge preached a good sermon again the second Sunday in October. He opened the doors of the church and one joined. One sister that had not been baptised was baptised. Brother Brantly Smith joined the church. We hope that he will be a useful member. Brother Ridge then administered the Lord's Supper. We also elected a new superintendent of the Sunday school, Brother Bunch Lanier. We believe that Brother Bunch will make a good superintendent if the people will do their part and pray for him. The other officers were elected. Brother F. M. Cook of our church is delegate to Annual Conference.

Brother Ridge is to be with us again the fifth Sunday for the last time before conference. All come and hear him. We like Brother Ridge and enjoy his preaching and think if anybody does not there is something wrong with them, for he does preach the truth. We are expecting him back if it is the Lord's will.

We lack a little on the salary but it will be paid before conference.

ABIGAIL COGGIN, Reporter.

High Point.—Dr. J. F. Cowan of San Diego, Cal., delivered a lecture on "Famous Writers I have Known," in the church last Friday evening. This lecture was informal, instructive, and highly entertaining. The speaker told of several visits to the handsome home of Mary Roberts Rinehart in Washington City. Her first story sold for $35.00, her first serial, "The Circular Staircase," brought $600, and now all the rights on one of her books, of which twenty have been published, will yield her the sum of $40,000. The speaker met Jack and Charmion London in Honolulu when they were on a voyage in South Sea Islands, and again this past summer he met Mrs. London in Paris, and has been invited to visit her at Glen Ellen Ranch, north of San Francisco, near "Moon Valley," the scene of one of Jack's famous stories. Dr. Cowan lived in the Hawaiian Islands ten years for his health, and was pastor of a church there. Here he knew personally Ray Staunard Baker, former editor of American Magazine and author of "Adventures in Friendship," the "Friendly Road" stories, and others. He is now engaged on his greatest work, the biography of Woodrow Wilson. Dr. Cowan told of a visit to Zona Gale at her Wisconsin home when "Miss Lulu Bett" was at the height of its popularity as a "best seller," on the stage, and on the screen. He next described a visit to the "Zoo" in San Diego, where he saw Cumma Lindsay—Squier, the well-known writer of animal stories in Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, and other magazines, playing with "Sappho," the leopard, by the side of her cage. This was followed by an interesting experience which Dr. Cowan had in interviewing Lloyd George, England's famous Premier while in London last summer. Dr. Cowan has been Editor of our Sunday school publications, and also one of the Editors of the Christian Endeavor World of Boston. He attended the World's C. E. Convention in London last summer, and is visiting his children and old friends in the East before returning to his home in California.

Our congregation was most fortunate in having the great pleasure to hear Dr. John F. Cowan preach on Sunday at 11 o'clock. He spoke very informally on "Investments in Humanity," and told of some personal experiences in Boston, when he gathered together a class of boys, who were newsboys, bootblacks, and waifs from the slums, rented an upper room, and taught them the Bible, took them on hikes and excursions, and was a real "Big Brother" in all their trials and difficulties. After a lapse of several years he returned to Boston, hunted up some of these foreign proteges, and found one to be a successful lawyer with a handsome home, wife, and children, another, a prosperous barber, and still others occupying useful positions and caring for their aged parents. Dr. Cowan said this was one of the happiest experiences of his life, and brought a warmer glow to his heart than the clipping of coupons from bonds does to any wealthy banker. Investments of time and thought in boys and girls, men and women will yield far richer dividends than Liberty Bonds or Wall Street investments. May our High Point people sit up and take notice, follow Dr. Cowan's example, invest at least a part of their earnings in High Point College, the nursery of our youth, the Children's Home, which is the most beautiful benevolence fostered by our denomination, and the new Public Library, which will be a means of culture and self-improvement to all our citizens.

We are much pleased to note improvement in the condition of Mrs. S. P. Montgomery, who is ill in High Point Hospital.

The congratulations of a host of friends are extended to Mr. and Mrs. June A. Gray on the arrival in their home last Friday, October 8th, of a fine little son, who will bear the name, Gilbert Arminius Gray. This small mite comes of splendid Presbyterian and Methodist Protestant stock, and we are expecting him to live up to his fine ancestry.

Much sympathy is extended to Mr. D. A. Neese in the loss of his brother, Mr. Jas. W. Neese of Charlotte, who died last Monday, and was buried at Pleasant Union church on Tuesday, October 5. He had been ill several weeks. Again the family is stricken by the death of Mr. W. A. Bowman on last Friday. He was a brother of our Miss Millie Bowman, who passed away August 3rd at the Children's Home and was quickly followed by another brother, Rev. J. H. Bowman, who succumbed to an attack of heart disease at the steering wheel of his car as he was driving on Sunday morning to keep an appointment for preaching. Mr. W. A. Bowman represented Guilford County in the Legislature for three sessions, and was prominent in the social, civic, and religious affairs of his community. His late wife was a sister of Mrs. D. A. Neese and much sympathy is extended to her and all the other relatives. Funeral services were held at Pleasant Union last Sunday afternoon, and were largely attended. This death removes the last of the immediate family of the late Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Bowman.

We are greatly pleased to learn that little Miss Dorothy Dean, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis, who has typhoid fever, is improving.

The pastor, Dr. Brown, is holding a series of meetings in the church this week, and services will be conducted each evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. E. J. McKinley of this city is leader of the singing. We trust that God will be very gracious to His people here, and pour out abundant blessings upon them.

Dr. J. F. McCulloch of the Herald attended the lecture of Dr. Cowan Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robbins, Mrs. P. T. Crawford, and son, Mr. Lynn Trout, have gone to Jacksonville, Onslow County, N. C., on a fishing trip.

Dr. Brown was greatly pleased to receive some splendid resolutions, which were drawn and adopted by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society on October 4th. These resolutions were printed and a copy placed in each Church Bulletin last Sunday morning. They pledge themselves to a more definite work in the Sabbath school, to attend all services of the church more regularly, to cooperate with the pastor in every good work as far as possible, and challenge the older members of the church to unite with them in all efforts for the salvation of souls. They cordially invite every older member of the church to attend the weekly meetings of the C. E. Society frequently. This Society is composed of a body of splendid young people, who do things.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a pleasant meeting Monday afternoon in the Assembly Room of the church. Associate hostesses were the following: Mesdames J. C. Welch, Sr., W. D. Burgess, J. C. Welch, Jr., S. P. Montgomery, J. G. Snipes, and Miss Blanche Burgess. There was a good attendance of members. In the absence of the President, Mrs. C. C. Robbins, the Vice-President, Mrs. S. S. Coe, presided, and Mrs. C. L. Gray, the Treasurer, made a good report.

Mr. J. W. Hinkle, Sr., has gone to Charlotte today to represent the local Y. M. C. A. at the World-Wide National meeting. Representatives from China, Egypt, and Russia will address the meeting.

Mrs. J. M. Diffee, of Cordele, Ga., is the attractive guest of Mrs. L. J. Diffee, Mrs. S. H. Tomlinson, and other relatives.

Henderson.—Our revival meeting which began the fourth Sunday in September, closed last Wednesday night. Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Mebane, came to us on Monday and preached twice each day until the close. His sermons were of a high order, making a lasting impression for good upon his hearers. The attendance was splendid from the very beginning, the peak being reached on the second Sunday night of the meeting, when the main auditorium of the church was packed and a large number were seated in the Sunday school auditorium. An inspiring feature of the services was the splendid congregational singing, led by Brother W. P. Garrett and a choir of some twenty voices. As a result of the meeting nineteen members were received into the church, seventeen on profession of faith and two by certificate. As an expression of appreciation for his services Dr. Johnson was given a free-will offering of $100.00. Twenty-eight members have been received thus far during the conference year.

Last Sunday was a good day for us—206 present at Sunday school; a capacity congregation at the morning preaching service, and a splendid sermon by Dr. Dixon, President of the Conference, at the evening service.

Many improvements have been made recently in the organization of the Sunday school, among them the consolidation of the Willing Workers and Philathea classes. This gives us what we believe is one of the largest and most efficient classes of young women in the Conference, with a teacher, Mrs. Clyde Finch, second to none.

Every indication points toward the closing up of a very successful Conference year. The people have co-operated splendidly with the pastor, and it has been a genuine pleasure to serve them. R. A. HUNTER.

Davidson Charge.—The camp meeting at Chapel Hill began the third Sunday in September and closed the fourth Sunday night. We had a glorious meeting.

The folks tell us it was the best meeting at that place in a number of years. About fifty came to the altar and gave their hearts and lives to God. Will receive all who want to join the church next Sunday.

Among the preachers who attended the meeting were Rev. T. F. McCulloch, Rev. Glenn Madison, Rev. H. W. Bell, Rev. Robt. Short, Rev. G. W. Clay, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, Rev. T. E. Pierce, Rev. Mr. Fry, Rev. J. D. Cranford, Rev. J. M. Morgan. We were indeed glad to have these brethren visit our meeting and greatly appreciate their assistance in the meeting.

Brother Morgan did most of the preaching, and did it well. He is a good evangelist, and has done a great work here among my people. We want him to come again.

We began our meeting at Pine Hill first Sunday in October. Rev. C. H. Hill came to us and did the preaching. We were glad to have Brother Hill with us. The meeting closed on Thursday night. Three converted and three joined the church.

Brother Hill did good preaching and his work was greatly appreciated.

C. E. RIDGE, Pastor.

Randleman Charge, New Salem.—We began our meeting here the third Sunday in September, and continued through Friday night. Rev. B. M. Williams came on Monday and remained through Thursday night. The attendance and interest were good. Brother Williams preaching was of an high order. Everybody seemed delighted with his helpful messages.

Level Cross—We began here the first Sunday in October with Rev. J. F. Dosier occupying the pulpit at 11 a.m. Rev. Ed Suits came Monday. The meeting closed Friday night. There were five professions and two accessions. Brother Suits also was liked by the people. He hewed to the line in his characteristic way.

Mt. Lebanon—The Ladies' Aid gave their Annual Dahlia Exhibit in the school building Saturday evening October the second. The net proceeds amounted to about ninety dollars.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene here Saturday of this week beginning at 2:30 p.m. A full attendance is desired.

W. H. NEESE.

Mebane.—On Sunday morning, October 4th, the Baraca class had charge of the service at eleven o'clock, Dr. Johnson being away in a revival meeting. This service was very well attended. A number of men and boys were present. The worship was in charge of Mr. C. C. Smith.

Last Sunday morning and evening Dr. Johnson gave us interesting and inspiring messages.

Our Sunday school attendance has fallen off quite a bit, but we are hoping to bring the attendance up again.

Monday evening the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies met with Mrs. W. G. Smith. A good number present. The amount realized by the Home society at this time was $30.75. After the business meeting a delightful social hour was enjoyed. During the social hour, Mrs. Smith served ice cream and cake. Our November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. C. Nicholson.

Seven new members have been received into the church this year, six as a result of our revival meeting held recently and one by letter, Mr. Earl Brady.

Our church and community mourn the passing of Mrs. W. D. Fogleman, who departed this life on Tuesday, September 28, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Fogleman was one of our most faithful and loyal members, deeply interested in the progress of her church. During her sickness her interest never failed and she expressed at different times her desire to attend church services and the meetings of our Ladies' Aid and Missionary societies, she being a faithful member of each society.

She will be greatly missed in our church, but we are assured our loss is her eternal gain.

Our sympathy goes out to her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, with whom she made her home, and who ministered so tenderly and kindly to her needs during her long illness.

Her funeral was conducted in Mebane Methodist Protestant church on Wednesday afternoon by the following ministers: Dr. T. M. Johnson, her pastor, Rev. N. G. Bethea, of Lexington, Rev. G. H. Hendry, of Burlington, Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of High Point College. Rev. R. A. Hunter, of Henderson, Rev. A. O. Lindley, of Liberty, Rev. D. R. Williams, of Graham, Rev. B. M. Williams, of Efland, Rev. B. T. Hurley, Rev. J. S. Garner, and Rev. C. H. Cashwell, of Mebane. The music was in charge of T. O. Pender and the same hymns selected by her for her husband's funeral were used: "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Servant of God, Well Done." The floral designs were many and beautiful. The large number of relatives and friends in attendance at the funeral gave evidence of the high esteem in which she was held in her home community as well as more distant places. Following the services at the church the body was taken to Hebron for burial, where she was placed by her husband who preceded her in death thirteen years ago. REPORTER.

Welch Memorial.—We will soon close our second year at this place. It has been two of the most pleasant years of my ministry; the people have just co-operated with us and helped us to succeed in our work, this has been the most successful year in my ministry. I will give a brief account of my labors. The Lord has enabled me to fill most all of my appointments; have missed one or two on account of illness, and have missed four appointments on account of being away in special meetings. I was with Brother W. F. Kennett the second Sunday in July, at Mt. Carmel. I did enjoy my stay with Brother Kennett and his good wife, also enjoyed laboring among his good people. The fourth Sunday in July I went to Brother J. B. Trogdon in the afternoon and preached for him and his good people at Carmel; came back to my church and preached at the evening service, then went back to Brother Trogdon on Monday where we continued the service until the latter part of the week. I also enjoyed my stay with Brother Trogdon and his good people. The first Sunday in August I went to Brother A. O. Lindley to assist in a meeting at Bethany. We continued the meeting throughout the week. We had a pleasant time at this place, enjoyed the hospitality of the good people. On the third Sunday in August it was my privilege to be with Brother Lindley at Bethel Church for another meeting. We had good times together at this place; the people seemed to be very appreciative of our work among them. The first Sunday in September I was with Brother C. E. Ridge at Lineberry Church; remained with him throughout the week until Friday night. It was another week of labor which I enjoyed. I met many old friends at this place; also enjoyed the association of Brother Ridge and his good family. After this meeting closed I thought I would get a chance to rest awhile, but Brother Lindley called for me again at Grays Chapel. Brother Bethea was to assist in this meeting, but was unable to be there on Sunday, so I was called in service. It was my happy privilege to preach to a large and appreciative congregation both morning and in the afternoon. I also met several old friends at this place. Brother Bethea came to Brother Lindley on Monday and remained through Friday, his health began to fail him so he returned home and left the meeting in progress. I was then called back to the assistance of Brother Lindley. I went for service Saturday night and preached each night throughout Wednesday night. This made three meetings in which I assisted Brother Lindley. I enjoyed the association with Brother Lindley through all

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

these meetings. I am home with my own people and hope to be able to remain with them for some time to come. We held our fourth quarterly conference last Saturday night, had one of the best I ever attended. Not only were all of the officials present, but many others. The church was very well represented. One of the sweetest spirits prevailed all through the conference that I ever saw; many of the old members spoke about it saying it was the best conference they ever attended. The pastor's salary was raised three hundred dollars for next year, and then a unanimous vote was cast for the return of the present pastor. And then on the following Sunday the Baraca class raised enough money to buy a new suit of clothes for the pastor; the suit is to be tailor made. It is the second suit the church has presented to the pastor this year, they also gave a suit last year.

Dear readers, you can understand why this pastor should be so fond of his people, and how it is we have succeeded in securing a hundred new members to the church. It is because we had the good will and co-operation of the people. We have been presented this year with other gifts. The Ideal Table Company gave us a nice table for the cook room. The Marsh Furniture Company, gave us a nice kitchen cabinet. The Union Furniture Company gave us a nice bed, one of their own make, and last year the Marsh Furniture Company gave us a nice wardrobe. The Ideal gave the pastor his automobile license for this year, and the Union gave one hundred and twenty-five dollars to make the first payment on the automobile, so you see this pastor has been in the midst of good people.

Friends, pray for me that I may be worthy of so good treatment.

T. E. PIERCE, Pastor.

Mitchels Grove, Guilford Circuit.—The special meeting was held at this church the fourth Sunday in September with Rev. Atlas Ridge as pulpit help. Brother Ridge preached some wonderful and soul-stirring sermons. Quite a number of professions were made and the entire church was revived.

The pastor filled his regular appointment last Sunday afternoon, having as his subject, "Blindness." Brother Loy explained very clearly how people are blind physically, mentally, morally, and spiritally; morally, how people are so blind in their ways of sin that they cannot see the right from wrong. Spiritually how they are rejecting Christ, and cannot see that the great Savior has done so much for them. May God help us as a church, and as a nation,to see the ways of wrong and right as they really are and to see the Savior as he died on the cross for our sins.

We were very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Verge Beck unite with our church Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Beck were former members of the Missionary Baptist church but have been active workers in our church for some time.

NINA JONES, Reporter.

Lincolnton.—The record offering in Sunday school is $99.10. Sunday, October 10, there were 133 in Sunday school. Brother R. G. Wood, the Sunday school superintendent, is a man of pep and push—get up and down after it.

The evengelistic campaign with 62 conversions; a good number of these will join our church.

Wherever I have conducted a meeting this year unusual success has crowned me.

The tent meeting met with such success that we have been called for at other places. The reason for these calls is this: I preach repentence, regeneration, transformation, hell-fire and damnation, a full salvation, that lands the wicked in hell, and righteous in heaven.

W. L. CARSON.

Bessemer City.—Our revival is in progress at Bessemer City and we earnestly solicit your prayers. Brother N. M. Medlin is doing the preaching.

The Sunday school is making good progress, a good many young people are going; this speaks well of a church, because if we are instrumental in saving a boy or girl we are blessed for two things, saving a life and a soul.

Ministers and teachers, look after the boys and girls; the devil has a good many of the old bucks and he is going to keep them, but you help save the children. Don't let them take the devil's itch.

The Junior C. E. Society is doing a good work. Pray for our meeting.

W. L. CARSON.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at
ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
TEACHERS' BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
Containing References, a Concordance and the most authoritative Aids to Bible Study. Printed in Black Face Type. Beautiful Bindings.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

—Brothers Davies, Walker, and Lines came up from Hillsboro one night and heard Dr. Williams preach in Calvary church.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR [illegible]STER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N. C., OCTOBER 21, 1926 NUMBER 49

Pres Elderdice 5dec6
Westminster MD

Dispute About the Body of Moses

Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil about the body of Moses, durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, The Lord rebuke thee.—Jude 1:9.

The Devil: What doest thou here, intruder? Knowest thou not that the whole earth is my domain? The souls of men and bodies of men are mine. Wouldst thou presume to interfere in the burial of a man's body? By sin came death and by me came sin. I have covered the earth with graves. I have built mausoleums for kings and great men. Many men I have left unburied to be the prey of vultures. What I will I do. The body of this man Moses shall not lie here in this dark valley in a place unmarked and wholly unknown to all the living. It shall be placed on the top of yon mountain with a shaft rising into the heavens to proclaim the place. There men shall come from far to do homage and to acknowledge me as lord of all the earth.

Michael: The Lord rebuke thee! To Him belong all things. The earth is His and all its people. Moses was a faithful servant of the Most High God, rarely failing of perfect obedience. It is the express command of God that he be buried in this dark valley and that no man shall ever know of the place of his sepulture. What God commandeth shall be done and none can hinder.

Does It Pay to Go to College?

There are two extreme views on this matter. One view is that a college diploma is a passport to all things desirable,—wealth, position, power. This has come to be the popular view in the last 50 years or so. It has greatly increased the attendance at colleges. Young men and young women have flocked to colleges, hoping thus to enroll their names among the great.

The other extreme view is finding expression in newspaper and magazine articles of the time. Colleges are being decried by the undiscriminating. They are being represented as lounging places of those young people who are under the delusion that by merely passing four years in college buildings and on college grounds and in college lecture rooms they can come out equipped for successful careers in life. The conclusion these writers would have you draw is that it does not pay anybody to go to college.

The truth lies between these two extremes. It pays to go to college if the time is spent in earnest work of a well-chosen kind. It has always paid and always will pay. On the other hand, it does not pay, never did and never will pay, to go to college to loiter away the time or to spend it in unprofitable exercises. We believe it does not pay to go to college and spend the time mainly in athletic exercises. Athletes can be developed in a less expensive way, to say nothing about their value to the world after they are developed.

The Near Approach of Conference

Week after next our Annual Conference will convene in Greensboro. Already Greensboro people are preparing for the entertainment of its members —on the "Harvard plan." The Conference will be heartily welcomed by the people of our Greensboro churches. We presume that all over the State our people are making preparation in their own way for the successful closing of the year—paying debts, making up budgets, and where they must have a new pastor wondering and may be trying to decide who it shall be. On this last point it should not be overlooked that one of the important offices of the Annual Conference is to determine where the ministers shall labor next year. The problem cannot be best solved without taking all charges and all ministers into view. All requests for particular ministers for particular charges should be made with the understanding that the interests of the church as a whole are not to be sacrificed in order that these requests may be granted. It is proper that churches have and express a preference regarding the coming pastor, but no church should embarrass the stationing committee and the Annual Conference by undue insistence as to its pastor. When two churches insist on having the same man for pastor, it is impossible to gratify both, and sometimes it is really better for both when the minister is sent to neither. We should pray for grace to enable us to have the same regard for other churches that we have for our own. We should also learn that we are liable to err in judgment, however confident we may be that we are right. It is often the case that charges would receive more fitting supplies if their delegates would trust the judgment of the Stationing Committee more and their own judgment less.

Let us pray for a good and harmonious conference. May we be able to sing at its close—

"Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

—We thank Rev. D. M. Pentz, Secretary, for a copy of the Minutes of the Kansas Conference. It is a neatly printed pamphlet of 30 pages. The Conference has 13 ministers, 13 laymen, and two licentiates, one of these being a lady. The stationing committee has five members. Among the standing rules of the Conference are the following: "No member's character shall pass who has not settled with the conference steward and received his receipt." "No person shall be received as a member of conference who uses tobacco in any form." It is one of our smaller conferences, but it is bearing strong testimony to the truth it believes.

—The Secretary of the Navy has designated October 27, 1926, as "Navy Day." The object is to awaken increased appreciation of our navy in the minds of the American people.

—Books are legacies that a great genius leaves to mankind. —Addison.

SHALL THERE BE A NEW AND BETTER METHOD IN HOME MISSIONS

By Luther K. Long

One of the saddest things concerning the home missionary work of the protestant churches of our country is the fact that so large a part of the money expended in the support of rural churches is used where those churches are in competition with each other. Three years ago Dr. Edmund S. Brunner, of the Institute of social and religious research, estimated that of the $4,240,000 which the protestant churches were giving yearly in home mission aid to some 20,000 rural churches a little over $3,000,000 or 71 per cent, went to competing points.

But encouraging changes are taking place. The Methodists—whom some have thought to be the worst of sinners as competitors—have withdrawn aid from at least 200 competing churches during the past year. The Congregationalists, who have never been so great sinners in this matter of competition, candidly list the very few competitive churches of their communion which are still aid-receiving, and state in no uncertain terms their attitude of opposition to the principle. The Presbyterians have gone on record, through their board of national missions, as being "unequivocally opposed to the use of home mission aid for the furtherance of competition."

The Rev. Fred Eastman was for some time one of the secretaries of the Presbyterian board of home missions. He was dissatisfied with some of the methods of his board—especially the custom of making appeals to givers to help a distressed community to maintain a church where there was no other church within miles, and then using the proceeds of the appeal to finance an enterprise that they would not be willing to present directly to the churches. Not being able to secure a change of method Mr. Eastman resigned his position. Just recently he has an article in the Christian Century entitled, "The Scandal in Home Missions." In that article he gives the larger part of the facts and statements I have just used. He believes that the time ought to come soon when there will be no competing home missionary churches. When that good time arrives what else should be attended to? I summarize the remainder of Mr. Eastman's article, omitting quotation marks:

1. Pay a living salary and ask a longer service from home missionaries. One or two denominations are making experiments in long-term contracts with their missionaries.

2. Limit home mission aid in non-competitive fields to a definite number of years—in most cases five. Wean the churches at five! This weaning process will not be easy, for the older the child the harder it will be to take the bottle from him.

3. Install a system of accounting so ordered that ready answer can be given to any layman who asks precisely where his contribution (undesignated) has been sent. This seems simple, but anyone familiar with the long, long trail awinding from the contributor's original donation to its final allocation will realize what a feat must be accomplished.

4. Make the basis of home mission expenditure bear a closer relation to the basis of appeal. At present the basis of appeal for most home mission money is the spiritual and social needs of immigrants, southern mountaineers, Negroes, Indians, Alaskans, and various other under-privileged groups. But the expenditures include millions to competing denominational churches in rural America and a score of other appropriations bearing no relation to the home mission cause.

5. Reduce overhead. A rather severe critic said sometime ago that it looked to him, after examining one board's figures, as if the board had approached its problem by saying, "We must be able to tell the country that our overhead is only six per cent; now what expenditures must we classify otherwise so as to make this statement accurate?" Some of the larger boards never think of classifying their presbyterial and synodical and conference secretaries and superintendents as overhead. To include that army of salaried officials would send their overhead to thirty per cent or even more. We should like to see some board courageous enough to say, "These officers are really a part of our overhead. We shall so designate them in our budget. If this sends the per cent too high we shall not try to evade or cover up; instead we shall reduce the number of paid officers until we have a figure that we shall not be ashamed to present to our people."

6. The greatest reform is naturally the one we must wait longest to see. Put briefly it is this: Cease planting denominational churches. Where new churches are needed let them be of an interdenominational or community character. We deplore the evils of denominationalism, yet we keep on planting denominational churches in every section of the country. And once the seed is planted we have good reason to know what sort of fruit it will bring forth. In Kipling's phrase, "the egg of a snake will hatch a snake." With all the problems confronting the American people in this generation, and especially the church of Christ, the mildest thing we can say of denominationalism is that it has had its day of usefulness and the time of Christian unity has arrived.

Seed and Harvest

Denominationalism with all its strife and waste of spiritual and economic energies will continue with us so long as we plant and cultivate its seeds with home mission money. We may expect a harvest of Christian unity when we have sown the seeds of it, and not until then. The old order found its representative in the home mission executive who once cried, "Gentlemen, the gospel is not preached in its purity—in its purity, mind you—in any community until our denomination is established there!" The new order finds its representatives in the growing number of young pastors who regard themselves not as the employes of any one denomination commissioned to build its outpost in their communities; but as the servants of God, charged with the responsibility of bringing their people into fellowship with him and with one another.

FRIENDLY THINGS

The peace that crowns my mornings,
The joy that noonday brings,
The comfort of my evening
Is born of friendly things.

A wayside flower nodding,
A dog's devoted eyes,
And blue smoke curling upward
To warm the winter skies.

A book with open covers,
A white hand's soft caress,
Just these, they need no riches
Who dwell with friendliness.

—Exchange.

THE BIBLE IN ART

By James S. Stevens, Litt. D.

While spending the recent summer vacation in Europe my attention was naturally directed to the large number of pictures in the various galleries which are based directly or indirectly upon Biblical themes. It seems to me that some one who combined a knowledge of art with an appreciation of the English Bible might find this subject a fertile field for investigation, and that it ought to result in the making of an interesting book. Since my itinerary included rather brief visits to a large number of European cities, there was no attempt to make a thorough study of this subject. Upon returning home I wrote down, chiefly from memory, a list of eighty-three Biblical subjects from which pictures had been made in the various galleries. Of course this by no means covers the whole number of pictures observed, since such subjects as "The Creation," "The Annunciation," and "The Mother and Child" were repeated many times. In this article I am setting down comments on certain pictures which occur to one who is interested in Biblical literature.

In the first place it may be said that pictures of the creation which appear in many galleries are uniformly disappointing. This comment will apply equally well to all attempts to portray the figure of God. Indeed, I know of nothing that tends more strongly toward strengthening the Unitarian point of view than pictures of this sort. God the creator is usually portrayed as an old man with a long white beard following the anthropomorphic ideas of the early races of mankind. In this connection it may be said that pictures of Jesus are generally unsatisfactory. He is represented as possessing the racial characteristics of the artist, and I do not believe there is a portrait of Him which has a universal appeal. In one of the galleries the baptism of Jesus is represented by very human pictures of the Father and the Son, and the Holy Spirit is represented by a dove.

The various scenes connected with the Garden of Eden have been used as subjects for many painters. One rather grotesque picture attempted to represent the transformation by which one of Adam's ribs was changed into a beautiful woman. This was surpassed, however, by a picture whose title was "Naming the Animals." Here the various animals were represented as marching past Adam in couples. Two lions and two tigers had just passed by, and two elephants were about to receive their names. The smiles on the faces of the animals that had been named testified to their extreme satisfaction with Adam's choice. It might be desired that all were as well satisfied with the names which their parents have given them. Each picture of the temptation embodied a different conception of the character of the serpent. Sometimes it was portrayed as entirely or partially human, and sometimes it appeared in true serpentine form.

Hagar's flight into the wilderness was a frequent subject, and usually the sympathy of the artist appeared to be with her rather than her jealous mistress. A series of pictures portrayed scenes in the life of Jacob and his son Joseph. Perhaps the most striking of these was a representation of the boy Benjamin meeting the false accusation of theft. As might be expected, the character of Moses has been portrayed by many artists. For some reason he has been pictured with a horn on each side of his head. His proverbial meekness seldom appears, and it would seem that the artists have given us a truer representation when they have depicted him as a man of the greatest severity.

Two contrasting pictures of Samson were observed: one where he was easily snapping asunder the cords that bound him, and another after he had been deprived of his locks. Ruth and Naomi and the vision of Samuel were subjects upon which the artists were able to give us a touch of the greatest beauty. The pictures that related to David emphasized his skill as a fighter, noticeably in the slaying of Goliath and the lion. When he is represented as stealing covetous glances at the wife of Uriah he is seen at his worst. The artist who painted the temptation of Job had a singularly erroneous conception of its meaning. The Satan corresponds to the medieval conception with horns and hoofs and all the accouterments of a tempter, instead of being one of the sons of God to whom had been assigned a special mission. Job in adversity is a far more correct picture. Here the artist has faithfully expressed the great suffering of the hero as the result of manifold afflictions. Pictures of Daniel and Jonah are apt to be somewhat ludicrous. This is especially the case where Jonah is represented as stepping out from the whale's mouth on to dry land.

A number of pictures strove to represent the immaculate conception of Mary. Since this doctrine has been formulated in comparatively recent times, the pictures were the work of modern artists. It is easy to see why the paintings of the mother of Jesus should be so numerous. It seems to be easier to paint a Madonna than a Son of God. Mark Twain was not far astray when he said that nine out of ten of the sacred pictures in Italian galleries gave the greater prominence to Mary, and pictured Jesus as an infant in arms. The Holy Family, the shepherds, the wise men, and the flight into Egypt are familiar to all. A rather unusual picture showed Jesus in the carpenter shop. The artist could not resist putting in a touch of superiority where it would seem that he should have represented Jesus as a boy subject to His parents and working with the tools of His trade. Probably no character other than Jesus has been portrayed more frequently than John the Baptist. His life in the wilderness, his preaching, his baptism, and his cruel murder have been set forth by many of the great masters. It is interesting to speculate upon the physical appearance of Jesus when He drove the money-changers from the temple. To the painters of this scene He stood for the extreme of passionate intensity. One of the most frequently featured of all Scriptural subjects is the Last Supper. Da Vinci's representation, to be seen in Milan, is quite disappointing since it was painted directly on the wall and it has lost much of its original coloring. The mental atttitude of each of the disciples when Jesus announced that one of them should betray Him is, however, easily recognized.

Another disappointing picture is Michelangelo's "The Last Judgment" in the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican. As a painting this is magnificent, but as a representation of the character of Jesus it is a sad failure. The Saviour of the world is pictured sitting upon a judgment throne, and without a single expression of pity He is dooming multitudes of souls to perdition. It is said one of the grand dukes of Michelangelo's time criticized the picture somewhat severely, and in order to punish him the great painter went into the chapel at night and painted the critic in the lowest depths of hell surrounded by legions of devils. The grand duke appealed to the pope to compel Michelangelo to remove this insulting feature from the picture. The pope is said to have replied that if the painter had placed him in purgatory he might have been able to do something for him, but since he had placed him in hell, this locality was outside of his jurisdiction, and, therefore, he would have to remain.

One is impressed with the marvelous amount of work that Machael Angelo must have produced in his lifetime. Most of his paintings and sculptures reflect the somberness of the artist. Pictures by Raphael, on the other hand, mirror the sunnier disposition of this master. Nowhere is the contrast between these two masters more sharply brought out than in the two heroic pieces of statuary which represent them on either side of the entrance of the art museum in Liverpool. One is reminded of Emerson's lines:

> The hand that rounded Peter's dome,
> And groined the walls of Christian Rome,
> Wrought in a sad sincerity.

Many artists have attempted to portray the contrasting characters of Jesus and Pilate. Perhaps this has best been done in a piece of statuary which stands at the entrance of the church of the Sancta Scala in Rome. Here are the sacred steps up which Martin Luther was climbing when he made one of the most momentous decisions in history. An interesting study might be made of the point of view of the various artists who have painted scenes representing the resurrection of Jesus. No two of them seem to have had a similar conception of this great event. The mysterious walk to Emmaus and the revealing of Jesus to Thomas make a strong mystical appeal to artists. Two pictures from the Apocrypha, Judith and Holofernes and Susanna and the Elders, share with themes in the Old and New Testaments in the various galleries.

It is obvious that only a small fraction of the pictures based upon Biblical themes have been touched upon in this short article. Many volumes have been written regarding the influence of the Bible upon literature. It is evident that in all phases of what we call culture, whether they relate to music, literature, or art, the English Bible has had a tremendous influence.—Zion's Herald.

BLIND SPOTS IN THE IMAGINATION

By Alice Downey Porter

In The Literary Digest of September 18, in an intensely interesting article on "What Lies Beyond the Stars?" occurs this paragraph:

"Seldom, if ever, has the human mind attained a grander conception than the one thus envisaged. Our own universe contains possibly 10,000,000,000 members. The width is so great that light, which travels 186,000 miles a second, is believed to take about 300,000 years to pass across it. Yet it is but one of hundreds of stellar universes. The group recently investigated at Harvard is believed to be nearly 10,000,000 light-years away."

And then follows this sentence: "The man who can contemplate this picture for ten minutes and still retain respect for human troubles must have blind spots in his imagination."

Without taking the writer too seriously in this last statement, is it not worth a few minutes' consideration?

Who of us has not stood in the presence of some new discovery in the field of astronomy and watched creation stretch away and away beyond all reach of imagination, overwhelmed by the conception of its vastness, until he has felt himself shrinking into insignificance and has said in his heart, "What is man, that thou art mindful of him?"

And yet, what are these discoveries? Marvelous as they are, they are discoveries in mere distance and mass. Are these, however extended, the greatest marvels of creation? Perhaps, to many men, more wonderful than distance is the light traversing that distance. And to many, more wonderful than light is that supreme physical evidence of infinite skill and infinite knowledge, the structure of the eye receiving the light, the eye of this very man, gazing out into boundless space, himself infinitesimal beyond conception when considered in relation to mere distance and mere mass, but possessing this infinitesimal, miraculous instrument, with its thousand miraculous adjustments, the very instrument that brings to him knowledge of infinite distance.

And more wonderful than the physical eye is the mind which through that eye can reach out and take in the beauty and glory and sublimity of the skies, and imagine still more distant discoveries; or, peering through the microscope, can discover a thousand wonders of the infinitesimal and seek to know "what lies beyond the stars" in this direction: the human mind with its constant miracle of seeking and finding, storing up and organizing its treasures, planning and achieving.

Just as we have stood in the presence of the ever-widening heavens, baffled in the effort to grasp the escaping infinitude, so have we stood in the presence of the human mind and watched its achievements stretching away into the far reaches, and though of the measureless possibilities yet unrealized, until again we have found ourselves trying to grasp infinity.

Space is measured. Though we have lengthened our unit from the mile to the light-year and may need to lengthen it again, still distance is measured.

What is the measuring unit of man's powers? When you ask the little child how much he loves his mother, he stretches his little arms as wide as he can, and with beaming face, answers, "Two skyfuls." Perhaps this miniature man has named the unit truly.

Out in the infinite spaces there may be some creation more wonderful than man; but we have not yet discovered it. To us he still remains of all God's creations the one crowned with glory and honor.

We should say that the man who can contemplate this picture for ten minutes and lose his respect for human troubles must have blind spots in his imagination.—Zion's Herald.

MEETING OF CONFERENCE FACULTY

The Conference Faculty will meet in Grace Church, Greensboro, N. C., on Tuesday, November 2, at 2:30 p. m. All members of the Faculty are urged to be present at that hour.

All young preachers in the Conference Course are expected to appear at 4 o'clock the same day for examination. Please be prompt.

A. G. Dixon, Pres. of the Conference.
N. G. Bethea, Sec. of the Faculty.

When you are satisfied with your attainments you've started on the down grade.

The WORK and the WORKERS

Pray Earnestly

We are asking all praying people, who are interested in the work and the progress of the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina, to be very earnestly in prayer that the Spirit of Our Christ may have perfect right-of-way in every action of the coming Annual Conference, and that the wishes and plans of men may be so overruled that God's plans in every particular may prevail. If we thus pray and co-operate we should all be happy in the outcome, at Conference, whatever it may be.

Quarterly Report Blanks

We are today mailing out fourth quarterly report blanks to all pastors. They have been withheld until now that pastors may not get them lost, and hoping that they will find their way back just as quickly as possible.

Mount Hermon

On Friday, November 15th, I attended Brother Ashburn's quarterly conference on Mount Hermon charge. The conference was well attended, and the reports in the main were good. We were delighted to see this circuit make some forward steps in this conference. They increased their pastor's calary to $1,500, which is an increase of 50 per cent. We trust that many other charges will do likewise. They also voted to hold in the bank the money they have, about $500, until such time as they may decide upon a location for a parsonage. These were two decidedly forward steps. And we rejoice with them.

Tabernacle

On Saturday, November 16th, I was with Brother Suits at his quarterly conference on Tabernacle. This was also well attended and was full of interest. The reports were good and indicated progress on this splendid field. After a prolonged discussion of a friendly nature the conference voted to ask the Annual Conference boundary committee to give them due consideration with a view to dividing the circuit and making two charges, Moriah and Shady Grove to constitute one charge, and Tabernacle and Julian the other. If thus divided I predict that either end will pay a larger salary next year than both ends together are paying this year. This is multiplication by division that is encouraging, and it will be development by more intensive cultivation that we believe will prove very fruitful.

Forsythe

Sunday, November 17th, was spent very delightfully with Brother George L. Curry and his people on Forsythe. Brother Curry, like Brother Kennett on Granville, separated the president and his wife for the day and thus had services in all his churches, with two services in one of them. This splendid circuit is making most wonderful progress under the pastorate of Brother Curry. So far as preaching is concerned he is doing more work than any other man in conference, so far as I know. The plan of appointments on Forsythe, through Brother Curry's own proposal, calls for three preaching services every Sunday, thus giving four services to one church and two services to each of the other four churches per month. Not many men could hold up to it, but Brother Curry seems happy in the doing of it. The church building at Maple Springs is soon to be moved and reshaped. At Hickory Ridge they are planning to build Sunday school rooms. And at Mount Carmel I was delighted to find a splendid new church building almost completed. This new building has been so joined to the old building that the old one can be used as Sunday school rooms. They have also built two new Sunday school rooms into the new building, and also have a splendid daylight basement under the entire new plan. When this plant is finished they are going to have one of the most splendid country church plants in the entire conference. This is a wide-awake church, and in a very short time, I think, they are going to be asking to be made a station. Anyone should be happy to be doing the work that Brother Curry is doing, and many were the expressions of appreciation I heard on yesterday concerning his work.

Appointments

October 24, 11 a. m.—Spencer.

October 24, 7 p. m.—Albemarle.

October 31, 11 a. m.—Chestnut Ridge, on Orange.

October 31, 3 p. m. and 7 p. m.—Liberty.

November 2, 2:30 p. m.—Meeting of Conference Faculty, Grace Church, Greensboro. Every member of the Faculty is urged to be present, and the young men to be examined should be there by 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

November 3, 9:30 a. m.—Annual Conference, Grace Church, Greensboro.

Yours in the Master's service,

A. G. Dixon.

MAD WITH A MIRROR

Some years ago there was a missionary bazaar held in a Christian city in aid of the African missions. When the bazaar was finished, it was found that a number of articles were left unsold. Some of them, it was thought, would be very handy for the mission, so it was decided to send the lot out to Africa. Among other things was a box of little hand-mirrors, that had been given by a merchant. Looking glasses seemed queer things to send to a foreign mission; however, they were sent, and became the most useful articles there. The mirrors took the people's fancy, and their fame was carried far beyond the station. The knowledge of this wonderful thing came to the princess of a distant powerful tribe.

She had never beheld her dusky countenance, except as a double silhouette in a placid lake, and she longed to behold all her charms, for, being a princess, she was told by everybody that she was most beautiful, whereas she was one of the plainest women in the whole tribe. A messenger was dispatched for one of the mirrors, which he procured and at once returned to his mistress. When she got possession of it she did not look into it at once, but took herself off to her palace, that she might have a good look at her beauty. When she beheld herself as she was, with one blow of her royal hand she dashed the glass to pieces. She ordered the missionaries off her territory, and published an edict forbidding looking-glasses being brought into the country.

Are there not many in other lands who are in a similar condition with regard to their souls? When they are brought face to face with God's looking-glass, with the hideousness of their sin, and they cannot deny the fact, they blame the mirror, seek to avoid it, and destroy it that they may lay the flattering falsehood to themselves that they are not so ugly as they look.—Selected.

Denominational Enterprises

BOARD OF EDUCATION ITEMS

Another Letter!

Dear Dr. Stephenson:

We received two letters from you, one asking us to double our last year's offering for Rally Day, and one asking us to increase it by 10 per cent. Not knowing just what you wanted us to do, we first doubled our offering, and then to make sure we were following out your wishes we increased that amount by 10 per cent and then threw in five dollars or so for good measure. Last year the offering was $47. This year it was something over $108. Rev. Charles Smith,

Pastor New Brighton, Pa., M. P. Church.

Quite naturally we enjoy receiving such letters. But it is similar to reports gradually drifting into headquarters. In almost every instance, the Rally Day offerings have increased from 30 to 300 per cent. If they keep up that way the losses sustained last year will be largely taken care of and the Board of Education will be in better shape to do the work it is attempting.

Word from President Andrews of High Point College informs us of a substantial increase in enrollment over last year. This will be still further increased before the close of the school year. He also mentions a meeting of business men recently held at High Point. He says, "An earnest effort is being put forth to raise the indebtedness on the College." Quite a bit of enthusiasm was manifested and an effort will be made to raise a quarter of a million dollars.

Western Maryland also reports a substantial increase in enrollment. President Ward is pushing the collection of the pledges made toward the campaign which closed last year. He has in mind also some special plans by which it is hoped to largely increase the endowment of the college and widen its usefulness to the church.

Word has been received that the last of the United Brethren Conferences acted favorably upon the agreement for the dissolution of the merger. The final details will be worked out by the two lawyers chosen by each church. It is hoped to have matters closed up within a few weeks.

How It Happens

The secretary must confess that his conference addresses have been somewhat pessimistic. But when the following figures are studied it gives the reason. The funds distributed to the Board of Education from Treasurer Staley's office from the undesignated part of the General Conference Budget were as follows:

	1924	1925	1926
June 1	Nothing	$ 20.00	$ 50.00
July 1	Nothing	2.00	Nothing
August 1	$5,869.72	3,778.25	2,399.29
September 1	8,945.18	2,249.96	1,157.36
October 1	2,108.11	1.562.44	Nothing
	$16,923.01	$7,612.65	$3,616.65

There is a drop in the first five months of our fiscal year of $13,306.65 as compared with the receipts two years ago. We have this hope to sustain us: That the remaining seven months will tell a far different story. The Rally Day offerings begin to reach us November 1st and for three months they give some relief. After that another famine!

Many Thanks

We are more grateful than mere words can express for the splendid support of our people in the effort to make Rally Day a real success. We are well aware that not as many of our churches observe the day as should, that some pastors are indifferent or preoccupied, and that some Sunday school superintendents and leaders will not do their part to make the necessary arrangements for a good service. On the whole, however, we have had many reasons to conclude that the situation in which the Board of Education has found itself the last year is understood and appreciated and that sincere efforts are being made to correct things.

We are glad, too, for the care pastors are exercising in seeing that the offerings are being sent in promptly and that they are properly designated. The great majority get the money into the hands of the Conference Treasurer within a few weeks and most of it reaches the Board by February. That means it is soon put to work helping our schools for all the Rally Day money is distributed to the school in the area from which it has come.

For the support of our people and the care our our pastors in handling Rally Day and Rally Day money we are very thankful. Frank W. Stephenson.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR (Continued)

Kalgan, China, August 28th.—"Things are gradually quieting down, the banks have opened, but the stores are still closed, the only business being carried on is by small merchants with their baskets, and correspond with our peddlers at home.

The refugees are gradually leaving our compounds, and expect them all to go the first part of next week.

The trains are running, but service is poor as there are few cars and engines left. It takes twenty-four hours instead of eight to reach Peking. Many ride in open freight cars, and there is only standing room. I do not know what they do or how they survive going through the long tunnels.

We hope to open the schools but must defer final decision for a week or so, as we do not know if we will get enough supplies to run them, to say nothing of the food and coal which will be necessary.

Mr. Williams came home on the first train that came from Peking, but he had to walk part way, and took him two days to reach here.

Government schools have not been opened on account of the lack of funds, we understand the same condition exists in Peking and the other sections of the country.

The soldiers are vastly different from those here before, so one does not know what to expect from them.

Although there has been no fighting here, many people have been killed by them, and systematic looting has been going on.

Their treatment of women is somewhat similar to and even worse than that reported to have gone on during the great World War. However they have promised our Mission protection, but most of our out stations have suffered from looting, but nothing serious.

The medical work for the wounded is still going on, the military providing food and water, and we the medical attendance. This has been under the large of Mr. Alfsen of the Norwegian Mission and Mrs. Almblad of the Bible Socity, but our Dr. Tsui has had charge of all the native workers, and is doing splendid work among the wounded in the two temporary hospitals down town.

A big railroad wreck at Chai Kau Pu, with many killed and wounded was reported, and the wounded from a battle there were without food, drink, or medical attention so Mr. Williams and Mr. Alfsen went on their wheels to see what could be done for them.

There were about 100 wounded in need of attention and the matter was brought to the attention of the Buddhist Red Cross who are looking after these people. They have also taken over the orphanage which Marshall Feng Ye Hsiang started here. Two blind boys left there because they would not give up their Christian faith, and are staying temporarily with us, but it will take at least $100 a year to educate them, and we are so short of funds to do things like that.

Travel in the interior has for a long time been either danderous or impossible. Banditry has been very common all over the district.

As the new armies poured into the city the merchants had to close their shops, as the troops were using them for lodging, and the attendants as servants.

People on the street are often pressed into service for these new soldiers.

They searched the city under pretence it was for arms and ammunition, but reports show it was not so much for them as for money and valuables.

Even our Mission was searched, and had it not been for the American Consul who sent his men to be present, we, doubtless, would have had to pay the same duty as all the other unfortunates in the city.

All they took from here was an old broken Red Cross canvas bag, found in the morning in the boys' school yard, but, after a soldier threw it into their motor car the chauffer quickly threw it out.

The soldiers order the people to serve and to give them food. If they need fodder for their horses they drive the farmers to cut it down from their crops, while they lie down and watch the proceedings, and there are deeds done that it is a shame to speak of.

It is impossible to tell all the reports from the district during the last few months. It only makes people horrified and sick.

"Our confidence is in Him, and we feel sure of His protection so we are going on from day to day trusting Him to lead and guide."

Fred C. Klein.

When a man doesn't know and isn't sure, and at the same time has no better faith than he tries to get another man to throw away, he is engaged in a low and a mean sort of business. One might as well knock the crutch from beneath a cripple and leave him lying helpless in the gutter.—W. E. Biederwolf.

Card of Thanks From H. E. Gibbs and Children

We wish to thank all of the many good friends who were so good to Mother during her illness; and to extend our love and appreciation to those who comforted us when the Angel of Eternal Life came and took her to her Heavenly Home.

EFFICIENCY CAMPAIGN OF THE BOARD OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK

Conference Young People's Boards and Unions
October 1, 1926, to September 30, 1927

Explanation

To enable the various Annual Conference Boards of Young People's Work and Young People's Unions of the Methodist Protestant Church to become better acquainted with the workers in other Conferences and with the general program of the denominational Board of Young People's Work, this "Efficiency Campaign" is launched, effective October 1, 1926, to September 30, 1927.

It is hoped that every Annual Conference will provide a Young People's Board, or Union, to carry forward its work for the young people of the church. When so provided, this Board or Union, will be responsible for the promotion of this campaign and of young people's work in general within the bounds of its own Annual Conference.

Reports

At frequent intervals there will go out from the office of the Executive Secretary, Rev. Lawrence Little, Concord, N. C., bulletins of information and interest concerning the work throughout the entire denomination and of special efforts by the various Young People's Unions.

Once a quarter, as outlined below, there will be expected a report from each Annual Conference Union as to its work.

Awards

To the Boards, or Unions, making the best showing in this campaign, the followng awards will be given: A Large Banner to the Union that makes the highest number of points on the campaign, as outlined below; another Large Banner to the Union that makes the highest number of points in proportion to the total number of Christian Endeavor Societies, Sunday Schools, and church membership in its Annual Conference district, as recorded in the Annual Conference Minutes for 1926.

These banners will be presented to representatives of the Unions winning them at the Denominational Young People's Convention in the spring of 1928, if such convention is held. Otherwise, they will be presented at the General Conference in Baltimore.

Points in the Campaign

During the campaign, the Board of Young People's Work will emphasize particularly the following ten objectives; the number of points each objective will count upon attainment by any Union is given under each heading:

I. Complete Organization

Ten Points when the Conference Board, or Union, is organized with at least the following officers: President (or chairman); vice-presidents (one or more); secretary, treasurer, dean of the Young People's Conference (may be the president or some other officer, if desired), and superintendents of such departments as the Union may need to carry on its work effectively. Executive meetings of this Board, or Union, must be held at least annually. (To obtain credit, the names and addresses of these officers must be reported to the Board of Young People's Work.)

II. Quarterly Reports

Five Points for each quarterly report sent by the Conference Union to the Board of Young People's Work. Reports are to cover the work done by the Union, the general conditions of the young people's work in the Conference, and the work being done in this campaign. These reports should be mailed in January, April, July, and October, and should cover the work of the quarter preceding. (To obtain credit, the reports must be mailed by the last day of the month due.)

III. Standard Sunday Schools

Ten Points for each Sunday School that certifies to the Board of Young People's Work, over the signatures of pastor and superintendent, that it has reached the standards recommended by this Board. (Copies of these standards may be had upon application.) Names of all such schools will be published periodically in the church papers.

IV. New Christian Endeavor Societies

Three Points for each new Junior, Intermediate, and Senior Christian Endeavor Society organized within the Union, between October 1, 1926, and September 30, 1927, and reported to the Board of Young People's Work, with names of officers and superintendents.

V. Standard Christian Endeavor Societies

One Point for each Society adopting the Methodist Protestant Christian Endeavor Society Standards Chart published by the Board of Young People's Work. (Copy will be sent upon application.) Two Points for each Society attaining 200 points on the Chart. Two Extra Points for each Society attaining 300 points on the Chart. Five Extra Points for each Society attaining 400 points on the chart. (To obtain credit, reports must be made to the Board of Young People's Work.)

VI. Young People's Conference

Twenty-Five Points for conducting a Young People's Conference within the Annual Conference area, according to the standards adopted by the Board of Young People's Work. (To obtain credit, the program must have the approval of this Board and report must be made to the Executive Secretary, after the adjournment of the Conference, upon blanks furnished by the Executive Secretary.)

VII. Teacher Training Classes

Five Points for each new Teacher Training Class enrolled with the Board of Young People's Work. (Enrollment blanks and full information will be furnished upon application.) One Extra Point for each person completing the examination in any unit of the Teacher Training Course. (Examination questions furnished by this Board, papers graded, and report furnished to Conference Union.)

VIII. Reading Courses

One Point for each person completing the requirements for one year's work in our Reading Course. (A new and complete outline of this course is in preparation and will be ready by January 1st. This outline may be had upon application to this Board after that date.)

IX. Vacation Bible Schools

Ten Points for each Daily Vacation Bible School conducted for at least two weeks, and reported to this Board on blanks furnished upon application. Five Extra Points for each school conducted at least four weeks.

X. Special Days

Two Points for each church in the Annual Conference district observing Easter, with special program and offering for the Board of Home Missions.

Two Points for each church observing Children's Day, with special program and offering for the Board of Foreign Missions.

Two Points for each church observing Rally Day, with special program and offering for the Board of Education.

Two Points for each church observing Christmas, with special program and offering for the Ceneral Conference Budget.

Two Extra Points for each church observing all four of these "Special Days," with special program and offerings.

(To obtain credit, offerings must be sent to the Annual Conference Treasurer, specifying for which cause it is to be used.)

Any additional information concerning this Campaign, or any possible assistance, will be cheerfully given by Rev. Lawrence Little, Secretary, Board of Young People's Work, Methodist Protestant Church, Concord, N. C.

ONLY A LITTLE THING

Only a shriveled seed,
It might be a flower, or grass, or weed;
Only a box of earth on the edge
Of a narrow, dusty window ledge;
Only a few scant summer showers;
Only a few clear, shining hours;
That was all. Yet God could make
Out of these, for a sick child's sake,
A blossom wonder, as fair and sweet,
As ever broke at an angel's feet.

Only a life of barren pain,
Wet with sorrowful tears for rain,
Warmed sometimes by a wandering gleam
Of joy, that seemed but a happy dream;
A life as common and brown and bare
As the box of earth in the window there;
Yet it bore, at last, the precious bloom
Of a perfect soul in that narrow room;
Pure as the snowy leaves that fold
Over the flower's heart of gold.

—Henry Van Dyke.

—"Do we want Canada's liquor system?" Of course we do not. We tried government liquor-dealing in the South Carolina dispensary, and saw that we didn't want it elsewhere. We are told by a reliable writer that government control in Canada has meant:

1. An increased consumption of liquor.
2. Greatly increased use of alcoholic liquors by young people and women.
3. A swollen liquor bill.
4. A great economic loss, which has halted prosperity and acted as a burden upon the general population.
5. Increased vice and crime, imposing upon the governments expenses which have burdened the taxpayers.
6. A corruption hitherto unknown in Canada.
7. An illicit trade as great as that under any prohibition law.

The system of government control in Canada is a failure. Under it all of the evils of the illicit liquor traffic in the United States are present, plus the evils of a government-protected traffic as vicious in principle and practice as was the saloon system in the United States.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE PRINCESS MITZIE

Mitzie was happy. Pretty little Alice Brown and dainty Lula Grey had both smiled at her as she came into the school room that morning. Perhaps they had forgotten that her clothes were plain and much mended. Mitzie's mother had told her that what counted most of all was to be clean, and kindly, and ready to do her best.

So the world looked brighter to Mitzie than it had when some of her small companions refused to play with her because she was only a scrub-woman's little girl.

When Miss Bettie, the teacher, finished with the first part of the lesson, she smiled very brightly and said:

"Little people, we are going to take a rest now and have a little game. Each one of you will tell me the nicest thing she has heard lately, and then when these stories have been told, we will see who has given us the happiest one, and that little girl will be given this badge to wear until we play the game again, and we will call her 'The Princess.' Won't that be nice?—and I am wondering who has to be the Princess. You know that this name is given the daughter of a king. Please do not tell long stories—very short ones. And everybody listen, for when we are done, we will take a vote as to which is the best story, for you are to help choose the Princess."

The children were very much excited, for the badge, which Miss Bettie held up was beautiful. It looked like a lovely rose, but was made of pink satin ribbon, and there were little streamers from it, and on the ends of the streamers were gold fringe. It wasn't a very large badge, for it wasn't intended for grown-ups, you know.

One by one the little girls told their stories. Lula Grey described the family of her beautiful little kittens which the mother cat, Snowball, had brought to the house in her mouth that morning.

Alice Brown said she would have a birthday soon and hoped she'd get a lot of presents. Katie Clare was quite excited about a pink dress that her mother was making for her. And Cora Smith told of a wonderful party she had been to the day before.

Each little girl in turn was anxious for her chance to relate, "the nicest story of all."

Mitzie was listening and thinking at the same time. She, too, would have a birthday, but there would be no celebration, and she didn't have any new things, and she had never been to a party in her life. Just the same, her small face was alight with eagerness, and when her turn came, her eyes were sparkling and she stood right up in front of the little chair in which she was sitting and said:

"Oh, Miss Bettie, my story is about my muvver. She cleans the floors and the stairs in a big, big building an' some times she's so tired that I am sorry for her an' wish I could help. Yesterday the man who owns the house told her she was the best cleaner he ever had, because she was thorough and 'ticlar about the corners. An' he said she was to have two helpers an' see that they did the work right, an' part of her time she would spend in the big rest room as matron there.

"An', Miss Bettie, she's to get more money, an' now I think my daddy'll get well, because there'll be money for medicines an' doctors an' everything! An' I'm going to try to help an' grow up to do everything just right, just like my muvver!"

The children had been very, very quiet while Mitzie told her story. She was the last one of all, and when Miss Bettie asked for the vote of the class, every single little girl in it voted that Mitzie should wear the badge and be "The Princess" until they played that kind of game again.

And after school was over, Miss Bettie fastened on the badge, and put her arms around Mitzie and whispered:

"It's a wonderful thing, dear, to be the daughter of a king. Ask your mother what she thinks about it."—Baptist Standard.

HONEST LITTLE DICK

In all my life I never saw so honest a little cat as our Dick. He not only never stole himself, but he would not allow any other cat to steal if he could help it. The dear little fellow, however, was strongly tempted once, and came very near to losing his good name.

One day the cook carried out a pail of nice little frost-fish and set it down in the yard. Dick was there. Dick always was nearby when there was good things to eat. The cook went back into the house, and Dick sat down to wait for her return; and two of his especial friends were at the window upstairs looking down to see what "honest little Dick" would do.

The cook was a long time coming to dress the fish; and all the while Dick kept watch—now on the pail, now on the kitchen door. At last he went somewhat nearer to the pail, then nearer, then nearer. Ah! frost-fish smell so good. Dick's little nose almost touched them. And then he sat down and cried at the top of his voice for the cook to return quickly and save him from being a thief!

Still she did not come. At last Dick put his fore paws on the edge of the pail. Then he looked at the kitchen door and cried again. But the door did not open. So slowly, softly a paw reached down into the pail. But before it had gone down as far as the first, it came back with a jerk, empty; and its owner ran around the corner of the house where he would not see or smell those nice frost-fish any more. He did not want to be a thief; and we believe the little fellow never came so near it again.—Little Folks.

THE SOURCE OF ITS BEAUTY

Once there was a brier growing in a ditch, and there came along a gardener with his spade. As he dug around it, and lifted it out, the brier said to itself, "What is he doing that for? Doesn't he know that I am only an old worthless brier?" But the gardener took it into the garden and planted it amid his flowers, while the brier said, "What a mistake he has made, planing an old brier like myself among such rose trees as these!" But the gardener came once more with his keen-edged knife, made a slit in the brier, and "budded" it with a rose, and by and by, when summer came, lovely roses were blooming on that old brier. Then the gardener said, "Your beauty is not due to that which came out, but to that which I put into you." This is just what Christ is doing all the time with poor human lives.—Selected.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid all Claims In Full

1. State Street, Lexington.
2. West End, Greensboro.
3. Charlotte

Paid A. C. B. in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Fountain Place.
3. Melton's Grove.
4. Thomasville, First
5. Orange.
6. Mt. Pleasant.
7. Concord.
8. Richland.

Churches

1. Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson Circuit.
2. Jerusalem, on So. Davidson.
3. Yadkin, on So. Davidson.
4. Siler City, Siler City.

Paid G. C. B. in Full

1. Asheboro.
2. Asheville.
3. Calvary.

Paid College Assessment in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Grace.
3. Mebane.
4. Glen Raven.
5. Burlington.
6. Fountain Place.
7. Reidsville.
8. South Winston.
9. English Street.
10. Asheboro.
11. Concord.
12. Graham.
13. High Point, First.
14. Welch.
15. Mt. Pleasant.
16. Siler City.
17. Charlotte.
17. Gibsonville.
18. Orange,
19. Granville.

Churches

1. Julian on Tabernacle.
2. Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit.
3. Gray's Chapel on Randolph.
4. Bethesda on North Davidson.

Paid on College Assessment

1.	Randolph	$31.00
2.	Tabernacle	24.00
3.	Littleton	24.00
4.	Halifax	22.80
5.	Forsyth	19.90
6.	North Davidson	18.00
7.	Alamance	17.88
8.	West Forsyth	15.40
9.	Enfield	15.00
10.	St. Paul	15.00
11.	West Thomasville	10.55
12.	South Davidson	10.28
13.	Friendship	10.00
14.	Saxapahaw	8.40
15.	Weaverville	8.25
16.	Spring Church	7.00
17.	Why Not	7.00
18.	Spencer	6.70
19.	Randleman	5.25
20.	Albemarle	5.00
21.	Thomasville First	5.00
22.	Union Grove	1.00

Paid on A. C. B.

1.	Grace	$300.00
2.	High Point First	280.00
3.	Forsyth	257.39
4.	Burlington	215.00
5.	Siler City	152.92
6.	Henderson	150.00
7.	Davidson	145.31
8.	Mebane	142.50
9.	Reidsville	117.50
10.	North Davidson	110.00
11.	Pleasant Grove	110.00
12.	Mt. Hermon	88.76
13.	Asheboro	88.33
14.	Glen Raven	87.50
15.	Bess Chapel	84.92
16.	Flat Rock	80.62
17.	Randolph	80.00
18.	Haw River	70.00
19.	Lebanon	70.00
20.	Calvary	68.94
21.	Saint Paul	60.00
22.	West Forsyth	57.75
23.	Littleton	56.75
24.	Granville	51.17
25.	Mocksville	50.25
26.	English Street	50.00
27.	Friendship	48.25
28.	Welch Memorial	47.00
29.	Anderson	43.45
30.	South Davidson	42.33
31.	Why Not	42.03
32.	Asheville	40.00
33.	Spring Church	38.66
34.	Halifax	38.60
35.	Albemarle	35.00
36.	Roberta	31.50
37.	Tabernacle	30.65
38.	Weaverville	30.00
39.	Saxapahaw	29.01
40.	Yarborough	29.00
41.	Pinnacle	27.80
42.	Randleman	26.35
43.	Vance	26.06
44.	Cleveland	25.50
45.	Rockingham	25.00
46.	Midland	23.80
47.	Kernersville	21.72
48.	Pageland	21.05
49.	Chase City	19.20
50.	Spencer	10.00
51.	South Winston	10.00
52.	Alamance	10.00
53.	Denton	8.88
54.	Union Grove	8.50
55.	Guilford	4.45
56.	Draper	3.22
57.	Fairview	2.50

Paid on G. C. B.

1.	Winston-Salem	$336.44
2.	Concord	305.00
3.	High Point, First	232.98
4.	Grace	179.65
5.	Forsyth	136.86
6.	Mt. Pleasant	105.69
7.	Enfield	99.25
8.	Spring Church	97.69
9.	Whitakers	93.85
10.	Mebane	89.60
11.	Orange	89.00
12.	Siler City	85.00
13.	Glen Raven	78.94
14.	North Davidson	74.92
15.	Vance	63.33
16.	Randolph	62.65
17.	Alamance	61.55
18.	Why Not	59.88
19.	Saxapahaw	59.33
20.	Gibsonville	58.68
21.	Randleman	58.31
32.	Littleton	58.25
23.	Burlington	52.68
24.	Graham	50.39
25.	Tabernacle	49.01
26.	Mt. Hermon	46.56
27.	Richland	45.72
28.	Fountain Place	41.16
29.	Pleasant Grove	40.30
30.	Thomasville First	39.60
31.	Guilford	37.28
32.	Albemarle	36.00
33.	Midland	35.20
34.	Haw River	35.00
35.	Mocksville	32.84
36.	Friendship	32.78
37.	Fountain Place	31.53
37.	Anderson	31.22
38.	Davidson	28.90
39.	Henderson	27.50
40.	West Thomasville	24.30
41.	Pinnacle	22.75
42.	Cleveland	21.08
43.	St. Paul	20.84
44.	West Forsyth	20.76
45.	Halifax	20.68
46.	Lebanon	20.05
47.	Bess Chapel	17.98
48.	Flat Rock	16.34
49.	Roberta	14.05
50.	Granville	13.50
51.	Denton	13.14
52.	English Street	13.02
53.	Rockingham	13.00
54.	South Davidson	13.00
55.	South Winston	10.00
56.	Union Grove	9.58
57.	Lincolnton	7.52
58.	Yarborough	7.40
59.	Weaverville	7.00
60.	Mecklinburg	6.50
61.	Chatham	5.04
62.	Pageland	4.30
63.	Porter	3.35

Since the above was set up amounts have been received that make the following changes:

On the G. C. B., Asheboro sends in a good contribution though they were already over the top. Vance sent in a contribution that helps them hold their place on roll, Alamance goes up one point and becomes no. 16. Graham goes up six points and becomes no. 17. Tabernacle makes the largest gains of all and goes from 25 to 8 a gain of 17 points. Denton makes a gain of two points, and Fairview enters this roll at no. 57.

Just one more printed report before conference. What will the final statement show? Our Lord teaches us that those who are faithful in the few things committed to their charge He will make rulers over many, and those who are unfaithful in the few things shall lose what they already have. How about it, Brother Layman and fellow- pastor? Are you in line for promotion? Please send all money in hand to V. W. Idol, Treasurer, High Point, N. C., in time for him to make a report to me not later than Monday morning, October 25, so that your report may appear in next week's Herald.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

NORTH CAROLINA BRANCH

The second quarterly meeting of the Womans' Foreign Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, High Point, N. C., October 7, with Mrs. Geo. R. Brown presiding.

The opening devotional was led by Mrs. Brown who read from Acts 26 and gave an inspiring talk on Paul's vision. Special prayers were offered for our missionaries on the field.

Responding to roll call were: Mesdames Geo. R. Brown, W. C. Hammer, J. W. Boyles, J. E. Pritchard, C. L. Whitaker, S. W. Taylor, R. H. Brooks, J. Norman Wills, J. M. Millikan, M. P. Harrell, Dr. Harris Glascock, Misses Pearl McCulloch, Mary Young and Lena Martin.

The following societies sent in their reports for the second quarter: Asheville, Burlington, Charlotte, Calvary, Grace Church, Moriah, Mebane, Harmony, Mt. Zion, West End, State Street Church, Northville, Rehoboth, Maple Springs, Pleasant Hill, Mt. Pleasant, Henderson, High Point, Winston-Salem, Bethel, Alamance Circuit, Clyde Auman Society, Fair Grove, Orange Chapel, Lebanon.

With one or two exceptions all of these societies are doing good work.

There is an increased interest in the use of the Study book, "Moslem Women." Many of the societies are falling in line and proving the value of a well planned program.

During the quarter 51 active, one life, and two perpetual members were enrolled. Three young people's societies were organized.

Our Record Agent reported two renewals and one new subscriber to the Missionary Record. We know pretty well the cause of societies becoming weak and inactive. In looking over the records we find one member in a society of 23 members taking the "Missionary Record."

Friends, there is no excuse for each member of the W. F. M. Societies not being a subscriber to the Record. We will never have real live, up-to-date missionary Societies eager to extend the work of the Kingdom until we have well informed members. By reading the Missionary Record we keep in touch with our workers on the field. We become more intimately acquainted with them, thus creating a more sympathetic feeling among us and a stronger desire to do our part in assisting to further promote the spreading of the Gospel and upbuilding of the Kingdom. It keeps us in touch with other auxiliaries of our Branch and we thus feel a closer relation to them. "Missionry enthusiasm is aroused only through Missionary Education."

The price of the Missionary Record is within the reach of every member. 75 cents a year.

Don't wait for the Record Agent.

Be prompt in renewing and subscribe to the Record.

Branch minutes and programs have been sent to all auxiliaries. If any society failed to receive their supply, write to Secretary of Literature, Miss Pearl McCulloch, Greensboro, N. C.

During the summer months Miss Annie Livengood, field secretary, visited 15 churches and spoke in interest of the Woman's Missionary Society. A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Livengood for the work that was done.

The Branch Treasurer reported: Receipts, $1162.11. Disbursements, $1157.71.

This financial situation is not encouraging. Let us all make a special effort to meet our obligations and meet them on time. Send in your money every month. Our missionaries must be paid every month. We must not keep them waiting.

The various secretaries' reports were all gratifying and encouraging.

An invitation was read and accepted for the Branch meeting to be held at Henderson in April.

We were all glad to greet once again Mrs. Maier, who with Rev. N. H. Maier, has recently come to North Carolina to make their home.

The year is rapidly passing. Let us see to it that our society is in good working order, and resolve that we will attend more regularly, serve more faithfully and pray for our missionaries and all of our workers everywhere.

MRS. M. P. HARRELL, Cor. Sec'y N. C. Branch.

NOTES FROM PINE RIDGE, KENTUCKY.

We were unable to do any building the past Summer because it was about all we could do to take care of debts for building already done, and indeed we still have a very definite financial problem to contend with.

However, our regular workers and the students who remained with us during the Summer found a plenty of work to do, as we did more farming than ever before and at odd times we have been working on a new cistern which is nearly completed now and which will greatly increase our water supply. Then, because our herd of cattle is increasing and our crops of different kinds of hay were so large, we were compelled recently to enlarge our barn. We now have eight good milk cows and eight fine heifers coming on that will be fresh within the coming year. Besides these, we have two yearlings for beef and three small calves.

In addition to the fine registered Jersey bull which Dr. Hawkins of Fawn Grove, Pa., sent us about a year ago, he recently sent us a prize-winner Berkshire hog. So we have good reason to expect continued improvement in our live stock possessions.

The tablet arm chairs for our High School recitation rooms have arrived and we are delighted with them. We will enjoy them more however, when they are paid for. Several kind friends have contributed to this seating fund, but much more is needed.

The first Sunday in October, we began holding regular Sunday and mid-week religious services in the auditorium of our new High School building, using temporary seats until we are enabled to buy better.

We have a larger and better enrollment in school than ever before at this time of the year. Because of lack of room, we have had to turn away at least fifteen girls who wanted to enter our school.

We want to make special mention of one of our boys. He was raised in Pine Ridge community but went out some years ago seeking employment. The past year or so he was working as a mechanic somewhere in Michigan and had developed to the point where he was earning seven dollars per day, but he came to realize that he had quit school too soon. So, late in the Summer he returned to his boyhood home and when our school opened this Fall he entered the seventh grade. His report card for the first month showed that he had gotten "E", which means excellent, in everything. He is now 22 years of age. I trust his example will be helpful to many others.

Two Urgent Requests

Ladies of the W. H. M. S. all over our church, please speed up the work. I will not elaborate, but I mean much when I say, vacation time in the churches has been unusally hard on us this year. There are financial obligations pressing us severely. We are looking to you for relief.

Business in our store is very good just now, but our stock of used clothing is getting very low. People are coming many miles to get bargains in clothing in order to prepare for the approaching Fall and Winter. We need children's clothing more especially, but all kinds are acceptable, provided there is still some service in them.

THOS. R. WOODFORD, Superintendent.

REPORT OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$170,019.85
Mrs. Lucy W. Ball	100.00
Albemarle Philathea Class	25.00
Miss Mary White	5.00
Mrs. A. W. White	2.00
Mrs. J. R. Surratt	1.00
Mrs. E. S. Welborn	3.00
	$170,155.85

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$6,643.61
W. A. Bowman	5.00
Grady Bowman	5.00
L. M. Riley	5.00
J. F. Holmes	5.00
	$6,663.61

The contribution from Mrs. L. W. Ball was entirely voluntary, and deserves special notice. Mrs. Ball is the widow of Rev. J. R. Ball, for so long an honored member of our conference, but who was called to the home above many years ago. Mrs. Ball, at the same time, made a contribution of the same amount to the building fund of Grace Church. Brother Ball was the agent in charge of the erection of the first Grace Church. To her, and to all the friends who have remembered the college our thanks are tendered.

J. NORMAN WILLS, Treasurer.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of Calvary church will serve a Brunswick stew at the Hut tomorrow (Friday) night, beginning at 6 o'clock.

Eugene V. Debbs, the Socialist leader, is dead.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mill Grove, Midland Circuit.—For the second time we had the pleasure of meeting and preaching to the good people of Mill Grove camp meeting. Last year we were called to do the preaching for the camp meeting and having learned to love each other we were called back for this year and the Lord met with us and we had a great time together. When we arrived at the camp ground we found Brother Hulin, the good pastor of Midland Circuit, working away in preparation for the meeting. His work he did well and we have never found a pastor that we enjoyed working with more than with Brother Hulin. His people love him and he loves his people and they are doing good work. To prove their love for their pastor during the meeting they gave him a pounding to the value of about $50 and during the entire meeting we did not hear a single word against Brother Hulin, and this is an exception as there are very few meetings we hold but what someone will try to tell us about the pastor's faults without telling of the good he is doing and we are glad the people of Midland have enough religion, and love, that they only see the good.

About 65 souls were saved, or reclaimed during the meeting, about 15 joined the church and some gave their names for other churches in the community.

During the meeting we were able to work some for the advancement of the financial conditions of the church and 20 men promised to give one acre each, of some money crop, to the church to be used for salary, claims, etc. This acre is to be called "God's Acre," and it is to be cultivated with the same care and products are to be sold just as carefully as their own and the entire proceeds turned over to the church treasurer. This move will enable Mill Grove church to double pastor's salary and pay claims and give him a new suit of clothes to wear to conference each year. We hope to get other churches to do this same thing, and we are sure it will mean a great advancement.

At the close of the meeting we were presented with purse of about $108.00 and asked to do the preaching and singing again next year for the meeting. We promised to preach again, the Lord willing. We thank again the good people for what they gave us and for the call to come again.

REV. AND MRS. C. E. PHILLIPS.
Monroe, N. C.

Pageland Circuit.—This report is getting in a little late but we hope it will do just as much good now. Our revival season is over and we are trying to hold what we gained during the meetings. Our revivals have all been good. We have had about 150 conversions and reclamations and have received into the church about 40 members on the circuit. All the churches will pay out on pastor's salary and all the annual conference claims and some has been paid and more will be paid on General Conference claims.

Our people have been very kind to us throughout the year. We have been pounded several times in a very handsome way for which we thank every one. We will not tell all we have received, but we have been pounded with everything from a load of cordwood to a 42-piece dinner set and from buttermilk to home-made molasses, they brought things to eat, wood to cook it with, and dishes to eat it from; now was that not fine.

Our fourth quarterly conference will meet at Pageland Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, October 27. All the official members are asked to be present.

C. E. PHILLIPS, Pastor.

Rockingham, Chase City and Melton's Grove.—The Rockingham church has held two revival meetings this year, one in June and one in September. Rev. C. E. Phillips was with us in June and did some good preaching, which the Lord blessed. The church was greatly revived, several were converted and reclaimed and ten joined the church.

Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon were with us in September and again the Lord blessed the meeting and several were converted and reclaimed and fifteen joined the church.

During the year thirty-two have been received into the church and we are expecting others to join before conference. It was good to have Dr. and Mrs. Dixon and Brother Phillips with us and we hope they will all come again.

Brother R. F. Gardner is our delegate, of Rockingham charge.

Chase City.—We begin our meeting here the second Sunday in July. We did the preaching, and the good Lord blessed us with a very good meeting, several were converted and reclaimed. During the year thirteen have been received into the church. Brother R. R. Divenie is our delegate of Chase City charge.

Melton's Grove.—The revival here was in August, so far as we know there were no converts, though the Lord's blessings were upon us and the church was greatly revived. We did the preaching here also. One member has been received into the church here this year and another who lives away from the place and whose name had been off the church book for some time had it restored.

Brother Dee Sasser is the delegate of Melton's Grove charge.

JAMES H. TROLLINGER.

Rockingham.—We had 91 present in Sunday school October 17. We have a few that have not been absent this year. Our collection Sunday was $10.27. This was offering day on the debt for some of our equipments. We give our Sunday school collection the third Sunday in every month for the good of paying the debt for our furnishings.

Our mid-week prayer meeting met last Wednesday night with great force. Everyone present enjoyed it to fullest extent. We had several fine talks and testimonies. Among the talks was one by our pastor, Brother Trollinger. He brought to us a clear idea and an explanation of the first chapter of first John which one of the boys of the "Boys' Prayer Circle" read as the Bible lesson for the entire prayer meeting.

The "Boys' Prayer Circle" met as usual and on return to the main prayer meeting made a very satisfactory report of their meeting.

The "Girls' Christian Club" met at their usual time. They had a very good business meeting along with the usual meeting. They had as a Bible lesson the teaching of Christ in the Sermon on the Mount, the fifth chapter of Matthew. The first prayer offered was by our very appreciated, Mrs. Trollinger our pastor's wife. In the end we had a good many prayers in a chain of prayers. Mrs. Trollinger leading them and the leader closing. The girls are coming to take a more active part in the meeting than ever before.

We have moved our fourth quarterly conference up to Monday night, October 25. We hope to have a very earnest business meeting and have everything straight, before our pastor and delegate leave for annual conference.

We ask the prayers of the Christian people to continue with us in our work.

(Miss) BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Draper M. P. Church.—The year 1926 has been a prosperous year for the church at Draper. God has wonderfully blessed our work here the two years we have been serving this church.

We have a band of loyal church workers here who are struggling to be self-supporting and need the prayers of all God's people.

We have received into this church 57 new members since we have been here.

Our Sunday school is getting along fine. There has been added to the church this year a bell tower and a Sunday school room and a new coat of paint.

Pray for us. J. S. RIDDLE.

Lincolnton Church.—First Sunday was a banner day in our Sunday school so far as the Sunday school offering goes. D. B. Johnson offered to give any amount equal to the largest class collection and the class giving the largest amount to get credit also for what Brother Johnson was to give. When the total collection was counted, it amounted to $99.10. This shows how some people can raise money.

Shelby and Caroleen Churches.—As we have not had a report from this charge in some time I will let the Herald readers know that we are still alive.

On the second Sunday in August we began our special meeting at Shelby with Brother Surratt from Charlotte as pulpit help. Brother Surratt was at his best and as a result of this meeting about twenty conversions and six additions to the church, the church greatly revived. Shelby has had a struggle this year, but the out-look for the future of this church is promising. Congregations are increasing and much better interest in all departments of the church work. We were glad to see Sister Ramsey in the congregation last night; it is an inspiration to have her present in the church service.

We have held two special meetings at Caroleen. Brother J. M. Morgan came and did part of the preaching in the first one. Brother J. D. Morris preached twice; we had a fairly good meeting. For the second meeting the second Sunday in September Broher C. W. Bates came and did the preaching he first week and did good preaching; the econd week Brother H. A. Henderson from liffside, N. C., came to our assistance. The neeting was a success; several professions nd three joined the church, church revived.

We held our fourth quarterly conference t Caroleen Saturday night with a good at-endance; the best spirit of any conference of he year. They voted unanimously for the re-urn of the present pastor. These are good eople and it is a pleasure to serve them.

Yours in the Master's service,

L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Mebane.—Last Wednesday evening follow-ng prayer meeting our fourth quarterly con-erence was held, with very good attendance, onsidering the inclement weather. Reports rom the Ladies' Aid and Missionary socie-ies were very encouraging; these societies ave done fine work during the year and we re planning for greater things next year. Ve are right much behind with our church laims at this time. There is much to be ac-omplished before conference if we raise all laims. However, we are hoping to do this. . E. Foust is our delegate and J. W. Nichol-on is alternate delegate.

Next Sunday morning election of officers or the coming year will be held. We are xpecting a full attendance at this time. his (Monday) afternoon the Ladies' Aid vill meet with Mrs. C. C. Smith.

Next Sunday afternoon from two o'clock o four o'clock the stewards will be at the hurch to receive pledges for the coming ear, thus introducing the Honor System.

Our Rally Day service will be held the fifth unday morning in this month.

REPORTER.

Chapel Hill, Davidson Circuit.—Brother idge preached a good sermon today. He old us of the many sins that so easily beset. large congregation; 11 joined the church. he Lord's Supper was also administered, a arge number partook.

There will be prayer meeting next Sunday ight. We welcome everybody to come and ake a part.

We just had a glorious camp meeting lready reported. Hope there will be many nore such meetings at Chapel.

LIZZIE CRANFORD.

Spencer Charge.—On Monday after the hird Sunday in September the good people f Charlotte asked me to appoint prayer neeting at the chapel for Monday night; I vas real glad to do that. I announced Sunday ight that there would be prayer meeting at he chapel on Monday night. Quite a number f folks turned out. And we had a real ood prayer meeting. At the close of the ser-ice Brother Stegall asked that they sing most appropriate hymn. And when the inging began a number of folks began to o to the rear of the chapel and bring things o the front. They had planned a surprise ounding, and they succeeded. When they ot their gifts together they had enough of just such things as a poor preacher and his family needed to make his heart glad, and make his account at the store less. I wish I could give the names of all that gave anything and the names of the articles. But it would make my article too long. Sister H. S. Whitworth not a member of our church worked up the pounding. May our Father in heaven bless her and everyone that has donated anything at any time to our support. My people have been very good and kind to me this year for which they have my thanks. They were not able to pay me a living. On top of all my debts it has cost me a great deal more to preach this year than the salary I have received. I have not been able to pay one dollar on what furniture we bought after we were burnt out. My expense has been great and is great yet, but I have not let that keep me from doing my church work. I have preached about 115 sermons, and conducted a number of prayer meetings. I have preached from two to three times about every Sunday and driven from 50 to 100 miles every Sunday. I don't think I have missed a single appointment this year. I have made about 125 visits. I have baptised 35 children and 15 adults. I have been too busy to delight myself with the most pleasant games of these modern times, such as baseball and pitching horseshoes, which are all harmless in themselves.

The work has been hard, but the joy I have found in doing the work gave the dark clouds that hung over the way a silver lining. There has been a dark cloud hanging over our poor home for four long years, and you all know I have had no salary to meet by expense. But I have gone on preaching and when the Lord tells me to stop preaching then I shall stop. Up to four years ago always when I would come home I had some one to tell my sorrows and my joys to. But that all stopped four years ago. But I have a Savior to tell all my troubles to. My wife is still here but she is helpless and mindless.

Well, the conference is at the door. Last Sunday was a good day at Charlotte. At the close of the service Sunday they voted on who they wanted for a pastor for next year, and every member present voted for the return of the present pastor except one, and someone asked to make the vote unanimous, and it was done. The people at Spencer have not voted on who they want. I think they will submit to what ever the conference may do. These two places, Spencer and Charlotte, need to be made into two missions, and a man put at each place. There is a fine opening at each place, but they are too far apart for one man to work them, and there is too much work for one man to do it. We have some loyal folks at both places. May the Holy Spirit guide us in the work of the conference, and may the right thing be done in all the work of the conference. May our Father continue to bless the entire conference. Pray for us.

Yours in His name, D. A. BRASWELL.

Lincolnton.—October 17, at 11 o'clock everybody seemed to have a smile if not a solar look or a grin like a trestle of New Jerusalem as we elected the officers for the new year.

Brother R. G. Ward was elected Sunday school superintendent and six ladies and six gentlemen were elected stewards; this spells "paid in full" next year.

In the afternoon three were baptized by immersion and one sprinkled.

We believe that the salary will be paid in full if we do not come out on the budgets.

The fourth quarterly conference of Bessemer City and Lincolnton will convene in Lincolnton M. P. church, Saturday, October 23, at 7:30 p.m. All the official board are expected to be present. W. L. CARSON.

Bessemer City.—The revival closed at the M. P. Church October 17, after Brother N. M. Modlin had shelled the woods for eight days bringing many to the knowledge of the truth and edifying the church very much.

A nice purse and a good pounding was given to Brother Modlin as a token of their appreciation of plain emphatic way of doing the Lord's business.

As the meeting closed two joined the church. There are so many churches that by the time all get their "gets" no one church gets but a few. W. L. CARSON.

High Point.—The pastor, Dr. Brown, is holding a series of meetings for two weeks. Services are being conducted every evening; the sermon is preceded by a song service, led by Mr. E. J. McKinley, which is enjoyed by the congregation. The pastor is preaching plain, practical, Gospel sermons, and these services are being very well attended by our members. The doors of the church will be opened next Sunday morning for the reception of new members.

The fourth quarterly conference will convene Wednesday evening at $7:30 o'clock. At this time reports from the officers of the church, Sabbath school supterintendent, the two Missionary societies, Ladies' Aid society, and all the various organizations of the church will be heard. The work for this year is being rapidly brought in shape for reports to the Annual Conference in Greensboro.

Committees have been appointed to bring forward names for Officers of the church and Sunday school for the ensuing year, and an election for this purpose will be held on Sunday, October 31.

The choir is rendering beautiful music each Sabbath. Last Sunday morning a male quartette composed of Messrs. Dan W. Smith, Arnold J. Koonce, Clarence Schultheiss, and Carey W. Davis, sang "The City Foursquare" in a very pleasing manner, and Mrs. J. Hobart Allred nee Miss Myrtle Perry rendered "The Ninety and Nine" very beautifully.

The committee appointed to make out the programs for the Mission Study Class for the ensuing six months held a meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. R. M. Andrews. The Foreign Study Book, "Moslem Women," will be taken up at the October meeting, and the first chapter will be given by Mrs. Paul S. Kennett.

Mr. Eccles Everhart who has been studying architecture in Europe for the past four months, returned home last week, and was met in New York by Mrs. Everhart and her mother, Mrs. Herman Abels.

Lewis E. Teague, the city's Prosecuting Attorney, went to Philadelphia to attend the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition on North Carolina Day.

Dr. J. F. McCulloch and son, Leon of Pittsburgh, Penn., were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Garrett last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Penny have returned from a trip of three weeks' duration through South Georgia.

Miss Margaret Whitaker of Tobaccoville, Forsyth county, spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, and sister, Miss Emma Lewis Whitaker, who is a Senior at High Point College.

Mr. June A. Gray has presented a life-size oil painting of his grand-father, Rev. Alson Gray, to the church, and it has been placed in the pastor's study. Rev. Mr. Gray was one of the pioneer ministers of our denomination in this section, and helped to establish the church in North Carolina.

Prof. T. C. Johnson of the Faculty of High Point College has been filling the pulpit of the First Baptist church, this city, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Lloyd T. Wilson, and the congregation has been delighted with his sermons.

Orange Charge.—The fourth quarterly conference met with the Efland church, Saturday, October 16th. This we think was the largest attended conference of the present pastorate. Each church was represented by from six to eight officials.

The reports were encouraging. The business was transacted harmoniously. W. B. Jones of Hebron church was elected alternate delegate. The pastor's salary for next year was fixed at $1800.00; and proportioned to the churches as follows: Efland, $500.00; Union Grove, $250.00; Hebron, $425.00; Chestnut Ridge, $625.00.

The conference voted unamiously for the return of the present pastor. We are grateful for this vote of confidence.

Yesterday was a good day at the 11:00 a.m. appointment. Efland church treasurer reported, Efland church would pay all claims in full. At 3:00 p.m. we gave Union Grove an extra appointment. This church also will pay all claims.

Hebron and Chestnut Ridge are farther behind. We have one more Sunday for these churches. They still have a fighting chance to go on the honor roll. Rally Day offerings will be taken at these churches next Sunday.

Announcements

The fifth Sunday in this month we are planning to have a circuit rally at Chestnut Ridge church. Program as follows:

10:00 a.m., Regular Sunday school

10:40 a.m., Address, Mrs. A. G. Dixon

11:00 a.m., Sermon, Rev. A. G. Dixon, D. D., President of N. C. Conference.

12:00 a.m., Dinner.

1:30 p.m., Song service

2:00p.m., Address by Mr. Browning, of Hillsboro, followed by other addresses or sermon by pastor, or some visiting minister.

All members and friends of this charge are invited to come.

It's hardly fair to ask Chestnut Ridge to furnish all the rations, so bring along your lunch and let's have a profitable day together.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

West Lexington, South Davidson Charge.—Our Sunday school attendance last Sunday was 138, and the interest shown in the Sunday school indicated that our people are beginning to rally to the work again after the summer months have past.

The morning church service was well attended, there being a much larger congregation present than usual. Pastor Crutchfield delivered another good sermon, using as a text: Matthew 5:13-14. He discussed the two symbols used by Christ in the sermon on the mount, namely salt and light. The power of the Christian" was the central thought of the sermon.

A brief business meeting was held at the close of the service last Sunday morning in which the church officers and Sunday school superintendent were elected for the new conference year. The following officers were elected: Stewards—J. H. Yates, W. C. Gibson, H. C. Koonts, Miss Lena Hedrick and Miss Myrtle Yates; Class Leaders—C. L. Hedrick, C. B. Way and J. H. Yates; Trustees—J. H. Yates, J. A. Easter and Charlie Cross; Organist, Miss Elsie Crouse, with Miss Lena Hedrick, assistant; Sunday school superintendent, H. C. Koonts.

The regular evening preaching service was held last Sunday with a fairly good attendance and another helpful sermon was delivered by Pastor Crutchfield.

We will have two preaching services again next Sunday, morning and night. Our last preaching service before the Annual Conference will be on the fifth Sunday night at 7 o'clock. We are nearly paid out with pastor's salary and will have it all paid by the fifth Sunday. C. B. WAY.

Fair Grove,Why Not Circuit.—Mr. Lowdermilk and some of the children from the Home were here last night and gave good entertainment. We are always glad to have them.

The Clyde Auman Missionary Society gave a play, Converting Aunt Jane, in September, and received an offering of $15.08 which went on their Budget.

Our pastor, Brother Garner, has been holding meeting elsewhere, so we have had no preaching for some time. He will preach here the fifth Sunday night. We are anxious for him on the work here next year.

REPORTER.

New Hope, Why Not Circuit.—Our regular preaching day was last Sunday, October 17, but our pastor gave the hour to Brother Lowdermilk and the children from the Home.

The children rendered their program well and Brother Lowdermilk made a good talk.

We were glad to have them with us.

Dinner was served on the grounds and they went to Flag Springs after noon.

We held Sunday school at 9 o'clock in order to give the children more time for their program. We also elected new officers for the coming year and revised the class-book.

We re-elected all the old officers except the Sunday school superintendent and assistant. We were sorry to give up our former superintendent, W. R. Williams, but he thought best to make a change, so B. C. Presnell was elected superintendent and W. R. Williams assistant. Brother Williams has made a faithful superintendent and, we believe Brother Presnell will make good also.

The church voted unanimously for Brother Garner to return next year.

We were made sad by the news of the death of Mrs. M. A. Suggs, or "Aunt Polly Ann," as almost everyone called her, of Love Joy church. She was a good woman and will be missed so much in her community.

REPORTER.

Shiloh, North Davidson Circuit.—Last Sunday was a good day for Shiloh. Our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, preached a very inspiring sermon to a crowded church. After communion service the church transacted some very important business. The motion to build Sunday school rooms was made and carried by a very satisfactory vote. The trustees were appointed as a building committee and work on the building is expected to begin at once. This is a pressing need, as our Sunday school has outgrown our church. Yesterday our enrollment went up to 313, with 263 present. The collection was $11.56. We hope to keep growing.

Mr. Richard Berrier, one of our members who lives in Jacksonville, Fla., worshiped with us Sunday. We are always glad to have Brother Berrier with us.

The church was so glad that its petitions inbehalf of our beloved pastor have been granted by our Father, and he is now able to mingle with us again. He is not yet able to wear his shoe, but can walk around.

We were also glad to have Brother M. W. Koontz back with us yesterday after an absence of nearly two months of serious illness. We feel that his return is a direct answer to prayer, for he was so near death's door, but now he is seemingly on the road to complete recovery. MRS. WILEY SHOAF,

Reporter.

Dulins, Mocksville Charge.—Our Home-Coming Day was held the first Sunday in October. Several of our members were here from a distance who don't come very often. We were very sorry that not any of our former pastors were here. All I heard speak of the home-coming enjoyed it.

The Conference year came to a close today. We are still behind, but hope to be out before our pastor leaves for Conference. Our beloved pastor, Rev. T. J. Sisk, came to us yesterday morning with a face to face talk which was very interesting. Afterwards he administered the Lord's Supper.

We have enjoyed having Brother Sisk with us for the three years. We hope that Conference will send him for another year. The adjourned quarterly meeting will be held at the parsonage Friday night, October 29. We want the prayers of all the Christian people that we may accomplish our aim.

This charge has lost four of its beloved members this year. The Lord has called them to their reward; namely, Brother John Laird and Brother Ollie Carter, of this church, and Brother David Myers, of Elbaville, and Brother Isaiah Byrely, of Byrely's Chapel.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

LEONA HENDRIX, Reporter.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.—Second Sunday morning Rev. B. M. Williams preached one of his good sermons, which was enjoyed by quite a number of people. After the morning sermon the communion services were held. We were glad to see the large number of the congregation partake of the Lord's Supper.

After this the officers were elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Trustees—W. S. Dodson, S. N. Hayes, D. M. Pender, C. A. Sykes, D. M. Sykes, P. T. Tapp and J. E. Thompson; class leaders—J. S. Faucette, James F. Holmes, W. A. Pender, W. S. Sykes and Mrs. C. A. Sykes; stewards—J. C. Dodson, S. E. Holmes, C. H. Jones, O. F. Jones, W. A. Moore, J. M. Minnis, D. A. Pender, Annie Bell Sykes and E. C. Sykes; Sunday school superintendent—John T. Hobbs; church treasurer—C. H. Jones; chair leader—D. M. Pender; pianist—Mrs. D. M. Sykes; reporter—the writer; assistant reporter—Elevean Hayes.

We sincerely hope that the Conference will send our pastor back to us.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Rally Day service will be held at Chestnut Ridge Church October 31. It is desired that all churches on this charge be present, everybody invited. Dinner on the grounds. Bring your basket and come. Two services that day. A. G. Dixon will be with us.

ANNIE SQUIRES, Reporter

Eden, Halifax Charge.—The third Sunday in September was quite a red letter day with us. First at 11 o'clock a.m. we had quite an interesting program rendered by the children. We wish to congratulate most heartily the children and those who trained them. They did exceedingly well.

It was our good fortune to have with us the Roanoke Rapids quartet, known as The Big Four. This was quite a surprise to us. We thank Mr. Eugene Harrill for his efforts in getting the quartet for the day. Most everybody brought lunch and stayed for the afternoon service. We had another pleasant surprise at 3:30 p.m. when Rev. Mr. Spencer arrived, bringing with him Rev. J. E. Pritchard. Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard have visited in this community a number of times but this was the first time Mr. Pritchard had preached at Eden since he left the charge twelve years ago. It was indeed a pleasure to have him. The Big Four sang several numbers for us at the close of the sermon. It is indeed a very great pleasure to hear these men sing. They sing with such depth and volume that when the last note has drifted away you are conscious of a sense of longing, not only to hear again their sweet melody, but you have a desire to reach a higher plane. To them and to you we say, God be with you till we meet again. REPORTER.

Siler City, Siler City Charge.—Yesterday was a great day for the folk at Siler City. The Sunday school was well attended. The officers for the new conference year were elected.

The morning service was attended by a large congregation. There was a large number of people from the other churches. The subject "The Broken Things of Life, The Cause and the Cure" was discussed by the pastor. After the service a business meeting was held and the church officers were elected. Among the most important officers elected were: Mr. Ed. Woody, Superintendent of the Sunday school; and Mr. L. L. Wrenn, Secretary and Treasurer and Chairman of the Board of Stewards. A good spirit prevailed and the Treasurer announced that there is a possibility of paying all claims in full. We are proud of this since a few years ago conference had to give this church aid.

The Senior C. E. was atended by a large number of folk as usual. Miss Minda Ball led a well planned program.

The evening service brought us a great treat. We turned the service into a special devotional service, consisting of hymns, special music, prayer and Bible reading. We were glad to have the Palmar sisters and their mother with us. The three girls: Sudia Belle, Hutoka, and Alice, composed a trio and their mother was their accompanist. They sang many numbers that held the congregation attentive for more than an hour. Our church and community has never enjoyed such a treat before. The messages brought to us in song by these good people moved some to tears and brought us all closer to The Father. We want them to come again.

REPORTER.

Mizpah.—On Wednesday night, October 6th, the Mizpah Philathea class held its regular meeting at church.

The class was called to order by vice-president, Mrs. M. L. Wagoner, minutes read and roll called by secretary, Miss Ruth Hill. Old and new business was then discussed. At the close of the meeting the members decided to change the meeting from Wednesday night after the first Sunday to the second Sunday of each month immediately after Sunday school during the winter months. The meeting then adjourned to meet the second Sunday in November. REPORTER.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE ITEMS

The present registration is 217; Freshman class of 86 and Senior class of 13.

The Art Department, which is a new department added this year, is being well patronized. I think Miss Battle has already 15 who are taking art.

The College Orchestra has been recently organized with ten or twelve members. They meet twice a week for practice and Prof. McCanless, who has charge of it, is encouraged to believe we will have a good orchestra by the end of the year.

The College Band was re-organized at the beginning of the fall semester. Most of the old members are back and several new students are in. The band is under the direction of Prof. Lindley and the boys are doing good work.

The College Christian Endeavor Society again took the city union banner and if they do as well as they did last year, they will be pretty apt to keep it during the school term. Quite a large number of the students are active in Christian Endeavor. Meetings are held each Sunday evening in the college chapel.

College chapel hour is 10:30 each day except Saturday. A new departure has been made in conducting chapel this year, making Thursday visitors' day and Friday students' day. Recently we have had several business men to visit the college on Thursday, bringing good messages. On Wednesday chapel is taken care of by some member of the faculty. Interest has been stimulated through this variety of chapel speakers.

There has been a much greater interest in Society work this semester than was shown in any previous semester. Last spring the Artemesian Society, the Society to which the girls belong, decided to divide and formed a new society. We believe it was a good move. The young men are also taking more interest in their society work this year.

Athletics is also claiming the thought of the students. And while Coach Boylin's football team has not been so successful, out of four games it has tied one, won one, and lost two. The next game will be played in High Point next Saturday, at 3:00 p.m.

REPORTER.

Our Children's Home

Union Grove, Orange, $3.20; Rehoboth, Granville, $11; Canaan Church, Denton, $4.61; Canaan Church, Denton, $11.95; Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion, $5; Miss Annye Hull, Bess Chapel, $1; Sapling Ridge, Alamance, $2.73; Salem, Saxapahaw, $2.75; James Braswell, Kannapolis, $2.50; Giles Chapel, Richland, $2.64.

The last named church is where I preached my first sermon, May 17th, 1896. Text, Heb. 12:12.

Sunday Schools

Midway, Guilford, $2.25; Ray Bible Class, Graham, $3.50; Haw River, $3.70; Bethany, Randolph, $2.40; Mrs. D. T. Gaster, Sunday eggs, $1.05; Shiloh, Randolph, $8.14; Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, $3; Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, $5; Concord Station, $25.90; Lebanon, High Point, $8.05; Fair Grove, Haw River, $2.85; Laurel Hill, Fallston, Birthday offering, $3.70; St. Paul, Greensboro, $18.86; Tabernacle, $3.45; Rehoboth, Creswell, $1; Bethesda, N. Davidson, $9; Worthville, Randleman, $4.41; Winston Salem, $13.95; Brown Summit, Haw River, $1.50; Mizpah, Haw River, $5.25.

Other Gifts

Miss Kate Medlock and Mrs. Taylor, Ware Shoals, S. C., four dresses and bloomers to match. Mrs. J. W. Magee, Pleasant Hill, dresses and underwear, and suit for her nieces and nephew. Rev. Mr. Carrick, High Point, N. C., pears. Miss Cora Totten, Yadkin college, pears.

All who contributed to make this report, contributed to a good worthy cause. Wish more people would join the good contributors to this institution, and increase the much needed amounts for the Children's Home. Come on, join the number, you will have good company to cheer you on the way.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Supt.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for October 24.—Lessons from Great Athletes. 1 Cor, 9:24-27; Heb. 12:1-3.

Topic for October 31.—What are the good points of the various races in America? Acts 10:24-38.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for October 24.—Joshua, Israel's New Ruler. Numbers 27:18-20; Joshua 1:9. Devotional reading—Luke 4:16-19; John 17:18.

Lesson for October 31.—The evils of strong drink. Proverbs 23:29-35. Devotional reading, Ezek. 34:17-22, 28-31.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Hawkins

Mrs. Sallie Hawkins passed away September 26, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Pearson, near Rosemary, N. C. Aged 68 years, two months and 22 days. Sister Hawkins had been a member of Hawkins Chapel church for 30 or 35 years. She was a very kind, good woman, and lived a very good Christian life. She had six daughters and two sons, most of whom are married and live near Rosemary, N. C., and moved their membership from Hawkins Chapel to Smiths M. E. church, but Sister Hawkins still kept her membership at Hawkins Chapel as long as she lived. It was home to her, and she attended services as often as was convenient. She also leaves 36 grand children and five brothers and five sisters and a host of friends who will miss her very much.

September 27, funeral was held at Smiths church conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Tharp, pastor of Smiths church, after which her body was laid to rest in church burying ground there, near where her children live.

The bereaved family have the sympathy of the church and community.

J. B. O'BRIANT.

Koons

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller Koons, born February 27, 1893, in Foster, Ky., departed this life July 23, 1926. She married Rev. R. G. Koons November 11, 1923. To this union three children were born, two daughters and one son: Maebelle, 11 years of age, Ralph Edward, nine years of age, and Eunice Lilly, seven years of age.

If life is to be measured by years her earthly stay was short; but if good deeds are the measure, hers was a long life. From the days of her earliest years and lived a devout Christian life.

She was converted at the age of 14. Since that time she was active in God's work. She was never happier and more nearly at her best than when she was giving her unstinted services to help others. It has been truly said of her that her religion was easily the most dominant fact in her life. She was a Christian whole-hearted and true.

Sister Koons was in every sense a faithful help mate to her husband and when the records are made up, and the rewards meted out for the good accomplished on the fields of labor where they labored together, a large measure will go to her. She stood by him and aided him in every religious undertaking.

Her home life bore the marks of unmistakable nobility. Her untiring patience and tender affections, the home-loving set of her heart and the domestic skill of her hand made her the queen of the home.

The funeral services of Sister Koons were held at the Methodist Protestant church at Fairview where Rev. Mr. Koons is pastor. Doctor Dixon was in charge of the services assisted by Revs. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller. Her body was tenderly laid to rest in the church cemetery. The many floral contributions were a fit token from her friends for the beauty of her good and noble life.

Signed by Obituary committee,
Miss Anna Henderson,
Miss Sallie McClimmons,
Mrs. Luther White.

—Rev. Edward Suits is assisting Pastor Loy at Midway church this week. There were two conversions on Monday night.

—Rev. N. M. Harrison officiated in the marriage of Rev. E. L. Ballard and Miss Lena Martin in West End Church on Tuesday night.

—Brother Daniel M. Glass died at his home in Greensboro on Tuesday afternoon. He reached his eightieth year in August. He had been confined to his bed for years with rheumatism and suffered much. He was a good man and is now at rest. Funeral at Moriah church of which he was a member on Wednesday afternoon conducted by Pastor Suits, assisted by four other ministers.

—Tabernacle Circuit seems to be in process of division into two pastoral charges, Tabernacle and Julian churches forming one and Moriah and Shady Grove churches forming the other. As thus divided each part could support a pastor and of course there would be double the service. Steps were taken looking to this division at the fourth quarterly conference held last week.

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

—Calvary church held its fourth quarterly conference Monday night, President Dixon presiding. Brother Norman Kirkman was elected as alternate delegate to Annual Conference, Brother Jobe is the delegate. A slight increase in pastor's salary was voted for next year. Three notable improvements have been made in the plant this year. Ten Sunday school rooms have been added to the Hut, carpets have been placed in the aisles, and concrete walks have been laid from the front to the rear of the church. Brother Gerringer reported a net gain of nine members for the year, and a considerably larger gain for last year. The delegate was instructed to ask for the return of Brother Gerringer as pastor next year.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MA... EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N. C., OCTOBER 28, 1926 NUMBER 50

Pres Elderdice 5dec6
Westminster MD

Meeting Broken Up By Untoward Accidents

A Western pastor began an evangelistic meeting with earnest intention, good preparation and high hope of success, but reports that a series of unfavorable happenings led to a premature closing of the meeting.

After preaching on Sunday morning he held a very solemn communion service. While feeling was at the highest pitch of intensity the pompous Mr. Banks arose and started to the altar to partake of the sacred elements. As he walked with his head high in the air he caught the toe of his shoe in an open seam in the carpet and fell sprawling. He was not hurt, but immediately and quietly arose and took his place at the altar, but the solemnity of the occasion was gone. All faces wore an expression of subdued mirth.

The preacher hoped that no similar occurrence would interfere with the night service. The congregation filled the house to its capacity. Good Sister Jones was there with her baby, but her baby did not cry in church and she had no fear on that point. She pressed forward and took a front seat. It was not long until the baby was wrapped in the arms of Morpheus, and the mother carefully laid him on the broad altar "rail," really a board 10 or 12 inches wide, and gave her undivided attention to the sermon. The sermon was near its close and the preacher was just beginning to press a personal application of its lessons upon the minds of his hearers when a piercing wail and a quick succession of wails came from the baby. He had rolled off the altar rail and fallen to the floor, and was giving expression to his outraged feelings at being so treated. The effect on the congregation may be imagined. The preacher at once closed the service, but he did so hoping for better things the next night.

For Monday night service he had arranged with a young man who prided himself on his ability to sing for a solo to follow the sermon and prepare the feelings of the audience for an exhortation to follow. The song which the young man was to sing was the one beginning—

"I've reached the land of corn and wine."

In his excitement the young man made a break in the very beginning. He sang—

"I've reached the corn—"

Realizing that he had started wrong, he stopped and started again—

"I've reached the wine of corn and land," and again felt that there was something wrong. He paused a moment and then started the third time:

"I've reached the wand of line and corn."

The congregation by this time was in an uproar of laughter. The pastor arose and declared the series of meetings was at an end for the present. He said he hoped at some future time when conditions were more favorable to hold another meeting with better results.

A brief study of these "accidents" will convince one that they were preventable. The open seam in the carpet should have been a closed seam. The baby should not have been placed on the altar rail. The young soloist should have been better trained. Inattention to details has prevented the successful working out of many a good program.

The Gospel's Way of Freedom

The ways of religious doctrine are like the ways of the road to the traveler. To the automobilist on a long journey, what a delight it is to pass out of the great city, with its speed limitations, its various known and unknown and unknowable restrictions, and enter the open country with its almost perfect freedom.

Some religious teachers would hedge us about with restrictions more numerous and more irksome than the traffic regulations of a great city. You must not do this. You must not do that. "Forbidden" is written at the entrance of every way that seems desirable. "Thou shalt not," "Thou shalt not," is the sum and substance of their teaching. Avoidance of evil is set forth as the sum total of a good life. Paul saw the insufficiency and falsity of this teaching. In his letter to the Colossians he asks the question, "Why as though living in the world are ye subject to ordinances, Touch not, taste not, handle not?" The Christian is supposed to have passed out from the world with its necessary prohibitions and restrictions. He has passed out into the realm of freedom. He is free to pursue courses against which there is no law; such as the ways of love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. The life he now lives needs not to be hedged about by restrictions because it is inherently good and naturally seeks expression in good and not evil deeds. As naturally as a good tree bears good fruit, so naturally does a Christian—one in whom the Spirit of Christ is—live a good life. There is an inner power and impulse which moves in the direction of righteousness. The Christian has passed into a new world of freedom and finds himself breathing a purer atmosphere. He is in touch with new and higher realities. Old things have passed away and all things have become new. The ways of the old life and the old world are now repugnant to him. He does not need any outer sign to say, "Keep off." His sensitized conscience gives him warning and he turns from that which his soul abhors, the way of evil, and joyously and freely moves on in the good way of life, the Gospel's way of freedom.

—It should not be necessary to praise the Bible; we acknowledge our debt for what it has taught us of the way of salvation, but to praise the Bible seems impertinent; it is like paying compliments to God. Apart from any doctrine of inspiration, the Bible can hold its own by its power and worth. —W. H. Bennett, D. D.

ENCOURAGEMENT IN THE TEMPERANCE FIGHT

By Luther K. Long

In this warfare for temperance, good morals, and good government there is to be no discharge—at least the end of the conflict is not yet in sight.

But that is no cause for discouragement. The fight against ignorance, superstition, poverty, and crime is—to all appearances—an endless engagement.

Encouraging notes sound in my ears from time to time; and I am glad to pass them on.

Window Exhibits

A most interesting Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia—that widely known center of wetness—appeared recently in many dailies. Here it is:

"A new departure in prohibition enforcement tactics here, by which the government hopes to convince Philadelphia tipplers of the danger of bootleg liquor, is to be tried out in the near future.

"The plans, announced today, call for an elaborate window display campaign, with analyses of samples of liquor confiscated by the police and a realtistic picture of what effect it might have on the imbiber. A central city store room has been rented by the prohibition department for the display, and daily demonstrations are planned. Confiscated liquor is to be taken to the display window and analyzed in full view of the passing crowds. As each element is discovered printed posters are to be hung in the window showing the makeup of the human body and the effects of the ingredients on its tissues and organisms.

" 'The reason for the move,' said Thomas Cavenaugh, local prohibition daministrator, 'is that the public continues to believe that the liquor of today is as good as that to be had before the passing of the Volstead act. We are hoping to correct this fallacy. No man will deliberately drink poisoned stuff unless he is an inveterate drinker or a fool.

" 'We hope to convince the public that the great majority of liquor today is filled with poisons which have been hurriedly and improperly distilled. If they are convinced the demand for moonshine will be appreciably lessened and our job of enforcement made easier. Several weeks ago I proposed this method of enforcement to General Lincoln C. Andrews, and he was highly in favor of it.' "

Here's hoping that this method will succeed in getting the eye and convincing the judgment of the passers-by

A Dry Congress

In Washington not long ago I heard Deets Pickett, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. He was very interesting and set forth clearly and forcibly some vital matters concerning the present situation.

"Congress is as dry as ever," he declared, and added with vigor—"Congressmen are much dryer than ever." The first of these two statements is frequently made. I had not heard the second so strongly emphasized. His further declaration that "Nine-tenths of the members of Congress never touch liquor" is most encouraging. I think Mr. Pickett's testimony is worthy of belief—for this Board of Temperance has unusual facilities for ascertaining the facts, and its statements are reliable. While most of us could not state just how large a per cent of the members of Congress never touch liquor many of us are sufficiently familiar with the situation to know that the proportion is much larger than ever before. The fact that there are conspicuous wets in many situations in public life is apt to make the impression on our minds that most all prominent men are wet, both in theory and practice. The truth seems to be just the opposite—the vast majority of them are for prohibition, both in theory and in practice.

Mr. Pickett heartily supports General Andrews, saying: "Andrews is proving to be a good enforcement officer. He can't do everything, but he is making real progress." If enforcement can be taken out of politics, and only men who believe in the law and are total abstainers receive appointments, the machinery will work much more smoothly and satisfactorily.

Mr. Pickett accuses the wets of persistent misrepresentation. They claim that the number of arrests for intoxication has increased under prohibition! while the fact is that in cities cited by them the number of arrests in proprotion to the population has largely decreased since the amendment was passed. The great increase of crime—over which the wets gloat and for which their attitude toward law enforcement is largely responsible—is not so great as they would have us believe; for a considerable proporition of arrests in cities are for the violation of traffic regulations—many of which are due to ignorance and inexperience and are not at all to be classed as arrests for crime.

The thing in Mr. Pickett's address that gets closest to church folks is his contention that what we most need now is a revival of agitation and instruction that will keep the people awake and informed on matters pertaining to temperance and law-enforcement—that is to say, public opinion is our great hope, but it must be alert and informed.

From 10 to 40 years ago it was customary to have frequent Sunday evening union temperance meetings in the churches. These gatherings were largely attended. Local conditions, the situation in the state, and national prhoibition all came in for a share of attention. Enthusiastic interest often mounted high. It was good for the people, and prepared for the coming of the Eighteenth amendment. We must have a forum of this sort again. It will be good for the young, and will strengthen the weakening faith of many an older person.

SECOND ANSWER TO "PESSIMIST"

It was not my purpose to provoke a discussion through the Herald on the subject of pastors' financial obligations and pastors' salaries when I write the brief answer to "Pessimist" appearing in the Herald of October 7th. My desire was that the question raised by the writer of the article be answered. Since no one else seemed to venture an answer, I expressed my thoughts on the question propounded by "Pessimist."

Since Mr. Pessimist has been touched by the brief answer to his question and proceeded to "shoot" his gun again, using me as a target, I ask the editor the privilege of making a reply.

I do not possess the vocabulary necessary to describe the cowardly character of a writer who hides behind an assumed name and directs his sarcasm at me personally. I am quite sure that a majority of the reader of the Herald detest a writer who hides his personality behind an assumed name as Mr. Pessimist has done.

I am sorry, Mr. Pessimist, that I misinterpreted your idea and purpose in your original article, namely to "save someone from financial disaster." It is a highly commendable and noble work you have started, and if accomplished, it will be a pity that the world will never know who did it, and you will never be given credit for it. I wish you to know that I am not one of those who you declare have "drifted upon the sands of disaster," nor am I one of those who you say "may be drifting." Therefore, the saying of Sam Jones concerning the "hit dog that hollers," does not apply in my case.

It seems to me that your interest and concen for the honesty of some of our preachers should have been broad enough that you would have made an appeal to the people of the 18 charges in our Conference who failed to pay their pastors' salaries in full last year. Why not appeal to the people of those charges who are indifferent about meeting their obligation with their pastors, sending them away to another charge with a portion of their salaries unpaid? When you have done that, your article will have some degree of consistency in it. There is not one standard of honesty for the pastor and another standard of honesty for the members of the church. You say that when a charge fails to pay their pastor's salary it is "unfortunate," and dishonest, "if he earns it." Do you mean for one to infer that the pastors of those 18 charges in our Conference last year who did not receive their salaries in full were so trifling, lazy, and sorry that they did not earn their salaries?

Again, I wish to respectfully deny the charge that you make that I would try to justify a minister or anyone being dishonest. My intention is far from that. My idea is to place the blame equally on the people of a charge who fail to pay a pastor the full amount of the salary promised. Your argument that a pastor may not presume on his salary is unfounded and unreasonable. Every other kind of laborer works in a spirit of expectancy with regard to compensation for his work, and why, Mr. Pessimist, may the pastor not also labor in the same spirit? Your argument indicates that you would justify the people of a charge or church for not meeting their obligation with their pastor when you infer that the pastor should detract from his holy and divinely consecrated work of the Gospel ministry to engage in secular work to meet his financial obligations just because the church people whom he serves are either indifferent or dishonest with regard to his salary and send him to another charge with a portion of his salary unpaid. Consequently he must leave behind financial obligations not met.

Your charge that "some preachers fail because they have never learned the worth of a dollar," may be true in some cases, but I venture the statement that those who have never learned to "wiel dar azor on their faces, a brush on their shoes, or an iron on their pants," are not the preachers who do not receive their salaries in full, but they are the well paid and fully paid pastors who can afford to repose in a barber's chair, mount the bootblack stand and call the pressing club as aids to a comfortable life. The pastors without financial worries do those things.

Finally, Mr. Pessimist, I believe you will have the respect of the host of readers of the HERALD, and will obtain the honor and credit for your noble undertaking in endeavoring to accomplish the task of "saving some of our preachers from financial disaster," if you will cease hiding behind an assumed name and banish the thought of cowardice by hereafter signing your name to your illuminating articles concerning the honesty of "some of our preachers."

If you ever shoot your gun again, be careful that you aim at the right mark.

C. B. WAY.

THE PREACHER AS A SOLDIER

Paul writes to Timothy, "Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." II Timothy 2:3. "As a soldier"—"a good soldier"—"of Jesus Christ." "Endure hardness."

The soldiers in the carnal warfare have to "endure hardness"—of discipline, of drilling, of marching, of exposure to heat and cold, of indignities from superiors, bad rations oftentime, badly prepared—and, somethimes no rations at all.

So Paul likens the preacher life to the soldier life. A life of hardness. To make a good soldier, requires a man of grit, determination, and endurance. An effeminate "sissy" does not have the qualities for a soldier, nor for a preacher, unless tough, enduring qualities can be drilled and disciplined into the one who would be either. And to this end Paul says to Timothy, "Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus." It requires "grace," and plenty of it, to endure as a preacher, and especially as a pastor. Timothy was the pastor, or bishop, of the church at Ephesus. So these words of Paul apply especially to pastors. The pastorate is no "gilt-edge," swivel-chair job. It is a job for the soldier—to "endure" and fight. Foes without and foes within—the church. Paul in enumerating the many evils he had endured, mentioned "false brethren." Perhaps this is the hardest thing a preacher has to endure, especially the pastor. In perhaps the last epistle he ever wrote, in which he said that he was "ready to be offered, and the time of his departure was at hand," he said, "Alexander the copper-smith did me much evil." So every true herald of the Cross has had, or will have, his "Alexander the copper-smith." So if you have not met this gentleman, he's somewhere up the road, and you will meet him in due time. The apostle John had his "Diotrephes," who "loved to have the pre-eminence," who would not "receive" the apostle, nor the "brethren" and forbade "them that would and cast them out of the church," "prating against them with malicious words." And the race of Diotrephes has not died out. It survives unto this day. If you have not met any of his posterity, don't be too optimistic; they are somewhere ahead, and you will meet them by and by. That is, if you are a true herald of the Cross.

The devil hates a true, uncompromising preacher of the Word, and he will make it hard for such a preacher. Of course, if he's a true preacher, he'll get through, but the devil will make it hard for him in some way, or ways. He may kill such a preacher. He has killed many, but such will "have part in the first resurrection," and on such the second death has no power." The "light afflictions" he is called on to "endure" will "work for him a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory," while the "Alexander the coppersmiths" and the "Diotrepheses" are suffering the reward of their evil deeds.

The preacher cannot please the devil if he "cry aloud and spare not!" if he "lift up his voice like a trumpet, and show God's people their transgressions and the house of Jacob their sins." This does not please the devil, and he will make it hard for a preacher of this kind. He will silence him if he can. Put him in prison if he can. Start a scandal, it may be. Anything to make it hard for the preacher, or silence him, or destroy his influence for good. Of course he will lie on the true preacher. Misrepresent his preaching. Start all kind of false reports. Wrest, or pervert, his meaning. Say he preached things he never dreamed of preaching. The devil does not want a preacher to be orthodox. He wants him to be "broad" and "liberal"—up-to-date. It does not make any difference, says the devil, whether evolution be true or false, it will all come out the same. It does not differ what road you are on just so you are on the way. The devil is a pretty good theologian himself, but he does not want the preacher to be so. Like Germany, that taught the glory of war at home, but pacifism away from him. The devil is an apostate. He has no conscience, and is beyond redemption, and he knows it. He is bent on evil, and evil only, and hates the truth, and a good, fearless, honest, orthodox preacher. So he will make it hard for such a preacher.

The people generally are after a popular preacher. But Jesus said, "Woe unto you when all men speak well of you." Of course some will speak well of the true preacher, but not all. He'll have bitter enemies. Alexander the copper-smith. Diotrephes, the Scribes, the Pharisees, and lawyers. Those who have "itching ears, and turn away their ears from the truth, and turn unto fables." To man-made theories, doctrines, philosophies, "science falsely so called," etc., etc., ad infinitum.

So, let us say to the young man, just beginning, or contemplating the Christian ministry, do not expect an easy time. Everybody will not toss you bouquets, nor cheer you with hand-clapping, nor stamping of the feet. But some will meet you with stolid indifference and icy coldness. And sometimes where you would at least expect it. And instead of smiles and warm, hearty hand-shakes, will be frowns and scowls and gritting of teeth. But don't be discouraged, nor recoil from the fight. You are in good company—with Jesus, the apostles, the prophets, and martyrs, and all great and true heralds of the Cross. Be true to God and His Word, and you will come out victorious in the end.

Thy saints in all this glorious war
Shall conquer, though they die;
They see the triumph from afar,
By faith they bring it nigh.

And while the preacher is to "endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ," it is not all "hardness." You will have some flowers along the way, some bright days, some warm friends, and, above all, shouts of victory.

While the soldier must be ready for any emergency, trained and disciplined to buckle on the armor at a moment's notice, and with cool determination meet the foe, he has days of respite and relaxation and amusement, and so does the true preacher. But he must never forget that he is a soldier, and relax into indifference, and let his armour become rusty, and his weapons out of condition to fight.

And there is the home-coming for the soldier. The day when mothers, sisters, wives, sweethearts, and friends come out by hundreds and thousands to see "the boys come marching home."

The war is over. The victory's won. The "hardness" is forgotten amid the joyous occasion. So it will be some day to the true preacher. When he has finished his course, having "fought the good fight and kept the faith," he'll receive the "crown of life that fadeth not away."

J. F. Dozier.

I AM MUSIC

Servant and Master am I; Servant of those dead and Master of those living. Through me spirits immortal speak the message that makes the world weep and laugh and wonder and worship.

I tell the story of love, the story of hate, the story that saves and the story that damns. I am the incense upon which prayers float to Heaven. I am the smoke which palls over the fields of battle where men lie dying with me on their lips.

I am close to the marriage altar and when the graves open I stand near by. I call the wanderer home; I rescue the soul from the depths; I open the lips of lovers and through me the dead whisper to the living.

One I serve as I serve all; and the King I make my slave as easily as I subject his slave. I speak through the birds of the air, the insects of the field, the crash of waters on rock-ribbed shores, the sighing of the wind in the trees and I am even heard by the soul that knows me in the clatter of wheels on city streets.

I know no brother, yet all men are my brothers! I am the father of the best that is in them and they are fathers of the best that is in me; I am them and they are of me.

For I am the instrument of God.
I am Music!

—Author Unknown.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?

If the record of all He did is true,
And the record of all he said,
Then the Christ to me is more than man—
The Lord Divine instead.
For I hardly think that a man would say
The things which the Lord Christ said.

Would a good man say, as the Lord Christ said,
To the weary and sin oppressed,
"I am the way, the truth, the life,
Come unto me and rest?"
Would a good man say, as the Lord Christ said,
"Come unto me and rest?"

Could a mere man do what the Lord Christ did
By the lake of Galilee,
Recall to life from the sleep of death,
And still the raging sea?
Could a mere man do—and the records say—
He stilled the raging sea.

The widow's son of far-off Nain,
And the man of Bethany,
And the turbulent waves of the angry lake,
Call oft across to me—
Could a mere man do what the Lord Christ did
In the land of Galilee?

—Anna Temple, in The Congregationalist.

—The first newspaper ever published was the Roman Acta Diruna (Daily Deeds). It appeared in 691 B. C., but it is not known whether it was of parchment, board or brick. The first daily newspaper was published in Germany, and the first advertisement—offering a reward for two stolen horses—appeared in a London newspaper in the 16th Century.

The WORK and the WORKERS

Spencer

On Sunday, October 24, I had the privilege of meeting Rev. D. A. Braswell and his people in Spencer, both in the Sunday school and the morning preaching service. It was a pleasant visit in every way. They are now meeting for work and worship in a chapel secured from the Episcopalians. It is a neat, comfortable building for services.

Our people there have purchased a lot 60 by 145 feet, well located, and have the lot about half paid for. They are carrying on bravely, seem to be cheerful and happy in the work, and are looking forward to greater things in the months to come. They must have financial aid if they are to go forward rapidly. It was a rainy, rainy Sunday morning, so I did not have the opportunity to look around and make some calls I should like to have made. The prospect here is good.

Albemarle

On Sunday afternoon I drove to Albemarle for the night service. Mrs. Dixon spoke in our church in Albemarle at 11 a. m. and I preached at 7 p. m. The congregations were good and gave earnest heed to the Word. They have been without a pastor since October 19, Rev. H. W. Kelly having giving up the work on that day to return to his native state. The people of Albemarle are to be very highly commended because of their attitude toward Brother Kelly. They paid him in full for the year, though he was with them a little less than 10 months. And one of the members settled for him a hospital bill of $45.

I wish in this way to express my very great appreciation for this generous spirit on the part of our people in Albemarle. May God bless and direct in the selection of a pastor for them another year.

Please Be Praying

Again we ask all our people who are interested in the progress of the Kingdom through the Church we call our own to be praying very earnestly that God, our Father, will direct every action of the Annual Conference in its sessions from the opening moment to the closing moment. Pray that His Spirit may have right-of-way in the elections, in the committee reports, in all the deliberations, and especially in the appointment of every pastor.

Thank You, Dr. McCulloch

We thank Dr. McCulloch for his timely editorial on the front page of the HERALD last week. Please look it up and read it again and let its truth soak in. In his article, "The Near Approach to Conference," we read: "It should not be overlooked that one of the important offices of the Annual Conference is to determine where the ministers are to labor next year. The problem cannot be best solved without taking all charges and all ministers into view. All requests for particular ministers for particular charges should be made with the understanding that the interests of the Church as a whole are not to be sacrificed in order that these requests may be granted." . . . "When two churches insist on having the same man for pastor, it is impossible to gratify both, and sometimes it is really better for both when the minister is sent to neither."

Don't Move Unless There Is a Reason

As a member of the Stationing Committee for four years I have never sought to move a pastor until I could feel that there was a valid reason. Now, I am appealing to charges and delegates not to seek to move your pastor unless there is a reasonable reason for the move. Ministers, in the main, should serve longer pastorates than they do. Moves must be made and one move sometimes necessitates another, but let us be sensible and righteous about the moves.

Come praying and trusting that God will lead in all the moves that are made, and that no unnecessary moves may be made.

Appointments

October 31, 11 a. m.—Chestnut Ridge, Orange.

October 31, 3 p. m. and 7 p. m.—Liberty.

November 2, 2:30 p. m.—Conference Faculty, Grace Church, Greensboro. Every member of the Faculty is urged to be present. All young men expected to be examined are expected to be present at 4 p. m.

November 3, 9:30 a. m.—Meeting of Annual Conference, Grace Church, Greensboro, N. C.

Yours in the Master's service,

A. G. DIXON.

AN EPOCHAL PERIOD IN HUMAN HISTORY

The greatest period in human history up to that time were the three and one-half years covering Christ's ministry—from His own baptism at Jordan to the Church's baptism at Jerusalem—for out of it have grown the moulding events of an entire dispensation.

But may we not be at the threshold of another epochal period, greater even than the former? May "signs" seem to point in this direction, in consequence of which there is a widespread growing expectancy of some coming event of transcendent importance.

Says the World's Evangelical Alliance of London, in its recently issued annual invitation to the Universal Week of Prayer:

"Evidences that our Divine Lord is preparing some new thing for us, and that He is about to display His power and to manifest Himself to the Church, it may be in person, encourage us to unite in prayer."

What a profoundly significant statement! And it challenges attention, not alone for what it says, but because appended to it are the signatures of bishops and archbishops, moderators of assemblies and presidents of councils, men whose names command respect and compel attention.

—The Prison News is the name of a newspaper "for the prisoners, by the prisoners, and of the prisoners" of our State's Prison at Raleigh. A copy of the first number is on our table. It is a neat, newsy sheet, and reveals a good spirit in the hearts of those prisoners who produced it. It evinces respect for prison officials, gratitude to ministers and other religious workers who come to the prison to serve the prisoners. It publishes a dishonor roll containing the names of those who have violated prison rules. Out of nearly 1,500 prisoners, only 53 are listed in this "dishonor roll." We gladly put The Prison News on our exchange list.

—Knowledge and timber should not be used until they are seasoned.

Denominational Enterprises

ENTITLED TO IT

What can be said of the church who is indifferent to his obligations to those in heathen lands still deprived of the Gospel the church is commissioned to impart to all peoples of the earth?

It is perfectly plain that the Christian who will not help, as he is able, thus to send the Gospel is lacking in loyalty to Jesus Christ, disobeys God's explicit command, and violates his church membership vow by thus disregarding the claims and needs of mankind.

Often we pride ourselves on our rich heritage in this great, free land, and regard alien peoples, especially of the Far Eastern lands, as vastly inferior, but overlooking the fact that all is traceable to the work of Christians centuries ago who took the Gospel to our ancestors, and we are directly the product of the very same kind of foreign missionary work which the church of today is required to do in behalf of less favored people.

If the ancestors of the peoples of heathen lands had been blessed with Christianity as were ours, we doubt not that in many respects their descendants today would be our equals.

Since they did hand down rich bestowments which they secured without the Gospel's light and power what would they have attained to and have achieved for their successors if they had enjoyed the blessings of Christianity?

Strong intimation of this is given by the fact that the leaders of the church in Japan, China, India, etc., who are but slightly removed from heathenism, with no background of religious influences, teachings and standards, and the established worship and helpful agencies of the church, stand today as the peers in intelligence, piety and much else of the Christian workers from foreign lands.

And already they are making valuable contributions to Christian literature, religious, educational, medical, and other benevolent works, and are taking high rank in official positions, and adding thereby to the prestige and progress of Christianity in their lands.

We of today have little of which to boast, since so much was bequeathed to us out of the devotion, high ideals and principles, and the character and service of those who preceded us, and makes more insistent the demand that we obey God and give His Gospel to other needy peoples.

As to heathen peoples, whatever be their racial conditions or social attainments and allied considerations, they are all reduced to the one great fact that "God has made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth."

And it matters not what are their religious beliefs and practices, for they, without knowledge of God, are unable to attain to the possession and enjoyment of the best things of life.

Only unto those who know of the fathomless love of the Father manifested in the Son can the one Savior of the world bestow his blessings which enrich this life issuing into life eternal.

Regardless of how far the seeker after truth reached with their dim tapers all failed, as Buddha, for example, who claimed to have discovered the secret of salvation, but could not reveal God, nor offer a remedy for sin, much less, present a personal Saviour.

His own limitations, self-evident and repressing, restricted him to set formulæ and rules applicable to himself and all who would follow him, and in which there was, there could be no room found for the benefits to be obtained from the sufficient sacrificial work of a perfectly acceptable Redeemer.

All he could claim he had reached, or could offer to other struggling men was to follow his teachings, and find escape from the evil life by the extinction of consciousness—sinking into Nirvana.

How pitiably insignificant, utterly unsatisfying is such a response to the soul's outreachings after God, and His measureless blessings of life.

What more can be desired, what human need is not met, what aspiration of soul is not satiated in the fullness of Christ's love, His atoning sacrifice, His promises and bestowments, and who rightly, with unquestionable authority declared "I am the way, the truth and the life."

It remains for each of us to ask, Am I doing all I ought to extend the Kingdom? Am I doing all I ought for the foreign missionary work of my own church?

Fred C. Klein.

BOOK EXCHANGE

A suggestion was made during the Pastors' Summer Conference that it would be a fine and profitable thing if our pastors would bring any good books to Annual Conference and make exchanges. Perhaps many of us would like to read other books than our own. So we will get the privilege of them without cost. I will be glad to keep a record of those who give them and who get them. If this will be of any service to the brethren I am glad to give it.

H. Freo Surratt.

Jesus

I know of a world that is sunk in shame,
Where hearts oft faint and tire;
But I know a name, a precious name,
That can set the world on fire;
Its sound is sweet, its letters flame;
I know of a name, a precious name—
'Tis Jesus.

I know a Book, a marvelous Book,
With a message for all who hear;
And the same dear name, His wonderful name,
Illumines its pages clear;
The Book is His word, its message I've heard;
I know of a name, a precious name—
'Tis Jesus.

I know of a home in Immanuel's land
Where hearts ne'er faint nor tire;
And His marvelous name, His own dear name,
Inspires the heavenly choir;
Hear the melody ringing, my own heart singing
I know of a name, a precious name—
'Tis Jesus.

—Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE TWO SACKS

This is a story "auntie" told, and I am going to tell it again, to you.

"Once upon a time, so we read, there was an old man who wore ever and always two sacks; one was swung over his shoulder and hung down his back, where he could not see it, while the other swung in front of him, so as to be ever before his vision. Thus equipped, the old man spent his life traveling about from place to place, adding to his collection as occasion offered.

All the little kindnesses he received he promptly deposited in the sack behind him; these being out of sight were soon out of mind, also. In the other sack he treasured up all the sins and mistakes committed by people whom he knew or met, and these he kept bright and fresh by drawing them forth and constantly and rapturously looking them over.

One day as he was journeying along in his usual complacent manner he was very much astonished to see another man approaching him who also wore two sacks, and who wore them in exactly the same fashion as he wore his own.

He stopped, looking at the man and his burdens sharply, then pressed forward and began to feel of the sack in front with much curiosity, asking at the same time what it contained.

The other cautioned him, anxiously, about touching too carelessly or harshly his "good things," and explained that there he kept in front of him, where he could see and count them over at any and all times, his own good deeds; thence he took, glowing with pride, a coin placed on the contribution-plate, some mittens given to a crippled boy, a shawl presented to a needy girl, and even a benevolent smile which he had generously bestowed upon one whom he thought beneath him.

The first traveler interrupted this display with a question as to the contents of the bag behind. That, the bearer admitted, he used to slip his own "little mistakes" into. He felt angry and chagrined, also, when it was suggested that the sack which held these "little mistakes" appeared to be much the fuller and heavier. He had believed that when he put those slips of his out of sight he had also safely concealed them from all other eyes as well. His angry retort, however, died upon his lips when a third man, equipped like themselves, drew near.

"What do you carry?" the two inquired of the newcomer; "let us see what you have."

The third sack-bearer spoke brightly and cheerily, and seemed full of strength and love and life and gladness.

"Willingly!" cried he; "right willing will I show you. In the sack before I carefully treasure all the good deeds I see performed by others."

"But!" they cried, "it seems so full; it nearly touches the ground. Is it not very heavy?"

"Oh, no," he smilingly replied. "Oh, no, it is not heavy; the weight is only such as sails are to a ship or wings to an angel. It helps me onward. And, beside, I love to bear it. Even heavy weights would not be burdens if we loved them."

The two looked with ever-growing curiosity at the bag behind the stranger, for it was, or appeared to be, entirely empty; and when they examined it more closely they saw a great hole in the bottom of it. They asked about this.

"Oh, that?" said this strange being, "that is a hole I made on purpose. I put into that bag all the evil thoughts or words or suspicions I hear of people, and, as the hole is there, these drop out and are quietly lost, so I have not weight to drag me backward."

Do you not think, young folks, that we may all draw a little moral from this story?—Nellie W. Baker.

THE BEACON

It was over. The little casket had been lowered to its final resting place; friends had come with expressions of sympathy and gone their way. Through it all the young mother had not shed a tear. Her eyes were hard, glittering. The heaving of her bosom told of the pent-up storm within. Now she and Aunt Kate were alone in her little room in the gathering dusk.

"I suppose you think the minister's talk was beautiful," she said, "but I say it is all humbug! Don't talk to me about the love of God. I say He is cruel, cruel! Baby was all we had, Aunt Kate. We had dedicated our lives to him. He was so bright, so beautiful, so full of promise. And, now—"

Aunt Kate said nothing in reply. If the minister's beautoful words of comfort had failed to touch a responsive chord, it seemed useless to her to try to add anything. She struck a match and lit the gas. Then she blew out the match and sat down.

"Poor little dead match," she said musingly, "where is the life that was within you? A moment ago you had the power to light a beacon of hope and cheer or burn a city to the ground. But I was cruel; I called your light into being only to snuff it out. Now you are only a little useless stick. What? What is it you are trying to say? That is your life up there in the gas jet? Ah, I see! If I had not struck you, you would have remained useless. Now your light will live as long as I need it."

From the other side of the room came the sound of a sob, then another and another. The floodgates were opened. Presently Aunt Kate heard a rustle as of someone slipping to her knees.

"I see it now, Aunt Kate," said the young mother. "Baby is not dead. He has only gone to light a beacon on the other shore—a beacon that, please God, will lead me back from the worldliness and selfishness into which I have been drifting. God is good, Aunt Kate. Henceforth I shall strive to live for Him instead of for myself."—Youth's Companion.

—In the opinion of Dr. Harold D. Judd, of Detroit, bad eyesight has less to do with auto accidents than is commonly supposed. Poor vision with alert thinking, he believes, is better than keen seeing and bad judgment. "A man with only 50 per cent visual efficiency and a 100 per cent mentality would make a more careful driver," he claims, "than a man with perfect eyes and half mentality. Observation has shown that the man with the perfect eyes and full intelligence is liable to be more careless than the man who knows his eyesight is bad, but who is mentally normal."—The Pathfinder.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

HOME MISSIONARY EXECUTIVE SESSION

The regular quarterly meeting of the Executive committee was held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, West Circle Drive, High Point, on October 7. There were ten members and five visitors present. The Foreign department held its meeting during the morning, and the Home in the afternoon. There were twelve visitors in the College dining room for lunch.

Reports from the various committees were heard. There are six students receiving aid from the Scholarship Loan Fund, and two have had to be refused this aid. The committee expressed its appreciation for Miss Annie Livengood's service in organizing auxiliaries during the summer. Henderson was decided upon as the place for the next Branch meeting; but the time has not been set.

There will be a special appeal made to all the churches to observe the custom of each member giving a day's wages for a Thanksgiving offering to go to the Children's Home. The churches will also be asked to conduct Thanksgiving programs. A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions for Mrs. W. D. Fogleman of Mebane, who recently died. Mrs. R. M. Andrews urged that all the secretaries write to Miss Esther Ross, missionary editor, concerning their work in order that it may be reported to the Herald.

MRS. C. L. WHITAKER.

Bess Chapel Auxiliary, Woman's Home Missionary Society

On Wednesday after the second Sunday in July, 1925, the women of Bess Chapel met at the parsonage with Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Bingham and organized an Auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. J. C. Beam; first vice-president, Mrs. D. H. Bess; second vice-president, Mrs. T. L. Beam; Recording Secretary, Miss Essie Foster; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. B. L. Heavner; Treasurer, Mrs. Z. M. Dellinger.

We hold our monthly meetings regularly. New members are being added to our roll at practically every meeting. We now have 22 members.

In November we held a Thank Offering Service at the church. Collection amounting to $12.50 was sent to the Children's Home at High Point.

At our January meeting the Society pledged $1000.00 on the building of the proposed new church.

This amount to be paid in five years.

We have been very busy during the spring and summer to meet our pledge of $200.00 which we must pay each year. We are very thankful to report that in August we reached our goal.

During April and May we gave a play. From this we received $113.75.

The sale of ice cream during the summer amounted to $33.85.

On the evening of July 23rd we gave a banquet for the members of the Kiwanas Club, of Lincolnton, for this we received $35.

On August 24th we gave a banquet for the members of Cherryville Chamber of Commerce receiving $43.50.

After paying expenses for play, ice cream supper and banquets, we have a total of $200.95.

We have a two-acre cotton patch for the summer. All have enjoyed working it. We expect to receive a good amount when it is gathered.

Our Society is in its infancy yet, but we hope to grow. The outlook is bright; and the members are very enthusiastic and are working together.

We want always in our business and social meetings and all activities our Society may engage in to feel that God is with us. We hope in the coming years to do more for our Master and his Kingdom.

MRS. B. L. HEAVNER, Cor. Sec'y.

MARRIED

Lambert-Ross

At the home of the bride on Wednesday evening, October 20, at seven-thirty, the writer united in marriage Miss Julia Ellen Ross to Dr. W. L. Lambert, both of these young people being from Asheboro. Mrs. Lambert is a daughter of State Senator Arthur Ross and Mrs. Ross and is a young woman of splendid accomplishments. She is a graduate of the North Carolina College for Women at Greensboro and has specialized at Columbia University. Dr. Lambert is a promising young physician in Asheboro and has a growing practice. Mrs. Lambert is a member of our church here while Dr. Lambert is a steward in the M. E. Church, South.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Harrison-Lewis

At the home of the bride, Saturday evening, October 23, at eight o'clock, Miss Nan Lewis became the bride of Rev. N. M. Harrison, of Greensboro, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. R. Nelson, of Henderson, brother-in-law of the groom, and the writer. Mrs. Harrison is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lewis, of Asheboro, and is a talented young woman. She is a graduate of Converse College of the class of 1926 and was one of two students of the college to have placed on her diploma the word Artist. She has specialized in music and has rendered fine service this summer in our church here. Rev. Mr. Harrison is one of our foremost young ministers and is associate pastor of Grace M. P. Church in Greensboro, N. C.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Ballard-Martin

A wedding of much beauty and unusual interest was solemnized Tuesday evening at the West End church when Miss Lena Elizabeth Martin became the bride of Rev. Emory Lester Ballord, pastor of the church, with Dr. A. G. Dixon and Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., officiating.

The bride is the charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Martin, of Stuart, Va., and has made her home in Greensboro for the past eight years. Up until the time of her marriage she was secretary of the president of the High Point college.

Mr. Ballard is the pastor of the West End church and has a host of friends here and throughout the state. He made his home in Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C., before moving to this city.

After a wedding trip of two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Ballard will be at the home of Dr. Glascock on Asheboro street for some time.

Lemons-Trogdon

A wedding of interest took place in Greensboro when Miss Hallie Trogdon became the bride of Roy Lemons. The vows were heard by Rev. Dr. Edwards in the presence of a few people.

Mrs. Lemons is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Trogdon of Stokesdale. She was a successful teacher in the public schools for several terms and her marriage will be of interest to many folks in different sections of the country.

Mr. Lemons is the son of Mr. D. P. Lemons, also of Stokesdale.

Mr. Lemons received his education at Oak Ridge Institute and Carson Newman college, Tennessee. He is a young man of sterling qualities and good business ability.

They left after the sumptuous supper was served at the bride's home, for Western Carolina. They will be at home in Stokesdale at present.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for October 31.—What are the good points of the various races in America? Acts 10:24-38.

Topic for November 7.—How Make War Against War? Matt. 7:12; Isa. 2:1-4.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for October 31.—The evils of strong drink. Proverbs 23:29-35. Devotional reading, Ezek. 34:17-22, 28-31.

Lesson for November 7.—The Fall of Jericho. Joshua 6:12-20.

—The North Carolina Experiment Station has undertaken a study of the whole meat curing question. These studies have been summarized and published in bulletin number 249 of the experiment station series written by Earl H. Hostetler and L. H. McKay of the office of swine investigations. This bulletin is now available on request.

—A movement has been started in Great Britian looking toward the preservation of the cottage at Blantyre on the Clyde in Scotland in which David Livingstone was born, as a "permanent home for the personal relics" of the great missionary and explorer.

—This cold wave brought snow to Western North Carolina last Monday. The cold extends throughout the South.

—Growers in western North Carolina will harvest a fine crop of apples this fall.

—Winston-Salem has paid all claims in full. We have done this in eight months.

C. MORGAN COMPHER.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid all Claims In Full

1. State Street, Lexington.
2. West End, Greensboro.
3. Charlotte
4. Grace,
5. Siler City,
6. Asheville,
7. South Winston,
8. Asheboro,
9. Calvary.

Paid A. C. B. in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Fountain Place.
3. Melton's Grove.
4. Thomasville, First
5. Orange.
6. Mt. Pleasant.
7. Concord.
8. Richland.
9. Winston-Salem,
10. Welch.
11. Mt. Hermon,
12. Pleasant Grove.
13. English Street, High Point.

Churches

1. Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson Circuit.
2. Jerusalem, on So. Davidson.
3. Yadkin, on So. Davidson.

Paid College Assessment in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Grace.
3. Mebane.
4. Glen Raven.
5. Burlington.
6. Fountain Place.
7. Reidsville.
8. South Winston.
9. English Street.
10. Asheboro.
11. Concord.
12. Graham.
13. High Point, First.
14. Welch.
15. Mt. Pleasant.
16. Siler City.
17. Charlotte.
17. Gibsonville.
18. Orange,
19. Granville.

Churches

1. Julian on Tabernacle.
2. Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit.
3. Gray's Chapel on Randolph.
4. Bethesda on North Davidson.

Paid on College Assessment

1.	Randolph	$31.00
2.	Tabernacle	24.00
3.	Littleton	24.00
4.	Halifax	22.80
5.	Forsyth	19.90
6.	North Davidson	18.00
7.	Alamance	17.88
8.	Why Not	17.00
9.	West Forsyth	15.40
10.	Enfield	15.00
11.	St. Paul	15.00
12.	Spring Church	14.50
13.	West Thomasville	10.55
14.	South Davidson	10.28
15.	Friendship	10.00
16.	Saxapahaw	8.48
17.	Weaverville	8.25
18.	Spencer	6.70
19.	Randleman	5.25
20.	Albemarle	5.00
21.	Thomasville First	5.00
22.	Union Grove	1.00

Paid on A. C. B.

1.	High Point, First	$280.00
2.	Forsyth	257.39
3.	Burlington	215.00
4.	Davidson	165.16
5.	Tabernacle	160.65
6.	Henderson	150.00
7.	Mebane	142.50
8.	Glen Raven	131.25
9.	Reidsville	117.50
10.	North Davidson	110.00
11.	Bess Chapel	84.92
12.	Flat Rock	80.62
13.	Randolph	80.00
14.	Why Not	72.03
15.	Haw River	70.00
16.	Lebanon	70.00
17.	Saint Paul	60.00
18.	West Forsyth	57.75
19.	Littleton	56.75
20.	Granville	51.17
21.	Mocksville	50.25
22.	Friendship	48.25
23.	Anderson	43.45
24.	South Davidson	42.33
25.	Spring Church	42.16
26.	Halifax	38.60
27.	Albemarle	35.00
28.	Roberta	31.50
29.	Saxapaw	30.01
30.	Weaverville	30.00
31.	Yarborough	29.00
32.	Pinnacle	27.80
33.	Randleman	26.35
34.	Vance	26.06
35.	Cleveland	25.50
36.	Rockingham	25.00
37.	Midland	23.80
38.	Kernersville	21.72
39.	Pageland	21.05
40.	Chase City	19.20
41.	Spencer	10.00
42.	Alamance	10.00
43.	Denton	8.88
44.	Union Grove	8.50
45.	Guilford	4.45
46.	Draper	3.22
47.	Fairview	2.50

Paid on G. C. B.

1.	Concord	$430.00
2.	Winston-Salem	336.44
3.	High Point, First	232.98
4.	Orange	189.00
5.	Mt. Pleasant	178.69
6.	Forsyth	136.86
7.	Whitakers	118.85
8.	Enfield	99.28
9.	Spring Church	97.69
10.	Why Not	90.85
11.	Mebane	89.60
12.	North Davidson	85.42
13.	Glen Raven	78.94
14.	Saxapahaw	69.54
15.	Randleman	64.31
16.	Vance	63.33
17.	Randolph	62.65
18.	Fountain Place	62.16
19.	Alamance	61.55
20.	Gibsonville	58.68
21.	Littleton	58.25
22.	Burlington	52.68
23.	Graham	50.39
24.	Tabernacle	49.01
25.	Mt. Hermon	46.56
26.	Richland	45.72
27.	Pleasant Grove	40.30
28.	Thomasville First	39.60
29.	Guilford	37.28
31.	Midland	35.20
32.	Haw River	35.00
33.	Halifax	33.68
34.	Mocksville	32.84
35.	Friendship	32.78
36.	Anderson	31.22
37.	Davidson	28.90
38.	Henderson	27.50
39.	West Thomasville	24.30
40.	Pinnacle	22.75
41.	Cleveland	21.08
42.	St. Paul	20.84
43.	West Forsyth	20.76
44.	Lebanon	20.05
45.	Bess Chapel	17.98
46.	Flat Rock	16.34
47.	Roberta	14.05
48.	Granville	13.50
49.	Denton	13.14
50.	English Street	13.02
51.	Rockingham	13.00
52.	South Davidson	13.00
53.	Union Grove	9.58
54.	Lincolnton	7.52
55.	Yarborough	7.40
56.	Weaverville	7.00
57.	Mecklenburg	6.50
58.	Chatham	5.04
59.	Pageland	4.30
60.	Porter	3.35

A. G. DIXON.

—Terrible earthquakes have recently devastated Armenia, leaving 100,000 people homeless. California has also had slight tremors.

—Aroused by numerous mail robberies during the past few months, President Coolidge and the members of the Cabinet have decided to call U. S. marines into action to protect the mails.

This is not the first time marines have been called upon to protect the mails. In 1921, twenty-five hundred marines were assigned to guard the mails and they succeeded in largely reducing the number of mail robberies.

—John Masefield, noted English poet, dramatist and author of stories for boys, has arrived in the United States for a visit. Some of Masefield's boys' books are: "A Mainsail Haul," "Book of Discoveries," "Jim Davis," "Martin Hyde."

—Dr. Dublin, statiscian of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, estimates the economic value of all the lives of the people in the United States at fifteen hundred billion dollars. Yet you probably would not take that for what remains of your life. Would you?

—Lassen Peak, in California, the only active volcano in continental United States, was shaking and rumbling last week although no violent eruptions had occurred. Scientists say that the rumbles and earthquakes are caused by a variation of pressure in the volcano.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Sledge

March 17, 1926, Eliza Thomas Sledge, a member of Spring church Methodist Protestant church, exchanged his cross for a crown. He fell asleep just as the day was drawing to a close, about 6:30 o'clock p.m., as he had lived, confiding in his Lord and Savior. Brother Sledge was born in Warren county, North Carolina, August 5, 1849. He was the son of Wm. Sledge and Elizabeth Shearin Sledge. He professed faith in Christ at the early age of sixteen years, and joined the church at Spring church, which is located in Greenville county, Virginia, his parents having moved to said county when he was just a boy. He was twice married, first time to Miss Octavia Harriss of Warren county, N. C., in 1887. This union was blessed with one child, which died in infancy and the mother soon followed in 1888. In 1897 he was married to Miss Florence Jordan whom he leaves to mourn his departure. This union was also blessed with one child which also died in infancy. Brother Sledge was a man of rare personality, very quiet and unassuming, yet always gentle and firm in standing for the right. When the writer was just a little child Brother Sledge was her Sunday school teacher, and wielded an influence that always lasted for good. He loved his church, and his pastors; they were always accorded a warm welcome to his home. He was a splendid citizen, always law-abiding, a good neighbor, loved and respected by all who came in contact with him, a devoted husband, faithful to the beloved wife until death. He is and will be greatly missed in his community and in his church. But to her, the companion and to the other relatives which consist of one sister, Mrs. Eliza Smith, and four half brothers, W. C., A. G., Bud, and Sidney W., also one half sister Mrs. Nettie Ephs, we would say, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." Funeral services were conducted in the home by his pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton, assisted by former pastors, Revs. J. B. O'Briant and H. S. B. Thompson, after which he was laid to rest in the family burying ground at his home, nephews acting as pall-bearers.

MRS. H. EUGENE VASSAR.

Jordan

William Mason Jordan, (generally known as "Babe") was born in Northampton county, N. C., April 20, 1849, died in said county August 28th 1926. Son of William Grodwyn Jordan and wife, Judish Mason Daniel. He was married three times; first to Miss Albiney Stanhope Brantley; two daughters blessed this union; the second marriage was to Miss Alpha Richard Moore; five children, three sons and two daughters, blessed this union, one son died in baby-hood; the third marriage was to Miss Marseline Moore; one daughter blessed this union, the wife dying each time when the children or child as the case might be were very small. Brother Jordan very faithfully filled the place of both father and mother in the home, caring for his children and living to see all of them married and starting out in life for themselves, except one son, who is now in the U. S. Navy.

During the pastorate of Rev. W. F. Ashburn on the Spring church circuit, about thirty-one years ago, Brother Jordan was converted and joined the church at Lebanon Methodist Protestant church, where he held his membership until God saw fit to call him hence.

He told Brother Ashburn just two weeks before his death that he was still headed for the Glory world. Brother Jordan was a man of a jolly disposition, never seeming to worry or fret over things of this life, but always seeing something better and brighter ahead, could always cheer his fellow-man when coming in contact with him. He was sick only a few weeks, but bore it with great patience, feeling that he would not get well again. He was active in his church and nearly always a member of the official board, until the infirmities of old age prevented his being longer active. His funeral was conducted in his home church, Lebanon, by his pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton, assisted by former pastors, Revs. J. B. Oriant and H. S. B. Thompson. The church was filled with people, and the floral tributes were many, attesting to the esteem and respect in which he was held. Brother Jordan is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Lula Warrick, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Bessie Rash, Mrs. Maud Ingram; two sons, Robert and Daniel, also three sisters. Mrs. Elisha T. Sledge, of N. C., Mrs. John Griffin, of S. C., Mrs. Honeycutt, of Ga.

His body was placed in the home burying ground to await the final resurrection. "The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

MRS. H. EUGENE VASSAR.

Rowell

Mrs. Martha Ann, crossed the mystic river January 3, 1926. Born March 5, 1850, she travelled along the sands of time the full scriptural allotment of days; and she not only lived long, but well. Departing, she left behind foot-prints pointing Godward and Heavenward. She embodied the brightest type of Christian character, she was the soul of sincerity and conscientionsness, the impulses of her life took deep root.

Early in life she gave her heart, and life to Jesus, and united with Spring church, Methodist Protestant church, and was ever after true to her Lord and church. In young womanhood she was happily married to James W. Rowell and God blessed this union with 48 years of life with each other. The husband preceded her to the glory land some years ago. She never had any children of her own, but in act became a mother to the motherless and fatherless, having reared three children into manhood and womanhood; namely, Charles Rowell, now of Washington, D. C.; Herman Rowell, now of Baltimore, and Mrs. W. H. Camp, Jr., of Garysburg, N. C., who lived with her and cared very tenderly for her in her last days of suffering, due to cancer of the mouth. Despite the fact the pain was intense and cure hopeless, she never murmured, but always said she would soon be going on to be with the loved ones gone on before. She was a sister of the late G. F. Robinson, of Spring Church, and so well known in our Annual Conference. The last of her family of her generation passed out when God took her home to be with Him. So interested was she in her church and our Children's Home she left her birthday offering to be given even after she passed away. Her funeral was conducted in the home by former pastors, Revs. J. B. O'Briant and H. S. B. Thompson. A beautiful tribute to her life was also paid by her physician, Dr. D. B. Zollicoffer. Her body was then tenderly laid to rest by the side of that of her beloved husband in the graveyard they had selected in their grove at home. We feel that truly it may be said a true Sister in Israel has fallen. May all her relatives and friends be sustained by the same Father she worshiped and served with such consecrated devotion.

Her Niece,
MRS. H. EUGENE VASSAR.

Gibbs

Ada McDorah Gerringer born June 6, 1878, died October 8, 1926. She was married to Henry E. Gibbs January 21, 1897. To this union were born ten children. Nine living at present. One preceded her while it was yet in infancy. The living children are: Mrs. W. M. Helman, Burlington, Mrs. W. E. Coffin, Ossipee, Rev. F. L. Gibbs, pastor of the Methodist Protestant churches at Liberty and Siler City, Mrs. Everett Qualls, Burlington, Lindley H. Gibbs, Burlington, Mozelle, Richard, Occe and Royce of Elon. One sister, Mrs. Mylisse Conklin, Ossipee. Seven brothers: F. B. Loy, Missouri, W. A. Loy, Elon College, J. P. Loy, Greensboro, J. F. Gerringer, Gibsonville, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, pastor of Calvary Methodist Protestant church, Greensboro, E. L. Gerringer, Draper, and J. D. Gerringer, Washington, N. C.

Besides the above she leaves to mourn their loss, her husband, H. E. Gibbs and a great hosts of relatives and friends.

The funeral was conducted in Fair View Methodist Protestant church by her pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, of Fountain Place Methodist Protestant church, Burlington, assisted by Rev. S. W. Taylor, of First M. P. church, Burlington, Rev. W. S. Alexander, pastor of the Elon College church, Rev. C. M. Isley, pastor of Fair View Charge, and the Rev. T. F. McCulloch a Superannuated minister of the North Carolina M. P. Conference, Greensboro, The service was held Sunday, 2:30 p.m., October 10th, before a congregation of approximately a thousand people that filled and overflowed the church. Said to be the largest congregation ever on these grounds. The pall-bearers active and honorary were of the Alpha Pi Delta, of Elon College. The active were J. M. Green, P. L. Green, Romie Davis, James Brown, Frank Alexander, and Paul G. Hook.

The floral offerings were large and very beautiful. Seldom do you see an offering that could equal in any respect.

Mrs. Gibbs was a woman of high ideals. Lived on a plane above reproach and had a live and active interest in all that was about her, whether her family, her friends, or her church. She loved the good and was devoted to it. Her devotion to her church was at once remarkable and commendable; punctual in her support, and her attendance upon its services, and gave liberally of her time to its interests. She was at all times solicitous of the well-being of her family spiritually as well as in matters temporal.

In her going she will be missed to an unusual degree both by her family, to whom she meant so much of comfort and inspiration as well as the church to which she was so loyal and helpful.

She "being dead yet speaketh" with an influence that is both christian and unbroken throughout her entire life, for she was converted in early childhood and united with the church. Her body has been laid away, but thank God her influence for good has not been lifted and we believe that for many a day her direction will be felt in her home, among her own immediate family, in and among her friends and in the church as well.

May the God of all the earth who doeth right, remember the sorrowing in great mercy and may they "sorrow not as those who have no hope" for them "will God bring with him," and there shall be no more tears "for the former things have past away."

G. H. HENDRY, Her Pastor.

Fogleman

Mrs. W. D. Fogleman, nee Mary Ann Elizabeth Durham, widow of the late Rev. W. D. Fogleman, passed to her reward September 28, 1926.

Mrs. Fogleman had been remarkably active up to a few months ago when she became very seriously ill, suffering intensely at times seemingly at death's door, yet showing an unusual vitality reacting after each severe attack with a reserve strength that surprised the doctor and her friends.

She seems to have gotten much out of life. She was fond of association with her friends. She loved her church and the Kingdom, was much interested in the activities of the church, attending regularly and taking an active part in the services of the local church, awaiting eagerly each week the coming of the church papers—both the Methdist Protestant and the Herald—, attending for a number of years almost without a break the Annual Conference. She had been a Christian from childhood.

She longed to get well and believed she would even after her nearest friends and loved ones could see no ground for hope. Yet when she realized she must go, she was submissive and gave every assurance that all was well.

During her husband's successful career as a pastor, which continued unabated up to his last illness, she stood nobly with him in every good work, sharing his problems and assisting in overcoming difficulties.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson—Mr. H. C. Nicholson was to her as a son—and two grand daughters, Elizabeth and Edna Nicholson, now students in High Point College, which institution was fondly loved by Mrs. Fogleman. T. M. JOHNSON.

Bowman

We were at the Home when she paid her first visit to present the first Bibles she gave to the children, and not feeling qualified for the work we asked Miss Millie if she would not like the matron's place. She said she did not feel qualified but had thought she might take up some kind of work but said she was living with her brother and did not know what about it, for she did not want to leave her brother when she was able to work for fear of having to go back to him when she became disabled for work; but we see how she was blessed, was not any burden to any of her people in her last days. Miss Millie was cared for in the Children's Home and different times she had sickness which required many steps but we have never heard anyone in the Home complain but waited on her with the greatest care. Miss Millie was a great woman. We loved her and we believe she loved us. She was so liberal and the liberal soul shall be made fat. We believe that her life and all that she possessed was laid on the altar. She had told us different times she was ready to go and only had one desire to be filled when gone. She expressed her desire that all her possessions be used as she had used them, for charitable purposes. She was very much interested in the High Point College, Foreign Missions and Moody Bible Institute. She had given quite a little to the Moody Bible school, but said at her death she still wanted them to have more of her means. She did not want to use her money in dress or for her own comfort, but truly she lived for others. Surely it can be said that she was a faithful steward with what the Lord had entrusted her with. She had many treasures laid up when the Lord called her to come up higher and enter into the joy of her Lord. "Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many."

MARTHA PARSONS.

Fogleman

We, the members of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, Ladies' Aid Society and Ladies' Class of The Methodist Protestant Church of Mebane, N. C., desire to offer a tribute of love and esteem to the memory of Mrs. W. D. Fogleman, whom the death angel called home on September 28, 1926.

Be it therefore, resolved,

First, that we the members of these organizations express a deep feeling of loss and sorrow in the going of Mrs. Fogleman. She was ever faithful to the activities of the church and loyal to her friends.

Second, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to her relatives and commend them to Him who said, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, the Ladies' Aid Society, a copy each to The Methodist Protestant, The Miissionary Record, Methodist Protestant Herald, The Mebane Enterprise and a copy sent to the family.

MRS. T. O. PENDER,
MRS. JACK SMITH,
MISS PATTIE JOBE,
MRS. GEORGE WYATTE.

McCuiston

Rosa Ann McCuiston was born July 19, 1842, died September 30, 1926. Her age was 84 years, two months and eleven days. Her maiden name was Rosa Ann Bullock.

She was united in marriage to William James McCuiston in 1868. Her husband preceded her to the spirit world January 28, 1921. To this union were born eight children. One died in infancy. The seven surviving are: Mrs. R. B. Hastings, T. C. McCuiston, J. C. McCuiston, Mrs. J. W. Smith, Mrs. Anderson Shields, Mrs. W. R. Knight, and Mrs. J. S. Linville. Two sisters also survive. They are: Mrs. Bettie Calhoun and Mrs. Mary McMichael. There are surviving also thirty-six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. McCuiston became a Christian and united with Bethel M. E. church when sixteen years of age and lived a good, consistent life all these years, her membership remaining in the church of her childhood. Those who knew Mrs. McCuiston best could testify to the fact that she was a good woman, a good wife and mother, and a good neighbor.

The funeral services were conducted on October 1st in the Kernersville Methodist Protestant church by L. W. Gerringer, assisted by the pastor of the Kernersville Baptist church. The large congregation present testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Her body was laid to rest in the Kernersville cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

All those who mourn have our prayers and sympathy. Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh with the morning. We shall rejoice when by and by we are gathered with our loved ones in the sweet by and by.

L. W. GERRINGER.

Our Children's Home

New Hope, Why Not, Children's Recitals, $25.10; Flag Springs, Why Not, Children's Recital, $12.04; Fair Grove, Why Not, Children's Recital, $15; Piney Grove, Kernersville, $4.24; Mitchells Grove, Guilford, $2.84; Concord, Saxapahaw, $1.40; Bethel, Alamance, $3; Bethel, Alamance, month of August, $7; Salem, Saxapahaw, $2.73; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $4.50; W. H. M. S., by Mrs. H. A. Garrett, $250.00.

Sunday Schools

Harris Chapel, Vance, $3.85; High Point, First Church, $29.32; Friendly class, Calvary, Greensboro, $2.50; Burlington, $31.79; New Hope, Vance, $2.50; Siler City, $5.27; Fair Grove, Why Not, $2; Glen Raven, Burlington, $2.90; Maple Spring, Forsyth, $4.21; Flat Rock, Vance, $3.50; Bethesda, Halifax, $1.80; Shiloh, N. Davidson, $11.67; Charlotte, First church, $6.80; Friendship, Haw River, $5; Mill Grove, Midland, $4.40; Grace Baraca, Greensboro, $15; Mebane, $10.15.

Other Contributions

Miss Maggie Willis, Asheville, a nice quilt; Miss Martha Parsons, Mitchells Grove, Guilford, persimmons, cabbage, and a nice fat hen already dressed.

Please remember to get all contributions to be reported to conference, in by October 31st. Again I thank you.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

—Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, has been designated by President Coolidge as one of the three American members of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague. The two other representatives of the United States in the court are Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Palestine, Flat Rock Charge.—Our Sunday school continues to run, interest good, and attendance good. Prayer meeting good.

Last or fourth quarterly meeting held at Palestine Saturday. Only a few attended; each church on charge was represented. The meeting was held in a spirit of love and harmony. Three of the churches paid pastor's salary in full. The conference voted unanimously for the return of the present pastor.

The conference adjourned to meet again in a called meeting Saturday before the fifth Sunday in October at 2:30 o'clock at the parsonage.

Pastor Trogdon filled his appointment Sunday, with another good sermon. Sorry the reporter could not be there. Church officials were elected for coming year. Only one more appointment before conference. Our prayers are for the return of Pastor Trogdon.

(Miss) GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

First Church, Burlington.—October 17th was a good day for our church. Our pastor, Mr. Taylor, preached at the morning service to the young people. His subject was the "strength of youth." At the evening service Rev. L. W. Gerringer, pastor of Calvary church, Greensboro, preached also to the young people. His subject was "Life's greatest Question." Both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Gerringer were at their best and gave us two wonderful sermons. Large congregations attended both services.

Last Sunday was denominational day at both First church and Fountain Place. All Methodist Protestants living in Burlington with their membership elsewhere were especially invited to attend one of the services at each church on that day. A number of them responded and both churches had a good day.

On the first Sunday the officers for the year were installed. They had been elected the previous Sunday.

Last Sunday was "pay up day" and the collections were very gratifying. However all pledges are not paid and we are still somewhat behind with our claims. But we hope as usual to go to conference with a clean sheet and all claims paid in full.

On last Sunday morning our pastor, Mr. Taylor, began a series of meetings which will probably last through the fifth Sunday. He expects to have visiting speakers at some of the services. The fifth Sunday has been designated as join the church day. And some have already signified their intention of joining on that day, while we earnestly hope there will be many others to join also.

REPORTER.

Pinnacle and Mt. Zion.—It has been some time since we have reported to the paper, but this is no evidence that we have been idle.

We have held revival meetings in all churches on this work, beginning at Shoals second Sunday in July with Brother Whitaker and the Sunday Club from Pilot Mountain as help. Both did good work, which was greatly appreciated; two members were received here.

Third Sunday in July we began at Mt. Zion with Brother Taylor as help. It is useless to say the preaching was fine. We had a good meeting. Fifteen received in the church as a result.

We began at Pinnacle in September. Billy Sunday's Club from Winston-Salem was our help here, which did fine work.and resulted in the accession of eight new members, and we hope to receive more at our appointment next Sunday.

The first Sunday in OctSber we began at Pilot church with the Winston-Salem Club as help again, which rendered faithful service through the meeting, and while we haven't had any accessions to the church yet, we feel assured there were lasting impressions made that will bear fruit later on.

Conference will soon be here again, and we will have completed 17 years of service with this people, one half of our itimerant life up to the present time.

During all of these years it has been a pleasant, and we trust a profitable, sojourn. The people have shown us many kindnesses, and expressed their appreciation of us, in different ways for which we feel very thankful to them.

The fourth quarterly conference was held Saturday, the 16th, with all churches represented, and we appreciate the fact that they voted unanimously for the pastor's return.

I trust we may have a good and pleasant conference.

A. L. HUNTER.

Efland, Orange Charge.—Brother Williams held his last service before conference the third Sunday night. At the eleven o'clock service we had communion, election of officers for the coming year, and a good sermon by Mr. Williams. All officers of the passing year were re-elected. Our church went over the top with all her financial duties, we are glad to say.

Our Ladies' Aid and W. H. M. S. met at the parsonage Wednesday evening, October 20th, and quilted a quilt for the Bethel Home. Our societies have been very active and have accomplished much during the year. We hope to do more in the future.

MRS. E. S. TAYLOR, Reporter.

The Postal Card, W. F. Kennett, Editor

Thanks to Dr. Dixon for his kind words in regard to Granville Circuit and the pastor and pastoress.

The visit of Dr. and Mrs. Dixon was very much enjoyed.

"Multiplication by Divison.

The pastor of Granville recommended that out of the present two rural charges in Vance county a new charge be created and he expressed the opinion that the three charges would result in a forward movement in Vance county. We have here in Vance county eight Rural churches with our Henderson Station in the center.

Fine

Now comes President Dixon's report in Herald of last week in which he refers to the great progress on Forsyth Circuit in the past few years and he sees Mt. Carmel—Mt. Carmel "beautiful for situations" a station in a few years.

And Then

The question of dividing Tabernacle and making two better charges out of the one. This is true a question of "multiplication by division" and is just "fine." Such steps really encourage us and we feel like "moving on." Come, let us go forward.

A Word About Granville

We are profoundly thankful for the splendid closing up of the year's work on Granville. We have here a fine people. The low price of cotton is discouraging; but we believe if they will "honor the Lord with their substance and the first fruits of all their increase" that the Lord will so add his blessing that the people will be much happier and that the Methodist Protestant church in these parts will go forward by leaps and bounds. So may it be.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our pastor filled his last appointment before conference, yesterday afternoon and preached a good sermon. Officers were elected for the coming year and business straightened up in general.

Our Sunday school attendance is good, especially the Senior class. I have never been in a Rural Sunday school where there is as good an attendance of the older people, not old, either, for we don't get old at Friendship, but the fathers and mothers are there. They don't believe in sending children to Sunday school, they come and bring them.

Right many of our young people are away now, some in college while others are teaching and we miss them when they are gone.

The W. H. M. S. is moving on nicely, too. At our last meeting we met with our president and completed two quilts which we voted should be sent to the Bethel Home. Our next meeting is with Mrs. Herman Isley on Saturday before the third Sunday in November, at 2:00 p.m.

MRS. WHITNEY ISLEY.

Halifax Circuit.—We are finishing up the second year as pastor of this charge. Our protracted meetings have been good. The first Sunday in August, we began our special meeting at Eden church. Brother G. H. Hendry of Burlington, assisted me here. A few conversions, and two accessions to the church. On the third Sunday in August Brother Paschall assisted me at Union, and at Harmony on third Sunday in September. We had some good preaching at both places, but no conversions or accessions. On second Sunday in September we began our special meeting at Bethesda church. Brother J. E. Pritchard, of Asheboro, assisted me here. We had a good revival, several conversions and five accessions to the church. On fourth Sunday in August we began our special meeting at Hollister. I think this was the best meeting on the work. Several reclaimed and six conversions and six accessions to the church. The last meeting was at Ringwood. We had a good meeting, four conversions and three accessions.

We held our fourth quarterly conference at Bethesda church, Friday, October 22; all of the churches represented and reports good considering the short crops and the low price of cotton.

I believe our people will be able to make as good report as they did last year. Mr.

J. W. Hardy is the delegate to conference, Mr. F. V. Avent, alternate delegate. The delegate was instructed to ask for the return of the present pastor.

We want to thank the people of the charge for their hearty co-operation and many kind favors shown us since we have been on this work. The people of Halifax charge are certainly a good people to serve, they have not ceased to pound us since we have been on the work, but we have been so busy we have not reported it. We are still receiving, ham, chickens, eggs, gas for the car, and other things.

We will close and leave something for the reporters to report.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Our pastor filled his appointment the second Sunday afternoon with a good sermon, and he was with us again yesterday, this being his last appointment before conference. New officers were elected or re-elected, Class-leaders: Dr. W. A. Johnson and Mr. Henry Wilson; Superintendent of Sunday school, R. P. Butler. The stewards of last year were re-elected. Trustees, G. W. Apple, E. W. Butler and Henry Wilson. We feel that Brother Reed has done all he could for us since he has been our pastor and he and his wife have a warm place in our hearts; we trust that if it be the Lord's will they may be returned to us for another year. Our Sunday school is still movin along nicely, also the C. E. S., though last night we were rained out, the first meeting we have missed since being organized.

Our new church has not been started yet, though plans are still being made and we think ere long work will begin.

Pray for our success.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Calvary Methodist Protestant Church, Greensboro, is closing another good year. There have been numerous material improvements made at the church during this year, among which we note the carpet placed by the Ladies' Aid at a cost of several hundred dollars, an annex to the hut at a cost of six hundred dollars, concrete walks laid around the church at a cost of $152.80. This last improvement is a gift from friends of the church but not members, with the exception of $2.80 which was paid by one of our members. The largest gift on the walks was $75., this being given by a son of one who gave his life to the gospel ministry in the Methodist Protestant church.

One of the best attended quarterly conferences of my ministry convened at the church October 18th. Dr. A. G. Dixon, President of the Annual Conference presided. The business of the conference was transacted in a very fine spirit. The reports from the various organizations indicated that substantial progress had been made in the different departments. Pastor's salary was fixed at $1500 with house and telephone rent to be paid by the church, the same as last year.

Perhaps the most disappointing thing about the year's work is the small increase in church membership. Twelve have been received this year. That is about half of the smallest number this pastor has ever received in one year before. To be exact the smallest number received in one year before was twenty-three. It is easily understood then, I think, why the pastor is disappointed in this particular. The pastor is glad, however, that he has not left undone anything that he could reasonably be expected to do in his efforts to win the unchurched.

Our evangelistic meeting began October 3rd, with the largest communion service at eleven o'clock that we have had. The Rally Day exercises were held at 7:30 in the evening. A well prepared program was given and a very good offering received. On Monday evening Dr. J. D. Williams of Reidsville and Roy Bethune of High Point College came and had charge of the preaching and singing throughout the ten days with the exception of two or three evenings that Brother Bethune was absent. I have never listened to a series of better evangelistic sermons than Brother Williams brought us. The singing was of a high order. Brother Bethune's solos were especially enjoyed. A male quartette from Glenwood sang for us one night. That too was good. Miss Lois Allred of the Asheboro Street Baptist Church was on hand each evening and rendered good service at the piano. Good congregations at each service showed their appreciation of the service rendered by all of these workers. Only a few unchurched people, however, attended the meeting. We are sure that, while there were very few visible results, such as professions and additions to the church, the Christian people were edified and strengthened by the services. May Calvary have better success in the years that are before her.

I am still convinced that the Calvary church has one of the very best opportunities of any church in the North Carolina Annual Conference. And I believe that the people here will see their God given opportunity and will develop it to the glory of God and in the salvation of many in this community. If the people here could only see their way clear to give a pastor an adequate support so that unhampered and unhindered, with a free mind and happy heart he could give his best to the work, it would go a long way toward the progress of the church. However, this must not be interpreted as a suggestion that the salary be increased. Never yet have I asked for an increase in salary. Nor have I ever moved for an increase in salary. But surely no church can blame a pastor for desiring an adequate support for himself and family.

May the Spirit of God have right of way in our Annual Conference.

L. W. GERRINGER.

Weaverville Circuit, Clarks Chapel.—The Ladies' Aid Society gave a chicken supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hampton in Weaverville, Tuesday evening, October 19, for the benefit of the church. It was a great success and everyone enjoyed his supper.

The Christian Endeavor Society is planning a masked Hallowe'en social for the evening, October 30.

The people were very generous with funds and time two weeks ago when they were putting a new roof on the church.

Our Sunday school is still progressing, and we hope that the conference year will end with each week bringing greater improvements.

REPORTER.

Asheboro.—While the year now drawing to a close has not brought to our church the measure of success we would like to have had, yet we feel that much good has been accomplished. We have received during the year thirty-nine new members with possibly a few more to join next Sunday. Congregations have been good most of the year, the annual and general conference budgets have both been paid in full and it is the purpose of those in authority to pay pastor's salary in full. At the fourth quarterly conference held last week Brother Elmer Rich was elected alternate delegate to Conference. Brother W. L. Ward is the delegate and expects to go.

The new carpet for the church is to be put down this week while the pews for the church are on their way somewhere between Michigan and Asheboro. We are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to seeing these in place.

There were many visitors here last week from Greensboro, High Point, Thomasville and other places, some of them being here Wednesday evening for the marriage of Miss Julia Ross to Dr. W. L. Lambert, while others were here Saturday evening for the marriage of Miss Nan Lewis to Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr.

Brother A. C. Cagle, an aged member of our church, was called to his heavenly rest on October 10. Brother Cagle was a good man and no doubt was ready when the summons came. The infirmities of age had made it impossible for him to attend church much for quite awhile. The funeral was conducted in the home of Mrs. I. M. Thomas, a daughter of the deceased, and burial was at Star, N. C.

Yesterday afternoon the writer conducted the funeral of Brother Thomas Winburn Andrews at Charlotte M. P. Church. Brother Andrews was ninety-four years, three months and fifteen days old and had been a remarkable man. A more extended notice will appear next week.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Mecklenburg.—I have been reading the splendid reports from the different fields with a marked degree of interest. This caused me to think others might like to hear from Mecklenburg.

Our fourth quarterly conference met October 23rd with Stallings church. The business was transacted harmoniously. The reports in part were encouraging, but the finance was not as good as before the Annual Conference. The delegate was instructed to bring back the present pastor by a unanimous vote of the conference. After an expression of thanks, the pastor advised that some certain actions must be taken, or it would not be possible for him to return. This received a very hearty consideration and an effort is being made to meet the pastor's requests. In case they could not meet the desired ends, delegate was left without further instruction. The farmers of this charge are right much discouraged, after three bad years in their farming interests, terminating in the low priced cotton of this year. We cannot expect space to tell all things of interest, so we will just touch in high places.

The happy wedding bells have been echoing among us again. A very quiet but interesting wedding took place Sunday at 6:30 o'clock p.m. It was the happy lot of the writer to unite in the bonds of holy matrimoney, Miss

Ethel Furr and Mr. Jesse E. Hartis. Miss Furr was the very attractive and popular young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Furr of Matthews. She is a graduate of the Matthews High School, with honors; accomplished in musical talent and attainments, a member of Stallings M. P. Church, leader, organist, and class teacher in the Sunday school. Mr. Hartis is the splendid young son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Hartis of Indian Trail. He is talented, industrious, and of first rate habits, fair business training, and a member and leader in the Baptist church.

The ceremony was pronounced at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of a group of close friends and relatives. The ring ceremony was used, and to say the least was very beautiful. After the ceremony, the party sped away to the home of the groom's parents where a sumptuous dinner was served in several courses and the party entertained wholesomely and in a splendid manner. Their large circle of friends predict for them a happy and useful career. To this end the writer prays, and extends hearty congratulations.

ROBERT SHORT.

High Point.—After a duration of two weeks, the series of meetings, conducted by the pastor, Dr. Brown, closed Sunday evening. While no striking results were visible, many members of the church feel that their spiritual strength has been quickened and revived, and "a right spirit has been renewed" within them. Dr. Brown has faithfully portrayed the plain, practical, old-fashioned gospel of the crucified Lord and Savior, who came to earth to redeem mankind. Surely these earnest and thoughtful efforts have not been in vain, but like "bread cast upon the waters" will return after many days in full and abundant harvest.

The stewards will hold a meeting this (Tuesday) evening, which will be the closing one for this conference year. We learn that collections have been good, and finances are in splendid shape. To-morrow (Wednesday) evening the fourth quarterly conference will convene in the church, and at this time reports from the various organizations of the church and Sunday school will be heard.

The Mission Study Class held a delightful meeting Monday afternoon with increased attendance and interest. The new Study book, "Moslem Women," whose authors, Rev. and Mrs. Samuel M. Zwemer, were themselves missionaries. The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. H. A. Garrett, being taken from "The Rose Jar," a book as delightful as its name, was commenced, and the first chapter was given by Mrs. Paul S. Kennett, assisted by Mrs. L. J. Diffee and Mrs. C. L. Whitaker. Current Events were given by Mrs. R. T. Pickens, who also led the question Box, the answers being given in a very interesting manner by Mesdames S. S. Coe, J. H. Pritchard, C. W. Vance, and S. D. Shelton. We were much pleased to have two visitors present, Mrs. E. J. McKinley of Morgantown, W. Va., and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell from Welch Memorial church of this city.

We are much pleased to note that Mrs. Pickett Montgomery has improved rapidly after her operation at the High Point Hospital, and has returned to her home on Steele St. Mr. Clifton L. Whitaker, Jr., of Gastonia, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, at the College.

We are pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. H. Frishkorn and little daughters of Wellsville, Ohio, in High Point again. They spent the winter months of last year here, but returned to their home for the summer. They have taken rooms at Miss Delia Barker's on Thurston Street for this winter.

The friends of Mrs. J. E. Perryman will regret to learn that she is ill at her home on Lindsay Street.

Spring Valley, Vance Circuit.—We are still at work, if we have not reported for some little while. Our Sunday school is doing nicely, with a good attendance every Sunday. Fifty-three present yesterday.

We recently organized a Cradle Roll in the Sunday school with eighteen enrolled. This is a very important part of the Sunday school work, and by this we expect to reach lots of mothers and fathers who do not go to church.

We are planning to enlarge the church in the very near future. We went want to build some Sunday school rooms, fix the pulpit, and several other things that need to be done.

Our Christian Endeavor Society met last night and had a splendid program. The subject was Co-operation. We were glad to have members from Flat Rock work with us, and we hope to have them again.

Brother Chambliss was with us last Sunday and gave us a very helpful sermon. We sincerely hope that the conference will send him back to us next year.

We are practically at the close of another conference year, and while we feel that we have done a great deal to aid God's Kingdom, we know there is still more to be done. Pray that we may do our best for the Master here at Spring Valley.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

Hollister, Halifax Charge.—Our pastor filled his regular appointment with us yesterday. He preached a wonderful sermon. I think it was one of the best sermons I have ever heard him preach.

We all like Mr. Spencer fine and we hope conference will send him back to us.

We elected the officers for the church yesterday. There were not many changes made in the official board. The Lord's Supper, was also administered yesterday.

Our church is a little behind financially, but we hope to pay up in full before conference.

On the second Sunday in October we elected our officers for the Sunday school. We elected our same superintendent, Mr. E. T. Ellington, who has served us so faithfully for the past two years. I don't think you can find a man that is any more faithful and loyal to their Sunday school than Mr. Ellington. Our assistant superintendent is Mr. W. J. Gallaway. Our Sunday school is better now than it has been. The people are taking more interest.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary is doing good work. We have received some new members recently. Our next meeting will be at the parsonage. We want all the members to be present.

May God's blessing be upon the conference.

KATHLEEN SHEARIN, Reporter.

Rockingham.—Our Sunday school had a raise of three members Sunday, October 24. We had 94 present this time. Our collection was $3.10. The superintendent made several announcements in the regular order. We had a splendid time with our class work Sunday.

Our fourth quarterly conference met Monday night, October 25. The meeting was presided over by our pastor, Brother Trollinger, the chairman of the conference. The reports were extra good. We came to know that our financial conditions were better than we had expected. All the reports were interesting and showed progress along every line of work. The following group of officers were elected by this conference:

Board of Trustees—Mr. Holmes Colins, Mr. Hall Sneed, Mr. R. F. Gardner, Mr. W. M. Connell, and Mr. Adam Cable; The Board of Stewards—Mr. R. F. Gardner, Chairman, Mr. Hall Sneede, Mr. Adam Coble, Mrs. D. E. McKenzie, Mr. Guthery Taylor, Mr. Hohuies Colins, and Mr. W. M. Connell; the Class Leaders—Mr. R. F. Gardner and Mr. W. M. Connell; Sunday school Superintendent, Mr. Holmes Colins; Church Treasurer—Mr. D. E. McKenzie. These were the elected officers for another year at present. Our Sunday school will have their election at the first of the new year and other officers are to be elected at a later date.

With prayers and hope for the best success for the coming conference year to every church.

(Miss) BIRDIE CONNELL.

Vance Charges.—I wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ellington for boarding and lodging. They received me into their home last August a year ago for one of the family, where I remained until the fall when I returned to the Seminary and having completed my course there in May, returned to this field and have been making this my headquarters ever since. I cannot begin to thank these good people for their kindness. They have been so nice to me. But this isn't all. Just last week they gave me $30.00 to purchase an overcoat. I cranked up "Old Tin Lizzy" and drove to Mr. W. C. Hight's store and asked Brother Eugene Wiggins to show me an overcoat. He very politely took me back in the clothing department where he showed me one of the best overcoats in stock, at the same time explaining that this was an overcoat that he and Brother Charlie Brocket had decided to give me. In the meantime I had placed an order for a blue serge suit, so you can very readily see that the $30.00 didn't go stale. But this isn't all Brother and Sister Ellington did; they donated four shirts, cuff buttons and a little cash occasionally. The Lord only knows just what they have done. Space will not permit me to say more this time. It was a few days later when I met Brother J. B. Glover who invited me to drive by his home, I knew something was floating around in the air, so didn't wait to be asked the second time. Soon after I arrived he and his wife presented me with $6.00 to purchase a pair of shoes.

Brother Sam Reavis, cash $10; Brother Robert Britt, $5; Uncle Henry Burwell, $1.50 to purchase a neck tie. It is said when people want to get rid of their pastor they dress him up just before conference. If this be true I have received orders to migrate. May God richly bless the givers and let me live to be of more service to this people.

M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Siler City Charge, Liberty Church.—Yesterday was Rally Day for all the organizations of the Liberty church. The Sunday school started things going by having 194 present. A good program had been prepared by our good superintendent, Mr. Boyd Reitzel.

At the eleven o'clock hour Dr. T. C. Amick, of Elon College, brought an instructive and inspiring message. A male quartette composed of Messers Arthur Amick, Casper Riddle, Egbert Riddle and J. A. Riddle furnished the special music. We were glad to have these good people with us.

A business meeting was held after the morning service. 579 votes were cast by ballot to elect 22 new officials for the new conference year. The system used proved satisfactory and a good spirit prevailed. The most important officials elected were: A. S. Pickett, chairman Board of Trustees; W. M. Hanner, Secretary and Treasurer and chairman of Board of Stewards; Mrs. J. O. Overman, organist; Boyd Reitzel, superintendent Sunday school; and T. L. Smith, Doorman.

The Senior and Intermediate C. E. continue to have their good meetings. The societies are doing nicely under their new supervision.

The evening service was well attended regardless of the rain and mud. The children gave their Rally Program. Everyone enjoyed the speeches and songs, and the children showed that they had been well trained by the committee. A Rally Day offering was taken for our educational institutions.

We are glad today because the charge, including Liberty and Siler City churches, is sending to Mr. Idol checks to cover all claims in full. F. L. GIBBS.

Burlington.—Last Sunday was Family Day with the Burlington church. A congregation that well filled the auditorium was present for the morning service, and a very helpful spirit prevailed. The attendance at night was good, considering the weather, though not so large as in the morning. Sunday was also the beginning of a week's revival service to be held at night only. The pastor will be assisted in the meetings by a number of visiting speakers. On last night—Monday night—Brother Hendry preached.

Tonight, Rev. E. G. Overton, pastor of West Burlington M. E. church, will preach. Other speakers are to follow, among them being Rev. Mr. Anderson of the Georgia Conference. We are hoping and expecting to reach a number of people through these services.

Our finances are about up to the usual mark at this period, and that means that we are like the rest of churches that do not do right in this matter—considerably behind at the close of the year. However, Burlington pays up, and will do so this time. The church officers have all been elected and installed for the ensuing year, and on next Sunday the stewards will try to cover the 1927 budget by pledges. The "Honor System" will be used again. The members will be asked to come to the church between the hours of two and four Sunday afternoon and make their pledges. Very satisfactory results followed this plan last year, and we hope that it may be even better this year.

Just seven more days remain of this conference year—and my, what busy days! The church is rallying splendidly to the closing programs, and we are expecting the year to end with all of us grateful for the past and full of hope for the future.

Death has invaded our church family recently, and our hearts go out in tender sympathy to these homes. Brother and Sister Henry Graves lost their baby, little Edna Frances; Sister Coble, widow of the late William Coble passed to the great beyond on Sunday the 17th; and just recently Sister A. P. Cates lost her youngest son. He died in Toledo, Ohio, but was brought home and interred in Green Hill Cemetery, Greensboro. Several of our members are sick. For all of these our hearts are full of sympathy and prayer.

We are thinking about the conference, and praying that the Great Head of the Church may have His way in every deliberation and every conclusion. S. W. TAYLOR.

Saxapahaw Charge.—Our fourth quarterly conference met at Concord church on Saturday before the third Sunday. A large number of the officials were present, also some visitors. It was a very harmonious conference from beginning to end. Class Leaders from Salem and Orange Chapel churches reported that prayer meetings are being held at the churches two Sundays in each month. The conference, before adjourning, voted unanimously for the return of the present pastor for the fifth year. This vote of confidence is appreciated by the pastor.

Brother T. H. Moore, who was kept from church several weeks on account of sickness, is again occupying his pew at Concord.

Salem church recently gave the pastor another pounding, consisting of almost everything for the pantry. Members from the other churches have, also, made donations from time to time. Surely a better people cannot be found anywhere in the North Carolina Conference. H. L. ISLEY.

P. S. The trustees of Salem church have just placed a beautiful bulletin board on the road in front of the church. All the churches on this charge now have bulletin boards except Orange Chapel. H. L. ISLEY.

Reidsville.—We are hoping to send our delegate to conference with all claims paid, so pastor and people are busy at this time getting up their report.

At the last quarterly conference it was unanimously voted for the return of our present pastor.

The official members of our church were elected Sunday before last. Prof. J. H. Allen was reelected Superintendent of our Sunday school.

Our special meeting began the third Sunday in September and lasted nearly two weeks. Rev. G. F. Millaway of Liberty did the preaching. His sermons were inspiring and helpful to all who heard him.

The Ladies' Aid Society met last Monday with Mrs. H. S. Dixon. New officers were elected for the ensuing year.

The Philathea class met last Monday night with Misses Lola and Effie McCollum and transacted much business of interest to the class. REPORTER.

Draper.—On October 13th, we held our fourth quarterly conference. We reported some time ago that it would be held on the 23rd. We had with us at this time Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon.

Our quarterly meeting was called to order by Brother Dixon in Chair. Scripture, 12th chapter of Romans, and prayer by Brother Dixon. All reports read and approved. We raised our pastor's salary $50.00 more. Making salary $950.00 per year. W. H. Troxler was elected alternate to attend annual conference. Last Sunday we had all-day service, which was the old folks' day. A large crowd of old people gathered in. Had Sunday school and preaching at morning hour, and at noon we had dinner out on the ground beside the church which all enjoyed.

After dinner Brother Easter of Leaksville, formerly of High Point, preached to us, and gave a good message.

We were very glad to have some of the High Point people with us last Sunday. I cannot begin to tell who they all were. Here are a few that were here: Brother Ridge, Brother Delks, Brother George. And also we had some people from Martinsville, Va.

All that attended this meeting I am sure got a blessing out of it. At the close of the day our pastor, Brother Ridge, gave us a good message.

There were two converted, one in the evening and one at night. REPORTER.

Why Not Circuit.—It has been some time since this pastor has written a report to the Herald. We have been very busy over here near the center of our state. The work on this charge has been moving along very well, but not so fast as the pastor would like for it to.

We began our revival at Fairgrove church on the first Sunday in August and ran through Friday. Had no conversions here. The church was very much revived. We have some very good loyal Christian Methodist Protestants here at Fair Grove.

Our next revival was at Macedonia church. We had with us as pulpit help Brother George Laughlin of Cedar Falls. He has been the help at this church for the past fourteen years. Brother Laughlin preached some good sermons, but they seemed not to affect very many of the unsaved. Had one conversion. This is also a faithful little band of soldiers of the Cross.

We began our revival at Pleasant Hill church on the fifth Sunday in August. Brother J. H. Trollinger of Rockingham came on Sunday morning and did all the preaching during the meeting. Here we had six conversions and two united with the church. Brother Trollinger endeared himself to the people very much by his good gospel preaching.

Our meeting began at New Zion church on the first Sunday in September. The pastor did the preaching at this place. There were four conversions here, no accessions. Our next meeting was held the fourth Sunday in September at New Hope church. There is a fine bunch of Christian people in this church and community. The pastor did the preaching here and we had a very good meeting. Ten united with the church on profession of faith.

Lovejoy meeting began on the first Sunday in October. It was here that we had the old-

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

time camp meeting. Several families came and camped during the meeting. Dr. and Sister Dixon came and assisted in the meeting.

We had a good revival here. There were between 20 and 25 professions, 15 united with the church.

Our last revival was at Flagspring church, beginning the second Sunday in October. Here Rev. H. L. Iseley was our help. Brother Iseley did some real good preaching. The people here speak highly of his messages. The church was benefited very much by Brother Iseley's stay with us. We had only two reclaimed and no conversions at this church.

The pastor on this circuit feels very much indebted to the good people of this circuit for their kindness and expressions of love. They have made him feel good many times during the year. Some of the good people of Lovejoy gave him a nice Stetson hat. Fair Grove church also gave us a nice Stetson hat. Pleasant Hil church pounded us during the revival meeting. They gave us all kinds of canned fruit, sugar and some cash. New Hope church has dressed up their pastor and his son by giving each a new suit of clothes, also shirts for each.

For all these good things we feel very grateful and pray the blessings of our Heavenly Father upon all. D. I. GARNER.

Shiloh, North Davidson Circuit.—Our Christian Endeavor Society is doing good work in our community. We have forty on roll and a very good average attendance at each meeting. The society meets each Friday night. Last Friday night we met at the home of Mr. C. W. Sink. The meeting was a very interesting one. The discussion was on the Constitution of the United States. Each member present took a very active part in the discussion. We had our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, with us; also Mr. Richard Berrier, of Jacksonville, Fla. After the program was rendered we decided to give a program on the fifth Sunday night in this month at the church. The subject of this meeting will be Love, Hope, Faith and the Cross.

MRS. PROTUS KOONTZ, Reporter.

—Forty-four hogs belonging to two farmers of Pasquotank County were vaccinated by the county agent in time to stop an outbreak of cholera. The hogs were valued at $500.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.
Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.
Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.
R. M. ANDREWS, President

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$170,155.85
H. E. Isley, Burlington,	5.00
C. B. Amick	10.00
Mrs. M. A. Coble	15.00
T. T. Stafford	10.50
Mrs. Agnes Heritage Hall	10.00
Mrs. E. J. Garrett	25.00
R. S. Garmon, Charlotte	25.00
Rev. H. Freo Surratt	10.00
Joseph Little	1.00
Intermediate C. E. Society, Charlotte	1.50
Cash, Charlotte	2.50
William Thomas Winslow	5.00
Rev. T. E. Pierce	15.00
W. J. Spainhower	1.00
Bible Class, Union Chapel, Granville Circuit	10.00
C. L. Whitaker, Jr.	10.00
Spring Church Sunday School	1.46
Arthur Clodfelter	5.00
George Ledford	2.00
Rev. H. L. Isley	5.00
P. A. Clarke	10.00
Miss Ella J. Pearson	5.00
P. L. Bradley	3.00
W. L. Moore	5.00
H. B. Brewer	5.00
Mamie Wright	4.50
Peter L. Thompson	5.00
W. W. Grant, Jr.	12.50
Virginia Lee Grant	12.50
Mrs. R. D. Paschal	5.00
Mrs. L. W. Paschal	1.50
Mrs. Mary Baskett Matthews	3.00
C. E. Society, Spring Valley	5.00
Mrs. C. B. Baskett	5.00
Sidney Harris	2.00
Walter Baskett	25.00
Leon Harris	5.00
W. W. Pearson	30.00
	$170,469.81

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$6,663.61
Philathea Class, Mount Pleasant Church	5.00
M. A. Coble	50.00
Miss Bessie Holmes	10.00
C. E. Bulla	20.00
Calvary Methodist Protestant Church	50.00
W. H. Foust	10.00
W. T. Phillips	1.00
Miss Dora Pair	1.00
Norman Alexander	10.00
N. H. Paschal	50.00
Rev. B. M. Williams	20.00
Mrs. B. M. Williams	10.00
	$6,900.61

WEDDING GIFTS
COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY
Buy at
ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
BLACK FACE TYPE
BIBLES
The Only Self-Pronouncing Black Face Type Bibles Published
Best for Young and Old—Home and School—Teachers and Students
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER — EVEN CHRIST — AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXII. GREENSBORO, N.C., NOVEMBER 4, 1926 NUMBER 51

Pres Elderdice 5dec6
Westminster MD

The Price of Harmony

Two travelers met on the highway and traveled along together. They fell to talking about religion and found themselves in great disagreement. They presently found themselves in hot contention. They were ashamed of themselves for this, and begged each other's pardon, and said, "We would better not discuss matters of religion, for we will never agree."

Then they began to talk about politics. As they proceeded to unfold their views they discovered a wide divergence between them. At first their disagreement was good-natured, but by degrees they were wrought up to contention which developed into bitter quarrel. Again they were ashamed of themselves and made apologies and resolved not to talk on the subject of politics.

Next they turned to science. They soon found that they belonged to different schols. Each was confident that his own school was in the right and the other school in the wrong. They argued long and well, referring to great names and high authorities. The contention reached fever heat and they were almost ready to come to blows. But prudence got the better of passion, and they didn't fight, but made profuse apologies for their loss of good temper. They both saw that for the sake of peace they must beware of scientific topics of conversation.

They traveled on in silence for a time. Then they began to talk on music. They soon discovered that their musical tastes were very different, and that if they would have peace they must change the subject again.

They turned to the fine arts of painting and sculpture with the same result. They could not talk about that without losing equanimity.

They tried industrialism, a subject much in the mind of the world at that time. Should labor or capital be in the ascendency? Should shops be open or closed? Should work hours be increased or diminished? How many days should constitute a week of work? As they talked of these things they waxed warm and then hot and then exploded in terrible outbursts. They were kept from fighting by an incident. Just then they came upon a man who had fallen sick and was lying in great pain by the side of the road.

They stopped to attend to him. They soon discovered what they had not hitherto suspected, that both were physicians. What should be done for the suffering man? Something must be done soon, but what? One of the physicians was an allopath, and he at once prescribed a certain remedy. The other physician was a homeopath, and he said that would only make the case worse. They contended and contended long. In the meantime the sick man had grown better and had proceeded on his way, leaving the two doctors in their quarrel. Presently they discovered that their patient was gone, and they saw how foolish it was to contend further. They had contended until they had grown weary of contention. They resolved to have peace; but how? They said: "We must not talk at all." And they proceeded on their way in silence.

Abusing their Freedom

Several new organizations of lay church workers have been reported in recent years. Some of Mr. Ham's converts were united in Lay Federations. Some of Sunday's converts formed Sunday Clubs. Some of tephens' converts formed Gangs. Perhaps there have been others still. For a time only good reports were heard of these organizations. They were said to be earnest and active and successful in winning people to Christ and the church. But now there are rumors at least that some of the members of these organizations are disgracing their bands by their speeches and their conduct. It was perhaps to be expected that some men would take advantage of the freedom given to inject their personal influence in ways that would be hurtful and not helpful. If our pulpits were thrown open to people indiscriminately, you would perhaps be surprised at first at the character of some of the preachers that would enter them. There are men who would be moved by love of prominence to enter the sacred desk. There are others who would be influenced by some selfish scheme which they would like to advance by advocating it from the pulpit.

It is clearly necessary to guard our pulpits and our churches aaginst abuse at the hands of unholy men.

What Did He Mean?

We recently heard a minister remark in the beginning of his sermon that women of this time are exulting over their emancipation, their new freedom, their achievement of liberty, when as a matter of fact many of them are still in bondage. He did not stop to explain, as he was proceeding to speak of the freedom that men and women find in Christ. What do you think he had in mind in this passing remark regarding the women of today?

—Dr. C. D. Sinkinson has been pastor of Christ Methodist Protestant Church, Atlantic City, N. J., for 32 years, and has just received a unanimous call to remain with the church, and will accept the call. His has been a remarkable pastorate. The collections and disbursements for the past year have been over $15,000.

—Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Spencer, were visitors to the Annual Conference. They are among the main supporters of the new church enterprise in Spencer.

—The addresses of welcome by Dr. Turner for Greensboro's ministers and by Dr. Spahr for Grace church and the response by Jasper B. Hicks, Esq., of Henderson, were enjoyed by the Conference on Wednesday night.

Report of the Annual Conference

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the One Hundred and First Session of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, assembled in the Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Greensboro, N. C., November 3rd, 1926:

My dear Brethren:

Under the blessings of our Heavenly Father we are privileged to meet in Annual Session again to render our accounts to each other and to Him Whose we are and Whom we serve.

May God be praised for His goodness to us, and for whatever of good has been accomplished by Him through us.

Official Acts

November 12—Asked Rev. R. M. Andrews, Rev. Paul S. Kennett, and Rev. P. E. Lindley to take care of the First Church in Winston until a pastor could be secured.

November 12—Released Rev. W. H. Neese from Weaverville because of doctor's certificate stating that it would be detrimental to the health of Mrs. Neese to move to Weaverville at that season of the year.

November 14—Appointed Rev. H. W. Kelly supply pastor of Albemarle.

November 16—Released Rev. J. D. Cranford from Midland and appointed him to Weaverville.

November 16—Released Rev. J. W. Hulin from Randleman and appointed him to Midland.

November 16—Appointed Rev. W. H. Neese to Randleman.

November 20—Appointed Rev. P. L. Kinnaman supply pastor of South Winston.

November 21—Appointed Rev. J. H. Trollinger pastor of Melton's Grove.

December 8—Appointed Rev. F. W. Paschall pastor of Roseneath.

December 20—By the direction of the Annual Conference, and assisted by Rev. S. K. Spahr, D. D., Rev. C. L. Whitaker, D. D., and Rev. Lawrance Little, ordained Rev. E. G. Cowan in Grace Church, Greensboro.

January 17—Released Rev. Fred R. Love fro mthe Kernersville Church.

January 27—Appointed Rev. C. M. Compher pastor of First Church in Winston.

February 1—Appointed Rev. J. H. Whitley supply pastor of Porters.

February 6—At his own request, released Rev. J. R. Gurtner from Connelly Springs.

February 6—Appointed Rev. Roy R. Scarlett supply pastor of Connelly Springs.

March 21 to 28—Accompanied Rev. Lawrence Little and Dr. E. A. Sexsmith through the Conference in a series of Young People's Rallies.

March 26—Signed the transfer of Rev. C. M. Compher from the Maryland Conference.

May 1—Released Rev. C. H. Hendry from Gibsonville.

May 1—Appointed Rev. J. D. Hardy pastor of Gibsonville for the remaining part of the year.

July 1—Released Rev. O. B. Williams from Community Church, Thomasville.

July 1—Appointed Rev. P. E. Lindley to serve Community Church, Thomasville for the summer.

September 15—Released Rev. P. E. Lindley from further service Community Church, Thomasville.

September 15—Appointed Rev. H. W. Mæir pastor of Community Church, Thomasville.

September 15—Appointed Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., associate pastor of Grace Church, Greensboro.

September 15—Released Rev. Dwight L. Fouts as associate pastor of Community Church, Thomasville. Brother Fouts has returned to Duke University and to the M. E. Church, South.

September 19—Rev. H. W. Kelly resigned the pastorate in Albemarle and returned to Texas the following week.

September 19—After the death of Rev. J. H. Bowman, pastor of Chatham Circuit, several pastors very kindly offered their services to help keep the work going properly. Rev. F. L. Gibbs has looked after the work in the main; Revs. A. O. Lindley and W. H. Neese have also rendered valuable assistance.

The Conference Work

During the entire year I have endeavored to respond in every way possible to the call of the High Point College and to the Children's Home.

Have also striven to perform all the duties belonging to the office of President of this Conference without fear or favor, remembering for every act I must give an account to the Father of us all, who is also the Great Judge of us all.

In doing this work I have traveled about 14,500 miles in my own automobile besides many miles with pastors in theirs, and about 3,400 miles by rail; have attended 26 quarterly conferences, 47 committee and board meetings, have written more than 2,000 letters and postcards, and have delivered 197 sermons and addresses. I attended the commencement exercises at Stokesdale and preached the commencement sermon. Also, the commencement exercises at our Mission School at Pine Ridge, Kentucky, and preached the commencement sermon, and assisted in dedicating the new building which is to serve both as a church and a school building. I assisted in dedicating our church in Denton on the first Sunday in August, and our church in Charlotte the first Sunday in October. Mrs. Dixon accompanied me a great deal in the work because otherwise I would have to go alone and she would have to stay alone.

At the request of pastors she has made 56 addresses in the various churches.

A questionnaire sent out to all pastors was answered by 78 and they reveal the following facts:

First, that 53 charges paid pastor's salary in full.

Second, that 10 increased the salary for next year, totaling a raise of $2,270. Four reduced the salary, totaling $775, leaving a gain of $1,495.

Third, that the following charges and churches have paid all claims in full: Charges—State Street, West End, Charlotte, Grace, Siler City, Asheville, South Davidson, Asheboro, Calvary, High Point, First, Reidsville, Henderson, Fountain Place, Burlington, Concord, Winston, First, making two more than last year. Also the following churches: Bethel and Elbaville on Mocksville Charge, Efland and Union Grove on Orange, New Hope on Why Not, Bethel on Alamance, Spring Valley on Vance.

The following paid salary and A. C. B.: Charges—Whitakers, Melton's Grove, Thomasville, First, Orange, Mount Pleasant, Richland, Welch, Mount Hermon, Pleasant Grove, English Street, Enfield, North Davidson, Davidson, Granville, Bess Chapel. Also the following churches: Jerusalem and Yadkin on South Davidson, Byerly's Chapel on Mocksville Charge, Rock Creek on Alamance, Love Joy on Why Not, Fairfield on Cornelius Charge.

The following paid College Assessment in full: Charges—Whitakers, Mebane, Glen Raven, English Street, Graham, Welch Memorial, Mount Pleasant, Gibsonville, Orange, Granville, Mount Hermon, West Thomasville, Bess Chapel. Also the following churches: Julian on Tabernacle, Hickory Ridge on Forsyth, Gray's Chapel on Randolph, Bethesda on North Davidson.

Others will be added to these lists. (See Honor Roll).

Fourth, an increase in membership of 901.

Fifth, the amount of money spent on church buildings and improvements was $29,211, and on parsonages $6,108.

Sixth, that nine churches reported 100 per cent organized; 25 reported 75 or over and 10 reported 50 per cent. The others were under this or failed to report.

Our Sainted Dead

We reverently pause in honor of those of our number who have answered the last roll call, have crossed over the river, and have entered into their reward during the year.

Early in March Rev. George E. Hunt quietly went home, As a shock of corn cometh in his season.

Also one evening in March, about the setting of the sun, after a busy day's work for the Master, and while still performing services for Him, Rev. C. L. Whitaker, D. D., suddenly fell asleep in Jesus. Thus the sun of his day quickly set and left a great shock for his friends.

In April, Rev. J. W. Quick, who had been in failing health for several months, bade farewell to the earth life to join the friends above.

On the second Sunday in August, while on his way to an appointment to begin revival services, Rev. J. H. Bowman suddenly departed to the land beyond. This, too, was a great shock to us all.

Early in the spring, Mrs. Harriet Swain, of Weaverville, widow of one of our former pastors, went home.

In July Mrs. R. G. Koons, wife of the pastor on Anderson Circuit, after very great suffering, went back to the heavenly home.

Early in August Miss Millie Bowman, who had served faithfully in the Children's Home for about 11 years, passed almost suddenly to her home above.

And in September Mrs. W. D. Fogleman, after a lingering illness, was released from her frail tabernacle of clay, and went to join her companion in the mansions above.

Obituary committees were regularly appointed, and will report at the Memorial service on Sunday afternoon.

Extras

Again we wish to assure the President of the General Conference that this Conference still stands ready to assist him in any way we reasonably can in holding Rallies and Institutes in the smaller Conferences contiguous to ours.

Our Children's Home

The Children's Home is growing in usefulness as the years go by. It is the one institution of the Church that comes more nearly appealing to all our people than any other. Nearly all our Sunday schools send a monthly offering to the Home. A closer and more careful follow-up should be made to see that all schools send in their offering monthly. We cannot hope to run and maintain the Home, with its growing numbers and increasing needs without an increased income.

Full report of the Home will be made by the Superintendent, and by the Treasurer, to this Conference.

The High Point College

The High Point College is now in the third year of its history and development, and will graduate its first class in May, 1927. It is one of the most splendid Church College plants in the South. It has a well selected faculty which is rendering faithful and efficient service. Many of us have watched it through the past two years with anxiety and joy—anxiety that the very best possible work might be done and that a good impression might be made upon the Conference of which the College is a part, upon the community in which the College is located, and upon the general denomination; and with joy that this is all being so splendidly done.

While the High Point College was writing the history of its first two years of existence, the close observer could not help being deeply impressed with the spirit of the institution. One only has to visit the College, and study the conditions there, to find that the spirit of happiness and contentment prevails both among the faculty and the student body. The faculty is efficient and handle the work with that ease and grace which might be expected in an old established college. The students speak well of the faculty, of the buildings and equipment, of the food, and of conditions in general. It makes one rejoice to see such a happy, contented group of young people taking the courses of study under such efficient professors.

People from afar rejoice with us and speak well of us. They are wondering if all of us are boosters for our own College. This is one of our great needs. Every Methodist Protestant in the Conference a Booster for the College.

We have a Covenant Band of over 100 who are praying daily for the College, and we are depending upon this band to work even more faithfully than they pray.

Our Superannuates

We have only six men on the superannuted list. Some of us may have to go on this list much earlier than we think; but surely some plan should be worked out by which this Conference will take better care of these aged soldiers of the Cross.

One of them has been doing real Church Extension work this year, which is much appreciated by us all. All of them, save one, have been useful in the local fields in which they have live. That one, Rev. D. M. Loy, has been and is very greatly afflicted, and is at this time in the State Sanatorium in Raleigh. He and his wife certainly deserve our prayerful sympathy. In September the church at Bessemer City gave me $75 on back salary for Brother Loy. This I forwarded through Rev. T. A. Williams to Mrs. Loy.

Every pastor in the Conference should certainly stress the offering for Superannuates until it is sure that we have raised the full $3,500 for them.

Pastoral Work

Times and conditions have so changed that pastoral work is more difficult than it used to be, but the difficulty of the situation does not do away with the necessity for well planned pastoral visitation. It is still true that "A home-going pastor makes a church-going people." One of the pleas that comes to me more often than any other one plea is for pastors who will visit. A man is not a pastor unless he visits; he may be a preacher, but not a pastor. One layman said: "We need both a good preacher and a good pastor, but if you cannot give us both in one, then give us a good pastor even though he is a poor preacher."

Last fall Bishop Denny said to the pastors in the Eastern North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church, South: "You must visit your people; they want you in their homes; pray with them, and diligently instruct the children. The cabinet is having a hard time to get places for some preachers because they will not visit."

The same is true in our own Conference to an extent not recognized by many of our pastors. The people are calling most earnestly for pastoral attention in the homes.

Pastoral Supply and Pastoral Support

This is the greatest problem we face, and as I see it we must face this problem for many years to come. Not many of our boys are hearing the call to get ready to preach. A call to preach is first of all a call to preparation. Paul said to Timothy, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed rightly dividing the word of truth." Paul may not have meant "go to college," but he did mean get ready to preach before you preach. And I think if Paul were among us today he would say: "For the sake of the dear Lord who loves us, and Who calls men to preach, don't send men out to preach to the people and to lead the people who cannot read the Bible publicly without stammering and halting over it."

How can a man rightly divide the word of truth when he cannot rightly read the word of truth? Let me say once again, "The people do not care how a man gets his training, but they are demanding that he be trained." He may get it in the schools or in his own study, but he must get it.

We have nine or ten boys in the College getting ready to preach, five of whom we are already using in the pastorate, and every one of them should go to the Wesminster Theological Seminary and take the course there as soon as they are through College. Looking down the years, then, Brethren, we must face the problem of an efficient supply for all our charges. Many of our country charges are coming more and more to be willing to be cut into smaller circuits. This they are doing that they may have better service, and not just to give us easy jobs.

Also the charges are coming more and more to demand that their pastors live among them. That this may be done charges must come to pay better salaries; for there are some of our men who could not move to their charges and meet expenses on the salaries they are getting. However, I hope none of our younger men will be planning to locate until they have served their alloted time in the ministry and then locate in old age.

The varying conditions of the times ahead of us demand this. For this reason, and also because for the most part our pastors are underpaid, I have striven in every lawful way, during four years, to get pastors' salaries increased. These efforts have met with an encouraging response in many cases, and yet many pastors are compelled to serve on inadequate salaries. I have argued that better pastoral support will mean better pastoral supply; but some time ago I received this rebuttal: "Better pastoral supply will soon bring about better pastoral support." This is worthy of our consideration. At any rate, the two are so bound up together that they cannot be separated.

A pastor should certainly give value received for the salary he gets, and the people should certainly pay all they promise to the faithful man of God, who sacrifices that he may serve. But one of the painful situations I sometimes meet is to have a layman say to me: "Mr. President, we are paying for more than we get."

Church Extension

This is an exceedingly important division of our Conference work. A channel through which much has been done to build up the Conference. Asheville has arranged to take care of pastor's salary for next year and relieve the Board. We thank them and rejoice with them. They are now building Sunday school rooms, and for this will need help.

Fountain Place, Burlington, is moving along successfully, and must be helped for some time to come. State Street, Lexington, is now building the first unit of their church in the form of Sunday school rooms. These will accommodate this congregation both for Sunday school and church purposes for a long time. They must be helped for several years. North Charlotte and Spencer are our newest points. Rev. D. A. Braswell has directed the work at these points this year. At North Charlotte he has led the people to buy a lot and build a hut. The hut is paid for and the lot is about half paid for. In Spencer they have purchased a lot, which is about half paid for. They are now worshiping and conducting Sunday school in an Episcopal chapel. These points should receive the encouragement of the Conference, and its help.

Cornelius, I am sorry to report, is to be dropped and no further efforts are to be made there at present. It is my judgment that the lot there should be sold.

Calvary, Greensboro, is one of our most encouraging fields. It has been helped some with interest on notes. Several charges are still looking to the Board of Church Extension for help on pastors' salaries. The Board is very greatly hampered for lack of funds, and will be until all charges come to raise their budgets in full.

Young People's Work

We have come to feel that one of the happiest weeks for us during the entire year is the week we spend together in High Point College with our young people and the workers. The pastors' summer conference and the Young People's summer conference were both held in the College at the same time last summer. This proved a very satisfactory arrangement, and plans were made to hold the two conferences simultaneously next summer. This is to be done a little earlier in July. I trust that all pastors will begin in time to plan to attend this conference, and get as many as possible of their young people to attend.

The largest work we have is among our young people, and the brightest outlook is also with them. We need to plan larger for them.

I am fully persuaded that we should constantly have an all-time, wide-awake worker in the field for our young people. This worker, in my judgment, should seek in every way to bring about better organizations in many of our churches, and also to canvass for students for the High Point College. Lack of a man is the one thing that kept us from doing that this year. A series of rallies was held through the Conference in March in the interest of our young people. This doubtless will be undertaken on a larger scale next year.

The Budgets

All our peolpe should come to look upon the payment of the budgets in full as a privilege and not a burden. The Every Member Canvass with weekly, or at least monthly, payments, is our only hope. The Honor System, or as Brother Bethea puts it, "Every Member Canvassing" is by far the best plan. This plan is to have cards printed for the purpose, set a meeting on a Sunday afternon for about two hours, and have all the members who will come to the church and make their pledges for the entire budget for the coming year. State Street, Calvary, Asheville, and Mebane have all tried that this year with good results. Of course this canvass must be followed up by the stewards seeing all those who did not get to church to make their pledges.

We must also lead our people into the graces of larger giving for their own spiritual development. This can be done through an earnest, faithful study of the subject of Christian Stewardship. One little book, "The New Christian," by Ralph Cushman, properly studied by the members in any local church, will help wonderfully. This book costs 25c per copy. Then, too, the Layman Company, 50 East Superior Street, Chicago, Ill., will send you any number of the best leaflets on Christian Stewardship at a nominal cost. We must teach the people if we would lead the people to higher things.

One reason many charges fall behind with the budgets is because they begin too late. Begin early in the year, use the duplex envelope, conduct the every member canvass in some way, observe the three days ordered by the General Conference, and organize the Woman's Missionary Societies, and almost invariably the budgets will be paid.

We also call attention to a recommendation in the report of the Budget Council last year relative to "God's Acre." The plan proposes that the farmer set apart some part of his crop to be cultivated, harvested and sold, the money therefrom given to the Lord for the work of His church. So far as we know, Bess Chapel has been the only church to try the plan this year. It is also reported that Midland proposes to try it next year. We believe many of our country charges would raise much more for the budgets if they would faithfully work this plan.

The work of raising the budgets, or at least of laying the plans to raise the budgets, is the work of our pastors as well as preaching the Gospel.

Our people must be taught that all our Conference expenses, all our Church Extension money, and all we pay our Superannutes comes through the Annual Conference Budget, and that all we do for Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Christian Education, The American Bible Society, and other interests outside our own Conference is done through the General Conference Budget.

Information is the basis of inspiration, so surely if our people come to know about the needs back of the budgets they will pay the budgets.

(Continued Next Week)

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

This is generally a matter of special interest, and this year was no exception. Rev. A. G. Dixon was elected president on the first ballot, the vote standing: Dixon, 96; Taylor, 25; Brown, 3; Bates, 3; Johnson, Ashburn, Stubbins, Andrews, one each. It took three ballots to elect the lay member of the Stationing Committee. The first vote was divided among about 20 laymen. Four of these—Wiley Ward, J. G. Rogers, J. M. Cutchin, and Stanley Whitaker—were far in advance of the others. It was proposed that in the second ballot all others be eliminated. On the third ballot Brother Wiley Ward, of Asheboro, received 85 votes and was declared elected. Brother Pritchard stated that Brother Ward was one of the commissioners of Randolph County and that some man had said of him that he could make a petitioner whose request he had denied feel better than anybody else could by granting the request.

The other officers were re-elected unanimously by the ballot of the Secretary: Bates, Secretary; Surratt, Statistician; Idol, Treasurer; Way, press reporter. The following were elected committee on appeals: Ministers, Holmes, Johnson, B. M. Wiliams; Laymen, J. G. Rogers, Stanley Whitaker, D. R. Connell.

DR. FOSDICK BEGINS NEW PASTORATE—HIS MESSAGE AND PLANS

Following his year of rest and study in Palestine, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick has returned to New York and begun the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church, to which he was called after resigning the pastorate over the First Presbyterian church, of New York. In closing his first sermon he used the following expressions regarding religion and his proposed methods of preaching, as reported in the press:

"We are entering here upon an important adventure in religion. Many things that traditionally have clustered like barnacles about we are not interested in. In dogmatic theologies and dead sectarianism—not interested! But in religion itself, revealed in the Spirit of Jesus, as a vital, saving and sustaining power in human experience, we are so deeply interested that here in New York, which some ministers are leaving because it seems hopeless and other ministers are refusing to come because it seems obdurate and hard, we are proposing to erect a fresh and high standard of non-sectarian Christianity. We are sure that in New York or out of it man cannot live without religion.

"The people who are anticipating the disintegration of religion are doomed to disappointment. The mourners have gathered many times in history to assist at the funeral of Christianity, but always the obsequies have been indefinitely postponed. The deceased has always been too lively. Religion has always shown an indefatigable capacity to come back. It is going to show it again in this generation. I adjure you, do not be easy on me as your minister; hold me to a high standard. Here in these United States, in the next generation, with all our prosperity and complacency, it is going to be easy to preach respectability, but to preach Christ and what He means to private character and social life is not going to be easy. Hold me to it.

"And I ask you not to expect me to be easy on you. I shall proclaim from this pulpit no diluted Christianity, harmonious with popular prejudices, but just as piercing and penetrating a Gospel as I can compass, which I hope will disturb your consciences as it disturbs mine, about the way we are living, in business, in society, in the nation, in private character."

IT'S A POOR JOKE—

When some woman blushes with embarrassment.
When some heart carries away an ache.
When something sacred is made to appear common.
When a man's weakness provides the cause for laughter.
When profanity is required to make it funny.
When a little child is brought to tears.
When everyone can't join in the laughter.—Exchange.

—The publishers of The Herald, McCulloch & Swain Printing Company, extend a cordial invitation to members of the Conference to visit and inspect the publication plant.

Denominational Enterprises

BOARD OF EDUCATION

One of our recent Seminary graduates completed his payments to the Board. It took $162.50 to liquidate his obligation, but instead he sent $200, the extra being an expression of his appreciation of the help the Board had been to him in his preparation for the Christian ministry. The surplus was placed in our permanent fund where it will go on doing good for years to come.

In the same mail that brought this check a letter came from another pastor. (And, by the way, he is a Seminary man, also). This referred to his recent Rally Day service. Accepting the challenge of the Board to double the offering, he says: "About three weeks before the day set for our Rally Day I began to talk to my people, telling them what it was for, why we observed it, and why we took an offering, what it was for and the great need for it. When the day arrived it was raining and it continued to rain all day. For our goal we had set $85 for the offering. It was $25 last year. Needless to say, the attendance was far from what it would have been, but the offering came to $78. This will be increased when those living in the country bring in their envelopes."

To the Executive Secretary it is always a matter of concern as well as interest to know where the Rally Day orders come from. Due to factors beyond the control of the pastors a large section of the church is unable to observe the day. This is true of the South and Southwest where our people are busy with their cotton. So much depends upon gathering the crop when it is ready that no time or thought can be given to special days. That is the reason the main support of Rally Day comes from the North and East. To October 29th orders had been received as follows:

Maryland	120	Kansas	10
Ohio	99	South Carolina	3
Indiana	45	Alabama	3
North Carolina	30	Colorado-Texas	2
Pittsburgh	29	Texas	2
Michigan	28	Missouri	2
Eastern	25	Georgia	2
Onondaga	21	Tennessee	1
West Virginia	20	Louisiana	1
Illinois	14	Ft. Smith-Oklahoma	1
Iowa-Missouri	12	Arkansas	1

Thirty-three men have applied for loans from the Ministerial Education Fund for the present school year. That will require approximately $6,500. The income from the Invested Fund is $3,400, leaving $3,100 to provide for.

Minutes have been received from the following Conferences which have met since last fall: Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Kansas and Iowa-Missouri. It will aid us greatly if Conference Secretaries will forward the new publications at the earliest moment possible. We depend upon them for the correct addresses of pastors, superintendents and presidents.

Eighteen young men and womenh ave been promised help from the Student Loan Fund for the current school year. It is significant that 10 of this number are children of Methodist Protestant pastors. More of our pastors would send their sons and daughters to college if they could afford it. Small salaries make it impossible.

It will take $2,650 to provide for these 18 young people. We have a fairly dependable income of at least $1,000. There is at present a deficit of $500, so at least $2,000 is needed to close the year with no obligations. As long as our invested fund is so small—it is now less than $3,000—it will be necessary to appeal to our friends for help in this work.

Word comes to us from Westminster College, Tehuacana, Texas, that there is a fine group of students there this year. The enrollment is smaller, but the type of students is much higher. The outlook is encouraging except for the old story of a lack of sufficient funds. Acting-President Willis is handling affairs in a splendid manner and is confident the year will be a profitable one to all concerned. The discontinuance of the inter-collegiate program has resulted in a more serious attention to studies and to better discipline.

More Light

Where did the denominational dollar go the last fiscal year? There was distributed to the various enterprises included in the General Conference Budget an amount equal to $1.35 per member. When it is remembered how much each annual conference is raising for benevolent purposes it is likely that figure would be greatly increased. However, we know what the church is doing for the denominational program by the support they give to the General Conference Budget. Here is where the Methodist Protestant dollar went last year:

Home and Foreign Missions	$ .76
Christian Education	.15
Denominational Administration	.04
Promotional	.03
Special Benevolences	.02

The Methodist Protestant Church cannot prosper as it should, nor be the power for Kingdom-building that it might when that which is central to all is so grievously neglected.

Frank W. Stephenson.

HISTORIC ITEMS—JAPAN

Japan's long period of seclusion was terminated and she was introduced, near the middle of the last century, to the developments of the West by our Commodore Perry, followed by others, among whom as teachers and in notable instances advisors to the government were missionaries.

The first missionaries to reach her ocean-swept shores landed in 1859, and found on the highways the edicts against Christianity which were not taken down until February 19, 1873.

It was to be expected that a people so long limited to their small territory, in gross ignorance of the outside world, and everything Christian repressed by drastic governmental measures, and with unsurpassed devotion and loyalty to their emperor, revered as a god, and to their national institutions, would be slow to renounce their old faith represented by great, towering temples and the gorgeous displays in their ceremonials, and accept that of strange and unknown aliens, even while accepting and utilizing with great eagerness the wonderful things presented by Western civilization.

And yet, in that repellent and hostile land, the Gospel demonstrated its divine power, and the first Japanese church was organized in Yokohama, known as the "Kaigan" church, March 10, 1872.

Its membership consisted of nine young men and two middle-aged men. There were at that time four more Japanese Christians at Kanagawa and Tokyo, but they were not members of that church. Up to July, 1875, the church had received 166 communicants in 19 children.

There had been 10 Japanese baptized in different parts of the country before the church in Yokohama was organized, and by 1876 the number of Christians had passed the 1,000 mark. The converts were largely from the middle class, students being well represented.

In medical work, Dr. J. C. Perry, of the American Board, taught in the Hiogo Hospital a number of students in materia medica, chemistry, physiology and anatomy, and it was probably the first time in Japan when anatomy was taught by the dissection of the human body.

In educational work as early as 1862 Mrs. J. C. Hepburn taught a class of five boys in Kanagawa, opposite Yokohama. But in 1869 the first real missionary school was established by Rev. Carrothers, who established a school for boys in Tokyo, and Mrs. Carrothers established one for girls, and in different cities schools for boys and for girls were started from 1870 on by different missions.

The Doshisha, at Kyoto, was the first Christian school of high grade to be established.

Joseph Neesima who, athirst for knowledge, left Japan by stealth, brought to America by the captain of a sailing vessel, given an education under Christian influences, given $5,000 while here and returned to Japan December, 1874, and with Dr. J. D. Davis laid the foundations of that great Christion institution.

Doshisha opened November 29, 1875, in an old rented building, with eight students, increased to about 30 in the winter.

On opening of the school in three new buildings in 1876 about 30 of the boarders were from Captain Janes' school in Kumamoto—the famous "Kumamoto Band"—who had great influence on its future history, and did much for their nation.

The Girls' Department of Doshisha was begun in 1877 in a missionary's home. The first Christian kindergarten school was opened in Kanagawa by the Presbyterian mission in 1885.

Dr. S. R. Brown, of the Reform Mission, probably taught the first Protestant theological class in 1874, as it was the first Protestant theological school in Japan.

Aoyama, Tokyo, the fine institution of the Methodist Episcopal Mission, began in a day school in Tokyo in 1878, and November, 1882, secured its present site of 25 acres, provided by Dr. John F. Goucher, of Baltimore, and moved there in 1883.

FRED C. KLEIN.

WEEK OF PRAYER FOR YOUNG MEN AND BOYS

HOWARD B. GROSE

The World's Committee, which federates the nearly 40 national and international alliances of Young Men's Christian Associations, has issued a call upon the Associations of all lands to unite in observing November 14 to 20 as a Week of Prayer for Young Men and Boys. Never has such a summons been more important. The reports from all nations made at the Helsingfors Conference showed the need of prayer and effort if the youth of the world are to be reached with the saving Gospel of Christ. As the Call says, "In view of the ripeness of fields unto harvest on every hand, we need to heed the command of Jesus Christ and make definite intercession that He, with whom alone is the authority and power to commission men, may thrust forth laborers with a sense of mission and contagious enthusiasm into these dead-ripe harvest fields."

In these days of material expansion the danger is recognized that the Associations may become so occupied with the material, mechanical, social and humanitarian aspects of the program that the supremacy of the spiritual may be obscured; hence, it is imperative that the members give themselves humbly and devoutly to prayer. The Call goes on to say, "There is something highly inspiring in the fact that in a genuine observance of this Week of Prayer we are entering into fellowship with men and boys of virtually every land who know Christ, love Christ, and whose dominating purpose is to establish His kingdom."

Accompanying the Call is a most stimulating leaflet by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, entitled "Consider Jesus." The American Association is fortunate in having this series of meditations, prepared by the President of the Federal Council of Churches and a beloved friend of the Brotherhood. The churches may well share in the wide use of this vital leaflet, which considers Jesus in His sureness of God, His captivating character, His controlling power, His direct summons, His dynamic energy, His assuring guidance, and His confident expectation.

Each day also has questions, reasons for praising God, and a suggestion for prayer. Pastors might well take the topic for Sunday, November 14, for a sermon. For an evangelistic period this Week of Prayer affords the best opportunity to fix the attention of parents upon the young people in the homes and the absolute necessity of a genuine revival of religion if our country is to maintain its standards of righteousness, now threatened by home demoralization.

PLAN NOW FOR A GREAT CHRISTMAS SERVICE

No season of the year is better adapted to a great service of worship and praise than Christmas. The church that fails to make the most of the Christmas season is missing a wonderful opportunity. Then, as perhaps at no other time, every heart is strangely warmed with the story of the birth of the Savior and is susceptible to the message of the Gospel.

To assist our churches and Sunday Schools in fittingly observing the commemoration of our Savior's birth, the Budget Council has prepared a beautiful Christmas service that will lend beauty and grace to your Christmas exercises. It will be furnished free to all churches and schools applying for it. The service consists of a pageant, "Gifts to the King," simple but beautiful and effective, and a choice selection of recitations and exercises for the use of those who do not wish to use the pageant.

We are asking in return for the use of this service that an offering be taken to apply on the General Conference Budget. Every agency of the church is in urgent need of funds with which to carry on the work of the Kingdom. This is an especially lean season with most of our boards and institutions. Your offering is applied without any deductions to the apportionment of your church and is distributed to all the agencies of the church. It is a splendid opportunity of raising a generous portion of your church assessment.

Make the most of the service. Pray for it; work for it; advertise it; and lead your people to make an offering worthy of His whose birth we commemorate.

Samples of the program will be mailed about the 10th of November to every pastor and Sunday School superintendent whose name and address we have on file. If you do not receive your copy by November 15th, please notify Rev. Lawrence Little, Concord, North Carolina, and duplicate will be sent you promptly.

Plan now to make this a great service!

HOW I LOST MY FAITH AND HOW I REGAINED IT

By Dr. David James Burrell

(Pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, New York, in "The Bible Today")

I left my home, on the western frontier, in my boyhood to prepare for college at Phillips Academy, in Andover, Massachusetts. Having finished my course, I set out for Harvard, where I remained only three weeks. Then because most of my former classmates had gone to New Haven I followed them to Yale. There I found myself caught up in conflicting winds of controversy, and yielding little by little, my faith in the old-time religion entirely passed from me.

The fact that a Christian mother had dedicated me to the Christian ministry at my birth dropped out of my memory; so that I planned with two of my classmates to enter the law department of Columbia University.

On graduating from Yale, I returned to my western home, the second time in six years; and was met by my dear mother at the gate, who threw her arms about me, kissed me on both cheeks and said, "Now, my boy, my dream is coming true; you are going to be a minister of Christ." It was like a blow in the face. I loved my mother devotedly (she was the best woman in the world), but my plans were made. What could I do? For three days a wrestled with the problem; I had no heart to disappoint the elect lady, but how could I enter the ministry when my faith was gone? I had lost even the power of prayer.

I was resolved not to enter the ministry unless I could honestly assume its solemn vows.

I tried most earnestly to recover my faith. I resolved to try an experiment; I would take a year's course in theology and abide by the result. So I entered a "liberal" institution in Chicago, where, by a kind providence, I roomed in old Farwell Hall, which was Mr. Moody's headquarters. I cannot thank God sufficiently for my association with that devoted man. But the lectures in the seminary gave me no help. I returned to my room after each hour in the classroom, and the only prayer I could make was "Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief."

Still I did not abandon my purpose. A second year in Union Theological Seminary served me no better. In order to pay my expenses for a third year, I undertook the superintendence of a Newsboys' Mission. The boys asked me to hold an evening service. I consented and spoke to them on such subjects as "Telling the Truth" and "Keeping Clean" and "Living An Honest Life."

One day as I sat in my room at 9 University Place, New York City, there was a knock at my door, and one of my newsboys entered with his heart in his throat and his hair on end, asking me to come quickly, for his father was dying. The boy knew no minister but me, and I must go.

I followed him down Eleventh Avenue and climbed the rickety stairs to an attic room, where his father lay dying, an old man who had wasted his life in drink and riotous living.

As I approached his bed he looked at me and said, "You are pretty young to tell an old man like me how to die." But I did my best to help him.

I shall never forget that night! The old man began by asking me if I thought God would have mercy on an old sinner like him. I answered by quoting Wesley's lines:

Betwixt the saddle and the ground,
Mercy sought is mercy found.

"How do you know that?" I replied that Christ had said so. "How do you know Christ said so?" I referred to the Bible as my authority. He said, "Do you believe the Bible?" What could I answer? I lied to him, saying that I did. He asked me, "Do you believe Jesus died for a low-down sinner like me?" I lied again and said that I did. "How do you know that?" Again I referred to the Bible as authority. "How do you know the Bible is true?" I did my best to explain—insincerely. But what could I do? The dying man shot questions at me all night, thrusting me, metaphorically, from one corner of the room to another, and keeping his filming eyes on me as I sought to answer him. Oh, that dreary, momentous night! I had never seen a man die before. At last the old man, who had been bred in a Highland home by Christian parents, began to remember; and presently he was murmuring to himself the Scottish version of the Shepherd's Psalm:

The Lord's my shepherd, I'll not want;
He makes me down to lie
In pastures green; he leadeth me
The quiet waters by.
Yea, thought I walk through death's dark vale,
Yet will I fear no ill,
For thou art with me and thy rod
And staff my comfort still.

The past was coming up before him! Presently he said, "Pray with me." I fell upon my knees by his bedside, and poured out my soul in the first real prayer I had offered in years. When I rose from my knees, the old Scotchman had gone; the morning was dawning; and I had reason to thank God, that in trying to teach a sinner how to die, I had myself learned how to live. My faith had come back to me! I had discovered that henceforth there was no middle-of-the-road for me; I must believe or disbelieve. Since then, thank God, I have never wavered.

I am entering on my 82nd year. For nearly half a century I have served in the ministry of Christ, and the memory of that night in a tenement house on Eleventh Avenue always abides with me. And the Lord, who has been my faithful keeper, will keep me to the end.

So I ask you to join with me in singing,

Oh, the "old-time religion"
Is good enough for me.

—Selected.

A CENT A PIECE

Mrs. Grace Jewett Austin

All the women of the Auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society had gone home except the Mite-box Secretary.

It had been her special day—Mite-box opening day—and she was still busy with her work. She sat in the pleasant Sunday school room of Prosperity Street church, with a heap of opened boxes before her, and the list of givers. The Treasurer had carried away sixty-three dollars that the boxes had contained and the fifty-two women who had been present when the amount was reported murmured to each other, "Such a satisfactory result"! "Such a generous offering"! "How faithful dear Mrs. Mallard, our Mite-box Secretary, is."

Mrs. Mallard herself felt very comfortable indeed. The offering was larger by several dollars than it had been before. The western windows began to glow with late afternoon sunbeams, but still she lingered, comparing the list of boxes brought in with her little list-book of boxes given out, she had just said to herself:

"Now of course there are some boxes out that probably never will come in. From poor Mrs. Patch, for instance—" But before the sentence was complete in her mind the door was gently pushed open and a child peeped in. She had a shy, sweet smile, and wore a very clean but decidedly outgrown dress. In a happy tone, she said:

"Is this the Mite-box lady?"

"Why, surely, dear; I'm Mrs. Mallard. I'm not quite sure that I know you."

"I'm Mary Louise Patch. Mother couldn't come to the opening today, for she was house-cleaning for Mrs. Lamson, so she sent her box by me. She said to tell you she tried to have a cent apiece—and that you would know." The child walked across to the table, then put up her head and listened.

"Oh, ain't that beautiful?" she said in a hushed tone, then with a cheerful—

"Good-bye, Mrs. Mallard," she was gone.

Mrs. Mallard had been so busy with her thoughts that she had not noticed the organist practicing in the church, but evidently the soprano had come in to rehearse, and while the child spoke, her clear voice rang out:

"He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrow"—then the organ and singer paused.

After the door closed upon the little girl, Mrs. Mallard tore open the box, which felt unexpectedly heavy. A pile of pennies rolled out, and Mrs. Mallard counted them—sixty-three, just as many as the dollars the fifty-two women had brought. Still the Secretary looked puzzled—

"Now what did she mean by a cent apiece?—Let me see, she was at the meeting almost a year ago when we gave out the boxes, and I said—what did I say? Oh, I remember; I said the Mite-box was to go to the General Fund. Somebody asked what that was, and I said I understood it was what kept up our work all over its extent, exclusive of special gifts. And then to make the work more real, I remember I took the last annual report and counted up hurriedly all the different places where we have workers—for Indians, or colored people, or immigrants, or orphans—the general list, in fact. Yes, I did make it sixty-three, I remember, though I hurried so much in counting that I may have skipped one or two. All I wanted was to make the women see how widely their offering would spread—but, oh, that blessed woman—her heart took them all in, and, I believe, with prayer." A vision came over her of the little crowded cottage and the widowed Mrs. Patch bringing up her five little folks, until the pathos of it came over Mrs. Mallard so strongly that she rested her head on her hands for a moment and let the tears come.

"He was despised, and we esteemed Him not," rang out the glorious voice in the church adjoining, and Mrs. Mallard did not hear the door open again and a quiet step enter. But when someone said:

"Could I help in any way?" she hastily sat erect, almost ashamed of her emotion. But it was only old Mr. Enderby, whom she had known since she was a child, in his beautiful home across the park from the church. An invalid daughter had been for years all that was left of his family, and now this spring she had gone away to heaven. Tears were not strange to him. Yet she said hurriedly:

"O, Mr. Enderby, I don't know why I cried—I think I must have been ashamed." She told him the little story of Mrs. Patch's Mite-box, with its pathetic sixty-three pennies. Then with a quiver and a break in her voice she added:

"And—and I thought I was really generous to put two dollars into my box—though I'd just paid nine dollars for my hat. I never thought of how the gift must stretch."

The old man leaned forward from the front seat he had taken, and rested his forehead upon his cane. There was silence until the organist played chords again, and the singer began once more:

"We hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised and we esteemed Him not."

Mr. Enderby raised his head and looked keenly at the sorrowing Secretary.

"Mrs. Mallard, I came in, intending to study out my choice of a place for a memorial window for Clare, but someway those sixty-three pennies affect me deeply. The window was to cost a thousand dollars. It wasn't like a hat—and yet I did expect to feel comforted—and I need it sorely."

"Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows," sang the soprano, in a beautiful burst of melody. Mrs. Mallard rose, and the old man rose, also. It was a moment of great decision. Almost breathlessly she murmured:

"You could put it into some special memorial to Clare in the work." But he slowly shook his head.

"Not this time, not this time. That may come later. But now I want to follow those sixty-three pennies—out to all the work of the General Fund."

And so it came about that the Woman's Home Missionary Society of Prosperity Street Church had the quite astonishing Mite-box offering of a thousand, sixty-three dollars and sixty-three cents. But it is quite possible that to the Recording Angel the sixty-three pennies outweighed all the rest.

THE RIGHT DOOR

An aged man—one of the happy, sunshiny spirits that never really grow old—met with an accident which resulted in his death. He mistook one doorway—opening upon a flight of stairs—for another, and in the semi-darkness fell. A few hours later, when consciousness had fully returned, he explained to one who watched beside his bed how the mistake had occurred.

"You took the wrong door," she said.

"Yes," he answered. Then his eyes flashed wide open, and with the old cheery note in his voice he corrected his statement: "No, it was the right door. God let it happen."

From that happy faith he never wavered, and for him it was indeed the door that opened homeward.

Into all our lives there come happenings that seem like dreadful mistakes. Things do not turn out as we expected, and instead of the bright and joyous path which we fancied stretching before us, a sudden grief shuts us in. We find ourselves where we never meant to be; the pleasantness of our days is all swept away by some unwelcome change, and it seems as if occurrences so unexpected and bewildering must be blunders. But if we have used our best judgment, and consciously chosen no wrong course, we need not be dismayed. —Selected.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid All Claims in Full

1. State Street, Lexington.
2. West End, Greensboro.
3. Charlotte
4. Grace,
5. Siler City,
6. Asheville,
7. South Winston,
8. Asheboro,
9. Calvary.
10. High Point, 1st
11. Reidsville
12. Henderson
13. Fountain Place
14. Burlington
15. Concord
16. Winston-Salem

Churches

1. Bethel and Elbaville, Mocksville Charge
2. Efland and Union Grove, Orange Charge
3. New Hope, Why Not Charge
4. Bethel, Alamance Charge
5. Spring Valley, Vance Charge

Paid A. C. B. in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Melton's Grove
3. Thomasville, First
4. Orange
5. Mt. Pleasant
6. Richland
7. Welch
8. Mt. Hermon
9. Pleasant Grove
10. English Street
11. Enfield
12. North Davidson
13. Davidson
14. Granville
15. Bess Chapel

Churches

1. Jerusalem, South Davidson
2. Yadkin, South Davidson
3. Byerly's Chapel, Mocksville
4. Rock Creek, Alamance
5. Love Joy, Why Not Charge
6. Fairfield, Cornelius Charge

Paid College Assessment in Full

1. Whitakers.
2. Grace.
3. Mebane.
4. Glen Raven.
5. Burlington.
6. Fountain Place.
7. Reidsville.
8. South Winston.
9. English Street.
10. Asheboro.
11. Concord.
12. Graham.
13. High Point, First.
14. Welch.
15. Mt. Pleasant.
16. Siler City.
17. Charlotte.
17. Gibsonville.
18. Orange,
19. Granville.

Churches

1. Julian on Tabernacle.
2. Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit.
3. Gray's Chapel on Randolph.
4. Bethesda on North Davidson.

Paid on College Assessment

1. Randolph	$34.00
2. Tabernacle	24.00
3. Littleton	24.00
4. Halifax	22.80
5. Forsyth	19.90
6. North Davidson	18.00
7. Alamance	17.88
8. Why Not	17.00
9. West Forsyth	15.40
10. Enfield	15.00
11. St. Paul	15.00
12. Spring Church	14.50
13. West Thomasville	10.55
14. South Davidson	10.28
15. Friendship	10.00
16. Saxapahaw	8.48
17. Weaverville	8.25
18. Spencer	6.70
19. Randleman	5.25
20. Albemarle	5.00
21. Thomasville First	5.00
22. Union Grove	1.00

Paid on A. C. B.

1. Forsyth	$257.39
2. Tabernacle	235.65
3. Flat Rock	180.62
4. Mebane	142.50
5. Glen Raven	131.25
6. Randolph	130.00
7. Vance	74.25
8. Why Not	72.03
9. Haw River	70.00
10. Lebanon	70.00
11. Mocksville	62.75
12. St. Paul	60.00
13. West Forsyth	57.75
14. Littleton	56.75
15. South Davidson	54.93
16. Fallston	52.50
17. Friendship	48.25
18. Saxapahaw	46.89
19. Anderson	43.45
20. Spring Church	42.16
21. Halifax	38.60
22. Albemarle	35.00
23. Roberta	31.50
24. Weaverville	30.00
25. Randleman	29.90
26. Yarborough	29.00
27. Kernersville	28.72
28. Pinnacle	27.80
29. Cleveland	25.50
30. Rockingham	25.00
31. Chase City	24.20
32. Pageland	21.05
33. Spencer	10.00
34. Alamance	10.00
35. Denton	8.88
36. Union Grove	8.50
37. Guilford	4.45
38. Draper	3.25
39. Fairview	2.50

Paid on G. C. B.

1. Orange	$215.00
2. Mt. Pleasant	178.69
3. West Thomasville	156.40
4. Whitakers	148.20
5. Forsyth	136.86
6. Randolph	117.65
7. Enfield	113.28
8. Vance	112.83
9. Saxapahaw	98.27
10. Spring Church	97.69
11. Why Not	90.85
12. Mebane	89.60
13. North Davidson	85.42
14. Pleasant Grove	79.30
15. Glen Raven	78.94
16. Randleman	64.30
17. Alamance	61.55
18. Gibsonville	58.68
19. Littleton	58.25
20. Graham	50.39
21. Tabernacle	49.01
22. Mt. Hermon	46.56
23. Richland	45.72
24. Thomasville, First	39.60
25. West Forsyth	37.76
26. Anderson	37.74
27. Guilford	37.28
28. Albemarle	36.00
29. Midland	35.20
30. Haw River	35.00
31. Halifax	33.68
32. Mocksville	32.84
33. Friendship	32.78
34. Davidson	28.90
35. Pinnacle	22.75
36. Cleveland	21.08
37. St. Paul	20.84
38. English Street	20.62
39. Lebanon	20.05
40. Bess Chapel	17.98
41. Mecklenburg	17.00
42. Flat Rock	16.34
43. Roberta	14.05
44. Rockingham	14.00
45. Granville	13.50
46. Denton	13.14
47. South Davidson	13.00
48. Union Grove	9.58
49. Lincolnton	7.52
50. Yarborough	7.40
51. Weaverville	7.00
52. Chatham	5.04
53. Pageland	4.30
54. Porter	3.35

A. G. DIXON.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. J. B. Trogdon, $1.50; Rev. B. M. Williams, $13.50; Rev. E. Suits, $4.50; Rev. C. L. Spencer, $6.50; Rev. W. D. Reed, $6; Rev. W. F. Ashburn, $6; Rev. J. A. Burgess, $3; Rev. F. L. Gibbs, $1.50; Rev. H. L. Isley, $1.50; Rev. J. H. Trollinger, $1.50; Rev. T. A. Williams, $3; Rev. G. R. Brown, $1.50; Rev. A. D. Shelton, $4; Rev. G. F. Millaway, $3; Rev. C. E. Ridge, $3; Rev. D. I. Garner, $1.50; Rev. S. W. Taylor, $1.50; Rev. H. L. Powell, $3; Rev. C. H. Whitaker, $1.50; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, $2.25; Rev. A. Ridge, $1; Rev. W. H. Neese, $1.50; Rev. Robert Short, $3; Rev. E. A. Bingham, $1.50; Rev. W. M. Pike, $1.75; Rev. F. L. Gibbs, $3; Rev. T. M. Johnson, $1.50.

—Mussolini, Italy's dictator, has been fired upon again. The bullet did him no harm, but the assailant, a youth, was immediately killed by a mob. This is said to be the eighth attempt on Mussolini's life.

—Senor Padilla, the new Spanish Ambassador to the United States, has arrived in this country and has taken up his duties at Washington, D. C.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

SUGGESTED PROGRAMS FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Woman's Home Missionary Society

Number I

Opening Song, "America," No. 529 Hymnal
Scripture Lesson, Ps. 100—Home Circle in Concert (Where there is no Home Circle a Sunday school class 6-9 or 9-12 years of age may take this part)
Prayer
*Story of Our Children's Home, written by Mrs R. T. Pickens
Song, No. 389, Hymnal
Reading, "A Cent A Piece" (printed in this Herald)
Song, No. 480, Hymnal
Reading, "Mrs. Wilder's Thank-offering" (to be printed next week)
Thanksgiving Offering (for Children's Home)
Doxology
Benediction.

Number II

A praise service,* "Thank you" in connection with* "Home Pageant Section." This is a service for eight young people and children, in which all of our Home Missionary interests are represented. This could be used in connection with Program No. I if a longer program is desired.

*"Story of Our Children's Home," "Thank You," and Home Pageant Section can all be supplied by Pearl McCulloch, Secretary of Literature, Greensboro.

(Gleaned from the October Missionary Record.)

Slides

The missionary slides have been brought up to date and a number of auxiliaries are finding them helpful. These are views of our foreign work and workers, there are 125 slides and they are free except for postage or express. If interested write to Mrs. L. F. Warner, 2705 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Md.

Miss Sampson

Our new missionary, Miss Marguerette Elizabeth Sampson, sailed September 30th for Japan. The first year will be spent in a Language School in Tokyo and then she will be a missionary kindergarten teacher. Miss Sampson gives as her motive for desiring to enter upon missionary service "To tell others, especially little children, about Jesus." "This first month, away from home and loved ones, in strange surroundings and amid stranger scenes, she needs our prayers more perhaps than she ever will again. Let us pray that her faith fail not—that her courage triumphs over all difficulties—that she be kept in bodily health and vigor—that she may be a blessing to others, and be the means of bringing to the Master many of the little ones she so loves."

Scholarships

"One of the greatest acts any one can perform is to educate or assist in educating a boy or girl, to help them to be of the greatest service to their God and their country.

STEEL HEAD IS EIGHTY

One of America's greatest business men and industrial leaders was eighty years old the other day (Oct. 8.) He is Elbert H. Gary chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation. He helped to organize that corporation and has had a large part in making it one of the biggest and most prosperous companies in the world. Starting life as a farmer boy in Illinois, he has achieved wonderful success in the business world. At eighty he is strong and vigorous and has, he says, no thought of retiring.

In an interview, given on his birthday, he expressed high optimism for the future of the United States. He said that he strongly favored national prohibition, but was not convinced that the five-day work week would be a good thing for American industry. Speaking of his early life on the farm, he said: "I worked hard. My father believed in hard work. He worked hard himself. But hard work did not hurt me. It prepared me for the labors that were to come with the years. All that I have ever achieved has come through hard work. Everybody worked hard when I was a boy—everybody, that is, who had the respect of his neighbors."—Current Events.

GREAT YEARS IN THE NATION'S HISTORY

Interesting things have happened in 1926. Commander Byrd in a Fokker airplane, circled the North Pole. Photographs taken in Europe were transmitted on radio waves to America, and published in newspapers a few hours later. Gertrude Ederie, daughter of a New York butcher, swam the English Channel one hour faster than any of the five men who had swum it before her.

Is anything interesting going to happen in 1927?

For one thing, the Youth's Companion on April 16, will celebrate its HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY. During 1927, the Companion will contain more interesting reading than ever before during its century of successful life. Consider what you will get for $2.00: 52 issues, containing nine book length serials, 260 short stories by the most popular authors, more than 100 special articles, a weekly section for ingenious boys, called the "Y. C. Lab," a thorough girls' department, and 52 pages for children. Also in each issue, an extensive survey of current events, making it easy for you to follow the affairs of this busy world.

Don't miss the greatest year of a great magazine. Subscribe now, and receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1927, and
2. The remaining issues of 1926.

All for only $2.

3. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $2.50.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
S N Dept., Boston, Mass.
Subscriptions Received at this Office.

—Calvary church was pleased to receive two new members last Sunday, Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Harris.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Ladies' Aid Society, Enfield, for clothing a child, $50; Macedonia, Fallston, $1.60; Oak Grove, Cleveland, $2.76; Friendship, Fallston, $9.25.

Sunday Schools

Mt. Moriah, Cleveland, $3.18; Fairfield, Guilford, $1.01; Denton, $2.41; Friendship, Davidson, $3.28; Asheboro, $14.03; Moriah, Tabernacle, $3.58; Henderson, $25.15; Midway, Haw River, $5.

Other Gifts

Mrs. Hayworth, High Point, sweaters for her two nieces; Rev. Fred C. Klein, Berwin, Md., a pack of good magazines for the boys; Friendly class of Calvary church, Greensboro, a supply of winter clothing for Margaret Coble.

Good people, you are helping this institution and without your help it could not go, but I am sure more good work could be done, by individuals, classes, or societies obligating to clothe a child.

I was in a cottage building of an institution of a Children's Home sometime ago in which there were 28 girls, and all these girls were clothed but two by societies, Sunday school classes or individuals.

Reader, let me say to you, if you want to do good, and I believe you do, "Go thou and do likewise."

All who want to be duly credited for what you do, please give your name and address, and also the name of both your church, and circuit. This is very important if correct reports are to be made.

This report closes another conference year. Have we all done our best?

What shall the answer be?

Thank you. E. G. LOWDERMILK.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for November 7.—How Make War Against War? Matt. 7:12; Isa. 2:1-4.

Topic for November 14.—How May We Promote Interdenominational Fellowship? 1 John 1:3-7; Eph. 4:1-6.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for November 7.—The Fall of Jericho. Joshua 6:12-20.

Lesson for November 14.—Caleb's Faithfulness Rewarded. Joshua 14:6-15.

—Houdini, the magician, died in Detroit last Sunday of peritonitis following an operation for appendicitis. He is commonly supposed to have been an Asiatic, but he was born in Wisconsin and was the son of a Jewish rabbi. He exposed the tricks of spiritualistic mediums and challenged them to do anything that he could not duplicate. He even remained in a coffin under water for 90 minutes. He was a very skilful sleight-of-hand performer.

—The man who buys liquor in the United States is just as guilty of wrongdoing as the man who sells it; the buyer is paying the seller a bribe to break the law. So said John G. Sargent, Attorney General in the Cabinet, in a recent address before a meeting of the Missouri Bar Association at Kansas City.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Graham.—A report has not been made from our church for sometime due to the fact that the last reporter has moved out of town and a new one elected just recently.

Our revival meeting began the second Sunday in September and closed the following Sunday night. Dr. T. M. Johnson conducted all the services except the first service on Sunday morning, which was conducted by our pastor. Dr. Johnson brought to us some very inspiring messages which made a lasting impression. Brother Pender of Mebane was with us during the meeting to lead the singing, which was enjoyed very much by all. We appreciated the services rendered us by both Dr. Johnson and Brother Pender and enjoyed having them with us. As a result of the meeting, four members were received into the church on profession of faith and one by certificate.

The fourth quarterly conference held its meeting at the church Friday evening, October 22. The attendance was good and there was a unanimous vote of the conference authorizing the delegate to conference to bring Brother Williams back to us for another year.

We have recently put down a new carpet in the church which makes the interior much more attractive and the plans are well under way for the installation of a heating plant in the church.

Our pastor has been ill for the past week and Brother Ross filled our pulpit last Sunday and brought to us some very fine messages both in the morning and evening services. Brother Williams is improving and we hope he will be able to be back with us next Sunday.

Brother Williams has done some fine work in our church, and has been inspiring and helpful to us at all times, and we are looking forward to having him back with us during the coming year.

MARY TOME HUGHES, Reporter.

Henderson.—Quite a number of important and interesting events have occurred in our church since the close of the revival. It was held by Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Mebane, and the effects are continually being felt and manifested in all the organizations of the church.

The"Young Ladies' League" held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Agnes Harris, October 14th. All members, excepting four, answered to the roll call, and three new members were enrolled. A splendid report from special committees was given, and $25.00 ordered sent to the Children's Home, and $15.00 to be paid on the missionary work in China. Officers for the new year were elected. Much interest was shown in the meeting and plans for greater things in the future were made.

The "Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society" held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. L. R. Gooch, October 18th. It was a delightful meeting with increased attendance and interest. The devotionals were taken from "The Rose Jar," and conducted by Mrs. R. A. Hunter. After a brief business session the program leader, Mrs. Clyde L. Finch, gave a summarized talk from the first chapter of the study book, "Moslem Women."

Mrs. S. R. Harris led the Question Box with prompt response from all the members. The meeting closed with a special prayer, by Rev. R. A. Hunter, for those requested in the "Prayer Calendar."

Sunday morning, during the Sunday school hour the officers for the following year were elected. Mr. J. M. Baity elected superintendent, and Mr. Jasper Hicks assistant. Not many changes were made in the other offices. Our Sunday school is making much progress and special mention should be made of Mr. Clyde L. Finch's class of boys. They have held the banner for six consecutive Sundays, with all members present and three to four visitors.

At the close of the morning church service Rev. R. A. Hunter asked the newly elected Trustees, Stewards, and other church officials to come forward and stand before the congregation while he read the duties and privileges of these officers.

Wednesday night after prayer meeting the fourth quarterly conference met. All reports were read and were very encouraging. The pastor's salary and all general interests had been paid in full. Also the remaining debt on our new Sunday school rooms was reported paid. Mr. Blanie Hight was elected alternate to the annual conference and by a unanimous vote our pastor is asked to be sent back.

With our earnest prayers and hopes for the success of the Annual Conference.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

Burlington.—Our closing services were well attended yesterday. The pastor preached at 11 a.m., and at night he read a report of the work covering the six years of the present pastorate. The report shows gratifying progress along all lines. A total of 335 have been added to the church, with a net gain of 196. The gain would have been much larger, but for the number transferred to Fountain Place. The membership is now 692. However, at this writing the roll has not been officially revised, and there may be a slight scaling when this is done.

The seven missionary organizations in the church are all active, and have a membership of 422. They have raised during the six years of this period, $4437.54—an average of $739.59. The membership in the Aid Society is 60, with seven honorary members. They have raised, $3896.00—an average of $649.33. Our three C. E. Societies have an enrollment of 59. This department of the church has been somewhat fluctuating, and we have found it difficult to maintain it at satisfactory standards. However, good work has been done. The Sunday school enrollment now stands at 603. The average enrollment for six years, 564. During this period the school has raised $7,089.61. The total raised by the church during this year for all purposes—not including college pledges—is, $7729.61, an average per member of $11.32. During the six years the church has raised—not including college pledges—$49,729.78. The average raised for six years is, $8,288.30. The average per member is, $14.25. Of course this average would be considerably increased by college pledges, and other contributions for benevolences that do not belong to church records.

The year closes with the spiritual condition of the church good—at least an average. There are no divisions nor dissensions among us. Perfect harmony reigns, and every thing will be ready for marching orders on the first Sunday in the new conference year. In their scheme for keeping the church in running condition, the Burlington people will be found difficult to excel. The church here certainly has a wonderful field, and the years ahead will no doubt reveal great progress in the work. In no far distant date there should be two strong and growing churches in this growing city. This could be done quickly if the the more than 100 Methodist Protestants living here could be induced to transfer their memberships.

In our special October services we have had the good fortune to have the following brethren preach for us: Rev. L. W. Gerringer, Rev. G. H. Hendry, Rev. J. R. Anderson, of the Georgia Conference, and Rev. F. G. Overton, of the M. E. Church, (Brother Overton is pastor of the West Burlington church). We are grateful to all of these brethren for their helpful messages.

One of the most spiritual services that we have had during the entire year was the service of last Friday night in our series of revival services for the week. There was no preaching; we sang the old revival songs of long ago; such as, "O Fathers, Will You Meet Me"; "My Heavenly Home is Bright and Fair"; "The Old Ship of Zion"; "We Have Fathers Over Yonder," etc., and the people were given an opportunity to testify. God greatly honored the service, and many were made happy by his presence.

During October the following persons were received by letter: Mrs. Curry Hargrove, Mrs Mary Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fogleman The church is happy to add these to the roll.

And now the conference! May it be filled with the spirit of the Lord.

S. W. TAYLOR.

West End.—At the close of a two and a half years' pastorate, it seems fitting that the pastor should write a word of commendation for the good people of West End church.

Upon arriving in Greensboro, a "foreigner," and taking up the work so successfully carried on by my predecessor, I was received most graciously. In response to the question as to whether or not the spell of homesickness had worn off, after having been here a while, it was my good pleasure to be able to truthfully say that I had never experienced it. These folks make a pastor feel at home from the start.

Every church and pastor have trials, discouragements and unpleasant experiences but the man who serves West End church enjoys so much of the favorable and pleasant that it would be unfair, to say the least, to emphasize the untoward.

If I find a more loyal people in any church that I visit or serve as pastor, it will be to my utter surprise. Through the most problematic periods, they faithfully "carry on" with faith in God that cannot be shaken, and tenacity that will not relinquish, in spite of adversity.

It is needless to ask why this loyalty, for any thoughtful Christian knows that such a spirit is born of the indwelling Christ—in one word, consecration. If the sublime fellowship experienced among such people is only a foretaste of heaven, what bliss must be up there!

One thing that helps to make smooth the rough places and add pleasure to the labors of a pastor is appreciation. This abounds among the people of West End. A pulpit message that impresses receives commendation abundant. The slightest act of service is rewarded by sincere expression of gratitude.

Aggressiveness is another attribute that is praiseworthy. These people have no desire to remain at a standstill, if such were possible. They are zealous for the future of their beloved church. Plans are made in all of the organizations for greater achievements in the future. And these plans are of the most modern and efficient.

We would not forget the corps of splendid young people with which this church is blessed. Just as consecrated as the older folks to the tasks that lay before them, they are laboring faithfully for the salvation and training of young people for Christ and His church.

There is a future for West End church. Its pinnacle has not yet been reached. The membership will grow. The congregations will enlarge. The Sunday school will increase in number and power. The other organizations will do greater work. God will abundantly bless them. Happy are the pastors who are privileged to serve this people.

E. LESTER BALLARD.

Randolph.—We have had a good people to serve. While we have only received twenty-four into the church, we think some good has been done. But for the loss of a great number of our people by death the year would have been a very pleasant one.

We have received many tokens of kindness during the year. But we have received two poundings recently. Just two weeks from the time the good people at Bethany came and gave us a surprise pounding; a number of our good people from Bethel came, and served a good dinner on the lawn, in front of pastor's home; after a short stay, left us many things to use, which we highly appreciated. Only those who know these good people have a true idea of what they brought.

They left us happy; and in our hearts there was a prayer for God's blessings upon them.

A. O. LINDLEY.

Pleasant Grove.—The fourth quarterly conference was held the 22nd. 'Most all the officials were present, also some visitors. The business was transacted in a very fine spirit. The pastor's salary was fixed at $1600. Mr. Fred N. Kennedy is the delegate to conference, Mr. Homer Veach alternate delegate. The delegate was instructed to ask for the return of the present pastor. We sincerely hope the conference will send him back to us next year. We feel very grateful to Brother Reynolds and family for the splendid work they have been doing here at Pleasant Grove.

Brother Reynolds filled his appointment Sunday morning with an installation service. The officers installed were:

Board of Trustees—Mr. W. S. Cecil, Mr. F. N. Kennedy, Mr. J. M. Kennedy, Mr. I. W. Burton, Mr. W. H. Burton, Mr. J. M. Hilton, and Mr. Homer Veach; Board of Stewards—Mr. B. E. Kennedy, Mr. J. E. Veach, Mr. B. E. Payne, Mr. J. R. Meridith, Mrs. Vivian Cecil, Mrs. W. H. Burton, Mrs. Ralph Kennedy, and Mrs. O. W. Cecil.

Our Sunday school is still increasing; there are nearly 225 on roll; the attendance yesterday was 131. That does not seem so bad for a country church on a rainy day.

May God's blessings be upon the conference.

MRS. RALPH KENNEDY.

Rehoboth Church, Granville Circuit.—It was indeed a great pleasure to hear a Gospel message from Dr. Dixon, the second Sunday of October.

Dr. Dixon is so genuine that it is an inspiration to hear him. We hope he will come again.

Our pastor, Rev. W. F. Kennett, has been giving us splendid service. Recently he preached a sermon which was especially for the children, and they were very attentive and interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennett have endeared themselves to us during their service on this charge. They have indeed been faithful workers for the Lord.

The Missionary Auxiliary held its October meeting with Mrs. D. I. Wrenn. Each member was asked to give twenty-five cents to help raise the budget. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. W. C. Cheathem. Mrs. D. I. Perkins, of Raleigh, sent a generous offering to the Auxiliary, for which we are grateful.

On the third Sunday in October we elected church officers for the coming year. Mr. Tom Chandler was re-elected as Sunday school superintendent.

The fifth Sunday Rally was held at Union with a goodly crowd attending, inspite of the inclement weather.

Mr. Ellis, of Mt. Carmel, is delegate to conference from Granville circuit.

REPORTER.

South Davidson Charge.—When this article appears in the Herald we will have been in session at the Annual Conference at least two days.

Because of the fact that I have had associated with me for the past year a very efficient and faithful reporter I have not attempted to write very much for the Herald. Brother C. B. Way has been very kind in relieving me of that very important work and has acted in the capacity of reporter for the West Lexington church and has reported numerous items from the other churches. We as pastor and people of this charge are deeply indebted to him for his faithful service. Not only has Brother Way been faithful in reporting for us, but has assisted the pastor by filling appointments and assisting in services on other occasions. On the fourth Sunday it was the privilege of the writer to have Brother Way preach at both the morning and evening service at West Lexington church. A severe cold caused the pastor to call the preacher to help in these services. At the morning service Brother Way brought a forceful message to which a goodly number listened with interest and received much help. It was Communion Service and the pastor was assisted in this service by the preacher. A large number were present for the service which was very encouraging to the pastor of the church. At the evening service a good number came and heard another interesting message. It was gratifying to see the large number out in spite of the chilling rain that fell before and after the service.

The year has been very profitable in many ways to the charge. Improvements have been made at the West Lexington church and much better work is being done now. The four Sunday school rooms add greatly to the work and the Ladies' Aid has improved the interior by having a coat of paint put on and by placing rubber carpet on the aisles at the cost of about one hundred dollars.

The records show a marked improvement in the attendance, interest and offerings over last year. The membership is small at the churches but many good people are to be found on this charge.

The finances are right much behind at this writing and will be when the final report is finished, but the people art to be congratulated on the effort that they have put forth. West Lexington pays pastor's salary in full and gave the pastor $13.50 in addition. Some of the ladies were instrumental in securing funds during the summer to purchase the pastor a new suit. They have paid a good sum on the budgets. Yadkin college and Jerusalem have paid the A. C. B. and College assessment in full. Mt. Carmel has made some improvement over last year on the claims but are the most behind of the four churches on the charge. Dr. Dixon told the fourth quarterly conference in September that we had already paid more than was paid last year.

The membership has been increased some, but not as much as the pastor had hoped for. West Lexington has the largest increase due to the fact five members of another church on the charge transferred and six others have been received by confession or by letter. Death has only once entered our ranks and this time claiming Brother George G. Gibson, the oldest and a very faithful and devoted member of this church. The people are asking and working for some changes that will help the work of the church in this section and I trust the conference officials will see fit to make the changes if it can conscientiously be done. All the churches are weak in numbers and therefore weak financially and the work needs help from some source and I trust the matter will be arranged to the best interest of all the people.

Wishing for every pastor the best year yet in your history and the readers of the Herald every success in making the Kingdom larger and stronger.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

Orange Charge.—Rev. A. G. Dixon, D. D., and Mrs. Dixon were with us yesterday at Chestnut Ridge. Mrs. Dixon spoke at 10:40 a.m., giving us a splendid address. Dr. Dixon preached at 11:00 a.m. one of his best sermons. Owing to the threatening weather, the congregation was somewhat off. However, a good sized congregation was present. Both messages were of a high order, and gladly received. Will be glad for Mr. and Mrs. Dixon to come this way again.

Brother Contrell, pastor of the Baptist church, preached for us at Efland last night, giving us a good sermon.

This brings our year's work to a close. One church (Efland) has paid all claims in full. Union Grove has pledged all claims. Hope to have this all in hand by conference. Hebron is out on pastor's salary and Annual Conference claims. Chestnut Ridge hopes to follow Hebron's example. College assessment has been paid in full. B. M. WILLIAMS.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.— Yesterday was a good day for us. Rally Day service was held, a very good congregation was present considering the weather.

Rev. A. G. Dixon and good wife was with us for the 11 o'clock service, sorry that it was so they could not be with us all day. A very interesting talk was given by Mrs. Dixon on Power of Choice; then Mr. Dixon preached a splendid sermon which was enjoyed by all. Come again, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon.

Mr. Browning of Hillsboro failed to be with us, so our pastor filled the pulpit Sunday afternoon and delivered a helpful sermon. This closes up this Annual Conference year on this charge. We are hoping to send our delegate to conference with all claims paid, so pastor and people are busy at this time getting up their report. At the last quarterly conference it was unanimously voted for the return of our present pastor.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. ANNIE SQUIRES, Reporter.

Pleasant Hill, West Forsyth.—Our revival services began the third Sunday in October and closed on Sunday night following. We had the help of the Billy Sunday Club of Winston-Salem. The services were enjoyed by all and the church was gloriously revived.

We have recently installed a Delco lighting plant in our church.

We are very well pleased with our Sunday school work. We have had a very good attendance.

Our Missionary societies are doing nicely too.

We all like Mr. Whitaker so much and do hope he will be sent back to us.

May God's blessing be upon the conference.

REPORTER.

Siler City.—Sunday was Rally Day at Siler City. Regardless of a rainy day seventy-three were present at Sunday school.

The morning service was well attended; a quartette composed of Messers. Dark, Fraizer, Smith and McMasters of Liberty. A solo by Miss Lucile Boone, student in Elon college. These musical numbers were much enjoyed. Dr. J. D. Gregg of Liberty delivered the Rally Day message. "God's Man" was his subject and it was presented in a very forceful manner.

Quarterly conference was held at Liberty three p.m. Sunday. We were glad to have with us Dr. and Mrs. Dixon and daughter of Greensboro. Dr. Dixon presided over the meeting. All organizations had written reports. These reports showed progress being made along all lines. A motion was made and carried that the report presented by the pastor be placed in the Herald. The salary for the coming year was raised in this manner: The pastor will be given a leave of absence to attend the Seminary without any change in the present salary. The local churches will provide supply. There was a good spirit between the two churches and the work was considered to be in the best condition ever before. There was unanimous vote for the return of the present pastor.

The Christian Endeavor leader Sunday night was Miss Hazel Pickett; had a well planned program. A number of visitors were present.

The program given by the children was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Dr. Dixon made an interesting talk which was gladly heard by all. An offering was taken for our educational interest. A solo by Miss Boone. We were glad to have with us Miss Lucile Gibbs and Mr. Brooks of Burlington.

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society had a Hallowe'en Social Friday night. A large number was present. A good spirit prevailed during the business meeting.

(Miss) LEBERS STONE, Reporter.

High Point.—The last quarterly conference of the year was held last Wednesday evening in the Christian Endeavor room of the church, and was well attended by official members. The pastor, Dr. Geo. R. Brown, presided, and the Secretary, Mr. J. W. Hinkle, read the minutes of the preceding session. The pastor then made his report, and in his resume of the year's work gave some interesting statistics. He has received 85 new members during this conference year, but 13 have been transferred to other churches at their own request, and four have been called to the Church Triumphant above, making a net gain of 68, which is a splendid record for one year. The membership now totals 623 souls. Dr. Brown urged upon the congregation the necessity of securing an assistant to the pastor, since the work has enlarged and grown so rapidly. Mr. R. H. Shaw, superintendent of the Sunday school, reported that the school is in splendid working order, being a standard school with all Departments, Cradle Roll, Beginners, Primary, Junior, Intermediate, and Adult, including Philatheas, Baracas, and Home Department. All these are organized with competent officers and teachers and are doing splendid work. Approximately 600 are enrolled in the entire school, and on Rally Day last September the attendance was more than 500. Mr. Shaw is closing his tenth year as superintendent, and is to be congratulated on the splendid record he has made in this very responsible position. The church owes him a lasting debt of gratitude, which must forever remain unpaid. The President of C. E. Society gave an excellent report, showing that this group of estimable young people is banded together in loyal service to their pastor and their Lord. The Ladies' Aid Society, through Mrs. C. L. Gray, Treasurer, reported fine work for the year, showing the total amount of money raised was $1460. The Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. H. A. Garrett, Treasurer, reported the sum of $560 raised, and Mrs. R. T. Pickens reported $435 from the Home Missionary Society. Thus it will be seen that the impecunious women of the First church have contributed almost $2500 this year in addition to their regular church pledges. The men have been generous also; in addition to pastor's salary, the Conference Budgets, assessment for High Point College, and various items for maintenance, they have reduced the indebtedness on the new church by $4000. The church property including parsonage is estimated to be worth more than $200,000. This is a plant of which any congregation may be proud. Dr. Brown is closing the ninth year of his ministry among us, and he and his lovely wife have the esteem and regard of our people in great measure. They have won a high place in the civic life of our city also, and are greatly loved and esteemed by the entire city of High Point. Dr. Brown has led a consistent, Christian life in his daily walk among us, and naught but good can be said of him. He has endeared himself to the people of the First church in an unusual degree and they will love and honor him to the close of their lives as an examplary, upright, Christian gentleman and consecrated minister of the Gospel.

According to our custom, the quarterly conference was followed by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper on Sunday, which was observed by a large number.

The Woman's Foreign and Home Missionary Societies held a most interesting and delightful meeting on Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. L. Whitaker at High Point College. There was a good attendance, and three new members, Mesdames J. W. Mitchell, J. H. Ferguson, and J. W. Meredith were gladly received into our ranks. The Rally for the Young People's Societies, which was postponed, was discussed at length, and it will be given at a later time. The Home Society decided to hold their usual Thank Offering service on Sunday evening following Thanksgiving Day, which will be November 28th and the program will be presented by a group of the children from the Home under the training of Mrs. Cook, one of the new teachers. The Foreign Society has a membership of 113, while the Home Society has 76. The Foreign Society recently made Miss Millie L. Bowman a Memorial member. The Home Society has recently contributed $141.00 to Scholarship Loan Fund in High Point College and $9.00 to Bethel Home. Boxes of clothing have been sent to Pine Ridge, Ky., and others are being packed.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Penny are building a very handsome residence near Jamestown on the Greensboro-High Point highway. Extensive grounds have been laid off and beautified, and work on the residence is well under way. When completed, this estate will be one of the most beautiful of this section, and will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Penny.

High Point now boasts a Public Library, which will fill a long-felt need. After several years' struggle on the part of the Woman's Club and a few faithful ones, the cherished dream will be realized when the Library is opened to the public in a few days. Nine public-spirited citizens have donated $500 each, and with contributions by other citizens, various clubs, etc, the amount of $6000 has been raised with which to purchase books. One thousand books have already been received and catalogued. The Library occupies handsome quarters on third floor of the Municipal Building, and is nicely equipped. Miss Mariame Martin, of Norfolk, Va., is the capable Librarian, and Miss Lucille Pickens is her Assistant. High Point people will no longer bear the stigma of being too commercial and "money minded," but with High Point College and a new City Library, the cultural side of life is being taken care of.

In a pretty and impressive ceremony at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cox, on Colonial Drive, little Miss Sara Cox was baptized on Monday evening by Dr. Brown in the presence of a few relatives and close friends.

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Eadds of Mt. Airy are guests in the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. W. P. Pickett on N. Main Street. Rev. Mr. Eadds is a member of the W. N. C. Conference of the M. E. church, South.

We regret very much to note the illness of Mrs. E. G. Lowdermilk at the Children's Home, and her many friends wish for her an early recovery. .

Mangum and Harrell and Fletcher Cox, who are students at Oak Ridge, spent the past week-end with their grandmother, Mrs. W. P. Pickett and Mrs. Minnie P. Harrell.

MARRIED

Shoemaker-Dameron

A marriage of no little interest was solemnized on Saturday afternoon October 16, when the writer said the words that made Miss Esther Myrtle Dameron the wife of Mr. William Garland Shoemaker. These happy folks are among the most promising of the younger set of the First Church, Thomasville, and their union is a source of many congratulations on the part of their friends.

Mrs. Shoemaker is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. R. Dameron, while Mr. Shoemaker is a young business man, connected with the W. P. Beck Grocery, of this city. Both parties have been noted for their interest in church work, and their marriage will strengthen our church.

Only a few invited friends accompanied the happy couple to the parsonage, but hundreds join the pastor in wishing them the best of life's bounties. J. L. TROLLINGER.

HERALD'S HONOR ROLL

(Pastors who during year collected over $20 each from subscribers.)

Rev. S. W. Taylor	$52.50
Rev. B. M. Williams	42.75
Rev. W. D. Reed	39.60
Rev. J. B. Trogdon	39.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer	37.50
Rev. W. F. Kennett	36.75
Rev. H. L. Isley	30.00
Rev. J. M. Morgan	26.25
Rev. E. Suits	25.25
Rev. W. F. Ashburn	25.00
Rev. F. L. Gibbs	24.00
Rev. H. F. Surratt	23.50

We thank these and all others who have ided the Herald by field work. Without this elp publication of a church paper would be mpossible.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Gibbs

Mrs. Ida Gerringer Gibbs, a most loyal member of this church, Sunday school and Ladies' Aid Society, passed to her reward Friday, October 8, 1926, at her home, Elon College, N. C. The funeral services were conducted at Fairview Methodist Protestant church, the church of her childhood, and her body laid to rest in the church cemetery, beneath a mound of flowers. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, assisted by Rev. S. W. Taylor, Rev. C. G. Isley, Rev. T. F. McCulloch, and Rev. Mr. Alexander. The large number of people attending the services evidenced her popularity.

Whereas, our Heavenly Father has seen fit to transfer Sister Gibbs from our midst to the Church Triumphant; and

Whereas, in the death of Sister Gibbs, this church, Sunday school, and Ladies' Aid Society have lost one of the most loyal and consecrated members, one who was always present whenever possible, and who was always anxious to do her bit for the Master and His Kingdom; and whose life revealed her love for Him. Therefore be it

Resolved, that we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father; and be it further

Resolved, that we hereby express our appreciation for the noble and consecrated life, and loyalty of Sister Gibbs, and our deeply felt loss in our church and kindred organizations of which she was a faithful member, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that they be spread upon the minutes of this church, that they be published in the Methodist Protestant Herald, and that they be read at the next service.

Fountain Place Methodist Protestant Church, Sunday school and Ladies' Aid.
MRS. T. A. AMICK, for Ladies' Aid,
C. B. AMICK, for Sunday school.
HERBERT W. WADE, for Church.

Culler

Sarah Ann Eliza (Stone) Culler, born July 22, 1860, died October 1, 1926. She was married June 10, 1881, to Egbert Culler. Unto this union were born six children, three boys, and three girls, all of whom survive her.

She joined the M. P. church at Mt. Zion several years ago, and lived a consistent member until death.

We have visited in her home a number of times, and always found her, seemingly, willing and glad to receive us, with a pleasant smile.

Brother Culler preceded her only about eleven mounths. She has been in failing health for a few months, owing to heart trouble, but the end came very unexpectedly. She had peeled and cut fruit until about 8:30 p.m., and was a corpse at 10:00 p.m. Life is very uncertain. She has a very aged mother, near 100 years old. She had been watching and listening for the end to come to her, for some time, but for some unknown cause she was taken, and the aged mother left.

May this dispensation of providence serve to draw us all nearer the Master so we may go some day and dwell with Jesus, and all our dear ones who are gone before. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved.

A. L. HUNTER.

Braswell

In remembrance of our dear father, James Cumberland Braswell, aged 73, who passed away at a local hospital at Winston-Salem, N. C., on July 18, 1926. The deceased was a son of the late John and Lucy Braswell. He was a native of Anson county but moved to Richmond county twenty years ago and lived here until two years ago when his health failed and he had to give up work, and for the past two years has spent the most of his time in Winston-Salem with his children. He visited his daughter, Mrs. J. R. Cherry at Rockingham several times during the past two years. The funeral was conducted by Dr. C. M. Compher, the pastor of the First M. P. church at Winston-Salem. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. Ashburn, of Greensboro.

Mr. Braswell was a member of the Pee Dee M. P. church at Rockingham. He has been a loyal member and loved to go to the church and lend a helping hand in any way he could; but in his last days had almost lost his hearing and he often spoke of how glad he was that he could remember some of the good sermons he had heard. He was laid to rest by the side of his wife in the May cemetery, near Polkton, N. C., where he will rest until the resurrection morning. Father was converted at the age of fourteen and he often spoke of the way growing brighter as he grew older. He leaves to mourn his loss four sons, H. W. Braswell, of South Carolina, M. D., N. B. and L. F. Braswell, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Collins, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. J. R. Cherry, of Rockingham and one brother, Rev. D. A. Braswell, of Concord, N. C. Fifteen grand children and four great grand children all whom he was so fond of and seemed to be delighted to be with. He was often giving the young and older ones good counsel, he told them the only life worth living was a Christian life. He said he was ready to go just a few days before he died and spoke of the Bible saying: "The Lord has promised to be with us through the valley and shadows of death." Oh, 'tis hard to part with you, dear father, we miss you so much in every way, we miss you around our family altar in explaining the good old Bible to us. We miss your good advice when we are in trouble or sorrow in any way. Oh, 'tis then we miss you the most for when we could tell you our trouble and sorrow it seemed that it would relieve us so much for it seemed that you could show us where the ray of sun was shining. Dear father, thou art gone to be with Jesus and left us here below, but we hope some day to meet you in that land so fair, where we will never say good by nor take the parting hand.

Oh, here is your Bible, the one you used to read to us. The leaves have faded and backs are worn, but it seems to us most precious because it was yours, and it seems to me I

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

could not take the worth of it in gold for it is the one that led you through the world and placed your feet on the streets of gold. Oh, how I miss you, dear father, but thou art safe with Jesus and free from all sickness and sorrow and where pain is felt no more. We hope to be as faithful as you were and go to sleep in Jesus as you did. Oh, the end was so easy, just as going to sleep.

We wish to thank the many friends of Winston-Salem and other places for their kindness during the illness and death of our father.

MRS. J. R. CHERRY, His Daughter.

Smith

Aldora Smith, daughter of W. H. and Augusta Smith, died September 30, 1926, at Salisbury hospital, where she had spent most of her time since last November. During that time she had undergone eight operations, and no one but her and her Heavenly Father knew what she suffered. Yet those who were with her most say that she bore it all with as much patience as any one could, and seemed to have a very great desire to get well, all the while putting up a very brave fight for her life, and seemed perfectly willing to bear almost anything, if she could be entirely restored to health, and seemed hopeful until all hope and strength were exahusted, yet all the while expressed herself as being ready to go.

She professed faith in Christ and joined Pinnacle M. P. church, July 1915, and has ever since been true to her church, seeming greatly concerned about its success and we now feel assured that she is gone beyond these earthly sufferings, to the church triumphant, Funeral services conducted by the writer, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, after which the remains were laid to rest in Pinnacle cemetery.

The bereaved have our sympathy.

A. L. HUNTER.

Andrews

Thomas Winburn Andrews was born in Randolph county, July 7, 1832, and entered into his heavenly rest October 22, 1926 at the age of over 94 years. His early days were spent at his birth place, but later the family moved to Davidson county. From this county he enlisted in the confederate army, serving in Company F, Second N. C. Regiment. He was captured and kept in prison at Fort Delaware for ten months On October 8, 1866 Mr. Andrews was united in marriage to Mrs. Amy Elizabeth Hicks with whom he lived happily until her death thirteen years ago. Soon after his marriage he returned to Randolph county and became one of its leading citizens, living about five miles west of Asheboro and near Charlotte M. P. church. From childhood days Brother Andrews had been a professing Christian. He first joined the M. E. church, South, but later transferred his membership to Charlotte M. P. Church, where, it is said, he held every office in the church except that of pastor. He was an exceedingly well-informed man and made a most excellent Sunday school teacher. He often held class meetings and prayer meetings and many people were helped by his splendid testimonies.

The funeral was held at Charlotte M. P. church Sunday afternoon, October 24, at three o'clock and was conducted by the writer who had known him for many years. Daughters of the Confederacy were flower bearers and the Masons had charge at the grave.

Brother Andrews is survived by the following children: H. R and N. S. Andrews, of Asheboro, J. M. Andrews of Lake Stears, Florida, Mrs. Bettie Poole and Miss Lula Andrews of Asheboro, Route 2, and one step son, T. C. Hicks of Greensboro. Mr. C. F. Finch of Thomasville, so well known to Methodist Protestants in this state, is a nephew of the deceased.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

EXPEDITION TO SOUTH POLE

The government of Argentina, South America, and the Argentine Geographical Institute, are sending out an expedition, Nov. 15, that will try to reach the South Pole. The party will go by boat to Graham Land, where a base will be established. From this base exploration flights in an airplane will be made over the western coast of Graham Land and the Weddell Sea. When the weather permits, a flight to the South Pole will be attempted. The members of the party hope to find documents and other things left near the South Pole by Captain Robert F. Scott, the English explorer. Captain Scott reached the Pole on Jan. 18, 1912, but perished on the return journey.—Current Events.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER

PLATED WARE :: CHINA

CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL

BLACK FACE TYPE BIBLES

The Only Self-Pronouncing Black Face Type Bibles Published

Best for Young and Old—Home and School—Teachers and Students

Send for Illustrated Catalog

THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers

American Bible Headquarters

85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

THANK YOU

We are much pleased with the change in the Herald, both as to looks and arrangement of matter. It is a good paper.

MRS. L. B. STREET.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER, EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

Pres Elderdtice 5dec7
Westminster MD

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., NOVEMBER 11, 1926 NUMBER 1

The Eternal Distinction

The emphasis we place on many of the distinctions we make is due to prejudice begotten of a narrow experience. We learn in the course of the years the unimportance of some things we have been counting as essentials. In other words, we escape from the bondage of our prejudices and emerge into the liberty of a wider knowledge. Advancing knowledge affects our devotion to parties and to creeds. Advancing knowledge leads to the breaking up of parties and to the abandonment of creeds. This process has led some to wonder whether all our beliefs are not simply relative to our degree of knowledge and has suggested the thought that there is no such thing as fixed and abiding truth. "What is truth?" asked Pilate, and waited not for an answer, possibly because he thought there could be no answer. Are all our beliefs simply results of an accidental experience? Would a wholly different experience have resulted in the formation of a wholly different set of beliefs? Were our minds blank in the beginning, and are our beliefs today simply the marks that a fluctuating environment have made upon the plastic material of our minds? We know that many of the beliefs of mankind vary from age to age with a deeper investigation and closer scrutiny of the processes of the natural world. The reaction of mind to the impress of nature is constantly varying. The next generation will modify our conception of the natural world. But is not nature a system of abiding substances and fixed principles, and is not the change in our conception a possible indication of progress toward a final and true conception? Is not nature knowable? Is there not abiding truth in the heart of nature and is it not the business of science to advance toward that perfect knowledge which when it comes will abide as long as the world endures? We believe this is the true conception of the science of nature. The changeableness of human conception is not due to any changeableness in the subject of our knowledge, but to the fact that we know in part as yet and are constantly getting new views of a world too great for our present comprehension.

When we turn to the realm of moral ideas, we find the same tendency to regard distinctions as mere accidents and therefore to ignore them. When we cannot quite annihilate them we minify them; we say, "There is but little difference between this course and that." If we cannot identify white with black, we bridge over the gap between them with all intervening colors, merging into black through dark gray. We justify our conduct by wiping out the distinction between right and wrong. We resolve moral distinctions into mere ethical prejudices begotten of a narrow experience. We obliterate all moral limitations and turn ourselves out into absolute freedom. As the skeptical Pilate asked, "What is truth?" so we ask, "What is morality?" By a mere fiat of our own minds we emancipate ourselves from moral law.

But while we may derive some temporary comfort by this process, it is a most dangerous course to pursue. It is simply committing moral suicide. The distinction between right and wrong cannot be obliterated from the human mind, though it may be for a time obscured. It is engraved deep in the soul of man. It is an eternal distinction, and the man that tries to ignore it and perhaps succeeds for a time will hereafter awaken to the voice of condemnation within his own soul. The path of "nearly right" diverges far from the path of "wholly right." As the material world about us is the creature of God, incorporating His unchangeable truth, so the great world within us, the world of conscience, the world of moral ideas, is a world in which God has expressed eternal law. To obliterate our noblest moral ideals is to unmake ourselves and reduce ourselves toward brutehood.

After Conference

Conference is a time of anxiety to many and of strain to at least a part of the members. The end of Conference brings new responsibilities to all the ministers and they have to take up new burdens at once. In former less strenuous days the pastor might defer the beginning of his work for a few weeks and no blame was attached to him, and he did not seem to realize that he was recreant to his trust. But in these more active days the pastor will be missed if he does not report for duty at once. This makes it rather hard upon some, and consideration should be given to the fact that conference sessions are not periods of relaxation but periods of anxiety and strain. Pastors entering new fields should be given special consideration. They will be able to do better later than they can do at first.

How a New Church Was Started

Two copies of the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD stuck together and were delivered to the same person. He saw the name on the other. He did not know before that there was another Methodist Protestant in that city. He took the paper that did not belong to him and went to seek the owner of it. Thus began an acquaintance that resulted in a new church organization. The HERALD is glad to have had this small part in bringing these two loyal Methodist Protestants together. Both were live coals before or the meeting would have amounted to little.

More Convenient Money Needed

Has it not occurred to you that the United States government could improve on our paper money by making the bills smaller? With the present size of bank notes it is difficult to carry them in the pocket without crumpling them. If they were made one-third or one-half as large they might be carried without folding them. They would last longer and look better and be less bulky. When you get in position to determine this matter, we trust that you will give it your serious attention.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONFERENCE

(Continued from last week)

Rural Church Life

We are still largely a rural people. We have great opportunities in the country, and there is no place where intense cultivation brings more fruitful returns than in many of our country districts. Where a circuit pays sufficient salary for a pastor to devote his whole time to the work they almost immediately see good results.

These conditions are being remedied by paying better salaries, beautifying the church grounds, and the church buildings. In many places we are now building Sunday school rooms about our country churches. Our country people have just the same need for modern church plants as do the city people.

With a view to getting some definite plans laid at this Conference we have appointed a Special Committee on Rural Church Life, and the chairman of this committee has invited Dr. Taylor, of the State College, to address this Conference on Rural Church opportunities. We have also alloted a time for this committee to report, and for discussion of this important theme. I suggest that this become a regular committee, to make report to Conference each year, as do the other committees.

Church Music

It is good to report that a change for the better in our Sunday school and church music is perceptible in many of our communities. The tendency is back toward congregational singing. It is getting to be out of date for the choir to get off in one corner and do all the singing on all occasions. We thank God for this trend, and will rejoice when we have plenty of good books in all our churches and when all who can sing are joining in the worship in song.

Much improvement needs to be made yet, and much jazz needs to be cut out yet; but, thank the Lord, we are on the way to better things.

Literature

The Methodist Protestant, The Methodist Recorder, THE METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, and The Missionary Record are all our own church papers. We cannot be intelligent with reference to all the work of our church unless we read all four of them.

Our ministers and our laymen should take both of the general organs of the church, if possible. They are both good papers, and ably edited. Our own conference paper is very greatly improved since putting on its new dress in the early fall. We rejoice with Dr. McCulloch in the relief that has come to him in the coming of his son, Warren, and Mr. James Swain, son of Dr. W. E. Swain, into the office. We wish for them success in their enlarged plans.

The Missionary Record is our only Missionary publication. It should have a much wider circulation. The price is 75c per year. Mrs. E. Lester Ballard, Greensboro, N. C., will be glad to give you any information concerning The Missionary Record, and take your subscription.

We thank Rev. C. W. Bates for giving us an occasional digest of the outstanding happenings in the other conferences through the HERALD, and for giving the other conferences something of our doings through the two general church papers.

Methodist Protestant Sunday School Literature is the best possible literature for Methodist Protestant Sunday Schools. There is no law to compel our people to use it, except the law of common loyalty to ourselves and to our own.

We have every reasonable assurance that our Sunday school literature in the coming months will be better than ever.

Evangelism

This is the real business of the church—the winning of the unsaved to Jesus Christ. I trust we will continue to hold our old-time revivals; but all of us know that besides doing that we must resort to many other plans and methods. We must get back and down to the elementary principles of evangelism, and "Train up the children in the way they should go." The best time to lead a person to Jesus is in childhood, certainly before they pass the age of 16; for when they pass that age and grow up into maturity the chances that they will ever come to Jesus decrease very rapidly.

We should be very careful and prayerful, lest in the midst o fthe multiplicity of church functions in this day, we forget the main object of the church—the winning of our fellow men to Jesus.

District Parsonage

The district parsonage has no driveway leading to the back lot. We are using a driveway belonging to others, and it is being used over their protest. We have asked that a driveway be opened on the south side of the parsonage, and a garage built. This will not cost a great deal, but if the President of this Conference is to continue to live there the Trustees of the parsonage should certainly be directed to open this driveway and build a garage.

Group Insurance

A special committee on Group Insurance for the Conference has been appointed, and the committee will make very definite report to this Conference concerning the plans for carrying group insurance, also concerning the caring for our Superannutes, who for a long time have been members of the Conference Brotherhood. I trust this plan may be adopted.

Recommendations

I recommend:

1. That pastors be urged to work faithfully the every member canvass in raising the local benevolences and the budgets. That the weekly and monthly payment plan be stressed. And that the Honor system be tried out in our churches, the stewards following that up by seeing all who did not report to make their own pledges.

2. At the request of the President of the General Conference, I directed that Rev. C. W. Bates visit the Tennessee Conference in its recent sessions, and bear to them our fraternal greetings. They were celebrating their One Hundredth Anniversary, and for this reason Dr. Lewis asked us to send a messenger. I recommend that the expenses of the trip be paid.

3. The Commission on Methodist Co-operation requested the continuance of fraternal greetings as practiced last year. Our commissioners asked me to name the man to go to Gastonia, N. C., to represent us before the Western North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church, South, during its sitting, October 20th to 25th. I asked Rev. R. M. Andrews, D. D., to go. This he did. I recommend that his expenses for the trip be paid. I also recommend that Rev. T. M. Johnson, D. D., be asked to represent us before the Eastern North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church, South, when they meet in Durham early in December. One or more messengers are expected from these Conferences to address us during this session.

4. Our Pastors' Summer Conference and our Young People's Summer Conference have already agreed to meet on Monday after the second Sunday in July, 1927. The Young People's Summer Conference will last one week. I recommend that all pastors, insofar as possible, plan to remain over Sunday with the young people, and participate with them in the closing exercises.

5. I recommend that the College management be asked to work out a Summer School of four or five weeks' duration for the benefit of some of our young men who wish to take this extra course, provided the expenses of such a school can be cared for. Those young men who are interested in the project should be elected to work it out with Dr. R. M. Andrews, President of the College.

6. I recommend that February, 1927, be designated as Stewardship Month, that the Bible teachings on Stewardship be stressed in classes and from the pulpit, and that during February each church endeavor to raise in full the allotment for Church Extension.

7. Rev. B. M. Williams suggested "Annual Conference Day." Plan to have the work of the Annual Conference presented in detail. This to be done, if possible, by the laymen. Get church officers to prepare a paper explaining the work of their offices. Then the pastor or some invited speaker explain fully the work of the Annual Conference. I believe this will do good, so recommend that "Annual Conference Day" be planned for each church, preferably during February.

8. I recommend that all the unordained men serving in the regular pastorate of this Conference be required to attend the Pastors' Summer Conference at High Point College, unless they have an excuse that will be acceptable to the Conference Faculty. And that the President of the Summer Conference be required to do his best to get charges to pay the expenses to the Summer Conference of pastors who may be serving them.

9. We have just a few charges whose churches cannot well be grouped with other so as to pay a living salary. They are truly mission fields—some of them have said to me, "We cannot live by ourselves, and we don't want the Conference to throw us away. Please help us out in some way." I recommend that the Board of Church Extension be directed to assist such charges to pay a pastor a reasonable salary.

10. The Conference Trustees, who hold, for the Conference, the Old Yadkin College, should be directed to make thorough investigations, and if this building is not rendering a service to the community sufficient to justify its standing, then it should be sold and the money put into High Point College.

11. As this is our One Hundred and First Conference Session, and yet not our one hundred and first annual session, I recommend that the Conference secretary be asked, with the aid of any of our older men whom he may call to his assistance, to find out what Annual session it is, and in calling the next Annual Conference to meet give its proper setting as to Annual sessions. I think it will be found that in the fall of 1927 we will meet in our One Hundredth Annual Session. If so, I recommend that the program committee be instructed to prepare for a suitable celebration.

With thanksgiving to our Father, Who has led us through another year, and with gratitude to you and your people for your kindness to me, and for your co-operation in the work, and praying His blessings upon all of you, I am

Faithfully years in His service,

A. G. Dixon.

A THOUSAND-DOLLAR PRIZE OFFER RENEWED

Two years ago the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention offered a prize of $1,000 for the best manuscript treating of "Evangelical Christianity As An Alternative For a Lost or Decaying Religious Faith." The purpose of this advertisement was to provide a book which should be helpful to a large company of intelligent men and women in all lands who, having outgrown certain religious forms and faiths, but left with unsatisfied religious needs, could be induced to give Evangelical Christianity consideration if it were presented to them in attractive and appealing form. In response to this advertisement a large number of manuscripts were submitted. These have had the attention of a committee selected to examine them. The committee reports that, while there were several most excellent manuscripts among those submitted, there was not one which the committee feels meets the conditions of the advertisement and which should be given the $1,000 under it. That contest is, therefore, closed, but the $1,000 which was offered having been contributed by individuals who were interested in this piece of mission work, and the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention having this amount on hand with no authority to use it for any other purpose, makes this announcement of the renewal of its offer to pay $1,000 for a manuscript to which a competent committee shall make this award. The offer is open to everybody, and we shall be glad to send anybody upon application a copy of the advertisement which defines the sort of book that is wanted and the terms on which the $1,000 will be paid. All manuscripts must be submitted on or before January 1, 1928.

All who are interested in this matter should address J. F. Love, Cor. Sec'y Foreign Mission Board, S. B. C., Richmond, Virginia.

THE WORLD SPEAKS TO THE CHURCH

To crowds that throng the city street,
Or jostle in the marts of trade;
To carefree youth whose joyous feet
Dance through the world that Thou hast made;
To masters in the realm of thought,
And toilers bent beneath the rod;
To lonely hearts by men forgot,
Be thou to all—the House of God!

When men cry out, confused in mind,
For Truth's clear, guiding beam of light;
When blinded teachers lead the blind,
Or rob the seeing eyes of sight;
When Knowledge walks with faltering stride,
The path which Faith so grandly trod;
When Reason fails, and doubts abide,
Be thou to all—the Voice of God!

Above the strife and race and creed,
And hate which scorns the common good;
Above the narrowing lust of greed
Which laughs at dreams of brotherhood;
Above a nation's trust in war
Which thrusts its youth beneath the sod;
Above the glamorous lies that mar—
Be thou to all—the Peace of God!

—The Congregationalist.

Denominational Enterprises

FLNANCIAL MATTERS—JAPAN

The following from "The Christian Movement in Japan" casts light upon the early financial conditions confronting the newly organized churches in that land, and shows that there were difficulties then to meet the demands which equaled those of the present at home and abroad.

"The Japanese had been baptized in different parts of the country previous to organizing the first Christian church in Yokohama, March 10, 1872. Doubtless they were duly instructed in the matter of giving, judging from the practical character of the missionaries who were instrumental in leading them to Christ. But no data has come down to us as to what gifts were made, or how they were administered.

The first pastors of these churches were missionaries whose salaries were provided by their respective Boards, but there were current expenses which would be borne by the Christians themselves. The converts were multiplying rapidly, as in Yokohama church alone 166 communicants and 19 children had been received up to July, 1875, and a year later the total number of Christians had crossed the thousand mark. A paper read before the Osaka Conference in 1883 by Rev. C. K. Knox states the Christians were largely from the middle classes with a fair proportion of wealthy men, and suggests 25 sen per month as a minimum average contribution per member.

In 1873 a Thelogical Class was organized by Dr. S. R. Brown, composed of a dozen or more members, and within a year or two these young men were being sent out to take charge of work that had been established. Three candidates were ordained to the ministry in 1877, replacing the missionaries as pastors of the churches, so that the expense of the work gradually increased. Data is not at hand to show how these first Japanese workers were supported, but presumably in whole or part by the Missions, as in 1882 56 ordained and 81 unordained ministers are reported, working in 146 congregations, of which only 14 were self-supporting.

The salaries received by these early ministers were very small. The instance of the Rev. Paul Sawayama, who returned to Japan after four years of study in America, and entered the pastorate of the Naniwa church in Osaka at a salary of seven yen per month, is well known. Many other good men work for years with salaries not much beyond that. Even in the late 80's, the writer recollects that the ordinary salary paid to evangelists was only 12 to 15 yen, and the pastors of churches received only a little more.

Rents also were cheap, and a good, substantial building could be secured for one or two yen per month, to serve as chapel or parsonage, and a rental of four or five yen was looked upon as very high. Wages were very low, a coolie or carpenter receiving 12 or 15 sen a day, while a maid servant was content with three yen a month, boarding herself. A good-sized church lot was purchased on the main street of Kanazawa, in the heart of the business section for yen 31.20, and remains the site of the thriving church to this day. Land for missionary residences usually could be bought for less than a yen per tsubo, and the large missionary houses erected in those early days cost about $2,000 gold.

These facts are given because of their bearing on the financial problems confronting the Missions and the churches at the beginnings of the Christian work in this country. Looked at from the present high costs, the problems seem simple, but in reality they were no less difficult than they are today. Japan was poor and it was just as hard, or possibly harder, for the Christians then to raise the meager sums needed for their work as it is to raise the much larger sums required at present. And the Missions on their part were just as hard pressed to make ends meet as they are now. Fred C. Klein.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION

One of the most subtle enemies the nation has today is the tobacco trust. And it is one of the richest and shrewdest with which the world has ever had to deal. With the exception of the movie trust, it has perhaps the strongest grip upon the life of the world that is held today by any organization which caters to the carnal man in order to make money. During the war, we wrote for the Arkansas Baptist Advance an article in which we called attention to the inevitable result of the movement to provide the soldiers with free cigarettes. Every prediction made in 1917 has come true.

Now, we call attention to the sly and contemptible propaganda being spread by the tobacco interests in the form of billboard advertising. If our readers have noticed, they have been struck by the fact that practically every one of the billboard posters features a beautiful young woman. Step by step the "ad" writers (expert psychologists they are) lead up to the hour when they can begin to enlist openly, the womanhood of the nation in the use of cigarettes. Now, they merely show a pretty girl along with a pack of cigarettes or show her beside a handsome man who is smoking. More recently, they have had a postor on which the young woman is made to say as the smoke rolls out of the mouth of the man, "That smells good; blow it my way." Within a few more months they will be putting out posters on which the girl is shown smoking! And, unless the moral forces of the nation rise up soon, another decade will see the entire population enslaved by the cigarette habit.

And in this connection, it may be well to call attention to the increasing number of physicians who claim that the cigarette. is not harmful. A few years ago, our books on hygiene and physiology contained many chapters that dealt with the evils of tobacco. Physicians and nerve specialists declaimed against the evils of the cigarette habit, and it was not unusual to find lengthy articles in the press of the day concerning the hurtful effects of cigarettes. And the social-welfare organizations heaped their anathemas against the evil.

But those days have passed. A few lecturers dare to give facts and figures to show that the cigarette evil is damaging the youth of the land. Some preachers still proclaim it a curse. Some factories still boycott cigarette users. Some clubs prohibit their members indulging in its use. However, the constant propaganda of the tobacco trusts has succeeded in overcoming most of the opposition once faced by their business. The effort now being put forth by them to popularize the cigarette will bear its fruit and we may expect to see the day when girls and women will smoke as nonchalantly, and much more vigorously, than the men and boys now do.—The Baptist and Reflector.

—The Jordan River in Palestine has never been navigable. No important towns exist along its banks and it empties into a salty inland sea. Its valley was the Wilderness of Hebrew times, and today is thickly forested.

MRS. WILDER'S THANK-OFFERING

HELEN MINSHALL YOUNG

The dull November day was drawing to a close, but Mrs. Wilder sat by the window. Why, she could hardly have told. The anniversary was bitter enough without adding to its dreariness by the vision of dead leaves, bare branches tossed in the autumn storm, and a withered vine that rattled mournfully against the stone wall bounding the Wilder property. On just such a day two years before, Tom had gone—left home in a fit of hot temper, and flung himself down the walk heedless of the cold rain that beat upon him. Not so much as a postal had come from him in the 24 months.

Detectives had been put on the case to no purpose; many clues had been investigated, only to lead to nothing, and in the two years that had elapsed Mrs. Wilder's brown head had turned gray, and wrinkles had appeared on Mr. Wilder's fine face. The home that had rung to the gaiety and laughter of young people was desolate and quiet.

Mrs. Bement, the minister's wife, had been struck anew that afternoon by its orderly unhappiness. Not knowing that this was a sad anniversary for Mrs. Wilder she had come on a special errand—to urge upon her friend the need of an unusually large thank-offering for Home Missions; but her pleas had been all unavailing.

"A thank-offering!" Mrs. Wilder's voice had been bitter. "Why should I give a thank-offering? My heart is too crushed to think of anything but my boy! I gave and gave—gladly and freely—but since he has been taken from me I have no desire to give. Why should I help people who would not lift a finger to help me, if our places were reversed?"

"Ah, but they would help," cried Mrs. Bement eagerly. "And as for a reason for a thank-offering—everyone has some thing to be thankful for. Remember, you had your boy for 18 happy years, Mrs. Wilder!"

Finding her efforts fruitless, Mrs. Bement had gone away sorrowful—not so much because the Wilder money was no longer doing its part in the great work of the church as because of the change in the once loving heart of her friend—a heart that had throbbed with a vision of the world need and the need of the homeland, and had generously responded to every call for help. After her visitor had gone, Mrs. Wilder watched idly as a young man, hardly more than a boy, shabby and weary-looking, came slowly along the sidewalk. As he shrank under an unusually heavy blast of the storm the ice about Mrs. Wilder's heart suddenly melted in the warmth of pity for him. She ran to the door and out on the porch, calling, "Won't you come in and wait until the storm is over?"

The young man started, then with a bound was over the wall and running across the yard. Mrs. Wilder had no time for wonder or dismay. Strong young arms were around her, a rough head was upon her shoulder, and a broken voice was whispering over and over into her ear one word: "Mother!"

Tom had come home! For a time that was all Mrs. Wilder could think of—her joy in his recovery; then came care for his comfort, and a message that brought Mr. Wilder from his office as fast as his auto could carry him. Tom's old room, ready for his occupancy every moment since his departure, rang again to his voice, even to his laughter, for though there were new seriousness and earnestness in his face, there was a new joy there, too. Father and mother felt that their boy was back for good—that his wild spirit had been checked by his experiences, but that his old life and enthusiasm had been turned into the right channel.

Not until the next day could Mrs. Wilder follow the promptings of her heart and send for Mrs. Bement to tell her the story of the wanderer's return. Then, before she spoke, she put a check into the hands of the minister's wife.

"It's my thank-offering," she explained, lips quivering but eyes shining through happy tears. "But it is more than that. It is the amount we promised to give as a reward for information about Tom, and it belongs rightfully to the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Tom would never have come home, I believe, if it hadn't been for our work."

Then she told the story. Tom had started West, and had worked his way almost across the continent by taking employment wherever he could find it. The woman who kept the poor boarding-house at which he last lodged took a fancy to him, seeing that he was not of the class among whom he worked. Tom learned that she had come to this country as a young girl, friendless and alone; that her steamer had been met by representatives of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, and she had been cared for in one of their immigrant homes, where she had been converted. Quietly she talked to Tom, drawing from him his story, and gently pointing out, in her quaint English, the sorrow he must have caused in his home. Finally she persuaded him to go to the little mission church where she worshipped, and the minister added his voice to hers. Then Tom, with a new light in his eyes, made his stand for the right and started home, not knowing how he would be received, but eager to make what amends he could.

"It was the work of our Society for immigrants that brought my boy back!" cried Mrs. Wilder. "He told me he would never have come if it hadn't been for Mrs. Schmidt. And I said only today that those people would not help me if our places were reversed! How far-reaching the work is! Who would ever have dreamed that it would bring Tom home?"

"The spirit of loving service brings its own reward," said Mrs. Bement gently. "What you did for others has now been done for you. And what I said yesterday about every one having something to be thankful for—isn't it true?"

"I can see it now—see that my thank-offering should have been made even if Tom had not come back to me. Trouble had hardened my heart—but, please God, it never will again!"

"This time," said her friend, "you have caught the real vision of what a thank-offering stands for, a vision that will never leave you."

And Mrs. Wilder rejoiced in the confidence that the prophecy would be fulfilled, for that vision once seen grows brighter as the days pass, until it lights the heart to greater gifts of love and service.

—"Democratic Methodism in America," by Dr. Lyman E. Davis, was brought out a few years ago, bringing the history of the Methodist Protestant Church up to date. This book has been adopted as a text-book in a number of conference courses. The edition is now nearly exhausted. Before another edition is printed the book will be revised by the author and additions will be made to include the latest history of the church. Dr. Davis has rendered an important service to the denomination in writing this book. It is worthy of a still wider use and a more extended reading. It should be in our family libraries as well as on the book shelves of our ministers.

—There are over 20,000,000 blind persons in the world.

OUR STORY PAGE

AS GOOD AS HER WORD

For some reason or other, little Emma Embody disliked her own name very much—that is, the "Emma" part of it, for she thought a name like Mary or Ruth much prettier. But there was no help for it. She had been christened Emma, and Emma she must be to the end of the chapter.

One day when her Grandma Embody was there, the little girl was surprised to hear her rather young and good-looking grandparent exclaim:

"Well, well, just to think that I have a little grandgirl with such a fine name as Emma! Do you know what that means, Honey?"

Emma began to frown at once.

"No," she shook her head, "no one ever told me."

"Then I have a surprise for you," beamed her grandmother. "The name Emma means 'a nurse,' and a real nurse to be successful, must be very gentle and kind and patient, and willing to do whatever she can to make other people comfortable, and to help them get well if they are ill. Why, my dear, if you are as good as your name, you will make the whole family proud of you! Just watch for opportunities to live up to that name of yours, and first thing you know, everyone will think your name is one of the very nicest in the whole world, because they love you so much."

Emma looked thoughtful. This was a brand new idea. But there it was right in the book that her grandmother showed her, and she was interested to find that Margaret meant "a pearl," and Agnes "purity," and Bertha "brightness," and Edith "happiness." She had never realized that names have a meaning all their own before.

And the very next day who should come to visit them but Emma's Aunt Ruth and her little cousin, Billy Boy. Billy Boy had been sick—so very, very sick that his parents and even the doctors had been worried for fear he would not get well again. And when he was able to travel, the physicians advised a change of climate, and that he go out into the country somewhere for a month at least, until he would gain a better appetite and begin to take a cheerful interest in things about him.

So Aunt Ruth came with him to her sister's home where there were plenty of trees, and grass, and flowers, and lots of fresh air, and creamy milk, and even a pony which Emma had had since she was a wee little girl.

But Billy Boy wasn't very strong yet, and at first the best he could do was to sit in the sunshine on a rug inside, or to be wheeled in a carriage up and down the path, for his little legs were still weak and he was tottery and ready to cry at everything.

At first, Emma thought he was going to be a good deal of trouble. Then Grandmother Embody, who was still there, whispered:

"Oh, what a wonderful chance for you to be as good as your name, Emma! It's a great thing to be first aid to the doctors, and that's what a nurse always is. I know you are going to help Billy Boy get strong and well. See how wistful and sad the little chap looks! I believe if you try real hard, you can teach him how to smile again, and when he goes home, he will be able to run and laugh and play like other children."

Emma didn't know just what she was going to do, or how she was going to do it, but here was a Big Thing which any girl ought to be glad to help with.

And so Emma put on her Thinking Cap. It was a Magic cap, you must understand, and no one could see it with the naked eye. But it was right there, just the same, on Emma's fluffy brown head, and after the little girl had worn it a few minutes, she jumped up, clapped her hands, and ran to the kitchen.

Betsy, the cook, was making ginger cookies, and she would ask her to make an elephant for Billy Boy. It would be such fun for him to take a bite off the trunk, then to nibble the tail, and to wash the delicious mouthful down with some fresh milk from a little tumbler with a gold band around it. Perhaps Billy Boy would have quite a nice lunch without realizing that it was anything but play. So Emma stayed in the kitchen and Betsy and she worked very hard over that elephant.

First, the dough was rolled out, and it was so spicy and good that Emma likes to take a taste of it even before it was baked. Then the animal was cut out, very, very carefully, and two of him made just alike, for Emma and Betsy decided that this elephant must stand up, at least until his feet were bitten off.

A clove was put in each side for an eye, and two pieces of macaroni for tusks. Then both sides of the elephant were baked. After that, some white and chocolate frosting was put on for a little blanket over the elephant's back, and a band around the body to hold the blanket on.

But still the elephant was in two pieces—a right side part and a left side part, until Emma got three or four big, fresh marshmallows, softened them in the oven, and then she and Betsy put a thick layer of marshmallow between the two sides. And sure enough, the elephant could stand up on its four legs. To be sure there was a little crack down the back and along the trunk, but Emma took a little more of the chocolate frosting and covered up the white edge so it matched the brown ginger-cookie part very nicely.

It looked so good that Emma hopped right up and down and ran in to show the elephant to Grandma Embody, who said it was all she could do to keep from eating it herself.

But Emma had another idea by this time, and back she went to the kitchen. She remembered that Billy Boy simply would not eat his orange that morning, nor the figs and prunes which his mother had tried to get him to take a taste of at least.

Emma was so excited that she could hardly work, but in a few minutes, Betsy and she had the most remarkable "Goody-Goody Man" you ever saw. Betsy laughed until the tears came into her eyes.

"Laws a massy!" she gasped at last. "I'se glad I don't have to fix up a meal like that fer a whole family! But bless his little heart, if it pleases pore little Billy Boy, we'se mighty glad to do it!"

The Goody-Goody Man was made of prunes which had been soaked in warm water over night, and a little opening made in the end so the pit would slip out. Then it was a simple matter to fill the cavity with some stiffly cooked corn meal mush. With a darning needle threated with clean white string, the Goody-Goody Man began to take form.

His head was a hard-boiled egg with the shell taken off, and eyes and nose and mouth painted on with a little pure food coloring. His body was a fine, plump orange with the rind cut away like a belt right around the middle. Then there was a collar and a body piece under the orange, made of two plump, whole wheat raisin crackers which had each been baked with a hole in the middle. The cord came right to the top of the Goody-Goody Man's head, and ended in a small, ivory ring which Grandma Embody had in her basket.

At first, Billy Boy didn't pay much attention even to the elephant. Perhaps he didn't know it was good to eat. But when he turned around and saw Emma and the Goody-Goody Man grinning at him, he began to smile and for the first time since his arrival he burst out laughing. In two minutes he was nibbling at the strange, jolly-looking little creature, and then at the elephant, and before long, Billy Boy picked up the tumbler of milk beside him and took several drinks just as though it tasted good.

That was the beginning. Emma kept that Thinking Cap of hers on. Animal crackers were fastened upright on saltines with white frosting so they could parade across Billy Boy's plate. And there were delicious surprise sandwiches of all kinds.

When Billy Boy's father, Uncle Dan, came in a month to see how his little son was getting along, he could scarcely believe his eyes, for a sunburned, plump, rosy-cheeked youngster ran gaily to meet him.

And when Uncle Dan and Aunt Ruth and Billy Boy said goodbye, they left a little package in Emma's hands. She almost forgot to open it, she was so sorry to see Billy Boy go. But when she did take the wrapping off, there was the cunningest little wrist watch imaginable. And inside the case was a note which said:

"A real nurse who is First Aid to real doctors, needs a watch to keep time.

"To Emma from Billy Boy." —Selected.

FAINT, YET PURSUING

By Rev. J. N. Darby

Though faint, yet pursuing, we go on our way;
The Lord is our Leader, His Word is our stay;
Though suffering, and sorrow, and trial be near,
The Lord is our refuge and whom can we fear?

He raiseth the fallen, He cheereth the faint;
The weak and oppressed—He will hear their complaint;
The way may be weary, and thorny the road,
But how can we falter?—our help is in God.

Though clouds may surround us, our God is our light;
Though storms rage around us, our God is our might;
So, faint, yet pursuing, still onward we come,
The Lord is our Leader, and heaven is our home.

—Selected.

LUTHER'S MODESTY

Of vanity he had not a trace. "Do not call yourselves Lutherans," he said; "call yourselves Christians. Who and what is Luther? Has Luther been crucified for the world?"—Froude.

A NEEDED LESSON

There are some people who accomplish very little because, instead of using their present powers and opportunities, they sigh for larger gifts and a wider field in which to exercise them. Because they have not five talents or 10 talents, they neglect to use their one talent. Because they cannot shine in a conspicuous sphere, they are blind to the near-by open doors which invite them. Such a spirit is most unfortunate.

In the first place, it is only by using the powers that one already possesses that they are so developed and strengthened that one is capacitated for larger service. It is only by making the most of present opportunities that one may hope to go forward to wider ones. Nobler conquests await only him who shows himself the master of the situation where he is. Moreover, no work done to help humanity for Christ's sake is small or unimportant. The world may take no notice of such work in the out-of-way places, but the Master's eye is upon all such toilers. He ever sees them, is pleased by their efforts, and will not fail to reward them.

It is a striking fact that our Lord when he was on the earth counted no opportunity to help a needy soul too insignificant to be faithfully utilized. Some of His most luminous and inspiring utterances were spoken to single individuals, and no suffering outcast upon the highway appealed to Him in vain. This lesson of capitalizing to the fullest extent the resources and possibilities already within our reach is one that we urgently need to learn.

"Not more of light, O God,
But eyes to see what is;
Not sweeter songs, but ears to hear
The present melodies;
Not more of strength, but how to use
The power that I possess;
Not more of love, but skill to turn
A frown to a caress;
Not more of joy, but how to feel
Its kindly presence near—
To give to others all I have
Of courage and of cheer.
No other gifts, dear God, I ask,
But only sense to see
How best these precious gifts to use
Thou hast bestowed on me."

—Selected.

"BE STILL FOR FIVE MINUTES"

Once a week, for a quarter of an hour, after making some acts of reverence, be perfectly still. Say, "I know God is here, nearer than my own soul, and I am going to wait for Him to come." At least, be quiet; let your mind be quiet; and practice it first of all for five minutes—that will be as long as you can do; perhaps a little longer the next time, and so on, until you at least can be quiet for a quarter of an hour, resting in God; what the Hebrews call "Waiting upon the Lord," or as the margin translates it, "Being silent before God;" and your soul will be touched with that which I believe to be the supremest gift to the human spirit here in this life. "Ask and ye shall receive." It is the passive side of prayer. "Whatsoever ye ask in prayer, believe that ye shall receive it;" you shall find, as a matter of fact, that you have it.—N. Y. Advocate.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE NOTES

—Someone—perhaps more than one—remarked that the personnel of the Annual Conference has greatly improved as compared with former years. Particularly do the laymen present an improved appearance. Four lady delegates perhaps helped to bring up the average.

—Dr. Klein was missed this year. He has been so uniformly present for years that we could but miss him. We were also disappointed in the failure of Dr. Lewis to reach this session of our Conference. Dr. Benson was also missed. Dr. Davis, editor of the Recorder, was present and made two addresses which were appreciated highly. Dr. Straughn, of the Maryland Conference, now employed in the interest of the weaker conferences, was prsent and inspired us with his addresses, even if he did conclude one of them with a pessimistic picture. But he referred to the darker possibilities of the future that he might move us to take the steps necessary to realize the brighter possibilities. He spoke of the church of the future and summarized by saying that the church of the future depends upon the General Conference budget. We can move forward to a glorious future if we will, but we can also drift into obscurity and extinction as a denomination. Here is a motion that we do the former. Our own Lawrence Little, now Secretary of our Young People's Work, was present and spoke in his usual lively manner with an optimistic note. Brother Reiner, of Baltimore, was present with a supply of books for sale.

—There was a large number of candidates for admission to our ministry. Those admitted among whom are promising men will be noted in the Annual Conference Journal.

—Rev. C. H. Whitaker was elected to take the place of Rev. J. H. Bowman, deceased, as a member of the Conference Faculty. Rev. F. W. Paschal was made examiner in Lewis' Divine Credentials.

—The president expressed the view that ministers should wait until they become old before they locate. They should not tie themselves down with material interests so that they cannot obey the command to go.

—Four preachers were ordained on Sunday after the ordination sermon by Rev. J. R. Hutton. They were Brothers Short, Garner, Chambliss and J. L. Trollinger.

—The new church in which the Conference met was much admired by those present, not only for its beauty, but also for its convenience. Grace church has rendered a distinct service to the whole state and the whole denomination in building this splendid church. And it should be known that this has been done at a heroic sacrifice on the part of many of its members.

—A large number of Greensboro pulpits were filled by our ministers on Sunday of conference. At Calvary church we were favored with two good and helpful sermons; in the morning by Rev. H. F. Surratt, at night by Rev. R. A. Hunter.

—Among the new ministers in our Conference are Rev. C. M. Compher, from the Maryland Conference; Rev. H. W. Maier, from the Ohio Conference, and Rev. J. R. Anderson, from the Georgia Conference.

—Bros. J. Norman Wills and V. W. Idol were made honorary members of the Conference.

—One new feature in this Conference was the election of a committee to advise the President throughout the year. This was done at the President's suggestion and request. The names cabinet and executive committee were proposed, but the preference was for advisory committee.

—Dr. H. L. Elderdice, president of Westminster Theological Seminary, delivered a series of lectures on Soul-Winning. The speaker felt the importance of his subject and presented very clearly and forcibly the results of his extended study of the subject. He pointed out the fact that methods that were formerly successful have largely ceased to be so, and that the church and Christian people in order to succeed in this incomparably important work must adapt their methods to the times in which we are living. The unconverted do not attend evangelistic meetings as formerly and they must be gone after individually. The speaker paid his respects to the sensational evangelists, condemning their spirit and their methods.

—At his request Rev. W. F. Kennett was placed on the list of Superannuates. When asked by Rev. D. A. Highfill how old he is, he replied: "Don't you know, Brother Highfill, that women and preachers don't like to tell their ages?"

—In the memorial service on Sunday afternoon papers were read and speeches made in honor of Rev. G. E. Hunt, Rev. J. W. Quick, Rev. C. L. Whitaker, Rev. J. H. Bowman, Miss Millie Bowman, Mrs. Harriet Swain, Mrs. W. D. Fogleman.

—The ladies of Grace Church served excellent noonday meals to members of the Conference.

—Rev. E. L. Ballard and Rev. N. M. Harrison were accompanied by their respective brides.

—Rev. Mr. Plyler brought fraternal greetings from the Methodist Epesicopal Church, South. Dr. R. M. Andrews carried fraternal greetings to the Western N. C. Conference of that church and Dr. T. M. Johnson was appointed to greet the N. C. Conference to meet in Durham.

—Quite a number of changes were made in the boundaries of pastoral charges. The division of Tabernacle circuit into two charges is one of the most notable.

—Group insurance for the ministers of the Conference was considered, but the proposition brought before the Conference did not seem wholly acceptable. The committee on the subject was continued.

—Next session of Conference is to be in Asheboro, beginning on Wednesday before the first Sunday in November. Brother Pritchard's invitation was so attractive that no other place could be seriously thought of.

—The Stationing Committee in reporting declared that they had done the best they could, and they hoped for the largest measure of satisfaction possible.

—Brother D. H. Hunter, of Tabernacle church, who is 95 years old, was introduced to the Conference. Brother Kennett spoke of him as "the grand old man" of our Conference. He has been one of the pillars of our church at Tabernacle for many years.

—On Young People's Night, Rev. Lawrence Little and Mrs. Rev. H. W. Maier spoke. Brother Little is an expert in young people's work, and this fact was recognized in his election to the office of Secretary of Young People's Work for the denomination. Mrs. Maier is also an expert. She is so highly appreciated that she is called to go far to make addresses. She is a charming story-teller. She is the wife of the new pastor of Thomasville Community Church, and our Conference is fortunate in having these two good people added to our working force.

—There were some groups of people before the Stationing Committee asking to be heard regarding pastoral supplies. How embarrassing it must be to be asked by the delegate elected to represent the charge to do one thing and to be asked by others to do a different thing. A sense of propriety should reduce to very small proportions the practice of going before the Stationing Committee by those not elected to go. There may be rare occasions that would justify such a procedure, but they must be very rare. It is of course in order for deputations to make representations and appeals to their own delegate.

—It was the pleasure of the editor's family to entertain Rev. B. M. Williams and Rev. E. A. Bingham during Conference.

A DEDUCTION

The Observer still firmly believes that it was the good example of the late James B. Duke that directed the minds of the wealthy people to the better way of disposing of their money—in promotion of the cause of education and religion—and if one should take time to reflect upon the flow of money in this direction since the death of Mr. Duke, and comparative rarity of instances of the kind previous to his death, there might be found ground for strengthening the view taken by this paper. Scarcely a week passes that the papers do not carry information of destowal of beneficence on colleges and churches, the latest instance being that of the bequests left by Mrs. Ann C. Kane, widow of John Inniss Kane. Mrs. Kane died last July at her Long Island home, and it is disclosed that she left bequests to the amount $200,000, is to be distributed among charitable, of almost $4,000,000, all of which, except educational and religious institutions, the South not being skipped, as evidenced by a bequest of $50,000 to Tuskegee Institute. Columbia University got a lump sum of $1,000,000, as did the New York Home for Incurables. Instances of this kind were mighty rare before the magnificent will of James B. Duke became public; since then they figure as ordinary news events of the day. Is The Observer's deduction correct?—Raleigh News and Observer.

REPORT OF STATIONING COMMITTEE

Alamance—J. A. Burgess.
Albemarle—J. R. Anderson.
Anderson—M. I. Crutchfield.
Asheboro—J. E. Pritchard.
Asheville—C. W. Bates.
Bess Chapel—E. A. Bingham.
Bessemer City—W. L. Carson.
Burlington, First—S. W. Taylor.
Burlington, Fountain Place—W. M. Loy.
Caroleen—L. S. Helms.
Charlotte, First—H. F. Surratt.
Charlotte, North—D. A. Braswell.
Chase City—C. W. Saunders.
Chatham—C. G. Isley.
Cleveland—J. D. Morris.
Concord—G. H. Hendry.
Connelly Springs—D. M. Dew.
Creswell—R. L. Hethcox.
Davidson—C. E. Ridge.
Democrat—To be supplied.
Denton—M. C. Henderson.
Draper—J. S. Riddle.
Enfield—R. C. Stubbins.
Fairfield—E. A. Bingham.
Fairview and Glen Raven—T. A. Williams.
Fallston—J. M. Morgan.
Flat Rock—J. B. Trogdon.
Friendship—C. H. Hill.
Forsyth—G. L. Curry.
Gibsonville—T. M. Johnson.
Haw River Mission—To be supplied.
Graham—D. R. Williams.
Granville—H. F. Fogleman.
Greensboro—Grace, S. K. Spahr, pastor; N. M. Harrison, assistant pastor. Calvary—L. W. Gerringer. St. Paul—N. Brittain. West End—J. D. Williams.
Greensville—H. L. Powell.
Guilford—O. C. Loy, Jr.
Halifax—C. L. Spencer.
Haw River—W. D. Reed.
Henderson—R. A. Hunter.
High Point: First, senior pastor to be supplied from High Point college; E. Lester Ballard, associate pastor. English Street—J. H. Moton: Lebanon—J. R. Moton. Welch Memorial—T. E. Pierce.
Jerusalem—C. B. Way.
Kernersville—E. G. Lowdermilk.
Lexington: State Street—N. G. Bethea. South Lexington—Atlas Ridge.
Liberty and Siler City—F. L. Gibbs.
Lincolnton—W. L. Carson.
Littleton—J. B. O'Briant.
Mebane—Edward Suits.
Mecklenburg—W. T. Totten.
Melton's Grove—J. H. Trollinger.
Midland—J. W. Hulin.
Mocksville—J. T. Sisk.
Moriah—M. P. Chambliss.
Mount Hermon—J. Elwood Carroll.
Mount Pleasant—G. F. Millaway.
Orange—B. M. Williams.
North Davidson—R. S. Troxler.
Pageland—C. E. Phillips.
Pleasant Grove—G. L. Reynolds.
Pinnacle—A. L. Hunter.
Porter—C. H. Hill.
Randleman—W. H. Neese.
Randolph—A. O. Lindley.
Reidsville—George R. Brown.
Richland—W. M. Pike.
Roberta—Robert Short.
Rockingham—J. H. Trollinger.
Roseneath—F. W. Paschal.
Saxapahaw—H. L. Isley.
Shelby—L. S. Helms.
Spencer—Glenn Madison.
Spring Church—A. D. Shelton.
Tabernacle—W. F. Ashburn.
Thomasville: Community, H. W. Maier; First, J. L. Trollinger; West Thomasville, G. W. Andrew.
Union Grove—Glenn Madison.
Vance—E. G. Cowan.
Weaverville—J. D. Cranford.
West Forsyth—C. H. Whitaker.
Whitakers—F. W. Paschal.
Why Not—D. I. Garner.
Winston-Salem: First, C. M. Compher; South Winston, P. L. Kinnaman.
Yarborough—M. I. Crutchfield.
Yadkin College—N. G. Bethea.

Left without appointment at their own requests: G. W. Holmes, H. S. B. Thompson and C. J. Edwards.

In hands of the president: O. B. Williams and J. F. Whitley.

Superannuates: D. A. Highfill, W. P. Martin, T. F. McCulloch, J. F. Dosier, J. H. Stowe, D. A. Braswell, D. M. Loy, W. F. Kennett.

Secretary of General Board of Young People's Work—L. C. Little.

Editor the Methodist Protestant Herald—J. F. McCulloch.

President of High Point College—R. M. Andrews.

Professors in High Point College—P. S. Kennett, P. E. Lindley, J. D. Hardy; professor in Wesminster Theological seminary, C. E. Forlines.

Loaned to Board of Foreign Missions—J. C. Auman and J. F. Minnis.

District Chairmen:
First District—R. C. Stubbins.
Second District—R. A. Hunter.
Third District—T. O. Pender.
Fourth District—L. W. Gerringer.
Fifth District—W. T. Hanner.
Sixth District—J. E. Pritchard.
Seventh District—N. G. Bethea.
Eighth District—R. M. Cox.
Ninth District—J. D. Morris.
Tenth District—H. F. Surratt.
Eleventh District—C. W. Bates.
Twelfth District—J. Lee Poole.
Trihteenth District—J. U. Whitlock.
Fourteenth District—J. T. Sisk.

A. G. DIXON, Chairman,
W. L. WARD, Secretary.

John is a small boy, youngest of a minister's family. As a punishment for some misdemeanor at the table, it was decided that John must not eat with the family at the next meal. So his dinner was placed on a small table at the end of the dining room. When all was seated, the minister said: "Now John, you should ask a blessing before you eat." This was a new duty for John, but he bowed his head and said reverently: "Our Father in heaven: Thou has prepared a table for me in the presence of mine enemies. Thanks for the food. Amen."—The Christian Register.

"Yes, we have our troubles," complained the park-keeper. "For instance, there's Lady Dibbs, who has given us a marble bird bath. Only yesterday she called me over and told me it was for sparrows and not to allow any other birds to bathe in it!"

THE WINDMILL

The windmill is a very ancient piece of machinery. The oldest one in America is located on the island of Nantucket, off the Massachusetts coast. It is an old Dutch windmill, and dates from 1746.

The Nantucket Historical Association thinks so much of this old relic that it has bought it, and will preserve it as long as possible. It was built by Nathan Wilbur, a Nantucket mariner, who had seen many such mills in Holland. Very few nails were used in erecting it, as nails were made by hand in those days and were very scarce and very expensive. Wooden pegs were used, and the iron work used was brought over from England.

It has been many years since the mill has done any work. It performed its task constantly for 150 years, and now is entitled to a rest.

There are two other famous windmills in this country—giant windmills. They are located near Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, Cal.; in fact, they are the largest in the world. Even Holland has none so large and powerful. Hundreds of thousands of gallons are pumped every day into immense reservoirs, from which the water is distributed all over the park for irrigation and to supply hundreds of animals kept there.

What a wonderful work of mercy and love the old giant windmills, are doing, keeping fresh and green and beautiful the park for the pleasure and enjoyment of young and old; carrying cool and refreshing water from the depths of the springs that God has furnished for all His creatures.

Suppose some day the mills should stop their work, grow tired and want to take a rest. What do you think would happen?

Well, the poor, tired horses would come to the drinking-fountain and find no water. The cows, sheep, chickens, dogs and birds, besides many people, would all have to go thirsty. The flowers and the grass would all dry up and die.

But no such thing will happen so long as the machinery of the mill is well taken care of and replaced when worn out, and the wind will blow hard and long to keep the wheel in motion. Then the tank will always be full of clear, cool, sparkling water, and the old wheel will move merrily on, singing as it goes:

"With the wind to help me,
Round and round I go;
Then the sparkling water
To my tank will flow."

Can we not learn some helpful lessons from the windmill?

First, let us be unselfish, doing all we can for others to make their lives brighter and better; by our example show them the beauties of a clean, pure life, free from evil habits that injure and stain our hearts and lives. Then, like the old mill, let us keep at it, not get tired, and let us keep cheerful and sing as we travel along.

"Smokeless" Teachers Wanted. Because he thinks smoking "an immoral practice," Mayor Bauer of Lynn, Mass., has asked the school board to discharge any public school-teacher—man or woman—who uses the weed.

PREACHERS AND THE BIBLE

By Bishop W. A. Candler

(I hope every preacher who is "weak in the faith," if we have any, will read carefully the following article by Bishop Candler. It would be difficult to better it. What he says is so very, very true. Let all read and think and be wise.—J. F. Dosier.)

Preaching presupposes a divine revelation. A preacher is not a philosopher or a scientist, endeavoring to discover something more or less useful. Under a heavenly call he is sent to expound and proclaim revealed truth delivered to him and not discovered by him.

The most abscure messenger of Christ may say equally with St. Paul, "Though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel." (I Corinthians ix:16.)

The gospel he must preach—that and nothing else.

If he proposed nothing more than the utterance of his personal and changeful opinions, he would be under no such compelling necessity to speak. Both his obligation and his authority arise from the fact that a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto him. His ministry therefore if it is Christian, is founded on the Word of the Lord, and it will be feeble or powerful in exact proportion to the weakness or strength of his conviction that God has revealed Himself through Christ in the Holy Scriptures.

Hence, all the great and influential preachers from the days of the Apostles until now have been great believers in a divine revelation. With the Hebrew Psalmist and the Apostle to the Gentiles they all with one voice declare: "We also believe and therefore speak". (Psalms cxvi:10 and II Corinthians iv:13.)

Any impairment of a preacher's belief in the divine revelation enfeebles his ministry, and, if not cured, it evenually destroys the spiritual effects of his preaching.

Herein is found the forcefulness of not a little preaching of the present day. Many weak men in the pulpit have lost their faith in the Bible at the bidding of strong critics in the lecture room. They accept without hesitation anything the critics declare, overlooking the fact that the critics themselves are not agreed, and that their theories are in a state of perpetual flux. Some preachers, overawed by rationalizing critics, seem to have reached the conclusion that anything may be true provided it is not the Bible, and their pulpit performances can except by a strained courtesy, hardly be called preaching at all. These are they who berate all creeds—most naturally because they do not believe that there is such thing as settled truth.

There are they also who lug into the pulpit all sorts of theories that have no remotest relation to the gospel of Christ—political issues, criticismc of books, discussions of magazine articles. Instead of feeding hungry souls with the bread of life, they spread before the people Sunday by Sunday all sorts of wild stuff until discerning souls turn away in disgust from the house of God, or cry, with some of old who had set before them poisonous pottage, "O thou man of God, there is death in the pot." (II Kings iv:40.)

Men of this type vainly imagine that something has happened to the Bible in recent years to make it less believable and less available for spiritual purposes.

Nothing could be further from truth. More and more the Bible is being confirmed daily by the discoveries of the archaeologists, and these confirmations have been multiplying since Layard, Rawlinson and others of like character began their explorations.

One man, Sir William Ramsey, has almost alone disconcerted the critics who endeavored to discredit the parts of the New Testament written by St. Luke; and their critical theories propounded so confidently fifty years ago are utterly exploded.

Theories of "subjective criticism," which frightened some timid preachers, are as old as Celsus, whom Origen refuted with overwhelming force.

Nothing has happened to the Bible to justify any diminution of confidence in it. It is just what it has been and just what it always will be to the end of time. If it could be overthrown, preaching would have to cease and churches would have to be abandoned.

Years ago Matthew Arnold, notwithstanding his rationalizing tendencies, said: "To the Bible men will return; and, why? Because happiness is our being's end and aim, and happiness belongs to righteousness, and righteousness is revealed in the Bible. For this simple reason men will return to the Bible, just as a man who tried to give up food, thinking it was a vain thing, and he could do without it, would return to food; or a man who tried to give up sleep, thinking it was a vain thing and he could do without it, would return to sleep."

Through inspired lawyers, seers, psalmists, prophets and apostles belonging to the Hebrew people God has given mankind this "Book of Books." It has no parallel or likeness in the literature of any other nation. It is "the lonely book of a lonely people."

It is idle to seek to qualify or explain away the supernatural quality which pervades it, and which has been justly described by the word "inspiration." If it be not inspired how shall we account for its immeasurable superiority to all other literatures?

But someone will say, "there is a human element in it." How could God have spoken to men at all if He had used an inhuman method of revelation? To reach and redeem mankind the eternal Son of the everlasting Father had to become incarnate. The all-important fact is God has spoken; He has broken silence with the revelation of redeeming love. "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last lays spoken unto us by His Son." (Hebrew 1:1-2.) The Christian church and the Christian gospel are "built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the Chief corner stone." (Ephesians ii:20.)

Another will say, "The Bible is a record of the experience of its writers." Quite so, but did they or did they not experience inspiration? The prophets were accustomed to say that "the word of the Lord" came to them. Did they speak truly or falsely when they so said?

Paul wrote to the Thessalonians, "When ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth the word of God." (I Thessalonians ii:13.) Did he deceive the Thessalonians, or was he self-deceived in so saying?

Yet another will say, "I do not accept any mechanical theory of inspiration, but I believe that the idea of the Bible, but not the words are inspired." What sort of revelation would be an unuttered and wordless communication from heaven? And what did Paul mean when, in referring to the revelation made through him, said, "Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth." (I Corinthians ii:13.)

And why did he exhort Timothy to "hold fast the form of sound words?"

Why was the phrase "the word of God" ever applied to the Scriptures? Why did the Apostle say to his beloved Son in the gospel, "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine?" (II Timothy iv:2.)

It is well not to try to analyze the processes of Divine inspiration even as it is not wise to endeavor to accomplish the impossible task of scrutinizing the incarnation by which the God-Man—very God and very Man—is revealed unto us.

It is enough to know that "all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (II Timothy iii:16-17.)

Certainly a Bibleless man in the pulpit is utterly helpless and powerless. He cannot speak with authority; for he has repudiated the only source of authority he ever had.

An equivocal or ambiguous revelation furnishes no basis for any spiritual authority within or without the pulpit. It is no better than the Delphic oracle of the Greeks with its vague and uncertain utterances.

But "we have a more sure word of prophecy: Whereunto we do well to take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day star arise in our hearts; knowing this that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." (II Peter i:19-21.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for November 14.—How May We Promote Interdenominational Fellowship? 1 John 1:3-7; Eph. 4:1-6.

Topic for November 21.—How "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." Ps. 116:12-1. Luke 17:11-1. (Thanksgiving meeting.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for November 14.—Caleb's Faithfulness Rewarded. Joshua 14:6-15.

Lesson for November 21.—Joshua Renewing the Covenant. Josh. 24:14-25. Devotional reading, Ps. 107:31, 35-41.

—Georges Clemenceau, Premier of France during the last year of the World War, was eighty-five years old the other day.

Our Children's Home

Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson, $5.89; Charlotte, Richland, $2.69; Harris Chapel, Vance, $1.77; Spring Valley, Vance, $6.40; Brown Summit, Haw River, $1; Mrs. W. C. Lassiter, Walnut Cove, $5; Union Grove, $1.20; A Friend, Washington, N. C., $5; Union Chapel, Granville, $91.75; State Street, Lexington, $6.01; Welch Memorial, High Point, $12.57; Browers Chapel, Richland, $2; W. D. Moore, of Macedonia Church, Why Not, $5; Charlotte, Richland, $2.80.

Sunday Schools

Bess Chapel, $3; Pleasant Hill, Spring Church, $7.16; Roberta, $4.40.

Other Contributions

Ladies' Aid Society, Lincolnton, two nice quilts; Mrs. Cora Mendenhall, four pair window curtains; C. M. Pace, High Point, hat, ties, shirts, handkerchiefs, and underwear; C. B. Cherry, Charleston, S. C., 15 lbs. Martha Washington candy; Mrs. Florence Guice, East Flat Rock, six suits of underwear, caps, sweaters, and ties for two boys; Mrs. J. W. Thacker of High Point, a fine Rhode Island Red Crower; Union Grove Home Missionary Society, Orange Circuit, two nice quilts.

Thank you, but don't forget, dear reader, that I am hoping to get the chance of thanking you for the largest Thank Offering that you have ever made to this institution. Come on with it, it will do you and us both good.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

THE GOLD PICKLES

Florence Scott Hurst

Marguerite was wearing her airmail apron. It had come from her little nine-year-old cousin Eleanor in New York by the aerial route to California as a wedding gift, and she counted it among her dearest possessions.

She had a busy day in her little bungalow home, for even though everything was so new and dainty, it did get dusty. And even though the gas range was all white and very modern, it needed experienced direction to "bake to perfection," as the advertising man had promised. And even though Daniel Hanover Bruce, her very new husband, was the best of men, he had a very large appetite.

So at five o'clock, Marguerite was glad that at last everything was done, and she could slip on her pretty apron and finish a bit of embroidery while she watched for Dan. She had not long to wait. A familiar whistle rang down the street, and Dan appeared, swinging along in the buoyant way Marguerite loved. He was carrying something ever so carefully in a little pasteboard carton.

"Pickles?" she asked as she took the box from him.

"You'll see," he replied with a twinkle in his eye. "They were so lovely, I couldn't resist them."

"Gold pickles!" she exclaimed delightedly. "Oh, Dan, just what I wanted! The new little aquarium looked so empty and lonely today."

Yes, there were four lively goldfish ready to inhabit the shining globe on its pretty iron stand which had been a belated wedding gift. With much ceremony they were established in their new home. But as Dan and Marguerite sat down to dine, Marguerite said:

"The gold pickles must receive names worthy of themselves and their association with us. I can think of two," and she began to sing Neidlinger's little song:

"Tiddledewinks and Tiddledewee
Are two little fishes that live in the sea,
They look just alike, so every one thinks
That Tiddledewee is Tiddledewinks.'"

"That's just it," said Dan. "Even if you name 'em, you can't tell 'em apart."

"Surely I can. Didn't you notice the different designs in their coats of many colors? But we must have four names for four fishes. We have two too many for Tiddledewinks and Tiddledewee. What shall we call them?"

"Sleep over it," suggested Dan, carving the steaming roast.

But Marguerite did better than that: she wrote to her little cousin Eleanor 'way back East, told her the story, and asked her to name the "gold pickles."

And Eleanor suggested Tweedledum and Tweedledee to complete the quartet of names.

With that, the goldfish were properly designated. Dan, however, never would do more than chirrup at them as if they were canaries, and call them rather jokingly the Tiddles and the Tweedles.

But Marguerite really did know them apart—or so she said. She could tell if Winks ate more than Wee, and if Dum exercised more vigorously than Dee. She fed them and petted them and loved them, and they seemed perfectly satisfied.

So now they live in a globe on a stand,
The happiest goldfish in all the wide land.

—Zion's Herald.

CHAVANIAC—THE HOME OF LAFAYETTE

One night in Metz, in 1776, the commander of the forces of that city was giving a dinner for the Duke of Gloucester, writes Katharine Stanley-Brown in the July St. Nicholas. This light-hearted brother of George III of England was amusing the company with tales of a "tea-party" in Boston Harbor. But he added that he felt sympathy for these American rebels and that what they really needed was recruits. Now, at the far end of this table was a silent young man with keen eyes—a thin, red-haired, hawk-nosed boy. Straightway, when the dinner was over, this eager young captain of dragoons walked over to the duke and spoke: "I will join the Americans. I will help them fight for freedom! Tell me how to set about it." Sturdy words, these, from a member of the French nobility, and met with laughter.

But neither the laughter of friends nor even parental refusal could keep the Marquis de Lafayette from his purpose, for he was one of the greatest champions of freedom the world has ever known. No moral theories, though he was honorable beyond the standards of his day, nor airy imaginings, these ideas of his. He was willing to make sacrifices, to undergo privations, actual sufferings for that freedom so sorely needed by the world just then.

On the sixth of September, in 1757, was born the infant who on the following day was christened Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert du Motier. His father the Marquis de Lafayette, was an officer of distinction in the army of Louis XV, and fell, two years later, at the battle of Minden. His mother, the beautiful Julie de la Riviere, was left, with only the help of her mother and two maiden sisters, to bring up the little boy. He "was delicate and small, requiring much attention" at first, but his mother determined to make him strong. Their home, the chateau of Chavaniac, had been for generations the possession of their family, and, before the Revolution, was a vast estate. In the cold, mountainous district of Auvergne, the Roman country of the Arverni, it offered little opportunity for coddling a delicate child. Indeed, one of Lafayette's earliest memories was of wandering about in lonely, cavernous districts at the age of eight in the hope of meeting and perhaps killing a wolf that was proving dangerous to the neighborhood. Though delicate at first, he rapidly grew stronger and took on the warlike characteristics of his race. With this ancestry, a vigorous outdoor life made a strong appeal to the young marquis, and he escaped the usual drawing-room training of that day. At the death of his mother, he came into an immense fortune, but even that did not tempt him from his chosen interests, and he devoted almost all of it to the cause of freedom. Even when at sixteen he married the charming fourteen-year-old daughter of the Duc d'Ayen, Adrienne de Noailles, and took his place at court, he remained unspoiled.

His chateau, now called Chavaniac-Lafayette, still stands, a great and rather heavy manor-house. During the Great War the chateau was purchased by an American organization and now, as the Lafayette Memorial, shelters and educates nearly three hundred French children, orphans of the war.

One cannot help feeling that here, in this historic, rugged chateau, is to be found some explanation of the character of the great Lafayette, which stands forth so vividly from the luxury-loving, frivolous people of his time, a character marked, by absolute fearlessness and energetic action. This was the man whom Cornwallis could not capture, or Napoleon intimidate—Lafayette, who gave his life to a dream, the dream of universal freedom.—Zion's Herald.

REAL HERO OF THE AIR

Lester Kirk, an aviator of Evansville, Ind., is a real hero. Recently he rescued a trapeze performer from certain death by one of the most daring and heroic acts ever accomplished in the air. The man was performing on a trapeze suspended from an airplane when he became numbed by the cold and slipped. He was hanging by one leg which had caught in a loop in the rope. The pilot of the plane signaled for aid and Lester Kirk responded at once. Taking off in another plane, he flew upward until his plane was just under the dangling performer. Then, working the controls of his plane with his feet and one elbow, he pulled the trapeze performer into his plane and made a safe landing.—Current Events.

Father—Well, Lulu, if your mother and I should get a divorce, which one of us would you come to live with?

Lulu—The one that kept the auto.—Paris Rire.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mount Zion.—Last third Sunday officers and teachers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Superintendent, C. W. Allen; assistant superintendent, O. P. Jones; secretary, E. S. Mickey; teachers—class No. 1, Mrs. Ed Jones; No. 2, J. R. Stone; No. 3, Wilbur Lane; No. 4, Mrs. W. E. Jones; No. 5, Mrs. Bertha Fowler; No. 6, Miss Thelma Kellam; No. 7, Mrs. Gorrell Kiger; No. 8 (cradle roll), has no teacher or manager for 1926-27, but from all accounts and reports we will be compelled to have a teacher for that particular department, because it certainly does increase in number.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mikles are the very happy parents of a new daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stone also have a new baby boy.

Brother Mikles has accepted a position with Brown Music Co., of Winston-Salem, and he and family expect to move there soon. We shall miss them very much.

C. W. ALLEN, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—Greetings! Am pleased to be assigned to Orange Charge for another year. Hope to begin the regular appointments (as per last year) as follows:

Chestnut Ridge, second Sunday, 11 a. m.

Hebron, second Sunday, 3 p. m.

Efland, third Sunday 11 a.m.

Extra appointment, Union Grove, third Sunday 3 p. m.

May God's blessings be upon us all as we labor together for another year.

Sincerely,

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Mount Zion.—Isn't a strange thing how we forget His goodness? Remember last summer when it was so dry and we were all complaining more or less, and whether we let the public know it or not, down deep in our hearts we almost daily sent up a prayer beseeching God to send us some rain? Oh, how we secretly promised Him how we would work, ever work, for Him and support His cause and work for our church and attend Sunday school and just simply live a brand new Christian life if He just only would send the much needed rain. What happened. Here around about Mount Zion we received abundant rain, and the results were far beyond our greatest expectations. But, alas! As soon as prosperity came we began to forget those promises made to Him back there when things looked so blue and some of the real Mount Zion church members didn't only refrain from attending Sunday school, but worked at home with their tobacco on Sunday—cured tobacco and hauled water and moved tobacco. That's the biggest reason why our Sunday school hasn't had better success.

On the other hand, there are the "faithful few" who keep things going all the time and are always there; isn't it fine to have some like that?

Another thing that has affected attendance is some say: "I am not going any more so long as so and so is teacher or superintendent or secretary, etc." Yes, we have our full quota of those.

My idea of a real church and Sunday school worker is the person that the stronger the discord and criticism the more loyal they are.

Brother Hunter has served us well and we are glad that our delegate goes to Annual Conference this time with the unanimous consent of the last quarterly conference for his return, and we hape that Brother Hunter sees fit to come back to us.

The last few weeks have been very busy ones, but I am proud of the fact that our folks can come through in great style and do things when they will and things are in good shape financially just now.

We are expecting some more fine work of our missionary societies again this time. They have just about borne the burden of responsibility of what we've put on our regular budget this year.

Our annual church meeting for electing officers for the ensuing year was well attended and this meeting made the the writer reporter to the Herald, and after doing so voted to pay for and have the Herald sent to me for one full year. I appreciate that act very much and shall endeavor to serve them in that capacity more faihtfully from this on.

C. W. ALLEN, Reporter.

North Davidson Circuit—Christian Endeavor Society of Shiloh M. P. Church. Last year after the Annual Conference our C. E. Society decided to raise $100 on the General Budget and we have given several programs on Sunday nights and at these meetings we took up a free will offering, so on October 31 we gave another very interesting program, "Love, Faith, Hope and the Cross." The discussion of each topic was very good and we had several other talks and songs. At the conclusion of the meeting we were all anxious to see how we came out. The collection was counted and found that we had raised $106.35 during the year with that collection. We were very proud of what the society had done during the year.

On last Friday night our society met with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leatherman and the discussion was on Peace and War. The meeting proved to be very interesting and we had a good attendance.

The society will meet with Miss Florence Sink on next Friday night and we are trying to have 100 per cent attendance.

MRS. PROTUS KOONTZ, Reporter.

Ancients Made Glass

According to Sir Flinders Petrie, the British archeologist, in 2500 B. C. the inhabitants of the Euphrates valley were making glass. Only a short time later they were exporting glass to Egypt, Finally, about 1500 B. C., the Egyptians decided to import glassmakers from Syria. It was not many years after the arrival of these Syrian artisans in Egypt that glass was almost as common in that country as it is today. One of the principal uses of glass is in making beads, which the ladies of Egypt were fond of for articles of personal adornment. Such beads in those days were made from glass-plate, for blowing liquid glass did not come into practice until the Christian era.

IS THERE A SECOND MOON?

On the day after the recent total eclipse it was said that, although the event had occurred with what seemed to the lay observer praiseworthy punctuality, astronomers were agitated to discover that the moon was between four and five seconds late in arriving at the moment of totality. They were agitated perhaps, but not really astonished, for in spite of all the marvelous achievements of mathematical astronomy you can never pin the moon down to absolute punctuality. It never arrives at a given point at the exact second at which its hitherto observed rate of motion leads the observer to expect it.

The curious "perturbations" in the motion of the moon can be accounted for, say the astronomers, only on the supposition that there is some celestial body, of the existence of which we are as yet unaware, that exercises on it a slight gravitational pull. We can calculate the effect of the sun and the earth and the other planets, if need be, down to the twentieth decimal point; but there is something else at work—a tiny, unknown force that just succeeds in making our most patient calculations incorrect.

What is that force? Astronomers think it must be the pull of a second moon, a body so small that not even our most powerful telescopes have revealed it; but, though they have never seen it, the men of science can calculate from its observed effects its probable size and speed and its distance from the earth. That is the way in which Adams and Leverrier discovered the planet Neptune eighty years ago. Uranus was observed to behave in a peculiar manner, as if there were a planet still farther out in space acting upon it. The two men, working independently, calculated just how large the unknown body must be, and just what its orbit must be in order to produce the observed effects. They turned their telescopes in the indicated direction—and there was Neptune!

Now the astronomers think they can tell us just what sort of body this supposed second satellite of the earth must be. They say it can hardly be larger than four hundred feet in diameter, that it is approximately twenty-five hundred miles from the earth, and that it moves at such speed that it makes a complete revolution about the earth every three hours. It is almost hopeless to search for so diminutive an object, but some time the instrument may be constructed and the conditions met that will result in some one's actually seeing the tiny satelite flying briskly round and round the earth at a distance no greater than that of New York from San Francisco.

As for the origin of the supposed second moon: there are quantities of asteriods, or minute bits of earth stuff, drifting about in space. Not infrequently some of the smaller and nearer bits fall to the surface of the earth as meteors. The four-hundred-foot moon may have been a wandering asteriod the orbit of which cut the orbit of the earth at a moment when the earth was near enough to "capture" it; that is, turn it away from its course and set it spinning forever in attendance upon itself.—Youth's Companion.

—December 5 is Golden Rule Sunday.

LIBERTY AND SILER CITY

Report to Fourth Quarterly Conference at Liberty, October 31.

(By vote of the conference, on suggestion of Dr. A. G. Dixon, the secretary has been asked to place the following report in the Herald. The report was made to the conference by our pastor. C. L. Highfill, Secretary.)

Dear Co-Workers:

This report will be brief since the leader of every organization has been furnished a blank to report in detail. This year has been one of growth along the following lines: Organization, Spiritually, Socially, Financially, Numerically, and interest outside the local church.

1. Organization

Realizing the importance of organization to the work of the Kingdom the local church has strengthened the old organizations and established the following new ones: Junior C. E. and Intermediate C. E. at Liberty; two new Home Missionary societies, one in each church; two prayer services per week, one in each church; (5252 chapters of the Bible were read and reported at these services during the quarter); a Worker's council for the Liberty S. S., a Junior Baraca Class at Liberty; and a Junior Philathea Class at Siler City. All these organizations are doing good work due to the willingness of the supervisors to make them go regardless of the sacrifice they are called upon to make.

2. Spiritual Growth

Two members remarked to me on joining our charge that they were joining because the church seemed to be spiritually alive. This remark did my heart good because this is one thing that we have emphasized during the year. Although there has been growth along this line there is always room for more such growth. We have made a special effort to line up all of the new converts and accepted members in some activity of the church so they would grow by doing. We have failed in only one case out of 57, and this one is on our hearts and we hope to win him back to the Kingdom.

3. Social and Recreational

I am glad that this phase of our church life has not been neglected. The entire membership, and on many occasions, including our friends, has enjoyed from time to time wholesome recreational activities. This was in the form of socials in the homes, oyster supper, outings such as picnics; water-melon feasts; weinie roasts, fish frys, etc. The pastor appreciated invitations to all of these. They were well chaperoned and proved a spiritual and social uplift to those who took part.

4. Financially

Due to the good work on the part of our treasurer and stewards, and the hearty response of the entire membership of the churches, we are able to report all claims paid in full before the Annual Conference meets. The pastor recommends that "Pay-up Sunday" be placed permanently in the church calendar and that letters be issued by the Sec'y-Treas. of the two churches quarterly instead of annually, showing each quarter the financial status of each member.

5. Numerically

Fifty-seven members have been added. Thirty-three by confession and baptism. Twenty-four by letter. Forty-three at Liberty; 14 at Siler City; eight have been removed; one of these by death which we regret very much. The net increase is 49; our present membership: Siler City, 81; Liberty, 161; total 242.

6. Visitation

For seven months the pastor couldn't be in the field to work and visit as much as he was needed and desired to be there. For the five months that he has been in the field it has been a privilege to live with and visit among the members of the church and friends of both communities. This work was not confined solely to the communities, but our members and sick were visited in Asheboro, Greensboro, Burlington, and other surrounding communities. I challenge anyone to say that they have enjoyed as many good eats as I have during the year!

7. Out-Side Interest

a. Special Meetings: The pastor held two special meetings during the summer. One at Hickory Grove the other at Zion. Assisted in four others; Piney Grove, Flint Ridge, the Union service at Siler City, and the meeting in the church at Liberty. Approximately 115 came into the various churches as a result of these efforts.

b. Chatham Circuit: At the death of Brother Bowman I was called upon to help some of the Chatham work. For the last two months it has been a privilege to care for four of these churches in the afternoons. These folks are very appreciative of the work done and are anxious to move forward. Lack of leadership is their great handicap.

c. G. C. B. All of the special programs have been carried out that the General Conference has requested, except on Easter Service at Siler City. A special offering was taken for the various interests at these services. The church has paid $575.00 to the G. C. B. against $50.00 for the previous year.

d. Young People's Conference: Six of our young folk, including the pastor, attended and passed the prescribed course at the Y. P. S. Conference. Five, also qualifying as C. E. Experts. We were represented at the State C. E. convention; the County S. S. Conventions, and the M. P. District Rally of our district.

e. College: Siler City has paid to the college cash amounting to about $200.00. Liberty sent a check for $500.00, which is being cared for in the local bank. $40.00 was sent in for running expenses, and an educational offering will have been taken at both churches by the close of our Rally Day at Siler this evening. The College has been placed before our folk from time to time. Three students are in H. P. College and are liking fine. I trust we can do more in the future!

8. Conclusion

All of the officers of the church and Sunday school have been elected; the above shows that we have laid a good foundation for a new year, especially in the new organizations; there is even greater conquest for our Christian work; the fields are white unto the harvest; let us pray and so labor together that even a greater harvest will be gathered for the Master in the Years to come.

Respectively Submitted,

F. L. GIBBS, Your Servant In Christ.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$170,469.81
Chas. D. Auman	15.00
J. R. Hutton	200.00
Welch Memorial Church	50.00
Miss Annye Hull	5.00
Miss Matilda Alexander	5.00
C. L. Whitaker, Jr.,	10.00
Melton's Grove	5.00
Mrs. Ida J. McDaniel	2.00
Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pegram	3.00
Mrs. J. W. Landreth	4.00
E. S. Pearson	15.00
Mrs. E. S. Pearson	15.00
R. M. Pearson	10.00
J. A. Walton	5.00
G. W. Massey	25.00
J. W. Long	5.00
Rev. J. M. Morgan	30.00
Rev. C. H. Whitaker	5.00
J. G. Julian	10.00
Gray's Chapel	1.50
A Friend	5.00
M. D. Robinson	5.00
Roberta Church	10.00
H. G. Self	10.00
W. E. White	250.00
L. D. Nally	3.00
	$171,173.31

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$6,900.61
A. V. Ferguson	10.00
	$6,910.61

THE PACE THAT KILLS

"Every man I meet looks as if he'd gone out to borrow trouble with plenty of it on hand." This comment from a distinguished French visitor to our shores reminds us how quickly we Americans exhaust life. With what panting haste we pursue everything.

Every man you meet on the streets seems to be late for some appointment. Everybody is going to a conference or a meeting or a luncheon. Hurry is stamped in the wrinkles of the American face. The old, serene days are gone with the great trees that used to line our business thoroughfares. Both faces and trees reflected the spirit of the times, a spirit of serenity and poise.

Today the Americans are people of action. We are bored without it. Faster and faster we go as the years speed by. The marhinery of body and mind is forced to the breaking point. The slender cord of life is stretched until it snaps. There is no time even for a leisurely death. We live at high pressure until the boiler bursts. The type of our diseases has actually been changed to suit our changed constitution and environment. The lingering maladies of our fathers are little known today. Heart disease and apoplexy are the most dangerous ailments of the present. Even death has adopted our terrific gait.

What's to be the end, nobody knows. Medical science and skill are attacking this problem. The lure of the out-of-doors is growing apace, and this tends to bring back the more leisurely view of life and to put in the proper place many of the pursuits of the present day that are subordinate to the great business of living.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

BEASTS, BIRDS AND FISHES

The dog will come when he is call'd,
The cat will walk away,
The monkey's cheek is very bald,
The goat is fond of play.

The parrot is a prate-a-pace,
Yet knows not what she says;
The noble horse will win the race,
Or draw you in a chaise.

The pig is not a feeder nice,
The squirrel loves a nut,
The wolf will eat you in a trice,
The buzzerd's eyes are shut.

The lark sings high up in the air,
The linnet on the tree;
The swan, he has a bosom fair,
And who so proud as he?

Oh, yes, the peacock is more proud,
Because his tail has eyes.
The lion roars so very loud,
He fills you with surprise.

The raven's coat is shining black;
Or rather raven gray.
The camel's hunch is on his back,
The owl abhors the day.

The sparrow steals the cherry ripe,
The elephant is wise;
The blackbird charms you with his pipe,
The false hyena cries.

The hen guards well her little chicks,
The useful cow is meek;
The beaver builds with mud and sticks,
The lapwing loves to squeak.

The little wren is very small,
The humming bird is less;
The lady bird is least of all,
And beautiful in dress.

The pelican, she loves her young,
The stork his father loves;
The woodcock's bill is very long,
And innocent are doves.

The spotted tiger's fond of blood,
The pigeon feeds on peas;
The duck will gobble in the mud,
The mice will eat your cheese.

A lobster's black, when boil'd he's red,
The harmless lamb must bleed;
The goldfish has a clumsy head,
The goose on grass will feed.

The lady, in her gown of silk,
The little worm may thank;
The sick man drinks the ass's milk,
The weasel's long and lank.

The buck gives us a venison dish,
When hunted for the spoil;
The shark eats up the little fish,
The whale, he gives us oil.

The glow-worm shines the darkest night,
With candle in its tail;
The turtle is the cit's delight,
It wears a coat of mail.

In Germany they hunt the boar,
The bee brings honey home;
The ant lays up a winter store,
The bear loves honey-comb.

The eagle has a crooked beak,
The plaice has orange spots;
The starling, if he's taught, will speak,
The ostrich walks and trots.

The child, that these things does not know,
May yet be thought a dunce;
But I will up in knowledge grow,
As youth can come but once.

—From "Original Poems for Infant Minds," published about 1830.

WHO GO TO CHURCH?

Are business men the worst of "church slackers?" So it would appear, if we are to credit the findings of a recent survey of Protestant churches conducted by the Chicago Church Federation. For it was discovered in this study that men of affairs show the smallest proportion of attendance upon religious services of any of the classes investigated. Professional men have the best record. The officers of the Church Federation came to the conclusion, on the basis of the data just collected, that the wage- earners in proportion to their ratio in Chicago's total population are not so active in the church as doctors and lawyers, but that "church membership is fairly representative of society as a whole." It was also found that union membership stabilizes the laborers and increases the chances of his participating in church and community activity.

Who go to church among the gainfully employed in proportion to the total wage-earning population of the city and the total bread-winning Protestant church membership? A partial answer to this question will be found in the following table:

city as a whole		Church membership
5.4	Professional	9.
8.6	Business Men	6.8
21.	Clerical	31.7
20.6	Skilled Manual	17.3
36.7	Unskilled Manual	18.1

The survey reveals the fact that wage-earners make up 76 per cent. of Chicago's total gainfully employed population and that they comprise 67 per cent. of gainfully employed church members. To compile these statistics a study was made of 96 representative Chicago Protestant churches with an average membership of 230, of whom 42 per cent. were males.

The three-year-old son of a Methodist minister was with his mother at a gathering of ladies. At the proper time he was given a cooky. He ate it in short order and asked for another. The hostess said:

"I'll give you another if you will sing for us."

"Can't sing," was his reply, "but I know something I can say."

"That will do all right," the lady answered, expecting to hear "Twinkle, twinkle, little star," or some other nursery classic.

But the little fellow drew himself up in real Sunday school fashion and said his piece:

"'God loveth a cheerful giver.'"

The lady gave him the cooky, and the whole company seemed to be very cheerful about it.—Harper's.

THE MANY-SIDED CHRIST

What think you of Christ? Whom say you that He is? This Christ challenges the attention of the world by His many-sidedness. He meets the needs of all classes and conditions of men. As deep answers unto deep, so does He respond to the movings of each soul of mankind. If we were to call the roll of the world's workers this morning and ask them, "What think ye of Christ?" their answers would be something like this, and they would amaze us by their wonderful revelations of His many-sidedness:

To the artist, He is the One Altogether Lovely.

To the architect, He is the Chief Corner-Stone.

To the astronomer, He is the Son of Righteousness.

To the baker, He is the Living Bread.

To the banker, He is the Hidden Treasure.

To the builder, He is the sure Foundation.

To the carpenter, He is the Door.

To the doctor, He is the Great Physician.

To the educator, He is the Great Teacher.

To the engineer, He is the new and Living Way.

To the farmer, He is the Sower and the Lord of the Harvest.

To the florist, He is the Rose of Sharon, and the Lily of the Valley.

To the geologist, He is the Rock of Ages (and it is more important to know the Rock of Ages than the age of rocks).

To the horticulturist, He is the True Vine.

To the judge, He is the Righteous Judge, the Judge of all men.

To the juror, He is the Faithful and True Witness.

To the jeweler, He is the Pearl of Great Price.

To the lawyer, He is the Counsellor, the Law Giver, the Advocate.

To the newspaper man, He is the Tidings of Great Joy.

To the Oculist, He is the Light of the Eyes.

To the philanthropist, He is the Unspeakable Gift.

To the philosopher, He is the Wisdom of God.

To the preacher, He is the Word of God.

To the sculptor, He is the Living Stone.

To the servant, He is the Good Master.

To the statesman, He is the Desire of all Nations.

To the student, He is the Incarnate Truth.

To the theologian, He is the Author and Finisher of our Faith.

To the toiler, He is the Giver of Rest.

To the sinner, He is the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world.

To the Christian, He is the Son of the Living God, the Saviour, the Redeemer, and Lord.—Rev. Melville E. Lederer, in United Presbyterian.

It is reported that an English University, to cost $250,000, is planned to be built within the next two years on the slope of the Mount of Olives. The nucleus is the present English College in Jerusalem, also known as the Anglican Bishop's Mission. In enlarging the scope of the institution, the American University at Beirut will be taken as a model, it is stated.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Harmon

William Harrison Harmon, was born in Davidson county August 7, 1872. Early in life he was converted and upon moving to Thomasville, he united with the First Methodist Protestant church. He was married to Mrs. Mary Jane Miller, on December 18, 1904, and during these 24 years, he was a loving and tender husband, and was always desirous of bringing happiness into the life of his companion.

Brother Harmon was a quiet unassuming Christian gentleman of the old school. Friends, whose name can be called Legion loved him for his Christian character. His honesty was unquestioned, and his integrity unblemished.

Some weeks ago Brother Harmon was taken to the Thomasville Clinic for treatment, and during his stay there failed to respond, and becoming suddenly worse Thursday night, he passed away in the early morning of October 29. An autopsy revealed that Cancer of the stomach and bowels was the cause of death.

He will be missed in his Sunday school class, in his church, in the walks of life, but most by the devoted widow.

May the dear Father comfort those who mourn and teach them that He never makes a mistake. J. L. TROLLINGER.

Whitaker

Clifton Lawrence Whitaker was born and reared in Eastern North Carolina, of sturdy stock and gentle lineage. His ancestry reaches back through centuries of the noblest and greatest races in history, nurtured by Christian parents, who were among the pioneers in Methodist Protestantism in North Carolina.

He was educated by teachers who were thorough and accurate in imparting instruction and scholarly attainments.

Passing over that period of his life, in which he was so useful in training and preparing youths in the secondary schools known as academies, before the establishment of high schools for education of all, he dedicated his talents to a wider and more consecrated field of endeavor. Dr. Whitaker devoted his life to the cause of Christ. He was a preacher of fine ability and possessed unusual qualities endowed with a fine common sense and superior tact and capacity as well as executive ability of high order.

His outstanding characteristics were his high ideals and his conscientious, sincere desire to be of the greatest possible service in his Master's cause.

As a pastor, he had no superior. His residence in Asheboro was notable for his popularity, not alone with the members of his own church, but he was beloved alike by the great majority of our citizens regardless of denominational following. He was at all times a believer in the tenets of Methodism but was tolerant of other beliefs whose "shibboleths he could not pronounce."

His life is a striking example of one who has courage to think and act, with convictions that he did not conceal. A beautiful trait in his character was his comradeship among men with whom he came in daily contact, whose affections were universally inspired. He was never too busy to be loyal to friends, or to sympathize with those in distress. This tribute from the membership of the Methodist Protestant Church of Asheboro should not conclude without a tribute to Dr. Whitaker's beloved and estimable wife who stood so loyally by her husband in all of his daily walks of life.

"Now Earth's last picture is painted,
The tubes are twisted and dried;
The sweetest roses have faded
And the fairest flowers have died.
He can rest now, as long as he needs it;
Lie down for an eon or two,
Till the Master of all bids welcome,
And shall put him to work anew."

MRS. J. S. LEWIS,
MRS. WM. C. HAMMER,
J. D. ROSS.
Committee.

Balentine

John Henry Balentine died November 4, after three weeks' intense suffering. He had been in declining health for six years. He was the faithful superintendent of Harmony Sunday school for about 25 years.

The funeral service was held at Harmony church. Rev. R. L. Rountree had charge of the service, assisted by Rev. Mr. Snyder. His body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a mound of flowers, tokens of love and friendship.

He leaves four daughters and one son and nineteen grand children, to mourn their loss.

The bereaved family have the sympathy of the church and community.

Bowman

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has removed from this earthly sphere Rev. J. H. Bowman, long a solider of the Cross, the builder of the Midway Methodist Protestant church, beloved for his good works, his high character and many kindnesses bestowed upon the poor, the weak and the suffering, and;

Whereas, Rev. Mr. Bowman in his endeavors for the advancement of the Master's Kingdom, labored unceasingly to promote the interests of the church and its people, being especially active in the work of the Sunday school as well as the ministry, and;

Whereas, he held very dear in heart and mind the spiritual welfare of the members of the church, not only of Midway church but also of others; the welfare of the church members and their families, and other people, as well, and gave himself without restraint to his Master's business, and;

Whereas, the Methodist Protestant conference, the churches he served and the people among whom he labored so faithfully, especially the people of Midway church and the Bowman Bible class (named in memory of him), composed of ladies, has suffered a great loss in his death;

Be it resolved, that his passing we mourn, but rejoice that he was spared to do the great work that he did, and we know that he did not live in vain but fulfilled the Lord's purpose, well and faithfully, and we bow to the will of Him above who doeth all things for the good of those who love Him.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution of love and respect and tribute to a valiant servant of the Lord be spread on the minutes of the Midway church, of the Bowman Bible class, and be sent to the bereaved family and be presented to the annual meeting of the North Carolina Methodist conference, to be read at memorial services and put upon the minutes.

ELIZABETH BOWMAN,
J. BYRON LAMBE,
C. F. PINNIX.
Committee of Midway Church.

The above resolutions were adopted at memorial services Sunday, October 31, 1926.

JOHN A. SUITS, Chairman.

THE GOLDEN DAY

(December 5, 1926, International Golden Rule Sunday.)

The guns of war are silent,
The bugles' lips are still,
And hands across the world unite
To banish hate and ill,
To join all lands and nations
In trust that shall not cease,
To make one day the golden day—
The Golden Day of Peace!

No more do homes burn redly
In battle's after-glow,
But little children wait in vain
A mother's greeting low.
The world's great heart must succor
Frail hands that blindly grope,
And make of childhood's darkened day
A Golden Day of Hope!

The years with tender meaning
Shall hide old griefs away,
And new dawns light the distant hills
And bring a nobler day;
And this shall be the promise
And prophecy thereof,
This day of open hearts and hands—
A Golden Day of Love!

Arthur Wallace Peach, Morgenthau Poetry Prize Winner.

Arthur Wallace Peach, who tied with Mary Carolyn Davies of Portland, Oregon, as winner of the poetry prize in the Morgenthau Thousand Dollar poetry-poster-slogan Contest to promote the observance of International Golden Rule Sunday through Near East Relief, is a Vermonter by birth, heritage and residence. A graduate of Middlebury College and on the English faculty of Nerwich University, he is a member of the Poetry Society of America, a frequent contributor of verse to many magazines and the author of a book of poems, "The Hill Trails." He lives in Northfield, Vermont.

—Now that the cattle tick has finally been eradicated from all sections of eastern North Carolina, plans are being made by the North Carolina Experiment Station to begin some work with beef cattle in this territory. The first tests will be made at the Blackland Branch Station at Wenona in Washington County.

—Another sweet potato storage house has been built in Halifax County. This one will hold 1,000 bushels.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HOW MELLON CAME TO BE CHOSEN

Soon after the election of President Harding in November, 1920, and before he had announced any member of his Cabinet, the big Republican politicians were concerned as to who should be appointed to certain positions in the Cabinet, especially who should be Secretary of the Treasury. One day at that time a personal friend of the editor of the Reform Bulletin was in the office of a big influential wet Repulican National Committeeman in an eastern State. That Committeeman was very much agitated lest President Harding might appoint as Secretary of the Treasury Mr. Charles E. Hughes, a man whom they feared would not do everything the politicians wanted done for them.

Sitting in that office at that time and talking over the matter with our friend, this national Republican Committeeman suddenly said: "I have the man, Andy Mellon of Pittsburg, for Secretary of the Treasury. He will take care of our interests and the interest of the wets." By "our interests" he meant the interests of the National Republican machine. While our friend was there that National Republican Committeeman called up U. S. Senator Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania, who was then resting at a hotel in Atlantic City, and said to him, "I have found the man we want for Secretary of the Treasury, Andy Mellon of Pittsburg." Penrose instantly agreed with the suggestion and asked this Committeeman to go at once and see Mr. Mellon for him concerning the matter, and a little later Mr. Harding announced he had selected Mr. Mellon for Secretary of the Treasury!

It will be remembered that Senator Penrose, sick in his hotel at Philadelphia at the time of the National Republican convention at Chicago in 1920, by long distance telephone directed the moves by which Harding was nominated for President. This National Republican Committeeman when talking at the time above referred to turned to our friend immediately after his telephone conversation with Senator Penrose and said: "The chief (referring to Senator Penrose), says that for all he has done for Harding the only thing he will ask of him will be the appointment of Andy Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury." That message or request went to President Harding, and he complied with it. Senator Penrose was one of the most bitter enemies of Prohibition in the U. S. Senate.

Secretary Mellon may be a great financier but he is utterly unfit to be in charge of the department of Government under which is directed the whole Federal forces for the enforcement of Prohibition. This accounts for the continually shocking scandals with reference to the Prohibition enforcement in Pennsylvania, New York and some other States.—Reform Bulletin.

TEN WEEKS WITH THE TITHE

Any church may now put on a Ten Weeks' course of tithing education, right in the midst of its other activities, and at a ridiculously small cost.

The Layman Company, which has distributed many millions of pamphelets on the tithe, now announces an attractive new series, at so low a price that distribution to an entire church through ten weeks costs only two cents and a half per family.

A complete set of samples and full particulars will be sent for twenty-five cents, stamps or coin. This amount will be credited on an order for the complete "Church Education Unit."

Address The Layman Company, 730 Rush Street, Chicago.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
RED LETTER BIBLES
SELF-PRONOUNCING
BIBLES and TESTAMENTS that EMPHASIZE CHRIST
All the Prophetic Types and Prophecies in Old Testament and Words of Christ in New Testament are Printed in Red.
Send for Illustrated Catalog
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

Man (in barber chair)—"Be careful not to cut my hair too short—people will take me for my wife."—The Epworth Herald.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER, EVEN CHRIST, AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., NOVEMBER 18, 1926 NUMBER 2

Pres Elderdice, Select
Westminster MD

One Cause of After-Conference Troubles

After Annual Conference closes its session usually a few protests are heard here and there. As a rule they come because an unexpected pastor has been assigned. He may be as good a preacher and pastor as the one expected; yes, he may be even a better preacher and pastor than the one expected. But because an unexpected change has been made some of the people are disappointed and hence dissatisfied, and some will express their dissatisfaction in protests that are almost sure to do harm. It may be granted that some particular appointment was unwise and unfortunate. Before there is an outcry of dissatisfaction, there should be a consideration of how the mistake came to be made. Generally speaking, such a mistake occurs because the charge is not represented in Conference when the mistake is made, and the Stationing Committee is not apprised of some of the pertinent facts. Why is the charge not represented? Because the delegate has gone home. Before he goes home he states his wish to the Stationing Committee and is told that his wishes will be respected and if seen to be for the good of the whole work will be complied with. But the Stationing Committee tell him that they do not know what will come up and that he would better stay till the end of Conference. He takes his chances, he goes home, some other charge calls for the same minister, the delegate is sent for, and cannot be found because he has gone home. In this situation the Stationing Committee can only follow its best judgment, and sometimes its mature judgment is that the minister in question would render a larger service in another charge and he is assigned accordingly. When the absent delegate learns that an unexpected man has been assigned to his charge, he or somebody associated with him will protest mightily. We have offered for publication such a protest reflecting on not only the Stationing Committee but the whole Annual Conference. The writer should know that the Annual Conference appointed a committee to hear appeals from any aggrieved charge or minister. When the Stationing Committee's report was offered to Conference for adoption was the time to object. But in this case the delegate had gone home, and nobody else in Conference knew of any ground for objection. Should the whole Conference be censured for not acting when it knew of no occasion for acting? And should the Stationing Committee be condemned for doing what seemed to be the wisest and best thing to do with all the light they had?

If any charge feels aggrieved in the way we have indicated, the thing to do is to make the pastor assigned as useful as possible by encouraging him in every way. He may be much better adapted than you think, and he should not be made to suffer for the sins of others. Some mistakes can be prevented by delegates remaining and serving to the end of Conference. A charge should insist that its representative stay to the end. If he fails to do this, certainly it should refrain from censuring men who have tried to do the best they could and only failed because the man failed them on whom they were depending for needed advice.

"Forgiveness That Thou Mayest Be Feared"

In the 130th Psalm, fourth verse, we read: "There is forgiveness with thee that thou mayest be feared." One commentator has pronounced this statement "completely unintelligible." Certainly it is an unexpected statement. If there were no forgiveness with God, we would think Him greatly to be feared. The fact that He is willing to forgive seems to take away fear of God and enable us to approach Him without fear. Perhaps the key to the meaning may be found in the word translated fear. The Hebrew language had not a great vocabulary like the English and some other languages, and the same word was made to serve several different purposes. Its meaning varied through a considerable range, and the precise meaning must be gathered from the context. Fear of the Lord may mean dread of His punishment, and it may mean a reverential regard for His Person. If God would not forgive, there would probably be great dread of His punishment, but perhaps but little reverence for His character. We say "probably," because it is by no means certain that men would fear the punishments of God. They might not believe in the personality of God at all. They might dread the natural consequences of their conduct so far as they are able to foresee them, but if they did not regard God as a personal being, they would scarcely fear his infliction of penalties.

But let God once forgive a man's sins and let him be conscious of the fact that God has forgiven his sins; then the man has a proof of God's personality and at the same time a proof of His love as he can get in no other way. Ever afterward he will have a reverence—a fear—for the being of God that he did not have and could not have before. Forgiveness of sin is a transcendent act of God and it must have great consequences in the soul of the man forgiven. A sense of the moral character of God, the absolute holiness of God, is awakened in the soul of the forgiven one, and he becomes as never before a worshiper and devotee of God. The Psalmist meant something when he wrote, "There is forgiveness with thee that thou mayest be feared."

By the way, this 130th Psalm is one of the seven penitential Psalms. The reading of it thoughtfully will be spiritually helpful at any time.

Life for many people is a thing which is good only in shreds and patches: and for many others a thing of sound and fury, signifying nothing. But when you see God in it, and find Him there, the world becomes the Father's House. It is heaven begun; we have entered, even here on earth, the spiritual country.—James Reid.

THE PHARISAISM OF THE RADICAL

By Rev. Luther K. Long

I confess to considerable pleasure in hearing a man, whose mind is decidedly of the modern type, decrying or exposing the faults and weaknesses of his own party. He does it, we should remember, at the risk of being quoted against himself, and he incurs the danger of being grossly misrepresented—but he speaks his mind, nevertheless.

Dr. William E. Gilroy, editor of the Congregationalist, frequently pleases me with his clear and vigorous words rebuking his fellow progressives for their high-headedness and calling on them to show a becomingly humble spirit. In a recent editorial, "The Pharisaism of the Radical," he certainly makes some wise remarks.

"The Pharisaism of the stand-patter requires no comment. It is ancient, continuous, and conspicuous. It existed long before the great parable which henceforth gave to the term 'Pharisee' a specific and inevitable meaning, and it continues unabated in spite of much reading of that parable and widespread reverence for the teacher who uttered it.

"But there is also a Pharisaism of the radical, less crude, and more subtle, though, once recognized, it appears none the less real and obtrusive. That all radicals are Pharisaic is no more true than that all Pharisees of the time of Jesus were snobs and prigs. The whole point of the Parable of the Pharisee and the Publican depends upon just the opposite supposition. Had all Publicans been humble saints and all Pharisees hypocrites, the force and meaning of the contrast would have been lost. The point was that even a devout Pharisee—good, regular church member and patriot of his day—might be a miserable snob, while even a Publican might be a very decent and spiritually-minded man."

Dr. Gilroy confesses that he himself is a radical:

"So," he says, "if we speak of the Pharisaism of the radical it is because we are on the side of the radical. Only a thoroughgoing purpose to remake the world from top to bottom can measure up to the spirit of a redemptive religion. Christianity itself is radical. There is far more of its essential spirit in the radical, with his passion to build up a better world, no matter how inadequate his ideals and methods, than in the conservative whom fear, sloth, indifference, or self-interest make a mere standpatter."

The editor expresses the wish that the radical had "More of the grace, and graces, that Jesus, the world's pre-eminent radical, commended." He then speaks of the two ways in which Pharisaism is manifested:

"The Pharisaism of the radical manifests itself in two principal ways. According to his temperament, the Pharisaic radical has a complete contempt, or merely an indulgent pity, for any man professing social or religious knowledge who does not share his particular opinions and outlook. Though he may be too good-mannered to say so, he manifestly regards one who does not accept his outlook as a poor, unenlightened boob. Possibly he is kind enough to suggest how wonderful one would be if only one's eyes were opened to the truth that he sees, but the main thing is that he has one very definitely placed as a blind, unprogressive conservative or a timid and halting liberal. It never occurs to him that one's differences in opinion, method, and temper may arise from the perception of facts which he himself conveniently ignores, or from a critical distrust of the method in which he places such dogmatic confidence, or even from a consciousness of goals farther off and more difficult than he himself recognizes.

"Even more offensive, however, is the imputation which the Pharicaic radical frequently makes against the courage of those whose views, expressions, and actions fail to accord with his own. Not infrequently his Pharisaism takes the form of assuming that his own view of things is so plain that no thinking man could honestly hold any other opinion, and then, very patronizingly, he suggests that of course one would speak out as he does if it were not for one's position, etc. He looks with great condescension upon one's assumed cowardice, with blissful unconsciousness of his own Pharisaism and a complete failure to realize that one's inability to emulate his own outspokenness may be due to a desire to hold to one's own views and to express one's own opinions. In fact, it might be that there are circumstances under which restraint and silence require as much courage as expression. There are at least a few situations and problems in the modern world of complex issues concerning which this is true. But the Pharisaic radical makes no such allowances. Not to shout out one's conclusions, be they raw, baked, or half-baked, is a confession of cowardice and weakness."

The concluding setences of the editorial are well worth remembering and pondering:

"The sin of Pharisaism is a sin against fellowship. It is a barrier to understanding and co-operation. It is one of the presumptuous sins from which every servant of righteousness and truth ought to pray to be kept back. God knows we are all blind enough and each needs the help and enlightenment that the other can give. . . . The Pharisaism of the radical is no less regrettable, no less sinful, because it happens to be a radical who displays it. Pharisaism even in a radical is a stand-pattish thing. It helps to defeat the high aims and purposes that men set before them."

OPPORTUNITY—AT THE DOOR

[The paper below was read in the Liberty Prayer service and by special request has been placed in the Herald.]

Dr. Broadus, a distinguished Southern Baptist minister, had the custom of always having the slaves of his household be present at the evening family prayers. He bears testimany that the favorite Book of the Bible with both his children and the slaves was the Book of Revelation. It is a difficult Book and there were many things they did not understand, but the reverence, the majesty, and awful mystery of the Book impressed them. But the third chapter of this Book is not difficult. It is as clear as it is beautiful. It contains three short notes to three churches. To Sardis the message is: "Watch, you are in danger, repent and I will give you a great reward." To Philadelphia the message is: "You have been patient, and faithful and true, hold fast, that you may not at last lose your crown and great reward." To Laodicea the message is: "You are indifferent, you are absorbed in money and the things of this world, you are blind to the things that are really worth while, and yet Jesus stands at the door and begs to be let in."

The prescribed limit of this paper precludes the possibility of noticing in detail all that is in this chapter. I am going to take as a subject for my remarks, "The Opportunity of Life." This seems suggested by the message to the three churches: Watch, hold fast, open the door to Jesus. In the 30th verse we have an expressive phrase: "At the door," in Jesus' words. "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man will hear my voice, and open the door, I will come unto him, and will sup with him, and he with me." "At the door," this is what the word opportunity means. It is made up of two Latin words, ob portus, meaning before the door. How many great, precious things are at our door, if only we had eyes to see them. Dr. Russell Conwell has a celebrated lecture with the title, "Acres of Diamonds." A man owned a farm, had a wife and children and a happy home, but he was told of diamonds by a visiting priest, of their great value. He thought so much about them that he sold his farm, left wife and children in search of diamond fields, but never found them and died in despair, committing suicide. Then the man who had bought his farm found in sight of the house a diamond mine, the richest of the ancient world. This is a ture story. It is the story of the diamond mine of Golconda. Here was a man who wandered far from home in search of what was right at his door.

In 1849 when there was the gold fever in California a man sold his farm for about $300 and went south in search of gold, and found none. The purchaser of his farm found a gold mine on the farm that brought millions of dollars. At the door, if only he had eyes to see. In Pennsylvania a man sold his place to go off to Canada to work with a relative in the oil business. The purchaser of his place found in the branch where his horses were driven each day to drink, evidence of oil which resulted in the discovery of oil flow which produced more than $100,000,000. Yet the owner had gone to Canada in a fruitless search of what was at his very door.

In Vermont a young man who had distinguished himself in the study of minerals at Yale University persuaded his widowed mother to sell out the farm and go with him West in search of his fortune in silver mines. And the man who bought the farm, while carrying a basket of potatoes through the gate between rock walls, knocked off a rock which was a solid piece of silver. And here he found a silver mine worth many hundred thousands of dollars. And yet it was right on that very fence by the gate the original owner had sat and sold the farm. At the door.

But silver and gold and oil and diamonds are not the only riches in this world. And they are not the only things right at our door that we often overlook in search far afield. We all want happiness, satisfaction of our desires, but we make the mistake of thinking that this happiness is far off, and that it can come only with wealth. The greatest happiness in this world comes from fellowship with friends and loved ones. What would all the gold of the world amount to if we had not tried to love. But these friends are right at the door if we only have kind hearts, kind words, and helpful hands. Our homes are "at the door," and there are no fields of gold or silver that will ever bring us the peace and happiness on earth could have been found right in our home, even if it was an humble one.

I wonder whether some day when we stand before our blessed Lord to give in our account we will not wish that He would give us an opportunity to do something for Him, give us another chance. And I wonder whether He will not say to our parents, "You had an opportunity to train children for Me and you overlooked it." Will He say to teachers, "You had your opportunity with pupils, but you failed." Will He say to all of us, "You had an opportunity to live an honest, kind and helpful life; I put the service right at your door, but you failed."

But I have chosen this phrase, "at the door," not to make money, to achieve success, to find happiness in home and among friends.. These all are at our door, but there is something greater than any or all of these at the door. Jesus stands at the door. Just think how our heart would rejoice if we were told that some famous surgeon was in our town when we were seized with a sudden attack that required an operation. Think how we would rejoice if told that the President of the United tates, or some king, or some distinguished writer was at our door and wished to visit us. Think what a panic almost would occur if we were told today that Henry Ford wanted to come and live in our town. What business it would make, what industries would be started. The whole town would turn out to welcome him, because his coming would mean so much to us. But just think that He Who stands and knocks is the Lord of lords and King of kings, Whose is this world and the kingdoms of it, Who saves body and soul. At the door, Jesus, the Lord of Life, at the door—our opportunity.

Holman Hunt has a celebrated painting of Jesus standing at the door and knocking. He seems pale and emaciated, as if he had been standing and waiting a long time. Yet He is patient, He still waits. When a friend was admiring this great painting, he expressed admiration of the wonderful power of the picture, but he said to the painter, "You have left off the door-knob." "No," said the painter, "that is on purpose; the bolt is on the inside. The Master stands and knocks, but only the one within can open." Will we shut out Jesus? Will we shut out Him Who wishes to come in and sup with us? The decision is with us. All other opportunities that may come to us in life pale into insignificance and nothingness in comparison with the one great opportunity of letting Jesus into our hearts and lives. When He enters He will help us with our work, with our temptations, our burdens. He will help us in life and save us in death.

SELMA WATT.

DOGMATISM OF SCIENTISTS

In his (Darwin's) biography it is stated: "George Romanes was a naturalist of the highest order, an esteemed friend of Darwin; so much did he esteem him that he gave him all his manuscripts relating to psychological subjects, with the request that the great naturalist would publish any part he chose of his works on Mental Evolution in animals."

Romanes says of himself, that he was perverted from religious faith by the influence of materialistic science. In his early life he wrote a work entitled, "A Candid Examination of Theism," and in his riper years wrote a sequel to it, which he called, "A Candid Examination of Religion." While the former work was decidedly anti-religious, the latter was not only religious but Christian. Romanes, in the last work, commenced by acknowledging the tendency in scientific men to dogmatism. "Scientific men as a class," he tells us, "are quite as dogmatic as the straightest sect of theologians..... Never was any one more arrogant in his claims for pure reason than I was—more arrogant in spirit, though not in letter—this being due to contact with science." He honestly confesses, "Man without God" is miserable. He says further, "I know from experience the intellectual distractions of scientific research, philosophical speculation and artistic pleasures; but am also well aware that even when all are taken together and well sweetened to taste, in respect of consequent reputation, means, social position, etc., the whole concoction is but as high confectionery to a starving man..... There is a vacuum in the soul of man which nothing can fill save faith in God." —Selected.

Denominational Enterprises

TO METHODIST PROTESTANT PASTORS

By action of the Board of Education and many of our Conferences the second Sunday in December has been designated as "Men for the Ministry" Sunday. The object behind such procedure is to place the matter of the need of men for the ministry squarely before our people. We want them to think, to talk, to pray about it. Not until the church gets this matter on its mind more seriously will anything more than very ordinary results be obtained. If the church is indifferent our young people will be indifferent. If our pastors keep silent on the matter the general conclusion will be that it is not a matter of concern.

We appreciate the fact that the programs of most of our pastors are overcrowded. They find it very difficult to answer the call of many important interests. Some must be neglected for want of time and strength. There is no cause that should be of greater concern to the church than that of its pastoral leadership. This leadership will not arise except in response to the prayers of the people of God.

"However much our laymen may be able to do (and God bless them in doing great things), it will remain true that the preachers are the real leaders of the Church." (Christian Education Magazine, Nashville, Tenn.) But preachers come from the Christian home and the local congregation. And they come impelled by an inward voice inspired of God and the prayers of his people.

In view, therefore, of the importance of this matter we earnestly request that our pastors throughout the length and breadth of our territory make careful plans to adequately present this subject to their people December 12th. Choose suitable music, prepare an appropriate sermon and call upon your people to spend some definite time thinking and praying that God will send forth the much needed harvesters for the fields that are white.

Frank W. Stephenson, Executive Secretary,
Board of Education.

THE CENTENNIAL CHRISTMAS SERVICE

Under the auspices of the Budget Council a very useful Christmas service has been prepared. It is designed to meet the needs of the great majority of our churches and church schools. In fact, it will be found serviceable by all and should be used. No doubt every congregation in the denomination will make provision for a suitable observance of Christmas. In fact, it is hardly likely any of us will permit the day to go by without some recognition. No hard searching nor indecisive puzzling about the program is necessary. The service provided free of charge by the Budget Council will settle the problem at once.

The wide-spread demand for a Christmas service has induced the Budget Council to publish this material. As with all other special day programs the churches are expected to take an offering for the work of the denomination as comprehended in the General Conference Budget. This money does not go to the credit of any particular Board or cause but is for the benefit of all. It will be a credit on the General Conference Budget assigned to the local church.

What a splendid opportunity this is for the pastor to present the full program of the denomination to his people! He will carefully explain the efforts the church is trying to make in the field of home and foreign missions, Christian education, and general benevolences. The general fund for superannuated ministers, for ministerial relief, for the home for the aged and homeless children will be earnestly explained and duly emphasized.

It is time to stress the fact that the denomination as well as the Annual Conference has a program worthy our support and deserving first place in our thinking, praying and giving. The Centennial Christmas service is an opportunity to prove our essential unity and our capacity to support loyally a common enterprise.

If a sample copy has not been received, send to Rev. Lawrence Little, Concord, North Carolina, and he will gladly supply your needs.

Frank W. Stephenson,
Secretary Budget Council.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

At the present time Ministerial students have applied for help from the Board to the extent of $6,200.

Income from Invested Fund should amount to $3,250, leaving $2,950 to be secured from former beneficiaries in the form of return payments.

When the income from the Invested Fund and return payments do not equal the loans made it is necessary to depend upon the Budget for the deficit.

Our deficit last year was $1,500, which was secured from the Budget. Which meant, of course, that we had just that much less to distribute to the colleges and seminary.

By means of occasional bulletins and personal letters we are trying to keep beneficiaries and friends interested in this enterprise. Besides the matter is presented in person to individuals and stressed in our public addresses.

Annuity charges and incidental expenses make the Ministerial Education Budget approximately $6,500 as reported last week. We could meet this amount with little difficulty if those indebted to the Board would make a special effort during the next few months to meet their obligation.

The great majority of our beneficiaries are making loyal efforts to clear up their obligation to the Board. Occasionally we seem to have those who manifest little or no conscience in the matter, neither answering our letters nor giving any other evidence of a sense of honor or responsibility.

The action of the Texas Conference in pledging $10,000 toward the maintenance of Westminster College is heartening to everyone interested in the success of the institution. That the Conference is in earnest was demonstrated in the amount of cash given at the time. One hundred thousand dollars wisely invested would make practically certain the permanence of the college.

The attitude of the wife of one of our beneficiaries is commendable to say the least. Several months ago her husband died, but she has assured the Board of Education that every cent of his obligation will be paid, sending later a substantial check as an indication of the seriousness of her purpose. Provision was made some time ago in event of just such a possibility with the result that the family is better provided for and the Board's interests secured.

The death of Mr. O. F. Betton, a Middler in Westminster Theological eminary, is reported to the Board by President Elderdice. Mr. Betton was one of the most talented and promising of our ministerial students. The Seminary faculty and student-body unite in warm-hearted words of appreciation and praise of the splendid character of this young man. Their grief is shared by the Board of Education and sincere expressions of sympathy extended to the family. We cannot afford to lose any of our ministerial candidates, especially those of such splendid promise.

The survey work in the Adrian College area is being completed this month. Three men have been in the field, including Rev. R. I. Farmer. Miss Bertha Larsen has been working in Indiana endeavoring to form prayer bands and study groups with a view to arousing interest not only in the Adrian campaign, but in the great cause of Christian education. The campaign is to be builded on the foundation of prayer and information.

A Contrast

From one correspondent:

"We did not use your Rally Day program as I advised against it. I told my people it was practically nothing but 'denominational propaganda,' and while it was good for that purpose and if it had been put on in a town hall it would be O. K., but it was not fit to be put on in the church. * * * Furthermore, it was a 'theatrical performance.' The M. P. church is opposed to attending theatrical performances. As it is opposed to attending them it is worse by far to hold them in our churches."

From a report in one of our church papers:

"Last Sunday was Rally Day, and it was rally day in the concrete. Every service was well attended, and the program at night put on by the Sunday school, using our own service from our own Board of Education, was simply wonderful. There was more Gospel demonstrated in that program than I ever saw in any program in my life. In fact, no sermon could have shown more Gospel than did this service."

The Figures

The funds received by Treasurer H. C. Staley last year were distributed as follows:

Foreign Missions:
Denominational Board	$56,507.15
Woman's Foreign Mission Society	69,278.66—	$125,785.81
Home Missions:
Denominational Board	$46,264.23
Woman's Home Mission Society	23,257.87—	69,522.10
Total for Home and Foreign Missions		$195,307.91
Christian Education:
Denominational Board	$29,405.15
Board of Young People's Work	9,329.51—	38,734.66
Denominational Administration:
President's Office	$ 5.776.54
Treasurer's Office	2,346.33
Budget Council	309.91
Executive Committee	405.70
Miscellaneous	281.79—	9,120.27
Promotional:
Cost of Special Days		5,942.11
Special Benevolences:
Superannuated Fund	$ 2,583,26
Ministerial Relief	1,100.25
Contingent Fund	1,100.25
Home for the Aged	678.42
Children's Home	963,29
American Bible Society	592.06—	7,017.53
Total distributed to all interests		$256,122.48

The percentages of distribution are as follows:

Home and Foreign Missions	.762
Christian Education	.152
Denominational Administration	.035
Promotional	.023
Special Benevolences	.027

It should be kept in mind that the above figures do not represent all the Methodist Protestant Church is doing in the way of general interests or benevolences. Each Annual Conference has a more or less extensive program so that these figures would be greatly increased if those were included.

FRANK W. STEPHENSON.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS MAILED!

In response to an almost universal demand on the part of our church leaders, our Budget Council has prepared again this year a special Centennial Christmas Service for the use of our churches and Sunday schols. Sample copies of this program have been mailed to every pastor and Sunday school superintendent on our records. We are anxious to place a copy in the hands of every leader of the church. If you have not received your copy by the time you read this, we shall be very glad to send a duplicate copy.

We have tried to work out a program that would fit the needs of every church in our denomination, both large and small, city and rural. For the larger and better equipped churches that would desire an elaborate and impressive service, we have prepared a very beautiful pageant entitled "Gifts to the King." Although this pageant may be made as elaborate as any one could wish, it is also simple and easily arranged. There are no speaking parts to be memorized and any church may put it on successfully with a moderate amount of preparation and rehearsal.

For the churches not desiring to use the pageant, we have a choice selection of recitations and exercises that will appeal to every person attending your service.

Our Budget Council is asking that a special effort be made this year to swell the offering. We are in urgent need of funds with which to carry on the Master's work. Surely we will not allow the causes for which Christ died to suffer during this season when we commemorate His birth. Bring an offering worthy a King!

Rush your order for Christmas programs today! With the samples sent out was included a postal card order form. Please fill in this card asking for as many copies of the program and as many offering envelopes as you can use and rush it to REV. LAWRENCE LITTLE, BOX 328, CONCORD, N. C. Your order will be filled immediately, thus giving you ample time to plan for a great service.

If you have not received sample copy, write for one today.

LAWRENCE LITTLE, Secretary,
Board of Young People's Work.

An insane man once entered a crowded church, and grasping two pillars of the gallery, cried: "I will pull these down and destroy you, as Samson did the Philistine lords." A panic was imminent, when the minister, quietly waving his hand, said: "Let him try." He did try, and that was the end of the panic. Infidelity lays hold of the pillars of our temple—the Sabbath, the Bible, the divinity of Christ. Professors of probabilities say, "We will pull them down." Let them try. Many have tried, but our temple stands. It was built by the Almighty, and from its sure cornerstone to its highest pinnacle it is secure.—Selected.

The WORK and the WORKERS

I have been trying to get time to write a few after-Conference notes, but have been so busy about what has to be done that there has been no time for writing.

Please permit me to say just this relative to Thanksgiving: All citizens of North Carolina are being asked to contribute to some children's home on or near Thanksgiving day. The amount asked each of us is the equal of one day's income.

In the years past this has helped a great deal in taking care of our Home in High Point. So let all Methodist Protestants be careful to think of the Home, and send all your Thanksgiving offerings to Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, Children's Home, High Point, N. C. Brother Lowdermilk will be there for some days yet.

Faithfully yours,

A. G. Dixon.

THE BUDGET DISTRIBUTIONS FOR 1926-1927

To Pastors and Charges:

Dear Brethren:—It was our purpose to have the budget distributions published in the Herald last week; but Conference ordered an additional amount put in for Superannuates, and then some readjustments had to be made where boundary changes were made, so the matter had to go over until this week.

Conference also directed a 50 per cent increase in the apportionment for College expenses, and that accounts for the increase in the apportionment to the charges.

In the closing moments of Conference, Rev. J. T. Sisk, pastor of Mocksville Circuit, challenged the other charges to the payment of the Annual Conference budget within 30 days after the rise of Conference. Several charges accepted the challenge, and word comes from other charges that they are undertaking to do this. After the 30 days are over the names of charges paying the Annual Conference budget during that time will be listed in the Herald in the order in which checks are received by Mr. V. W. Idol, High Point, N. C., from said charges. He helps most who helps first.

In another column is the apportionment for the Conference year.

WHO AM I?

I never was guilty of wrong action. But on my account lives have been lost, trains have been wrecked, ships have gone down at sea, cities have burned, battles have been lost, and governments have failed.

I never struck a blow nor spoke an unkind word, but because of me homes have been broken up, friends have grown cold, the laughter of children has ceased, wives have shed bitter tears, brothers and sisters have forgotten, and fathers and mothers have gone broken-hearted to their graves.

I have intended no evil, but because of me, talent and genius have come to naught, courtesy and kindness have failed, and the promise of success and happiness has yeilded sorrow and disaster.

I have no color except black, no sound but just my silence, no cause for my being myself, no progeny except grief and disaster.

I am NEGLECT.—Santa Fe Magazine.

WHY THIS MISTAKE?

As we listened to the reading of the ritual of the Ordination Service at the Conference just closed, when the reader came to the quotation from I Tim. 3;4, "One that ruleth well his own house," he read, "One that ruleth well in his own house." Somehow it did not sound right. It seemed that "in" did not belong in the sentence. I've examined the passage in question and find that "in" is not in the passage. I then examined the Discipline to see if the error was in it, or in the reader. I find that the error is in the Discipline. Why is this? Is the error a slip of the printer, proof-reader, copyist, or is it intentional? If it is intentional, do we think we can improve on the Book? Is it a bit of modern "revolt" crept into the ritual? If so, who is responsible?

If we do not accept Paul—the Book—it is surely unfair, unjust, and dishonest to purposely misquote him. It's misrepresentation. We do not like to be misquoted. It's not telling the truth. Perhaps someone may claim that the meaning is the same, but such a claim would be incorrect. To "rule in one's own house," is not the same as to "rule one's house." When he "rules his house" there are no "reservations" nor exceptions. But to "rule in one's house" might mean a very narrow or restricted authority. A mayor rules in his state, but not the state. His authority is restricted to his own village, town, or city. A governor rules in the United States, but not the United States. His authority, also, is restricted—to his own state.

And that Paul "means what he says, and says what he means," is evident from what follows in verse five: "For if a man know not how to rule his own house"—not "in" his own house—"how shall he take care of the church of God?"

Whether this error has been in the ritual from the organization of the church, I know not. It's in the Disciplines of 1916 and 1912. We have nothing later. We have one 50 or 75 years old. This we mean to examine when we have time to find its hiding-place.

But the English and American Revisions read as the King James—"One who ruleth well his own house." Hind's Interlinear reads, "his own house ruling well." No "in" injected to make or modify the sense. We've not taken time to consult any other translations. But these are sufficient. If this does not carry conviction, one "would not be persuaded though one rise from the dead."

It seems that the next General Conference should eliminate this "in," or eliminate the entire 4th, 5th verses of Tim. 3:4, 5, and cease misrepresenting a man who has been dead nearly 2,000 years, and cannot enter a living protest.

J. F. Dozier.

CHEERFULNESS

Cheerfulness is a tonic for the mind and body. It has a directly beneficial influence upon the blood, nerves and the physical organs. Cheerfulness is a valuable business asset. It is one of the greatest forces in winning and keeping friends. Cheerfulness, the co-partner of optimism, radiates confidence and enthusiasm wherever it projects its penetrating power. Cheerfulness is the antidote to worry, fear, discouragement, perplexity, and discord. Cheerfulness gives mental alertness, serenity of mind, and broadened sympathies. Cheerfulness brings contentment and tranquility, safeguarding its possessor from inordinate ambition, and the mental strain of haste and anxiety. Daily affirmations of cheerfulness build life and vigor.—Glenville Kleiser.

THE MEASURE OF OUR THANKFULNESS

Thanksgiving: "The act of expressing gratitude for favors and mercies; a public celebration of divine goodness; a day so set apart."

The season of Thanksgiving is upon us. Just how thankful are you?

The measure of your thankfulness is found in what you are willing to do, and will do, for those who are not as fortunate as you are. If you are truly thankful for this Christian land of ours, for the creature comforts that God has given you during the past year, for the prosperity that your community, your state, and your nation enjoy, you will show it by trying to pass on to those worthy or your benefactions, some of the blessings that you and yours are enjoying.

If you are looking for some such an outlet as this for the joyful spirit of Thanksgiving that is filling your heart, we commend to your consideration the appeal of the North Carolina Orphan Association which is asking every citizen of the Old North State to contribute to the orphanage of his or her choice on, or near, Thanksgiving Day, the full proceeds of one day's labor.

There are 25 of these institutions in North Carolina. All of them are cleanly administered and all of them are worthy of the unstinted support of all good people. You will make no mistake in giving to any of them for all of them are doing noble, conscientious work.

These orphanages have added wonderfully to the State's richest assets—her manhood and womanhood. Many thousands of homeless and helpless children have been lifted out of and above all unfavorable environment and have been developed into useful men and women by these splendid institutions established by those who "live not unto themselves alone."

In all respects, these orphanages are worthy of our support and we can do no finer thing at this blessed Thanksgiving season than to show our love and appreciation for them and for the thousands of helpless children whom they are nourishing and bring up under religious influences, by remembering them at Thanksgiving in the same measure as God has blessed us during the year.

The most appalling and cheering of all pictures of the Saviour of the world is the classic one in which He holds little children in His arms and blesses them. The orphan homes of our State, where fatherless and motherless little children are enfolded by devoted and trained servitors and foster mothers, are the modern sheltering arms of the Master whose blessings they received in the long ago.

But the blessings to these precious little ones come from charitably inclined people who contribute to their nurture, to their right living—to their future happiness. To thus be permitted to become an imitation of Him Who doeth all things well, in His lovingest mortal guise, is such a special privilege, it were sacrilege to think of, even as charity, when, in assuming our Saviour's overt act of blessing others, we are thrice blessed ourselves.

The wage or income of a day at Thanksgiving to one or more of the orphan homes will surely bring joy to the hearts of every one who gives cheerfully. It would most assuredly be keeping on good terms with conscience.

The income of a day for helpless children is a fair exchange—joy for dollars; life for money. But, remember, joy is not to be purchased; life is not for sale. They come freely to all who meet worthily the demands of their own hearts; and they come in no other way—in no other terms.

A gift for the care and education of helpless children will measure the circumference and also the depth of the heart of the donor himself—not others. Do not suffer your better impulses to be belittled; make no compromises with your heart, lest you do yourself an injury, not in the eyes of others but in your own estimation.

Men grow from within, not from without. Men make themselves big or little by their thoughts and deeds. Take the full measure of your heart in responding to the call of the orphan child this year, and you will be glad; restrict that measure and you will find no joy. It is not what others think, or say, or do, that counts. Hearken to the promptings of your own heart.

Make your offering on, or near, Thanksgiving Day direct to one of the orphanages of the state. The gift may be forwarded through your church or your lodge, but the orphanage to which you intend it shall go should be designated.

From year to year responses to similar appeals have been gratifying, not only because of the liberal gifts to the various orphanages, but because there has been revealed tender and practical sympathy which our people feel toward the thousands of our fatherless children.

May this concerted philanthropy for the orphaned children help toward making next Thanksgiving Day the gladdest and best ever observed in North Carolina.

Very respectfully,

M. L. Shipman,
Stacey W. Wade,
W. A. Graham,
J. R. Young,
John D. Berry,
Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson,
Mrs. Josephus Daniels,
Publicity Committee.

Raleigh, N. C., 1926.

A PLAIN AMERICAN

Two years ago Jeremiah Smith, of Boston, went to Hungary as financial commissioner, appointed by the League of Nations. He predicted then that in 1926 the war-torn nation would be self-supporting. It is. Smith is hailed by the Hungarians as the savior of their country. When he finished his work and resigned, it is told that he refused any payment for his services or expenses. And so there is now in Hungary a generous fund made up of money which had been set aside for Mr. Smith's expenses, to send each year two Hungarian youths to America to study in our universities. Perhaps the idea is that these students will learn, among other things, what it is in America that produces a man who will go to a foreign land, work hard for two years, pay all his own expenses there, take no salary and refuse also to accept even a decoration.

Asked why he would not take money which he had so well earned, Smith said only, "I live simply and require little for my needs." This is in the original tradition of the founders of America. Europeans need such evidence as this that modern Americans are not all dollar-chasers, and we ourselves can benefit by being reminded that the simple and frugal life brings its own recompense.—Woman's Home Companion.

OUR STORY PAGE

AN UNGRATEFUL RECIPIENT

Young Mrs. Bryant sat opposite Aunt Debby in Aunt Debby's bare, plain, little room. She had dropped in for a moment to see how she was getting on.

Aunt Debby was 82 past, and very poor. However, each one in the little village felt an interest in her or thought he did. Consequently, in a way, she was looked after.

Young Mrs. Bryant suddenly smiled. She was a slender, young matron with a sweet, dark face and brown eyes.

"Aunt Debby," she began, "I'm going to give you a present. I waited until after Christmas, but you didn't get what I wanted you to have, so I am going to get it for you myself."

The old, wrinkled face opposite set itself in certain mutinous lines, the black eyes flashed.

"Presents," retorted Aunt Debby, sharply. Don't say presents to me. I'm sick of 'em. I never get a single thing I like. Folks send me things to eat that ain't well cooked. They give me clothes to wear I don't like, and bonnets I wouldn't put on my head. I should think if I am old and poor, once in a while, they ought to consider my wishes. There wasn't one thing I got Christmas that I was pleased with. What does an old woman like me want with cast-off high-heeled shoes and hand satchels with holes in 'em and leather belts. Yes, I actually got a leather belt, and that ain't the worst of it. I got a long black veil, an old black muffler, a black dress skirt and a black petticoat."

Aunt Debby's black eyes flashed again.

"I always hated black," she went on. "I get it from my grandmother. She wouldn't allow a black thing in the house, and just because I'm old and poor, folks won't consider me at all. I have to take what they give me and I'm supposed to be thankful when I'm not thankful. I don't like poor cooking, either, and when folks try to work it off on me, of course, I don't like it, and the old clothes they can't use, they expect me to be thankful, too, for them. I'm not. I just wish they'd take all their presents back, and let me alone. If Sallie Berry expects me to wear that old, long, black veil she sent me Christmas day, she'll wait till the day of judgment, for I won't."

There was a pause.

"It makes me cross and bad-tempered when I don't want to be," resumed Aunt Debby, "but it's all their fault."

Young Mrs. Bryant eyed the small, shrunken figure with a new interest. In a way, it was all true.

Nobody had asked Aunt Debby what she liked. They had simply taken it for granted that she would be grateful for anything they happened to give her, and she wasn't. It was a matter that needed to be studied a little.

"Well, Aunt Debby," she smiled slowly, "nevertheless, I still am going to give you a present.

The little woman suddenly smiled back.

"Don't expect me to be thankful for it," she retorted, "the chances are, I won't be."

"You shall be anything you want to be," said Mrs. Bryant, smilingly "I won't mind a bit," and then she suddenly said to herself.

"Poor Aunt Debby."

It was hard to be recipient of a long line of undesired and unwelcomed gifts, and if at eighty-two one still retained one's love of color, it was a shame to receive nothing but garments of somber hues.

"I want to look at woolen goods suitable for a wrapper," she told the salesman the next day. She had made a trip into the city to buy this special material for Aunt Debby.

"Something for an old lady," she added.

"Black, of course?" said the salesman.

Young Mrs. Bryant shook her head.

"No, indeed, my old lady even at eighty-two, has an aversion for black, and this time I want her to be satisfied. I want red, a soft, beautiful wine color, and the warmest material you have in the store."

"Eighty-two and likes red," replied the salesman. "That is strange."

Mrs. Bryant smiled.

"No, it isn't. It's only normal," she replied. "Because one is old it doesn't necessarily follow that one must shun all bright colors. The question of how to deal satisfactorily with our old, poor people is a problem. We do not study it enough."

"The next time you meet, I would be glad to have you come to my house," said Mrs. Bryant to the ladies of the Aid Society. "I have some work for you."

"What is it?" asked Mrs. Bennett, the best worker in the society.

"A wrapper for Aunt Debby Pennock."

Accordingly, at the appointed day, the ladies filed up the hill to young Mrs. Bryant's pretty home.

"Why, it's red!" cried Mrs. Abbott, when the material was brought out.

"Red for Aunt Debb Pennock?" questioned Mrs. Elliott.

"Red, for a woman eighty-two years old!" ejaculated Mrs. Ames.

"Yes," smiled Mrs. Bryant, "it is red, wine color, I call it; but it is soft and warm. This one time, we won't let the color interfere."

There was a merry smile on her sweet face.

"She may—even like it," she added archly.

The ladies worked with such a will that by five o'clock the wrapper was done.

"Well, I will say," admitted Mrs. Abbott, "that this is about the prettiest wrapper I've seen in many a day, but for a woman eighty-two years old, it doesn't seem suitable."

"We will let her be the judge," smiled young Mrs. Bryant.

Mrs. Bryant took it over that next afternoon.

It was a cold February day, and Aunt Debby looked more wrinkled and shrunken than ever. She was sitting huddled up in her big chair and looking rather disheartened. However, she brightened up a little when Mrs. Bryant came in.

"Feeling well, Aunt Debby?" she asked.

"Not very. Mrs. Harris brought me over some cake yesterday, and it was terrible heavy. It gave me an awful indigestion. Folks don't make good cake any more—leastways, if they do I don't get any of it."

"You shall have some good cake soon," said Mrs. Bryant gently, "and look here, Aunt Debby, I've brought you your present."

"Humph!"

The black eyes under the heavy brows flashed. Nevertheless, Aunt Debby was plainly interested. She watched her friend untie the big, flat parcel anxiously. "There," said

Mrs. Bryant at last, shaking out the soft, rich folds. She smiled.

"Your new wrapper, Aunt Debby," she said.

Aunt Debby sat bold upright. Her chin suddenly quivered.

"Give it to me," she demanded.

Young Mrs. Bryant handed it to her.

The old wrinkled, knotted hands felt eagerly of the soft texture. She looked up.

"Is this mine? she asked, tremulously.

Young Mrs. Bryant nodded.

"Yours absolutely, Aunt Debby."

She was not prepared for the scene that followed.

Aunt Debby suddenly laid a fold of it against her old, wrinkled face out of which the rebellion had strangely faded.

"I'm a-going to pray," said Aunt Debby, solemnly.

Her lips moved.

"Dear Lord, forgive me for my sinfulness," she said, "I thought nobody cared, that all folks wanted was to get rid of their old clothes by givin' 'em to me. They don't. I've got a beautiful, new, red wrapper. I'm eighty-two and I have wanted one always. I'm going to cry—I'm going to cry."

Young Mrs. Bryant looked at her. Her own eyes were wet.

"You like it then, Aunt Debby?" she asked.

There was a silence.

"Like it—I love it!" responded the little old woman with sudden spirit. "Its the first thing I've had in years that I do like. It makes me feel like livin' and forgivin'."

She lifted her head.

"There's different ways of doin' good in this world," she said, "and though we who are supposed to get the benefit of it ought not, perhaps, to express an opinion, we do express it, if only to ourselves. I know I'm old and cross and crabbed and folks think I'm unthankable, but you don't, do you? I'm more thankful than anybody for this beautiful wrapper. I don't feel a bit cross any more. I feel good all over—and like praying."

She rose stiffly out of her chair.

"Help me put it on," she said, briskly. "That red wrapper is going to be real becomin'."

AN INDEFENSIBLE VICE

In reading a few days since a sermon on "The Marks of Manhood," delivered some years ago by Archdeacon Madden, of England, we were impressed by the following paragraph, which we think it is well to pass on:

One of the most iniquitous habits of the day is filthy conversation." This is, alas, too common in our workshops. Wherever men congregate there is always some foul-mouthed story-teller ready to pollute and defile the youth in their midst. The filthy jest, the debasing story—this unclean devil—ought to be cast out in the name of Christ, if there is any spirit of chivalry, any spirit of manhood left amongst us. This "filthy conversation" is an abomination that ought to be banished from every office and workshop in the land.

Unclean speech is not confined to offices and workshops. It is poured out to some extent upon the streets, upon railway trains, in sporting places—in fact nearly everywhere that people meet in social contact. It is the outflow from an impure heart, and it stains the souls of others. A vulture-like imagination that revels in what is putrid is a terrible curse to a human being, and ought to be shunned as something worse than a physical pestilence.—Selected.

Coming On

A writer in Zion's Herald, Methodist Episcopal paper, laments the fact that more than 25 per cent of the charges of that denomination are served by men on trial, most of whom are unordained and therefore unable to administer the Lord's Supper. Two evils result, he says. The Lord's Supper is not administered as it should be in many churches, and the standing of Methodists is lowered in their respective communities in comparison with ministers of other denominations.

The remedy proposed by the writer is that all pastors be licensed to administer the ordinances. He thus argues:

"What possible harm could be done by granting the further temporary authority to administer the sacrament of communion? The administration of this sacrament is a ritual, routine performance. One cannot well go materially astray so long as he follows the rubrics. Even if he should commit some slight error in administration, the faith of the congregation would probably not be jeopardized in consequence. But what if he should fall into error in his thinking or preaching? Then serious consequences immediately begin to ensue, and the entire congregation may be misled in both faith and practise.

"What we are actually doing is licensing untried men to do the difficult and delicate thing, the thing upon which so much depends, and withholding from them the authority to do the things in which they cannot go astray or do harm and which their congregations seriously need. To grant to those who are in regular pastoral charge of churches the authority, not only to preach, to administer baptism, and to solemnize matrimony, but also to administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper so long as they are thus employed, would amply take care of all the spiritual needs of our churches that are thus supplied, and also would give such a pastor a much greater prestige with his people."

What is here recommended has been the practice in the Methodist Protestant Church for some time. Our Methodist Episcopal brethren are coming on.

GOD'S LOVE

Our fellow creatures love us when we seem lovable or worth loving. Creature love, in the nature of things, is soon exhausted; it soon breaks down and gets discouraged. But right where human love has run its race, the love of God comes up fresh and full, bounding and radiant, with a sweet cheerfulness, as if it had just begun. How the love of God, year after year, has followed us through the wilderness of wandering, over the wild mountains of wayward foolishness, through cold, stormy nights has tracked us, and listened to our cry for help. Oh, there is nothing in the world like the love of God.—G. D. Watson.

BEST THAT CAN BE DONE

A dying youth, the victim of his own wickedness, cried "Gather up my evil influences and bury them with me." That is impossible. The influences of an evil life go marching on long after we are dead and buried. But we can cry, "Halt!" and turn round to God and begin a new life whose influences will make for purity and righteousness. I beseech you, therefore, by the strong, pure Son of God, repent you of your sin. He is able to break the tyranny of evil habit, to cleanse and purify the thoughts of the heart, if you will turn to Him with full purpose of soul.—By T. J. Madden.

BUDGET APPORTIONMENTS FOR 1926-'27

Charges	A.C.B.	G.C.B.	College Assessment
1. Alamance	$275	$ 800	$ 65
2. Albemarle	160	460	50
3. Anderson	175	545	65
4. Asheboro	250	671	85
5. Asheville	100	250	50
6. Bess Chapel	150	367	50
7. Bessemer City	75	275	15
8. Bethesda	30	95	5
9. Burlington, First	455	1,200	115
10. Burlington, Ft. Pl.	100	200	15
11. Caroleen	100	272	35
12. Charlotte, First	150	285	60
13. Charlotte, North	20	40	10
14. Chase City	30	100	10
15. Chatham	80	330	20
16. Cleveland	275	890	85
17. Concord	330	890	85
18. Connelly Springs	25	165	5
19. Creswell	175	735	50
20. Davidson	200	785	75
21. Democrat	100	425	35
22. Denton	150	650	50
23. Draper	100	366	35
24. Enfield	230	654	75
25. Fairfield	50	190	15
26. F'view-G. Raven	205	560	60
27. Fallston	445	1,180	125
28. Flat Rock	300	1,090	95
29. Forsyth	295	775	100
30. Friendship	180	495	50
31. Gibsonville	150	250	25
32. Graham	140	436	60
33. Granville	300	974	95
34. Greensboro, Calvary	100	200	40
35. Greensboro, Grace	480	1,264	125
36. Greensboro, St. Paul	125	500	40
37. Greensboro, W. End	125	300	65
38. Greensville	275	945	85
39. Guilford	165	646	60
40. Halifax	430	1,050	100
41. Haw River Mission	20	60	5
42. Haw River Ct.	305	875	75
43. Henderson	350	915	105
44. High Point, Eng.	50	190	40
45. High Point, 1st	480	1,250	140
46. High Point, Lebanon	175	514	55
47. High Point, Welch	185	700	55
48. Jerusalem	10	20	5
49. Kernersville	180	826	65
50. Lexington, St. Str.	50	100	15
51. Lexington, South	100	300	30
52. Liberty-Siler City	175	575	65
53. Lincolnton	140	400	75
54. Littleton	250	950	85
55. Mebane	160	565	40
56. Mecklenburg	100	687	60
57. Melton's Grove	10	20	5
58. Midland	125	737	40
59. Mocksville	210	641	70
60. Mt. Hermon	250	866	75
61. Mt Pleasant	350	946	85
62. Moriah	200	450	45
63. North Davidson	420	1,130	105
64. Orange	355	1,124	120
65. Pageland	150	500	55
66. Pinnacle	200	777	80
67. Pleasant Grove	150	375	40
68. Porter	10	20	5
69. Randleman	250	845	85
70. Randolph	250	1,046	100
71. Reidsville	225	570	50
72. Richland	150	568	60
73. Roberta	100	500	15
74. Rockingham	50	200	15
75. Saxapahaw	200	795	65
76. Shelby	75	275	35
77. Spring Church	180	610	25
78. Spencer	20	40	10
79. Tabernacle	200	450	45
80. Thomasville Com.	200	425	75
81. Thomasville, 1st	120	350	35
82. Thomasville, West	100	500	50
83. Union Grove	50	392	10
84. Vance	200	845	80
85. Weaverville	110	500	35
86. West Forsyth	200	875	65
87. Whitakers	125	410	40
88. Why Not	210	896	85
89. Winston, 1st	235	765	90
90. Winston, South	25	50	15
91. Yarborough	100	315	35
92. Yadkin	15	30	5

HONOR ROLL

Paid all Claims in Full

Charges

State Street, Rev. N. G. Bethea.
West End, Rev. E. Lester Ballard.
Charlotte, First, Rev. H. F. Surratt.
Grace, Greensboro, Dr. S. K. Spahr.
Siler City, Rev. F. L. Gibbs.
Asheville, Rev. C. W. Bates.
South Winston, Rev. Mr. Kinnaman.
Asheboro, Rev. J. E. Pritchard.
Calvary, Rev. L. W. Gerringer.
High Point, First, Dr. Geo. R. Brown.
Reidsville, Dr. J. D. Williams.
Henderson, Rev. R. A. Hunter.
Fountain Place, Rev. G. H. Hendry.
Burlington, Rev. S. W. Taylor.
Concord, Rev. H. F. Fogleman.
Winston, First, Dr. C. M. Compher.
Whitakers, Rev. F. W. Paschall.
Mebane, Dr. T. M. Johnson.

Churches

Bethel and Elbaville on Mocksville, Rev. J. T. Sisk.
Efland and Union Grove on Orange, Rev. B. M. Williams.
New Hope on Why Not, Rev. D. I. Garner.
Bethel on Alamance, Rev. J. A. Burgess.
Spring Valley on Vance, Rev. M. P. Chambliss.
Moriah and Shady Grove on Tabernacle, Rev. Edward Suits.
Mizpah and Brown Summit on Haw River, Rev. W. D. Reed.

Paid Annual Conference Budget in Full

Charges

Melton's Grove, J. H. Trollinger.
Thomasville, First, J. L. Trollinger.
Orange, B. M. Williams.
Mount Pleasant, G. F. Millaway.
Richland, C. H. Hill.
Welch Memorial, T. E. Pierce.
Mount Hermon, W. F. Ashburn.
Pleasant Grove, G. L. Reynolds.
English Street, W. M. Pike.
Enfield, R. C. Stubbins.
North Davidson, R. S. Troxler.
Davidson, C. E. Ridge.
Granville, W. F. Kennett.
Bess Chapel, E. A. Bingham.
St. Paul, J. H. Moton.
Tabernacle, Edward Suits.
Weaverville, J. D. Cranford.
Haw River, W. D. Reed.

Churches

Jerusalem and Yadkin, on South Davidson, M. I. Crutchfield,
Byerly's Chapel on Mocksville, J. T. Sisk.
Love Joy on Why Not, D. I. Garner.
Fairfield on Cornelius, C. E. Phillips.
Sapling Ridge on Alamance, J. A. Burgess.
Saxapahaw on Saxapahaw, H. L. Isley.
Bethel, Palestine and Gideon's Grove on Flat Rock, J. B. Trogden.
Bethesda, Harmony and Ringwood on Halifax, C. L. Spencer.

Paid College Assessment In Full

Charges

Glen Raven, T. A. Williams.
English Street, W. M. Pike.
Graham, D. R. Williams.
Welch Memorial, T. E. Pierce.
Mount Pleasant, G. F. Millaway.
Gibsonville, J. D. Hardy.
Orange, B. M. Williams.
Granville, W. F. Kennett.
Mount Hermon, W. F. Ashburn.
West Thomasville, W. M. Loy.
Bess Chapel, E. A. Bingham.
St. Paul, J. H. Moton.
Roberta, N. Brittain.
Tabernacle, Edward Suits.
Haw River, W. D. Reed.
Weaverville, J. D. Cranford.
North Davidson, R. S. Troxler.
Thomasville, 1st, J. L. Trollinger.

Churches

Hickory Ridge on Forsyth, G. L. Curry.
Grays Chapel on Randolph, A. O. Lindley.
Bethesda on North Davidson, R. S. Troxler.
Jerusalem and Yadkin on South Davidson, M. I. Crutchfield.
Love Joy on Why Not, D. I. Garner.
Fairfield on Cornelius, C. E. Phillips.
Ringwood on Halifax, C. L. Spencer.
Bethel and Palestine on Flat Rock, J. B. Trogden.

—Mrs. J. M. Stone, of Grace church, has been much afflicted of late. She has suffered much and has undergone several operations. Gall stones were removed and it is hoped now that she is on the way to recovery. She is a very useful woman and we are glad to know of her relief and brightened prospects.

—The editor of the Herald knows what pastors will move, but he does not know when, and therefore waits to be asked before changing address.

—Canada is to be represented at Washington by a minister of her own. Heretofore the English ambassador has represented all the British dominions. Now the new Irish Free State and Canada will have representatives in addition to the one sent by the London government.

—A Liberty correspondent of the Raleigh News and Observer recently referred to President Dixon as a presiding elder. This is of course borrowed from the terminology of the episcopal form of church government, but really Brother Dixon presided over the quarterly conference of the Methodist Protestant Church in Liberty and is an elder in the Methodist Protestant Church, so that there is truth in the statement. A down east reader thought it amusing, and sent us the clipping from the News and Observer containing this item.

—"Uncle Joe" Cannon failed to vote on November 2 because his friends objected to his braving the rough weather. He has since died, aged over 90.

Our Children's Home

Bethel, Flat Rock, $3.15; Fairfield, Guilford, $2.30; Stallings, Mecklenburg, $2.45; James Braswell, Kannapolis, $2.50.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Concord, First Church, $25; Denton, $2.37; South Lexington, $5.05; Friendship, Mt. Hermon, $2.46; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $5.30; Worthville, Randleman, $4.20; Lawndale Union, $6.94; Friendship Station, $5.20; Graham, $5.60; Reidsville, $4.64; Whitakers, $6; West End, Greensboro, $11.15; Mizpah, Haw River, $5.

Industrial Electric Company, High Point, a lot of light bulbs.

We are looking for that big Thanksgiving offering, we can't do without it, don't disappoint us.

Thank you very much.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

LOSING A GOOD MAN

Without general public warning that a change was impending, the Methodist Protestant conference removes Dr. George R. Brown from the pastorate of the church here. Usually these changes are forecast when they are about to occur. The Methodist Protestant minister is not subject to the same circuit rules that apply in the Methodist Episcopal church and frequently a pastor remains with one charge for many years.

Dr. Brown has been here nine years, for instance, and no one outside his church, we assume, had any reason to believe that he would go elsewhere at this time. He is going to the Reidsville church.

The change takes away from High Point a man who has been identified with the growth of the city constructively, as well as with the development of a relatively weak congregation to the point where it is the strongest in the conference. The nine years Dr. Brown has spent here have brought about many changes in Methodist Protestant circles. The congregation of his church increased to more than 600 members and is now housed in one of the best church plants of the state. Furthermore, due to a large extent to the influence of a thriving local denominational group, the Methodist Protestant college has been located here and the conference orphanage in this city has been made an agency of excellent service.

Dr. Brown has been strongly and persistently influential in the denominational efforts exerted here, of course, but he has been important, too, generally as a citizen of the community. High Point will regret his departure for another field.—Editorial High Point Enterprise, Nov. 9, 1926.

NEW ADDRESSES OF MINISTERS

Rev. W. F. Kennett, 417 N. Elm Street, Greensboro, N. C.

Rev. W. M. Pike, Liberty, N. C.

Rev. G. H. Hendry, Concord, N. C.

Rev. G. R. Brown, Reidsville.

Coincidence.—Liberty has two preachers named Gibbs: F. L., of the Methodist Protestant church, and J. S., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$171,173.31
Paid on Rosemary note:
D. A. Insco	15.00
W. D. Insco	10.00
Sol. M. Insco	5.00
G. M. Johnson	10.00
B. F. Morris	12.50
Miss Fannie Barnes	5.00
Cary Powers	1.00
Box party gotten up by Miss Helen Walker and Miss Ida May Harper	9.50
M. B. Glasgow	30.00
Alvarado Faison	5.00
	$171,276.31

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$6,910.61
J. Norman Wills	100.00
	$7,010.61

The spirit manifested at the last Conference toward the college enterprise was very gratifying. I can but think of the marked contrast between conditions now and five years ago.

Five years ago Dr. Andrews; the architect, Mr. Hunter; and myself, made a visit to some institutions with a view to deciding upon a style of architecture which should be adopted and carried out in all of our buildings. We found our chief inspiration in Johns Hopkins University. We recommended the adoption of the Colonial, and we feel that the choice was a wise one. At that time we had collected less than $9,000 and this amount, together with the site in South Greensboro, on which we have realized about $15,000, and the pledges made by our Church, and by the city of High Point, the latter including a site, constituted our entire assets. So great was the faith in the enterprise, however, that there was a degree of enthusiasm manifested both in High Point and by our own people, which we believe has been justified fully.

Now we have a magnificent site, worth at least One Hundred Thousand Dollars, probably a great deal more; we have three buildings and a central heating plant, all admirably adapted to the purpose for which they have been erected. We have a faculty meeting every requirement of an A-grade institution.

The opening of the college found more students than we might have expected reasonably; the second year saw an enrollment of 208, and the enrollment this year to date is 217, and we do not believe that a finer class of young men and young women are to be found anywhere in this or other states.

We have a debt which is yet to be paid, but there is no longer any question as to the success of the institution. The business man who "risked" his dollars five years ago can feel that his faith and his generosity have been amply justified. We know now exactly what we have; we know exactly what will be required to put the institution upon a substantial basis, able to do its work with all anxiety as to present maintenance and future outlook removed.

Dr. Straughn, in his address before the Conference upon "The Methodist Protestant Church in the Tomorrow," estimated that at the present rate of growth the North Carolina Conference might hope to have 40,000 members in 1951. I feel safe in saying that if the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina grasps its opportunity, which is to complete the work we have begun in providing an institution for the training of our leaders, that we may expect 75,000 Methodist Protestants in twenty-five years. That would not be an abnormal growth, though it would be unprecedented.

As a small denomination we have the opportunity to cultivate the field thoroughly, and to secure results in the field of education, which would stamp our denomination as both progressive and aggressive.

My ambition for our denomination is to see it stand for something that is truly worth while, and that something, I believe, should be education and missions. If, as a people, we are concerned chiefly in carrying on our organization and getting our souls saved as cheaply as possible, the time may soon come when we shall have a name to live, but in reality shall be dead, while, on the other hand, if we commit ourselves to the doing of the work to which the church has really been called—the extension of the kingdom of Christ—and prepare our young people to meet the responsibilities of the hour, our future is assured.

J. NORMAN WILLS.

DINNER PARTY IN REIDSVILLE

In Honor of Dr. J. D. Williams

Last Friday evening the Philathea class of the First M. P. Church gave a surprise dinner party at Delaney's cafe in honor of their teacher, Dr. J. D. Williams, who is leaving Reidsville to accept a pastorate in Greensboro.

Miss Elizabeth Hutton, president of the class, gracefully presided at the table which was artistically decorated with carnations, carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

A sumptuous menu consisting of cream of tomato soup, fried chicken with cream gravy, potato salad, tomato salad, green peas, pickles, hot rolls and butter, coffee, ice cream and home made cake was served.

After doing ample justice to this splendid repast the class motored to the home of Misses Lola and Effie McCollum where they enjoyed a social hour, during this a musical program was heard over the radio. A gift was presented to Dr. Williams by the class as a token of their appreciation for the splendid service rendered them as their teacher.

Those enjoying this occasion were: Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mesdames, H. S. Dixon, C. J. Roberts, R. L. Geelsby, Misses, Elizabeth Hutton, Renna Eller, Dora Matheny, Effie McCollum, Blanche Thrackmarten, Blanche Weatherly, Lola McCollum, Sadie Matheny, Ira Ellington and Myra Yount.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for November 21.—How "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." Ps. 116:12-1. Luke 17:11-1. (Thanksgiving meeting.)

Topic for November 28.—Christian Endeavor Around the World. Phil. 2: 1-13.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for November 21.—Joshua Renewing the Covenant. Josh. 24:14-25. Devotional reading, Ps. 107:31, 35-41.

Lesson for November 28.—Gideon and the Three Hundred. Judges 7:1-25.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Henderson—As Sunday, October 31, was fifth Sunday, we had no morning church services, but joined in the Sunday school rally which was held at Union Chapel church. A very interesting and instructive program was given by the members from various churches. Mr. Jasper B. Hicks gave the address during the morning session. His subject was "God's Laws." The afternoon session opened with congregational singing, followed by several readings and other musical numbers. Prof. G. C. Davidson made a splendid address on "The Relation of the Sunday School to the Church." The next rally will be held with the Henderson Methodist Protestant church the fifth Sunday in January.

In the absence of our pastor, there was no mid-week prayer meeting. But the Philathea class gave Mrs. R. A. Hunter a surprise party, it being her birthday. About 25 members enjoyed the occasion and she was presented with a lovely birthday cake.

The Christian Endeavor Society held a very interesting meeting at the church last night. The Philathea class had the services in charge and "Peace" was the subject for the evening. Mrs. Clyde L. Finch was the leader and was ably supported by readings, Bible references and voluntary talks from the different members. As our pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter, had not returned from the Annual Conference, there was no evening church service.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

Weaverville Circuit, Clark's Chapel.—The Ladies' Aid Society met Tuesday evening, November 9, for regular monthly meeting. There were several present for the weather to be so cold.

The Scripture lesson was read by the president and Mr. Lester Watts led the society in the opening prayer.

Mr. Watts also gave us a synopsis of the Annual Conference. We were glad to hear that our former pastor, Rev. J. D. Cranford, would preach his first sermon after Conference in our church as our new pastor for the coming year.

Christian Endeavor and Sunday School are holding their usual attendance splendidly.

REPORTER.

Fountain Place, Burlington.—I guess you would like to know how Fountain Place M. P. Church is progressing these days. It has finished up a very successful year's work and went up to Conference with a clean sheet, which shows that Fountain Place M. P. is a church that does things even though she is small in number.

It was with a feeling of regret that the church gave up Brother Hendry and his good wife and baby from its midst. We, as a church, wish them much success in their new field of labor.

We feel very fortunate in having as our pastor for the next year Brother W. M. Loy, with whom the people have already fallen in love.

Brother Loy was with us Sunday, November 14th and gave us two very helpful sermons on the subject of "God's Plan of Salvation." He used a text for the 11 a.m. worship John 3:16, and 7:30 p. m. Acts 2:37.

The Sunday school has started off the new year with a renewed interest and a good attendance.

The Senior, Intermediate, and Junior Christian Endeavor Societies are all planning for bigger and better things in the coming year. They have elected and installed new officers for the new year.

MRS. J. W. SHARPE, Reporter.

Jerusalem.—The same plan of appointments for Jerusalem will be followed during the coming year, which are as follows:

Every second Sunday at 11 a.m., and every fourth Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The first service for the new conference year was held last Sunday at 11a.m. The attendance was not as good as usual owing to a misunderstanding as to the time for the first service of the new conference year. We were glad to have Rev. C. M. Davis, a Baptist preacher and pastor, worship with us. He made a good talk at the beginning of the service.

We will have a brief meeting of the First Quarterly Conference immediately after the service the fourth Sunday afternoon in this month, which is the next regular appointment. The principal business of the conference will be to organize the quarterly conference by the election of a secretary and an advisory committee. The entire membership of the church is urged to attend the service and meeting of the quarterly conference.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

West Lexington.—This writer was invited by the West Lexington church on South Lexington charge to preach for them last Sunday night, as their new pastor had not arrived. It was a pleasure to speak to an attentive congregation. Mrs. W. A. Gobble, one of the members of the church who recently moved back to Lexington from High Point, attended the service for the first time since she returned to Lexington to live. Some visitors were in the service.

As reporter for West Lexington church I will announce that Rev. A. Ridge, the new pastor, will arrive in time to preach at both services next Sunday. A parsonage is being provided for Brother Ridge and his wife. The prospects for West Lexington church for the coming year are very bright and the church membership is hopeful of a very good year's work. C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Winston-Salem.—Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Compher were honor guest at a most enjoyable reception given by the members of the First M. P. Church in the Sunday school room Friday evening, November 12. The occasion was also the birthday anniversary of the pastor.

The room was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, roses and chrysanthemums.

A splendid program was given consisting of violin and piano selections, vocal solos, and a number of readings. The speaker of the evening, Rev. Wm. Porter, made a very helpful and inspiring talk. His subject was "Church Loyalty." Mr. C. H. Smith welcomed the pastor and family back to the church.

In celebration of this birthday anniversary Dr. Compher was given a handsome gift from the church. Mrs. Compher was also remembered with a gift of silver from the Ladies' Aid. Misses Mary Starr Martin and Estelle Dixon entered bearing a birthday cake aglow with candles and placed it before the pastor. Refreshments were then served consisting of ice cream and cake. REPORTER.

Orange Charge.—Notice, the first quarterly conference will meet at Hebron Church Saturday before fourth Sunday in November, 2 p.m.

All officials please come and let's plan for the new year's work.

We will receive Thanksgiving offerings at the following times and places: Union Grove, third Sunday in November, 3:00 p.m.; Efland, same day, 7:00 p.m.; Hebron, fourth Sunday, 11:00 a.m.; Chestnut Ridge, fourth Sunday, 3:00 p.m. These offerings go to our Children's Home. B. M. WILLIAMS.

Shiloh, Randolph Circuit.—A large congregation was out last Sunday to hear Rev. A. O. Lindley. He delivered a helpful sermon, and we are very glad to have him back with us for the coming year. His next appointment here will be Sunday, November 28th, at 3:00 p.m. Everybody is invited to come.

The first quarterly conference meets at Bethel church on Saturday, November 27th at 2:00 p.m.

We have a contest on in our Sunday school to add new members, and we are truly glad to say, our members are increasing by large numbers each Sunday. Everybody is invited to come and bring your friends.

The Christian Endeavor Society of our church has an interesting program for Thanksgiving which will be given next Sunday at 5:00 p.m. Everybody invited.

REPORTER.

Mebane, Gibsonville.—As I am leaving Mebane after a five years' pleasant sojourn among this kind people, I wish in this way to express my appreciation of the kindness and co-operation of the people. Some progress has been made, but somehow as I look back over the period spent here I feel that we might have as easily done bigger things if I as pastor had suggested and led out into broader fields of activity. I cannot recall any instance in which the people did not co-operate, if it was something worthwhile and followed up with persistency and faith.

Another fact that convinces me that they would have as readily done bigger things is that some of the best work done was done by the people without any leadership on my part, such as the three active woman's societies, the young people's organizations, the work of the board of steward, and the like. These exercised their own leadership and have done most excellent work. It has been interesting to me all along to watch them do it, but I have not fully realized, I think, how much and how well they have been doing while in the midst of it. It is now in retrospect that it all appears to me in a fuller light and in more gratifying proportions.

It is my earnest desire and confident expectation that they will go on to still better things and larger activities under the incoming pastor, while I take up, to me, new duties in another field.

One reflection I have while in this reminiscent mood is that a pastor makes a much less grave mistake, if indeed it is a mistake at all, to try to get the people to do more than they really do at the present than to do less than they are willing to co-operate with him in doing. If the biggest mistake is the mistake of doing nothing, it must follow that the second biggest is the mistake of doing too little.

If I sense aright the spirit of the people at Gibsonville whither I go, it is to progress. It is my purpose to keep out of the way, to keep up if I can, to co-operate if I may—to do my best. And I indulge the hope that my best now may be better than my best at any time in the past. Why not? May one not increase in wisdom and in favor with God and man even after he has ceased to increase in stature? T. M. JOHNSON.

Liberty, Siler City Charge.—We are glad to have Mr. F. L. Gibbs return to us as pastor for the coming year.

May God's richest blessings be with him as he labors with us.

Sunday morning he brought to us a wonderful message on the theme: "The Broken Things of Life, Their Cause and Their Cure." He mentioned: Broken-hearts, Broken-friendships, Broken-health and Broken-Character, of which Christ is the Great Physician.

Sunday evening an Introductory service was held, introducing Rev. J. S. Gibbs, the new pastor of the M. E. Church South. Laymen representing each church in town gave an impressive welcome to Mr. Gibbs. They were as follows: Mr. D. C. Holt of the Lutheran church and principal of our graded school; Mr. Cyrus Shoffner of the Christian Church, Mr. Williamson of the Baptist; and Rev. A. O. Lindley, pastor of Gray's Chapel M. P. Church. The Palmer sisters sang a number of beautiful songs, accompanied on the piano by their mother. We hope they will come again. The congregation consisted of members of every church in town. The church was filled to over-flowing, the annexes as well as the main auditorium.

We were glad to have our former pastor, Rev. Paul S. Kennett, worship with us Sunday morning.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

Burlington.—Mrs. H. D. Graves passed away last Sunday and was laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery Sunday afternoon. The funeral service was held at the home and was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Mr. Schweitzer, pastor of the Holiness Church.

Mrs. Graves is the mother of three members of our Burlington church—Mr. Henry Graves, Mrs. Paul Isley, and Mrs. A. C. Cartner. Our tender sympathies are extended to them and to all the other relatives.

Our first services of the new conference year were held yesterday. All details for beginning the year were in perfect readiness, and the day was marked by a hopeful and progressive spirit. Veterans of the World War were our special guests at the night service. Large congregations were present morning and night.

Brother George C. Smith, our new Sunday school superintendent, is taking hold of the work well. We are expecting 1927 to be a year of progress along all lines.

May the year be one of general prosperity for the entire conference, and one of happiness for our Honored Veterans who have already "fought a good fight."

S. W. TAYLOR.

Mebane.—On the evening of the fifth Sunday in October a pageant, "At The Cross Roads," was given, this being our Rally Day program. Miss Pauline Nicholson had charge of the pageant and recitations. Mrs. A. H. Jobe with the choir rendered the music. This was said to be one of the most impressive programs rendered in this church for sometime. The offering amounted to $46.80.

Rev. Edward Suits, our new pastor, was with us last Sunday for both services and delivered splendid sermons. We welcome Rev. and Mrs. Suits to our church and community and trust that we may have a profitable year together. Our good wishes go with Dr. Johnson and family as they enter their new field of service.

Monday night, November 15, at 7:30 the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies met with Mrs. H. C. Nicholson. A very enjoyable program was rendered. Twenty-six present. Two new members were received into the Foreign society and one into the Home. After the program and business meeting Mrs. Nicholson, assisted by Miss Pauline Nicholson, Mrs. A. H. Jobe, and Mrs. J. E. Foust, served sandwiches, pickles and coffee.

The December meeting will be with Mrs. Claude Sykes. REPORTER.

High Point.—We regret exceedingly to part with our pastor, Dr. Geo. R. Brown, whom the recent Conference at Greensboro assigned to Reidsville. He and his beloved wife came here from West Virginia Conference in September, 1917, more than nine years ago, and they have worked patiently and faithfully for the upbuilding of the work here. They have seen many changes in the personnel of the congregation, since the space of nine years will always mark differences in the life of churches as well as individuals. Many of the older people, pillars of the church, have been called up higher, and we have grieved "for the touch of vanished hands, and the sound of voices that are stilled," but their places have been filled by those in middle life. Many, who were mere children at that time, have grown up and are bearing the murdens and responsibilities of manhood and womanhood; have married and built homes of their own. We see many new faces in our congregation, those who have moved to this growing city from other towns and churches.

Mrs. Brown has been an ideal pastor's wife, and has shared all his work. She has been the capable and efficient President of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society as well as President of N. C. Branch, and has taught a Sunday school class of girls since coming here and more lately the Philathea Class. She has been the President of the local Y. W. C. A. and also has served as President of the W. C. T. U. of the city for several years.

In all of these positions she has shown remarkable leadership, loyalty to duty, and a keen sense of obligation for service to her sister women. Dr. and Mrs. Brown have won an abiding place in our hearts, and in parting with them we give them anew assurance of our deep love and affection, feeling that their places will be indeed hard to fill. However, we are glad that Reidsville is only 40 miles distant, and we hope to see them frequently.

Rev. E. Lester Ballard, who has been serving West End Church, Greensboro, was assigned to our church as associate pastor, and Rev. P. E. Lindley, Dean of Men and Professor of Religious Education in High Point College, has been secured to fill the pulpit every Sunday morning. Both these gentlemen were in the pulpit Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Lindley delivered an able sermon on the Mission of the church. In his introductory remarks he said he felt humble to stand in this pulpit as the successor of the experienced, mature, and splendid former pastor, Dr. Brown, and pleaded for the encouragement and co-operation of the membership. He told us that the church is not a place for information, entertainment, or quarrels and controversies, but it is a place for prayer for communion with God, and that is what the human heart needs. It is a place to commune with one's better self, leaving all worldly things in the background. Then the church hour is one in which to heighten those practices which we should use during the week. These young men begin their ministry here most auspiciously, and we bespeak for them the same loyalty and co-operation that is characteristic of our people.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard, who were recently married, his bride having been Miss Lena Martin who is well known to most of us, are spending the week as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robbins, but will move to the parsonage on N. Main Street as soon as it can be made ready for their occupancy. Rev. and Mrs. Lindley are domiciled in their attractive new home just off High Point College campus.

A Farewell Social in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Brown was given last Monday evening by the Christian Endeavor Society. Devotional exercises were conducted, and games were enjoyed by the large number present. In behalf of the Society, Mr. Richard H. Shaw presented a handsome check to Dr. Brown in appreciation of his interest in the organization, and his speech of presentation was very appropriate and feeling.

On last Thursday evening, November 11th, which was Armistice Day, the Stewards of the church entertained the victorious football team, the members of the Faculty, and other members of the student body of the College at a delightful banquet served in the Assembly room of the church by the Ladies' Aid Society. Other guests at the banquet were 44 members of the American Legion. The football team was especially jubilant, fresh from their victory over Guilford College at the new World War Memorial Stadium in Greensboro, which was dedicated and opened that day. The banquet was highly enjoyable.

On last Thursday evening the Executive Board of the Y. W. C. A. tendered a farewell social in honor of Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, which proved to be a delightful occasion.

The "Every Member Canvass" for the church Budget this coming year was conducted by the Board of Stewards last Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock.

The topic for C. E. meeting this (Monday) evening will be "How to make war against war," and the leader will be Mr. Richard H. Shaw.

The regular weekly prayer service will be held Wednesday evening, and will be conduted by Rev. E. Lester Ballard, the new associate pastor.

Next Sunday evening the service will be conducted by the C. E. Society in observance of "Dixie Endeavor Day," for which an elaborate program is being prepared.

The Junior Mission Circle will meet next Saturday afternoon at the church at 3 o'clock with Mrs. R. M. Andrews, Superintendent.

Last Sunday morning Dr. Brown filled the pulpit of West End, Greensboro, for Rev. J. D. Williams. He and Mrs. Brown are moving today to their new home in Reidsville.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning the choir rendered a beautiful Anthem, "Send out thy Light," and Mrs. J. H. Allred sang "Hear thou my Prayer" by Hamblen in a charming manner.

It is with sincere regret that we have heard of the resignation of Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk as Superintendent of our Children's Home on account of Mrs. Lowdermilk's health. She is now resting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Causey, in Greensboro. Her many friends are wishing for her an early recovery. Mr. Lowdermilk has consented to remain until a successor can be secured. He and his estimable wife have filled this responsible place in a highly capable and efficient manner, and all friends of the Home part with them with great reluctance.

North Davidson Charge.—Yesterday was our first service since conference. We preached at Bethesda and Mt. Pleasant.

Had a large congregation at Bethesda and fair congregation at Mt. Pleasant. We are glad to be back on this work for another year.

We all are praying for one of the best years for this work.

We have some working people on this work, and some who will make things come to pass.

Had a good year last year and are expecting a better one this.

We raised more on budget this past year than the year before and expect to raise all this year. We may fail; but there is nothing like trying.

These people certainly have been good to us. We could not ask them to treat preacher and family better.

We want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Berrier for food supplies and dress for Mrs. Troxler; Emma Berrier, Mrs. Wiley Shoaf, Mrs. Levi Evans, Mrs. Jim Shoaf, Mr. Luther Leonard, Mr. Ed Waitman, Mr. C. M. Yokley, for generous donations.

While I was sick in bed some time ago, Mrs. J. B. Leonard, teacher of our young girl's class of Shiloh, brought me a beautiful watch chain, given by that class.

I certainly did appreciate that along with many other tokens of appreciation. And just before conference Brother J. R. Stone, from Mt. Pleasant, asked me to meet him in Lexington one day about nine o'clock. I thought he just wanted to finish up the year's work, and get everything straight for conference, and to my great surprise he took me up the street until he came to one of the best clothing stores in town, and we went in. It was then he told me how he expected to finish the year's work; for me to pick out the overcoat I wanted and that Mt. Pleasant would pay for it. So after he had bought the overcoat he wanted to know if I needed any shoes, so he bought me a nice pair of shoes.

And I went to conference all dressed up.

I certainly do appreciate these nice gifts.

We also thank Brother C. A. Green at Mt. Pleasant for a nice blanket.

We certainly thank these good people for their many tokens of appreciation, and hope to give them our very best service in return.

Yours for service, R. S. TROXLER.

St. Paul Church.—Since our last report St. Paul has done a number of things in Sunday school and in church.

During conference Sunday we were glad to have some of our old members back among us. Sunday night we all enjoyed a splendid sermon by our former pastor, J. M. Morgan. Mr. Morgan was our pastor for three years. All were glad to see our old pastor back with us. Rev. N. Brittain and Rev. J. B. O'Briant also visited us Sunday night. We were glad to have them with us too. We regret very much to see our pastor, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Moten, leave us. During the two years they were with us we learned to love them very much. Mrs. Moten has been a great help in the Sunday school. We are expecting our new pastor, Mr. Brittain, to be with us next Sunday. We are expecting to have a successful year.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Walker last Saturday night. After the business was disposed of they enjoyed a delightful social hour, after which came a chicken stew, oyster stew, cake, and coffee. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves and four new members were added to the Ladies' Aid Society. NELL WADE, Reporter.

Hebron, Orange Charge.—As I have been elected reporter, will try to report some of the most interesting things that have taken place recently. One of the most interest is the return of our former pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, and family. We all love them and are indeed glad to have them with us again.

Our Woman's Home Missionary Society has recently elected new officers and held a meeting November 13 with Mrs. F. W. Nelson. We were glad to have with us Mesdames H. C. Nicholson and J. E. Foust, of Mebane, who gave us some splendid ideas, as to carry on our work. We hope they can meet with us often.

The Society will hold the December meeting with Mrs. T. W. Kirkpatrick. Saturday before the first Sunday.

Mr. Williams filled his appointment at Hebron yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and preached a splendid sermon as usual.

MRS. LELIA GILL.

Greensville Circuit.—With greetings to the five churches on this charge. The Annual Conference of 1926 has decreed that I should return to my "potato hills" and serve you for another year. This commences my fourth year among this good people. They have been loyal and kind. I have enjoyed serving them. I hope to make this the best year yet. We have already commenced the work of the new year. The appointments will be regularly filled as last year. We are planning some business meetings to try to inagurate some plan and method in the Master's work. With best wishes and prayers for each church and members for our President; for our college; for our Children's Home; for pastors and members of each charge.

May we enter the new conference year with hope and courage to make it the best.

I am also mindful of our Editors and Missionaries both in the home and Foreign Field.

The Lord abundantly bless all of our work and workers. H. L. POWELL.

Second M. P. Church, Charlotte.—We are glad to report that we are still improving. We are very glad that we have our pastor back for the incoming year. We trust that every member of our church will try to make this year more successful than last year was. We are expecting to start our new church in the spring. If our Sunday school still keeps improving as it is, we will need more room before spring. We have about 75 on roll. There were 61 present today. Our Ladies' Aid is still improving. We are glad to announce that we will soon have our name quilt finished. We lack about 12 more names. We will announce through the Herald when we get it ready for sale. We have already gotten up $158.50; we are expecting to get about $200.00 by the time we get it finished.

We are sorry to learn of the accident in our pastor's family and of his daughter-in-law's death, and his grand-daughter's injuries. They have our sympathy.

We enjoyed the sermon this morning delivered by our pastor. May God bless him and his family.

May we ask the prayers of the Herald readers and our friends for our church this coming year. Reporter.

Concord.—The church was filled to capacity at the morning service Sunday to greet our new pastor, Rev. G. S. Hendry. The subject for the morning was "Getting Up to Serve." Mr. Hendry took for his text Josh. 1:2. The message was very effective and helpful. At the beginning of the service Rev. Lawrence Little made the announcements and introduced Mr. Hendry to the congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. Hendry, and little daughter. Louise, arrived in Concord Wednesday. The ladies of the church had cleaned the parsonage and had it in order for their arrival. About 7:30 Wednesday night a large representation of the members gathered at the parsonage with many good things for the new pastor, a real pounding was given them; after a lively time there for awhile every one was invited over to the Baracca room of the church, where a reception was held to welcome our pastor. A represenative from each organization of the church made a short address welcoming Rev. and Mrs. Hendry into our midst and pledging their hearty co-operation throughout the coming year.

We regret to say that Mr. Hendry was not able to preach Sunday night, being confined to his bed on account of illness. Rev. Mr. Eidenhour filled the pulpit in his stead. We are praying that Mr. Hendry will be well in a few days, so that he can go on with the fine things he has planned for us.

We, of course, miss Mr. Fogleman in our midst, but our prayers shall continue for him and his work. We wish only the greatest and best success for him in his new work. We are looking for a great year in our church this year by trusting in our Master for strength.

BERNICE NASH, Reporter.

THE TRIUMPH OF HIGH POINT COLLEGE

Just a few minutes ago the writer was viewing a great battle at the "War Memorial Stadium" between the "Purple Panthers" and the "Fighting Guilfordians." It was a great battle! We can't estimate the value of such an occasion for our young institution. It manifested many things, of which we are very proud.

First, hats off to Coach Boylan and his team of loyal Panthers! They fought a good fight and placed High Point College before Guilford county and made our Methodist Protestants proud of our athletic beginning.

Second: Did you see that loyal group of H. P. C. fans? They were with their team through it all. Maybe you were one of them! If you were, you know what a good spirit was manifested. Congratulations, student body and faculty!

Third: Did you see the smile that the leaders of our denomination wore after the smoke of the battle cleared away and H. P. C. had written "victory" in huge imprints? They were great big ones!

Fourth: What does this mean? It means that we have a good football aggregation, a loyal student body, and a fine-spirited group of leaders. In short, it means that we have one of the best colleges in the making and it belongs to the "N. C. Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church."

Concluding these remarks, let me remind the 28,000 Methodist Protestants and our friends that we have no alumni to support the college and it is up to us members of our church to fill this vacancy. We can do this by standing squarely behind Coach Boylin, our team, our loyal students, and its leaders. How? With our means, our time, our enthusiasm and even our life. Let us not only triumph on the football field, but let's make H. P. C. victorious in every sphere of its activity.

A PASTOR.

CHURCH FINANCES

I am sure that all of our ministers and laymen should at this time be interested in a plan for taking care of church finances, and I think the best plan I have ever seen is that suggested by the Layman Company, 730 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. It is very simple, not very expensive and is the most effective plan I have ever seen tried for getting the whole congregation to co-operate in raising the church budget.

Now is the time to begin to use it.

LAYMAN.

NOTICE

The Thank-Offering service of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held at Orange Chapel Church, Saxapahaw Circuit, the third Sunday in November, all-day service. Rev. H. L. Isley, the pastor, and Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, will be the speakers. Everybody invited.

MRS. FOUST THOMPSON, President.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Davis

Bertha Hill, wife of Roosevelt Davis, was born July 20, 1904, and departed this life November 3, 1926. Bertha professed faith in Christ in early childhood and joined the church at Liberty, of which she lived a faithful member until the Lord saw fit to call her home, and we feel well assured that she is in the arms of Jesus. On April 4, 1926, Bertha became the wife of Roosevelt Davis. While her married life was short she seemed to be greatly devoted to her husband. She had been in ill health for about two or three months, although she bore her sickness without a murmur, and told her mother that she was ready to die. May the heart-broken husband, father, mother, brother and sisters treasure her dying words and feel well assured that their loss is her eternal gain. She leaves a husband, father and mother, two sisters, one brother and a host of friends to mourn their loss. To those left behind we extend our heartfelt sympathy. How we will miss that kindly face and smile, but how can we complain, for it was God's will? The path that we are treading is the path that saints have trod that leads to their beautiful city whose builder and maker is God.

The funeral was held at Liberty on Thursday, November 4, at 11 o'clock in the presence of a large congregation by Rev. C. E. Ridge, assisted by Rev. J. D. Cranford and Brother Charlie Cranford and Brother P. L. Walker.

Brown

Mrs. Caroline Brown fell asleep November 9th, having lived to the ripe age of seventy-five years. Sister Brown had been in declining health for nearly a year. On the 11th day of November funeral services were conducted from the home by the writer. The body was intered in St. Paul M. E. cemetery, Randleman. Sister Brown and her companion joined the M. P. Church in Randleman fourteen years ago, transferring from the M. E. Church. The infirmities of age prevented their attendance at church. The surviving companion is eighty-five years old and very feeble. Mrs. Brown died firm in the Faith, and left every needful evidence that all is well.

WM. H. NEESE.

Glass

Calvary Church, Greensboro, has suffered the loss of one of its best members. On November 10th Brother George W. Glass passed into the spirit world. He had been in poor health for some weeks, and had been in the Clinic Hospital for several days. He was 83 years of age. And notwithstanding his years he was still very active, and could have passed for a much younger man. His raven black hair was almost free from grey.

A great number of years ago Brother Glass united with the Moriah Methodist Protestant Church. After moving near the Hine's Chapel Christian Church he united with that church, remaining a member there until he came to Greensboro some eighteen or twenty years later, after which time he was a member of Grace Methodist Protestant Church until he became a charter member of Calvary Church a little more than two years ago.

Brother Glass was one of Calvary's most faithful and loyal members. Unless providentially hindered he was in his place each Sunday morning. And not only did he support his church by his presence in the services of worship, but he was liberal in his financial support. He was keenly interested in the work of our recent Annual Conference. The day after conference adjourned and the day before he died he was enquiring of his pastor concerning the conference. He will be missed by his pastor and his church as well as by his children and relatives.

His wife preceded him several years ago. He is survived by one son, George H. Glass, of Greensboro, and four daughters, Mrs. J. E. Boone, of Richmond, Va., Mrs. J. J. Cros-

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

by, Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. B. L. Busick, and Mrs. R. H. Everett, of Greensboro; one brother, D. R. Glass, and one sister, Mrs. J. C. Andrew, and a number of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss. It is indeed a loss to those left behind, and yet, we take comfort from the fact that this separation need not be permanent.

The funeral service was conducted in Calvary Church, Friday, November 12th, at 10:00 a.m. by the pastor, assisted by Revs. J. F. and T. F. McCulloch. Interment was made in the Green Hill Cemetery by the side of his wife.

All whose hearts are grieved have our sympathy and prayers.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

THE PRESIDENT'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

As a nation and as individuals, we have passed another twelve months in the favor of the Almighty. He has smiled upon our fields and they have brought forth plentifully; business has prospered; industries have flourished, and labor has been well employed. While sections of our country have been visited by disaster, we have been spared any great national calamity or pestilential visitation. We are blessed among the nations of the earth.

Our moral and spiritual life has kept measure with our material prosperity. We are not unmindful of the gratitude we owe to God for His watched care which has pointed out to us the ways of peace and happiness; we should not fail in our acknowledgement of His divine favor which has bestowed upon us so many blessings. Neither should we be forgetful of those among us who, through stress of circumstances, are less fortunately placed, but by deeds of charity make our acknowledgement more acceptable in His sight.

Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set aside Thursday, the twenty-fifth of November next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work and, in their homes or in their accustomed places of worship, devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and seek His guidance that through good deeds and brotherly love they may deserve a continance of His favor.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

Done at the city of Washington, this thirtieth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-first.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

By the President.

—Mrs. Kate M. Kime has gone back to Miami to live. She writes that her former post office blew away during the great storm, but the post mistress carefully saved her M. P. Heralds. As to present condition, she says: "Roofs are being put back on houses as fast as human agency can do it, and tourists are pouring in from every state in the union, and it seems as though we will reach a stage of normalcy soon." She concludes with these kind words: "The Herald, the Conference, the College all still seem very dear to me."

—England's oldest man died November 2 in Ireland. He was over 125 years old. His name was William Smith.

—Nine years ago George Gibbs lost his power of speech when a bullet pierced his cheek as he fought in the World War. Recently, while sleeping in an empty house at Lawrence, Mass., he was startled by a policeman's flashlight turned on his face. "You fool," shouted Gibbs—and now he can speak.

—A group of 75 Christians, both Protestants and Catholics, have formed the American Christian Fund for Jewish Relief to aid five million Jews in Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Austria and other countries who are starving. Armistice Week has been selected for beginning this appeal because it symbolizes peace on earth.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.
Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.
Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.
R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS
COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY
Buy at
ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class
We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.
"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"
McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

Pres Eldership Select
Westminster MD

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER, EVEN CHRIST — AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., NOVEMBER 25, 1926 NUMBER 3

Al Smith, the New Goliath

The figure of New York's governor looms up on the horizon of the future and threatens defeat to the armies of righteous reform. "Alcohol" Smith is the great champion of the wets, and they are looking to him for victory. His success in winning over all competitors in New York has caused something of a panic among some of the drys. But not all of them. It would seem strange if a wet candidate could be elected by a nation that is overwhelmingly dry; no matter what his abilities as a politician. The plain people with their eyes open count for more on election day than all the politicians. Smith has been beaten before and he can be beaten again. Perhaps the quickest way to victory for prohibition is for Smith to be nominated and defeated. But woe to the party that makes him their champion. After the battle is over some David will be seen carrying the head of the giant.

Thanksgiving Day

Why observe one special day for thanksgiving? Is it because we are not thankful at all on other days? No, it is because we cannot be thankful enough on all other days. God's blessings come to us as a constant stream, a great river, deep and wide, and rapidly flowing. We cannot count our blessings, we cannot measure them, we cannot distinguish them one from another. They lie before us and behind us and all around us. God's thought of us has been ever of old. The blessings received today were planned for us in the distant past. Nature is a system of divine carriers bringing to men the gifts of Heaven. The light brings them. The wind brings them. The rain brings them. The snow brings them. They come to us in the touch of human kindness. They come to us preeminently in the inbreathing of the Holy Spirit of God within our own souls. He who is not thankful is blind to the ways of God. He is deaf to the voice of God. God in us and around us provokes us to thanksgiving. O, that all men would praise the Lord for His goodness and His wonderful works to the children of men!

Why Is It So?

We have been called upon several times to publish complaints that the money contributed for denominational purposes does not give to certain interests their fair share. We publish such a complaint this week. This makes strange reading matter for our readers. They must have a sense that something is wrong somewhere. If money given does not reach its proper place, there must be a cause for its misdirection. The cause should be known and removed as speedily as possible. The state of affairs indicated by these complaints is intolerable. We do not understand the matter well enough to elucidate it. We are blaming no officer of the church for the situation. We are only calling for light that the matter may be cleared up and confidence and liberality be increased.

Will Henry Ford Answer the Challenge?

Henry Ford has had published a series of articles on Jewish influence in America and elsewhere. These articles have been very displeasing to many of the Jews. They are regarded as slanders. Many Jews have been outspoken against them and the man that inspired them. Nathan Strauss, a rich Jew who is interested in a Jewish return to Palestine, has publicly charged Ford with misrepresentation of the Jews and has challenged him to name eight men of a committee of ten (the other two to be named by Mr. Strauss) to go over Mr. Ford's articles regarding the Jews, comparing representations with facts, and then rendering a verdict according to their findings. Will Mr. Ford accept the challenge? We cannot guess, but we are inclined to think he will say with Pilate, "What I have written, I have written," and let it go with that.

FEAR CAST OUT

A little girl who suffered greatly during thunderstorms was told by her mother to pray when she felt alarmed. One day, at the close of a fearful storm, she came to her mother with the information that praying during the danger brought her no relief. "Then," said her mother, "try praying when the sun shines, and see if that will take away the fear." The child did so, and when another storm was raging, she said sweetly, "Praying while the sun shines is the best way, for I am not the least bit afraid now." How often do we stay away from our Master until the storms of life drive us to him for shelter and protection. If we would only give God our best, our brightest days, we should have no cause to tremble when the dark hours come in.—Lutheran Observer.

How Jowett Saw It

After the death of his mother, Dr. J. H. Jowett wrote a friend, saying: "The Light of the grave is over everything. Death is but a change of clothes, not a change of character. It is just a brief transition. It is a mere changing of the sites, a plucking up of the tent pegs on the plains of earth and a shifting of one's quarters to the heavenly fields."

—Scientists are advising us men to quit fighting each other and all join in fighting our common enemy, the insects. Good advice. The insects are a despised folk, but they have incredible power to do us harm.

—Houdini, the magician, exposed and denounced the spiritualistic mediums as impostors. Since his death they have been trying to get even with him by reporting that they had received various messages from him. But his wife declares that Houdini had agree to communicate with her after his death if such a thing were possible, and he had agreed with her on a certain quotation known only to themselves to be used by him as a credential. She says this quotation has not been given by the mediums who profess to have received messages from her late husband.

A MENACE TO CHILDHOOD

CHARLES M. FILLMORE

That the cigarette habit is one of the most portentous perils to our childhood today will be denied by no one who knows actual conditions. Many seem uninformed on the subject or indifferent to the inevitable consequences of continued neglect in this matter of vital import to the future welfare of the race. The cold facts and figures should make every serious-minded patriot "stop, look and listen."

Fifth and Sixth Grades—On a visit to Greenfield, Ohio, the school superintendent said to me, "I am glad you have come. We have just opened up a fight against the illicit sale of cigarettes to our schol children. I am sorry I cannot have you talk to the high school pupils this afternoon, they have an oratorical contest. But I will bring into the auditorium the pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades and have you talk to them."

Fourth Grade Boys—"If I had room in the auditorium, I would bring in my fourth grade boys, too. We have 42 boys in the fourth grade and 2 of them confessed to me that they use cigarettes."

Third Grade—A few weeks later in Winfield, Kansas, I mentioned the above incident in an address. At its close a woman told me that her boy at Christmas had passed from the third grade into the fourth. "He has a chum," she added, "who failed to pass. We are sure that the reason he failed is because he smokes cigarettes."

First Grade Boys—The next week I was at Enid, Oklahoma. After an address to the high school, the superintendent said he wished I would also speak to the eighth grade schools of the city. I did so. At the first school the principal, "How young do you talk to the pupils?" "Just as young as you think they need it," I said.

He replied: "When school opened in the fall, there was a little fellow in the first grade who was so sleepy, listless, dull and stupid that it did not take me long to size up the situation with him. One day I said to him, 'Willie, don't you smoke cigarettes?' The little fellow perked up, and with a smile and tone that indicated that he was proud of the fact, replied, 'Yes, sir!' 'How in the world did you ever come to learn?' I asked him, and to my amazement he answered, 'My father taught me when I was three years old.' And that is not the worst of it," continued the principal, "the teacher tells me that she fears he has taught the habit to a dozen or more of his school mates. So I want you to start in the first grade here, if you will."

Ignorance—At Danville, Illinois, I addressed a Parent-Teachers Association. I mentioned the incidents given above. At the close of the address, the president of the association said, "Well, I do not believe conditions are that bad in this school. Do you think so, Miss M.?" she asked of the principal. "I do not think so," was the reply, "I know they are." "What!" in astonishment exclaimed the president, "you do not mean to tell me that boys in the first grade here smoke cigarettes?" "Ask the teacher of that grade, Miss W.," responded the principal, and the teacher confirmed the disagreeable fact.

The Kindergarten—At Toledo, Ohio, recently, the principal of a large school told me that many boys acquired the habit before entering the kindergarten.

Universal Condition—These are not rare, isolated cases. The same condition prevails generally throughout the nation. In small villages and hamlets as well as in towns and cities, it is a common matter to find not only children in the lowest grades who are smoking, but even quite a number who learn before they start to school.

Growing—There can be no doubt that the growing habit of cigarette smoking among younger children is a large factor in the tremendous increase of the tobacco business in recent years. It has been estimated that not less than 2,000 children twelve years old and under, are forming the habit daily.

That this condition can be ignored or treated with indifference will not be affirmed by any serious minded patriot or by any one who has the welfare of the race at heart. Whatever may be the opinion as to the effect of the use of tobacco by adults, every one concedes that its use never helped any child and has been the ruination physically, mentally and morally of thousands of boys who have given promise of usefulness and distinction before their chances in life were wrecked by the habit.

Physical—Mike Donovan, Athletic Director of the New York Athletic Club, says, "Any boy who smokes cigarettes can never hope to succeed in any line of endeavor, as smoking weakens the heart and lungs, ruins the stomach and affects the entire nervous system. If a boy or young man expects to amount to anything in athletics, he must let smoking alone. It is rank poison to his athletic ambition."

Mental—L. H. Jones, Supt. of schools, Cleveland, O., says. "The use of tobacco by children is very seriously bad, physically and mentally. The tendency is to prevent development of muscles, bones and nerves. The cigarette smoker becomes restless. He soon loses interest in the work of the school, because he is unable to so master the work as to secure any interest from it. Besides this, the company into which the practice of smoking leads him is of such a character as to change his interests from those of pure, moral, upright childhood into the low, coarse, debased ideals of the street life.

Crime—Judge L. B. Crane of New York says that 99 out of every 100 boys between the ages of 10 and 17 years who come before him charged with crime, smoke cigarettes. This surely proves that the boys who do not smoke do not stray into the path that leads to the police court.

Judge Ben Lindsay—Judge Lindsay says, "One of the very worst habits of boyhood is the cigarette habit. This has long been recognized by all the judges of the courts who deal with young criminals. The cigarette habit not only had a grip upon them, but invited all the other demons of habit to come in and add to the degradation that the cigarette began."

Our Campaign—The 700,000 school teachers of the United States must be supplied with the latest scientific facts on this question so that they may be able intelligently to instruct the children under their care in the truth concerning the physical, mental and moral peril lurking in the cigarette.

We must inaugurate a nation-wide pledge-signing campaign among the 23,000,000 school children of the land in order to fortify them against the temptation to acquire the seductive cigarette habit.

Hoover To The President—Hon. Herbert Hoover, that great friend of the children of the world, wrote President Coolidge, "We, in America, are far behind what a national conscience should demand for the public protection of our children." He has also said, "There is no agency in the world today that is so seriously affecting the health, efficiency, education and character of boys and girls as the cigarette habit, yet very little attention is paid to it. Nearly every delinquent boy is a cigarette smoker, which certainly has much to do with it. Cigarettes are a source of crime. To neglect crime at its source is a short-sighted policy, unworthy of a nation of our intelligence."

CHRIST'S DIVINE CONCEPTION

JESSIE W. GIBBS

Those who think lightly of theology tell us that the origin of our Lord Jesus Christ is no very important matter. Many reject the story of His conception by the Holy Spirit in the womb of a virgin, and claim to be equally Christian with those who accept it.

The natural scientist calls a fact to our attention and demands that we accept it. He does not allow that we may ba equally intelligent or right in accepting or rejecting that fact. And the theologian insists that it is imperative for us to recognize the facts of the spiritual realm. We cannot arrive at spiritual truth by considering the facts of the natural realm. We must recognize and reason from the facts of the spiritual realm, if we would arrive at spiritual truth.

If Jesus Christ was conceived by the Holy Spirit in the womb of a virgin, this is a tremendous spiritual fact. It is an amazing work of God, before which men must stand in awe. Men may not presume to set a light estimate upon a work of God. If this is a fact, it was absolutely necessary. God does not work miracles merely to amuse Himself, or to astound men. And if God did this absolutely necessary, supernatural thing, it is not a matter of indifference whether we believe it or not. If it is true, it is absolutely necessary that we believe it. We cannot be equally right in believing or disbelieving it. If God has done such a thing, it is essential that men recognize the fact and understand its necessity and realize its power.

Our modern materialism does not go to the spiritual root of anything. Theology traces all things down to their spiritual roots. Theology teaches us that nothing rises above its source; that "that which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is Spirit." If Jesus Christ was generated in the natural way,—if He came of the will and power of man, and not the will and power of God,—His nature is identical with ours; He can do nothing for us that we cannot do for ourselves. The whole supernatural story of His life, death and resurrection becomes impossible, and fades into a myth. The divine salvation He wrought out for us is taken away. God has never rent the heavens and come down; He has never made a personal revelation of Himself to us; He has taken no pity on our anguish of sin and death. The whole structure of our faith falls to the ground. We are left to the bitter and hopeless struggle of trying to save ourselves by natural evolution.

But if Jesus Christ was conceived, as the Scriptures say, by the Holy Spirit, and born of a virgin, then He was more than a man. He was the Son of God, God manifest in our flesh, where we could see and handle Him and apprehend his truth and love. His word of authority, His mighty works, His atoning sacrifice of Himself, His triumphant resurrection, His promises of spiritual regeneration, power and eternal life, to those who believe on Him, their citizenship in a Heavenly Kingdom, all flow logically from His supernatural Being. All things are possible to Him, because He is divine. The whole story of Christ's life and work in the world is supernatural. It is a consistent whole. His divine conception of a virgin mother is an integral and inseparable part of this story and the primary fact on which the reasonableness of the whole story depends. Deny it, and you deny the whole.

It is apparent that the issues of these two beliefs are utterly diverse. If Christ was only a man, we have no word of authority, no divine redemption, no spiritual regeneration, no reasonable hope, for this world or another. Indeed, we have no Christ at all. The Christ of the Gospels never existed. We are left to grope alone in this world-darkness. But if Jesus Christ was the Son of God, God has opened His heart to us; He has redeemed us; He has made known to us His truth; He offers us reconciliation and communion with Himself through faith in His Son, and entrance into a Heavenly Kingdom of life and peace. It cannot be indifferent which of these two theories we hold, since their conclusions diverge as widely as the poles. Both of these contradictory theories cannot be true. One of them is the truth of God, and the other is an impious lie. And the issues of life and death depend, for us, on which we believe.

Let us make the issue very clear. If Jesus was, Himself, born of the flesh, that is, of our fallen nature, He cannot give us a spiritual regeneration. If human nature is to be changed, a supernatural Power is required to do it. Man cannot lift himself by his bootstraps. If he is to be lifted, there must be some One above him to lift him. If Christ is to help us, He must be of a higher order of Being, and this requires a higher origin. These conditions are realized in the Gospel story with its divine conception and virgin birth. If Christ was conceived by the Holy Sprit, then He can regenerate us in the eternal life of the Spirit of God. He can lift us to the higher spiritual plane on which He stands.

It is convenient to speak of Christ's virgin birth, but the expression is unfortunate, as stressing the inferior element in His orgin. The virgin was, of course, necessary to Christ's birth into this world. Her service in clothing the Son of God with our humanity was real, and a most sacred and heavy one, and her honor is correspondingly high. The humble, trustful, joyous obedience with which she accepted it, and the heavenly tenderness with which she was sheltered in it make a perfect story. Nothing less could have been worthy of this divine event. She was prepared and encouraged and empowered by God for her high service. And yet the virgin is not the pre-eminent factor in Christ's origin. She was an instrument fitted and used by God. The pre-eminent factor in Christ's origin is His conception by the Holy Spirit. The virgin birth is true, but it is better to speak of the divine conception, as placing the emphasis where it belongs, on the pre-eminent factor in Christ's origin. To speak of His virgin birth is to speak of something unnatural and apparently impossible. But to speak of His conception by the Holy Spirit is to speak of something supernatural, which makes His virgin birth entirely possible. "With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible."

"Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed!" But if we find it hard, in such an age as this, to believe in the act of God by which His Son was born into this world, thanks be to God, we are still confronted by some of Christ's works, and He still challenges us to believe that "He is in the Father and the Father in Him, for the very works' sake." Every work of spiritual regeneration which Christ works is proof of His divine power and nature, and so of His heavenly origin, which we cannot evade or deny.

From the earliest times the Church has held the virgin birth of her Lord to be a glorious and fundamental truth of her faith. It is only to minds formed by our modern materialism, which repudiate or deprecate the supernatural, that the thought of it has become repellant. To the mind which accepts the supernatural, the virgin birth is absolutely necessary and beautifully true,—the only thinkable way in which God could have become incarnate in our flesh and visited and redeemed us from our sins.

The Church had committed to her the truth of the spiritual, supernatural realm. When she ceases to believe this truth, she loses all excuse for being. Her one commission is to demonstrate and declare the supreme truth of the spiritual realm. This truth is foolishness to the natural man. It is not apprehended by the natural senses, but by the supreme faculty of faith, that is, of pure reason, quickened in man by the Spirit of God. The Church, today, is looking to natural science and world politics for the truth that is not in the natural realm, and so defeating her own mission. She has been swept into materialism by the great development of natural science and democracy. And the world is festering in corruption, with no one to give it the Light of Life.

It is not a time for the casting of stones. Every section of the Church has been contaminated, at one point or another, with the materialism of the world. If one group dishonors Christ by denying His virgin birth, almost the whole Church has dishonored Him by practicing war. It is a time for all of us to seek again to the Word of God, in which the spiritual realm is revealed; to humble ourselves to consider its simple and transparently truthful statements; to pray for the gift of the Holy Spirit to enable us to believe them; to touch again the hem of the garment of the divine Christ and receive from Him the virtue which alone can heal our own divisions or bring salvation to a dying world.

HURRAH FOR FATHER CASSIDY!

By Rev. Luther K. Long

Not all the priests of the Roman Catholic church have a reputation for high temperance and moral ideals and practice. So, it gives me great pleasure to run across one of them who is outstanding in his favorable attitude toward prohibition.

Father Cassidy, of Fall River, Massachusetts, in an interview given out before the last election, declared that the Democratic proposal in the state of Massachusetts would mean the return of "the long line of saloons that once extended through my parish from Middle street to the state line."

"I appeal," continues this fervent priest, "I appeal to all the sane, right-thinking, right-living people in the commonwealth to join me at once in a battle against the deadliest enemy decency has had to face since it was driven out of this community 51 years ago."

Father Cassidy hasn't much respect for the "personal liberty" plea of politicians who long for the return of the good old days of freedom before the 18th amendment was adopted. His ringing words ought to make every citizen of Massachusetts—and of all the other states—sit up and take notice. Listen to what he says:

"When the Democratic party in state convention assembled, by fervid oratory and fulsome resolution, in weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, bemoans the terrible evils arising from the absence of the saloon, I turn back the pages of history to the days when the saloon was rampant and reigning king and note that never in all its long history did a Democratic convention think it worthwhile to even comment on the evils arising from the presence of the saloon. And I wonder why silence then and vociferousness now.

"And when the Democratic party, in state convention assembled, publicly informs me that, in accordance with sacred personal rights, it is going, if it can, to establish a drinking place or many of them, around about St. Patrick's Church and parish, my answer is that the same sacred personal liberty rights that allow it to set up the saloon allow me also to prevent it if I can.

"And when the Democratic party, in state convention assembled, passed its 'wringing wet' platform, the ghosts of the breweries and the hobgoblins of the saloon must have danced all night with delight. But the darkening shadows of the threatening saloon, falling aslant on many a home, rebuilt from saloon wreckage, sent a shudder through the heart of many a man, woman, and child—a shudder that later, when the shock is over and courage comes back, will make numbers of sane, rightthinking, right-living people in the commonwealth go to the voting places and vote that safety and self-preservation are more precious than party loyalty."

I do not know as to Father Cassidy's political party affiliations. That does not greatly matter. The important thing is that there are thousands of both parties, who, like him, will go outside their party to vote to sustain the law against the saloon. The time is opportune now—and will be for some years to come—for temperance people to speak out their convictions and stand by them. Especially should we be on our guard against the candidate who proposes to stand for law enforcement—but who admittedly patronizes bootleggers.

METHODIST BUILDING FACES THE CAPITOL

Of all the denominational buildings in the city of Washington the Methodist building occupies one of the most prominent and best chosen locations. The Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals is housed in this building. A writer in The Forum had assailed the right of the Methodists to maintain such a building. Dr. Clarence True Wilson—in The Forum for November defends the right of the church in this matter. Among other things, Dr. Wilson very pointedly says:

"What, then, is the purpose of placing a Methodist institution of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals right at the doors of the Capitol in Washington? The purpose is to lift up a standard in the most influential place it can be planted which will indicate what the Methodists believe in and stand for with reference to the teaching of temperance and its necessity for the public welfare of the United States and the world—a standard of prohibition because the liquor traffic is a demoralizing institution, corrupt in all its organizations, debauching to the public conscience, a taint upon the public morals, and an organized temptation before the youth of the land. The Methodist Episcopal Church is against this traffic; against its perpetuity; against its licensed promotion; against receiving into the public treasury any of its blood-stained dollars, regarding the license fee as a bribe to the public conscience; against being ruled by pliant tools of the liquor traffic, for a hundred years of observation shows that the traffic has picked the most crooked and lowest types of manhood to promote to public office. The organization promotes public morals, for it believes that the Nation as well as the Church is founded and dependent upon morality, education, and civic decency."

The WORK and the WORKERS

Just before Conference I visited the Liberty and Siler City Charge and presided over the fourth quarterly conference. This would have been reported sooner, but the next week was Conference.

It was one of the best quarterly conferences I ever attended. The attendance was large and everyone was happy. The pastor made a written report, which has since been published in the HERALD by request of the quarterly conference. The pastor had also provided blanks for the heads of all departments, so every department of the church made a written report, and each report was a good report, and both churches are almost 100 per cent organized. They have a reason to be happy in their work for the Lord.

Our Program For the New Year

I have before me a program which was placed before us four years ago. Some of that program has been so gloriously completed that I am revising it for this year.

Our Slogan: As Faithful in Service For Christ as For Self.

Our Aim:

1. Our church papers read by all our members.
2. Family worship in all our homes.
3. Every member contributing systematically and proportionately.
4. The Budgets in full on every charge by the help of the every member canvass and the envelope system.
5. All our church and parsonage yards cleaned up and beautified.
6. Churches painted and window-lights put in where needed. Good fires started early Sunday morning in country churches.
7. Four hundred in attendance at the Summer Conference at High Point College July, 1927.
8. All pastors attending the Summer Conference.
9. The High Point College cleared of debt, and 350 students enrolled in the Fall of 1927.
10. A revival in every church with a worthy increase in members.
11. Better Sunday school in all our churches.
12. More and better Christian Endeavor Societies.
13. The Woman's Missionary Societies organized in all our churches.
14. Monthly payments from all our churches on the Budgets.

Our Motto: On to Victory.

Our Golden Text: "Put ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." Matt. 6:33.

"Study to show thyself approved unto God." II Tim. 2:15.

Some quotations:

"If God is your partner, make your plans large."

"Expect great things of God; attempt great things for God."

"I would rather put ten men to work than do the work of ten men."

"If a man build a better mouse-trap, preach a better sermon, or write a better book than his neighbor, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

"All workmanship reflects the character of the workman."

"You can annoy him and delay him, but you cannot stop him."

"It ain't not disgrace to fail, but to lie there and grunt is."

"He who pulls needs no pull."

Let us begin early in the year to pray together, to work together, and to pull steadily together to make this the very best year our Conference has ever known. By His grace and power we can do it.

Last Year's Finances

A study of last year's finances will rather put us to shame. With much better crop conditions and better material conditions in every way, and with the smaller apportionments on many of our charges, we raised a smaller amount of money for the budgets than the year before. May God help us to measure up to the privileges He is giving us.

That Challenge

Remember the challenge to raise the A. C. B. within 30 days from the rise of Conference. During the week following the second Sunday in December we will publish the list of charges which have paid the A. C. B. in full, and in the order in which checks have been received by Mr. V. W. Idol, High Point, N. C. And if your charge pays by the month, we will at the same time publish the list of all charges having sent any amount to Mr. Idol. So come on with your payments, either in full or in part.

The Christmas Program

Many of our churches will wish to put on a Christmas program of some kind. Lawrence Little, Concord, N. C., has prepared a fine Christmas program especially for Methodist Protestant people. You will like it. Order your supplies at once and get your young people to practicing on it. What money you raise in this way counts on your G. C. B.

Appointments

November 26, 7 p. m.—Kernersville quarterly conference.
December 1, 7 p. m.—Gibsonville quarterly conference.
December 4, 11 a. m.—Why Not quarterly conference.
December 4, 2:30 p. m.—Randleman quarterly conference.
December 5—Randleman.
December 12—State Street, Lexington, opening service.

I shall be glad to attend other first quarterly conferences. Some might arrange other dates than Saturdays and thus help me to get to more conferences.

Pray for me, brethren, as I pray for you.

"Help us to help each other, Lord,
Each other's cross to bear:
Let each his friendly aid afford,
And feel his brother's care."

Faithfully yours in service for Him

A. G. DIXON.

—The Torch has been succeeded by The Hi-Po as the organ of High Point College students. The new paper is a five-column, four-page weekly newspaper published at $1.50 a year. It will help to develop a college spirit, and will also help to train students in the ways of journalism.

What is needed to prevent war is an international law forbidding any nation to start a war without enough cash on hand to pay for it.—Tacoma Ledger.

Denominational Enterprises

THE DENOMINATIONAL OUTLOOK

Alabama—Two meetings on Clark Circuit, one at Oak Grove, the other at Creeds Chapel, resulted in 24 additions. ——The C. E. Society of the Midway church, Jefferson Circuit, presented the pastor with a purse of twenty dollars. ——Revival services on the Millersville Circuit resulted in 36 additions to the membership.

Eastern—Extensive improvements, to cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, are being made to the Westville, N. J., church.——One of the interesting events of the recent session of Conference was the presentation by Capt. C. T. Gordon of 19 Testaments to as many "Front Line" pastors. The President reported an increase of $3.458 in pastors' salaries over last year. The funds of the Preachers' Aid Society were increased by $5,000.——Dr. C. D. Sinkinson is now in his 33rd year as pastor of the Christ Church, Atlantic City.

Georgia—Three new churches have been organized and buildings erected during the Conference year.——Some thirty professed conversion during the Union Camp Meeting. One young man has given himself to the ministry.

Illinois—The first unit of the Chatham Church, Chicago, was opened for service recently at a cost of $30,000.——A portable chapel has been placed on the lot in South Manor. The lot, worth $5,000, was donated by a man not a member of the Methodist Protestant Church.——A revival meeting in the church at Banner resulted in 29 additions to the membership.

Maryland—The church at Leipsic has been renovated at a cost fo $700.——The Sunday school of the Dover, Del., church pays the pastor's salary.——Seventeen members have been added to the Hallwood, Va., church as a result of the recent revival.——A "Rainbow Banquet" given by the Graceland Park Church, Baltimore, netted $400 for the church debt. ——Five thousand dollars has been subscribed toward the new church building at Lauraville.——The foundation for the Sunday school addition to the Brooklyn church has been completed. St. Luke's Church, Philadelphia, has paid $4,500 on church debt since last Conference.——Salem church, Fairfax Circuit, celebrated its 50th anniversary recently.——A great revival in the Taylor Memorial Church, Philadelphia, has resulted in more than 150 additions to the membership.

Mississippi—A new church has been organized near Lake. ——A new building has been erected for the membership of Clark's Church on Richton Charge.

Ohio—The cornerstone of the addition to Grace Church, Columbus, was laid on Sunday, September 26, with appropriate exercises. The improvements will cost around $75,000.

Onandaga—The church at Winfall has been extensively improved.——Some time ago the Methodist Episcopal Church at Conquest voted to unite with the Methodist Protestant Church in that town. This has been done, and the folks are happy in the new relation.

Pittsburgh—The church at Bakerstown has been improved at a cost of $600.——A campaign is being waged in the churches of the Conference to secure $10,000 for church extension.——Nessly Chapel celebrated its hundredth anniversary on September 26. C. W. B.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The annual meeting of the Council of Church Boards of Education will meet at the Chicago Beach Hotel, Chicago, Illinois, January 10th and 11th. The Association of American Colleges and affiliated organizations will mete January 13th to 15th in the Congress Hotel, Chicago, Illinois. The Board of Education and three of our colleges are interested in these meetings.

In reply to an inquiry from Dr. R. L. Kelly, Secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, the following was received from Rev. John E. Bradford, D. D., Secretary of the Board of Education of the United Presbyterian Church: "The most encouraging fact that I have to report is the action taken by our last General Assembly relative to the increased participation of the Board of Education in the General Budget of the Church. As a result of this action, a program is now being formulated for the continuance of a greatly increased support and for a unified campaign for such capital funds as well be required by the institutions prior to 1930."

In order to make provision for the ministerial candidates now receiving financial assistance from the Board of Education we are proposing definite payments to those formerly helped and still indebted to the Board. If these suggestions are acted upon favorably we will be able to meet our pledges by the close of our fiscal year without resorting to the Budget. Replies received to date in cash and promises provide for about one-tenth of what is needed.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes says, "I do not see how I could ever have gone through college without the aid of the Student Loan Fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church. It added just sufficiently to the family treasury to give both my parents and myself sufficient courage to undertake the four years' course. My debt of gratitude to the Board (of Education) is so large that I have been endeavoring all through these years to repay the obligation in various forms."

The Student Loan Fund of our Board is not large but it has already accomplished a notable service. A college training has been made possible for over two score of Methodist Protestant young people. Many of these are now engaged in making their place in the world's work and in nearly every case they have justified the confidence the Board has placed in them. The proportions of the loans being repaid is unusually high. And these repayments are making the continuance of this service largely possible.

President Arlo Ayres Brown says, "My own experience with the Student Loan Fund is two-fold, as a borrower and as a college administrator. In order to go through college it was necessary for me to receive substantial help from home, to work during the school year and also to borrow a small amount from the Student Loan Fund.

"It is wholesome for a student to earn part of his expenses while going through college but there s a limit to the amount of work which he can do and yet make satisfactory progress in his studies. When that limit was reached in my own case it was a very great help to be able to borrow the amount necessary.

"The expense of obtaining higher education is such that a loan fund is absolutely necessary if thousands of the most promising young people in our churches are to receive this training."

Recent reports from the Rally Day services are most encouraging. In spite of the fact that his people are building a great new church, Rev. George H. Miller, D. D., reports an offering of $334. Rev. G. E. Wunder, Snow Hill Circuit, Maryland Conference reports an increase from $20 to $54. Rev. Floyd H. Eckert, Mt. Vernon Circuit, Ohio Conference, raised the $40 of last year to $81 this year. Rev. C. L. Daugherty, D. D., Trinity Church, Pittsburgh, reports an offering of $119. The largest offering made by any of our churches so far as known was that by First Church, Pittsburgh, Rev. J. W. Hawley, D. D., pastor, which was $740. Of course many have not reported, and the actual results will not be known for some time.

In a letter to the Secretary, Rev. Floyd Eckert says: "We have had our Rally service. We did not quite reach the goal but we raised more for the Board of Education than this circuit totaled all last year. We raised $81, which is not quite half our assessment. Our union Rally Day experiment, bringing the four churches of the circuit together in a single service, was pronounced a complete success. Following the program Rev. Harlan L. Feeman, D. D., LL. D., gave a great address.

"The success of this plan cannot be measured in dollars and cents. In working up the program and interest, and in trying to reach the financial goal, we were able to bring out some facts such as you have published in the church papers. By this means the people were awakened to the fact that every interest must receive its full quota."

Which reminds us of an action taken at the last session of the Maryland Annual Conference. When the General Conference Budget apportionment was assigned to the local charges it was divided according to the interests represented. This plan was suggested by Rev. G. I. Humphreys, D. D., formerly president of the Maryland Conference and Chairman of the Board of Education. Each pastor will be rated according as he pays on each item in the Budget. And no interest will be entitled to more than its per cent as written into the Budget. To get his name on the honor roll a pastor must give evidence that every cause has received its full share.

This letter from Rev. G. E. Wunder is worth passing along:

"The Snow Hill Circuit is composed of three struggling churches. Two of these have a combined membership of 25. I have a very tender spot in my heart for the Board of Education and the good work it is doing. Had it not been for this organization I do not know how I could have paid my expenses while in the Seminary.

"I explained to my congregations the embarrassing situation under which the Board was placed last year and also enumerated the number of men who had been pastors of this circuit, most of whom had received aid from the Board of Education. As a result our offerings amounted to $54 which pays our percentage in full. You can always depend on me to help put across a campaign for the Board of Education."

Another Sample

A certain church was assigned $1,510 as their share of the General Conference Budget. What the various interests should have received is found below in the first column. What they actually received is fund in the second column.

	Assessed	Paid
Board of Foreign Missions	$377.50	$565.00
Board of Home Missions	347.30	162.00
Board of Education	347.30	86.00
Women's Foreign Missionary Society	181.20	400.00
Women's Home Missionary Society	90.60	450.00
General Superannuated Fund	60.40	.....
Ministerial Salary Relief	30.20	.....
Contingent Fund	30.20	.....
Children's Home	15.10	.....
Home for the Aged	15.10	.....
American Bible Society	15.10	.....
Undesignated Budget	.....	100.00
Totals	$1,510.00	$1,763.00

Out of the funds sent to Mr. Staley which are undesignated, the Board of Education received 19 per cent. Adding then $19 from the $100, the Board of Education received from this church $105 or 30 per cent of what it was entitled to. Or, putting it another way, this Board received 6 per cent of what was raised instead of 23 per cent. It is little wonder special endowment campaigns are necessary to save our educational program. FRANK W. STEPHENSON.

A COPY OF A LETTER SENT TO THE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Pedagogues are clamoring for a new cabinet office-holder to be known as "Secretary of Education."

There is not the slightest reason for such an office. If the pedagogues could have all the money spent in the various ways for which they are scheming, there would be but little left for anything else. They are shameless in their disregard of the burden borne by the oppressed taxpayers.

If we had a Secretary of Education he would be supplied with an army of lackeys to be added to the vast number of office-holders who are now sapping the life of the nation.

A speaker called attention to the fact that all the known gold in the world would barely pay the cost in our country for a single year.

He also showed that before the Civil War there was but one person on the payroll of the taxpayers to every thousand engaged in business or industry; that at the time of Cleveland's administration there was one to every hundred so engaged; while now our country is afflicted by having a person on the pay-roll of the taxpayers to every fifteen engaged in business or industry.

It used to be said that every man in Germany went to work with a soldier on his back. If we keep on adding to the office-holding class it will not be long before every man in this country will go to work bearing on his back the burden of an office-holder.

All over our land should go up an earnest cry of the beleaguered taxpayers, beseeching the legislators not only not to add to their burden by creating new offices, but to bring the sadly needed relief by reducing the number of persons on the pay-roll of the taxpayers to one-quarter, if not to one-tenth of what it is now. A. B. SEE.

52 Vesey St., New York, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1926.

PROPER PLAY CUTS CRIME

The Playgrounds and Recreation Association makes important contributions toward a healthy community life. At its recent congress in Atlantic City, New Jersey, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt made a notable address. Among other things, the Colonel said:

"A vast majority of criminals are made while young. The young criminals are created not by their school life, but by what is done in their leasure hours. By striving for a proper opportunity for outdoor recreation in the broadest sense of the term for all our boys and girls will do a very great work toward cutting down crime."

OUR STORY PAGE

A THANKSGIVING STORY

Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest-home;
All is safely gathered in
Ere the winter storms begin;
God, our Maker, doth provide
For our wants to be supplied;
Come to God's own temple, come
Raise the song of harvest-home.

I wish that you could have seen her as she stood there! She was nine years old, but small. Her head was unusually large, and her hair was woolly. The nose was sharp and her mouth was open most of the time. But through the parted red lips two rows of white teeth could be seen, and her red tongue was usually visible. Her face had an old look, as though she had taken care of herself for a number of years.

As she sang in a sweet, rich voice, her eyes rolled, showing the whites very distinctly. She walked along in a very deliberate manner, putting her hand to her head to make sure that her hat was safe. That hat! Its brim was torn, and there was a hole in the top. The colors were so faded that one could scarcely recognize the green and blue. Now she stopped and tried to hide her toes, which protruded from a worn out pair of shoes. But it only hurt her, so she stopped. Mississippi Louisiana Alabama Texas Jones, for that was her name, was a stranger in the place. During the few days that she had been there, she had explored every "big house," as she expressed it, with the exception of the one that she was trying to examine now. It evidently suited her, for she was filled with admiration. A baker's cart stood before the gate. She watched with open mouth till the boy came out.

"Halloa, Snowball! Where did you get that hat?" he sung out.

The child made no answer, but stuck out her tongue at him. The boy laughed and drove away. But she did not dare go in, much as she longed to. The wind whistled and sent out such a blast that it made the child shiver. She looked up at the sky. It was cloudy and looked ready to snow at any moment. Every few moments she could hear voices and laughter.

"Wunder wot it is?" She asked herself.

The town clock struck half-past four. At that moment the door opened and a little boy three years old came out. Mississippi drew back into the shadow of the largest tree. The boy looked so cunning in his little red coat and cap and mittens that Mississippi wanted to hug him. He had seen her dart behind the tree, and now he came straight towards her. He had in his left hand a huge piece of cake, which he handed to her. Mississippi thanked him.

"Wot's yer name?" she asked him.

"Benny Hammond," was the reply.

"Got a ma?" she asked him, with her mouth full of cake.

"Es, and see's vely pitty, and I look dus' like her!" the child answered innocently.

Just then a cold blast came that made the child draw her shawl around her.

"Winter storms cummin' sure this time!" she said.

"Is 'oo told?" Benny asked, as he saw her shiver. "Tum in, det warm."

"I'm skeered to!" she said.

Just then someone called, "Benny!" and the child started to obey.

"Good-by," she said.

Mississippi felt lonely after he had gone in. Just at that moment she had heard a hymn that made her stand with open mouth. It was the very one that she had been singing! She had never heard it, except in her own church, South. For a few minutes she was lost in thought. Then some one opened the window and shook an apron out.

What was that lying on the ground? Mississippi sprang to pick it up. A pair of red mittens! Just what she needed! Scarcely daring to look at the now brilliantly-lighted house, she stole softly away. Of course the ladies wouldn't miss one pair of mittens, and then, too, someone had sung the hymn, "All is safely gathered in." The winter storms were beginning, for the snow was falling fast and thick, and the wind was freezing cold.

But Mississippi felt very sober as she crept into her bed to keep warm. She was staying with a colored woman with whom she had lived in the South ever since her parents had died. Now she had come North with the child. She did not care at all for Mississippi. All she wanted was to make her work, and she gave her scanty fare.

"Wish I could find Aunt Lou!" Mississippi sighed.

That night she pleaded being ill, so the woman let her off with a grunt of dissatisfaction.

Mississippi tried to sleep, but it was a long time before she did so. The mittens came walking to her bed. Then they jumped on her head and began to be at a tune.

"Stop!" cried the child. "I'll take you back—only stop!" Then she thought that she heard a voice sing, "All is safely gathered in." Mississippi opened her eyes. The mittens were lying just where she had put them. It was growing light. After a while she felt happy and went to sleep, for she had decided to take the mittens back. With the mittens safe in the front of her dress, she did her work with a light heart. Soon after 9 o'clock she found herself standing at the side door of Benny's house. A lady, who looked just like Benny, was standing there reading a note. The child thought to herself, "How Benny must love her, for she's awful pretty!"

Mrs. Hammond did not see the child, so busy was she reading the note. Mississippi spoke, and held out the mittens.

"All ain't safely gathered in!" she said.

Mrs. Hammond stared at her in surprise.

"What do you mean?" she asked kindly, "and what is your name?"

Mississippi told her. "I jes' couldn't keep 'em," she added, "even though my hands waz froze!"

"I think that I can trust you to come and help wash dishes for me today. The woman who always comes to help me is ill. Do you want to come?"

Mississippi grinned and showed her white teeth.

"Follow me!" Benny's mother said, and leading the way through a long hall, opened the door into a large, sunny kitchen. "My waitress left me a month ago, and I am trying to find someone," she said.

A large colored woman was standing with her back to the door, stuffing a turkey.

"Louisiana, this is Mississippi"—but she was stopped by a scream.

The woman turned and flung her arms around the child.

"O, Aunt Lou!" the child cried. "Take care of me! I'm so lonely, and I rote you lots of times, and I thought you wuz dead."

"Laws, honey, I thought you was dead. I'll take care of you, but of course I don't see how you can stay here, but I'll find a nice place to board you, and you can come here every day."

The child's face fell, and the tears began to fall. Then Mrs. Hammond spoke:

"Of course Mississippi shall stay here, for I know that I can trust her."

Here Benny appeared.

"It's de little dirl dat I told 'oo 'bout," he said.

His mother smiled. "She is going to stay here and live," she said. In an hour or two Mrs. Hammond came back with the mittens in her hands.

"Take them and wear them, and I will see that you have nice warm clothes and plenty to eat," Benny's mother said with a smile.

Again the white teeth showed; then, much to Mrs. Hammond's surprise, the tears began to fall, but Mrs. Hammond understood.

"Can I jes' run and tell the old woman about it?" she asked.

Mrs. Hammond smiled and said, "Yes."

Mississippi ran off, singing as she ran:

"All is safely gathered in Ere the winter storms begin."

—Rebecca R. Zabriskie.

ON CHEWING GUM

"What about chewing gum?" asked another patient.

"My opinion of chewing gum?" the doctor repeated. "I have a poor opinion of it. Some years ago I casually remarked that if a person had forgotten to chew his dinner it might be a proper thing for him to retire to some secluded place and chew gum for a penance. I do not know of any occasion when it would be proper, except as a punishment.

"No, I do not even admit that there is any possibility of anybody getting any good from chewing gum. Many gum-chewers go to their meals with their salivary glands so tired out they cannot digest a crumb of bread. Some time ago I set a man to chewing gum in the morning about 9 o'clock. We took and tested samples of his saliva every 30 minutes, and we found in the course of a couple of hours that his saliva had ceased to be worth anything. He had so exhausted his salivary glands in chewing gum that the saliva had no digestive power at all."—Dr. J. H. Kellogg.

EARNESTNESS NEEDED

In all ages God has used those who were in earnest. Satan always calls idle men into his service. God calls active and earnest, not indolent men. You remember where Elijah found Elisha: ploughing in the field. Gideon was at the threshing floor. Moses was away in Horeb looking after the sheep. None of these were indolent men; what they did, they did with all their might. We want such men and women nowadays. If we cannot do God's work with all the knowledge we would like, let us at any rate do it with the zeal that God has given us.—Rev. D. L. Moody.

THE NEED OF SEPARATION

The true followers of Christ and those of the devil ought to be so apparent that there should be no difficulty in spotting each. As things now are, it is sometimes difficult to tell one from the other, because between the two bodies there is a third body, composed of those who try to serve God and Baal.

The sooner then the line of separation is made clear, the better it will be for the Church of God.

Never in the history of the Church has there been a greater need for an Elijah, to demand that those who are for Baal should serve him, and those for Jehovah, should serve Him.

The Church is weakened in her work and testimony today by this failure to separate.

Too many, for the sake of peace, are trying to serve both sides, with the result that always follows an attempt to serve two masters.

When that division comes, the work of the Church will for a time, be crippled and to a certain extent retarded; but in the end it will rebound with increased power and consecration.

These are trying times in which we live, and the faith of those believing in the promises of God, will be strained. It may seem that scoffers are right in proclaiming that God does not care.

Let us, however, remember the promise that he who endureth unto the end shall be saved.

Let us also remember that the Lord knoweth them that are His, and that the foundation of the Church is Christ Himself, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.—Selected.

YOUR OWN CHURCH

If you want to work in the kind of a church
  Like the kind of a church you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
  And start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind,
  For there's nothing that's really new;
It's a knock at yourself, when you knock your church—
  It isn't your church—it's you.
Real churches aren't made by men afraid
  Lest somebody else goes ahead;
When everybody works and nobody shirks,
  You can raise a church from the dead.
And if while you make your personal stake
  Your neighbor makes one, too,
Your church will be what you want to see—
  It isn't your church—it's you.

—Selected.

YOUR HEART IN YOUR WORK

Years ago, in Worcester, Massachusetts, a young man was assistant in an architect's office. He did not want to be an architect; he wanted to use his voice, and was dismissed by his employer because he spent too much time in the office reading Crawford's story, "A Roman Singer." "I'm really doing you a favor, but you don't know t," said his employer as he sent him away. The words proved true, for the young man at once took up musical studies and rose in them so fast and so far that he became one of the world's great tenors. It never pays to continue in a task to which we cannot give our hearts. Any person or any circumstance is a blessing that drives us from such work into our true employment.—Forward.

Our Task and Our Privilege

AS WE MET IT LAST YEAR

Paid on A. C. B.

1.	Halifax	$265.00
2.	Forsyth	257.39
3.	Flat Rock	223.24
4.	Alamance	202.02
5.	Glen Raven	174.50
6.	Mocksville	150.00
7.	Fallston	140.00
8.	Why Not	133.03
9.	Randolph	130.00
10.	Spring Church	128.48
11.	Graham	115.00
12.	Pageland	112.55
13.	Anderson	85.69
16.	Greensville	82.00
17.	Littleton	81.75
18.	Cleveland	79.50
19.	Vance	75.25
20.	Lebanon	70.00
21.	South Davidson	62.68
22.	Friendship	59.31
23.	West Forsyth	57.75
24.	Saxapahaw	54.89
25.	Pinnacle	48.80
26.	Midland	48.30
27.	Randleman	46.35
28.	Guilford	45.21
29.	West Thomasville	43.00
30.	Kernersville	36.42
31.	Albemarle	35.00
32.	Roberta	32.50
33.	Yarborough	29.00
34.	Union Grove	26.00
35.	Rockingham	25.00
36.	Chase City	24.20
37.	Democrat	23.00
38.	Denton	17.45
39.	Cornelius	14.00
40.	Fairview	13.43
41.	Porter	10.00
42.	Spencer	10.00
43.	Creswell	9.00
44.	Lincolnton	5.00
45.	Caroleen	4.00

Paid on G. C. B.

1.	Haw River	$463.00
2.	Orange	274.00
3.	Forsyth	256.44
4.	North Davidson	256.28
5.	Spring Church	247.69
6.	Mt. Pleasant	240.69
7.	Graham	181.00
8.	Why Not	161.85
9.	Enfield	157.25
10.	Granville	155.50
11.	Vance	126.32
12.	Randolph	122.65
13.	Saxapahaw	104.77
14.	Tabernacle	103.78
15.	Alamance	82.32
16.	Pleasant Grove	79.30
17.	Glen Raven	78.94
18.	Fallston	75.00
19.	Littleton	68.25
20.	Randleman	67.86
21.	West Forsyth	62.76
22.	Mt. Hermon	62.23
23.	Welch	61.00
24.	Richland	60.72
25.	Midland	58.70
26.	Gibsonville	58.68
27.	Mocksville	53.69
28.	Friendship	50.78
29.	Cleveland	45.08
30.	Thomasville, First	39.69
31.	Bess Chapel	38.08
32.	Anderson	37.74
33.	Guilford	37.28
34.	Albemarle	36.00
35.	West Thomasville	34.80
36.	Flat Rock	34.34
37.	Halifax	33.68
38.	English Street	32.62
39.	Davidson	28.90
40.	Pinnacle	25.75
41.	Union Grove	25.00
42.	Chatham	22.98
43.	St. Paul	20.84
44.	Lebanon	20.05
45.	Rockingham	19.00
46.	Weaverville	18.75
47.	Roberta	17.11
48.	Mecklenburg	17.00
49.	South Davidson	17.00
50.	Creswell	14.00
51.	Denton	13.14
52.	Porter	50.00
53.	Fairview	9.27
54.	Lincolnton	7.52
55.	Yarborough	7.40
56.	Pageland	4.30
57.	Draper	3.22
58.	Greensville	3.00

Paid on College Assessment

1.	Forsyth	45.30
2.	Enfield	40.00
3.	Flat Rock	35.00
4.	Randolph	34.00
5.	Fallston	30.00
6.	Halifax	26.80
7.	Littleton	24.00
8.	Lebanon	22.30
9.	West Forsyth	18.00
10.	Alamance	17.88
11.	Why Not	17.00
12.	Spring Church	14.50
13.	South Davidson	13.30
14.	Randleman	10.35
15.	Friendship	10.00
16.	Saxapahaw	9.46
17.	Vance	7.00
18.	Spencer	6.70
19.	Guilford	5.24
20.	Albemarle	5.00
21.	Chase City	5.00
22.	Lincolnton	5.00
23.	Union Grove	5.00
24.	Pinnacle	4.00

The above figures shsould have been published in the Herald last week in connection with the honor roll of charges and churches, but could not be gotten ready in time. Look up the honor roll of last week and put it with these figures and you have before you our financial showing for last year. Thus we grasped our privilege and finished our task. Each charge wrote its own record, and as it is written it must stand.

At Conference quite a bit was said, at different times, about "robbing" Church Extension and the Superannuates. Each one of these should certainly get the amount allotted for that cause; but a glance at the above figures in the A. C. B. will show just where this "robbing" takes place. If the A. C. B. were paid in full then no cause would suffer. This year our charges are assessed $5,000 for Church Extension and $4,000 for Superannuates, and every cent of it should be paid, for the Superannuates need theirs, and there are already applications in for more than $5,000 from the Board of Church Extension.

Conference expenses must be met just like one's grocery bills must be met, so each pastor knows now that what he fails to lead his people to raise of the allotment for the A. C. B. on his charge, Church Extension and the Superannuates will be "robbed" of just that much. Let us then get busy in the early weeks of Conference to raise the budgets in full.

And please remember that I would lay equal stress upon raising the G. C. B. Observe the special days. Get your missionary societies to work, and make the every-member canvass with a view to raising this budget in full; for if this is not done then we "rob" foreign missions, home missions, Christian education, and the young people's work.

It is fine to know that many charges are already working at the job. May God bless and direct.

Faithfully yours,
A. G. DIXON.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$171,276.31
J. T. Ramsey	5.00
T. B. Richard	3.00
Mebane M. P. Church	16.00
Ruby and Truth Isley	5.00
R. E. Leonard	5.00
Rev. Atlas Ridge	10.00
Kinley Waters	2.00
Mrs. W. M. Close	1.00
Elmer Hauser	5.00
W. E. White	50.00
H. H. Lindley	2.50
	$171,380.81

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$7,010.61
Ladies' Aid Society—Calvary, Greensboro,	$50.00
	$7,060.61

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for November 28.—Christian Endeavor Around the World. Phil. 2: 1-13.

Topic for December 5.—Character: How Form It? What Affects It? Prov. 22:1; 8:1-11; 1 Cor. 15:33. (Consecration meeting).

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for November 28.—Gideon and the Three Hundred. Judges 7:1-25.

Lesson for December 5.—Ruth and Naomi. The book of Ruth.

—We thank Rev. J. E. Pritchard and the Asheboro people for a fine list of new subscribers to the Herald. See Brother Pritchard's report for other evidences of life at Asheboro.

—First Sunday in December will be Every-Member Day at Calvary church. Effort will be made to have every member present and members of the church will speak briefly on assigned topics.

Woman's Missionary Department

Miss Esther Ross, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

S. O. S. CALL FOR PINE RIDGE, KENTUCKY

On account of the great and pressing needs at Pine Ridge, Kentucky, the Central Committee of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, decided at a meeting in Baltimore, to acquaint our people with facts which are burdening the Committee, Dr. and Mrs. Woodford, and their excellent corps of workers.

The new High School building, which was erected last year at an approximate cost of $20,000, one half to be paid last year, the other, with notes payable, at intervals this year, has been completed.

The payments were met last year, but the notes for this year's indebtedness are long past due, and in addition to this running expenses have not been met, consequently there is a heavy indebtedness.

November is Thank Offering month, and we are especially urging that every Methodist Protestant lay aside gifts for Pine Ridge according to God's blessings which have been so lavishly bestowed. Giving for gratitude was an ancient custom, but one worthy of emulation. The work at Pine Ridge has prospered and the general Church can do no greater work for promotion than in standing behind the earnest, consecrated workers who are now burdened on account of insufficent funds with which to carry on the work.

If special emphasis is laid on Thank Offerings by the members of the Societies and all Methodist Protestants, the outstanding obligations due, will be met and the work will go forward with the same degree of success as that which has characterized it in the past.

All money should be sent to the National Treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Gilligan, 3406 Elgin Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland.

(Signed) MRS. A. G. DIXON, President,
MRS. WM. C. HAMMER, Executive Sec.

—In the frozen regions of Siberia mammoths and woolly rhinoceros have been found with the flesh in a good state of preservation. Notwithstanding the fact that these animals lived during the great ice age, perhaps 15,000 years ago, their flesh is still edible. They have been in perfect cold storage all these centuries.

—At Lake Geneva, Wis., the fashionable colony is in the midst of a new fad—elaborate mail boxes. The fad was started by William Wrigley, Jr., who had a small manor erected at his gate. This novel mail box had a green tile roof, doors, windows, chimney and flag pole. The box made such a hit that neighbors took up the idea. This, of course, introduced considerable competition. Now A. G. Fox leads the race with a miniature castle. When the postman has mail to deliver he pulls a latchstring which lets down a draw bridge across the moat formed by a fountain, and hoists a portcullis behind which he deposits the day's mail.

THE JAZZ AGE

Times have changed since we were boys,
And used to go to preaching,
And hear the congregation sing—
But now it's awful screeching.

Quartettes, duets, and solos too,
With every kind of ditty;
And "programs" by the tens and scores,
And "experts" from the city.

We used to sing the gracious hymns
Of Wesley, Watts, and Newton;
But now it's empty folderols,
With see-saw screech and tootin'.

It has to be in walzin' time,
To keep your foot a pattin'—
But no one ever thinks to pray
No more than if 'twere latin.

The pastor used to sing so loud,
As if 'twere rolling thunder;
But now he has to silent be,
And simply sit and wonder!

Of course it's "progress"—up-to-date—
This wondrous screech and crowin';
No doubt we're moving on the way,
But who knows where we're goin'?

We used to sing the good old hymns,
But now we have "selections,"
That jumble, rattle, screech and toot
Like noises at elections.

But shouts of praise and strong amens,
Are scarce as snow in summer;
And if one hap's to say "amen,"
Some look all glum and glummer.

The sound it used to fill the church
Like mighty ocean billows;
But now it's just a little noise
Like birds among the willows.

Or screech and croak, and hoot and toot,
And jingle, jingle, jingle,
As if a china shop had fall'n
Amid the awful wrangle!

It never makes the sinner "feel,"
Nor see the Judgment looming,
No more than any empty sound
Or distant cannon booming.

Devotion is far away
As "Greenland's icy mountains"—
Parade and show, and empty glow,
As midnight's fairy fountains.

O Lord, how long shall all this be?
To thee our souls are crying—
On airy nothings we have fed,
'Till we are surely dying.

J. F. D.

—Premier Stanley M. Bruce of Australia shocked his English auditors at London by declaring emphatically that the British crown and government were wholly in the wrong in the war against the American colonies. He said that if Australia had been a nation then she would have fought beside the American colonial troops. He added, by way of easing the tension his remarks caused, that Australia now enjoys full liberty in the British commonwealth because of the fight the American colonies made. The speech was made at the luncheon of the American chamber of commerce.—The Pathfinder.

Our Children's Home

Mt. Carmel, South Davidson, $13.27; Pine Grove, Children's Recital, Kernersville, $14.20; Kernersville, Children's Recital, $20.13; Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion, $3.30; Fountain Place, Burlington, $11.66; Pleasant Grove Station, $5.66; Bethesda, N. Davidson, $10; Harris $2.50; Bethesda, N. Davidson, $10; Harris Chapel, Vance, .59; Southern Wholesale Co., Greensboro, $10; Rev. Lyman E. Davis, Pittsburgh, Pa., $5; Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Ct., $4.18; Ray Bible class, Graham, $2.05; West Thomasville, $6.16; Bethany, Randolph, $2.75; Mrs. D. T. Gaster, Sunday eggs, $2.10; Shiloh, Randolph, $4.20; Calvary, Greensboro, $20.53; Haw River, $4.70; Lebanon, High Point, $5.30; Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, $6.35; Hickory Ridge, Forsythe, $4.75; Siler City, $4.61; Friendship, N. Davidson, $2; Grace, Greensboro, $14.75; Grace Baraca, Greensboro, $18; Rehoboth, Creswell, $4.

Minneola Manufacturing Co., Burlington, 112 yards of outings.

We wish for all contributors to this Home a pleasant Thanksgiving occasion.

The annual bazaar at the Home will occur on Friday, December 10th. Look for more information later on.

Notice

All persons who wish to be duly credited for their contributions to this institution, will please state the kind of offering, whether it is, monthly, Thanksgiving, Birthday, or otherwise, also give name of church, circuit, or station. Please don't forget this request.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Superintendent.

—The Rev. S. K. Spahr, D. D., now pastor of our Greensboro, North Carolina, Church, was called to the pulpit of Plymouth Church in 1881. Dr. Spahr followed Dr. Mark B. Taylor who was accustomed to reading his sermons from manuscript. Inosmuch as the students and members of the faculty of the College attended the services, Dr. Spahr was advised to follow the example of his predecessor. Dr. Spahr felt this was a bondage from which he must free himself, after he had tried the experiment for a year. At the end of that time he began to preach somewhat without the help of his manuscript. His efforts in this respect were regarded by some as a dangerous experiment and precedent. Today we find most folks offended at even the appearance of the manuscript in the pulpit. The word of the preacher ought to be a word out of his personal life of study, devotion, and practical experience. It should be prepared with great care—written out in full and as carefully as though life and death depended upon the exactness of expression. Beyond that, no one cares today whether it was first written like the letters of St. Paul or declared as by Elijah and Elisha.—A Book of Remembrance.

—Brother B. M. Williams began his campaign for the Herald immediately after Conference and has results every week. In fact, he is a year-round canvasser for the Herald and always increases the number of subscribers on his charge.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Lincolnton.—Last Sunday we had 130 in Sunday school while we have only 140 on roll now; but our standard for this year is 200 average attendance. After the jarr of former years we are getting down to a spot cost business, cleaning our church register of "the chaff which the wind driveth away."

The Evangelistic Club is laying plans for three campaigns that will mean much toward building up the church.

We are expecting Brother N. G. Bethea to conduct a revival for us in Lincolnton church at an early date. Pray for this meeting.

We are comtemplating that this will be the greatest year for Lincolnton.

Many thanks to the Lincolnton people for the fine suit of clothes that was given to the pastor. May God bless you all.

I wish to extend my thanks to Mr. F. L. Barnard, 746 Percy Street, Greensboro, N. C., for their kindness and hospitality while in their home during conference.

W. L. CARSON.

Bessemer City.—This church did something last year that no other church in the denomination ever did so far as I know.

This church paid four ministers last year: Revs. D. M. Loy, C. E. Phillips, E. A. Bingham, former pastor, W. L. Carson in full.

Bessemer City seemed at the beginning of last year to be on the lagging list but she is putting on a program that will mean one hundred percent organized.

Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion Circuit.—We are pleased so much to have Rev. A. L. Hunter come back to us again this year.

Brother Hunter delivered a very helpful and inspiring sermon last Sunday morning at the regular hour.

Our Sunday School is not at all what it should be. We are hoping to enlarge our attendance.

First quarterly conference will convene on Saturday before the third Sunday in December at Pinnacle church. Hour 1:30 p.m.

Good luck and best wishes to everybody.

OPAL HARVEY, Reporter.

Creswell Circuit, Rehoboth Church.—Pastor Hethcox held services at Rehoboth church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the usual service hour. We are glad to know that he is with us for the coming year.

He has been on our circuit for eight years and has been the most sincere worker and is liked by all denominations of Washington county. Visitors that attended the N. C. M. P. Conference at Greensboro are Mrs. Pattie Spruill, Miss Mary Spruill, daughter of Mrs. Spruill, Mr. Guilford Davenport, Mr. Tom Curles, are from Rehoboth Church, Miss Matilda Alexander of Creswell church. The first quarterly conference was held at Woodleys Chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Quite a number of members from Rehoboth attended.

Officers were elected for the coming new year, 1927. Also the most interesting report was from the conference. Visitors. Miss Matilda Alexander, of Creswell, gave an address. She brought back a wonderful message from the wide awake conference leaders and workers from different parts of the State.

The visit at the college at High Point, and the Children's Home. Miss Alexander spoke of the boys and girls in the Orphanage and what the Superintendent and matrons were doing to bring up these great boys and girls. Our great wish is the coming year for them to be one of happiest and most successful one for 1927. MISS EVA V. WHITE.

Second Church, Charlotte.—Conference has come and gone and I feel like it was a great conference. Some of us have been returned to our old fields to help our dear people to complete the work that we had started with them in the past and plan to do greater work in the future.

The past year brought us many good things. We had good crops and we took care of the good crops, which was right. But did we all use all the God-given opportunities 1926 brought us to help humanity and glorify God?

No living person knows what the future holds for any of us. The only thing I know for us all to do is to live in a way to be ready to meet whatever may come. Since I reached home from Conference other dark shadows have fallen across my path. On Wednesday evening about six o'clock I answered the phone bell. And I received news that Mr. J. T. Braswell's wife and daughter were almost killed in an automobile wreck. I left for Hamlet next morning. On reaching Dr. James' Hospital at Hamlet I found my son's wife in a dying condition. And Cora, his youngest daughter, almost killed. I remained with them all day and night. And when I reached home Thursday evening, I found Mrs. F. C. Garmon, my daughter that has been here waiting on her mother for months, had a stroke, and we had to send her home. And the girls are with their mother waiting on her. It has not been but a few weeks since we had to send Lyda L. A. to the hospital for an operation. I am left here alone with a helpless wife on hand, she without any mind. I have secured a nice woman to stay here for a while. But if you could steal in here at night and hear my poor wife beg for daughter to come back home, you would feel sorry for me and her both. It is hard to bear. I have no words to express my feelings in the matter. Our daughter has moved in with us twice before to help her mother. But I think unless God intervens dear Fannie has gone out to stay. I have never seen a mother and daughter more attached to each other than Fannie and her mother. And I have never seen a child more loyal to a sick mother than Fannie has been to her helpless mother. Her ears have ever been open to the groans and calls of her mother. Her hands have ever been ready to help to lift her helpless mother in and out of the bed. Her eyes have ever been open to see the movings of that dear old weeping mother. I reckon she has brushed back those gray locks a thousand time. She has spoken a thousand words of comfort to her mother, and wiped away many tears from her mother's eyes. She has been my helper by day and by night. She has made it possible for me to go and preach nearly three years. But Fannie has gone out I fear to stay. Oh how empty home seems. Some things are sadder than death.

Last year was a busy year. I have felt for some time the end was drawing near and I want to be found working when the Master comes. When I went before the Boundary Committee, and asked them to make Charlotte and Spencer two missions Dr. Dixon asked me if I would go back to Charlotte for 1927. I told him without reluctancy I would. And then I asked him if the Church Extension Board could help any and he said they had no money. I said in my heart so deep down in me that none could hear it but One that knows the secrets of all hearts, I will not desert that little loyal band that unanimously asked for my return to them for next year. I said I know that the $300.00 they have promised for next year will not begin to pay my expenses and run my car and board me and pay some one to stay with my wife while I am gone to preach. But I am going back to Charlotte and by the help of God and a faithful few we will build a second Methodist Protestant church in Charlotte. I feel sure that every loyal Methodist Protestant would be glad to know we had a second M. P. C. in Charlotte. Well, we will have it some day. But truly you all want to help us put it there. I can tell you how we can do it easily. Here it is, let every one pay something on the pastor's salary so he will not be hampered. And everyone that can spare a little on the lot to pay off the debt, and let us go into the Building and Loan and build a nice little church and we will all rejoice together when it is done. Three good brothers have already said: Brother Braswell, we will help you at Charlotte. One good sister said Brother Braswell, I will give you five dollars on your salary, she said you cannot live on $300. I know I can not work many more years, but I do want to build one more nice church and get a live working society in it.

I am praying that this may be the best year in the history of our church in the past. I am sorry that I have been able to do but little for our High Point College. I do hope I can pay my pledge some day or get some one else to pay it for me. My expense has been very great for the past four years, and you all know that I have had no work that was able to pay me anything like a living. I am owing my dear daughter $450.00 for staying here and waiting on her mother. And I must pay it because she needs it. I am trying to sell my property to pay my debts. But I feel sure no one would want me to sell my home from under a helpless companion before we are ready to go home to heaven. I was at Charlotte Sunday 11a.m. It was a good day. We had 61 present in Sunday school.

May our Father bless the entire conference. If all our boys and girls and all the fathers and mothers that can will plant something extra the price of which is to be given to the High Point College and every Methodist Protestant will only give what they can give the debt on the College can be paid off by the next Annual Conference, and we can have a Jubilee Conference. Brethren, pray for us, we need your prayers. I have thought of Job many times in the past four years. And I am praying to the same God that Jobe prayed to. And I am sure we still have some of Eliphaz and Bildad and Zophar. I thank God for what I read in the 42 chapter of Jobe, from the 10-17, be sure to read the 11 verse. Oh I do thank God he does not forget His children when they are down and out. Thank God for Christian friends, Brethren, you will not forget us now.

Yours in His name. D. A. BRASWELL.

New Hope, Why Not Circuit.—Our pastor preached a good sermon last Sunday. We are glad to have Brother Garner back with us again this year, and hope much good will be accomplished.

We were glad to have as visitors Sunday Mr. E. C. Durham, of Leaksville, and Mr. S. C. Stuart, of Burlington.

New teachers were elected at the Sunday school hour or rather most of the old ones were re-elected.

Sunday afternoon a Sunday school institute was held at our church but owing to the cold cloudy weather and for various reasons not very many were present.

We were glad to have Mr. E. C. Williamson, county president, of Liberty, also Messrs Lee Kearns and Wiley Ward of Asheboro with us; all are great Sunday school workers. We enjoyed very much their talks on the Sunday school work and we believe more interest will be taken in the Institute next year.

Since writing before we have lost one of our older members by death. Brother Thomas Williams will be missed at home and at church also.

Our oldest member, Brother J. T. Williams, has been very sick but we are glad to say he is improving slowly.

We are planning to have a Christmas tree and a short exercise by the children Christmas Day. REPORTER.

Pleasant Grove.—Our work for the new conference year has started off very satisfactorily. Mrs. B. E. Kennedy, Mrs. W. T. Kennedy and Mrs. I. W. Burton have been kept from church services because of sickness. We hope this will not long continue.

A Thanksgiving service will be held at the church Thanksgiving day at 11 a.m. So far as we can learn this will be the first Thanksgiving service ever held in this church on Thanksgiving day. Last Sunday at 11 a.m. Rev. N. G. Bethea, pastor of State Street church, Lexington, lectured on his travels in the Holy Land. This was greatly enjoyed by our people. Because of a death in the community and some sickness, the congregation was not as large as usual. Our people will be glad to have Brother Bethea come this way again.

Mr. Braxton, a young ministerial student at the college, has consented to lead our young people in C. E. work this year. We are very glad, indeed, to have him do this and feel that he will accomplish great good among our young people.

Our Workers' Conference met last Wednesday evening and was well attended. Mrs. L. F. Honeycutt was elected Director of the Christmas program. Mrs. R. J. Kennedy, Mrs. J. R. Meredith, and Mrs. Reynolds, were selected to arrange a short program for the small children.

Brother Hubert Payne, Forris Avenue, High Point, has been in bed with typhoid fever for several weeks. He is now able to sit up and soon we hope to see him and his good wife at church again.

Since conference we have received many substantial gifts. For these we wish to thank Brothers B. E. Payne, Hubert Robbins, B. E. Kennedy, and J. Maynard Kennedy. These gifts are highly appreciated not only for their monetary value, but most of all the good spirit that prompted the giving. Just before conference we received many valuable gifts which greatly reduced our grocery bills. Many, many thanks for all these acts of kindness and love. We are very happy in the enjoyment of the privilege of serving these good people for the fourth year.

GEORGE L. REYNOLDS.

Tabernacle, Tabernacle Charge.—Church service and Sunday school were well attended here Sunday. Our pastor, for the coming year, Rev. W. F. Ashburn, preached a splendid sermon. This is the second time Brother Ashburn has preached to us since conference.

As this charge has been divided we will have preaching at eleven o'clock first, second, and fourth Sundays and at three o'clock third Sundays.

Our church and Sunday school are moving along nicely. Much interest is shown in both.

Two nice new heaters have been placed in the church and other improvements have been made, recently.

Sunday school has been reorganized for the coming year. Purvis Neese was reelected superintendent. Some of our new officers are Miss Kate Garrett, pianist, and T. B. Reynolds, choir leader.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Neese of High Point worship with us Sunday.

The W. H. and F. M. S. will meet with Mrs. A. A. Garrett next Saturday afternoon, two o'clock. It is earnestly desired that every member be present. We are always glad to have visitors.

MRS. R. R. HORNEY, Reporter.

Dulin's, Mocksville Charge.—As we have not yet elected a reporter I will still report for a while. We are indeed glad that conference sent our same pastor back to us for another year. He has served this charge splendidly for the past three years. He has done some splendid work to build up this charge.

He filled his regularly appointment yesterday for the first time since conference with an excellent sermon which I feel sure was beneficial to both old and young.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely with E. C. Hendrix superintendent, a young man who has served for more than six years. We are also planning to have a Christmas tree.

Arrangements are being made to get a new roof on the church; after this is done we hope to paint inside.

Best wishes to Herald and its readers.

LEONA HENDRIX, Reporter.

Friendship, to South Lexington.—As I have left Friendship after a five years pleasant sojourn among this kind people, I wish in this way to express my appreciation of the kindness and cooperation of the good people of that church, and many other good friends we left. Some progress has been made, but somehow as I look back over the period spent here I feel that we might have as easily done bigger things if I, as pastor, had suggested and led out into broader fields of activity.

It is my earnest desire and confident expectation that they will go on to still better things and larger activities under the new pastorate, while I take up, to me, new duties in another field. I am glad to find the good people of Lexington so ready to cooperate and want to do something. If I sense aright the spirit of the people here at Lexington, it is to progress. May the good Lord use me to help them in every way to higher things. It is my purpose to keep up, if I can, to cooperate if I may, to do my best. And I hope that my best now may be better than my best at any time in the past. Our first services of the new conference year were held yesterday in South Lexington church. All details for beginning the year with this dear people were in perfect readiness and the day was marked by a hopeful and progressive spirit. Large congregations were present morning and night. May the dear Lord abundantly bless all of our work and workers. A. RIDGE. Pastor.

High Point.—The associate pastor, Rev. E. Lester Ballard, has been elected Superintendent of the Sabbath school in place of Mr. Richard H. Shaw, who resigned after 10 years of efficient and faithful service in that position. Mr. Ballard took charge on last Sunday morning for the first time. It is with the greatest regret that we give up Mr. Shaw; he has succeeded in building up one of the very best schools in the city, and it now has an enrollment of more than 500 with an average attendance of 300.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock the service was conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society in observance of "Dixie Endeavor Day." The members of the Society occupied seats in the pulpit, and Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Clark, and other executives of Christian Endeavor were impersonated by some of the members of the Society, who delivered appropriate talks. A number of prayers and talks on World Fellowship and World-wide Peace were made. Rev. Mr. Ballard made an interesting talk on "What C. E. has meant to me." A number of girls and young men dressed in Oriental costumes entered and sang. Afterward they took up the collection. Altogether, it was a most pleasing program and well rendered.

On Monday afternoon the Mission Study Class held an interesting session at the church with a good attendance. Mrs. S. S. Coe conducted the Devotionals from the "Rose Jar," and Mrs. C. L. Whitaker gave the second chapter of "Moslem Women," and was assisted in the discussion by Mrs. R. M. Andrews, Mrs. J. H. Allred, Mrs. E. L. Douglas, and Mrs. R. T. Pickens. Our new pastor, Mr. Ballard, then told us in a most interesting way about the Moslem women whom he saw in Algeria, Egypt, Holy Land, and Turkey on his recent trip to the Orient, all of which made the women present feel most grateful that we live in Christian America, a land of Bibles, where womanhood and especially motherhood is so highly honored. Current Events in the Home Society were given by Mrs. J. H. Pritchard, and the Question Box was answered by Mrs. R. M. Andrews, Mrs. H. A. Garrett, and Mrs. E. L. Ballard. Announcement of the annual Thanksgiving service observed by the Woman's Missionary Society on next Sunday evening, November 28th, was made. A program of songs and recitations will be presented by a group of boys and girls from the Children's Home, and every one is asked and urged to contribute the amount of one day's wages or income to this appeal of helpless, innocent childhood. Rev. Mr. Ballard then sang "The Garden of Prayer" very beautifully.

On Tuesday evening an informal Reception will be tendered by the Ladies' Aid Society at the church in compliment to the new pastors, Rev. P. E. Lindley and Rev. E. L. Ballard and their wives. All members of the church are cordially invited to be present on this occasion.

On Wednesday evening the first quarterly conference of the new year, will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the church, and all official members are urged to be present.

High Point College students will be granted leave of absence from class work for only one day, Thursday, for Thanksgiving. Many who live near by, will go home for their turkey, while others who remain at the College will be served a bountiful dinner with turkey and all the "fixins." A number of the students will attend foot-ball games at the different colleges in the state. In the afternoon the girls who remain in the dormitory will be hostesses to the children from the Home at a little party.

At a recent monthly meeting of the Juniors of the College plans for the erection of a Memorial gate on the campus were discussed, and a ways and means committee to raise funds was appointed. Class rings have been ordered, and are expected to arrive soon.

Plans for the first Annual of the College to be published next spring are being formulated, and a number of photographs of buildings and scenes on the campus, various clubs and groups, and individual members of the student body, have already been made. Prospects are very flattering for a creditable Annual, which will rank with the best from the other colleges of N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Douglas and family have moved to their handsome new home on Montlieu Avenue.

We are sorry to note the misfortune of Mrs. W. F. McCanless, wife of Prof. McCanless, of the College Faculty, who fell down a stairway and broke her arm, but we are glad to hear that it is mending satisfactorily.

Miss Blanche Armfield a Senior at N. C. College for Women, Greensboro, was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. R. T. Pickens, last Sunday. Miss Armfield is editor of the College magazine, and will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., early in December to attend a Convention of College Press representatives from leading colleges of all parts of the United States.

Rupert T. Pickens, Jr., who is studying Law at our State University, will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Welch, Jr., are building an attractive new residence on the Greensboro-High Point Highway near Jamestown.

We are pleased to learn that the condition of Mrs. E. G. Lowdermilk, who has been ill, is much improved, and she has returned to the Home from her mother's in Greensboro.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard are now domiciled in the parsonage on N. Main St., where they will be very pleased to see the members of the church and other friends.

We regret very much to note the passing of Mr. James H. Petty, one of the best and most upright citizens of High Point. He died quite suddenly in his sleep in the early hours of the morning of November 16th, and Mrs. Petty awoke to find his lifeless body by her side. Mr. and Mrs. Petty lived next door to our old church for nearly 25 years, and although he was a leading member and deacon in the Baptist church across the street, he and his good wife frequently attended services in our church, and often expressed great sympathy and interest in all our plans and undertakings. We feel the loss of this gentle, quiet, faithful man very keenly, and know that in his passing our congregation has indeed been bereft of a true friend. His pastor, Dr. L. T. Wilson, who was attending the Baptist State Convention in Wilmington, was called home to conduct funeral services in the First Baptist church last Thursday afternoon. These services were largely attended, and Dr. Wilson paid high tribute in an impressive sermon to the fine, splendid Christian gentleman that he was. He was universally popular in High Point, where he had lived for 31 years, and counted his friends by the hundreds among all classes and in all walks of life. Much sympathy is extended to his splendid wife and daughter, Mrs. Richard Hudson of Franklin, N. C., in this sad bereavement, and may they be assured in this hour of trial of the Eternal Presence, feeling that "underneath are the Everlasting Arms."

Mizpah.—The Mizpah Philathea class held its regular meeting at church Sunday, November 14th.

The class was called to order by vice-president, Mrs. M. T. Wagoner, minutes read and roll called by secretary, Miss Ruth Hill. As there were no discussions to bring before the class, the meeting adjourned to meet again in December.

REPORTER.

Asheboro.—The work of the new Conference year is starting off nicely and we are hoping for the best year yet. The new carpet and the new pews were used for the first time the first Sunday of the new conference year and MY! what an improvement. The pews are both beautiful and comfortable and the carpet does away with practically all the noise. Then, too, putting in the pews and carpet has taken out of the auditorium the hollow ring that had been so objectionable.

Recently Brother J. D. Ross proposed to our Sunday school that if the school would raise $30.00 each month for our Children's Home he would raise twenty more on the outside or pay it himself. The classes in the school were asked to see how much they could get pledged as a monthly contribution. Today it was announced that the classes had pledged a little more than $36.00 a month, so hereafter we expect to be sending a check to the Children's Home each month for $56.00 instead of about $15.00.

The pastor started the canvass for the church papers the past week. Out of the first fourteen families seen, twelve subscriptions were taken and there are prospects of getting the other two yet.

We hope to finish the campaign this week.

At the evening service last Sunday a beautiful and touching pageant was given, entitled, "The Canton Pearls." Miss Esther Ross directed the pageant and the parts were well taken. A profound impression was made.

The Annual Union Thanksgiving service for Asheboro will be held in our church Thursday morning with a sermon by Rev. B. C. Reavis of the M. E. church, South.

The children from the Children's Home will be with us next Sunday morning.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Henderson.—We, the church of Henderson, wish to thank the annual conference for returning to us our pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter. He and his family have been with us only one year, yet in that time we have learned to love them and feel that by their untiring efforts great good has been done in our church, and we are hoping and praying for greater things in the future. A splendid congregation welcomed Mr. Hunter at his first sermon Sunday morning, November 14th, and the new conference year started with bright and encouraging prospects.

The young Ladies' League met Thursday night at the home of Miss Lucy Taylor, with a good attendance. After the regular business session the Annual Bazaar committee announced that they would hold the bazaar on December 2nd. A very interesting and instructive program was then given by Miss Agnes Harris, taken from the Lewis handbook, on "The Methodist Protestant Church." The guests for the evening were Mrs. Henry T. Powell and Mrs. Taylor of Burlington.

At the Sunday morning services, November 20th, two special talks were given by Mr. Jasper B. Hicks and Mr. Edison T. Hicks in regards to the financial attitude of church members toward their church.

It was announced that the board of stewards would be at the church Sunday afternoon and all members urged to come and make their pledge for the budget.

A special meeting of the Christian Endeavor is to be held Friday night at the church. A program is being prepared and it is hoped that a large number of young people will attend.

The Philathea and Baraca classes collected a large quanity of provisions and over ten dollars in money to be given to a needy family for Thanksgiving.

Much progress and interest is being shown in our church in general and we are praying constantly for more of the true spirit of our Lord and Master.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH.

West Lexington, South Lexington Charge.—Last Sunday was a good day for the West Lexington church and Sunday school. There were 164 persons in Sunday school, which is said to be the largest attendance in the history of the Sunday school.

Rev. Atlas Ridge, our new pastor, arrived on Thursday evening of last week and preached his first sermon last Sunday morning to a large congregation. The church was nearly filled with seemingly interested listeners. Pastor Ridge entered into the work of his new pastorate with keen interest, and he seemed at his best in the pulpit in the delivery of his first message. The text was one of the familiar utterances of the Apostle Paul, taken from Philippians 1:21, "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." The chief thought of the sermon was that the ideals of Christianity are high, and every member of the church should have high aims in the work of God's Kingdom.

A large congregation gathered again for the night service and Brother Ridge again delivered a helpful and inspiring Gospel message, his text being Matt. 25:13: "Be ye also ready, for in an hour that ye think not, the Son of Man cometh." The parable of the ten virgins who went out to meet the bridegroom formed the basis of the discussion.

The meeting of the first quarterly conference was announced for Saturday afternoon before the first Sunday in December in West Lexington church at 2 o'clock. We are expecting a good attendance of the officials and members of both churches.

Rev. M. Ivey Crutchfield, our former pastor, spent a few days the first of this week with friends in Lexington, spending some time in the home of this writer. He was on his way to his new charge in South Carolina. He is to serve the Anderson Charge, which is composed of two of our strongest churches in South Carolina. His address will probably be Greer, S. C. We were delighted to have him back with us for a few days, and wish for him much success in his new field of labor during the coming year.

C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Pilot Church—Our pastor, Rev. A. L. Hunter, filled his appointment Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was not a very large crowd present owing to the rough weather, but it is needless to say that we are very glad to have Brother Hunter with us again this year. He has been with us so long that it would seem a great loss to give him up. He gave us a splendid message Sunday.

The offering was taken as a thank-offering for the Children's Home.

Hoping this will be a successful year.

MRS. P. L. ASHBURN, Reporter.

Beulah, Mecklenburg Charge—This is the beginning of a new Conference year. We regret very much losing our beloved pastor, Rev. Robert Short, but we feel very fortunate in having Rev. Mr. Totten as our pastor this year. We trust that he will serve us as faithfully as our former pastor has.

Brother Totten came unexpectedly to preach for us on the second Sunday evening. He gave us a very beneficial message. He left a good impression with the people that heard him speak. Brother Totten has his whole heart in the work and we are sure that we could not have gotten anyone who would put his whole self in the work any better than Brother Totten.

Our Sunday school is good considering everything. This church is located near several other churches. We have seven officers and teachers with an attendance of about 50. The collections are good.

The Sunday school hopes to give the Christmas program that is published by our Conference, combined with a Christmas tree.

EYELYN SCHELL, Reporter.

NOTICE

To the members of South Lexington church. The first quarterly conference will meet at South Lexington church Saturday before the first Sunday in December, 2 p.m. All officials please come and let's plan for the new work.

A. RIDGE, PASTOR.

—Next Sunday morning Calvary church's official members will be formally installed.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Dorsett

Pharaoh Gray Dorsett was born May 17, 1881, in Davidson county, N. C. On May 10, 1913, he was happily married to Miss Sarah Pierce. To this union there were born two sons, Vernon, and Eckhomer. Brother Dorsett's wife preceded him to the spirit world more than two years ago.

It was during a revival conducted by Rev. Edward Suits in old Mt. Carmel Methodist Protestant church that Brother Dorsett gave his heart and life to Jesus and united with the church. Shortly after moving to Thomasville and under the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Pritchard, he transfered his membership to the First Methodist Protestant church, of which he remained a member until his death.

From the very beginning of his religious life, he was active in the church work. He has served in some official capacity for a number of years. And he served well. At the time of his death he was a member of the newly elected board of stewards of his church. The last public act of his life was to attend the meeting which laid the plans for the Every Member Canvass, and before he had completed his canvass, he was stricken down, and had to take his bed.

His life was one of those quiet unassuming, peaceful and patient ones. During the long illness of his wife, he was never heard to murmur or complain, and after having made the long weary trip from Denver, Col., where he left her body amid strange surroundings, he was heard to say, "God knew best."

The influence he exerted in the community was always for the best. He was the oldest son, and as his mother made her way down the western slope of life, she found pleasure and joy in leaning on his strong arm. The love that existed between the three Dorsett brothers was unexcelled, and none will miss his companionship and advice as will the younger brothers. His interest in his motherless sons was such as to command the respect and admiration of all those in the community.

And as these boys ripen into young manhood, they will grow to appreciate more and more the goodly heritage the father has left behind for them.

As a church member, it can be truthfully said that he was loyalty incarnate. Every time his official duties called, he was there to answer, and to advise with his brethren. His pew was seldom empty on Sunday morning or evening, and the absent mark was placed but few times opposite his name in the Bible class.

On Monday afternoon, November 8, 1926, he quietly went home to be with the Christ he loved so well and served so faithfuplly, and since—

"Death's but a path that must be trod,
If man would ever pass to God,"

we bow to the will of an Eternal Father who loves us, and who loved him, and acknowledge that it was but right that such a man should be with God.

The funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. R. S. Troxler, at the same altar to which he led many a seeking soul, and the body laid to rest beneath a mound of fragrant flowers in Fair Grove M. E. cemetery, to await the hour when the Great Reunion of the Righteous shall be made.

"Servant of God, well done
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

J. L. TROLLINGER, Pastor.

Knight

William Wesley Knight was born April 21, 1852, and departed this life November 9, 1926. Mr. Knight made a profession of faith early in life and united with the Methodist Protestant church at Union on Halifax charge, where he remained a faithful, consistent member until the end came. His wife preceded him to the grave several years ago, leaving him with the help of the older chil-

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

dren to rear the younger ones. Mr. Knight was always faithful to his church, and church duties and has raised a fine family who are all faithful church members.

He was always kind and cheerful, and during his illness I never heard him complain. He leaves one sister, Mrs. A. McWilliams, of Enfield, R. F. D., and three brothers, Geo. L. Knight of Hollister, N. C., J. H. Knight of Chapel Hill, Texas, and R. M. Knight of Houston, Texas. Daughters, Mrs. J. H. Hux, Mrs. T. A. Smith, Mrs. E. A. Smith, and Mrs. B. A. Whilley, all of Enfield, N. C., R. F. D. One son, W. A. Knight of Rocky Mount, N. C.

The funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Mr. Johnson of the Baptist church, after which he was laid to rest in the family cemetery, beneath a mound of beautiful flowers, to await the resurrection.

May we who remain prepare to meet him, where there will be no sorrow nor separation.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

Perdue

It is with hearts full of sadness that we, the members of the Philathea class of Mizpah M. P. church, record the death of one of our most consecrated and faithful members, Mrs. Jasper Perdue.

In her death we have lost a true friend. One who was faithful in all interests of her church.

Whereas, her death has brought sorrow to her family and her church therefore be it resolved —

First—That we bow in humble submission to His divine will.

Second—That we extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family and commend them to the heavenly Father who does all things well.

Third—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Philathea class, a copy be sent to the Reidsville Review and a copy be sent to the M. P. Herald.

Respectively submitted.

MRS. H. J. JONES,
MRS. S. B. HUFFINES,
PAULINE CROWDER.

—Be not busy in detecting other men's faults.—Cingalese.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian. Third session begins September 7, 1926. Students can now register for the fall semester. A deposit of five dollars insures a room.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

NOTICE

Anyone, layman or minister, who desires to organize a Christian Endeavor Society in his church can get literature on "How to Organize a C. E. Society" free, yes, postpaid even, from the writer of this notice. When writing for literature please state whether it is wanted for a Sr., a Jr., or Int. society. Furthermore, a group of college students will come to your church and give a program if you are in a radius of fifty miles of High Point College: if you live still further away, I can arrange for some C. E. society near you to furnish a program. Address all correspondence to J. Elwood Carroll, High Point College, High Point, N. C.

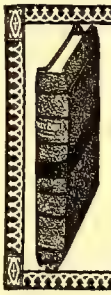
—Otto Wood, sentenced to the penitentiary for 30 years for killing Mr. Kaplan, Greensboro pawn broker, has just escaped from the penitentiary for the third time. It is reported that he has been seen at Winston-Salem.

—We thank Rev. S. W. Taylor and his Burlington people for a remittance of $28.50 on subscription accounts. We also thank all others who have remitted any amount. Every little or big amount helps.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA



WINSTON-INTERNATIONAL
LOOSE-LEAF BIBLE
A PRACTICAL BIBLE FOR NOTES
Contains over 250 loose-leaf pages for personal notes that may be inserted in any number of pages between any pages in the Bible. Looks like a regular Divinity Circuit bound Bible.
Send for Illustrated Catalog of Bibles
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Publishers
American Bible Headquarters
85 WINSTON BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

—During the past year over 200,000 passengers and 112 tons of freight were carried by air. These figures are for the United States only. Europe's airways carried more.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER — EVEN CHRIST — AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., DECEMBER 2, 1926 NUMBER 4

The Outer Darkness and the Interior Light

The recorded addresses of Jesus abound in striking figures of speech. What could be more striking than "the outer darkness where shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth?" This is always in contrast with the interior light of some festal gathering where joy abounds and happiness is enjoyed by all.

What does Jesus mean by the strong contrast He draws?

Evidently He is portraying the difference of destiny between two classes of men. He is showing that life may lead to glorious privilege or it may result in grievous and maddening disappointment. The outer darkness is not a thing prepared as a condition of punishment. It is simply the absence of any provision for the wants of men. The interior light is an end aimed at and secured by very careful and costly provision. The splendid banquet hall exists because there has been a care to provide for the happiness of those for whom it was intended. We cannot say that the outer darkness was prepared with like care for those who are not entitled to the privileges of the splendid hall. The outer darkness is an unprepared place. It was not meant to be a condition of habitation. The purpose was to prepare the place of light and joy for all the sons of men. There was thought for all and there is room for all, but some do not meet the essential conditions of admission, and there is therefore nothing for them to do but remain in the outer darkness.

Jesus' teaching was not only extraordinarily striking, but it was as profound as it was striking. When we can fathom the deeper meaning of the outer darkness and the interior light we will see that there are profound spiritual conditions that must be met by those who will be considered worthy of a place in God's glorious reception hall. Worldly respectability will not qualify. Artistic taste will not be sufficient. All the learning of all the schools will not promote one to that glorious privilege. To enter the gates of supreme privilege in the courts of the Most High there must be the greatest and most difficult achievements of this earth-life, the achievement of self-conquent, and the possession of a humble, contrite spirit of perfect submission and devotion to the All-Righteous and All-Loving One. The proud and the perverse and the self-willed cannot enter there. For them there is only the "outer darkness."

—Automobile accidents and crimes and criminal lawsuits are largely filling up the papers these days. Carelessness and criminal recklessness and criminal aggression are altogether too prevalent. We need to do all we can do to bring in a different atmosphere. There is needed more respect for human life and more regard for divine law.

—In the passing of O. F. Crowson Burlington loses one of her most prominent and most enterprising citizens. He died of kidney trouble in a Charlotte hospital.

Where the Wonder Is

We have received a long article from an esteemed brother which he requests us to publish provided we will not omit any of it and furthermore provided that we will not reveal his name. This brother is really a good man, we believe, but we suspect that he has without being aware of it formed a querulous habit of mind. Possibly his liver is not functioning properly. He sees through a glass darkly. His vision is tinged with dark blue. He sees evil where no evil is. In his article he indulges in wholesale reflections upon the people. Some of the faults he points out are perhaps real, but little or nothing can be done about them and it would be better to ignore them than to call attention to them. It may be that this brother has found real relief to his mind by expressing himself thus on paper, but we wish he had remembered and heeded Lincoln's advice to a man who read to the President a very denunciatory letter. "That's fine," said Lincoln; "you have cut him to pieces as he deserves." "Would you mail it to him just as I have written it?" asked the man. "O, no," said Lincoln, "don't mail it, burn it up. You have relieved your mind, which was the principal thing, now let it go at that." We do not wonder that our brother does not wish his name to appear at the end or the beginning of the article. The only wonder to us is that a man with so little faith in other people could have had faith enough in us to expect that we would publish the article.

Unduly Sensitive as to Size

Most people are more sensitive as to physical defects than they are as to moral deficiencies. Speak of their moral dereliction and they will laugh at you. But speak of their smallness or largeness or homeliness and they will resent it as an insult. Some time ago a man of national reputation as a speaker, a representative of the Christian Endeavor movement, was introduced for a speech in Greensboro. He is a man that weighs well over 200 pounds. Nothing was said about his size in introducing him, but he was expecting some reference to his physical bigness and in his very first utterance he revealed his resentment to references of that kind, saying they usually came from people physically much under par. Recently another speaker was introduced in Greensboro. He is a man somewhat under the average size, and the man who introduced him, himself of about the same size, made a good-natured reference to the size of both of them. The speaker replied by saying that when it became necessary to apologize for his diminutiveness, he preferred to do the apologizing.

—Rev. L. W. Gerringer was called to attend the funeral of Mrs. E. U. Cox at Providence on Tuesday. Her husband is a brother of our J. A. Cox of Calvary church. The same day Brother Gerringer assisted in the funeral of Richard A. Freeman, of the Christian Church.

THE MINISTER WITHOUT A SERMON

Susie Potter Hesse

A man walked with steady stride through streets deserted and still. An occasional officer stopped to give him a quick, keen look—then, reassured, resumed his measured beat. With head lowered, the man went on seemingly unconscious of time or place. At length he paused beneath a light and consulted his watch. It was exactly three o'clock. Three o'clock and Sunday morning, he thought, smiling strangely.

For a moment he looked up at the wondering stars. Often those beckoning lights had led his soul into the realm where the clatter of the world no longer hushes the voice of God. Tonight he had come from an experience which had for an hour swung eternity's door far back—and now he seemed to catch celestial strains behind those glowing portals.

Another moment and he had turned in at his own gateway and let himself into a silent, sleeping house. He crept to his study and closed the door softly behind him, then stood pondering. Curiously he fingered some paper lying upon his desk—the rough sketch of a sermon begun early in the week. Eons ago it seemed, and now he could recall little of what he had planned to write. In a few short hours he, Rev. Stanley Haydn, must preach to one of the most fastidious audiences in the city—and he had no sermon. Moreover, for three days and nights he had had almost no sleep. What should he do?

There was Miss Hilton, who would sit as usual in a front pew, stiff and critical, looking for the choicest rhetoric. Now it crossed his mind how much her approval had meant to him —how he had spent hours polishing and repolishing his diction in order that she might declare it flawless.

Near her would be Elmer Horton, a young writer of some promise. He would sit with note-book and pencil in hand prepared to catch felicitous phrases. Yes, Stanley Haydn knew that the Sunday which brought no complimentary words from Elmer at the close of the discourse was set down in his own mind as a failure.

Through half-closed eyes, Brother Guild would weigh the preacher's arguments and consider his theology. His was the heaviest pocketbook in the parish—and he demanded a sound and scholarly sermon.

Unquestionably there were weighty reasons why he, the pastor of such a church, should devote the remainder of the night to preparation for the morning's service—but there was just one convincing argument against this procedure. He was in no mood to pamper the appetites of literary or doctrinal enthusiasts, however respectable their hunger might be. Tonight he yearned mightily to give his hearers the Bread of Life. Fresh from the vision of Heaven that had been granted him, the things he could say needed no careful couching in fine phrases. He dropped upon his knees and prayed—prayed that he might be more worthy to handle that Bread of Life and to break it for his people.

Then he penned hastily a note asking that in the morning he be left undisturbed. After that he slept—slept until the church bells told him that in another hour and a half he must stand in his pulpit. Without haste he dressed, and drank his usual Sunday morning milk. An unaccustomed calm possessed him. His subconscious mind knew that he had no sermon for his congregation, but the fact left him undisturbed. Finally, he avoided the main thoroughfare leading to the church building and went in through a rear entrance. This morning there was no joy in striding a bit pompously through the throngs as if to advertise himself as the popular pastor of the city's richest church. Humility and a sense of his divine calling possessed him. Never before had he stepped into his pulpit with so little conscious preparation for his task, but never before had he felt so well prepared to perform it.

Was there indeed a deeper reverence in the pews; a more solemn hush than usual, or was it but the reaction of his own spirit in communion with the Infinite? Very quietly he stepped to the desk as the notes of the last anthem faded into silence. Slowly he announced that he stood before them with no text and no sermon.

"Malcolm Kendall is dead," he went on after a pause. A stir through the crowd of listeners—a catching of the breath—almost a moan—then a terrible stillness.

"Did I say dead? That was wrong. He is gloriously alive—transferred, promoted to tasks bigger than we had planned for him here. For the greater part of the last three days and nights," the preacher continued, "I sat by his hospital bed. In his brief life he taught many of you how to live. Now he has taught me how to die—no, how to embark on that mysterious voyage from shore to shore. In the midst of pain and weakness, he saw the Father with clear eyes. 'Tell the folks,' he said, 'that I send them a message of confidence and assurance. If any of them are bothered about life, tell them there will be no perplexities when they lie where I am lying now—that if they've taken God on trust through the years, they'll see Him face to face in this hour—even before the thin veil of separation is wholly gone. Tell them I know whom I have believed."

Then the preacher continued: "There are times when we need neither proof nor calculation to assure us of God's immanence; of His relation to us as a Great Father of love; of his ability and intention to take care of us. Such a time came to me in the hours spent beside the one who was close to the border-land. Creed and opinion grew insignificant in comparison to the declaration—not to be controverted—of that inner self which has been made in the image of God."

It was this conviction, undeniable and satisfying, which Stanley Haydn tried to make the possession of his hearers. In humility he spoke, but with the power of an intense earnestness. The end of the service did not bring the usual chatter and confusion. Miss Hilton, with tear-filled eyes, spoke in low tones as she went out, "Thank you. I needed a message like that." Mr. Haydn looked after her, amazed—he had thought she listened only to fine rhetoric! Elmer Horton pressed his hand and said soberly, "I can write a better story now."

Brother Guild, to be sure, passed him by without a word, and certain others appeared bored. But what of that? This morning it was not a personal matter. Another time he might do them good.

Succeeding days brought new surprises. It was an outstanding week in Stanley Haydn's ministry. Early there came to him a letter. It was from a stranger who had chanced to be in that Sunday morning audience—a woman, broken-hearted, groping after a lost faith. An accident had taken away her only child, and never after had she been able to see through the mist of tears or feel again the old belief in divine love. Life had seemed hopelessly over—and now the Sunday service had brought a new revelation. Just how, she didn't know—but it had come, and she was writing to thank the man who, as God's mouthpiece, had dispelled her doubts and quieted her soul. She knew now that all was right—that the questions she still could not answer might await a greater day. Mr. Haydn thought again of the hours he had spent by Malcolm Kendall's bed—and he, too, knew that all is well with men who take God at His word.

Into his study there came a young man. With a quick squaring of the shoulders he grasped his pastor's hand. "I see it at last," he said exultantly. "I had wanted to be a preacher, but I thought it would take me away from life into creeds and arguments. If it will take me close to folks and give me a chance to draw them close to God, it's what I want. I can sign up for that."

Stanley Haydn, facing preparation for the coming Sabbath—for all future Sabbaths—looked at the question squarely and decided. Not less doctrinal clarity, but a surer picture of the Christ; not poorer rhetoric, but finer whisperings of the Spirit; not fewer masterpieces of eloquence, but more life-bearing messages; not a weaker adherence to the intellectual, but a stronger to the spiritual. —Zion's Herald.

IT ACTIVELY PROPAGATES BIBLE CHRISTIANITY

Luther K. Long

The Michigan Catholic is a paper that aims to enlighten its readers by answering the questions they send in. Here is a question recently asked and answered:

Question—Is it consistent for a Catholic high school teacher to take active part in the Y. W. C. A., and make talks on its works?

Answer—It is inconsistent and wrong for a Catholic to actively assist or associate with the work of the Y. W. C. A. We have nothing against the society as a Protestant organization. It is distinctively Protestant, however, and does not concede that Catholics are Christians. It actively propagates Bible Christianity, which is Protestantism, and a Catholic would be guilty of sin should she aid in such work. The fact that the Y. W. C. A. recently raised the ban against Catholics to a certain extent does not alter the situation.

My impression is that the Y. W. C. A. serves young womanhood without regard to whether the person concerned is Catholic or Protestant. It does not deny that Catholics are Christions. Because "it actively propagates Bible Christianity" every Christian should rejoice in its work.

I recall a young woman who used to attend our Wednesday evening prayer meeting and liked it. She specially enjoyed the testimonies and prayers and hymns—they had nothing like it in her church, so she said. She remained in her church, and was a better Christian, I believe, for her acquaintance with Protestant Christianity. We need more Catholic young women who, like the high school teacher, broadened her life by contact with the Y. W. C. A. Nor would it injure Protestant young people to know something concerning the better side of the Catholic church.

In all ages God has used those who were in earnest. Satan always calls idle men into his service. God calls active and earnest, not indolent men. You remember where Elijah found Elisha: ploughing in the field. Gideon was at the threshing floor. Moses was away in Horeb looking after the sheep. None of these were indolent men; what they did, they did with all their might. We want such men and women nowadays. If we cannot do God's work with all the knowledge we would like, let us at any rate do it with the zeal that God has given us.—Rev. D. L. Moody.

AN ANSWER TO BROTHER DOSIER

In Brother Dosier's article in The Herald of November 18 concerning the "in" in I Tim. 3: 4, 5, as read at the Ordination Service, he asks a question: "Is the error a slip of the printer, proof-reader, copyist, or is it intentional?" He goes on to say that he found the error not only in the reading from the Discipline used at that service, but in the Disciplines of 1912 and 1916. It is quite possible that the error, for it is that, is also in the Discipline of 1920. (I have disposed of all my copies of that issue.) And it is barely possible that it occurs in the first edition of the 1924 Discipline. I do not have a copy of that issue.

Beyond the possibility that the error crept into the earlier Disciplines through oversight of proof-reader, or others, we know that they were poorly edited, which, perhaps, accounts for it.

But the error does not occur in the second edition of the 1924 Discipline. That edition has the passage word for word as in the Authorized Version. So, Brother Dosier may sleep peacefully, provided, of course, that in the future the brother who reads that portion of Scripture in the ordination service, is careful to see that he has the latest issue of the Discipline, which, I feel free to remark, we all ought to have.

C. W. Bates.

EXCELLENT KNOWLEDGE

Philippians 3:9-11: "The excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord."

It is maturity that speaks in these words. Paul was an old campaigner, an erudite scholar, a world traveller and a lover of his fellowmen.

This knowledge is excellent because of its origin. The sources of knowledge are twofold—reflection and experience. It is one thing to know what causes a storm; it is another thing to be in its grasp, tossed like a straw to destruction. Perfect knowledge is the combination of these two.

Paul was proud of his education, but he found in the light of later events that his old knowledge was imperfect—not in depth, but in power. It had made him the wrong kind of man. The origin of his new knowledge was his vision of Christ and the influence of Jesus upon his life. Christianity is not just loyalty to a group of ideas. It is the transference of these ideas into conduct like that recorded in the New Testament.

Think of its nature. Paul's knowledge was not merely the appeal of a new point of view, not a new ethic, but a new relationship between two intelligences. He had found God in Christ.

It came with a certain bold assurance to his mind. He had reached fundamental reality. It challenged his decisions. Jesus has such a place in the moral world that He cannot be ignored.

Its completeness inspired him. Jesus was the end of the law for righteousness. Paul could not think beyond Jesus. He was the limit of spiritual knowledge, and He is still the last word for the soul of man.

The test of a true religion we are told is that it meets all the legitimate needs of the soul, and Paul's religion was experimental. "Christ," he said, "liveth in me."

This knowledge was excellent in its development. It was a new departure in history, delivering humanity from pessimism and materialism. Man was made to live in the spiritual world and to grow up to the heaven of Christ's ideal.

Have we proved the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus, our Lord?—Presbyterian Banner.

The WORK and the WORKERS

The first Sunday after Conference was spent on Vance Circuit, the second at Moriah, and the third at Haw River. As a result of these trips together with a great deal of writing and phoning, I have released Rev. E. G. Cowan from Vance and have appointed him to Yarboroughs; and have released Rev. M. P. Chambliss from Moriah and have appointed him to Vance. Have also released Rev. W. M. Pike from Richland. That Rev. M. I. Crutchfield might give his whole time to Anderson he has been released from Yarboroughs. Rev. Fred R. Love has been appointed pastor of Richland. I am now working through a committee on pulpit supply at Moriah and one at Haw River and hope to have these two points properly supplied at an early date.

Destructive Storm

On this last Sunday after preaching at Haw River we drove out in the Mount Hermon community to see something of the results of the terrific cyclone that swept through that section on Friday evening. The destruction and havoc wrought around the home of Brother George Isley was terrible beyond description. You would have to see it to believe it. His barn, and garage, and chicken house, and wood house were utterly demolished. A number of large trees all around the house were wrenched and broken and prostrated. The Father Himself must have stayed the fury of the wind from demolishing the house. Insurance will replace some of the loss, but Brother Isley's loss even above that will be heavy. We did not get to the home of Brother George Vestal, but were told that the force of the storm was even greater here. His home was blown to pieces, some of the pieces having been carried for more than a mile by the wind. These families were all members of our Mount Hermon church. They should have our prayerful and material sympathy.

The Children's Home

If you have overlooked that Thanskgiving offering for the Home there is yet time to send it. The Home stands in need of it, and will appreciate it.

See the report from Asheboro last week. That was a fine thing Mr. J. D. Ross did when he laid plans whereby that church and Sunday school will be sending to the Home a monthly offering of $56 instead of about $15 heretofore.

This is two of our churches which now send a stated amount per month to the Children's Home. For some time Concord has been sending $25 per month to the Home, and now Asheboro goes them one better by making it $56 per month. There may be others who send stated amounts monthly, but I do not know about it. We need to do better by the Home than we have been doing in recent months. It is my understanding that some of the current bills have not been paid recently. So this Thanksgiving season, and the Christmas season which is so soon to follow should put the Home in good financial shape for the winter.

That Challenge Once More

Remember the challenge to pay the A. C. B. in full within 30 days from the rise of Conference. And also remember that during the week following the second Sunday in December we will publish, in the order in which checks are received by Mr. V. W. Idol, High Point, N. C., a list of the charges which have paid the A. C. B. in full.

Also, please remember that if your charge pays its budgets by the month, one month's payment should be sent to Mr. Idol by that time. We have no desire to break up system; but system properly worked will have at least a month's payment on budgets sent in by December 10.

Appointments

December 1, 7 p. m.—Gibsonville quarterly conference.

December 4, 11 a. m.—Why Not, and 2:30, Randleman quarterly conference.

December 5—Randleman.

December 10, 2 p. m.—Tabernacle quarterly conference.

December 11, 10:30 a. m.—West Thomasville, and 2 p. m., South Lexington quarterly conference.

December 12—State Street, Lexington, opening service.

Faithfully yours in His Service,

A. G. Dixon.

JUDGE ALLEN ADDRESSES WOMEN MINISTERS

Judge Florence E. Allen of the Supreme Court of Ohio addressed the women ministers in the annual Assembly of the International Association of Women Preachers, meeting in the beautiful new Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, November 3-5. Judge Allen spoke of the ethical greatness of the original American ideal of government. Previous governments had founded their right to rule on descent from the gods, divine right of kings, something that left those governing with a right in themselves to rule. But early Americans declared a new thing: that government derived its right to rule from the consent of the governed, that government was established for the purpose of administering justice, that is, that government was created to serve the people rather than that the people were created to serve the government.

But this view of government involves a high ethical ideal, a sense of moral responsibility as related to government, on the part of the people themselves. This a considerable number of early Americans possessed. But this the later generations of Americans have been losing.

Church People As Smugglers

It is not only in regard to the Volstead law that this strange lack of government conscience manifests itself, said Judge Allen. Many who are supposed to be good citizens and even good church members share in the general laxness. They evade their income tax, smuggle in goods, and in various ways show that they have lost the only ethical ideal upon which government can safely rest. Judge Allen, herself a Congregationalist, who is rendering a great ministry in the legal profession in which she holds high place, declared herself honored in being called to address these women engaged in the ministry of Gospel preaching.

Latin Prejudice Breaks Down

South America, where the Latin view of woman's position has always been maintained, recently broke through its settled customs to listen eagerly to the Gospel message from a woman's lips. In Chile, the Argentine, Brazil, and other countries, the Rev. D. Willia Caffrey, who has just returned from a year in South America, found full congregations of both men and women waiting for her. At first the Unions of Evangelical Woman in the different countries, in true Latin fashion, planned for women only to hear her. But as her message gripped them they saw that their husbands and sons needed it as much as they themselves. Some of them were doubtful if the men would come, but their doubts were soon removed.

South America recognizes the true Evangel. Men prominent in the various denominations in the Southern continent urged Miss Caffrey to return to their land for further preaching. Bishop W. F. Oldham, member of the Friendly Council of the Association, did what he could to open doors for Miss Caffrey, but expressed himself as happily surprised at the access given her to the entire people. The women at Cleveland were thrilled as Miss Caffrey, at their urgent request, related to them some of the incidents of her ministry in the southern continent.

The Attitude of Jesus Toward Women

"The historic attitude toward woman has been that she is a creature of her relationships, that is, her position in society is determined by her being the wife, mother, daughter or mistress of some man; the attitude of Jesus toward woman was that she was a person with relationships." This was the central thought of the president's address, given by the Rev. M. Madeline Southard, of Winfield, Kansas, and this is the central thought of a book which is being published by George H. Doran. Miss Southard declared that the attitude of Jesus toward woman was unique. Unlike all other religious teachers He gave no commands concerning woman's duties nor as to treatment that should be given her, but put her on the basis of a common humanity. In an age when the religious leaders said, "Better burn the law than teach it to a woman," He addressed some of His most profound utterances to solitary women, and He resolutely set Himself to combat in men and women themselves the belief that they were intended not to think but simply to serve the thinkers of the race. Miss Southard gave an unusual interpretation of Jesus' attitude toward His own mother. The whole thesis is built up from actual incidents recorded in the Gospels where Jesus dealt with various woman. Bishop Lightfoot was quoted as saying that "To us the large place which women occupy in the Gospels and early Apostolic history seems only natural. To contemporaries it must have appeared in the light of a social revolution."

One of the most interesting sessions of the Assembly was the afternoon given to young women from different schools who are looking toward the ministry and most of whom have already done some preaching. Seven girls, representing five denominations, were the speakers.

The Communion Service

The Rev. Mary A. Lyons, who was the gracious Assembly hostess, said that the ministers of Cleveland of various denominations had engaged in a sacramental service the previous winter which attracted much attention as a unique occasion, but that women ministers instituted such a service three years before, in 1923. This communion service this year was one of great sense of His Presence and of close fellowship.

Women ministers of the following churches were represented on the program of the Assembly: Baptist, Congregationalists, Friends, Disciples of Christ, Christian Church, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, Evangelical, Salvation Army. Even the Episcopal Church was represented by a student in training.

The officers elected for the next year are: The Rev. M. Madeline Southard, Winfield, Kas., president; The Rev. Mary A. Lyons, Cleveland, Ohio, vice-president; The Rev Marie Burr Wilcox, Red Cloud, Nebraska, general secretary; The Rev. Carolyn A. Hosford, Springfield, Mass., recording secretary; The Rev. Ella L. Kroft, Indianapolis, Indiana, treasurer; The Rev. Lulu C. Hunter, Oak Park, Illinois, auditor. The president continues as editor of The Woman's Pulpit, with the Rev. Lucy T. Ayres as assistant editor.

One of the events that the Assembly of Women Preachers has come to look forward to as a part of its annual program is an exposition of Scripture from the original Greek and Hebrew texts by Dr. Lee Anna Starr, of the Methodist Protestant Church. This year the scholarly pastor of the Baptist Church where the Assembly was held had come into the room with his wife, and he was so much interested in Dr. Starr's handling of the Greek that he asked her to speak briefly to several hundred of his members who were meeting later. It is a source of gratification to the other women ministers that Dr. Starr's book, The Bible Status of Women, is meeting with such approval from scholars and laity alike, for they feel that it will do much to remove the prejudice that people have naturally felt against woman's preaching so long as they believed that the sacred Scriptures said certain things as the old translations read. MARIE BURR WILCOX, Sec'y.

DR. F. B. MEYER ON THE THEATER

There are not a few Church members who insist that there is not only no harm in attending the theater, but that there is real profit in it. And now the news comes that the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America is scheming to have the Church and Theater to work together as allies.

Among the eminent Christian ministers of this day none is more noted for his saintliness than Dr. F. B. Meyer, of London, and perhaps none has had a wider opportunity for observation. Therefore, his opinion as to the spiritual helpfulness or harmfulness of any practice ought to carry considerable weight. In a sermon preached a few years ago, Dr. Meyer thus referred to the theater:

"I have never gone to the theater, except when I have been invited to go and pronounce upon the character of some unclean play being put upon the stage. In such instances I have gone, and in co-operation with the papers, have been able to stop the further presentation of the objectionable plays.

"I do not see how a Christian can listen to the dialogues, and witness the scenes in the average theater, any more than I can imagine the returned prodical son asking for a dish of the swine-husks to eat while he was having his dinner on the fatted calf. If I find a child fighting with a dog for a bone, I wonder if the child has been well fed; and so I wonder if Christians are fed with the right kind of spiritual food when I see them running after the theater."—Selected.

—This is a year of great storms. We have been reading of the devastation caused by storms and perhaps felicitating ourselves on the fact that our part of the world is free from them. But a few days ago a tornado dipped down in Alamance county, in the Mount Hermon region, and caused wreck and ruin in a strip half a mile wide and five miles long. The house of George Vestal was in its path. His son-in-law, George Payne, with his wife was in the home at the time. The house was blown down and Mr. Vestal and Mr. Payne were pinned under the timbers so securely that they could not extricate themselves. To add to their distress a fire broke out from the kitchen stove and spread in their direction. Their wives by strenuous effort in removing boards and timbers succeeded in rescuing them before the fire did them any serious injury. We know now that tornadoes may visit our part of the world, and some of us may begin to think about preparing cyclone cellars.

—The death of Mrs. J. W. Reavis, of Vance, is reported.

OUR STORY PAGE

ELSIE TAKES A TRIP

"There," said Elsie as she came out on the porch, "is poor little Paula waiting for me in her carriage? I promised her last night that if she were good and didn't cry, we would take a trip. I forgot all about her, so she must have been there ever since."

Paula stared straight ahead with a fixed pink and white bisque smile. Her yellow hair was towsled and her little blue dress damp from the dew. Elsie promptly took the handle of the carriage and started down the street.

"Never mind," she said soothingly to Paula, "we'll have a nice trip now and lots of adventures."

As she walked along pushing the carriage, she met Annie Howard who lived across the street.

"Where are you going?" asked Annie.

"Oh," returned Elsie, with a very important air, "I'm on my way to London, and I'm nearly there. We have just crossed the ocean and we had a very nice trip, but I can tell that we are getting near to London town because the fogs are so thick."

Annie was plainly disgusted.

"You are the funniest girl I ever saw," she said. "You know perfectly well you haven't come across the ocean. That is only Meadow Brook back there, and besides you walked over a bridge. There isn't a speck of fog anywhere, for the sun is shining, and London is thousands of miles away."

Elsie looked at Annie pleasantly.

"Paula and I are going to see many famous sights today," she remarked quite as though her friend had not spoken. "I think we shall visit the Tower of London, and Westminster Abbey, and see the lords and ladies riding their beautiful saddled horses in Rotten Row. We may even see the King and Queen in a wonderful carriage drawn by coal black horses with outriders on either side sounding trumpets so the crowds will know that royalty is coming. And, of course, there will be a whole group of policemen on white horses, holding up the traffic until the Monarchs go by. Do you want to come along with us?"

Annie shrugged her shoulders.

"I should say not," she retorted. "I'm going up to the candy shop to get an all-day sucker. I've got a penny," and away Annie went.

Elsie walked along and soon came to a house with an open window. Inside stood a little boy practising his violin lesson. The tones were sweet and clear and Elsie loved music, so she stopped to listen.

"I wish I could play like that," said Elsie.

"You could," nodded the boy, "if you practiced hours and hours each week the way I do. I went to Washington last week and played for the President, for they call me the 'Boy Wonder.' It was very nice to meet him and his wife in the White House and to see all the sights in Washington. He thanked me and told me to be careful of my health, so that I could grow up and make my music count in a big way."

"That's splendid," beamed Elsie. "My daddy talks just like that. He says I must eat plenty of vegetables and get lots of sleep and be strong and well if I am to amount to anything. Good-bye, Boy-Who-Played-For-The-President, I'll see you again."

She wheeled Paula on down the street, and suddenly her attention was caught by a low sob. She looked all around but didn't see anyone until she peered down the cellar-way stairs of an empty house.

Sure enough, there was a frightened, lost little baby boy who had wandered or tumbled down there! Elsie was not long rescuing him. She didn't quite know what to do with her "find," for she doubted if her mother would welcome another child. Very soon she met a tall policeman.

"Do you want a baby?" she asked. "I've got one to give away."

The policeman stared.

"I declare," he exclaimed, "that must be the very child the woman is crying about up at the police station right now. Where did you find him?"

Elsie explained and was much relieved not to have to lug him around London with her. Besides, she felt it was time to start on her return journey.

Nothing happened until she came to the big monument in the little park, and there was Annie coming along with the all-day sucker in her mouth.

"I'm just coming home," Elsie greeted her joyously. "See, there's the Statue of Liberty."

"It's no such thing," scoffed Annie. "That's a monument of General Seward. Uncle Tom told me about it. 'Seward's Ice Box.' Now it's where a lot of gold and coal and fish and furs come from."

"I've found something," she exclaimed, and sure enough she had. It was a little round pocketbook with some silver coins in it.

"Oh, Oh!" exclaimed Annie, "let's go and buy some cookies."

But Elsie didn't listen to that either.

"I think," she volunteered, "that the poor old lady up at the corner belongs to this pocketbook, for she seems to be hunting for something."

In a minute Elsie was at the old lady's side.

"Oh deary me," wailed the aged woman, "I'm miles from home and I've lost my money."

"Don't worry," urged Elsie, "here it is! I must be going now for we're just about to land."

The old woman stared at her for, of course, she didn't quite understand.

It was just a few steps around the corner and Elsie's mother was standing in the doorway.

"I've been to London," said Elsie, "and I've had some wonderful adventures."

"She's just walked around the block," contradicted Annie, "and I went as far as she did and I didn't have any adventures at all."

"I believe you both," smiled Elsie's mother.—Selected.

THE PARTY DRESS THAT STAYED HOME

"Oh, mother, isn't it a beauty?"

Lucile held up her new party dress that had just been finished and sent in. The light from the chandelier fell across the soft folds of dainty blue silk, and Lucile's eyes rested eagerly on it as she spoke.

"It is lovely, indeed, dear," said Mrs. Morton, admiring it as much as even Lucile could desire. "And when is the party to be?"

"On Thursday afternoon; and there are fourteen children invited, and we are to play games out on the lawn."

Lucile ran happily out of the room then to put away her blue dress until the day of the party arrived.

The day came at last, and with it Lucile's small friend, who lived five miles out of the city.

"Isn't it nice that you can go to the party, too?" exclaimed Lucile, as she ran down to the gate to meet her, and then they went in to get ready.

"I only have my hair to fix over," said Lucile's little friend. "You see, I didn't know about the party until too late to get a new dress."

Lucile looked at her simple white dress for a moment before she spoke.

"My mother says that white on little girls is always in taste," she said, "and I think you look very nice indeed."

Then Lucile turned away and stood looking at her own lovely new dress that was all ready for her to wear. Mrs. Morton saw a wistful look flash across her face for a moment, and then as quickly pass away, as she chose a white one that hung beside the lovely party dress and quickly slipped it on.

"Now you both look very sweet and party-like," Lucile's mother said as she kissed them both good-bye. "And the little girl who chose an old white dress instead of her lovely one has made her mother very glad," she whispered into Lucile's ear. And then the two little girls ran happily away, while the new party dress stayed quietly at home.—Exchange.

A CHRISTMAS STORY

Not long ago there lived in the city of Marseilles an old shoemaker, loved and honored by all his neighbors, who called him "Father Martin." One Christmas Eve Father Martin, who had been reading the story of the three wise men who brought gifts to the infant Jesus, said to himself:

"If only tomorrow were the first Christmas Day and the Savior were coming to this world tonight, how I would serve and adore Him! I know very well what I would give Him."

He arose and took from a shelf two little shoes. "Here is what I would give Him, my finest work. How pleased His mother would be. But what am I thinking of?" he continued, smiling, "Does the Savior need my poor shop and my shoes?"

But that night Father Martin had a dream. He thought that the voice of Jesus Himself said to him: "Martin, you have wished to see me. Watch the street tomorrow from morning until evening, for I shall pass your window. But you must try your best to recognize me, for I shall not make myself known to you."

When he awoke the next morning Father Martin, convinced that what he had dreamed would surely take place, hastened to put his shop in order, lighted his fire, drank his coffee, and then seated himself at the window to watch the passersby. He had often seen the picture of Jesus in the churches, so he felt sure he would know Him when He went by.

The first person he saw was a poor street sweeper who was trying to warm himself, for it was bitter cold.

"Poor man," said Martin to himself. "He must be very cold. Suppose I offer him a cup of coffee."

He tapped on the window and called to the man, who did not have to be urged to accept the steaming coffee.

After watching in vain for an hour, Father Martin saw a young woman miserably clothed, carrying a baby. She was so pale and thin that the heart of the poor cobbler was touched and he called to her, "You don't look very well," he said.

"I am going to the hospital," replied the woman. "I hope they will take me in with my child. My husband is at sea, and I am sick and haven't a cent."

"Poor thing!" said the old man. "You must eat some bread while you are getting warm. No? Well, take a cup of milk for the little one. Come warm yourself and let me take the baby. You haven't put his shoes on."

"He hasn't any," sighed the woman.

Wait a minute. I have a pair."

And the old man brought the shoes which he had looked at the evening before, and put them on the child's feet. They fitted perfectly. The young woman went away full of gratitude, and Father Martin went back to his post.

Hour after hour went by, and although many people passed the window, the Master did not come. When it grew dark the old man sadly began to prepare his humble supper. "It was a dream," he murmured. "Well, I did hope. But He has not come." After supper he fell asleep in his chair. Suddenly the room seemed full of the people whom he had aided during the day, and each one asked of him in turn, "Have you not seen me?"—Selected.

A STRANGE CHRISTMAS PRESENT

One dark afternoon, on the 24th of December, as Mr. Lenox stepped from the horsecar near his home, he heard his daughter's voice calling him. He waited a moment, and she came running up to him, dragging after her a little girl about three years old. "Why are you so late, Bertha?"

"It wasn't late when I started, papa. I had to stop and wash and dress this baby before I could bring it."

"What are you going to do with it?"

"They are getting the Christmas tree ready, and I had nothing to give mama. I heard her say that she would like something that we could all enjoy, and you know we all enjoy babies. I shall put this one on the tree for her."

Papa was very much amused. "I'm afraid, my little girl, that we have no right to take Mrs. Brown's baby to give to mama. Is Mrs. Brown willing to give her away?"

"I didn't ask her," said Bertha. "You know she has seven, and I heard her tell mama that she did not know what to do with so many since Mr. Brown died." Bertha's voice trembled but she was a brave little girl, and tried to hide the tears that filled her eyes.

Mr. Lenox shook his head. "I'm afraid, dear, that it cannot be done." Then, seeing her look of disappointment, he said, "However, let's take baby home with us, and we will try to arrange matters."

"But we must hide her, papa, or mama won't be surprised."

So the baby was given into nurse's care, and after supper Mr. Lenox called on Mrs. Brown. She consented to lend her baby to the Lenox family for awhile on condition that it was to be brought home once a day.

When the Christmas tree was lighted and the doors thrown open, there in front of it stood baby. Pinned to her dress was a little card on which was written: "For mama, from Bertha and Mrs. Brown."

Baby is a young lady now, and has two homes. She calls herself Susie Brown Lenox, and doesn't know which home she likes best.—Selected.

Instruments of Precision

The ordinary worker in wood thinks he is precise when he measures to the sixty-fourth of an inch. But for scientific purposes instruments are in use that are amazing in their degree of accuracy. In the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., are devices so sensitive that they will register the heat of a candle hundreds of miles away. A weighing apparatus will weigh the amount added when you dot an "i." Another machine will show how much a six-inch steel axle bends when you lay the weight of your hand on it, and will show how much a four-foot brick wall yields when you push against it. An expert has recently discovered a way of drawing 25,000 parallel lines equally spaced on an inch of surface. Dr. Coblentz has invented an instrument to measure variations in temperature. It is so sensitive that it is said that it will discriminate the degree of heat necessary to raise the temperature of your finger tip one degree in a million years. With this instrument he has ascertained the temperature on the planet Mars, finding that it rises as high as 60 degrees in the day time, but falls to 90 degrees below zero at night. Cold nights there!

Our Children's Home

Mrs. B. Dozier, Sheeps Head Bay, N. Y., $5.00; W. H. M. S., by Mrs. H. A. Garrett, $200.53; Sapling Ridge, Alamance, by O. H. Johnson, $5.17; Gillburg, Vance, $4.75; Liberty Hill, Anderson charge, $4.70; Mrs. Ada Finch, $25.00.

Sunday Schools

Henderson, $12.20; High Point, First Church, $16.78; Alamance Union, $15.65; Birthday offering, Mount Zion, Pinnacle, $2.43; Flat Rock, Vance, $2.00; Mount Carmel, Forsyth, $2.50; Mebane, $9.75; Gideon's Grove, $2.50; Kistler, Cleveland, $3.30; Shiloh, North Davidson, $8.00.

Sunday School Thank Offerings

Midway, Guilford, $6.25; Mount Pleasant, Mount Pleasant charge, $11.00; Lebanon, High Point, $7.79; Concord, First church, $33.21; Draper, $2.32.

Church Thank Offerings

Bethesda, North Davidson, $12.50; Rock Creek, Alamance, $4.00; Whitakers Chapel, Enfield, $21.50; Macedonia, Fallston, $1.75 Mount Pleasant, Mount Pleasant charge, $11.00; Liberty Hill, Anderson charge, $4.70; Fairview, Anderson, $5.41.

Individual Thank Offerings

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hatfield, Creswell, N. C., $5.00; Miss Pearl W. Fisher Vaughan, $20; C. E. McCulloch, Wilmington, $10.00; Mrs. J. M. Cheek, Chapel Hill, credit of Burlington church, $5.00; C. A. Howard, Cornelius, N. C., $5.00; A Friend, Elon Colleg $2.50; Miss Annie Hull, Cherryville, credit Bess' Chapel, $5.50; A Friend, Dabny, $1.00; Miss Ruby Hughes, Franklinsville, $10.00; Mrs. S. M. Johnson, Winston-Salem, $2.00; A Friend, Box 265, Biscoe, N. C., $10.00.

Other Gifts

Deep River Mills, Randleman, a nice bundle of ginghams; Morris and Co., Greensboro, N. C., one crate of pork and beans; Junior class, Liberty Hill church, Anderson charge, a little boy's suit, dresses, shirts and hose; Ladies' Aid Society, Efland church, Orange circuit, a quilt; Liberty Hill, Anderson charge, a coop of chickens; Junior class, Thomasville Community church, a nice basket of fruits; Bennett Brothers, High Point, two nice hams; Dr. Cutchin, Whitakers, N. C., a bag of peanuts; J. E. Perryman, High Point, one case of garden peas; Ray Street school, a whole lot of good eatables; Thomas and Howard Co., Greensboro, one crate of jam, two boxes of raisins; W. H. M. S., Weaverville, N. C. thimbles, tapeline, and a lot of needles; Roberta M. P. church, a large lot of chickens, about 40, I think.

The liberality of our friends has greatly enlarged our hearts. Thank you all, many, many times.

The annual bazaar at the Home will be Wednesday, December 8th, instead of December 10th, as formerly announced. Sales of fancy-work will begin at 3 p. m. None will be disposed of before that hour.

E. G. LOWDERMILK.

Boy Friend—I swear to you, darling, that these lips of mine have never uttered a lie.

Girl Friend—That may be true. You know, you talk through your nose.—Paris Rire.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$171,380.81
Miss Novella McIntire	60.00
Ladies' Aid Society	50.00
G. P. Younginer	10.00
Claris Younginer	5.00
Phylis Younginer	5.00
Philicia Younginer	5.00
Miss Wenonah Joyner	5.00
Miss Vonnie Roberts	2.00
Miss Maggie Willis	1.00
Total	$171,523.81

The above are payments made on the Asheville note.

May I emphasize two points? First—High Point College is a business proposition. Whatever may have been thought of it in the beginning, when we were building so largely on faith, the institution is now solidly built and rests on solid ground. This does not refer to buildings and land entirely. We now know exactly what is necessary to insure not only the perpetuation of the institution, but its greatest usefulness, and business men are recognizing that fact. Second—We are really very much in need of ready money. Quite a considerable balance is still due on pledges. To pay these pledges at this time may entail some sacrifice, but is it not worth while to make the sacrifice in order that one's promise may be kept, and that the institution may have the advantage of the money that was pledged to it, and which it so much needs?

J. NORMAN WILLS, Treasurer.

NOTICE

To Members of Anderson Charge

The first quarterly conference will be held at Liberty Hill church Saturday before the second Sunday in December at 2 o'clock. All officials are urged to be present. It is very important that all officials be present. Important business in planning the new year's work will be transacted and your presence is earnestly requested. Please come and come on time.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

—Serious though President Coolidge appears in general, his sense of humor lies very close to the surface, as his old friends know. Once, when the president was a member of the Massachusetts legislature, a certain member who was noted for his long-winded speeches, addressed the house for an hour in support of a measure, during which he used a succession of affirmations always beginning with "It is—"

When Calvin Coolidge rose to speak on the question he said, "Mr. Speaker, it isn't," and sat down.—Everybody's Magazine.

—Russian authorities expelled from that country H. D. Anderson, a Y. M. C. A. secretary, and confiscated his property. Anderson, it was said, had been directing physical education in Russia in co-operation with the soviets and had been engaged in no political activity. The action was taken to mean the expulsion of the American Y. M. C. A. from Russia.

—Indians are so numerous in Buffalo County, South Dakota, that they have elected members of their race to five county offices—clerk of court, auditor, register of deeds, sheriff, and county commissioner.

MARRIED

Johnson-Roberson

Miss Edna Johnson and Mr. Roy Roberson, members of two of the most prominent families of South Alamance, were happily married at the home of the writer Saturday afternoon, November 13, the writer performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Roberson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Johnson, a young lady of beautiful character and strong personality.

Mr. Roberson is the son of the late A. N. and Mrs. Roberson, and is a young man of sterling character.

They are both loyal members of Concord M. P. Church. We wish them much happiness as they journey through life together.

H. L. ISLEY.

WINTER APPLES

Friends write inquiring for winter apples. If those who want apples will direct to Mt. Airy, it will save time, and "stamps" (at this part of the line).

We, at King, are 25 miles from Mt. Airy, and from the main drive for regular winter apples.

The mountain people can do well for winter apples, in their ideal climate, with but little care.

We could do well by close cultivation—but there is not much cultivation for our fruit trees.

The management of apple trees for the desired winter apples makes a close question.

However, we could do well for the production of good winter apples by close cultivation and regular attention to the trees. Our winter apples ripen too early.

Lots of trees are planted every winter, but only a few are being cultivated.

Lime is needed in the soil. We get official instructions about the use of lime.

Now, while there is regular call for winter apples is the time to plan and manage to have provision for the fruit.

Our late apples ripen too early, but there is a great remedy.

The modern cold storage being convenient for us, we can store our fall and early ripening winter apples soon as they get ripe; by this means they can be saved for regular winter use.

It is now a fact that we can manage to produce our own winter apples if we will cultivate the trees. W. F. GRABS.

—Federal Judge English, of Illinois, whose impeachment trial was to begin November 10, resigned a few days before that date. President Coolidge accepted his resignation. English claimed to be innocent of the charges against him, but resigned, he said, because his usefulness as a judge had been impaired by the charges against him.

—Thirteen soldiers at Lawton, Okla., pleaded guilty to starting fires which destroyed about $2,000,000 worth of property at Ft. Sill last summer. They asserted that they set fire to the buildings "for a thrill." Judge John Cotteral sentenced them to prison terms ranging from three to 32 years in length.

"GIFTS TO THE KING"

It will be of interest to the church at large to note the amount of the Christmas offering for the General Conference Budget, sent to the Treasurer of the General Conference and so designated, during the Christmas season of 1925.

This offering, as credited to the several Annual Conferences, was as follows:

Standing	Conference	Total Offerings
1.	Maryland	$1,181.65
2.	West Virginia	481.36
3.	North Carolina	378.17
4.	Eastern	307.25
5.	Michigan	274.50
6.	Pittsburgh	232.08
7.	Onondaga	123.79
8.	Indiana	120.14
9.	Alabama	101.93
10.	Illinois	90.29
11.	Iowa-Missouri	32.48
12.	Texas	23.58
13.	Kentucky	13.50
14.	Ohio	9.25
15.	Louisiana	9.21
16.	Georgia	8.57
17.	Mississippi	5.00
18.	Georgia (Colored)	1.40
	Miscellaneous	5.00
	Total	$3,419.15

A total of only $3,400! Surely, we wish to do far better than that this coming season. Some of our Conferences, it is true, had on special drives for Superannuate Funds, and other causes, but EVERY CONFERENCE can increase its Christmas offering this year.

A Goal of $10,000

Let us set our goal at $10,000 this year and plan now to reach it. If you have not ordered your programs, write today to Rev. Lawrence Little, Box 328, Concord, N. C., for a sample copy.

—A hike on the bottom of Hampton Roads from Old Point Comfort to the Norfolk, Va., naval base, was made by Klass Everts, local diver. He covered the distance of six miles in a little less than three hours.

—When Albert Lumpkin, of Fort Worth, Tex., died he bequeathed a fund providing a prize for the winner in oratorical contests held at his alma mater, Baker university, at Baldwin, Kans. A clause in the will, however, bars students who swear or smoke from taking part in the contests.

—Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing prison, died of heart disease on a street at Auburn, N. Y. He was 68 years old. He came into prominence when he entered Auburn prison under an assumed name to study the life of convicts.

—The longest concrete bridge in the world has just been opened for traffic in Minnesota. It is a memorial to that State's World War heroes. It crosses the Minnesota River bottoms from near the city limits of Minneapolis to Mendota. The Minnesota River flows into the Mississippi. The bridge cost two million dollars. It is 4,119 feet long and has 13 spans. It is known as the Mendota Bridge.

—Beginning April 17, 1927, express packages are to be carried by airships between New York and Chicago and Chicago and Dallas, Texas, so the American Railway Express Company announces.

GIVING THANKS

For the hay and the corn and the wheat that is reaped.
For the labor well done, and the barns that are heaped,
For the sun and the dew and the sweet honeycomb,
For the rose and the song, and the harvest brought home—
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

For the trade and the skill and the wealth in our land,
For the cunning and strength of the workingman's hand,
For the good that our artists and poets have taught,
For the friendships that hope and affection have brought—
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

For the homes that with purest affection are blest,
For the season of plenty and well-deserved rest,
For our country extending from sea to sea,
The land that is known as "The Land of the Free"—
Thanksgiving! Thanksgiving!

—Anon.

AN AMUSING INCIDENT

The class of 1870, of which I am a member, was the first class to graduate under President Eliot at Harvard College. Commencement exercises were then held in the old historic church on Harvard Square. The seating capacity was not sufficient to accommodate undergraduates on such occasions, and few if any of our class had ever attended a Commencement Day service. When the proper time had arrived for the distribution of diplomas, the class arose and stood respectfully in their places in the pews as President Eliot proceeded to address them in the usual Latin formula. In closing his address he invited us in the same classic tongue to "come up" and receive the certificates of our fidelity. Although our class was distinguished for scholarship and its ranking member, William Gardner Hale, was subsequently the honored head of the department of Latin in Chicago University, we were taken by surprise and, as none of us knew what was expected of us, we remained standing, unmoved by the president's appeal. The pause was extremely embarrassing. At length Roger Wolcott, our Class Day orator, and afterward the efficient governor of Massachusetts, stole up to the president's side, found out what he wished us to do, and reported to the class. Thereupon we all, with alacrity, proceeded to "ascend" and receive our coveted sheepskins!

In this progressive age, college presidents, I understand, in order, perchance, to avoid any similar misunderstanding, have discarded the antiquated Latin and address the learned students in their vernacular!—Willard T Perrin.

Riley's Poems Still Earn. Though James Whitcomb Riley has been dead 10 years his poems yield a good income because the publishing house which holds the copyright on all his works is very exacting as to royalties. Altogether, Riley's works are supposed to have earned $2,000,000.

PAY YOUR PREACHER

It is a marvelous thing in these days that any church would determine the salary of a minister and make a sacred promise to pay him and then send him to his Conference with only a part of his salary paid. This seems to us not to be square dealing. The salaries are so small and ministers have difficulty living upon them anyhow, but after having made his arrangement to live upon his salary to come to the end of the year with only a part of it paid is not in strict conformity to the idea of religious obligations taken by the church. We have the minutes of a number of conferences and in some of them we find this evil thing is still persisting. We remember in the old days when it was a rather common thing, but we thought we had got beyond the point where a congregation would make a sacred obligation to pay a minister a certain salary and then be satisfied to send him to Conference with part of it unpaid. It is high time that this practice was abolished forever. If the church promises a minister to pay him a certain amount it is a most sacred obligation to pay it all and promptly.—Methodist Protestant.

They found a little courage
That simmered in the sun,
They blended it with patience
And just a spice of fun,
They poured in hope and laughter,
And then with a sudden twist,
They stirred it all together,
And made an optimist.

—Chicago Blade.

—Worry is evidence of an ill-controlled brain; it is merely a stupid waste of time in unpleasantness. If men and women practiced mental calisthenics as they do physical calisthenics, they would purge their brains of this foolishness.—Arnold Bennett.

—The latest experiment of Professor Michelson to determine the speed of light indicates a rate of 186,173 miles a second, his previous estimate being about 20 miles faster. Think of this marvelous thing till you are filled with wonder, amazement, and adoration.

—The American delegation to the preliminary disarmament conference at Geneva left with expressions of satisfaction with the work done in the six months of deliberations. The program now is for a general disarmament conference in 1928, though the league of nations assembly wished it in 1927. The United States won against France and Italy for the method of limitation by classes of ships instead of by the principle of "global tonnage." Another serious split was over the treatment of trained reserves. France held that they are not limitable while the United States and other powers insisted that they are. Admiral Hilary P. Jones headed the U. S. delegation.

—Athletic competition among high-school girls is detrimental to their morals and physical welfare declared the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association in restricting future meets for schoolgirls of that state.

—The American Commission on Minorities, composed of Catholics, Jews, Lutherans, Presbyterians and Unitarians, protested to American bankers against any loan being made to Rumania until that country improves its treatment of religious minorities.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Calvary.—The work has gotten off to a good start at Calvary for the new conference year. Good congregations have been present for all the services, including the Sunday school and the midweek services. A cordial welcome has been given the pastor on his return for the third year. Before conference the pastor had advocated having a get-to-gether meeting to be held in the new hut for the whole church, Sunday school, and friends. Just after conference the ladies of the church announced that such a meeting was being planned. Of course the pastor entered heartily into the plans, and on every occasion, public or private, urged the people to gather for the meeting. Then you can imagine the pastor's surprise when it turned out to be a reception for the pastor and his family. Well, we had a good time. The hut was almost full to overflowing. Of course the supper was there in abundance. Each family brought a basket well filled. The tables were placed in the shape of a U, the children gathered in the inside of the U and the adults on the outside. After a Scripture lesson and a prayer of thanks by the pastor those present showed that they knew what to do when in the presence of a lot of good eats.

After the supper was over a good program prepared by the ladies was rendered. Dr. McCulloch in his unique, happy way, welcomed the pastor and his family back to Calvary. The different organizations of the church had their representatives tell something of their plans for this year. Among the friends and guests of the evening were Mr. G. O. Coble, who for more than twelve months has been putting our church lawn in condition, and Mr. Campbell, a landscape architect, who has been employed by Mr. Coble in beautifying the lawn. Both of these men made brief talks setting forth something of the plans for placing some evergreen plantings around the church. Brother Coble, who is a son of our own Mrs. J. H. Coble, certainly has the unbounded thanks of Calvary church for this substantial gift to our church. He has spent a great deal of time and of money in beautifying the lawn. The grass is now coming up nicely, and we are expecting to have, when Brother Coble has finished with it, the prettiest church lawn in the city.

Last Sunday evening at 7:30 the service was in charge of Superintendent Lowdermilk and a group of children from our Children's Home. They gave a well prepared program, the program being in the nature of a Thanksgiving service. The children showed most careful training. We had a capacity audience, and the large congregation showed its appreciation by the closest attention and then by a liberal offering. The Woman's Home Missionary Society had arranged for this service, thinking that they would take an offering and take credit on their budget for it, but since it was so near Thanksgiving time, and since we are accustomed to making a special offering to the Home at Thanksbiving, the ladies very generously consented to allow the offering to go as a special Thanksgiving offering from Calvary church, and will raise their budget otherwise. The offering was more than $75. More will be added to this before it is sent to the Home.

Many kindnesses have been shown the pastor and family in a very substantial way since conference, and if we were to attempt to mention all of them we might leave out some. So we hesitate to mention any. However, some of them have been so outstanding that we think it is permissible that we mention a few. Mrs. J. H. Coble has gotten into the habit of sending a large basket filled with good things to eat every little while to the parsonage. So just recently along came the basket again. Surely we appreciate this kind remembrance. Brother Floyd Coble, owner and manager of the O. Henry drug stores of Greensboro, and son of Mrs. J. H. Coble, had heard about the pastor's new overcoat being stolen on the Sunday night of conference, so on last Friday he sent the pastor over to Vanstory's to select him a coat, the bill to be sent to him. Well, we didn't know any better than to do as he said. As a result the pastor is now enjoying a nice "Knittex" coat. This, too, is deeply appreciated. As Thanksgiving time drew near Brother W. F. Medearis brought to us a fine, fat turkey. Thanks! Brother Medearis asked when he brought the turkey if we could find a good place for the turkey, and my oldest boy assured him that we would find the place all right. Whoever saw a boy who could not find a place to put a good bit of turkey. Many things enter into the inducements that bring a pastor back to a church. Before conference Brother Lewis (of another church but from whom the pastor and church buy coal) told the pastor that if he returned a ton of coal would be donated to the parsonage. No one is saying how much that had to do with our return, but we are enjoying the ton of coal. Thank you, Mr. Lewis. We also appreciate the donation of a whole month's milk bill by our dairyman, Brother J. F. Williams.

Every one has our thanks for every kindness and for the fine spirit of cooperation shown last year and already this year. The foundation has been laid, we believe, for greater things for Calvary church. May the Lord be glorified in all our achievements.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

Greensville Circuit, Matthews Chapel—A new reporter has been elected, but since she hasn't reported, I will try my hand just once.

Our new pastor has arrived and introduced himself in the person of Rev. H. L. Powell, though he says he thinks we are very familiar with that name. This will make Brother Powell's fourth year with us and we feel fortunate in having such a good pastor.

He filled his first appointment with us Sunday morning, but owing to the unfavorable weather the attendance wasn't large.

We are having splendid attendance in our Sunday school at the present time. We are using the Star roll, which is very interesting and we hope our Sunday school will continue to improve.

We are having a wonderful Christian Endeavor Society, with a membership of about 50, which meets every Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. We also have a Junior Society.

We are sure having good attendance, a church full almost every Sunday night.

We had several members from the Baptist church and other churches to join us Sunday night. We appreciate this.

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society have made arrangements to put in two new heaters before next Sunday, and we have also purchased a new gas lamp recently.

Plans are being made now for a Christmas program and also Christmas tree, and we hope our plans can be carried out successfully.

On next Sunday morning we will take a Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

LOTTIE EDWARDS.

State Street Church—Work on our new Sunday school building is going on at a rapid rate, and if nothing happens to delay the workers we will soon be meeting there for worship. A formal opening service will be conducted on the second Sunday in December by Dr. Dixon. We are expecting and hoping to see many of our friends from out-of-town.

Since January, 1924, our Sunday school has grown from 13 to an average attendance of more than 100, with 195 on roll.

A meeting of the C. E. Union of the city was held at the First Reformed Church on the night of the 10th of this month. Dr. Parker, of Asheville, delivered an interesting address, after which a musical program was given by the high school orchestra. State Street Society won the banner for the second time, having an attendance of 100 per cent.

Mr. Bethea went to Pleasant Grove Sunday morning to give a talk on his trip to Palestine. A liberal offering was received which will go into the building fund.

Many of our friends have helped so generously. Brother Pritchard gave all that he received as an offering last spring when he preached so splendidly and worked so faithfully during our revival meeting. Mr. Bethea has taken the work at Yadkin College since the Conference. This is in addition to all the other work he does and will keep him very busy.

A dozen or more of the State Street folks went to West Lexington Sunday morning and heard Brother Ridge preach a good sermon to a large and interested audience.

REPORTER.

Rockingham—Our Sunday school has been getting along fine in its work. Our collection for Sunday, November 21, was $6.84; attendance was 121, and members on roll 175.

The children of our Sunday school are now getting up a Christmas program with the writer as their leader and the aid of the older members. This program includes about 75 children, if not more. We expect to give the exercises, after which we will have a Christmas tree.

The village prayer meetings are still continuing in strength. The mid-week prayer meeting meets as usual with the girls and boys with their organizations meeting at that time.

The prayer meeting at the church building has been cut a little short for the past two or three weeks for the benefit of a singing school which is being conducted by Mr. Thomason in our church building. Mr. Thomason is a very noted singing master, we are pleased to say, and we are very glad to have him with us these few weeks.

We are also pleased to say we have Rev. J. H. Trollinger with us for another year. He has served us faithfully during the past year and we are thankful to have him for another year.

We have had a few deaths in the membership of our church during the past year, so our membership now is about 98. Mr. Trollinger received 35 of these members into the church during this past year. Mr. Trollinger will give us two Sundays out of each month during this year. He delivered to us a very beautiful and inspiring sermon on Sunday, November 21.

To all a great success during this year we pray.

BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Caroleen and Shelby—We have entered on our second year as pastor of these two churches. We were received kindly and assured of the co-operation of all the people.

There are already signs of growth in our churches. Shelby did the unusual thing when they met while we were in Conference and planned the work for the year and made the membership assessment. The people are responding nicely and are bringing in envelopes Conference claims as well as pastor's salary. This is an indication that Shelby will pay Conference Budget this year. Shelby is badly in need of a new house of worship and we are hoping by early spring to have plans made for a nice little brick veneer church on the splendid lot on which the old church now stands. Brethren, pray for us that we may rise up and build.

Caroleen—This church is starting off splendidly. Congregations are good and a splendid interest is manifested in all departments of the church work.

Yesterday we put on a drive for tithers and 12 of our members listed as tithers. We hope to increase this to at least 50 per cent of our membership.

Brethren, pray for the work here; we need your prayers.

Yours in the Kingdom's service,
L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Charlotte, First.—We are glad to serve these people for another year. Our expectations have been enlarged by the way things are opening up, and we hope by the next conference results will reveal that both pastor and people have put forth most earnest effort in the work of the Kingdom. This is our fourth year and by the reception accorded us it bespeaks for us our best. Everybody seems to be busily engaged in the interest of the church.

Preparations for Christmas exercises are underway. A cantata entitled, "Chimes of the Holy Night" is being rehearsed by the choir, and a special program by the Sunday school is being arranged by Mrs. D. A. Horne and her committee.

Recently the Ladies' Aid Society pledged $100.00 on the parsonage lot to be paid by January. So the members of the society are busy, but whatever they undertake they accomplish and then some more. They are having a Thanksgiving party this evening, Monday, the proceeds to apply on their pledge.

The Woman's Foreign and Woman's Home Missionary Societies are doing excellent work. Already both of the societies are ahead in the raising of their apportionments. The Home society is preparing a Thanksgiving offering service and the main feature is a pageant, "Queen Esther's Choice."

The Worker's Council of the Sunday school meet on the second Tuesday evening of each month. After the regular business a program of inspirational addresses, songs, etc. stressing a particular theme for each month is given. A twenty-five cent meal is served. So far this arrangement is working beautifully.

The boys are very enthusiastic. They are being provided for in the formation of a Boy Scout troop. Messrs. J. E. Hankins and J. C. Watts are the Scout masters.

Last Sunday morning we were made glad to receive into our fellowship, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Helms from the M. E. Church, South and their daughter, Sadie on confession of faith.

The first quarterly conference will convene on Thursday evening, December 2nd, 7:30 o'clock.

We regret that several of our people are sick. We trust they will recover soon and be with us in our services.

On Wednesday evening after Annual Conference and prior to the prayer service a large number of the members of the church and friends surprised us in an unusual way in their manner of welcoming us back for another year. They came with supplies for the pantry of the parsonage and gifts are still coming. It has been the most abundant pounding we have received since entering the ministry. These people know how to be royal in their treatment. We certainly appreciate the reception and the gifts of each one. Words do not convey wholly what we mean. God knows the givers and the gifts and we pray that He may reward all accordingly.

H. FREO SURRATT.

Vance—We are putting on a special drive for the Methodist Protestant Herald. To the church securing the largest number of subscriptions to the Methodist Protestant Herald the writer will given ten dollars ($10.00) to be applied to the budget, pastor's salary or for the improvement of the church as the committee may see fit. Each church is being asked to appoint a committee for the purpose of canvassing the field. I don't believe a person can be a loyal Protestant without the paper. Then let's get busy and see to it that the Herald is put into every Protestant home. If in your canvassing you should find a family who is not financially able to take the paper, then report to me and I will see to it that some arrangement will be provided to take care of such needs. If you will bestir yourself a little I think you will be a little bit surprised to find that there are quite a few who do not know that there is such a thing as a "Methodist Protestant Herald" being published. Friends, this ought not so to be. Let's get busy and cover the field promptly. Harris Chapel leads out with seven subscriptions. Who will be next? The number of subscriptions will appear in the Herald later. M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Union Grove—Yesterday at our usual Sunday service a large congregation attended. Also our Sunday school made a good showing. We had our new pastor, Brother Glenn Madison, with us for the first time. He preached a very interesting sermon. The text was very appropriate and the points were well brought out and illustrated by Brother Madison. The service was closed by beautiful singing by the choir followed by a series of prayers by members of the church. After the benediction a business meeting was held to form plans for carrying on the work of the church for the ensuing year.

We were glad to have Brother and Mrs. Wilson, from Asheville, N. C., worship with us. It is evident that each one present had a very nice time and a spiritual blessing.

Brother Madison's next appointment here will be Sunday, December 12, at 11 a. m. Everyone is invited to come.

We, of course, miss Mr. and Mrs. Totten in our midst, but our prayers shall continue for them. We wish the greatest and best success for Brother Totten in his new work.

The Christian Endeavor Society held a very interesting meeting at the church last night. The Senior, Intermediate and Junior Societies are all planning for bigger and better things in the coming year. May we ask the prayers of our friends and the Herald readers? ZELDA JURNEY, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—The first quarterly conference met at Hebron church Saturday, November 27. Each church was represented. A very enthusiastic conference was held.

Bro. C. H. Jones was re-elected secretary of the conference. The old board of parsonage trustees was re-elected. The following committees were elected: Advisory—M. P. Efland, C. H. Jones, W. A. Davis, L. C. Sykes; Examining—E. B. Goodwin, D. M. Pender, J. A. Nicholson, H. N. Blackwood; Parsonage Aid, Mrs. O. E. Bivins, Mrs. G. F. Crutchfield, Mrs. F. W. Nelson, Mrs. C. H. Jones, Mrs. J. M. Lloyd.

The chairman was asked to select a circuit steward or financial booster. This appointment will be made later.

The following recommendations were adopted: First, that each church determine the amount of budget and apportion this to the members, either by the every-member canvass or otherwise. Second, that stewards endeavor to collect monthly. Third, that the special days be observed with offerings for the general boards. Fourth, that the month of January be designated as the month in which to raise the College assessment. Fifth, that we endeavor to raise Annual Conference claims during the month of February.

Arrangements were made to raise amount of the Permanent Fund for Superannuates at once.

The pastor is encouraged as he faces the new year and its problems. The laymen are standing behind him. We are hoping and praying that this will be the best year yet of our ministerial career.

The work is here to be done. The laymen seem to have a mind to work. May God lead us all to do our best. Sincerely,
B. M. WILLIAMS.

Mt. Zion, Pinnacle.—We are all very thankful for the return of Brother Hunter. When he has served us another year he will have served this charge something like six months longer than any M. P. minister in our Annual Conference has ever served any one charge. A little later we hope to give to our good people an accurate and detailed report of just what Brother Hnnter has done for the different churches on this charge and the charge as a whole since he has been here.

Another thing we folks are thankful for is the life and influence of men like our good old brother layman, R. S. Barber.

Last Wednesday, a week ago, Brother Barber was permitted by his divine Parent to pass the 76th mile-post. On Sunday following, Brother T. G. Barber, Brother R. S. Barber's youngest son, and Mrs. T. G. Barber, with whom Brother B. S. Barber makes his home, gave a birthday party honoring "Grandpa" Barber. Invitations included the immediate family, Mr. O. W. Barber and family, of Pinnacle, N. C.; Mr. I. W. Barber and Mr. T. C. Barber and their families, of Mount Airy, N. C.; Mr. J. W. Barber and family, of King, N. C., and Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Hunter. This was indeed a very enjoyable occasion.

Brother Barber's everyday life has been so closely intimate with his Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, that his influence is nothing but good. Think of the fact that Brother Barber hasn't missed a revival meeting at Mount Zion for 51 or 52 years! Then link the lives of such men as he and Brother Hunter and compare their lives to the majority of the men that get to be 70 or 75 years old. To think of their lives and the good influence they leave is simply to praise God. Long may they live and work, is my prayer.

I am reminded here of Tennyson's little, but sweet, poem:

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark;
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."

Brother Hunter has filled his appointments to date.

Miss Lola Barber, with her uncle, I. W. Barber, and family, of Mount Airy, motored to eastern Virginia via Raleigh, N. C., for Thanksgiving and week-end visit with friends, returning home Sunday.

Signs of prosperity are all about us. The farmers are having all-day corn huskings and a lot of fine hogs are being butchered these frosty mornings.

On last Tuesday evening at 7:30 a church meeting was held for the purpose of voting to give church trustees legal right to sell family burying plots in the cemetery. The meeting voted unanimously to sell plats. If there are any parties desiring to buy such plats in Mount Zion cemetery they may do so at very reasonable rates by seeing the church trustees, F. S. Fowler, S. T. Lane, E. S. Stone and O. F. Hauser.

O. P. Jones, chairman of the board of stewards, called a meeting of stewards immediately after Sunday school and detailed plans for the ensuing year's work.

Another one of our teachers changed her name Thanksgiving. Miss Thelma Kellam was married to Mr. Otis Rierson. They have our very best wishes for a long, happy life.

Mr. Ray Waller left a few weeks ago for Mobile, Ala., where he expects to take a position with his uncle, C. L. Waller.

Glad to see Shoals and Pilot reporting.

The first quarterly conference will meet at Pinnacle on Saturday before the third Sunday in December.

C. W. ALLEN, Reporter.

Haw River—There have been 65 Thanksgiving days in my lifetime, many of which have been forgotten. But there have been two of these Thanksgiving days that have impressed me so that I don't think I can ever forget them. One of the incidents occurred about 15 years ago when a locomotive train hit another train here at Haw River trestle and knocked one engine a part of the way across the trestle, while the other went down an embankment 50 or 75 feet, killing one man. What a contrast between that Thanksgiving day and the one that has just passed by.

This time it was on this manner: Along about dark many of our friends from all directions came loaded down with good things to eat. Our pantry looks like a grocery store this morning. These good people brought a variety of things to eat and $4.75 in money. For this expression of sympathy and love we have not words with which to express our fullest appreciation and thanks for these good things. S. W. HUGHES.

Haw River, N. C., Nov. 27, 1926.

West End—The Philathea class of West End Church will hold a bazaar and chicken supper in the church basement on Friday, December 3, 1926. This is a splendid opportunity for anyone to get a good chicken or o'possum supper and beatiful hand-made or hand-painted gifts for their friends, all at reasonable prices.

The proceeds of this affair will go toward the new Sunday school rooms that are to be erected immediately behind the church. This class has been working hard for the past nine months on a fund for this purpose. Any help given us in any way will be appreciated greatly.

Pleasant Hill, Why Not Circuit—We are pleased very much to have Rev. D. I. Garner back with us again this year. May God's richest blessings be with him as he labors with us. Brother Garner delivered a very helpful and inspiring sermon last Sunday evening. His subject was "Vision," which I feel sure was beneficial to both old and young.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. New officers for the coming year have been elected, or rather most of the old ones.

First quarterly conference will convene on Saturday before the first Sunday in December at New Hope Church at 11 a. m.

May we ask the prayers of the readers of the Herald and our friends for our church this coming year?

(MISS) FLONIE COX, Reporter.

Asheboro—Yesterday was a good day with us. At the morning hour the class of children from the Children's Home were here to give their entertainment. The entertainment was well received and our people were glad the children came. Brother Lowdermilk was with the children and expressed pleasure at being in his native county again. Mrs. Mendenhall, who had charge of the entertainment, is also from Asheboro. In fact, Asheboro is always on the map. The offering of the day amounted to $100. Yesterday was the first time the Sunday school had tried out the plan of raising the amount which it had pledged as a monthly offering. The school had pledged $36.50 for each month to match the extra $20 which Brother J. D. Ross is to give or raise. When the offering was in yesterday the classes had gone slightly above the amount they agreed to pay.

Another pleasing thing about the morning service: Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, who labored so faithfully here with her husband during his long pastorate here, was in the congregation. Dr. and Mrs. Whitaker were deservedly popular here and the people are always glad for Mrs. Whitaker to come back.

Luncheon was served by the ladies in the social room of the church to the children from the home and a large number of the members of the church. The fellowship of the hour was delightful.

Last night while this pastor was discoursing on sin some sinner on the outside of the church was stealing the pastor's automobile license plate.

Our first quarterly conference will be held Wednesday evening, the Brotherhood will meet Thursday evening and our first Communion service of the new Conference year will be held Sunday morning.

We are making almost a clean sweep in the church paper campaign and hope to finish in a few days. J. E. PRITCHARD.

Efland, Orange Charge—We are indeed glad to have Brother B. M. Williams back with us. He has served us faithfully for the past two years. He has helped build up the charge as a whole. We feel that much and lasting good has been accomplished. He delivered his first sermon since Conference the third Sunday morning. There was a good number present.

Our Sunday school is coming on nicely, but there is plenty of room for improvement yet. Let's get busy and see if we can't hustle out some new members, or at least try to get those that are already on roll to attend regularly. If everyone enrolled would come regularly themselves and do their best to increase our enrollment there is no question about it, Efland could have a real wide-awake Sunday school, for in Mr. E. C. Goodwin we certainly have a wide-awake superintendent.

MRS. E. S. TAYLOR, Reporter.

Kernersville—The first quarterly conference of Kernersville charge will convene at Kernersville Church Friday night, December 10 at 7 o'clock. Come on, good people, and let's make a good beginning, go forward, and end the year in triumph.

Will be at Pine Grove first Sunday at 11 a. m. December 5, and at Kernersville at night of the same day.

E. G. LOWDERMILK, Pastor.

Mebane—Sunday morning at 11 o'clock our pastor, Rev. Edward Suits, brought us an inspiring message. At 7:30 Sunday evening the Woman's Home Missionary Society gave their annual Thanksgiving program. This was well attended and enjoyed. The thank-offering amounted to $75. Fifty dollars of this amount was donated by the Baraca class.

The union Thanksgiving service for the town was held in our church Wednesday evening at 7:30. Rev. C. H. Cashwell, pastor of the Baptist church, delivering the sermon. This service was well attended and all churches in Mebane were represented. Just at the close of this service, Mr. Ralph Phelps and Miss Beatrice Qualls were united in marriage by Dr. Johnson, using the double ring ceremony. There were no atendants, the bride and groom entering together.

On Saturday afternoon, November 20, Mr. Fenley Stewart and Miss Elsie King were united in marriage by Dr. Johnson.

On Wednesday morning, October 27, Miss Pattye Jobe became the bride of Mr. Carl E. Sykes, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride by Dr. Johnson.

We wish for these couples much happiness through life.

Monday afternoon of last week the Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. T. O. Pender. Twenty-four ladies were present and a very interesting meeting was held. Plans were completed at this time for our bazaar to be given Friday afternoon of this week. The ladies will also serve supper.

Monday evening, November 22, the Junior Baraca class entertained at 6 o'clock dinner in honor of Dr. T. M. Johnson at Ferrell's Cafe. Fifteen boys, together with Dr. Johnson and J. E. Foust, were present. Dr. Johnson was for five years the beloved and efficient teacher of this class.

The William Nicholson Mission Band met this (Monday) afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Nine members were present. Plans are in progress for more members and better attendance. Also some things were mentioned whereby we may do more for our Children's Home through this society.

Some improvements are being made on the parsonage at this time. Our pastor is expecting to move next week. REPORTER.

Nov. 29, 1926.

Burlington.—The work of the new conference year is starting off well with the Burlington church. A new interest is in evidence on the part of the people towards the preaching services. The congregations are large, particularly at the morning hour. Our general theme for the morning service is "The Church at Its Best." This will run for several Sundays, with various phases of the subject discussed. On last Sunday our thought centered around the church at its best spiritually. On the coming Sunday night the W. H. M. S. will hold their annual thank-offering service. A group of children from the Children's Home will render the program. Our people are always glad to have these children; the church will, no doubt, be filled for this service. A committee has been appointed to secure an orchestra for our Sunday school; we trust that they may have good and early success. Brother Smith, our superintendent, is putting emphasis on the spiritual side of Sunday school work, a thing that should be done in all Sunday schools. Perhaps right here is the field for a great spiritual awakening in the church. Why not, by concerted action, test it out?

We have been greatly saddened for the past few days by an accident occurring on Thanksgiving day. The entire load of a shot gun penetrated the side of Mr. Reid Thompson, son of Brother and Sister K. L. Thompson. Very little hope has been entertained for his recovery; but many prayers have been offered for him, and we are more hopeful now that he may live. His condition seems more promising at this writing.

Mrs. Clyde Johnson, a member of our Philathea class, who was hurt in an automobile accident recently, is recovering, though she will likely have to be in for some days yet. Mr. Van Winningham is in Rainey hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. His wife, Mrs. Pearl Winningham, is one of our most faithful members, and we hope and pray that her husband may be restored to her soon, well and strong. There is sickness in a number of our homes, and for these we offer sympathy and constant prayers. S. W. TAYLOR.

Friendship Church.—Our pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, filled his appointment Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, this being his second one since conference. We are exceedingly glad to have Mr. Morgan with us again. He has been with us for three years and has rendered faithful service. He delivered a helpful and inspiring gospel message Sunday.

We are expecting great success this year.

REPORTER.

Hollister, Halifax Charge.—Our pastor filled his appointment yesterday. He preached a splendid sermon. We are glad to have Mr. Spencer back with us. Much good has been accomplished during his pastorate with us, and we hope that we may be able to accomplish more this year. We have all learned to love Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and we thank the Annual Conference for sending them back.

Our Sunday school is progressing some now. There are lots of people in the community who do not attend Sunday school anywhere. We would be glad for them to come and join in with us. We welcome you in our church and Sunday school.

Our Sunday school is planning to have a Christmas tree and a short program by the children some time during Christmas.

On Tuesday afternoon, November 16, the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies met with Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Spencer. There were fourteen members present. A very good program was rendered. Mrs. Ed Wood conducted the devotional and Mrs. J. J. Williams gave the last chapter of "Moslem Women." After the program and business meeting Mrs. Spencer, assisted by Miss Kathleen Shearin and Evelyn Knight, served chicken salad, cakes, crackers and coffee.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. T. C. Williams on December 14, 1926.

Best wishes to the Herald.

REPORTER.

Randleman Charge.—The first quarterly conference will be held at New Salem, Saturday, December 4, at 2:30 p.m. Dr. Dixon is expected to preside. On Sunday, the 5th, Dr. Dixon will preach at Mt. Lebanon at 11 a.m. and at New Salem at 2:30 p.m.

On last Sunday during Sunday school at Worthwille, a passing autoist noticed the church roof ablaze. He stopped and notified the Sunday school, and of course it broke up without any closing hymn. The men got busy and the fire was soon put out. Little damage was done, but it was necessary to make some repairs before further services could be held. During the afternoon the flue was repaired, the burnt portion of the roof mended, and the usual night service was held.

W. H. NEESE.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Circuit.—Our pulpit was occupied on the second Sunday in November by our new pastor for this year. Brother O'Briant has been returned to us for another year, and we thank the Annual Conference and our delegate for bringing Brother O'Briant back to us for this year.

There may have been many things that we might have done to help our pastor and didn't do. But now that we have another opportunity to show our loyalty, may the Lord help us to do our best.

There have been some changes in the board of stewards, and if they will keep wide awake we trust finances will keep in better condition.

Our Sunday school is working fine with our loyal superintendent, Mr. Baldy Green. We are entering the winter season with bright anticipation for Christmas service, and hope to have a tree.

Some progress and interest are being shown in our junior choir, and we feel they can be developed into great usefulness in the church service.

BEATRICE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Henderson.—Our regular preaching services were well attended last Sunday morning and evening and splendid sermons delivered by our pastor, Rev. R. A. Hunter. We also had a special thank-offering service Thanksgiving day, and are proud to write that the thank-offering was the largest we have ever received.

Monday afternoon, November 22, the missionary societies held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. S. R. Watson, with Mrs. S. R. Harris joint hostess. Mrs. E. C. Kittrell conducted the devotionals, taken from "The Rose Jar." A prayer for those mentioned in the prayer calendar followed. A splendid reading and discussion was given by Miss Myra Hight on stewardship. Mrs. R. A. Hunter had charge of the question box. At the close of the business session Mrs. J. M. Baity, program leader for the afternoon, gave a very instructive discussion from the second chapter of "The Moslem Women." One of the most pleasing events of the meeting was the enrollment of several men's names on our honorary roll.

A special meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school was called by the pastor on last Tuesday evening for the purpose of preparing a calendar for the various holiday occasions of the coming year.

The Christian Endeavor society held their special meeting on Tuesday night in the basement of theh church. Despite the weather conditions a goodly number was present. Mr. Jasper B. Hicks, president of the society, led a regular meeting and conducted it in the same manner as they do at the Sunday night meetings. A special program had been arranged and was given as follows: a reading by Mrs. Edison Hicks, a solo by Mrs. Mary P. Hight. At the close of the program refreshments were served. The aim and hope of this special meeting was to increase interest and attendance of the Christian Endeavorers and encourage others to join them. We need more active young people in the work of the Master. Let us pray for it earnestly.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

High Point.—The Christian Endeavor society held a sunrise prayer meeting at the church on Thanksgiving day at 7 o'clock, when Rev. P. E. Lindley delivered an appropriate address, and breakfast was served to all who attended. The members then distributed a large number of well-filled baskets to needy families of the city.

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock following quarterly conference on Wednesday evening, a delightful communion service was celebrated with the following ministers joining: Rev. P. E. Lindley, Rev. E. L. Ballard, Rev. J. H. Stowe, and Rev. J. D. Hardy. Almost the entire congregation, including a remarkably large number of young people, participated in the observance of this sweet and solemn ordinance.

On Sunday evening at 7 o'clork the annual thank-offering service of the Woman's Home Missionary society was observed, and a group of 15 boys and girls from the Children's Home presented a most pleasing program. This program was admirably rendered, and showed painstaking care and careful training on the part of their teacher, Mrs. Cook. This was the best program that we have ever heard given by the children. The collection was taken up by four young girls, Dorothy Lee Rankin, Mary Adams, Margaret Neese, and Annette Pickens, and amounted to $131.32. The members of the Home Society are much pleased with this liberal response, and wish to extend many thanks to every one who contributed.

At the 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning the choir from High Point College rendered a beautiful anthem, "The King of Love," and Misses Dorothy Hoskins and Margaret Gurley sang a lovely duet, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," by Zimmerman.

At the quarterly conference last Wednesday evening a forward step was taken when a committee was appointed to organize the membership of the church into groups for definite work. This committee includes the chairmen of trustees and stewards, superintendent of the Sabbath school, and the different departments, presidents of Ladies' Aid and the two missionary societies and the Christian Endeavor. Another step was to endorse the formation of a junior church, the object of which is to give the children services of their own, at the 11 o'clock Sunday hour, in another part of the church.

Invitations have been sent out to the marriage on December 9, in the First church, of Miss Lorraine Burgess and Mr. Harry Lysle Shuey, the ceremony to take place at 5 p.m. The bride-to-be is the pretty and popular daughter of the late Mr. W. D. Burgess and Mrs. Jessie P. Burgess. She has lived here and at Mt. Airy all her life, and is well known and admired by a large circle of friends. She was educated at Greensboro College for Women. Mr. Shuey is a native of Virginia, was educated at Washington and Lee, and at present holds a position with Tomlinson Chair Company of this city. The young couple will be at home after December 20 at 522 Parkway, High Point.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Arnold J. Koonce in the loss by death of her mother, Mrs. Will R. Smith, who passed away on Sunday morning, November 28, after an extended illness. She was before marriage Miss Willie May Ramsey, of Stanley county, and she and her husband moved here in 1901. She was a member of East End M. E. church, was known as a consistent Christian and loved by a large circle of friends.

Mt. Hermon Charge.—The first regular service was held at Bellemont at 11 o'clock on the fourth Sunday. It was encouraging to notice the large crowd out for preaching. The people attended well also at the evening service. The Sunday school is on the increase; eleven members joined Sunday morning. We regret to lose our superintendent, Mr. Wayne Curtis, who is going to leave us some time in December and attend a school of expression and voice culture; however, we feel that he will be worth still more when he returns.

Mr. H. A. Garrett piloted me over to Cedar Cliff and Mt. Hermon on the second Sunday in November. We found a full house out for preaching service. After preaching we took dinner with Brother B. M. Payne, who was giving his wife a nice spread in honor of her 55th birthday—her birthday really came on Sunday. On the third Sunday afternoon Mrs. Mary Ellen Fox Thompson was buried at Cedar Cliff. Rev. G. W. Holmes had charge of the funeral and was assisted by Rev. H. L. Isley and the pastor of the charge. A full account of the funeral will appear in the Herald.

The Sunday school and preaching services at Friendship have been well attended. On November 29 Bro. J. P. Sharp was buried at this church. Rev. W. F. Ashburn had charge of the funeral and was assisted by the pastor. A full account of this burial will appear in the Herald.

All but a few seats were occupied at the preaching services at Mt. Hermon. The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are active and progressing. A tornado hit several of the Mt. Hermon members Friday afternoon, November 26. Bro. J. H. Wood lost three outbuildings; J. A. Albright had his porch roof swept away and two hogs killed; George M. Isley had his orchard destroyed, barn completely wrecked, two cows killed and another one injured, several chickens blown away, one drill crushed, and his car smashed. Yet, Bro. G. W. Vestal suffered the heaviest loss. His house was completely swept away. One cannot imagine how bad it really is unless they have seen it. I would attempt to describe it but, first, I am unable, and second, you would not believe what I would say. However, I shall mention a few facts. Some of the weatherboarding was found three miles from where the house stood; his saddle was found over a mile away; one dresser was found two miles away in a patch of woods; even a set of three cement steps were moved over six feet by the wind. If anyone doubts any of these statements all I ask is for them to go and see for themselves. Brother Vestal and his wife were hurt in the storm; also their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Payne. Mr. Payne did not stay in bed but a short time, but the other three are still in bed; however, they are expected to recover soon.

Dear readers, please pray for these good people who have lost friends and relatives and property. May we all feel a common brotherhood with them in their time of sorrow. May God's richest blessing rest upon them and may they be drawn closer to Him who has given and who has taken away.

J. ELWOOD CARROLL, Pastor.

Liberty.—The work of the new conference year is starting off nicely. Mr. Gibbs is a great worker. He was encouraged with a large congregation Sunday morning. "Forward" was his theme. Miss Lucy Boone of Elon sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by Fillmore.

We were glad to have Miss Mozelle Gibbs, our pastor's sister, worship with us Sunday morning.

Sunday evening Mr. Gibbs preached a very impressive and helpful Thanksgiving sermon. A large number of C. E. boys stayed for preaching. It was a touching scene to us teachers, who toil in the Christian Endeavor and Sunday school work.

Yours in His service,

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

Anderson Charge.—Sunday was a good day for us at Liberty Hill. A good number was present for both Sunday school and preaching service, and a larger number were present for the evening service. The Christian Endeavor society held a good meeting preceding the preaching service, at which a goodly number of the young people took a part. The subject of Thanksgiving was discussed and a very interesting program was rendered. Miss Sallie McClimon was the leader. A quartet was rendered by members of the C. E. which was very appropriate for the occasion.

We were glad to have several members of the Fairview church to worship with us at the morning service. Twenty or more from Greenville and the Fairview church were with us in this first service. The new pastor was glad to see these people come, some of them more than 25 miles. This being the first service, the pastor is well impressed with conditions and the work. It is impossible to form an opinion of the work at a glance, and that at just one of the churches, but we are praying and looking for a good year's work. The readers of the Herald will hear more from us later, and because we are a way off from the center of the conference is no reason why we should not be heard from, and you readers might as well look for something occasionally from Anderson. I am hoping to give this part of the work over to some of the young people and let them blow the horn for me, but if that canot be done I will try to blow it occasionally in order to let you know we are still on the track. We will have two services each Sunday giving the first and third to Fairview and the second and fourth to Liberty Hill. Services next Sunday at Fairview at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. A cordial welcome to all.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

Porter Church.—Our new pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, filled his first appointment here Sunday and preached an excellent sermon which was enjoyed by all present.

The attendance was fine. We were glad to have so many out to hear our new preacher.

We feel sure that if we as a church will do our part, we will have great success this year. Brother Hill gives all evidence of being one of those striking fellows and we extend to him and his wife a most hearty welcome.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Our superintendent, Mr. Cauble, is doing all he can to make the work move on. May we all work for a great success this year.

MRS. W. T. BRASWELL, Reporter.

Palestine, Flat Rock—We the members of Palestine, wish to thank the Annual Conference for returning to us our pastor, Rev. J. B. Trogdon. He and his family have been with us for the past two years and we have all learned to love him and his dear wife and feel that by their untiring efforts great good has been done in our church, and we are hoping and praying for still greater things in the future.

If each member co-operates with his pastor, loves and comforts him, great things will happen.

I recall a saying of Rev. R. M. Andrews while President of Conference: "It is the duty of every Christian member of every church in our Conference to love their pastor because he is their pastor." We are sure our pastor and family love each and every member of our church, and how can people expect to reach heaven when they fail to love their fellow beings here.

Sunday school and prayer meeting running well.

The paint has been paid for and we learn it's already arrived to paint Palestine and it will be painted as the weather permits.

Brother Jasper Sharron doesn't improve any.

Aunt Betty Sharron is sick.

Mr. L. C. Tucker and wife had the misfortune to drive his car down a fill; fortunately no one was hurt.

Uncle John Landreth spent the week-end in the home of the writer. He is planning to spend Christmas in Pennsylvania with his son.

REPORTER.

Halifax—We have been very busy since Conference. We have met all of our appointments, and everything is starting off well, and many things coming in to remind us that we are living among a kind, liberal hearted people who are always ready to co-operate with their pastor.

On last Wednesday evening Eden Church and Sunday school gave us a very pleasant surprise. We had visited earlier in the day in that community and at one home we had noticed a nice chicken in a box, and we made some remarks about their Thanksgiving chicken, but did not know that we were looking our own Thanksgiving chicken in the face. Well, late in the afternoon Wednesday, Brother and Sister J. W. Hardee drove up with their car well loaded with good things, which made the pastor and family glad that we were sent back to Halifax for another year, and that we had lived to see another Thanksgiving day. After taking an inventory of these things we found we had meat, lard, sugar, flour, canned fruit and dried fruit, cereals of different kinds, oranges, apples, a nice Thanksgiving chicken and two or three dozen eggs. The Eden Sunday school presented their pastor with a nice Sunday shirt, and two pair of silk socks. We are going to be dressed up when we go to Eden Church again. (We forgot to say someone sent us some soap). The following had a part in this pounding: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. Z. A. Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Lock, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Willey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Willey, Mrs. J. R. Dickens, Miss Lula Neville, Miss Allie Ponds, Mrs. Mary Ponds, Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mrs. W. M. Smith, Mrs. Josephine Bellamy, E. I. Bellamy, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rives, Mrs. Fred Bennett, Robert Ivy, Mrs. Mamie McDaniel, Miss Blanch Hardee, Mrs. W. H. Howington, Mrs. S. A. Whitley and Mr. Robert Daniel.

We want to thank every one for these kind remembrances and we will try to give better service in return.

Our first quarterly conference will convene with Ringwood Church on Friday before the third Sunday in December at 2 p. m. We

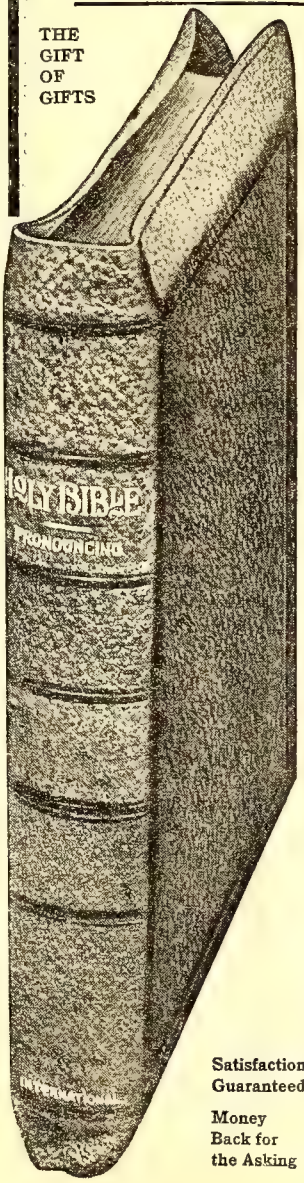
THE BEST BIBLE in the WORLD for the MONEY

ILLUSTRATED SELF-PRONOUNCING

GIFT BIBLE

SUITABLE FOR YOUNG AND OLD

BOUND IN GENUINE FLEXIBLE LEATHER



THE GIFT OF GIFTS

CONTAINING

THE KING JAMES OR AUTHORIZED VERSION OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS

HAS

SELF-PRONOUNCING TEXT
All the proper words being accented and divided into syllables for quick and easy pronunciation.

LARGE BLACK FACE TYPE
Specimen of Type

and of Ar'pad? where are the gods of Sĕph-ar-vā'im, Hē'nā, and I'vah? have they delivered Sā-mā'rĭ-ā out of mine hand?
35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered

IT ALSO CONTAINS

A NEW SERIES OF HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE
Selected for their general utility.

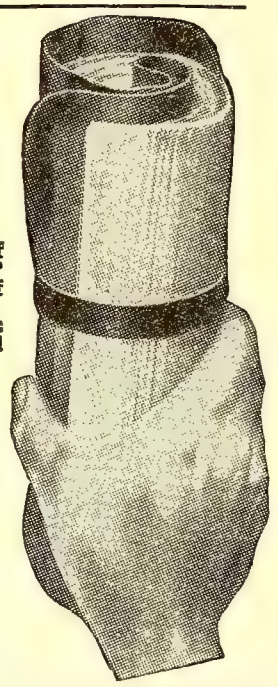
INCLUDING

4500 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS which unfold the Scriptures. A feature of great value to old and young.

31 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS showing scenes and incidents of Bible History, handsomely printed on enamel paper in phototone ink.

12 MAPS OF THE BIBLE LANDS IN COLORS
Printed on superior white paper, size 5½ x 8¼ inches. Suitable to carry or for home reading.

BOUND IN GENUINE FLEXIBLE LEATHER with overlapping covers, red under gold edges, round corners, headband and purple marker. Each Bible packed in handsome box



This Special Bible is bound in DIVINITY CIRCUIT STYLE (overlapping covers). It is so durably and so flexibly BOUND IN GENUINE FRENCH SEAL LEATHER that it can be rolled without injury to binding or sewing. The Bible has red under gold edges, headband and purple marker. Each Bible is carefully packed in a neat and substantial box.

SPECIAL OFFER

PRICE ONLY $2.95
PREPAID

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Money Back for the Asking

USE THIS COUPON

THE INTERNATIONAL BIBLE LEAGUE
1010 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please send, All Charges Prepaid, THE SPECIAL GIFT BIBLE which you are offering at a SPECIAL PRICE OF $2.95. I enclose herewith Money Order for the amount.
(This Bible furnished with Patent Thumb Index, 45 cents extra.
Name in gold on cover, 30 cents extra.)

NAME .....

ADDRESS M-85

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

want all the officials to come and help make the program for this Conference year.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor

Friendship Station—The Conference year has gone and we have started on a new one. Let us pledge ourselves to do more for our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, this year than ever before.

Rev. Mr. Hill has filled his appointments every time, delivering wonderful messages to his congregations.

We have organized a Christian Endeavor Society in our church and it is doing good work, no longer than it has been organized and all being new to the work, and we ask the prayers of all the other societies and we pledge our prayers to you all.

O. L. HATLEY, Reporter.

Orange Chapel—The Myra Cranford M. B. of Orange Chapel church met at the home of Mrs. Foust Thompson for their November meeting with the following program:

Song by children; prayer by Mrs. Foust Thompson; things we are thankful for, each child telling their own way the things they were thankful for; recitation by Elizabeth Thompson; recitation by Margaret Pickard; duet, Paulette and Margaret Edwards; recitations by Allen Thompson and Lucile Edwards; reading by Mrs. Thompson; recitation by Ruth Crawford; recitation by Bessie Mae Smith; song by Lucile Edwards and Ruth Crawford.

After the program refreshments were served by Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Thompson.

The next meeting will be held at the church.

ELIZABETH THOMPSON, Sec.

St. Paul—We arrived here Thursday, November 18, and are being cordially received by the people of St. Paul. On Friday evening a large number of the people came in and gave us a splendid pounding. We had a delightful time together for an hour, then they departed, leaving us to recover as best we could from the effects of the pounding. We have not fully recovered, for they brought us so many needful articles, for which we are very grateful and also for the spirit that was manifested.

On Wednesday of the next week, the Ladies' Aid Society had a suite of furniture for the living room placed in the parsonage. Indeed, we are grateful for the good work the ladies are doing for the church.

We have been here for two Sundays and have enjoyed the services. These people are easy to preach to, for they are a praying people, and the Christian atmosphere inspires us to a deeper life in the service of God. If you want to enjoy Christian fellowship, then come over to St. Paul and you will be delighted with the pleasant association that you will be greeted with.

They have the best prayer meeting here that I have been in in several years. It is food to the soul. Come and enjoy a love-feast with us on Wednesday evening, 7:30.

We also have a good Sunday school here. Our first quarterly conference will be held Saturday night, December 4, at 7:30 o'clock.

N. BRITTAIN, Pastor.

West End—The Philathea class of West End Church delightfully entertained the members of the church in honor of their new pastor, Dr. J. D. Williams, on Thursday, November 18. During the evening a very interesting program was presented. Mrs. J. R. Holden and Miss Lurlei Smith gave several selections on the piano, and Mrs. A. E. Pleasants a group of readings. L. M. Foust, chairman of the official board, made the speech of welcome for the church. Dr. Spahr and Rev. N. M. Marrison welcomed Dr. Williams to the city and other churches. Delicious refreshments were then served.

The Philathea class held its business meeting at the home of Mrs. V. C. Stockard Tuesday night, November 23. After the routine business plans for the bazaar and chicken supper, to be held in the near future, were made, the proceeds to go to the new Sunday school building so badly needed at West End. Instead of the ragular social meeting following the business meeting the members of the class worked on articles to be sold at the bazaar. During the evening the hostesses served refreshments. REPORTER.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER — EVEN CHRIST — BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., DECEMBER 9, 1926 NUMBER 5

Pres Elderdice Adec'y
Westminster MD

Seekest Thou Great Things For Thyself?

This question is directed to Baruch by the Prophet Jeremiah, and with the question is given the injunction or advice, Seek them not.

The prophet would save Baruch from great disappointment by reducing his expectations. Perhaps the proverb was not then current that blessed is he that expecteth nothing, for he shall not be disappointed. But the prophet with his insight into the future that lay just ahead of Israel saw the absurdity of Baruch's expectation of gaining great things for himself. He would do well to escape with his life, and that was promised to him. It was not a time for building great expectations and seeking large profits. It was a time for anxious concern regarding one's own existence. Baruch was of a noble family and was distinguished by his acquirements and had a brother in high position, and it was natural that he should have high expectations. But the prophet knew better what the future had in store for him. Time proved the prophet right. Baruch fled to Egypt to escape the wrath of the king and probably died in exile. Certainly the prophet was wise and good in trying to prepare Baruch for the real destiny that lay before him. What a contrast between what Baruch had been expecting and the things that befell him.

And does not the prophet's advice to Baruch have a much wider application? Are his words not pertinent to any man or woman: "Seekest thou great things for thyself? Seek them not." There are two reasons why men should not seek great things for themselves. First, they will never be able to gain what they seek except in rare instances. Conditions do not favor the success of their efforts. They are engaged in a vain struggle. They will reach the end of life before they attain what they have in view. They are destined to become victims of their own poor judgments. In their disappointment they will reproach themselves for ever having undertaken to achieve the impossible. Then there is the second reason that great things are not needed by the individual man. "Man wants but little here below nor wants that little long." Why make provision for oneself all out of proportion to one's individual needs. A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesseth. Things, no matter how great or how numerous, cannot make happy. The small amount required for actual needs has value. What is more than that is a care and a burden.

Notice that the prophet does not forbid the seeking of great ends. There are great ends to be sought in every life, ends so great that it is absurd to mention mere things in comparison with them. There is a great Kingdom to be sought by every soul. The quest for this Kingdom will occupy every day and every hour of life. It is the Kingdom of God. Seek it first of all, said Jesus, and all things needed shall be added unto you. But how foolish it is to expect that the life spent in pursuit of things shall eventuate in the possession of the Kingdom of Righteousness.

Christian Church Memorials

Rev. James O'Kelly was the leader of the movement which resulted in the founding of the Christian Church. At Old Lebanon Meeting House, in Surry County, Va., on August 4, 1794, a resolution was adopted declaring that the name "Christian" is sufficient for the church and that the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice. The Southern Christian Convention in its April meeting of this year decided to create an appropriate memorial on the site of the Old Lebanon Church. This site is on the Virginia State Highway. It was also decided to establish on the campus of Elon College a suitable memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly, who died October 16, 1826. Already some money is in hand for the establishment of these memorials.

The Church Paper the Pastor's Assistant

Rev. J. W. Hulin at the last session of our Conference in this city remarked to the editor of The Herald that the people that read the church paper are the ones that the pastor must mainly rely upon to carry out the program of the church. This remark was based upon Brother Hulin's own experience and observations. What Brother Hulin has thus learned has been observed by many other pastors. It is a common remark among intelligent pastors that the church paper is the pastor's assistant.

More Brevity, Please

We are receiving more church reports than we have room for. Every week some must be deferred to the next week. We do not ask fewer people to write, but we ask all to be as economical of space as possible. Some things are interesting to write, but not interesting to read. Consider before you write a sentence whether it will be found worth while to the readers.

Unable to find space for all, we are compelled to abbreviate some articles. We prefer that writers would do the abbreviating. We take delight in publishing articles just as they were written when they were written just as they should be.

The Centenary of Our Conference

The first session of the North Carolina Conference was held in December, 1828. The session recently held in Greensboro is known sa the one hundred and first session. The explanation is that in early days the Conference met twice a year for two different years. In December, 1928, our Conference will be one hundred years old, but in that year will hold its one hundred and third session.

—What matters it whether our place be great or small if it is only God's place for us?

COMMUNION BREAD

By Lee Anna Starr, D. D.

The Lord's Supper was instituted on the occasion of the Passion Feast at Jerusalem. The Passover was the great feast of the Jewish year. It was celebrated on the 14th day of the month Nisan, corresponding to our March or April. It was also called the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Mark 14:12 we read, "The first day of unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the Passover." Luke 22:7, "The day of unleavened bread came, on which the Passover must be sacrificed." Luke 22:1, "The feast Passover." Matt. 26:17, 18, "Now on the first day of unleavened bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying, When wilt thou that we make ready for thee to eat the Passover?"

The Passover feast as commonly observed was as follows: The lamb was selected, carried to the temple, and slain between the two evenings. It was then stretched on two skewers of pomegranate wood arranged in the form of a cross, and roasted. The feast itself began after the going down of the sun, when the stars appeared. On the table was placed the paschal lamb, bitter herbs, unleavened bread, a cup filled with grape juice. In later times the Jews added a dish of Cherseth to remind them of the bricks and mortar of Egypt, but there is no mention of this in the Bible. A benediction was offered and the cup passed. Then a basin of water and towel were brought in that each man might wash his hands. It is probably at this juncture that Jesus arose and washed the disciples' feet. After this another blessing was pronounced. The bitter herbs, memorial of hard bondage in Egypt, were now passed. Then followed the second cup. After this there was a recital of the story of the servitude in Egypt and the deliverance. The first part of the Great Hallel—the 113th and 114th psalms—was sung. The head of the feast now took two unleavened cakes, and breaking one laid the pieces on the other unbroken cake and pronounced a thanksgiving. The flesh of the roasted lamb was passed and then the general meal followed, each individual helping himself. The Passover meal closed with the giving of thanks, the passing of the third cup which was called "the cup of blessing," and the singing of the 115th, 116th and 117th psalms—the second part of the Great Hallel. Now it was these closing ceremonies of the Passover feast that Jesus used in the institution of the Lord's Supper. It was not a new ordinance but part of the old ordinance converted to a new use and given a new signification. Taking up the unleavened cake lying before him, he broke it and passed to His disciples, saying, "Take, eat, this is my body which is broken for you." Then passing the third cup of the Passover—the cup of blessing as it was called, He said, "Drink ye all of it for this is my blood of the covenant which is shed for many unto the remission of sins." It seems to me there can be no question as to this being the third cup of the Passover, for in I Cor. 10:16, we read, "The cup of blessing." (The third cup of the Passover was called the cup of blessing.) "The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ." After the institution of the Lord's Supper we read, "And when they had sung a hymn, they went out." This hymn was the 115th, 116th and 117th psalms, the last part of the Great Hallel which concluded the Passover feast. So the Lord's Supper, as instituted by the Lord Jesus, was the closing ceremonies of the Passover feast, carried over into the new dispensation and converted to a new purpose. The Passover feast, as we have noted, was also called "The feast of unleavened bread," as that was the only kind of bread that could be used on such occasion. God's command here was most explicit. Exodus 12:15, 16 we read, "Seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread, even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever shall eat leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall be cut off from Israel."

Exodus 12:18-20, "In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even. Seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a sojourner, or one that is born in the land. Ye shall eat nothing leavened. In all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread."

Exodus 13:6, 7, "Seven days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and in the seventh day shall be a feast to Jehovah. Unleavened bread shall be eaten throughout the seven days. And there shall no leavened bread be seen with thee, neither shall there be leaven seen with thee in all thy borders."

Deut. 16:3-5, "Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it. Seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction. . . . And there shall be no leaven seen with thee in all thy borders seven days; neither shall any of the flesh which thou sacrificest the first day at even, remain all night until the morning." Other passages might be quoted.

The Jews were scrupulous in their observance of this command. Not a particle of leaven remained in or about their premises during the continuance of this feast. Preparations began the night before. The houses were searched with a lighted candle and a small broom for fear some crumb might be hidden in some corner. The search was prosecuted in rigorous silence. Every crumb found was gathered up and burned. "Vessels were cleansed with prescribed rites. Metal dishes were first scoured and then dipped in boiling water, in a pot used for no other purpose." After this they were plunged in cold water. "Iron vessels were heated red-hot and then subjected to the same treatment. Wooden vessels were wetted and then rubbed with red-hot stones. The same care was exercised in the preparation of the unleavened bread."

As unleavened bread was the only kind of bread used at the Passover, it is certain that unleavened bread was used at the institution of the Lord's Supper, and we have no warrant for the using of common or leavened bread in the celebration of this ordinance. It may be asserted that the spirit in which we partake has more to do, and is more important than the elements. We answer that the proper spirit is the spirit of obedience to God's commands. As all ferment or leaven was excluded from the borders of Israel, and the soul that partook of ferment or leaven was cut off from the congregation, unfermented wine was the only kind of wine used. Indeed the word wine does not occur in the Bible in connection with the Lord's Supper. The drink used is called, "The Cup" and the "Fruit of the vine." The controversies over the use of fermented wine in years past might have been avoided by remembering the occasion on which the Lord's Supper was instituted.

There was a deep-seated reason why ferment of every kind was excluded from the Passover feast, and the same reason prevails for the Lord's Supper. The Passover feast was not only commemorative but it was also symbolic. It prefigured the sacrifice of Christ—the Lamb of God. The apostle Paul says, "Our Passover has been sacrificed for us, even Christ." Leaven is the result of decay. You can not have fermentation without decomposition. Christ was sacrificed and his body laid in the tomb, but it did not see corruption. So to admit leaven to the Passover or to the Lord's Supper is to destroy or vitiate the symbolism. For the same reason it was enjoined that no part of the Paschal Lamb be left until the morning, or if any part remained until the morning it must be burned with fire. This in order to prevent putrefaction. We noted the fact that every Paschal Lamb when slain was stretched on a cross of pomegranate wood. For 2,000 years prior to the advent of Christ the Jews had been hanging the Passover lamb on a cross without once grasping the thought that when the Lamb of God should come He, too, would be suspended on a cross.

Our study of the time and circumstances under which the Lord's Supper was instituted leads us to the conclusion that the only kind of bread proper to be used in the observance of this sacrament is unleavened bread.

Recipe for Communion Bread.—One quart of flour, with which sift two heaping teaspoons of baking powder and a level teaspoon of salt; one cup of sugar, two eggs, and three-quarter cup of cream. After rolling a quarter of an inch thick, mark in squares of one inch and bake in oven until it is very pale brown. Unleavened wafers may be purchased from firms in a number of our large cities.—L. A. S.—Methodist Recorder.

NOTES BY AN OBSERVER

In a recent issue of the Christian Advocate the statement was made that the pastoral ranks in both the North Carolina Conference and Oklahoma Conference were overcrowded. That it was found necessary in certain particulars to superannuate some men who were not old enough to be superannuated in order to obey the Disciplinary requirement in giving to all an appointment who were asking for it.

It has been ascertained by careful investigation that only 39 per cent of the income for running expenses of the average American College comes from the fees which students pay. Thus 61 per cent of the total running expenses must be found either from endowment, from gifts or from the budgets of the churches to which the institutions belong.

There was never a time in the history of the Methodist Protestant Church when more money was spent on church buildings and paid to the pastors who preach in them. But I suppose there never was a time when there were more members of the Methodist Protestant Church, and when these members were better able to pay. And yet, compared with what the Seventh Day Adventists give each year per member, the members of the Methodist Protestant Church have not begun to pay to these causes.

Should churches have a program for their activities? The Methodist Protestant Church lived so long without a program and is still going on the wind of other days that even to suggest that a program be outlined and adopted sounds like heresy of the rankest sort to many who hear it. The church is possibly in the same situation as to the program now certain communities used to be about an educated ministry, regarding the whole thing as a sacrilege and a superficial act.

—We thank Brother John W. Moore for a large pumpkin left at our office. This gives us a vision or at least a faint hope of an extended series of pumpkin pies with crust somewhat less than "a mile high."

AIMS FOR 1926-1927

Presented by the Pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson, D. D., and Adopted by First Quarterly Conference, Gibsonville Charge

1. Every member boosting and working.
2. A revival in every heart.
3. A church paper in every home.
4. Bible reading and praying in every home every day.
5. An attendance at midweek prayer meeting we would not be ashamed of if the Master were to come in.
6. As many attending Sunday school each Sunday as there are members of the local church.
7. The church one hundred per cent organized.
8. Each organization in the church quickened in interest and enlarged in working force.
9. Paying all claims monthly, the stewards informing the members as to the financial status.
10. A study as to God's claim upon the services and the money of the individual.

This is as fine a program as I ever heard a pastor present to his people at the beginning of the Conference year. Every local church will do well to adopt these or similar aims for the year.

A. G. Dixon.

GOALS FOR 1926-1927

Presented by the Pastor, Rev. D. I. Garner, and Adopted by First Quarterly Conference, Why Not Charge

1. Fifty per cent increase in number of church papers taken.
2. Better Gospel hymn-books in all the churches, therefore better singing.
3. A greater spiritual awakenening to our Lord's commission to the Church.
4. An increase in church members of at least fifty-two.
5. Every cent of every claim paid by October 26th, 1927.

The above are worthy goals, and if reached it will be a happy pastor and a happy people who meet in the fourth quarterly conference of the year.

A. G. Dixon.

DID JESUS TALK ABOUT MONEY?

Dr. Walter L. Lingle says, in the Presbyterian of the South, "Did Jesus talk about money?

"If you will search the four Gospels with this question in mind you will probably conclude that He had more to say about money, directly or indirectly, than about any other single topic. Think of all the parables in which He refers to money! We think at once of the parables of the talents, the pounds, the unjust steward, the man hiring workers for his vineyard, Dives and Lazarus, the rich fool, the lost coin, the good Samaritan, and the prodigal son. We think, too, of the stories of the rich young ruler, Zaccheus, the widow and her mite, and the woman with the precious ointment. In addition to these, we recall the words of Jesus about laying up treasure upon earth, about the peril of trusting in riches, and about the extreme difficulty the rich have in entering the kingdom of God, so that it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom. These are but samples of the sayings of Jesus about money that come crowding to the mind as we think on this subject. Even a casual reading of the Gospels will reveal many more such references."

The WORK and the WORKERS

Gibsonville

Last Wednesday evening, December 1st, we were with Dr. T. M. Johnson and his people in their first quarterly conference in Gibsonville. It was a splendid quarterly conference. Their local and general budget combined for the year is rather high, and yet they were making the every-member canvass with a view to paying it all, and of paying it monthly. The church is very nearly 100 per cent organized and they plan to complete the organization before they meet in the second quarterly conference.

Dr. Johnson seems happy in the work, the people are responding beautifully to his leadership, and we predict for them a splendid year's work in the Lord's service.

In another column you will find the "Aims" Dr. Johnson presented, which the conference adopted, and the church plans to work toward. Every local church in the Conference will do well to adopt these "Aims."

Why Not

On Saturday morning, December 4th, we were with Rev. D. I. Garner and his people in their first quarterly conference at New Hope, on Why Not. The conference was well attended and the spirit of the conference was good. Brother Garner is developing wonderfully and doing splendid work on this large circuit. He made some excellent recommendations to the conference. They were adopted and if carried out during the year it will mean much in Kingdom service.

A fine, new hard surfaced road has recently been finished from Asheboro to Seagrove. This runs rights through the center of Why Not Circuit, leaving the churches off the road. What is needed, it seems to me, is for these fine people to get together and build two good country churches up on this highway to take the place of five churches. This can be done to the glory of God and to the betterment of His work among these communities.

Randleman

At 2:45 p. m. on last Saturday we reached New Salem on Randleman Charge and found Rev. W. H. Neese and his people going ahead with their quarterly conference. This conference was also well attended and the interest was good. The pastor made only a few recommendations, but they were to the point and were adopted. These, if carried out, will mean much better reports at the end of the year.

This charge has a splendid new parsonage, but the charge is handicapped with parsonage debt at present. If the charge will bestir itself and raise all the floating debt, and thus leave only the building and loan to be paid, they will then be free to do much better in finances in other things. Brother Neese and his good wife are much loved, and they are doing a fine work on Randleman.

We were privileged to attend Sunday school at Mount Lebanon and preaching services at Mount Lebanon and New Salem.

Our Superannuates

When we visit Randleman it is always a pleasure to talk with Rev. J. F. Dosier. He and Mrs. Dosier were invited to two meals where we were, and it was a pleasure to be thrown with them.

This leads me to say that all of our superannuated ministers as well as others who are without regular work, will be glad to preach occasionally. Any man who is called of God to preach delights to preach. So pastors will do well to invite these men to preach betimes. On many circuits there are churches that do not have preaching often enough, and in such churches the laymen will do well to invite these men to preach occasionally. Some of them would rather preach for nothing than not to preach; but I suggest that at such services a free-will offering be taken to pay expenses of the trip and more.

The Lord's Acre

We trust that many of our country people will begin in time to plan for that acre, which is to be planted and tended and gathered and sold for the Lord, and the proceeds turned in on the budgets. Home and Foreign Missionary Societies or C. E. Societies, or Bible Class might plan such work with good results. Some definite plan to raise money for the Lord's work is what we should aim at.

Monthly Payments

We are so glad to hear from so many churches and charges where they are planning to pay the budgets, as well as pastor's salary, monthly this year. So far as we know, Pleasant Grove was the only charge which actually paid any one of the budgets monthly last year. This church paid the A. C. B. monthly last year, and we are hoping they will do that well by all the budgets this year.

Some are paying the budgets in full early this year, and that is a wonderful help; for without such charges it would be difficult to get by in the early part of the year. However, if all charges will really pay budgets by the month all will be well.

Watch THE HERALD next week to see who has paid and how much. By the end of this week one monthly payment, at least, should be in on budgets from all charges.

Democrat

Rev. H. W. Bell has been appointed pastor of Democrat Charge and is expected to move to Democrat and enter upon his duties as pastor at an early date.

Appointments

December 10, 2 p. m.—Tabernacle quarterly conference.

December 10, 7 p. m.—Kernersville quarterly conference.

December 11, 10:30 a. m.—W. Thomasville quarterly conference.

December 11, 2 p. m.—South Lexington quarterly conference.

December 12—Community Church, Thomasville.

December 18 and 19—Chatham.

Faithfully yours in His Service,

A. G. DIXON.

—Pastors who give their full time to the ministry in the Methodist Protestant Church and do not receive over $500 and cost of parsonage rent may receive a considerable supplement to their salaries by applying to President of the General Conference, Dr. T. H. Lewis, 2844 Wisconsin Ave., Washington, D. C.

—Ohio law forbids theatrical performances on Sunday. Under this law a man was indicted for running a moving-picture show on Sunday. It was objected that a moving-picture show is not a theatrical performance. The Supreme Court of Ohio has decided that it is a theatrical performance in the meaning of the statute, and therefore illegal on the Sabbath day.

Denominational Enterprises

HOME MISSIONS

From August 16 to November 16 it was my privilege to visit 14 of our Conferences in their Annual sessions. This required absence from the office and my home but it was an interesting experience and greatly enjoyed. This itinerary began with the Missouri Conference. The others, named in the order of visitation, are Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa-Missouri, Kansas, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Eastern, Florida, Fort Smith-Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama. At eight of these I was the only Secretary present, the other brethren not being able to attend. Ample time was given to present in detail the work of each Board.

In nearly every instance it was my first visit. I arrived as a stranger but did not long remain as such. The cordial greeting, the brotherly spirit manifested soon made me feel that I was one of them. I have been convinced that the acquaintanceship and fellowship formed at these Annual gatherings counts for as much, and in some instances more than any addresses made. In saying this I do not mean to minify or undervalue the presentation of the great interests involved. The address, however, may be forgotten but the ties of friendship formed and the brotherly spirit created are lasting.

Many of these ministers and laymen, particularly in the west and south, are on charges widely scattered and have very little opportunity of meeting the brethren of their own Conferences during the year, and as for the General Conference officers all they know them, in a personal way, is during the Annual Conference session. In my short experience as Secretary, from the impression I have received, it would seem far better for a Secretary to visit fewer Conferences and remain longer at those to which he goes and by this means have more time to mingle with the brethre n. When one rushes in, makes his speech and hurries out to catch the train for the next Conference, however well he may have presented the great interests he represents, he has not gotten far into the hearts of his brethren. There is nothing that takes the place of the personal touch. This is not in any sense offered as a criticism of anyone's course of procedure, for all the brethren manifest the finest spirit of fraternity possible and all regret that in many instances the time is necessarily brief.

I wish to express the pleasure it has given me in these visits not only to recognize the fraternal spirit extended by the brethren, but the interest shown in the important work as represented by the four great departments of our denominational activities, namely, Foreign Missions, Home Missions, the Board of Education and the Young People's work and the willingness of both minsters and laymen to co-operate with the Boards in carrying forward these interests. There may be exceptions, but the majority are interested and anxious to do their part as faithful ministers and loyal laymen.

Another impression received in association with these brethren in all the Conferences is their intense loyalty to the Methodist Protestant Church and its principles with their willingness to make sacrifices whenever necessary to maintain these great principles. In all of my attendance upon the Conference sessions and association with the brethren, both ministerial and lay, I do not recall that I heard one discordant note sounded as to their relation to the church. On the other hand, there were many strong expressions of approval of the things for which the church stands and their determination to hold fast to these great tenets even though, in some instances, under discouraging conditions.

My further experience leads me to say that while some Conferences are small and a few have even lost ground that altogether there is a hopeful spirit with a determination to press forward and make the future a success. This is manifest in many ways. One which is very pronounced is a realization among the small Conferences that they must establish churches in the towns and cities within the bounds of their Conferences. There is an awakening of interest in this. I will mention Arkansas Conference as an illustration, although others could be named.

This Conference has recently erected two splendid churches, one in Haynesville, of which Rev. W. R. Clower is the successful pastor, and the other in Magnolia. Rev. J. A. Wade, who was pastor there for 10 years and under whose ministry the splendid church there was built, has gone to El Dorado, about 40 miles distant, where a society has been organized and where he hopes to erect a large church. He has gone without the promise of any support except what the new organization will give him. It was my privilege to visit El Dorado while in Arkansas. It is a city of about 30,000 population in the midst of the rich oil fields of that state. A lot has been donated. The prospect for a new church in the near future is most promising. This is the vision and the spirit that many of the small Conferences need and I am gratified to state that there is evidence of progress in this direction.

As to the relation the Board of Home Missions has sustained toward the Conferences named in this letter, and the practical evidences of interest shown by the help rendered, it may be of interest to our readers to be told that the Board has been aiding churches and charges in 11 of these Conferences either by donations or loans in the erection of buildings, payment of debts or the support of pastors and Annual Conference Presidents. This is a fine showing of the manner in which the Board has extended assistance through such a wide area of our church. It will be well, however, to state that this is not new work the Board has taken up, lest the other charges that have more recently applied for help will think there is discrimination shown. It is largely the carrying on of plans undertaken previous to incurring the present indebtedness. The great desire and purpose of the Board is to get in a position where it can respond to the many worthy appeals now being made.

J. M. Sheridan.

WHERE TO FIND JESUS

"You've been seeking long for Jesus,
For you've felt your need of Him,
But you've failed because you're seeking
In the world for Heaven's King!
Know you not, poor weary seeker,
That the Christ is not found there?
You will find His habitation
In the secret place of prayer."

—Rev. C. R. Green, who attained great notoriety some years ago for being at the head of a great community church in Missouri, is now president of the Iowa-Missouri Conference. The Methodist Recorder of December 4 presents an excellent likeness of him.

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

South Lexington—The Annual Conference at Greensboro last month decreed that West Lexington church be called South Lexington in the future, hence the change of name at the head of this article.

Last Sunday was a good day for the Sunday school of the South Lexington church with 167 persons recorded present. This is the highest attendance record ever made by the Sunday school, according to the older members who recall the high mark in attendance in the past. A practice of the program for the Christmas service was held after the Sunday school last Sunday.

The people who gathered for the church services last Sunday were disappointed, as the pastor, Rev. Atlas Ridge, had become ill on Saturday night and was not able to be in his pulpit on Sunday morning. There was no service at the morning hour, but at the night service Brother C. L. Hedrick, class leader and teacher of the men's class, conducted the service. He made an interesting and helpful talk on a Scripture lesson from Matthew 18:1-14, and discussed the 11th verse in particular: "The son of man is come to seek and save that which was lost." This writer was called on for a talk following the talk by Brother Hedrick. Brother Ridge was not seriously ill, but was able to be up and out again the first of the week. He is expecting to preach at both services next Sunday.

In one of the reports in the Herald last week appeared a very unusual statement, which was to the effect that the church from which the report was made had paid salaries of four ministers during the last year. Three of the ministers were former pastors. That is a good example for many other churches and charges owing former pastors on back salaries. It is shameful the way some charges neglect to meet their obligations with pastors.

The first quarterly conference for the South Lexington charge which was announced for Saturday afternoon, December 4, has been postponed one week, and will be held on Saturday afternoon, December 11, at 2 o'clock. Pastor Ridge announces that Dr. Dixon will be present and preside.

Pastor Ridge and Mrs. Ridge are temporarily located at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Deaton until a suitable parsonage can be secured for them. They are living at 17 Pickard Circle, in the southern section of Lexington.

Jerusalem—Our regular preaching service was held last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting of the First Quarterly Conference which was announced previously was postponed until the Second Sunday morning in December, which will be the next regular appointment. This is a new charge and the quarterly conference will be organized at that time by the election of a secretary and an advisory committee, also examination committee.

There have been two preaching services held during the new Conference year and two new members have been received. This writer and his wife were received by letter from South Lexington charge last Sunday afternoon. We are following our rule in placing our membership with the church or charge we serve as pastor as an encouragement and in order to aid the church with our little contributions in raising its budget. Many other pastors do not follow such a plan but this pastor believes in setting the right example for others.

The membership of Jerusalem church is comparatively small and the people are somewhat scattered in their residences. We have had the privilege of visiting in only a few of the homes of the members, but expect to go into all of the homes during the year.

C. B. WAY, pastor.

Flat Rock—The first quarterly conference of Flat Rock Circuit will meet at Gideon's Grove Church on Saturday before the third Sunday in December. Preaching at 11 a. m., quarterly meeting at 1 p. m., dinner on the ground.

Our fathers had time to give one day each quarter to look after the kingdom of our God. Will we do worse than they did and cause our children to do worse than we do? May the Lord move upon the hearts at each church in such a way that many from each church will feel moved to come to this important service. JOEL B. TROGDON.

Mecklenburg, Roberta—Another Conference year with its joys and its sorrows, its gains and its losses, its victories and its defeats, and its crowns and it crosses has passed. Many churches have new pastors and many pastors have new fields in which to work for the Master. So let us rejoice over our gains, victories and crowns, and make stepping-stones of the losses, sorrows, defeats, and crosses, and climb onward and upward to the heights of God. If the past has not been what it should have been we have no one to quarrel with but ourselves, for it is just what we, as pastor and people, have made it; no more and no less. If we wish to see the cause of our failures it might be well for us to take a peep in the looking-glass—in most cases, if not in all.

The people on Mecklenburg Circuit have endeared themselves to the writer and his family. The longer we stayed with them the better they proved themselves to be. On our last visit to Zoar Church, aftr raising the salary in full, and having a precious service, I went to my car to start home, and what do you reckon? The good people had outraged that Ford with a pounding and there it sat, helpless under its burden of good things for the pastor and his family. I should like to name the gifts and the givers, but space will not permit. Suffice it to say, God knows them all by name, and will reward them fully. Then I went to a Brother Morris' store to get some boxes for packing and when I returned to the Ford there was another pounding? The merchant gets the credit, but he surely had help; it was too much for one family. Then the evening before we were to leave Stallings the next day, the Ladies' Aid filed in with their families, and such another picnic table as was spread! This was a delightful occasion, eating, chatting, and worshiping the Giver of all good. May God bless them, for they have been a blessing to us.

We arrived in the parsonage at Roberta mid-afternoon November 19th. At nightfall things were piled and tumbled, and all hands and the cook were doing what we could to bring order out of chaos. The door opened, and we turned to see what had happened, or was about to happen. And in stepped an unbidden person; we peeped out, and there was a throng of smiling men and boys, reaching to the highway. Some were bending under the burden of a hundred pounds of flour. They filed in, made their way to the kitchen, and what they placed there was a plenty. This was about the first time the writer had nothing to do but say howdy, and look and grin. You know I was to be pitied. I cannot name the visitors nor their offerings for lack of space. God will remember them, and I cannot forget. What I lack in words I will try to make up in love. May God richly bless them every one. I know He will.

The folks around Roberta have a fine knowledge of human nature. They know the nearest route to hearts—by way of the stomach. When all other avenues are closed to a hungry soul, it may be reached through a hungry stomach.

At our first service at the church we had 158 in Sunday school. Sunday school collection was $5.28. The house was practically full for preaching service. A thank-offering is being taken for the Children's Home.

Pray for us and write to us. Our address is Concord, N. C., Doute 6.

ROBERT SHORT.

Chatham Circuit—On Sunday, November 7, I began my work on the Chatham Circuit by preaching at the Hope Church in Bonlee. The attendance was large and much interest was manifested. On the 14th I filled the first appointment at Hickory Grove. An enthusiastic spirit wa sin evidence here. Brother W. M. Pike was present and took an active and helpful part in the service.

The prospect seems good for a successful year on the work. I feel sure that it will be a pleasure to work with the good people of the Chatham Circuit, even as it has been a pleasure to labor with the Fairview people.

C. G. ISLEY.

Albemarle—As it has been some time since we have made a report and so many good things have happened, we must tell you a few of them. Our Sunday school is getting along very well; not as many in school as we would like to see. Since our former pastor, Rev. Mr. Kelly, left we have been fortunate to have had with us and to preach for us Rev. Mr. Ridge; also Mrs. Dixon preached one Sunday at 11 a. m. and Dr. Dixon at 7 p. m. We were delighted to have these good folks with us. Our new pastor, Rev. J. R. Anderson, and family are now at home in the parsonage. Mrs. Anderson and little baby arrived here from Georgia where Rev. Mr. Anderson has been serving in the Georgia Conference, but coming to our Conference this year and being assigned to our church. We are very grateful to the Annual Conference and especially the stationing committee for sending us such an able preacher as Rev. Mr. Anderson. We believe we have as good as there is in the North Carolina Conference. On last Wednesday a goodly number gathered at Mr. Lipe's store and from there made their way to the parsonage laden with vegetables, flour, sugar and other things pertaining to housekeeping, and loaded down Brother Anderson's table to overflowing. From there we went to the church where he held our church conference, electing officers for this year, as we had not elected before Annual Conference on account of not having a pastor. Mr. R. L. Leonard was elected superintendent of the Sunday school and Mr. S. R. Green assistant. As I failed to get a complete list of officers for the church, I am unable to give a list of them. Mr. C. L. Holly was elected church secretary; Mr. J. U. Whitlock, treasurer. On last Sunday night Brother Anderson preached an excellent sermon, his text being Abraham's answer to God's call, "Here am I." Brother Anderson followed Abraham's life so closely from the time God called him and told him to go into a country to which He would show him and there he was to offer up his son, Isaac, as an offering to God. Abraham was old in years, yet his faith in God was so strong that he never questioned God but was determined to obey even at the cost of the life of his only son. And Isaac believed so in his father's religion that he never once questioned his father as to what all this binding him hand and foot was about but he was willing to trust his father to the last. If we as fathers and mothers would live such lives and make our religion so pure that when we hear God's call we would be willing to say, "Here am I." God does not tempt us as we sometimes think, but He is only trying our faith as He did Abraham's.

We will hold our first quarterly meeting tomorrow, Wednesday, night in order that we may get lined up on our new year's work. Watch for us this year as we are expecting big things at Albemarle.

May the blessings of God go with all pastors into their work.

R. L. LEONARD, Reporter.

Flat Rock Circuit—While we were assembled in Grace Church, Greensboro, in Annual Conference the old Conference year silently passed away, and when the stational committee read their report a new year dawned upon us. Some went to new fields of labor, others returned to take up where they left off.

The second Sunday found this pastor on the same job at Bethany and Flat Rock, yet many of the people greeted us as their new pastor and made us feel almost like we were in a new field.

The third Sunday we were at Palestine and Bethel and here we were greeted with the same reception.

Everything looks fair for another pleasant years among this people. The two years just passed have been very successful; we took into the churches 136 members. Of course we did not have a net gain of that many, for we lost some. But if all will work and pray and in all the spirit of Christ obey, that would bring about complete unity of purpose and co-operation in every phase of the work, and if we would do these things would you be surprised if God would give us more souls this year than He has in the two years just passed? There are many unsaved about us yet; whom is God depending on to save them? He is depending on every one of His children to do his part, and remember, dear friend, if you and I fail to do our part someone will meet us at the bar of God to witness against us. There are few things of interest I must mention. At my last appointment at Palestine, just before Conference, Brother John Landreth made a motion that they paint their church. So in about 10 minutes they had the money and the church is being painted. Bethel Church has raised the money and is now installing a Delco light plant. They have prayer meeting every Sunday night and have the largest attendance of any prayer meeting I have ever had the privilege to attend and are doing much good in stirring up the spiritual life in the church. Palestine, Gideon, Grace and Flat Rock all are having prayer meeting and have fairly good attendance. Gideon, Grace and Palestine, are very enthusiastic now about placing new pews in their churches. We trust it may be done during this year. Some of the people of Flat Rock church are much interested in starting their new church and I trust all are interested so that the project may soon start. Those who have pledged towards the new church want to see it start and if there are those who have not pledged, would you like to put a memorial to some friend in a new church at Flat Rock? If so, send in your pledge to Mrs. J. B. Ogburn, Summerfield, N. C. The rock is on the ground and paid for, as they purpose building a stone church. I am told it will be 100 years in 1930 since the church was organized. Will we erect a church there before then that will make glad those who look down over the battlements of Glory who once worshipped there? Will we say yes; or will we say no? What do we want to leave our children? Gold and silver, land and houses? Or do we want to leave them a monument that will point them to a country where the soul never dies? We owe something to our fathers who have gone before and we must do something for those we soon must leave.

May God bless our Zion this year.

JOEL B. TROGDON, Pastor.

Love Joy—We are glad to have Rev. D. I. Garner return to us as pastor for this year. May his work among us not be in vain.

Sunday, November 14, was the first appointment for the new year. A large congregation was present to welcome our pastor's return. He delivered an interesting and instructive message on the subject, "Visions."

Trustees, stewards and other officers of the church and Sunday school were elected for the ensuing year. We are expecting this to be the most successful of all years in regard to the Sunday school work as well as other affairs of the church. The children and young people, also the Sunday school officers, seem to be taking more interest in Sunday school than ever before.

Prayer services are held every first and third Sundays. Quite a number of people attended the services held here Sunday, November 21st.

REPORTER.

Browers Chapel, Richland Circuit.—We have been silent for quite awhile, but our church and Sunday school are moving on very nicely. Much interest is shown in both.

Our Sunday school has been re-organized.

We were sorry our former pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, was not returned to serve our charge another year. Brother Hill had served our charge for the past two years. He and his good wife endeared themselves to our people very much.

Our prayers and best wishes go with them to their new field of labor.

We welcome our new pastor, Rev. Fred Love, and his wife, to our midst. Rev. Mr. Love is a young man in the ministry, and we are looking forward to a great year's work being accomplished.

Brother Love was with us Sunday, and impressed us very much; he delivered a splendid sermon.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

MRS. M. C. HENLEY, Reporter.

Welch Memorial, High Point.—At our last Annual Conference, I was assigned to this church for my third year. I was indeed glad to come back to these good people for another year. We had such a pleasant time with them during the two years which I have served them. We are hoping that this may be even a greater year with us than the years past. We are praying for the Lord to lead us to do greater things. We have started off very well, have held one meeting which stimulated the spiritual life of the church, and saved several precious souls. Brother C. E. Ridge came to us on the first Sunday after conference and remained with us throughout the week, preaching every evening. We had from two to four professions at each service. Brother Ridge had to leave us after preaching Saturday night. On Sunday morning I opened the doors of the church and received four new members, we continued the meeting throughout Wednesday evening the following week. The Gospel team had charge of this part of the meeting; they also had good services, had professions at each service. On Thursday night (Thanksgiving) Brother Lowdermilk and some of his co-workers came with the children from the Home and rendered an interesting program; the weather was somewhat inclement, but that did not stop the people from coming, for we had a packed house, and all enjoyed the program.

Thanksgiving day was pleasant to us all the way through. It seemed that we had more to be thankful for than ever before. We began the day with an early morning service at the church with the serving of hot rolls and coffee, after which twenty-one filled baskets were taken out to the more unfortunate. This brought inspiration to all who participated; it was my privilege to take one basket into a home; this seemed to be so much appreciated, the appreciation was manifest in praising the Lord. I received enough inspiration on that one trip to last me all day, but that was not all that brought inspiration to my soul. I was already happy, was happy when I retired that night before. I was so kindly remembered by my folks; they came and gave us a real pounding Wednesday evening when they came for service; they took us unaware; Mrs. Pierce and I had gone out to the market to secure meats for our basket, and while we were gone the church came and filled our dining table and almost the whole floor with things too numerous to mention. Among the many things was a live o'possum; a little greenback was also mixed in with other things. A load of wood was also brought, then on the following Sunday two of the brethren who were not there on Wednesday night concluded the pounding with some greenbacks; we are thankful for the many things and grateful to those who gave them. On last Sunday morning we opened the doors of the church and received two new members. On Sunday night it was our happy privilege to have with us Brother N. G. Bethea, who gave us an interesting lecture on his trip to the Holy land. We all enjoyed his visit, and his message. We all enjoyed having Brother Ridge with us in our meeting, and enjoyed his wonderful, inspiring sermons, his preaching surpassed our fondest expectations, he is indeed a real preacher. We hope to have him with us again. May the Lord bless the Herald and its many readers.

Remember us in your prayers.

T. E. PIERCE.

Bethesda, North Davidson.—We are glad to have Brother R. S. Trorler return to us for the coming year as our pastor. May God's richest blessings be with him as he labors with us.

A large congregation was out last Sunday afternoon to hear him. He delivered a very helpful sermon. His next appointment here will be Sunday, December 12, at 11 a.m. Everybody is invited to come.

The first quarterly conference will meet at Bethesda Saturday before the second Sunday.

We also had with us Sunday afternoon Union Ridge Sunday school. They sang for us at the evening service. Everybody enjoyed the singing as well as having them with us. We hope they will come again.

WILLIE YOKLEY, Reporter.

Laurel Hill.—We were very fortunate to get our former pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, back with us. He met his appointment as usual the second Sunday in November and preached a splendid and interesting sermon.

Our Sunday school is getting along nicely under our new superintendent, Mr. B. H. Sain. The attendance is very good. We also are planning to give a Christmas program.

The first quarterly conference will be held Saturday before the second Sunday in December at our church.

We are very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Ambras Willis and children move back in our community.

Good luck and best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

GRACE SAIN, Reporter.

Forsyth.—Since conference much has taken place to cause rejoicing while we have had occasion for sorrow and sadness.

The pastor has filled appointments at all churches finding fair attendance at Sunday school, Christian Endeavor and church services.

At the election of officers at the various churches, before conference, the matter of electing a board of parsonage trustees and a parsonage aid was overlooked. This matter has been cared for since conference and the board of trustees is now composed of a brother from each church while a lady from each church was elected as a member of the parsonage aid. By invitation of the pastor and wife the Board of Trustees and the Parsonage Aid met in the parsonage on Tuesday, November 23. The two bodies were organized, electing Brother John F. Baity Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Mrs. R. M. Cox was elected Chairman of the Parsonage Aid, while Mrs. Ira W. Baity was elected Secretary. After the organization was perfected an inventory was made of all parsonage property. In a book prepared for the purpose all articles of parsonage furnishings as well as other parts of the property, such as doors, windows, grates &c., are listed with indications of conditions of each article. This visit and inventory is to be repeated each year.

The first quarterly conference met in Mt. Carmel church on the night of November 24. All churches except one were represented. All matters of business were transacted with interest and harmony until the matter of apportioning finances was reached. Here was a little contention but the matter was settled with satisfaction. Some of our churches are taking the advance step of paying all interests by the month. This to me is a step far in advance of the spurt either just after conference or at the close of the year or at any other time. I would be glad to see a challenge go out among our churches to pay up by the month.

Our Thanksgiving services meant success in many respects. In each church there was a special thanksgiving service at which there was an offering of good things from the homes and farms of our people as well as cash offerings for the Children's Home. When these good things were delivered at the Home the pastor was present and to say the least he was well paid in joy as a result of the appreciation on the part of the people—both children and grown ups—at the Home. If some pastor wants to have a good time my advice is for him to collect a lot of good things among his people and then take the same to the Children's Home.

At the close of the Mt. Carmel Thanksgiving service which was conducted by the Christian Endeavor society, the pastor was invited to a Sunday school class room. On entering the room he found a room full of as fine young people as are to be found anywhere. The pastor was at first puzzled to know the object of this meeting. But it was not long until it was learned that a fine donation had been prepared for the pastor and his family—another children's home had been remembered. Now like Brother Gerringer, I cannot give names or articles. There was a room full of young people and when I was homeward bound there was a car full of good things to go with me. How I would like to say all I feel these young people deserve. But I cannot. I tried to thank them and then lift them up to God in a word of prayer. He knows them and knows how to bless them with the richest of blessings. They are a fine young people and the desire of this pastor is that they may develop into the very best that is possible for them to be.

Many have been the expressions of kindness extended to the pastor and family since conference. We thank all for these kind rememberances in word or kind but most of all we want to express our appreciation by rendering worth while service to a people we are now beginning to serve for the fourth year. We are so anxious that this year may be the best yet.

In the midst of all that has been so pleasant death has visited us claiming those we loved and appreciated and leaving with us sadness and sorrow. Two of our beloved, for many years Soldiers of the Cross, have been taken.

Brother John E. Faw, a charter member of Mt. Carmel church and a very consistent christian for more than 39 years, was claimed by death on November 14. Brother Faw was born May 10, 1850, and was 76 years six months and six days old when he died. On becoming a Christian he joined Union Ridge Methodist Protestant church and remained in that church until Mt. Carmel church was organized. Brother Faw had much to do with organizing this later church and since its organization he was one of its most loyal supporters and active workers. All through the years of his Christian life he has occupied some official position in the church. For a number of years he had been one of the class leaders and had kept a correct record of the membership. He perhaps knew the membership of Mt. Carmel—past and present—as no other man ever knew it. For many years he was teacher of the Bible class of his Sunday school. When failing health compelled him to no longer remain in active service he was elected teacher emeritus. Brother Faw was twice married. On April 6, 1876, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Masten. Some years after the death of his first wife he again married to Miss Sarah Stone on April 1, 1888. Brother Faw was the father of four children. Two of these died in early childhood. His son, the late Charles M. Faw, a member of a recent annual conference, died May 19, 1924. Mrs. A. C. Patterson is the only surviving child.

After a brief service at the home the funeral service was conducted at Mt. Carmel church, in the presence of a great congregation. Rev. J. L. Trollinger of Thomasville, Rev. Mr. McCuiston of the Moravian church and Rev. Frank and Jessie Roberson, of the Church of the Brethren, assisted the pastor in the funeral. After the funeral the body was laid to rest in the church cemetery. The floral contribution was beautiful.

On November 17, another of our number who had served long and well was claimed by death and she went to her reward. Mrs. Sarah Jennette Westmoreland Moser was born November 17, 1826. At her death she was 95 years, three months and 26 days old. Grandmother Moser was one of the oldest members of Forsyth charge and perhaps one of the oldest in Forsyth county. On December 25, 1849, she was married to Joseph Moser who died about 40 years ago. Sister Moser was the mother of five children. Two of these, Mr. Gideon Moser, and Mr. Silas Moser, still survive. Besides the two surviving sons there are 18 grand children, 51 great grand children and 20 great, great grand children. Seldom do we see five generations of the same family living. Such was the the case with Sister Moser and her descendants. However her death brings an end to her own generation as she was the last of her own family to go.

Grandmother Moser accepted Christ as her Savior and joined Hickory Ridge Methodist Protestant church when she was 18 years old and remained a consistent member of this church until she died. While in later years she, because of age and infirmities, did not get to attend the church, she loved her church and her God. Her long life was spent in service for those she loved. When she was left a widow it was suggested that she break up her home but she refused, saying that for the sake of those left in her care she would make the fight and keep home and the family left her. Repeatedly she affirmed her readiness to go and wondered why God allowed her to remain here so long.

On November 17 the funeral was conducted by the pastor in Hickory Ridge Methodist Protestant church in the presence of a large audience of those who loved Grandmother Moser. We laid her body to rest in the church cemetery to await the day when our Lord shall return in his glory.

GEO. L. CURRY, Pastor.

Liberty, Siler City Charge.—The pastor is glad to get back for another year with the good folk of Liberty and Siler City. It is a pleasure to serve people when they are so appreciative of one's efforts.

Thanksgiving has been a happy period for both of our communities. A union service was held Thursday morning at Siler City. A large number of folk attended and expressed themselves concerning the many things for which they were thankful. Last Sunday evening a similar service was held for the Liberty people. The writer was thankful that he could have a birthday on Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. L. L. Woody gave us a huge Turkey dinner. It was great! A large box of fruit was found by the pastor from the Siler City Christian Endeavors. Thanks! It is some box. Other things were received for which I am very thankful. A lovely box of candy, from the Woodies and Boarders; a pair of bed room slippers and handkerchief, from the Shepards of Liberty. For these and other happy remembrances I thank you.

On Thursday afternoon of Thanksgiving the funeral of Brother Allie Pike was conducted at the Staley Baptist Church. Brother Pike was a faithful member of the Zion M. P. Church for 26 years. He leaves a fine group of Christian children to mourn his passing. May God comfort them in their loss.

Last Monday the writer was called to conduct the funeral of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Farmer Jones. Mrs. Jones was 69 years of age and had lived the Christian life since girlhood. May the Lord bless and comfort these folk in their loss.

Everything is well on its way for another successful year at Liberty. The officers of all the organizations are elected and duly installed. Assessments are laid and every one seems to be happily at work.

Dr. F. A. Shepard, of Liberty, N. C., is seriously ill with pneumonia. Our prayers and desires are for him a speedy recovery.

Yesterday was another encouraging day for our people at Siler City. Sunday school almost doubling the number present one year ago, and a cold day at that. The Communion service was well attended and the largest number so far that we know of to participate in the service. The Senior C. E. with Cletus Whitehead as leader rendered one of the best programs ever listened to by the pastor. A business meeting of the church sends us on our way rejoicing, for we are going to have our A. C. B. paid in full in 30 days from the rise of conference. Also, the Treasurer of the church will bring as a "Gift to the King" the money assessed for the running expense of H. P. College, while other organizations will bring their gifts.

At the evening service we were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Johnson and their nephew Cletus Whitehead unite with us. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson recently built The New Chatham Hotel in this community. They come from Sapling ridge where they have been very faithful members.

Preparation is under way for the staging of the pageant "Gifts To The King" at both of our churches. We find it very interesting and adaptable to our organizations. Pray for us in these undertakings that we might bring suitable gifts and learn more about the King.

F. L. G.

Calvary.—One of the most liberal poundings we have ever received was given us on the evening of November 23. Between forty and fifty members and friends of the church came to the preacher's home bringing with them many good things to eat, and a few things to wear, such as socks, handkerchiefs, etc. We appreciate this kind remembrance both because of the value of the gifts and because of the fine spirit back of it all. Doubtless Dr. McCulloch expressed the sentiment of the rest of the party when he said, "We brought these things, not because we thought you were in need, but to show our appreciation of your service." We sincerely thank all who had any part in the complete surprise you gave us. And we might have said also that quite a number who could not come sent their gifts.

Since our last report was written we have received two members by transfer from the Liberty M. P. Church. They are Mrs. W. F. Ashburn and Miss Hattie Ashburn. We welcome these and trust that their fellowship with us will be mutually congenial and helpful.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

Mecklenburg.—Soon after conference we hurried down to Mecklenburg circuit. I found a few friends of former years. The most of the people whom I knew have passed on.

One thing very noticable is that everyone to a man loved Brother Short, the former pastor. They did not want to give him up.

Thanksgiving night some of the Stallings, Drys, Furrs, Helms, Garmons, Kinleys, perhaps others, came to the parsonage, bringing a great variety of things edible. The donors are members of Stallings, Antioch, and the Baptist churches. Not only does this pounding keep down our grocery bill, but it makes us love our people better.

Since conference the church at Stallings has canceled its debt on its seven hundred and fifty dollar windows, by paying the balance, one hundred and six dollars, the company giving twenty-five dollars of it.

The church yet owes on the building seven hundred and fifty dollars.

W. T. TOTTEN.

Asheboro.—The year's work in Asheboro is starting off fine. The first quarterly conference was held on the evening of December 1st and the budget was accepted as handed down by the conference. Various committees were appointed to begin the year's work.

After the quarterly conference the choir met under the direction of Miss Bertie May, teacher of music in the high school, who has been employed by the church as Choir Director. The employment of a director is going to add much to the services.

Yesterday being the first Sunday of the new quarter, we held our quarterly Communion service, which was well attended. At the C. E. hour a fine meeting was held and plans were started for the Watch-Night service. The pastor gave us a fine sermon at the church hour.

Next Sunday will be known as "Call to Service" day in our church.

Also beginning with next Sunday the church will put on the every-member canvass, and instead of taking only one Sunday afternoon as has been the custom they expect to use the entire week which will enable the stewards to make a complete canvass of the entire membership.

REPORTER.

Jerusalem.—The next appointment will be next Sunday at 11 o'clock. A meeting of the first quarterly conference will be held in connection with the service and immediately following the sermon. We are expecting a full attendance of the members who attend regularly.

Jerusalem is a small band of Christians but are a faithful band who expect to do some things during the coming year besides raising their conference claims and pastor's salary.

Every member of Jerusalem who reads this please be present for the service next Sunday morning and participate in the quarterly conference.

Our appointments are the second Sunday at 11 a.m. and the fourth Sunday at 2 p.m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Rockingham.—We now have 185 pupils on our Sunday school roll. Last Sunday 115 were present; collection, $3.25.

After Sunday school Rev. J. H. Trolinger, our pastor, gave us a very, very beautiful sermon. He related to us something of the birth of Christ and what it meant and although there was happiness at that time there was also sadness.

After preaching we had dinner on the grounds.

Then came the singing convention, beginning about one o'clock and lasting until four. There were many good songs sung by the choir and a quartet. There was also some speech making which was very entertaining. Mr. Clark, Mr. R. F. Gardner, Rev. J. H. Trollinger, and Professor J. P. Thomason were the speakers. The leader of the convention, Mr. Clark, gave the song leaders from different churches a chance to lead in some of the songs here. There was also preaching at 7 o'clock that night by Rev. J. H. Trollinger.

Our Singing School came to a close Friday night, December 3. We are sad to see Professor Thomason leave us, but he will now return to his home in Lawranceburg, Tenn. We feel that he came here to accomplish a good piece of work and he has.

Our mid-week prayer meeting at the church will begin a new conference year's work this week since we have been so busy in the singing school and had to cut the meetings short.

We hope to get the "Girls Christian Club" running good again and carry out our work as planned.

The "Boys' Prayer Circle" has been running smoothly also. We are all endeavoring to carry out a good piece of work and do something to the up-building of God's Kingdom. BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Friendship, Stanly Charge.—The Ladies' Aid Society held a most interesting and helpful meeting last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Hill at the parsonage. Several items were brought up for discussion. The Aid agreed to pay half of the expenses of putting new stoves in our church and then help pay the remainder due on the piano.

The Society gladly welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Hill as new members. We know they will mean much to our society. The society felt the loss of Rev. and Mrs. Ridge very keenly, for they were faithful and helpful members.

The next meeting is held with Mrs. Sides, December 17 at 2 o'clock.

AID REPORTER.

Second Church, Charlotte.—Everybody seems to be very busy in our little church, for you know it won't be long until old Santa will come. All the children are taking a great interest in the Christmas exercise. We are expecting to have a Christmas tree and program on the 23d night of December at 7:00 o'clock. Everybody welcome. We will try at least to have a bag of fruit for the little ones. Come and bring your friends.

We are sorry we could not have our pastor with us Sunday. His wife has undergone another stroke. They have our prayers and our sympathy. We enjoyed a good sermon delivered by our class leader, Mr. J. E. Thomas. He talked on sleeping in the church.

We are sorry that Brother Thomas will leave us after the first of the year. He is going to move forty miles in the country. We all wish him great success. Our Ladies' Aid have finished the name quilt, all but the lining. We want to have it ready to sell by New Year's night. We will have an old time ginger bread and coffee supper for the selling of the quilt.

We want to thank Mrs. Whitworth for her help on our quilt. She is not a member of our church but she is a mighty good worker for the Lord. REPORTER.

Anderson Charge.—Sunday was our appointment at Fairview. The rain and unfavorable weather was braved by a good congregation for both services. There was a good number out for the Sunday school and more for the preaching service. The pastor has made his first round and has found a most congenial set of people. Everywhere I have been the people seem interested in the work and anxious for the pastor to come back to see them. After preaching to a very attentive audience at the morning service at which we had visitors from Greenville, S. C., and three from Georgia. I went to the home of Brother R. F. Wyatt for dinner and met quite a few of the Fairview people and enjoyed the afternoon and the kind hospitality of his home. The evening service was very well attended; a good congregation came in spite of the cold weather. It is a pleasure to work with these good people and we are looking for a good year. At the morning service Brother T. B. Nally introduced the new pastor and made a very interesting and earnest appeal for the support of the people. His remarks were very timely and greatly appreciated by the pastor. Through the kindness of Brother Wilber Smith, T. B. Nally and Robert F. Wyall the pastor has been able to see a good many of the members of the Fairview Church. One afternoon Brother Smith and I with the aid of his Ford made a round and called at twelve or thirteen places. Monday of this week Brother Nally was kind enough and confidential enough to allow the pastor the use of his Dodge Sedan and I conscripted Brother Wyatt who was willing to go with me and we made a good round seeing the people. We visited fifteen homes and were very warmly welcomed at every place. Without any knowledge of the pastor the Stewards called a meeting Monday night and began to get things in line along the financial lines and indications point to the fact that they mean business. Indications show that the Anderson folk mean business and are going to put forth every effort for a good year's work.

Our first quarterly conference will meet at Liberty Hill Saturday of this week, the 11th. All officials are urged to be present with complete reports from the various departments.

Our Christian Endeavor Societies are doing good work and it is interesting and inspiring to the pastor to see such large numbers attending the meetings. Anderson certainly has a large number of young people and it is encouraging to see them staying for the church services.

We will have preaching service at Liberty Hill next Sunday at eleven, a.m. and seven p.m. The C. E. will meet at six-thirty.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

Graham.—The work of the new conference year is starting off well. We had our first quarterly conference on Friday evening, the third; we had some good reports, and suggestions from the members of the conference. We are installing a heating plant that will cost about a thousand dollars, we hope this will fill a long felt need in making our auditorium and Sunday school rooms comfortable. Our congregations are very good. Sunday school is well attended. Our new superintendent, Brother J. L. Amick, is putting all of Amick into it. Our Senior, Intermediate, and Junior Christian Endeavor societies are all doing good work.

I have heard right many of our members say, we want to pay our Budget in full this year. That sounds good. We have received one new member since conference. On the night of the 23rd about forty came to the parsonage, bringing a real pounding and one brother had just sent over a load of coal. We will not try to give names of people, or articles, but we thank you every one, and I pray if it is the Lord's will that I may be able to do the work of a pastor, and preacher for they have been so thoughtful of me, and mine. D. R. WILLIAMS.

Concord.—We are glad to say that our pastor is able to be out again, and visit among us. The third Sunday in November Rev. Lawrence Little brought us a very inspiring message on "The Needs of the Church." We are always delighted to have Brother Little with us, for we learned to love him during his pastorate here. The Senior Christian Endeavor society took charge of the evening service, rendering a special program.

The Sunday school attendance Sunday was fine. Two hundred were present with an offering of $29.70 for the Children's Home. The church attendance was also fine. Brother Hendry brought a message which touched the hearts of all his hearers.

The Wednesday evening prayer service was well attended, the largest attendance for some time.

On Thursday evening the men of the church met in the Baraca room and organized a "Men's Brotherhood." It is hoped that all the men of the church will join, to help carry on to a larger degree the Master's work.

BERNICE NASH, Reporter.

Corinth, Littleton Charge.—We are exceedingly glad to have Mr. O'Briant with us again. He filled his appointment at this church yesterday. He gave us a good sermon.

Our Sunday school is moving on nicely but there is plenty of room for improvement yet, let's get busy and see if we can't get some new members out.

First quarterly conference will convene on Saturday before second Sunday in December at Littleton church at 2 p.m.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. G. D. Insco, one of our members, is down with rheumatism.

Mr. Clifton Morris of Staunton, Va., spent Thanksgiving at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morris.

On Sunday night, November 14th, our community was greatly saddened when the news reached us that Howard Insco of Norlina, had been killed by an automobile. He is the son of D. A. Insco and was raised in this community and joined Corinth church in his early teens where he remained until, 12 years ago, he moved to Norlina and united with the Baptist church of that place where he remained until death. On November 16th his body was laid to rest in Corinth cemetery. beneath a mound of flowers, tokens of love and friendship. He leaves a devoted wife and three daughters. May the dear Father comfort them and teach them that He never maketh a mistake. MRS. B. F. MORRIS.

Vance Charge.—The first quarterly meeting will convene at Flat Rock, Saturday, December 18, at 10:30 a.m. It is very important that all the official members be present. Come on, friends, and let's start the year right. Let's make this one of the best years in the history of our church. Please remember the date and come.

M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Vance Charge.—This month we are putting on a special drive for the Methodist Protestant Herald. (See last week's paper.) Our object is to put the paper in every Protestant Home on the charge, leaving no stone unturned. Each church has been asked to appoint a canvassing committee and report weekly the result of their labor. These committees are doing splendid work. So far 42 subscriptions have been sent in.

Harris Chapel still leads the list with nineteen subscriptions, closely followed by Flat

Rock with sixteen; next in line Gillburg with four, then New Hope with two, while Spring Valley has the rest. To the chairman of each committee, please report to me the first of each week in order that the number of your subscriptions may appear in the Herald. Remember that this campaign ends December 25th. Let's get busy.

M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Randleman Charge.—We held our first quarterly conference at New Salem last Saturday. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon were with us. Dr. Dixon presided. The attendance was good, also the interest. There was right much discussion relative to the parsonage debt. The financial obligations are considered rather heavy by many. Besides B. and L. obligations of thirty dollars per month, several hundred are due, and bearing interest. Regardless of this strain the leaders are faithful and optimistic. The strain may be long and hard, but the end justifies the effort.

The conference voted to conduct an every-member canvass.

Dr. Dixon preached at Mt. Lebanon Sunday 11 a.m., and Mrs. Dixon at New Salem 2:30. The attendance at both services was good considering the unfavorable weather.

Mrs. Dixon organized a H. M. S. at New Salem. W. H. NEESE.

Cid, Denton Circuit.—Our new pastor, Rev. M. C. Henderson, filled his first appointment at Cid Sunday, the 5th, at 2:30, and delivered a most excellent sermon. He made such a good impression on the people that we all feel like we have got a Spirit filled man, and one that expects to fight sin. We had a morning service of Sunday school and a most excellent sermon by Rev. C. O. Leonard.

We feel sure that if we as a church will do our part we will have a good success this year.

I sure did enjoy the annual conference this year at Greensboro. I made quite a number of new acquaintances as well as meeting so many old friends. I wish to thank everyone that rendered their assistance of putting Cid back on part of its old work, for we feel like now we have gone back home and joined to others that will stand by us. Praise the Lord.

We were so glad to have Brother Ed Hill, of Denton to worship with us at Cid Sunday.

The first M. P. conference of Denton Circuit will be held at Denton on the 11th at 2 p.m. It is very important that the official members attend.

The cottage service goes to Mr. Hermon Hufines next Saturday night. These services have been a great help to our church and community.

Mr. Ben Parrish recently joined our church. We were so glad to have him.

Miss Louella Kindley and Mr. Roy Younts were married recently.

We were very glad recently to receive a call from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lemons, of Stocksdale, nee Miss Hallie Trogdon.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Brother D. A. Braswell who has had so many afflictions in his family. It looks like he is almost a second Job.

Mrs. N. W. Lewis, teacher of the senior class of our Sunday school, had a contest of Bible readings for three months and offered three prizes to the one that read the most chapters, and at the close the winners were Miss Myrtle Kimrey, 406 chapters, Miss Blanche Height, 256 chapters, Master Foy Lanier, 100 chapters. They were very pleased over their prize, as well as the great work they had studied.

We are expecting to give our Sunday school a treat for Christmas. MRS. N. W. L.

Denton.—We have met all of our appointments and our people received us kindly at all the churches. The outlook is bright for a new year. They have partly furnished the parsonage and on last Tuesday evening we received a glad surprise: our people came with supplies for the pantry of the parsonage and many gifts are still coming. We certainly appreciate what the people have done for us.

There is a great work to be done here and the laymen seem eager to work.

May we ask the prayers of our friends and the Herald readers, and may God lead us all to do our best.

M. C. HENDERSON.

Davidson Charge.—The work for the new conference year has started off fine on this charge, and we have been met with a hearty welcome and a good spirit of co-operation at all the churches. I filled my appointment at Alleghany church the next Sunday after conference, and these people decided to build some addition to the church and paint it. A good sum has already been secured and some of the lumber is on the ground.

Christmas tree and exercise has been announced at Lineberry and Pleasant Grove churches.

The Sunday schools seem to be taking on new life and it is hoped they will continue all through the year.

Our first quarterly meeting is to be held at Pleasant Grove next Saturday, December 11, at 2 p.m.

On Saturday night, November 20th, a number of our friends came to the parsonage and gave us a very generous pounding.

I do not know the names of all who had part in this, but God knows every one of them. We greatly appreciate every gift, and pray God's blessings upon the givers. We feel indebted to our friends for this expression of love and kindness, and hope to be able in some measure to repay them by rendering better service.

C. E. RIDGE, Pastor.

Reidsville.—We were sorry to lose Dr. and Mrs. Williams, who have been with us the past four years. We had learned to love them very much. We wish them much success in their new work.

We are glad to welcome our new pastor and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Brown, into our midst, and feel sure that we shall enjoy working with them.

The work here is starting off nicely and we hope that this may be one of the most successful years in the history of our church.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the leadership of Mr. C. R. Reed.

The Philathea class held its monthly business and social meeting with Mrs. H. S. Dixon, November 23. A large number of the class was present. The new teacher, Mr. O. B. Gorman, outlined some splendid work for the ensuing year. A membership goal was set by the class and they are working hard for 100 percent increase.

The Ladies' Aid society is planning to have a bazzar the 14th. REPORTER.

Siler City.—We give Mr. Gibbs a hearty welcome, to serve as our pastor for the coming year. The work is going along nicely.

Yesterday our pastor brought us two wonderful messages.

Three members were received into the church Sunday night, coming from Sapling Ridge church. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Johnson and Mr. Cletus Whitehead. We were glad to receive these people into our church.

Eighty were present at Sunday school Sunday morning regardless of a cloudy day.

The directors of the Christmas pageant are making good progress with the practicing of the pageant. REPORTER.

High Point.—On last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. P. E. Lindley delivered a splendid sermon on Service. He first thanked the congregation for coming out in large numbers to attend services on such an inclement day, and said that the very fact that people will attend church in disagreeable weather shows that they have aligned themselves on the Lord's side, and thereby are setting a good example to their neighbors. He pleaded with his hearers to render service to their community, to be "lifters" and not "leaners," and thus justify their existence in the world. In closing, Mr. Lindley quoted the beautiful and well-known lives of Leigh Hunt on "Abou Ben Adhem" with pleasing effect. Mr. Lindley has impressed our congregation as a bright young man with a future of brilliant possibilities.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies held their monthly business meeting on Monday afternoon with Mrs. R. M. Andrews on West College Drive. The attendance was good, there being 25 members present. Mrs. C. L. Whitaker was elected President of the Foreign Society in place of Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, who has moved to Reidsville. Mrs. Whitaker was President of this society nearly 20 years ago, when her late husband was pastor of this church. In the Home society it was announced that with the addition of some more contributions, our annual Thank offering amounts to $135, which is the best in the history of the society. We were delighted to receive three new members Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard and Mrs. P. E. Lindley, who are heartily welcomed to our ranks. Twelve cakes for the supper at Children's Home were promised.

Supper will be served to the Board of Stewards by a number of members of the Ladies' Aid Society on this (Tuesday) evening at 6:45 o'clock in the Community room of the church.

A play, "News is News," written by a member of the Class, Nady Cates, Jr., will be presented at the College Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Junior Class, and the proceeds will be used for the Memorial Gate.

On Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock an interesting wedding will be solemized in the First church, when Miss Lorraine Burgess will become the bride of Mr. Harry Lysle Shuey.

The first meeting of the Junior church will be held next Sunday morning in the Community room at 11 o'clock.

Vernon W. Idol, Jr., and Walter M. Crouch, Jr., represented High Point High School at the Older Boys' Conference, which convened at Winston-Salem last week.

Miss Lucille Pickens went to Winston-Salem to attend the District Meeting of Librarians last Friday.

Friendship and Porter.—After spending two pleasant years on Richland Charge among those good people, they won a warm place in our hearts. Some of the salt of the earth are there. But when Conference was over we were assigned to a new field. So on the second Sunday in November wife and myself motored across the country by Albemarle and out to Friendship Church for evening service, where a large congregation awaited us. I never have tried to preach to any more attentive congregation. On the fourth Sunday at eleven o'clock I went to Porter. There I met with a good sized congregation. They said the largest in years. I was greatly impressed with these kind people. They show a willing mind to co-operate, and I feel there is a bright day for them in the future. On December 4th, at 2 p.m., we held the first quarterly meeting at this place, with most of the members present and the business was transacted in a spirit of love. And on the same date at six-thirty p.m., we held the first quarterly meeting at Friendship church. There was the largest congregation at this meeting I ever saw at a quarterly meeting, both men, women, and children. It seemed more like preaching service than quarterly meeting to look at the congregation. The spirit of co-operation in which the business was transacted was inspiring. At the close of the service Brother D. W. Sides said he had something special to tell me and wanted to go to the parsonage. People began coming in and marching to the dining room to unload their packages. I soon decided that was his message. They laid on the table, then on the chairs and the floor until there was not much room left. Then Mrs. Hill and myself undertook to tell them of how we appreciated their kindness, but we could not think of words sufficient. One of the most touching incidents I ever saw was when Uncle Frank Mason (as every one calls him) 79 years old, with his cane in hand marched in with the congregation to place his package with the rest. I would love to name each giver, but there were so many and I know but few by name, but the Lord knew each one. Our prayer is that He will abundantly bless them all. C. H. HILL, Pastor.

Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Circuit.—Our new pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, came to this church the first time the second Sunday and preached a very good sermon, and again the third Sunday he came and preached on Faith. When the time comes to preach he begins and when he says what he has to say, he quits. The congregations were good but the third Sunday part of the people were too late for the sermon. Part of them said they knew now when to come and will be on time hereafter.

The W. H. M. S. held a Thanksgiving service the fourth Sunday. Miss Bessie Holmes told of the work of the organization. Rev. G. W. Holmes spoke of the things for which we should be thankful. The collection was not what it should have been, but as our auxiliary grows we hope the contributions will be larger.

On Thanksgiving day two of our best young people, Miss Elsie Coble and Mr. Lonnie Holt, motored to the home of Rev. A. O. Lindley, a former pastor, and were made one. Rev. Lindley lives in Randolph, the license was given in Alamance, so the bridal party had to cross the line and have the knot tied in their native county.

Mrs. Holt is very prominent in the church, being a teacher in the Sunday school, President C. E., Secretary W. H. M. S., Secretary Memorial Association, and is teaching the third year in the public school at Eureka.

Mr. Holt is a young man of sterling worth and he too is active in the church, and is Cor. Sec. of C. E. May their journey through life be happy.

The first quarterly conference was held at Mt. Hermon December the 4th. The churches were all represented. The pastor read several recommendations and they were adopted.

Our community was shocked and grieved this morning, December 5th, when the news spread over it, that Mamie Loy had gone to that Great Beyond. She was at school Friday but had taken smallpox vaccination and did not feel well, she returned home and told her mother she was sick, she grew steadily worse, doctors were called but could not stay the hand of death. She realized her condition and told her mother she was going to die and that she was ready. Mamie was a senior in Alexander Wilson High School. She was not yet eighteen years old. Her disposition was sunny, and her friends many.

Her mother, father and three brothers, are heart-broken. May they look to the Giver of Life to comfort them in their sorrow.

REPORTER.

Pleasant Grove.—We thank the Annual Conference for sending Brother Reynolds back. Much good has been accomplished since he has been with hs.

We held a special thank offering day. Thank offering, $34.00.

The attendance at all the Sunday schools and church services has been good. However, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hilton and a number of others were absent yesterday on account of sickness. We hope they will soon be out again. REPORTER.

Fair Grove, Why Not Circuit.—Pastor Garner preached a forceful sermon December 5th at 11 o'clock. It seems that each of his sermons is better than the preceding one.

We are delighted to have him on this work another year, and believe if the people will help to make the goals he has set for this year a reality that Fair Grove will take on new life.

Brother Garner has offered to have a class of the Sunday school teachers from the churches near Seagrove to meet with him each week to discuss the lesson for the following Sunday. MRS. C. E. STEWART.

FROM REV. D. A. BRASWELL

Our daughter, Mrs. F. C. Garmon, is much improved and is able to be out. My wife had another very bad stroke on the 29th night of November and I have been at her bedside ever since, watching for the end to come. I know the end is near.

I thank Sister D. A. McLaurin for $5.00 and the First Methodist Protestant Church of High Point for $2.00. I heartily thank you, good friends. I am planning to get my business in better shape as soon as I can. I was sorry to miss my appointment at Charlotte Sunday, but I felt it my first duty to one who had stood by me for 54 long years. I promised her that I would go with her down to the gates of death and I must keep my promise. When the dark clouds of sickness cast their shadows over my pathway I turn to my Bible and read Romans 8:15-19 and other verses like these and they give the dark clouds a silver lining, and I renew my covenant with my Lord and Master and start anew to reach the end of my journey. I fully realize that it is not where I have been that counts in the eyes of God. But it is what my life has meant or may mean to others that will count in the end of life. What it has meant to all classes and conditions of mankind that I have or may come in contact with in this life.

May our Father continue to bless all His people. Pray for us.

Yours in His name,
D. A. BRASWELL.

NOTICE!

The formal opening of our State Street Sunday school building at Lexington to have been held December 12th, 11 a.m. has been postponed as some of the essential material has not come. A notice will be given later at which time all who are interested will be invited. We regret this delay, but it is unavoidable. N. G. BETHEA.

A CORRECTION

On page 11, of Herald of November 25, of the stanzas, The Jazz Age, 10th stanza, at the end of the second line, it should read, "Jangle," instead of "Jingle." We regret to bother about "corrections," but if a thing is worth printing at all, it is worth printing right—hence, ask for the correction.

J. F. D.

—While two articles have recently appeared in the Herald concerning the help in church financing to be had from The Layman Co., 730 Rush St., Chicago, Ill., I am sure that some of us need to have it brought to our attention again. Let's get it and use it freely.

One Who Has Tried It.

Dog Funeral

Recently nearly 6,000 dogs were killed in Japan to prevent the spread of hydrophobia. Dogs afflicted with that disease are called "mad dogs." Their bite is very dangerous to human beings. After the dogs had been killed a special service was held in their honor at a Japanese temple. The service was in charge of Buddhist priests.

Canton News—Afghanistan has but one auto for her 1,200,000 citizens. There's that parking space at last!

Our Story Page

WHEN ERNEST DISOBEYED

"Here, children," said mother early one morning, "I want you to go to the store over at Hixville and buy the groceries I have marked on the slip of paper. And be sure to get back by eleven o'clock," she added with a mysterious twinkle in her eyes.

"Yes, mother," said Violet. "May Ernest go too? You know the big snake we saw in the woods the last time we went to the store? We may need brother along to protect us"

"Yes, Ernest can go with you, only be sure to get back by eleven o'clock."

It was about a mile to the grocery store. Arriving there, the children purchased the groceries mother wished and also some candy with the dime she had given them. Then they started for home.

"I wonder if we will have time to pick some raspberries?" suggested Violet. "I saw such nice ones on our way over."

"Sure, loads of time," replied Ernest with the air of one who knew a great deal.

So they stepped into the wood, and all picked berries until they had several quarts.

As they were again starting for home John Groves happened by with his big dog. He was whistling and seemed to be having a great time.

"Come on, Erny," he said, "let's go down to the creek and have a swim."

"No," replied Ernest. "We must get home by eleven, and we won't have time."

"Sure we will. My dad's coming down this way with the team, and he said he would stop at the creek and get me at 10:30. You just come along, and you'll have plenty of time."

"No, brother, don't go," pleaded Violet.

Ernest was undecided. He looked first at John and then at his sister Then he said: "You walk slowly home, Violet, and I'll go with John, have a swim, and then catch up with you before you reach home."

"O, but Erny," pleaded Violet, "you know mother said we are to be back by eleven o'clock, and, besides, I might meet a snake!"

"There are no snakes at this time of the year," said John Groves scornfully. "Come on, Erny."

Ernest followed with hesitation. He felt rather bad and that he should not have left his sister. But the creek did look so cool and inviting.

The boys had a fine swim. They were splashing and having a splendid time when suddenly Ernest realized that a great length of time had passed since he left his sister. "O, John, it surely must be after 10:30 by now!" he cried.

"O, I don't think so! Father will most likely be here any minute now."

But father did not come.

The boys presently started to walk home. Meeting a man on the road, they inquired what time it was.

"Ten minutes to eleven," he replied.

When Ernest reached home, it was just noon. His mother prepared lunch, and they sat down. Mother was very quiet. Ernest wished she would talk.

After lunch mother asked him to go into the garden and finish weeding

But he could stand the silence no longer. "Where is Violet, mother?" he asked.

"She has gone to town with your Uncle James. They are going to the Zoo this afternoon. Uncle James said he had to leave promptly at eleven o'clock, but that if you and Violet were ready he would come and take you along in his new automobile. That is why I wanted you to be sure to be back by eleven."

"But, mother, why didn't you tell me?" asked Ernest.

"Your uncle wanted to surprise you, so I promised not to tell you until he drove up in his car."

Ernest wended his way slowly and thoughtfully into the garden, where he set about the task of weeding.

The Zoo! That was the one place Ernest had been wanting to visit for a long, long while.

But Ernest was a good boy, and the thing that caused a little ache in his heart was that he had disobeyed his mother.

As he weeded the garden beds a little bird sat up in a tree near by and seemed to say with his merry voice: "Al-ways o-bey! Always o-bey!"

Ernest looked up at the little bird, and then with a smile he said aloud: "All right, birdie, I guess it's the best thing to do."—Primary Weekly.

PLAYING THE GAME

Fielding H. Yost—Michigan University's veteran football coach—has these wise words on football and the game of life:

After more than a quarter-century coaching football, I am more than ever impressed with the similarity between football and another game—the game of living. The paths of similarity between them both cross in so many places that, sometimes, it is difficult—if not impossible—to distinguish the fundamentals of one from the other.

In order to build a good football team—or a good player—you must first build men. Manliness with all its attributes: courage, fortitude, gentlemanliness, courtesy, loyalty, and the spirit of self-sacrifice. Unless a man possesses these things, he cannot be a good football player. And unless the team has them, individually and in the aggregate, it cannot be a good football team.

Ability is not all. Indeed, it is less than half. Many a mediocre player, from the standpoint of ability only, has risen above himself time after time and, inspired by loyalty, self-sacrifice and the indomitable will to do or die has won fame.

One essential of manliness is the desire to help others. The man who "hogs the limelight" and tries to win all the glory for himself is not a good football player; nor will that attribute in later life enable him to play that game as it should be played.

Selfishness has no place on the gridiron—nor in life.

The good citizen and the good football player can be described with the self-same adjectives. Both have courage and stamina in the face of defeat. Both are eager to take—but equally as eager to give. Both are good sportsmen who smile equally as well when fortune goes for or against.

The hope of a nation—or a football team—lies first and last in its manhood.

A MAN AND HIS ANGEL

(Here is a great poem by Louise Imogen Guiney. This author deals with a situation in which many a man feels like giving up. Hope of victory is gone. "Why fight," one would say, "if I cannot win?" Not success is the highest achievement, but persistent and courageous facing of the enemy and continuing the fight regardless of the fear of failure. The will is the greatest element in character—if that is right, and rightly directed; all is well. Luther K. Long.)

A man said unto his Angel:
"My spirits are fallen low,
And I cannot carry this battle:
O brother, where might I go?

"The terrible kings are on me
With spears that are deadly bright,
Against me so from the cradle
Do fate and my fathers fight."

Then said to the man his Angel:
"Thou wavering, witless soul,
Back to the ranks! What matter
To win or to lose the whole.

"As judged by the little judges,
Who hearken not well, nor see?
Not thus, by the outer issue,
The wise shall interpret thee.

"Thy will is the sovereign measure
And only event of things:
The puniest heart, defying,
Were stronger than all these kings.

"Though out of the past they gather,
Mind's doubt and bodily pain,
And pallid thirst of the spirit,
That is kin to the other twain.

"And grief, in a cloud of banners,
And ringletted vain desires,
And vice, with spoils upon him
Of thee and thy beaten sires—

"While kings of eternal evil
Yet darken the hills about
Thy part is with broken saber
To rise on the last redoubt.

"To fear not sensible failure,
Nor covet the game at all,
But fighting, fighting, fighting,
Die, driven against the wall."

MODERN CULTURE DEFINED

The Irish poet, W. B. Yeats, has given in the London Mercury a most interesting definition of modern culture:

"To have perfect taste; to have felt all the finest emotions that art can give."

Mr. Yeats continues, "This culture is self-knowledge in so far as the self is a calm, deliberating, discriminating thing. For when we have awakened our tastes, and criticized the world in tasting it, we have come to know ourselves; ourselves, not as misers, or spendthrifts, or magistrates, or pleaders, but as men face to face with what is permanent in the world."

—Interest in poultry growing has led to the organization of several county poultry associations in North Carolina this year.

—Pecan trees will pay taxes in addition to making the farm homestead more attractive, say horticultural workers.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

ALVIN DREW SCHOOL

We are very thankful that we did not have any more cases of diphtheria and though Miss Pence really had a genuine case, she recovered speedily.

Our financial situation has improved somewhat, but we are not yet on "Easy Street" by a long way.

We will gladly send our little monthly paper, "The Pine Ridge Booster" to churches where it is thought they will do good. Of course, it is far more convenient to send a dozen or so to one address, if some kind friend will see that they are distributed to best advantage. Let us know how many copies you can use.

Christmas for Pine Ridge

Friends are asking what we will need for Christmas. At the close of our day school for the Christmas holiday, we hope to have a tree and treat for our 150 students. Then later, during the Christmas season, we want to arrange treats for at least four different Sunday schools.

We can buy the candy, nuts, &c, at wholesale prices and so it would seem practical to send contributions of money for this fund.

If our friends want to send other gifts for our girls and boys, we would suggest toilet articles of various kinds, handkerchiefs, stockings, 8 to 10, socks, sizes, 10-11, work gloves, garter ribbons, tape, sewing thread, medicines, such as salves, liniments, laxatives, disinfectants, cold remedies &c., stationery of all kinds.

We can always make good use of canned fruit, dried fruit, pickles, staple groceries &c.

Used clothing in good condition, especially for children. These are given away when we find cases of need and the surplus is sold in our store and the proceeds put into our Scholarship-Maintenance Fund to help girls and boys who otherwise could not be in school. At present, our stock of second-hand goods is very much depleted.

Shipping Instructions

Please do not send us anything by express. It is very difficult for us to reach an express office. The best way to send is by parcel post direct to Pine Ridge, Wolfe County, Ky. If you must make freight shipment, send to Slade, Ky., via L. & N. R. R., and it must be prepaid. Do not send anything more to Compton Junction, at least for the present. If shipments have recently been sent there, I think we can get them.

Praying that all who cooperate with us may find much joy in the service and that all our labors may be used of God to His own glory.

THOS. R. WOODFORD, Superintendent.

—Cutting out and destroying in winter, the twigs and limbs of pear trees killed by blight during the growing season will control the destructive "fire blight" and eliminate the source of infection for the following year.

THANKFUL BOXES

It has been the custom in our nation for a long time to set apart one day in the year in which to give thanks for our blessings, but we think the W. F. M. S. has a better plan than that. Their idea is every day and every time they are thankful for a blessing to put some offering expressive of their gratitude in the thankful box. But all our women are not doing this, and the object in writing is to get more of our N. C. women to adopt this plan.

Some months ago your secretary wrote or communicated in some way with all the active auxiliaries, and out of the number twelve have been heard from, leaving thirty who did not respond. If you are not using the thankful box plan of raising money, won't you let me send you a supply to use from now until the last of March. Whatever is raised in this way will count on your budget. May I not hear from a number of you.

VELNA MCCULLOCH, Thank Offering Sec.
1011 Martin St, Greensboro, N. C.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$171,523.81
John M. Coble	10.00
Miss Brona Apple	10.00
Mrs. Ellen Owen Hauser	5.00
Mrs. Callie Johnson	2.00
J. J. Stone	8.00
P. W. Jurney	5.00
C. E. Society, Bess Chapel	10.00
Miss Sallie E. Smith	5.00
Spring Church Sunday school	2.21
Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Payne	15.00
W. D. Payne, Jr.	1.00
Harrell Payne	1.00
Ruth Payne	1.00
Joseph Payne	1.00
Evelyn Payne	1.00
C. H. Kirkman	60.00
Joseph Woody	4.50
J. C. Coe	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. John T. Warlick	20.00
Miss Lorene Anderson	3.00
J. D. Anderson	15.00
Mrs. J. D. Anderson	15.00
T. H. Hunter	5.00
S. H. Speas	5.00
George N. Butner	15.00
Ralph Smitherman	3.00
L. D. Spear	5.00
Chas. Phillips	2.00
Philathea Class, Lebanon Church	2.00
J. W. Montgomery's Class, Lebanon Church	1.00
Baraca Class, Lebanon Church	5.00
A. D. Shore	5.00
Total	$171,776.52

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$7,060.61
O. H. Johnson	3.00
C. N. Lindley	5.00
Walter Love	1.00
Miss Minda Ball	2.00
Mrs. Z. M. Dellinger	5.00
Total	$7,076.61

Country Niece—Has a taxidermist anything to do with a taxicab?

Town Uncle—Er—No. A taxidermist skins only the lower animals.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. C. H. Whitaker, $1.50; Rev. J. E. Pritchard, $39.75; Rev. Robt. Short, $3; Rev. F. W. Paschal, $2; Rev. S. W. Taylor, $42; Rev. G. R. Brown, $4.50; Rev. A. O. Lindley, $2; Rev. C. L. Spencer, $1; Rev. Fred Love, $1.50; Rev. N. Brittian, $1.50; Rev. A. L. Hunter, $10.50; Rev. J. D. Morris, $3; Rev. R. A. Hunter, $3; Rev. J. M. Morgan, $10.50; Rev. G. H. Hendry, $1.50; Rev. T. A. Williams, $1.50; Rev. W. D. Reed, $1.50; Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, $3; Rev. L. W. Gerringer, $1.50; N. G. Wright, $1.50; Rev. N. G. Bethea, $6; Rev. B. M. Williams, $7; Rev. L. S. Helms, $2.50; Rev. G. L. Reynolds, $3; Rev. W. H. Neese, $1.50; Rev. W. T. Totten, $9.75; Rev. F. L. Gibbs, $3; Miss Mary E. Young, $1.50; Mrs. Carrie Nicholson, $4.50; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, $12; Rev. J. B. Trogdon, $4; Rev. C. H. Hill, $4.50; Rev. T. G. Madison, $3; Rev. T. E. Pierce, $5.

VANCE LEADS THIS WEEK

Rev. M. P. Chambliss sends us a check for $45.00 and 30 names for our mailing list. We thank him and his people who have responded to his appeals. We believe the "M. P." in his name stands for Methodist Protestant and are thoroughly convinced that Vance charge holds some real Methodist Protestants. May their tribe increase.

A TEACHER'S REWARD

"We have just learned of a teacher who started poor 20 years ago and has retired with the comfortable fortune of $50,000. This was acquired through industry, economy, conscientious effort, indomitable perseverance, and the death of an uncle who left her an estate valued at $49,999.50."—Seneca Vocational School.

RECEIVED FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

From Friendship, Haw River Ct. $4.15

—"The farm forest is one of the great labor-saving crops for North Carolina farmers," says R. W. Graeber, extension forester. "This crop is within the reach of every farmer without a great outlay of money if he will only co-operate with Nature and follow the system which Nature so plainly suggests."

Mr. Graeber states that no special soil preparation such as plowing and harrowing is needed for a crop of pines, oaks or poplars. No seed is needed if a few seed trees are left in place. No fertilizer is needed because nature maintains the fertility of the forest soil through the annual fall of leaves and twigs. All that is necessary is to keep out destructive forest fires. When the fires are kept out, a heavy blanket of leaf litter prevents weed growth and helps to hold a good supply of moisture. It is in the harvest alone with a timber crop that the labor of man is required.

—The 1926 cotton crop is the largest in history, and the fact that it followed the unusually large production of 1925 has brought disaster to many thousands of growers.

—Cecile Sorel, famous French actress, arrived in this country for an American tour with baggage including 127 trunks, 110 gowns, 123 pairs of shoes, 70 pairs of gloves, and crates containing a bed once used by Madam Du Barry, and other furniture.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Wooten

Dicy Adline Wooten was born in Iredell County on December 15, 1849 and departed this life on November 26, 1926. She was the daughter of Martha B. and Mary E. Templeton. She professed a hope in Christ in 1849 at the age of fifteen, and united with the Union Grove Methodist Protestant Church where she remained a faithful member until her death. She was married to Leander Wooten on September 30, 1872, and they lived happily together for a term of fifty-four years. She died at eight o'clock a.m., which was within one hour of the time of day of their marriage. To this union were born eight children; four boys and four girls. She is survived by her husband, three sisters and five children. The sisters are: Mrs. Sarah Benson, Mrs. Rebecca Holland and Mrs. Luzena Williams. The children are Mrs. S. B. White, Mrs. Toon Henderson, Mrs. Thomas Sharpe, Mr. James Wooten and Mr. John Wooten. Three of her children preceded her in death: viz. Marshal Wooten, Preston Wooten and Jettie Wooten.

Sister Wooten was a devout Christian; always faithful to her church, patient and kind to her family, and there was never anything too good for her to do for her neighbors. A few days before she passed away she told her husband that she could never thank him enough for his kindness to her during her hours of affliction. We all feel assured that she has gone on to be with the saints of God.

T. GLENN MADISON.

Edwards

Miss Euphemia Edwards was born July 15, 1853, and departed this life November 15, 1926. At the age of twelve she professed a saving faith in Christ and joined the Union Chapel Methodist Protestant Church. She was a member of this church at the time of her death, thus spending more than sixty-one years in its active service. Much of this time she taught a Sunday school class, and attended the Sunday school for six consecutive years without missing a Sunday. She bore her illness with much patience and was greatly beloved by all the people of her church and community.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held at Union Chapel church, and conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. F. Fogleman, assisted by Rev. Mr. Ballard of the Christian church. Her nephews were the active pall-bearers. The flowers, which banked the grave, were carried by her nieces. She is survived by two brothers and two sisters; C. T. and G. O. Edwards, Mrs. C. C. Woodlief, and Mrs. E. H. Clayton. She will be remembered as a true neighbor, friend, and Christian.

H. F. FOGLEMAN.

Coble

Sister Annie Jane Coble was born February 18, 1858. She departed this life October 17, 1926. Sister Coble was the daughter of Joseph and Abigail Wells, residents of Snow Camp, in the southern part of Alamance county. It was here that the deceased was born and where she grew to young womanhood.

On the third of March, 1883, she was married to Mr. William Coble, with whom she lived happily until his death in 1922, just a few days less than four years before her demise. This union was blessed with four children, one of whom died in infancy. The surviving children are Mr. Worth and Miss Cordie Coble, and Mrs. Arnold Kenney. Besides her children, she is survived by two grand-children: Edna Kenney and Arnold Jr. One brother, Mr. Thomas Wells, and one sister, Mrs. Rosanna Hobson, also survive.

The religious life of the deceased began in her early years. She first joined the Friends church, but after her marriage and coming to Burlington to live, she, with her husband, united with the Methodist Protestant Church here. Her membership on the church register is 335. She joined on the eighth of November, 1903, during the pastorate of Rev. G. F. Millaway. Sister Coble was a sincere Christian and a loyal church member. In her home she was affectionate and sacrificing in her devotion to her family; as a neighbor, she was kind and obliging. With the sick she was especially tender and helpful. In her last illness she suffered a great deal, but bore it with christian fortitude. She breathed her life out quietly here on a bright October Sunday morning, and her spirit went where Sabbaths are more beautiful, and where they never end. On the following Monday the funeral was held at the home, and conducted by the writer in the presence of a large gathering of sympathizing neighbors and friends. The body was laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery, and the flowers that marked her grave are typical of the heaven-life that we believe is now hers.

Our tender sympathies are extended to the family and relatives, and we pray them consecration in life, assurance in death, and last and best—heaven.

S. W. TAYLOR.

Roberson

Mrs. Mary a Roberson, better known as Aunt Mollie, passed away November 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Vincent.

Aunt Mollie was 82 years, seven months, and 17 days of age. She had been a member of Hawkins Chapel church for about 25 years. She was a good woman, faithful and loyal to her church. She taught school in her younger days and good impressions were made by her upon her pupils that cropped out in their lives and helped them in their active life.

She was loved by all who knew her, was of a jovial and kind disposition, She leaves behind two daughters, Mrs. P. V. Vincent, of Rosemary, N. C., and Mrs. Dallas Myrick, of Littleton, N. C., and one son, Mr. E. D. Roberson, of Fredericksburg, Va., and 12 grand children, and many friends who will remember her pleasantly.

December 1st funeral was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Vincent and her body was then carried to the burying ground known as the Perkins family burying place, and laid to rest.

Aunt Mollie, your work on earth is done.
But gave a life of service to mankind.
While here below a victory over sin won,
And left sweet influence for good behind.

J. B. O'BRIANT.

Essick

Our hearts were made sad November 26 by the passing of Mrs. Polly Essick, a beloved mother, sister and friend. She was 66 years old. She was married to William Essick in 1872 who preceded her some years ago. To this union were born three children, two sons and one daughter. The sons are Mr. Arlie and Fred Essick, the daughter, Mrs. Lindsay Thomason; also 13 grandchildren. She accepted Jesus as her Savior when a young woman and joined the Reform Church and was a faithful member. In later years Sister Essick and husband, living near our church became members of our Sunday school and attended our church except on their preaching day. As the children grew up one son and the daughter joined our church at Bethesda. The other son joined the Reform church but is a teacher in our Sunday school at present. Sister Essick lived a quiet Christian life that shone in her home

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

and community. We believe she has gone on to meet her Savior and loved ones.

Funeral services were conducted by Dr. Leonard of the Reform church and Rev. R. S. Troxler, after which the remains were laid to rest in Bethesda cemetery beside her husband. The grave was covered with many beautiful flowers to await the resurrection.

May God "The Great Comforter" take care of the children, grand-children and other sorrowing ones, and as they are gathered in one by one may they at last form an unbroken circle around God's white Throne.

The lonely home, the vacant chair,
We see them day by day;
Oh how sad and lonely there,
Since mother went away.
Not now but in the coming years,
It may be in the "better land,"
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And then we'll understand.

MRS. C. M. YOKLEY.

Nicholson

Nancy C. Nicholson died December 2, 1926, aged 91 years, 11 months, nine days.

Sister Nicholson joined Mt. Hermon M. P. Church in early life. Several years ago she transferred her membership to Hebron M. P. church where she remained a faithful member until death.

She was born, reared and spent her days in Alamance county. Her life touched the life of a number of people "who will rise up to call her blessed."

Funeral services were conducted from Hebron church, December 3rd, by Dr. T. M. Johnson and the writer, after which the remains were placed to rest in Hebron cemetery.

The large number of relatives and friends present at these services show the esteem in which her memory is held.

The tribute to the memory of the father and mother of the deceased as well as to the deceased by Dr. Johnson was beautiful. His incouragement to the living, to follow her example was well spoken.

The lives of such people as Sister Nicholson, help us to see the beauty of righteousness.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

—The business manager of Hi-Po, the High Point College paper, bears the Greek name of Antonakos. His given name, Theodore, indicates his Americanism.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.
Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian.
Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.
R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS
COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY
Buy at
ODELL'S
WHERE QUALITY TELLS
Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class
We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.
"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"
McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

MARRIED

Wiggins-Ball

On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, November 14, 1926, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Ellington, Dabney, N. C., Miss Lucy Wiggins became the bride of Mr. Thomas Ball, the ceremony being performed by the writer. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wiggins of Henderson, and the groom is a son of the late Thomas and Mrs. Ball. Both are active members of Spring Valley Church. Our best wishes go out to this young couple.

M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Gray-Dodson

November 29th, 2:30 p.m., at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. B. O'Briant, Rosemary, N. C., Mr. Richard S. Gray and Miss Ethel Dodson were united in marriage by the writer. These young people are both from Hopewell, Va. We wish for them a long, prosperous journey in life.

J. B. O'BRIANT.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF
LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use
WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for December 12.—The Children of our Community: What shall We Do for Them? John 21:15-17; Matt. 25:40.

Topic for December 19.—How Can We Express the Christmas Spirit? Luke 2:1-20; Gal. 6:9, 10; 2 Cor. 8:9; 9:6-15.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for December 12—The Boy Samuel. 1 Sam. 1 to 3, Devotional reading, Matt. 25:34-40.

Lesson for December 19.—The Savior's Birth. Luke 2:8-20. Devotional reading, 1 John 4:7-11, 14.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIS[T] ARE BRETHREN.

Pres Elderdice 5dec7
Westminster MD

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., DECEMBER 16, 1926 NUMBER 6

Gist of the President's Message

President Coolidge's message to Congress is too long for the average person to read. We give here the gist of it.

The country is prosperous and at peace, and in common with other nations is paying for the war. Congress might save time for other measures if it would make appropriations for two years at a time.

Extravagance in expenditure of public money is ruinous. Economy will reduce taxes, prevent waste, and add to efficiency in service. We must practice emonomy.

He does not favor tax reduction now, as money is needed to pay off the debts of the nation.

He argues against further tariff reduction.

Cotton acreage should be reduced about one-third the coming years. The Interstate Commerce Commission has authority to reduce exorbitant freight rates on agricultural products. The manufacture of nitrates at Muscle Shoals is still considered. Cooperative associations are recommended to farmers, provided they are of the reliable sort.

Waterways for commerce, river and harbor improvements are briefly referred to. National rather than local interest should guide in legislation regarding these matters.

The storage of water for the arid regions of the West is recommended.

Consolidation of railroads is recommended as a means of securing lower rates of transportation.

On the subject of merchant marine he says we need not more ships so much as more freight for the ships we have. He declares that American merchants are too careless about using American ships to carry their goods.

Attention is called to the need of radio legislation to prement interferences. He recommends the establishment of a board of control.

Wage-earners are referred to sympathetically and mention is made of the legislation already enacted in their favor, particularly the tariff and immigration laws.

He recommends legislation to authorize the President to act in case of a coal strike to prevent profiteering and coal famine.

He recommends higher salaries for the members of the Supreme Court.

He recommends legislation to put national banks on a par with state banks.

He expresses himself in favor of reducing federal control of the business activities of the people. He does not believe in paternalism in government. The people should think and act for themselves.

He refers to the Negro briefly, saying that he should be given the equal opportunity provided for in the constitution and that there should be more care to prevent the crime of lynching.

(Continued on Page Six)

A Match Box With an Interesting History

The following story was told us by a Guilford county man. Some years ago his brother met the Hon. Joseph Cannon in a hotel in the eastern part of North Carolina. When Mr. Cannon learned that the other man was from Guilford county he became very communicative. At length he sent an attendant up to his room to bring down a valise. He took from the valise a carefully wrapped package which when unwrapped proved to be a metal match box which had once been enameled but from which nearly all the enamel had been worn. Mr. Cannon gave the history of the box. When Mr. Cannon's parents left North Carolina in his early boyhood they traveled in a wagon and had a pot in which they carried fire. Fearing lest the fire might fail, they drove out of their way to Greensboro to buy a box of matches. This they bought in a store on the corner of Market and Davie streets. It had 25 matches in it and cost 25 cents. In a few days the fire failed and they had to strike one of the precious matches. They traveled on for days, and at length Mrs. Cannon began to weary of the journey, and asked her husband where they were going to stop. His reply was, "We will go on till we use the last match, and then we will stop and settle down." And, said Mr. Cannon to the Guilford man, that's what they did. He further stated that he greatly coveted that match box and frequently begged his father for it, until at last he gave it to him. He carried it in his pocket for years. It had become a precious relic and reminder of those early days and Mr. Cannon prized it so highly that he would not part with it at any price. The story shows us some of the changes a century has wrought. I wonder whether we duly appreciate our modern conveniences. To whom much is given, of them much will be required.

Another Methodist Protestant Book

Methodist Protestant writers have produced a number of worthy books, but not all of them have been distinctively Methodist Protestant books. Asa Shinn wrote a great book on "The Benevolence of the Supreme Being." Lately Dr. Lee Anna Starr has written a great book on "The Bible Status of Woman." Dr. T. H. Lewis and other Methodist Protestants have produced worthy books intended for readers of any class. But a number of good books have been written especially for Methodist Protestant readers. All our church histories may be said to be of this class—Paris's, Bassett's, Drinkhouse's, Davis's. We have just received another book that will take place among the books of Methodist Protestant history. It comes from the pen of Rev. I. A. Barnes, D. D., of Fairmont, W. Va., and is entitled "The Methodist Protestant Church in West Virginia." It is a book of over 500 pages and is illustrated with more than a hundred photographs of churches and leading ministers and laymen and laywomen of the West Virginia Conference. The book will be

(Continued on Page Three)

TWO FORMER TEACHERS IN ANDOVER SEMINARY

Dr. Frederick Lynch—one of the editors of the Christian Century—has recently written appreciatingly of "Memories of a Happy Life," by Dr. William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts. Concerning what the bishop has to say of Professors Park and Thayer—two of his instructors in the Seminary at Andover—Dr. Lynch writes interestingly as follows:

Bishop Lawrence, although an Episcopalian, entered the Andover Theological Seminary (Congregational) after graduation from Harvard. He found a very interesting situation there. Professor Edwards A. Park was teaching an iron-clad, unbreakable system of theology which he had not changed in 30 years.

The bishop goes on to say that just across the hall from Professor Park's class-room, Professor John Henry Thayer was teaching with enthusiasm the newer attitude and interpretation of Christian thought and faith, namely, the unhindered quest of truth. Professor Park had a system to defend; Professor Thayer had the high purpose of guiding the student to the truth.

Every day the students went into Professor Park's room and heard him defend the truth and then went over to Professor Thayer's room and heard him say the truth needed no defense. Bishop Lawrence quotes Professor Thayer as saying: "Gentlemen, it is not for me to defend the faith. A true faith will defend itself. It is my duty to guide you with open mind, humble spirt, and a pure heart, to the truth, the truth alone, wherever it may lead you; and be ye sure that it will always lead you to a fuller knowledge of Christ, who is the truth. Hold as for your life that attitude of mind. Seek the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Bishop Lawrence tells us that the students divided into two camps, and that with the minority he stood for Professor Thayer's method, and has ever since. It has saved him from shipwreck through the last 50 years when the faith has had to meet the new knowledge as it came in great floods—not only the new science, but the new biblical criticism, the new theology, and the changing emphasis in religion.

One group of men, the followers of Professor Park, believe that the truth of science, philosophy and religion can be compacted into a system and kept there, abue to wthstand the coming thought. Those who hold this view have always to be standing on the defensive and rejecting everything they cannot fit into their creed and system. New truth is a constant source of annoyance to them and often drives them, since they have no powers of adjustment, into doubt of all spiritual reality.

On the other hand there are those, followers of Professor Thayer, who hold that truth is a living thing. A creed expresses the faith of the age in which it was written; but we gladly welcome the revelation of fresh truth, breathe into the language of the creed fresh interpretations, which continue to enrich and make more vital the faith from generation to generation. Instead of weakening the faith it strengthens conviction. In closing his remarks on this point, Bishop Lawrence says:

"I have written thus at length because in this half-century of active life since Andover days, I have seen system after system crack and fall to pieces, while the orthodox in science, philosophy or religion bemoan the overthrow of the faith; whereas new thought, so far as it has been found to be true, has, if welcomed, added to the strength and glory of faith."

AN APPRECIATED LETTER OF APPRECIATION

Greensboro, N. C., December 10, 1926.

Dear Dr. McCulloch:

I have been thinking for some time that I should say to you how much I appreciate the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD and the work you have done for the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina during the last 32 years.

I am glad that I received one of the first copies of Our Church Record and have been a regular subscriber ever since, and that it has been a great help to me in my church life.

I sometimes wonder if anyone can begin to estimate what the HERALD has meant to the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina, but I am quite sure that it has been a great influence in putting us in the position we now occupy today in our denomination, and I feel confident in saying that neither the Children's Home nor High Point College would be in existence today but for the influence of the HERALD.

I am often reminded that the late J. P. Caldwell, editor of the Charlotte Observer, did not overstate the fact when he siad the Church Record as it was at that time was the cleanest and best edited paper that came to his desk.

I recognize the fact that there are not nearly as many of our people reading the HERALD as should be reading it, and I am sure it is the duty of everyone who can do so to help to bring about the time when every family in the North Carolina Conference shall be reading the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD and that right early.

Sincerely yours,

R. F. WILLIAMS.

THE LATEST

In passing a church down town the other day, we saw what appeared at first to be an advertising sign-board nailed to a tree near the church. But on nearer approach it proved to be an announcement for Sunday night service, as follows: "Subject: Sunday, 7: 'Gnats and Camels.'" It did not state whether the "camels" were real ones or cigarettes. Such subjects for a sermon are entirely unscriptural. They are supposed to be "smart" by those who are given to such freaks. They are cheap and sensational. We hope there is not a preacher in the entire N. C. Conference of the M. P. Church capable of such foolishness. It smacks of the "movies," not of the Bible nor of Jesus Christ. Such may be a drawing card to catch those devoid of common sense and serious thought. We had contemplated going to hear the "new preacher" Sunday night. Now we will go elsewhere or stay at home. Such is too much for our stomach. We've been used to better fare. All such is as foreign to the Word of God and the Gospel of Jesus Christ as can well be. The Bible is teeming with great themes, in reference to time and eternity, and then for a preacher to prostitute his high, heavenly, and divine calling to discourse on "Gnats and Camels" is too much for some of us every-day, ordinary mortals.

J. F. DOSIER.

—Calvary church, Greensboro, is preparing a Christmas pageant for next Sunday night. The children will have a treat at another time. Last Monday night the women of the Home Missionary Society met at the home of Rev. T. F. McCulloch. Some honorary members were present. The "blessing boxes" were opened and found to contain over $23. The Sunday school is having the best attendance ever. Congregations are increasing in the preaching services.

SOME SAFETY THOUGHTS FOR THE CHRISTMAS SEASON

The Christmas season, that period of the year when joy and happiness should reign supreme and gladness never be dimmed by accident or adversity, is now knocking at our doors and will be here almost before we are ready for it.

At this time, before we enter into the preparation for the holidays and before the time we will be permitted to participate in the various Christmastide events, it may be well for us to stop and think quietly just a minute or two over some simple rules for safety.

That Christmas Tree—Do not decorate it with flimsy material hung too near candles or lights. Do not decorate your tree with paper, cotton or any inflammable material. Use tinsel or other non-inflammable material for decorations and be sure to set the tree securely so that the children and even the "grown-ups" in reaching for things cannot tip it over.

Do not use cotton to represent snow. If you must have snow use powdered mica or asbestos fibre.

Do not use candles, where electricity can be substituted. Even with the use of electric batteries they would be far safer than the use of candles. If candles are used let only the utmost caution prevail. Do not permit children to light or relight the candles. They frequently set fire to their clothing instead. Do not leave the matches within reach of the children. Candles are meant to be lighted and if children can get matches they will experiment with them. They imitate their elders. Better caution "Dad" and "Brother" to be careful with cigar and cigarette stubs, too.

Do not allow trees to remain inside of buildings after the Holidays. The tree ignites readily when leaves and branches are dry. A large number of fires occur in January from this cause.

Do not use decorations near open gas jets or too near lights of any kind.

Examine the wiring which leads to lights used for decorative purposes. See to it that it is safe.

Let the home, church, school or store be warm, but look out for over-heated stoves and pipes.

A BOOK AND A CHILD

A book is a child's introduction to the scene of meanings, to the way things are done in the world and the purpose they serve. A book is for inspiration, entertainment, and instruction.

Books must preserve that fresh, confident outlook upon life that is so happily characteristic of children. They must lead children to interpret their intuitions and profit from experience. Great books lead children to evaluate character and achievement. They contain a description of some part of the trail followed by someone else. We remember our own impressions from a book long after we have forgotten the details of its story. Great books lead children to value culture, good manners, and Christian citizenship.

Nothing is more cherished in later life than a love for literature implanted early. No one can ever build again the world he saw when he gazed off wonderingly into space as he looked up, as a child, from a beloved book.

The child demands of his books, in short, that they hold his interest by the quality of their incidents, stir his imagination by their vivid color, and teach him in a frendly, sympathetic way by their wise advice pointing toward what, to his mind, ought to be a blessed and more abundant life.—Richard K. Morton in The Congregationalist.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Amazing Truth, and can it be
That Heaven poured its legions forth,
With strains of Seraph harmony,
The heralds of Messiah's birth?
That humble shepherds' watchful eyes
Beheld the glory streaming down
As noon-day bright, thro' midnight skies,
Among their flocks, near David's Town?

Those shepherds heard with glad surprise
The happiest news to Earth e'er given.
With haste they came; their wondering eyes
Beheld the richest gift of Heaven;
And there in Bethlehem's sacred fold
They worshipped at the sight sublime—
The new-born Savior, long foretold,
The Prince of Peace of David's line.

O World, eclipsed in dreadful night
Of hate and greed and cruel wrong,
With faith obscured by reign of might,
Draw nigh and list the angels' song.
O, catch that message yet again,
"To God ascribe eternal praise,
On Earth be peace, good-will to men,
From this time to endless days."

Again to Bethlehem make haste,
And 'round that manger kneel in awe,
For there the Holy Babe is placed
Who rules the ages in His law.
Return ye then to home and mart,
In all the world make hatred cease:
When Love shall rule in every heart
Shall dawn Messiah's reign of Peace.

—Azariah Foster Reimer, in Zion's Herald.

Another Methodist Protestant Book

(Continued from Page One)

of most intense interest to West Virginia people, but it will not be devoid of interest to Methodist Protestants anywhere. In fact, it will help Methodist Protestants outside of West Virginia to be better Methodist Protestants to have this testimony to the devotion and faithfulness of our people in West Virginia. As others have done, they have come up through tribulation. But they have the mountaineer's love of liberty, and the spirit of the Methodist Protestant Church appealed to the heroic in them, and they have made sacrifices for the church they love. There are two classes of people to which the Methodist Protestant Church does not appeal: these are the "high fliers" and the "toadies." The people of West Virginia are neither high fliers nor toadies. They are a democratic people and when they become Christians believe in Christian democracy. Dr. Barnes has done good service to the cause of Methodist Protestantism in writing and publishing this book. The author of the book suggests that some one in every conference should do for his own conference what the author of this book has done for West Virginia. We believe there is a chance for real service here. Will someone in North Carolina take the hint? The book is from the Stockton Press, Baltimore, and is in good style. It sells for $3.00 in cloth binding and for $3.50 in morocco. All orders should be sent to the author, Rev. I. A. Barnes, D. D., Fairmont, W. Va.

Denominational Enterprises

MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE UNION BOARD

The Executive Committee of the Union Board of Foreign Missionary Administration met in the Pittsburgh Book Concern Building on Wednesday, November 17th, 1926, with the President, Rev. Dr. J. C. Broomfield, in the chair.

Japan.—Note was made that Miss Ethel Hempstead, of the Japan Mission would start on her return home on furlough the last of November.

The Science Hall, for which the students have given Yen 8,000, and the Mission, Yen 2,000, was under course of construction, as was also the Nagoya College church, and their completion will add much to the equipment, especially for the religious work of the institution with its more than 1,100 students.

A number of subscriptions made at the General Conference by individuals and organizations for that church have not been paid, and as funds are urgently needed, since the subscription list did not furnish enough funds, an earnest appeal is made for prompt payment of all subscriptions.

The building of the Hiratsuka kindergarten was authorized with the assurance that the extra Yen 500 would be provided.

The Executive Committee joined in with the Mission to express to the student body of Nagoya College gratitude for the splendid aid given in making substantial building improvements at the college.

The sending of Miss Moruma to America for preparing herself for more extended labors was approved.

Action concerning a pension system for the teachers of the Yokohama Girls' School was deferred to the February meeting.

The securing of a lady teacher of English for the Yokahama Girls' School was referred to the Candidate Committee.

The Executive Committee favored the purchase of the lot at Homoku, Yokohama, for the Shields kindergarten, now on rented land.

The statistical and financial reports were presented, and gratification was expressed over the good work being done, and the latter were referred to the auditing committee.

China.—Communications and reports were received from Rev. and Mrs. Soderbom and Brother Horace S. Williams, at Kalgan.

Dr. Fleagle, at last report, had started homeward for furlough, she having remained at her post a year beyond the alloted time of service, and she was expecting to be joined by Miss Hempstead to return to America together.

Detailed reports of the conditions in China caused by civil war were read, and gratification was expressed that at Kalgan, despite the fact that the forces of the Christian general had retreated, and it and surrounding country were occupied by worse soldiers, and brigands were at work, the Kalgan Girls' School, and the Boys' School were opened, and would continue as long as possible. Coal and provisions were scarce and rising in price, and the conditions were becoming trying, although the military governor was bringing about order, and business was being resumed.

The retreat of the Christian general's forces carried with it the Chinese magistrate who agreed to give one-half the cost of a chapel at Chaikoupu, but the Executive Committee authorized the building of the chapel at cost of $500, provided by special contribution to make it a memorial to Rev. C. A. Isner, as Brother Soderbom wrote one could be built for present needs, and later be enlarged. Sympathy was expressed for our missionaries in their trying experiences.

The financial reports were referred to the auditing committee.

India.—The sending of Shanke to a special school that he may be able to work for the Mission later was approved.

Several communications and financial reports were submitted; the latter were referred to the auditing committee.

Note was made of the receipt of the bequest of the late Mr. T. F. Harrison of $1,000 less inheritance tax of $50. The interest from this sum is to be used to educate young men for the ministry in our foreign field.

Appreciation was expressed for the liberality of the Baltimore Directory in agreeing to send the Methodist Protestant to our foreign missionaries.

The date of the next meeting was set for February 24, 1927. Fred C. Klein, Exec. Sec.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The responsibilities of this arm of the Methodist Protestant Church are varied. They include some activities which come close to the heart of any Christian program. The very center is to help furnish trained leaders for pew and pulpit. The Church of Jesus Christ will move forward only as the character and capacity of its leadership will permit. The Methodist Protestant section is no exception. We limp and falter because we do not have a sufficient number of the right kind of leaders. Earnestness, enthusiasm, consecration, loyalty to Christ, natural ability and common sense when tempered with a balanced training make of the Christian ministers an irresistible power for good.

The work the Board of Education is trying to do is as follows:

1. Men for the Ministry.—This is the primary task of the Board. For nearly 50 years under the leadership of Secretaries Walker, Berrien and Brown, all the energies of the Board were devoted to finding men for the ministry, appealing to the churches for funds for their support and in the effort to enlist the prayers of the church that God might send forth called and consecrated harvesters for the ripened fields. Since the Zanesville General Conference, when the duties of the Board were greatly increased, Dr. Miller and the present Secretary have endeavored to continue this important work with the same strong emphasis. Recently the second Sunday in December has been set apart to be observed throughout the church as "Men for the Ministry" Sunday. And by personal correspondence, sermons and addresses, communications to the church papers, as well as visits to our colleges, we are endeavoring to arouse all our people to the vital importance of trained leaders for our pulpits.

2. Trained Leadership.—The Methodist Protestant Church believes that men who wish to enter the Christian ministry should obtain the best possible training. We want these men to be earnest, enthusiastic, sensible and consecrated. But we believe the work involved requires just as careful preparation as any to which the mind and heart may be dedicated. Other occupations demand that those entering them shall come adequately prepared. Those who would teach, practice law or medicine, must meet certain educational standards first. The church cannot afford to accept a lower ideal for its ministry. The Board makes loans and gifts each year to enable our ministerial candidates to secure their college and seminary training.

3. Colleges and Seminary.—That our young men may receive their training under Christian influences and in keeping with accepted standards we maintain four colleges and one seminary. The colleges are all liberal arts institutions while the seminary specializes in advanced work in those studies which will help the prospective minister, missionary or leader in the field of religious education to secure the kind of training that will fit them for effective service in their chosen vocation. Furthermore, we have come to believe that the church should maintain higher schools of learning like our colleges that any of our young people might secure their training in a Christian atmsphere that they might not go into their life work whatever it may be imbued with Christian ideals, sentiments and motives. The world needs Christian leadership. Twenty-three percent of the General Conference Budget is for the Board of Education. We have been receiving but onefourth of the amount intended. The Centennial Christmas offerings will help.

4. An Awakened Conscience.—The church is quite well aroused relative to its responsibility for benevolent tasks, missionary efforts at home and abroad, and for church extension, but it is not as keen about the importance of Christian education. We take pride in our great state colleges and universities. We pay the taxes to support them with little protest. Yet a positive Christian influence in these institutions is rare. If the Christian element is as important to life as we believe we cannot be satisfied with the kind of an education which ignores Christianity. The Board of Education is trying to awaken the conscience of our people to the fact that education without religion is not worthy the name.

5. Student Help.—Soon after the old Board of Ministerial Education was organized it was discovered that many of the young men planning to enter the ministry were without sufficient funds to secure their college training. By the gifts of interested friends it was possible to make loans and to build up a fund the income from which is used for that purpose. This fund now amounts to over $50,000. It is gradually increasing. It is known as the Ministerial Education Fund. Several years ago an urgent request came to the Board to assist others of our young people who did not have the ministry in mind but who were well worthy of assistance. In the last eight years nearly 50 have been given assistance through the Student Loan Fund. A permanent fund is being built up which will enable the Board to increase its service in this respect.

Such in brief outline is the work the Board of Education is trying to do. Out of the Budget funds are coming to help support our colleges and to carry on our program of ministerial help. Believing that trained leadership is essential to the progress and prosperity of the church at home and abroad we feel nothing else will contribute so largely to the success of all as a generous consideration of this cause. The offerings made at the Centennial Christmas service will help the Board of Education serve the church in a larger way.

FRANK W. STEPHENSON.

THE DENOMINATIONAL OUTLOOK

Arkansas.—The Shiloh church, near Mansfield, has four Christian Endeavor Societies with a total of 123 members. . . . . A church is being organized at Eldorado.

Georgia.—A Christian Endeavor Society has been organized in the First Church, Atlanta. . . . . As a result of the camp-meeting at Union a young people's prayer meeting has been organized. There are more than 75 young people on roll.

Illinois.—The church at Ohio holds a fellowship supper once each month, the members of the church bringing their supper with them to the church. At the last meeting about 200 sat down together. . . . . The Long Point Church has been improved with a new roof and a coat of paint inside and out.

Indiana.—Rally Day services in Unity Church, Indianapolis, were largely attended, and an offering of $68 received.

Maryland.—The church at Glenburnie, Maryland, was dedicated on September 5. The building cost $60,000. . . . . The church at Catoctin was reopened on a recent Sunday after considerable improvement. . . . . The annual Adult Membership Banquet of Starr Church, Baltimore, was attended by 200 members. . . . . There were 50 professions as a result of the revival services at Hampden Church. . . . . Twenty professions were made on a recent Sunday at Christ Church, Baltimore. . . . . Rev. C. R. Strusburg, pastor of the First Church, Cumberland, has performed more than 680 marriage ceremonies since the middle of last April. . . . . Thirteen additions were made to the membership of Trinity Church, Baltimore, during October. . . . . A fish supper held in the Marley church netted $150. . . . . Interesting exercises were held in Bethesda Church, Salisbury, in connection with the unveiling of a mural painting, "The Good Shepherd." The painting is 10 feet by 15, is by one of the foremost American artists, and cost $5,000. It is a memorial to one of the members of the church. . . . . The First Church, Newark, had an assessment for Education of $720, which was raised in full on Rally Day.

Michigan.—The Alpha Class of the Methodist Protestant Church at Copec has a membership of 44. Last year the class raised $175 toward church improvements. The average offering of the Sunday school is $9.86. One offering each month is given to Foreign Missions. . . . . A church organization has been perfected at Port Huron, where the outlook is promising. . . . . A parsonage has been built for the church at Clio.

Onondaga.—A bronze memorial tablet bearing the names of all the pastors who had served the church since its organization in 1839, was unveiled in the church at East Schuyler, N. Y., on the first Sunday in November.

Pittsburgh.—Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilbur are spending the winter in Los Angeles. . . . . The First Church, North Side, has let the contract for a beautiful parsonage. . . . . Dr. and Mrs. Dimit were given a reception by the members of the Uniontown Church of which he has been pastor for the past 18 years. At the dinner in connection with the affair 325 guests were served. The pastor was presented with a beautiful gold watch, and his wife with a wrist-watch. . . . . The Brownsville Church, Fairchance Circuit, has been improved with a Sunday school building costing $5,000. . . . . Eighteen members were added to the membership of the Bellevue Church on a recent Sunday.

West Virginia.—Rev. J. J. Phillips, pastor of the First Church, Fairmont, was elected President of the Ministerial Association for this year. . . . . When the pastor of the Flemington charge took stock after a recent pounding, he found himself some $75 to the good.

Washington.—The attendance at the Rally Day services of the Ravenna Church reached 500, and the offering was $62.50.

C. W. B.

NEWS FROM THE FIELDS

The Yokohama Girls' School, for the quarter ending September 30th, had one baptism; and in its High School department had 229; in the Primary Department 149, and the Kindergarten 88, and the Howoku kindergarten had 57 enrolled.

During the summer vacation the teachers of the Primary Department conducted what they called a Nature School for 10 days at the seashore, and most of the children of the department attended and seemed to enjoy it very much.

The Oyama Kindergarten had enrolled 47. The summer vacation began the middle of July and ended September 5th.

The Hamamatsu Kindergarten enrolled 18 boys and 36 girls. A kindergarten Sunday school was conducted, and as usual with the kindergartens, a number of other meetings were held.

The Nagoya Kindergarten had 44 girls and 48 boys enrolled with an actual attendance of 85. One more mother has begun coming to the Friday afternoon Bible class, and she has been studying the Bible this summer. We are expecting her salvation and would be glad to have you pray with us for her and the others who are interested.

The Tokyo Blind School whose principal, Rev. S. Wada, was highly honored recently by high dignitaries of the government, and an account thereof given in last week's papers, had 32 enrolled, three of whom were enquirers.

A summer lecture course was carried on for the benefit of the teachers and the fall term opened in a very promising way, 13 new students were secured. Brother Wada is highly asteemed by government officials and is frequently receiving commendation from them. It would not be surprising if he should receive a government pension in the near future, because of his long and faithful work for lepers and the blind.

The religious attitude of the students is good and there are a few very earnest enquirers. Some baptisms are expected in the near future.

The outlook for the school is the best it has been for some time,

The high enrollment of Nagoya College continues, and the Science Hall, for which the students have given Yen 8,000, is in course of construction and progressing nicely. The old building was pushed back, and is being remodeled in conjunction with the erection of the new building.

The Nagoya College Church is also being built, and wll add greatly to our equipment as a Christian institution, but funds are lacking for payments, and all subscribers are being appealed to again for their contributions, and as there will still be a shortage of considerable proportions, our friends are urged to aid speedily in special gifts to insure its early completion and its use in the religious work for that large student body.

On September 24th our school had an athletic meet to which the basketball teams of all the Primary schools in Nagoya were invited.

Three sets of goals were kept in use most of the day. The winner received a banner given by our school. This is a day of athletics in Japan, and the school that does not recognize this fact will lose its prestige.

Recently our basketball team, which, by the way, holds the championship title in Nagoya, was victor over the famous Doshisha University basketball team. Such victories give our school a kind of prestige which is a valuable asset to any school.

With the next few days we begin a series of revival meetings at the school. The Faculty and students are having morning prayer meetings in preparation. The results will be reported next quarter.

FRED C. KLEIN.

Gist of the President's Message

(Continued from Page One)

Under the head of "Our Insular Possessions" he writes at length of our relation to the Philippine Islands. He does not think the time has come to give them their independence, but declares that military control should soon give place to civil control.

For national defense he thinks our military power is sufficient, and he favors the maintenance but not the enlargement of the army and navy and merchant marine.

He does not favor further extension of the pension system for the war veterans at this time.

Alien property seized in war-time is held as a guarantee of the claims of citizens and the government and should not be released without securing the claims against it.

Prohibition by just legal enactment is now the law of the land and should be upheld by all officers of the government as well as by all private citizens.

In our foreign relations we are friendly to all nations. We are for world peace. We favor a reduction of armaments. Negotiations with China were broken off by the war there, but may be resumed upon the establishment of a stable government.

Improvements in and additions to the government buildings are referred to and approved. The best in architecture should appear in our government buildings. No other nation should excel us in this matter.

On the subject of American Ideals he concludes the message with the following words:

"We need ideals that can be followed in daily life, that can be translated into terms of the home. We can not expect to be relieved from toil, but we do expect to divest it of degrading conditions. Work is honorable; it is entitled to an honorable recompense. We must strive mightily, but having striven there is a defect in our political and social system if we are not in general rewarded with success. To relieve the land of the burdens that came from the war, to release to the individual more of the fruits of his own industry, to increase his earning capacity and decrease his hours of labor, to enlarge the circle of his vision through good roads and better transportation, to place before him the opportunity for education both in science and in art, to leave him free to receive the inspiration of religion, all these are ideals which deliver him from the servitude of the body and exalt him to the service of the soul. Through this emancipation from the things that are material, we broaden our dominion over the things that are spiritual."

CHRISTIAN TRAINING

We now face the major responsibilities of a fully developed congregational consciousness. We are committed as never before to the expenditure of our capital resources of life and service in building the Divine Kingdom. Above all we must seek to interest and bring into the service of Christ and the Church the superabundant energies of the younger generation, upon whose loyalties the future of both Church and State depesds; we must call back to the Church the intelligence and social passion of the people and inform it with a special purpose, and inspire it with a spiritual life, if God's blessing is to consecrate this grave hour.—Rev. Harris E. Kirk, D. D.

The WORK and the WORKERS

Tabernacle

On Friday afternoon, December 10, in company with Rev. W. F. Ashburn, the pastor, we went to Tabernacle for the quarterly conference. It was a good quarterly conference in which they undertook to plan the work wisely and well for the year. They are making the every-member canvass with a view to paying the budgets as well as the pastor's salary. Both pastor and people seem to be starting in with a view of doing a splendid year's work for the Master. As the charge now has only two churches the pastor and his workers will have an opportunity for much more intensive cultivation. We believe they will have a good year together.

Kernersville

At night of the same day we were with Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk and his people in quarterly conference at Kernersville. Here the conference had been called off because of a stormy night, and changed to this evening, so the attendance was not so good. But the meeting was a good one. Brother Lowdermilk, as most of you know, is giving up the work at the Children's Home, and will soon move to Kernersville where he and his good wife will enter once more upon the duties of the pastorate. The people of the charge seem glad to have these good workers to serve them, and the prospects are that they will have a good year together in service for Him.

West Thomasville

Saturday morning, December 11, found us at Canaan Church, on West Thomasville, with Rev. G. W. Andrew and his people in quarterly conference. Here the attendance was not large, but the proper spirit prevailed, and the people seem eager to do greater things in Christian service. They seem delighted with their new pastor, and he is pleased with the work. Both pastor and people are planning for better organized work. This charge is doing splendid service.

Mount Pleasant

While passing we stopped to look over the new church at Mount Pleasant on North Davidson. We could not get in, but raised a window and looked in. We are delighted with this splendid new country church plant with its equipment for Sunday school work. May God bless these people who have planned and built so wisely.

South Lexington

We hurried on to Lexington for the quarterly conference of the South Lexington Charge. Brother A. Ridge had a good report and some splendid recommendations which were adopted by the conference. This two-point charge is now in condition to do fine service. Brother Ridge and his people are entering enthusiastically upon the work, and are planning the work wisely, and we believe they will come up to Conference on the honor roll with all obligations paid in full.

The pastor met his churches with this challenge: "If the charge will raise the A. C. B. within the next 30 days, I will pay onetenth of it." Surely there are nine others who will do as well as he. Their great need here just now is a parsonage. They are planning for this.

State Street, Lexington

Just passed this church; stopped a bit to look over the new plant, and to eat supper with the happy pastor and his wife. Good news from this church soon.

Community Church, Thomasville

Both services on Sunday were given to the Community Church with Rev. H. W. Maier and his people. Brother Maier and his wife are putting on a very fine program here, and the people are responding beautifully. Both pastor and people seem greatly encouraged. Plans are working to pay all budgets in full.

Mrs. Maier is conducting a Junior Church Service at 11 o'clock each Sunday morning while Brother Maier preaches to the adults. I preached Sunday morning to the adults while Mrs. Dixon visited the Junior Church Service with Mrs. Maier. Sunday night they put on the Passion Play. It was a most impressive picture, which presents in striking manner the life of the Christ. Though it was pouring down rain, there must have been some four hundred people present to see the picture, and each one must have gone away deeply impressed with the life, the sacrifice, the death, and the resurrection of our blessed Lord.

Christmas Programs

We are delighted to know that so many churches are planning to hold the Christmas services as planned by the General Conference Budget Council. We trust all these services will be abundantly successful.

Let all churches and Sunday schools that have not planned for the regular service at least take an offering on one of the Sundays nearest to Christmas and send it to Mr. V. W. Idol on the G. C. B. You can thus help yourselves and the general work.

In another column you will find the list of amounts reported on budgets to date. We are disappointed that more did not report, but are thankful for those who did. Let us see how fast we can get other charges listed.

Christmas

Before we write again Christmas will have come and gone. We wish for every reader of the HERALD a very happy Christmas and a glad and successful new year.

May God bless and cheer all his workers.

Faithfully yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON.

FURNISHING THE MIND

Instead of making your mind a garret crowded with rubbish, make it a parlor substantially furnished, beautifully arranged, in which you would not be ashamed to have the whole world enter."

These vivid words from the pen of T. De Witt Talmage, the great Brooklyn preacher, help us to get a sew conception of the mind and what it ought to contain. When Paul had enumerated things true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, and of good report, he besought his Philippian readers to think on them.

We must be selective in our thinking. We may clutter our minds with refuse, or we may furnish them with fine things. Each of us is responsible for the condition of the room over which he presides.—Forward.

A course in physical education is required by law in the schools of thirty-five states.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE CHRISTMAS VISIT OF UNCLE ALIAS

The splendid big car was speeding swiftly down Sanford street as if only too anxious to get away from the shabby, almost poverty-stricken little street. But most unexpectedly it slowed down, then stopped altogether. Whereupon two children seated on the steps of a house nearby looked excitedly at each other, then timidly approached the car, arriving just as the owner stepped out from its luxurious depths.

"Please, sir—please, please, sir, is—isn't your name Jeremiah Atkinson?" The eager, almost pleading voice came from a shabby little girl in a brown coat, with a woolen scarf clutched tight about her mop of pale flaxen hair. Beside her, leaning breathlessly forward, waiting his answer stood a small boy. "Jeremiah Atkinson, who went to Australia—mother's uncle?" he threw in anxiously.

"You are, aren't you," begged the little girl. "I just knew you must be when I saw your car stop. Mother isn't home, but she will be; she's only working half a day because it's Christmas."

The man who might or might not be Jeremiah Atkinson was big and overpowering in his suggestion of wealth, even as the great glossy car behind him was. "Am I Jeremiah Atkinson?" he questioned, peering down through big important-looking spectacles at the two eagerly expectant faces. "Well, now that is a question to come popping out at a man so early Christmas morning. But fortunately there is a very easy way to find out. My card case should be about me somewhere."

Unfastening his big fur-lined overcoat, the strange gentleman thrust an exploring hand inside.

"But—why, you must know your own name!" Two pairs of bewildered eyes gazed up at the twinkling gentleman.

"I should certainly hope so," smiled that individual, still searching pocket after pocket diligently. "I can even write it upon occasion. But," he added, "you don't seem to know what it is."

"Then you're not Jer—Jeremiah Atkinson?" The little girl's voice broke with disappointment.

"Not so fast," spoke up the man quickly. "I wouldn't go so far as to say that. Suppose you tell me all you know about this Jeremiah person, and then we'll see—we'll see."

Before the two youngsters could digest this rather surprising statement the fur-coated gentleman had a hand of each. "Suppose," he said briskly, "you take me inside your home and tell me about him; it's far too cold outside here."

Rosie looked at Jerry and Jerry at Rosie. "He is—he is!" their eyes said very plainly. Then they led him into the little house, where a stove was blowing readily, trying its best to heat the whole house. And there, hovering close about this stove, the children unfolded the romantic tale of their long lost uncle, displayed presents he had sent their mother from Australia, even showed old yellow letters he had written telling of growing wealth and spinning wonderful tales of how they would spend the money when he returned to America. But, alas, he had never returned. For ten years he had never been heard from, and it all had happened before either of the children was born.

"Mother thinks he's dead," ended Rosie. "But we don't, do we, Jerry? We make believe about him lots and just know he'll come back some day. Richer'n a king, richer'n Rockefeller. That's why when we saw your splendid big car and—and saw it stop—"

"You most naturally thought I was the wonderful long lost uncle. Well then, I imagine it won't surprise you to find that I am by way of being Jeremiah Atkinson this very minute. Alias Jeremiah Atkinson. If you don't believe it, I'll write it down on this bit of cardboard. There you are."

"But—" Rosie caught her breath sharply—"I never knew his—your first name was—was—"

"Alias," chuckled the man. "No, and lots of other people don't know it either. But really, now, you wouldn't turn a fellow down because he has a funny first name."

No, it was very plain they wouldn't. But when dreams suddenly come true it is hard at first to realize it. But their eyes welcomed him joyously. What would mother say? Clutching hands excitedly they waited to see what would happen next.

Smiling down at his young audience, Alias Jeremiah Atkinson obligingly began to perform. "Seeing it's Christmas and all, I think we ought to celebrate," said he. "So if you'll give my thirsty car a drink of water, I'll take her for a run into town and bring back something to celebrate with."

Filling a pail with water and carrying it out to the car, he next jumped into the front seat and waving goodby sped out of sight in the direction of town. So suddenly that the two children looked anxiously after him. Had it really happened? Yes, there was the bit of cardboard with the name written plainly on it.

"Alias! Seems like it ought to be Elias," musied Rosie aloud. "Wonder why he never signed it to his letters."

"I'll ask him when he comes back," said Jerry.

When he came back, however, things happened so fast that Jerry never even thought of asking him. He and Rosie just stood back and watched the people perform. People! Yes, for Alias Jeremiah didn't came back alone. He brought with him a bunch of jolly young folks who flew back and forth from the car in a steady procession, bringing—what didn't they bring! A Christmas tree, covered with glittering trimmings, was planted in one corner of the sitting room. Around it sprouted packages and more packages. A gas radiator suddenly appeared in another corner. Holly, mistletoe and evergreens began to sprout from pictures, chandeliers and window frames. And in the midst of all the greenery the dining-room table showed white for a minute, then was covered with wonderful dishes. A gloriously browned turkey, crisp and sizzling, a round steaming plum pudding, nuts, raisins. Oh, there seemed no end to the good things that popped out of the covered baskets.

"And now," said Alias Jeremiah, appearing suddenly out of all the hurry and commotion before the children, "will you give this to your mother when she returns?"

Rosie looked at the envelope he was holding out to her. "But," she faltered, "aren't you going to stay to see her?"

"No, I'm thinking I'd better not," said the man, buttoning himself into his great coat. "But don't worry; she'll understand."

"Merry Christmas and many of them." A flurry of friendly goodby's and they were all gone.

"And we never even thanked 'em," said Rosie. "My, doesn't that turkey smell good!"

"And the pudding's just full of raisins," cried Jerry. "And that package over there, I know a big train's in it. Oh, why doesn't mother hurry up and come?"

Fortunately they hadn't long to wait. In scarcely ten minutes the tired little woman came in with a basket over her arm; her employers had insisted upon sending some of the dinner she had helped to prepare home to the children.

But—dazedly the good woman stared about her at the transformed house, the laden table, the radiator sending its delightful warmth over all.

"Uncle Jeremiah's come—Uncle Jeremiah's come!" shouted the children, dancing wildly about her. "He brought this and this and this."

Pulled this way and that and that and the other, her bewilderment grew. "But your Uncle Jeremiah's dead; I'm sure he is," she exclaimed.

"But he isn't really, mother. See, here's a letter for you. Read it."

Reaching for the white envelope, Mrs. Brown pulled out the note inside.

"Do excuse me for taking the liberty, but the temptation was too great," she read. And the note was signed with the words—"Alias Jeremiah Atkinson."

"But, mother," asked little Jerry, "why didn't you ever tell us his first name was Alias? Isn't it a funny name?"

"It most surely is," said Mrs. Brown, "and after dinner we'll look it up in the dictionary, and then you'll understand. Now suppose we tackle that turkey and plum pudding before it gets cold."

And long afterwards when all the packages had been opened and the room looked like a regular toy-shop they did remember to look in the dictionary, too, and spell out the meaning of the word.

"An assumed name!" cried Rosie. "What does that mean?"

"It means that the gentleman borrowed your uncle's name so he could play Santa Claus and bring us all these good things, that he wasn't your real uncle at all."

"But I guess he's 'bout as good," declared Jerry.

And Jerry proved to be more than right, for although they never heard from the real uncle, many were the packages they received from his strange namesake. Indeed, Uncle Alias became very soon the exciting mystery of their young lives.—Dora Dexter, in The Continent.

THE MAN WHO SITS IN THE FRONT SEAT

He is always there. He is the man whom the prophet had in mind when he wrote about the man who shall be a shelter from the tempest, and a stream of water in a dry place. Prophecy is fulfilled. The Man Who Sits in the Front Seat fulfills it.

He never fails. The Smiths go to Florida, the Joneses to Long Beach, but his place is always taken. The rains fall, and the congregation fails like the morning cloud. The snow is driven by the wind from the north, and young men tend their fires, but there is one place to which the man in the pulpit can look in confidence, and find strength.

There is grey in his hair, and there is a light in his eye. It is the light which one remembers when the other lights are low, and when miles are in between.

He does not use many words. He does not need words. His "Hello Parson," before the service is better than a volume. His hand on your back after the service is over is worth any book that could be written.

The Man in the Front Seat does not always agree with the man in the pulpit. The man in the pulpit has a faint suspicion that perhaps the Man in the Front Seat sometimes has the advantage. He never loses his patience. If he says anything, it is scarcely more than a "We-ell now Parson—" It is enough. The parson understands and learns. The Man in the Front Seat is a great teacher. He has sat before the God of Truth these many years. He has been silent. He can teach without words. It is the best teaching, after all.

He has no troubles. Hard times may come and banks may fail, but for one man there is a light which shines no matter how heavy the clouds may lie. And the light shines through, and men see it, and find strength.

Many are the glories which come to the man in the pulpit. There are disappointments and frictions. Men yield to their suspicions and to their strifes. The best laid plans fail to materialize, and he wonders where another sermon will come from. But from them all he can turn and catch the light which is in the eye of the Man Who Sits in the Front Seat. The front seat will always be a shrine to him.—Hubert C. Herring, in N. Y. Advocate.

WHAT CHRIST?

In a recent address, Dr. G. Campbell Morgan referred to the demand today that we turn from creeds and Biblical controversy back to Christ. "Yes," said the speaker, "but what Christ?" That is the real crux of the present situation. Much is made of Christ as Teacher, Master, Example, and Leader, and beyond all question He is incomparable in these relationships, worthy of our complete obeisance and perfect imitation, but is that all the Christ we have? Have the faith, heroism, and achievements of the Church been inspired simply by a divinely guided man who laid down exceptionally high moral principles, taught men that God is their Father, and died for what he believed was right? Lofty and devoted as such a career might have been, it does not explain Christ.—Biblical Review, New York.

MY ROOM IN THE INN

One night I dreamed I was a guest
That night in Bethlehem town,
Where He was born, Who gave to it
Its lasting world renown;
And safe I slept within the inn
That quiet star-lit night,
While in the stable near, there shone
The world's eternal light.

And in the morn my host revealed
The story of that birth,
To us, his guests who sat and heard,
And feasted in our mirth;
But one inquired, in thoughtful mood,
Why shelter was denied;
"There was no room within the inn,"
Our genial host replied.

Up spake I then to them, and said,
"If I had only known,
They might have had my room last night,
In little Bethlehem town."
Then I awoke; and now I know
The Prince of Peace is come,
And needs a place within my heart—
Will I now give Him room?

—Charles M. Sheldon.

Our Task and Our Privilege

Paid A. C. B. in Full

Charges:
Mocksville.
Porter.
Churches:
Siler City on Liberty-Siler City.

Paid on A. C. B.

Burlington, First	$100.00
Liberty-Siler City	87.50
Whitakers	64.50
Fountain Place	50.00
Davidson	41.15
Why Not	31.55
Littleton	18.50
Randleman	10.00
Denton	5.00

Paid on G. C. B.

West End	$ 42.00
Liberty-Siler City	16.73
Randleman	15.00
Saxapahaw	4.20

Paid on College

Rockingham	$ 4.00

We are glad that all three funds are started in this first printing for the year, and that two charges and one church are over the top with the A. C. B. Great things will be happening in the next few days. Reports as they come to me by letter are most encouraging and I am expecting the greatest year on the budgets we have had yet.

Yours for a clean sheet,
A. G. DIXON.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$171,776.52
R. E. Pritchett	10.00
C. C. Robbins	125.00
A. M. Rankin	250.00
Mrs. W. A. Perdue	5.00
J. L. Stone	25.00
W. Sam Hunt	10.00
W. H. Greenway	10.00
Mrs. L. J. Freeman	5.00
Mrs. J. M. Hart	1.00
C. H. Edwards	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Stone	10.00
G. W. Riley	10.00
	$172,242.52

Endowment Insurance Fund

Amount previously reported	$ 7,076.61

No receipts this week.

J. NORMAN WILLS.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for December 19.—How Can We Express the Christmas Spirit? Luke 2:1-20; Gal. 6:9, 10; 2 Cor. 8:9; 9:6-15.

Topic for December 26—The Past Year—Its Lessons; the New—Its Possibilities. Deut. 8:1-6; Phil. 3:13, 14.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for December 19.—The Savior's Birth. Luke 2:8-20. Devotional reading, 1 John 4:7-11, 14.

Lesson for December 26—Quarter's Review.

DENTON AHEAD THIS WEEK

Rev. M. C. Henderson, pastor of Denton charge, sends us the largest amount from subscribers this week. Brothers Pritchard and Chambless are not far behind. We thank these and all others who have contributed to subscription receipts.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. B. M. Williams, $1.50; Rev. H. L. Isley, $1.50; Rev. G. L. Reynolds, $1.50; Rev. E. L. Ballard, $3.00; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, $52.50; Rev. C. H. Hill, $1.50; Rev. D. I. Garner, $3.00; Rev. W. T. Totten, $1.50; Rev. D. R. Williams, $1.50; Rev. S. W. Taylor, $1.50; Rev. H. F. Fogleman, $4.50; Rev. J. E. Pritchard, $12.00; Rev. J. W. Hulin, $3.00; Rev. C. E. Ridge, $3.00; Rev. R. A. Hunter, $3.00; Rev. A. Ridge, $2.50; Rev. M. C. Henderson, $19.25; Rev. C. L. Spencer, $3.00; Rev. C. W. Bates, $2.25; Rev. F. L. Gibbs, $1.50; Miss Dora J. Pair, $1.50.

SOME HOME REMEDIES

If you wish to cure lung trouble or "tuberculosis," get wild cherry bark and boil till the tea is very strong, take out the bark and add an equal quality of strained honey. Boil till the mixture is thick. Put in a receptacle that can be closed up tight. Take one tablespoonful three times each day and oftener if your cough is bad.

If you have gall-stones which you can know without an X-ray examination by the constant pain and uneasiness at the lower waistline—take one tablespoonful of olive oil after each meal. It is so much better than an operation. If you have scrofula, eczema, scald head, as so many children have, or any breaking out on the body make a tea of pipsissewa and drink some several times each day. Bathe with tar soap. This herb grows all over our state and has several names, such as, Raisbane, Lion's tongue, winter green, and many others. It is perfectly harmless.

RUTH FLETCHER.

—William B. McKinley, United States Senator from Illinois, died last week after a prolonged illness.

—Dr. F. A. Shepherd died last week of pneumonia. He was a leading physician in Liberty and one of the mainstays of our church there. We are pained to hear of his death. He had just built for his family a magnificent home.

—The widow of Governor Glenn died in Winston last week.

—Francis M. Pickett, of High Point, died unexpectedly last week. He was a prominent business man and was a younger brother of the late W. P. Pickett of the Methodist Protestant church. Funeral on Saturday.

—Mrs. Dora Hardin, relict of the late Logan Hardin, of Liberty, died of heart failure last Sunday morning at the home of her brother. Rev. W. F. Ashburn was in charge of the funeral at Tabernacle on Monday at 11 o'clock. She was a good woman. She leaves one son, Wade Hardin, of Liberty, and one daughter, Mrs. Kimrey, of Guilford College.

He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.—Jesus.

Our Children's Home

OFFERINGS BY CHURCH AND INDIVIDUALS

Rev. J. F. Dosier, Randleman, $1; Miss Dolly Vickery, Randleman, $1.50; Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant Charge, $1.35; R. E. Watts, Winston-Salem, no church mentioned, $3.26; Palestine, Flat Rock, $9.21; Bethel, Flat Rock, $6.44; Bethany, Flat Rock, $5; Saxapahaw, Saxapahaw charge, $17.20; Bethel, Mocksville, $2.86; J. S. Atkinson, Elkin, N. C., $1; S. O. Maguire, Elkin, N. C., $1; Bethel, Alamance, $1.70; Oak Grove, Cleveland, $7.09; Second M. P. Church, N. Charlotte, $1.50; H. P. Sowell, Pageland, S. C., $4; Salem Church, Saxapahaw, $1.90; Welch Memorial, High Point, $11.30.

Sunday Schools Offerings

Asheville, $15.06; Asheboro, monthly pledge, $56.50; Bellemont, Mt. Hermon, $14.10; Fair Grove, Why Not, $1.30; Roberta, $5; Ai, Kernersville, $4; Creswell, $6; Moriah, Tabernacle, $2.46; Brown Summit, Haw River, $9.81.

Thanksgiving Offerings by Churches and Individuals

Friendship, Fallston, $19.11; Tabernacle, $12.89; Rehoboth, Granville, $14; J. W. Boyles, Thomasville, $10; West End, Greensboro, $7.75; Pleasant Hill, Spring Church, $8; Mt. Lebanon, Ladies' Aid, Randleman, $10; Pilot Church, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion, $5; Welch Memorial, High Point, $50.10; Asheboro, $43.50; Flat Rock charge, $11.25; Union Chapel, Granville, $26.70; Cid, S. Davidson, $5; Haw River, $16.50; Roberta, $7.40; Mill Grove, $15.50; Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson, $39.29; D. C. Douglas and family, to credit of Union Grove, $5; Holister, Halifax, $2; Pleasant Grove Station, $34; Miss Kate Medlock, Ware Shoals, S. C., $1; Mrs. W. H. Balentine, Ware Shoals, S. C., $.50; J. W. Magee, Pleasant Hill, N. C., $5; J. W. Boyles, Thomasville, $10; Mrs. Daniel Henly, Asheboro, $5; J. A. Loy, Burlington, $5; Miss Blanche Mooney, Oak Ridge, $1.50; Miss Daisy Richardson, Liberty, N. C., $5; Miss Sophia Meroney, Route 3, Mocksville, $1; Mrs. John A. Howard, Great Falls, S. C., $5; Mrs. Nettie Burroughs, Harris Chapel, $1; Pierce P. Richards, Lawndale, N. C., $25; Prof. Samuel Leonard, Rocky Mount, N. C., $5; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Troxler, Brown Summit, $5; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Richardson, Benaja, $5; Mrs. W. A. Foust, Graham, $.50; W. H. M. S., by Mrs. H. A. Garrett, $355.74; Liberty, $30; Friendship, Haw River, $6; Bethel, Mocksville, $10.80; Loves Grove, Midland, $14.69; Caroleen, Caroleen, $4.75; Union C. E. Society, Caroleen, $5.25; West Lexington, South Davidson, $11.20; Mispah, Haw River, $7; New Hope, Why Not, $6.50; Glen Raven, Burlington, $17.03; Spring Valley, Vance, $7; Creswell, $3; Mathews Chapel, S. S. and C. E. Society, $4; Midway, Haw River, $11.65; C. E. Society, Tiffin, Ohio, $8; Whitakers, $40.08; Henderson Baraca class, Henderson, N. C., $50.

For all this, we are indeed, thankful.

E. G. LOWDERMILK.

—Appalling conditions prevail in some parts of China as a reesult of the factional war there. It is reported that human flesh is being sold in some of the cities for food.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Dr. F. A. Shepard

Dr. F. A. Shepard, prominent physician and worthy citizen, passed to his heavenly home December 9. He was ill for only a few days with pneumonia. It was the greatest shock that our community has ever experienced. No greater loss could have come to us, for he was dear to all who knew him.

He was a prominent member of the Masonic lodge, the Knights of Pythias and the Junior Order. He was a loyal member of the local Methodist Protestant church and was interested in the welfare of the church in general. He was a member of the school board and was instrumental in placing in his community the modern building which was recently completed.

Dr. Shepard was educated at the University of North Carolina and the University of Tennessee and passed the medical board of North Carolina and Georgia. In 1908 he was married to Miss Mamie Amick, of Guilford county, who survives, with two daughters, Margaret and Mary Bowman, and one son, Frank, Jr. Surviving also are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shepard, of Liberty; one brother, Charles, of near Liberty; two sisters, Mrs. Wade Hardin and Miss Bertine Shepard, of Liberty.

Dr. Shepard was only 46 years of age. The contributions that he made were made in a short period, yet they were many. He lived for those around him. He was a true husband, a loving father and guardian, a helpful brother, an ideal citizen, a worthy and competent physician, a friend to all, and a Christian gentleman. He has gone to be with the Father.

May God comfort and sustain his dear ones and friends as they mourn his departure.

HIS PASTOR.

Whitley

Edgar Whitley was born June 12, 1903, and departed this life November 22, 1926.

Mr. Whitley made a profession and united with the Methodist Protestant church of Eden, on Halifax charge, August, 1916, where he remained a faithful, consistent member until the end came. Mr. Whitley was one of the best young men I have ever known. He was a young man only 23 years old, but has served on the board of stewards of his church for a number of years, and was still on the board when he died. He was faithful to duty as a steward, and felt a deep interest in his pastor and church.

We visited him several times during his last illness, and while he was not able to attend church his heart was still in the work. He spoke often of the church and the work of the church, and had some one looking after his work as a steward. We visited him just before conference, and though he had paid his pledge to the church, he had some one get his money and he paid $5.00 more for fear the church would come up short.

He will be greatly missed on the board of stewards, and in the general work of the church. May God give us more young men like him who are deeply interested in the work of the church.

He leaves Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Whitley and two brothers, Lucius and Asa Whitley, and a number of friends and relatives. The funeral services were conducted by the writer in Eden church, attended by a large congregation of friends and relatives, after which his body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a mound of flowers to await the resurrection morning.

May we all be faithful unto the end that we may receive the crown of life that awaits the faithful.

C. L. SPENCER.

Lax

Derilda Bryant Lax, wife of G. U. Lax, was buried at Chapel Hill church on November 30, 1926, at the age of 46 years. Sister Lax professed faith in Christ at the age of 16 and joined the M. P. church at Chapel Hill where she lived a faithful member until death. She leaves behind a husband, two sons, four daughters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. She will be greatly missed in her home and community. Our hearts go out in sympathy for the grief-stricken family.

Funeral service was conducted by the writer in the presence of a large company of people.

Interment took place in the church cemetery.

Her work on earth is ended,
No more tears to wipe away,
Sleep the sleep that knows no waking,
Till the resurrection day.
Sad to know that we can never
See thy cheerful face again,
While on earth our hearts are severed,
We will hope to meet again.

C. E. RIDGE.

Thompson

Franklin Pearce Thompson, one of the oldest members of Salem church, passed away almost suddenly, November 21, 1926. He had reached the ripe age of 72 years. Early in life Brother Thompson was converted and joined Salem Methodist Protestant church, and remained a consistent member until death. He had a remarkable memory, he was a good local historian, and he had a great fund of information. It was interesting to hear him relate incidents that happened during the Civil War.

Brother Thompson is survived by his widow and seven children as follows: Samuel, Margaret, Atlas, Lydia, Mrs. Lilian James, Lexie, and Mrs. Annie Roney. The funeral service was conducted in the home by the writer, assisted by Rev. T. A. Williams, a former pastor. His body was then carried to the old Thompson graveyard for burial.

H. L. ISLEY.

—Greensboro is preparing to build one or two new high school buildings.

—Bro. W. W. Hunter had the misfortune to be injured by an auto on a Greensboro street. He is in a hospital, but is improving.

—Mrs. L. W. Jobe has entered the Clinic Hospital for treatment.

—Rev. H. F. Fogleman, pastor of Granville charge, made a visit to home folks in Guilford this week.

MARRIED

THREE WEDDINGS.

H. Vance Stephens and Miss Inez Routh were united in marriage on Nov. 20 at the home of the writer. These young people are from the vicinity of Bethel church near Red Cross, and we trust they will be happy thru life.

On November 25th, at the home of the writer J. Carl Brower and Miss Vannah Pugh were pronounced husband and wife in the presence of a few of their friends. These young people are some of our Gray's Chapel folk. Both of them belong to our choir, and the bride is a teacher in our Sabbath school. For them too, we bespeak a happy journey through life.

On November 25, at the home of W. A. Lindley, near Liberty, N. C., Miss Elaine Coble, and Lonnie Holt, both of the Mt. Hermon church, were happily married; these splendid young people are active church workers; and are among our best.

May the God of love and life be with them through their pilgrimage, here and abundantly bless them.

A. O. LINDLEY.

Shuey-Burgess

A beautiful and interesting wedding occured last Thursday afternoon, December 9th, at 5 o'clock in the First Methodist Protestant church when Miss Lorraine Burgess became the bride of Mr. H. L. Shuey, Jr., in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The church was beautifully decorated in white and green.

Just before the ceremony Rev. E. L. Ballard sang with beautiful effect "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me," with organ accompaniment by Miss Mae Kirkman. The "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played as a processional, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the recessional.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. A. G. Dixon, former pastor of the bride. Immediately after the wedding the happy, young couple left for a trip to Northern cities, after which they will be at home in an apartment on Parkway. The bride is the pretty and attractive daughter of the late Mr. W. D. Burgess and Mrs. Jessie P. Burgess, and has a wide circle of friends throughout the state, who will be interested to learn of her marriage. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Shuey of Craigsville, Va., is a graduate of Washington and Lee, and now holds a position with Tomlinson Chair Co.

—The funeral of Dr. Shepherd was attended by a large number of physicians. Among the ministers in attendance were Dr. J. D. Williams and Rev. L. W. Gerringer, of Greensboro.

—Brother B. W. Johnson, one of Flat Rock's oldest and best members, was found dead in his bed on Monday morning. He was 85 years old. He had several sons and daughters, among them Bro. C. F. Johnson of West End church and Mrs. C. F. Coe of Calvary church. The funeral was held at Flat Rock church on Tuesday.

—Rev. J. D. Williams should be addressed at 202 Elam Ave., Greensboro, N. C.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

LETTER OF THANKS

Moriah Charge,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear People:

We, the members of Flat Rock M. P. church, Vance charge, wish to thank you people for releasing our former and present pastor, Rev. M. P. Chambliss; also Dr. Dixon, who assisted in obtaining this release for us.

Rev. M. P. Chambliss has been not only a good preacher but an excellent pastor. His return will mean much to this charge.

Signed:

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hester, F. G. Hester, C. A. Wortham, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Reavis, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hester.

Henderson, N. C., Dec. 13, 1926.

AIMS FOR SOUTH LEXINGTON CHURCH

The following aims were submitted to the first quarterly conference of South Lexington charge by the pastor, Rev. A. Ridge, to be striven for during the new conference year:

1. Every member boosting and working.
2. A revival in every heart.
3. The church paper in every home.
4. Bible reading and praying in every home every day.
5. The church 100 per cent organized.
6. Paying all claims monthly, and stewards informing the members of the financial condition of the church, monthly.
7. Every member contributing to the church.
8. A gain of 75 new members to the church roll.
9. An increase of 100 in the Sunday school enrollment.
10. Every cent of every claim paid by October 20, 1927.

C. B. WAY, Reporter.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

Mrs. Brown and I send greetings to each member of First Church, High Point, and express in this poor, feeble way our deep gratitude to them for their courtesy and kindness to us during the years we were privileged to serve them. It is no exaggeration to say that they expressed their love to us in a thousand different ways by word and by deed, and we shall always praise our Lord for permitting us to minister to such an appreciative anr affectionate people. The only regret we have is that we were not able to do more for them as a church and as individuals, and in some measure recompense them for their great devotion and loyalty to us.

To the members of the church who, through their great liberality, made it possible for us to own a Ford coupe; to the members of the Christian Endeavor society, all of whom work for their living, who sacrificed so willingly to present us with a check for $136, to the Aid Society and the Missionary societies for the magnificent gift of a silver meat platter and a covered vegetable dish to Mrs. Brown; to the members of the Philathea class, who "showered" Mrs. Brown so lavishly that she danced around as happily as any prospective bride; to Dr. S. S. Coe, our good physician, who ministered to us during our sickness so faithfully, without "money and without price"; to the many friends outside our church who wrote us such beautiful letters, expressing their appreciation of our feeble services in their midst, and assuring us of their good wishes; and to all others who contributed in any way to our happiness and success, we desire to express our unbounded thanks. May a kind Heavenly Father, out of His unwasting fulness, bless these good friends above and beyond anything they could possibly ask or think, and finally, bring us all to live with Him eternally in the "house not made with hands."

GEORGE R. BROWN.

Shiloh, N. Davidson.—Our whole church is very much pleased with our new Sunday school rooms which are nearing completion. Mr. Smith, the contractor, is using good material, and giving a first class job in every way. The addition has added greatly to the beauty of our beloved church. So far the work has moved on with perfect harmony, and we are hoping the financial side will work out just as harmoniously. We feel that we ought to have a Jubilee Service when it is all completed.

On Saturday, December 4th, at 2 p.m. a host of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to Mrs. Webster Fritts who died Thursday night about 10 o'clock after an illness of only a few hours. Her sudden departure was quite a shock to the whole community, and more especially to her husband and children. Our sympathy goes out to the heart-broken family.

Mr. Tom Berrier, son of W. J. Berrier, has gone to Jacksonville, Fla., where four of his brothers are engaged in business. He has gone primarily to take treatment for a closed stomach which he has had ever since he had an operation for appendicitis in a Winston Hospital about six years ago. The cause of his affliction is a mystery, but he has taken his food, except soups, through a tube in his stomach for the six years. At times he is unable to drink water. Let us pray that God will bless the efforts of the physicians and Tom will be made well again. His Sunday school class, of which he was president, and the C. E. society, of which he was president also, sorely miss him. Tom was a live wire and a willing and enthusiastic worker in the church. We hope he will see fit to return home when his treatment is over.

MRS. WILEY SHOAF, Reporter.

Burlington.—The annual banquet of First M. P. Church, Baraca class, was held Tuesday night, December 7, in the church hut. A fine supper consisting of oranges, stewed oysters, ham sandwiches, celery, coffee and pumpkin custard was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church; there were 73 members and visitors present and every one enjoyed the supper and business meeting that followed. Committees reported a good year and the following officers were elected for the next six months: President, W. E. Smith; Vice-President, Glenn Isley; Second Vice-President, L. E. Anthony; C. C. Branson was elected Treasurer of the class; this is Mr. Branson's first term with us as treasurer. We are glad to have him with us. George C. Smith, our former teacher, was elected superintendent of Sunday school. J. G. Rogers was elected first assistant teacher. M. A. Coble was elected second assistant teacher, S. R. Pickard was elected treasurer of class; J. B. Coble was re-elected secretary of the class; A. M. Wagoner was elected first assistant secretary and C. C. Durham second assistant secretary; J. G. Workman was elected class reporter; Mr. Lanier Jones assistant reporter. The committees will be named later. The Baraca class wishes to thank the Ladies' Aid Society for preparing the fine supper. Visitors are always welcomed.

J. G. WORKMAN, Reporter.

Fountain Place, Burlington.—We have been busy if we haven't been reporting so often. We had a very helpful message by our pastor Sunday at the 11:00 o'clock hour. The evening service was in charge of the Senior C. E. Society of High Point College. They gave a model program which was enjoyed by everybody present. We had a good percentage of our Sunday school enrollment present Sunday morning at Sunday school and preaching. The Sunday school is going to put on a special program for the first three months of the new year, the object of which is to increase our membership, attendance and offering. We will render our Christmas program Sunday evening, December 19th, at 7:30 o'clock. We extend a cordial invitation to all who can and will come. This is going to be a very helpful program.

One of the young ladies of our church, Miss Mozell Gibbs, is right sick at this time. Our prayers are that she may have a speedy recovery.

The mid-week prayer service for December 15th will be conducted by Rev. S. W. Taylor, of the First M. P. Church, Burlington.

REPORTER.

Henderson.—We feel that our new conference year has started with a splendid outlook and all our organizations seem to be alive to the great need and opportunities given us. The Philathea class held a well-attended meeting on Tuesday night, November 30th, at the home of Mrs. L. R. Gooch, with Mrs. W. E. Wilson, Misses Myrtle and Gertha Trogdon and Miss Martha Gooch assistant hostesses. About thirty members answered to roll call and one new member enrolled. After the general business session reports from the various committees were given, showing much active work being done by the members. Another needy family was sent fuel and provisions, and it was decided to take another family to help for Christmas. The program committee gave a much enjoyed program while Miss Sersie sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. Martin, followed by a piano solo by Miss Maxine Taylor. Several visitors were present for the evening.

On last Sunday morning we enjoyed a very impressive and instructive sermon from our pastor touching on the true meaning of the Lord's Supper. At the close of this the administering of the Holy Sacrament was observed.

Our first quarterly conference was held this past Wednesday after prayer meeting. Many new plans and aims were made, and it is greatly hoped that the members will assist and co-operate in carrying on this new system, whereby it is felt that a stronger and better church will result.

Our Sunday school is still progressing and the banner for perfect attendance is changing now from one class to another. The Junior Philathea class won it this past Sunday with a perfect attendance of twenty-two young girls.

The Bazaar held by the young Ladies' League last Thursday was very satisfactory and a neat sum of forty dollars was added to the treasury.

We will begin practice for our Christmas pageant this week, "Gifts for the King," which will be given on Sunday night, December 26.

Wishing the Herald and all our friends a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

MRS. CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

Saxapahaw Charge.—All four of the churches are planning for Christmas entertainments. The offerings will go to the General Conference Budget. The mission Band was reorganized at Salem Church last Sunday with Miss Minnie Thompson as president. This is an organization of children under fifteen years of age. Miss Thompson, the president, is already arranging for a service on Washington's birthday.

Our first quarterly conference met at Salem Church last Saturday afternoon, a good delegation being present. On recommendation by the pastor, conference voted to put forth an earnest effort to raise the Annual Conference Budget in full during the month of February.

The people of the Salem community are very anxious about Mr. Reed Thompson, who was accidently shot Thanksgiving day at the home of his grandfather's, Mr. Graham Crawford. Mr. Thompson is in Rainy hospital, Burlington, and seems to be improving slowly.

Mrs. Cammie Jones, one of our mothers in Israel, is confined to her bed. We trust this good woman will soon be well again. Mr. Herbert Williams, son of Brother T. E. Williams, who has been confined to his bed for a month, is recovering rapidly.

Salem, Orange Chapel, and Concord gave this pastor a generous pounding just before conference, consisting of almost everything needed for the pantry.

Since conference, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Guthrie have given the pastor one gallon of fine molases and a large pumpkin; and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crawford several pounds fine honey. The pastor is grateful for all these donations.

H. L. ISLEY.

Stalling, Mecklenburg Charge.—We feel very fortunate in having Rev. Mr. Totten as our pastor. Last Sunday was our first day of worship together. There was a good attendance. The service was brief but to the point. The pastor entered the work with much interest and enthusiasm.

We regret very much to give up our reporter on November 27th in the holy bonds of matrimony, to Mr. J. Jones. The church wishes them happiness.

The first quarterly conference will convene at Zoar on Saturday before the third Sunday of December, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

We are looking forward to a great and prosprous year. Good interest is being manifested in the Sunday school although we are not large in number. The collections at all times are good considering our number.

As the conference knows the church has a debt upon it that we have been trying to pay off for several years. So last Sunday our collection finished paying for the windows after a deduction of approximately fifty percent of the balance was made by the company. After the collection was given everyone seemed to put on new life, for the doing of more work both spiritual and temporal. We sincerely hope that we may be able to finish paying for our Church in the near future. Our aim and prayer being that this may be the most prosperous year in the history of this work. May the good Lord direct us in our work and the work at large.

MRS. J. E. HARTIS.

Haw River Charge.—We have begun our fourth year on this charge. Something out of the ordinary for this charge, but the good people of this charge are determined to make their charge one of a longer pastorate.

The work is starting off well and we have never received stronger expressions of appreciations of our return than we have this year.

Finances are starting well. Fair Grove is taking the lead with Midway a close second. Others following as given: Mizpah, Brown Summit and Friendship.

Owing to the fact that our last appointment at Fair Grove last year was a bad day, we failed to elect our officials until this year. The following were elected: Trustees, C. R. Bevil, J. W. Hopkins, and Dillon Moore; Stewards, Miss Jennie Hopkins and Spencer Mitchell; Sunday school superintendent, J. W. Hopkins, assistant superintendent, Percy Bevil.

Our first quarterly conference will be held at Fair Grove Saturday before the third Sunday in this month at 1:30 p.m.

The fourth Sunday in this month the people at Midway will authorize the trustees to dispose of the old church which will be replaced by a new up-to-date church with modern conveniences. The people are working with a will raising funds to build and the work of building is soon to begin.

W. D. REED.

First Church, Concord, N. C.—I had purposed to write a long article to the paper and to set forth some of the things that have been my experience to enjoy since I reported last which was before conference. However, I saw the plea for brevity last week in the paper and so I will condense all possible.

I went home from conference and began to arrange to move. On the following day I preached the funeral of little Norman Hallamon at Burlington as the last act of my ministry among the Fountain Place people. On the following day, Wednesday, we drove away and as we did so we did it in the feeling that we were leaving behind, but not leaving off, one of the most loyal people we have ever served. The character and extent of their devotion to us as pastor and leader in the church there will ever remain a blessing, to be enjoyed by reflection only upon it.

We arrived before night fall at Concord, however, and the same night a reception was tendered us by the church and congregation which was most gratifying. We were first taken into the parsonage where we found that almost everything good to eat was already in evidence and from thence into the church where a program was rendered during which every department of the church through its representative pledged their all to the new administration.

The first Sunday of my pastorate found me sick with tonsilitis. I did conduct the morning service but took my bed immediately after. There I continued for two weeks. And while it looked like a tragedy that I should begin the year in that fashion yet it gave us opportunity to try, in some degree the character and extent of the grace and patience of our new-made parrishioners. They gave us every attention and in so doing endeared themselves to us after a genuine fashion.

Fine congregations have greeted us at all services. The Sunday school is well attended, in fact growing. A men's brotherhood has been organized, and other plans are maturing for future work. The prospect is bright, the field is extensive and the folks have a mind to work. We venture the prophecy that you will hear gratifying news from this church in the days to come.

The many kindnesses of the people have already placed us under a feeling of great obligation to them. I take it that someone will write about the additional furnishing for the parsonage and the installation of a hot water system in the parsonage.

If any pastor having people moving to Concord will write me and let me know I will endeavor to save them to the church.

G. H. HENDRY, Pastor.

Denton, Denton Circuit.—First quarterly conference was held at Denton. Churches were well represented. The business was transacted. A nice front room suite was put in parsonage. We are glad to have with us this year Rev. M. C. Henderson and family.

Our Sunday school was well attended, with N. V. Johnson superintendent. Ninety percent yesterday.

Our Christian Endeavor is also well attended every Sunday evening with A. V. Lanier superintendent.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

Ladies' Aid Society is doing a great work for Denton church. We are planning to have a Christmas tree and program on Friday night, December 24.

Sunday school every Sunday at 9:45 a.m.

Preaching first and third Sunday in every month.

Christian Endeavor every Sunday evening at 6 p.m.

Everybody invited to attend.

CALLIE BAILEY, Reporter.

High Point.—The bazaar and supper given at the Children's Home last Wednesday evening was a decided success. There were many beautiful articles of embroidery and fancy work made by the girls, which were well done and showed skill and painstaking care remarkable for their ages. There were four handsome, elaborate bed-spreads, a large number of towels, pillow-cases, buffet sets, vanity sets, dresser scarfs, collar and cuff sets, and many others. This display was indeed beautiful, and was greatly admired by all present. The proceeds of this sale amounted to more than $100. In the evening a bountiful and delicious supper, most of which was donated by the grocers and other friends of High Point, and cooked and prepared by the girls, was served to a large number of patrons. The Band from High Point College rendered beautiful music throughout the evening. The sum of $150 was realized from the supper, the proceeds of both supper and bazaar amounting to $250. One-half of this amount is given to the children for spending money, and out of it they pay their church dues.

The Ladies' Aid Society held its December meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. H. U. Oakes, 214 Eunis street, with Mrs. Geo. T. Penny, associate hostess.

The Mission Study Class will conduct the regular mid-week prayer meeting next Wednesday evening. The third chapter of the study book "Moslem Women," will be given by Mr. Ballard. This will take the place of the regular monthly meeting, which would come during the holidays.

The Christian Endeavor enjoyed a social Monday evening, and Christmas presents were exchanged. The Topic discussed was "The Children of Our Community; What Shall We Do for Them?"

The Junior Mission Circle, Mrs. R. M. Andrews leader, will meet at the church Saturday afternoon.

A Committee is arranging the program for a Christmas entertainment for the Sunday school, which will be given on Thursday evening, December 23rd.

The choir will render appropriate Christmas music for the morning service next Sunday, December 19th, and a Cantata will be presented in the evening. A rare musical treat is promised.

Six Boy Scouts acted as ushers last Sunday morning, and the congregation was delighted to be escorted to their seats by the following gallant young gentlemen: C. L. Gray, Jr., Kent Douglas, Alfred Moffitt, Robert Davis, Roy Hepler, and James Hinkle, Jr.

The many friends of Richard H. Shaw were grieved to learn of the death of his father, which occurred last Friday, and extend much sympathy to him in this bereavement. The funeral was held at Gray's Chapel, near Asheboro, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The death of Mr. Francis M. Pickett at Myrtle Beach, S. C., last Wednesday morning was a great shock to his relatives and friends here. He and Mrs. Pickett had gone to the resort for a few days' rest. Though his health had not been strong for many months, he had seemed much better recently and his family and friends were not prepared for the sudden summons. He succumbed to an attack of heart trouble. This removes one of the pioneer citizens of High Point, and another member of the well-known family. He was a brother of the late Mrs. J. J. Welch and Mr. W. P. Pickett, also of Mrs. T. T. Ferree, Mr. Robert L. Pickett and Miss Lou Pickett. He was a prominent member and deacon of the Baptist church though he was closely officiated with our church. He founded the Pickett Cotton Mill, which he managed successfully until his death. He was a man of quiet and kindly disposition, was loyal to his friends, and devoted to his family and his church. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Nora Charles of this county, and three daughters, Mrs. Herman D. Sears of High Point, Mrs. James Mellichampe of Suwanee, Tenn., and Mrs. Robert H. Walker of High Point. There are seven grandchildren.

Many admiring comments have been heard on Rev. P. E. Lindley's sermon last Sunday morning, the subject of which was "The Secret of Power." He said that Purity is the source of power, purity of thought, mind, and heart. "My strength is as the strength of ten, because my heart is pure."

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Neese and Mrs. E. G. Lowdermilk went to Liberty last Friday to attend the funeral services of their kinsman, Dr. F. A. Shepard.

Mr. C. C. Robbins returned from N. Y. last Thursday, where he went on business.

We regret very much to note the death on Sunday of Mr. W. Henry Dowdy after a long illness. He was a brother of one of our esteemed young members, D. Astor Dowdy, and his many friends offer their deep sympathy in his loss. He was a devoted brother and nursed him very tenderly in the closing days of his life.

Class work at High Point College will close Saturday, December 18th, at noon for the Christmas holidays, and will not be resumed for two weeks. Faculty and students will go to their several homes.

The Junior church, led by Rev. E. Lester Ballard, made a splendid beginning last Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Community room with an attendance of 90. This is a forward step, and will mean much to the children of the congregation.

Garland McPherson younger son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. McPherson of this city, and John Mebane of Greensboro, won the Freshman debate at the university of N. C. last week. Last year young Mebane defeated Garland in the Triangular High School debate, but the two paired together proved unusual debating strength. The question on which they won was, "Resolved, That the U. S. should cancel all allied and German debts prior to and during the World War," and Messrs. Mebane and McPherson had the negative side.

REPORTER.

South Lexington.—If any of our friends want to come and spend a few days with us now would be a good time for them to come. We have plenty of room to take care of them and plenty to eat. And we would enjoy having them to come.

Pounding? Yes. One of the most liberal poundings we have ever received was given us last night, December 13th. The members and friends of the church came to the preacher's home bringing with them many good things to eat. We appreciate this kind remembrance both because of the value of the gifts and because of the fine spirit back of it all. This was about the first time the writer had nothing to say, only come in. I cannot name the visitors nor their offerings for lack of space. God will remember them. And I cannot forget. What I lack in words I will try to make up in love. May the dear Lord richly bless them, every one. I know He will. We sincerely thank all who had any part in bringing the good things.

Pray for us. Come to see us. Write to us. Our address is 25 W. 7th Ave., Lexington.

May the Lord bless our Zion this year.

A. RIDGE.

Reidsville.—After spending nine strenuous but happy years with First Church, High Point, we packed our "duds" and moved to the beautiful little city of Reidsville, where we met with a right royal reception.

As the parsonage was being renovated, we were entertained for a week in the hospitable home of Mrs. S. J. Kernodle, one of the most loyal Methodist Protestants in the denomination. To her and Mrs. Mary Hopkins and Mrs. Sallie McCollum, two elect ladies who reside in the Kernodle home, we are deeply grateful for the many kindnesses shown us.

The day we moved into the parsonage the members of the church gave us one of the best "poundings" we have ever received. Lack of space forbids publishing a list of the donors, however, we kept a list of them, and want to express our thanks to each one who remembered us so kindly.

We found the church thoroughly organized and in good condition, due to the splendid work of our predecessor, Dr. J. D. Williams, and to the faithfulness and loyalty of the members. The membership is small, but I dare say that no church in the conference has a better or a more liberal membership. There is no reason that I can give why Reidsville should not come to the front rapidly. We are looking forward to a happy and successful pastorate with these good people.

GEORGE R. BROWN.

South Lexington.—Last Sunday there were 170 in Sunday school. A Christmas entertainment will be held on Friday night, Christmas Eve.

Pastor Ridge preached a stirring sermon at the morning service last Sunday. After the sermon an altar call was made for reconsecration and nearly all of the grown folks and young people also responded to the invitation. One member remarked that the occasion was like a revival.

The first quarterly conference was held last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Dr. A. G. Dixon presiding. Mrs. A. G. Dixon made an interesting talk on "The Church Thoroughly Organized," between the devotional part of the conference and the business program.

Pastor Ridge made an interesting report. He made a number of recommendations, among which were, that the conference and college assessments be adopted, that every member canvass be made, that all claims be paid monthly, that a committee be appointed to secure a permanent parsonage, which were all adopted. Brother Ridge submitted ten aims for the church for the coming year.

This writer is mindful of the Editor's request for brevity, so we have mentioned only the most important items of the quarterly conference.

C. B. WAY.

Albemarle.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Protestant church of Albemarle N. C., had a very interesting meeting December 7th at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hatley. The membership committee reported one new member, Mrs. Anderson, our new pastor's wife. We are very glad to have this fine young woman with us. The visiting committee showed that they had not been idle by reporting 35 visits made during the month. The Communion committee reported preparing for one service, and we wish to congratulate them for having so faithfully performed their duties during the year.

This being the month for the election of officers, the following members were elected for the coming year: Mrs. C. S. Moton, President; Mrs. D. F. Harkey, Vice-President; Mrs. D. L. Hatley, Secretary; Mrs. J. R. Anderson, Treasurer; Mrs. J. U. Whitlock, Corresponding Secretary.

We feel very fortunate in getting Mrs. Moton to serve as President for another year, for she has made such a splendid leader the past year, we are sure that we could get no one who could lead the Society in any better way than she.

Our Society is doing splendid work! We recently put on a Flower Show, in connection with a bazaar and made a wonderful success, for this was the first thing of its kind to be held in Albemarle. We hope to make it an annual event, and we shall all look forward to the next one with pleasure.

Yarborough Circuit.—After the release from one field and the appointment to another field since the Annual Conference, and the experience, the thrilling experience, I should say, as well as the EXPENSE of quite a long move, we find ourselves located, and very pleasantly situated among the good people of Cross Anchor, South Carolina, on Yarborough Circuit. We are very glad, yes, happy indeed, to be here.

We have made one round on the work and have been very graciously received by good sized and loyal congregations at each of the churches, Yarborough Chapel located here at Cross Anchor, and Harmony Church located at Ware Shoals, South Carolina, a distance of about thirty-five or forty miles from the parsonage, I have the first, second, and third, Sunday's at Yarborough Chapel here at home, two services a day, then the fourth Sunday I am at Harmony Church at Ware Shoals, for two services.

These are splendid people here and very loyal to their church and pastor, and are willing to work, and they seem perfectly delighted to once more have their pastor in their midst to live among them, and of course we are delighted to be living among them.

I find that most of the people here are a bit discouraged FINANCIALLY just now, since the past three years have been very dry and of course very short crop years, for this reason the discouragement, but they are looking hoping, and praying for better times next year. Financial conditions through this immediate community are in a very bad condition, to say the least, but we feel that better times are ahead.

On Sunday night, December 5th, when we reached the church we found the Methodist Episcopal Congregation, the Baptist Congregation, and our own people awaiting us. The M. E. pastor, Brother Pharr, introduced himself to us and said he wanted to take charge of my pulpit for a few minutes and I very readily consented for him to do so, and after a few brief remarks by Brother Pharr, and several rousing hymns had been sung by the congregation, and a special musical selection or two by some of the young ladies, Brother Pharr called upon Mr. L. E. Foster, Superintendent of the M. E. Sunday school, who gave us a splendid address of welcome on behalf of the M. E. S. S., then Mr. Cullen Poole, Superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school, gave us a word of welcome in behalf of his S. S. and Church, then Prof. Hanes was called upon and he welcomed us in behalf of the High School of Cross Anchor, then Brother Pharr welcomed us into the community, into the churches, the Sunday schools, the High school, the homes, and the hearts, of the people of Cross Anchor. It was left for your humble servant here to make a few remarks at the close of the meeting. It was a very touching service and it did our hearts good to be welcomed into the new field in this way and to be assured of the co-operation and well wishes of the people of the sister denominations, and our prayer is that God may help us to measure up, and may we be able to do the work that is to be done here during the coming year. Pray for us, all of you, please.

E. G. COWAN.

Jerusalem.—We had a much larger congregation at the service last Sunday morning than at the previous appointment. The people listened attentively to the discussion of the subject of the sermon.

At the conclusion of the sermon the first quarterly conference was held. Brother J. L. Nance was elected secretary of the quarterly conference. H. L. Hedrick and John Ward were elected members of the board of stewards to serve in addition to Brother R. E. Hunt who had been elected previously. The conference elected an advisory committee which is composed of Brothers W. J. Ward and Albian Hedrick. The conference approved the assessments consisting of Annual and General Conference budgets and the College Assessment. The plan of appointments was changed and in the future we will have two morning services each month—the second and third Sunday mornings. Heretofore one of the services has been held on the fourth Sunday afternoon. We have larger attendance at the morning services.

Our next service will be next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, when we will have our Christmas service in the form of a special Christmas sermon by the pastor.

Our Herald Editor has requested brevity on the part of reporters and pastors. I shall grant the request in my reporting.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Caroleen.—We are pleased to have Rev. Mr. Helms back with us. We are planning for a good Christmas exercise for Christmas Sunday. We are glad to have Mrs. Lamar back with us in the church and to train the little ones for the Christmas exercises.

Our Christian Endeavor met Saturday night with a good attendance and the pastor gave a wonderful talk on the lesson.

RISBERTH TATE.

Granville.—The first quarterly conference convened in Rehoboth church. The number present, the reports given, and the actions taken all indicate a united and substantial work with a hopeful and encouraging future. The stewards reported collected on church budget—$322.50. At the suggestion of the pastor and with the hearty approval of the quarterly conference 25 per cent of this and all other money collected by the stewards during the year is to be sent to our annual conference treasurer. It is hoped that this 25 percent plus certain special offerings and the credits from the Missionary Societies will at the end of the conference year place the charge somewhat near the total annual and general conference budget which is $1369.

Not only collectively, but individually the churches are in a prosperous condition. Each church has an active Sunday school. Also in each church is to be found two active and well organized Missionary Societies each making its indispensable contribution to the church and the Kingdom. On Sunday evening, December 12th, the Foreign Missionary Society of Mt. Carmel church, under the leadership of Mrs. C. B. Finch, gave a splendid missionary pageant. A large and active Christian Endeavor is doing a fine work at Union Chapel church. Rehoboth church, through the initiative of Brother E. C. Harris, has set $20. as the minimum monthly offering to the Children's Home which should run the offering for the charge somewhat near the $40.00 mark. The people are also interested in the educational program of our church as

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

expressed in and through High Point College. Yesterday the people at Union Chapel took an advanced step by adopting the policy of making a monthly freewill offering to the college. This offering will be received on the second Sunday in each month. The fourth Sunday offering goes to the Children's Home.

The people as a whole are thoroughly Methodist Protestant. Each church can trace its origin back to the very beginning of our denomination in North Carolina. One of the Churches was organized in 1828 and each of the others soon after. Part of this history is now preserved in an attractive little book from the pen of Brother T. T. Hicks of the Henderson church. The book deals with the history of the Hicks, Harris and other related families is this section of the state. Indirectly it deals with the history of Rehoboth and other related churches. The book is interesting reading and especially so to all Methodist Protestants. Perhaps some one will sometime render a similar service to Mt. Carmel and Union Chapel churches by thus preserving either directly or indirectly a part or all of their history. H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

Midland.—Since conference we have filled all appointments, and find the people responsive for the new year's work. We held our first quarterly meeting with all the churches represented. Plans laid for the new year with more interest than last year. We find some as good people as there are anywhere. There is a great deal that ought to be done. We need a new church at Loves Grove and at Mill Grove. The people have taken some advance steps in finance. Some of the farmers have adopted the one-acre plan for the Lord, some of the business men say they will give the worth of two acres. We are trying to plan for a good year, the Lord being with us.

May the good Lord bless our beloved Zion.

J. W. HULIN, Pastor.

Harris Chapel, Vance Circuit.—We are very glad indeed to have our pastor, Brother Chambliss, back with us. He has been with us two years and great progress has been made in this church and we have a better choir. He preached his first sermon since Conference this morning, December 12, at eleven o'clock. We had a large attendance but we hope there will be more the next time he preaches.

Our Sunday school is very good, but there is room for improvement yet. If everyone around here would come regularly we would have a fine Sunday school.

We are planning to have a Christmas tree here and we trust that we will have a success of it.

There is a prize of ten dollars offered to the church of this circuit who will secure the largest number of subscriptions to the Methodist Protestant Herald. Our church has about twenty-three subscriptions and we are working for the prize.

This church is collecting money to recover the church and we hope we may be able to cover it by the spring.

(Miss) FANNIE SMITH, Reporter.

Loves Grove, Midland.—We are still moving on very well with our Sunday school work. At times it seems to be an uphill business, but when we look to God, we take new courage. Our church work is moving on very well with Brother Hulin for our leader. He is liked well on this charge. We are well pleased that conference sent him back. We are always glad to have him and his good wife to visit in our home. They seem like papa and mama when they come to visit us. We are curtaining our church off in Sunday school rooms; we think it will be a great help to the Sunday school.

We are sorry for Brother Braswell in the sickness in his home, as he is one of our former pastors. Brethren, pray for them in their last days.

JOHN N. SMITH, Reporter.

Shiloh, N. Davidson.—There will be a formal opening of the new Sunday school rooms at Shiloh on Sunday, December 19, at eleven o'clock. A very cordial invitation is extended to every one to be present. There will be special music and a sermon by the pastor Rev. R. S. Troxler.

MRS. WILLY SHOAF, Reporter.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE
HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER
PLATED WARE :: CHINA
CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING
of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN
Printers of THE HERALD
1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193
GREENSBORO, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS
For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.
GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER, CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., DECEMBER 23, 1926 NUMBER 7

Rev. Rhodes Silent
Westminster MD

The Pope of Rome on Feminine Dress

This is by no means the first time in the history of the world when ecclesiastical authorities have spoken out on the subject of women's dress, but this time the Pope of Rome speaks in a way to indicate profound feeling that words of censure and warning are most urgently demanded. Immodesty in woman's fashions he thinks is on the increase and he calls on husbands, fathers, and brothers to try to check at all costs the ruinous tendency. "It is necessary that all who still have a sense of human nobility and dignity, should agree and find a means of creating dams against a current so ugly and so ruinous and carrying so many catastrophes with it," he says. We do not know how seriously the leaders of fashion will take the warning of the Pope of Rome. There are many Protestants who share the feeling of the Pope regarding this matter. We recently heard a man say that you never see a woman blush in these days. We thought the statement extreme, but there is a connection between the acuteness of the feeling of modesty and the style of dress. There may be too much sex-consciousness and there may be too little. Sometimes the evil is in the mind of the man who condemns and not at all in the spirit of the woman who is condemned. The virtuous woman, devoid of evil intent, would be surprised to know the effect of her style of dress upon the mind of some observer who is not so virtuous as she. Women should understand that the appeal for dress reform is in the interest of the weak of both sexes. We do not blame women for throwing off the oppressive forms of dress that prevailed in former times. But there is another extreme to be avoided. Methodist preachers are admonished to avoid both "antiquated singularity" and "fashionable foppishness" in the matter of dress. Women should avoid the two extremes of too much and too little in dress.

The Art of Appraising Men

In order that a man may be a successful dealer in horses he must be able rightly to appraise the value of horses. None of us deals in men, but we all deal with men. It is therefore important that we all have the power to appraise men correctly. Some of us imagine that we are adept in the art of judging men whereas our judgments prove the contrary. Some judge favorably from the feelings excited by first impressions and later learn that those first impressions were wholly misleading. Human character is so complex a thing that it cannot be inferred from one or two impressions. Hence the use of credentials or testimonies by other observers. These testimonies are usually to be greatly discounted to allow for the prejudices and errors of other observers. Even our own judgments from our own observations are subject to a similar correction. We are all subject to bias in our judgments. We must have many contacts with a man before we can feel that we really know him. And even then we may be victimized by some shrewd rascal who has been designing to deceive us and impose on us. Impostors make a study of human nature with a view to taking advantage of the gullible. Those who are not impostors but who must deal with men need to study to prepare themselves to make their dealings with men count for most in the service of humanity. There is some way to induce almost every person to do some good thing. Appeals that suffice with some will fail utterly with others. Hence the need of discrimination. Catching men requires more art than catching fish or wary wild animals. Devices for entrapping game are varied according to the nature of the animal to be caught. In trying to enlist men for service we must consider their individual peculiarities and choose for them a form of service that will appeal to them. The same principle holds in organization for service in the church. What is distasteful to old people may be enthusiastically done by young people or children. It was a great forward step that was taken when differences due to differences of age and experience were recognized in religious work. It takes a wise man to know all the class differences and regard them all in his dealing with people in the church. It takes a man of liberal and tolerant spirit to bridge over the differences that sperate classes and adapt himself to the peculiarities of every class.

Abraham Lincoln was a good judge of men. And he was a better judge because he was broad-minded enough to recognize the capabilities of those who were his personal opponents. He called into his cabinet a man who had ridiculed him unmercifully; he did this because he recognized his fitness for the high place to be occupied.

The more contacts we have with men the more important it is that we be able to read men.

"The Science of Sciences"—What Is It?

The term "Science of Sciences" is used with different meanings and different applications. The theologian tells you that Theology is the science of sciences. The reason he assigns is that it has the noblest subject. And of course there is no disputing the statement. God is infinitely above every other being in existence, and in a sense the knowledge of God is far above every other species of knowledge.

But turn to a treatise on Logic, and you will probably find the aauthor calling Logic the "science of sciences". The reason he assigns is that the principles studied in Logic have application in all the sciences known to man. Logic deals with the principles of mental operation, and you cannot have science in any realm or department of nature without the mental operations treated in the science of Logic. In the sense in which he means it we have to admit that the logician is right in pronouncing Logic the science of sciences.

I have before me a book on the education of the will written by a French author, Dr. Jules Payot, in which he says

(Continued on Page Five)

A TRIP TO THE CAVE OF MACHPELAH

By Rev. C. E. Wilbur, D. D., LL. D.

This sketch is the record of a personal visit to the above place that is of so great interest to the student of Old Testament history. Sarah, the wife of Abraham, died at Hebron. Abraham bought from Ephron, the Hittite, the field and Cave of Machpelah, to serve as a family tomb (Genesis 23:2-20). The cave is still in Hebron and is covered by a mosque.

Being in Jerusalem at the time the mandate for Palestine was taken by Great Britain, and knowing that the watch and guard of the Moslem over his sacred places would be somewhat relaxed, I determined to visit Hebron and Machpelah. I took a motor vehicle outside the Jaffa Gate and proceeded eastward under the shadow of the wall of Jerusalem on a fine macadam road, but soon turned off to the south for a 20-mile ride.

On both side of the road, much to my surprise, we soon began to pass many beautiful homes that would not have seemed out of place on any of the palatial marble avenues of Paris or New York. These were the residences of wealthy Jews that had come to this sacred vicinity to pass their closing years and to be buried in the soil of their fathers. Five miles of motoring brought us to the parting of the ways; to left a mile would bring us to Bethlehem and to the sacred cave in which our Lord was born, while to the right 15 miles would bring us to Machpelah, the burial place of the founder of the Hebrew nation.

The most conspicuous object as Hebron is entered is the mosque covering the cave. It is not great, either for size or architecture. It is, however, a massive structure perhaps 100 feet in width and 200 in length. While the gable that looks out upon the main street is pierced for windows well up under the peak, there is no door of entrance. However, on the right side, as the building is faced, is a wide stone stairway of perhaps 25 steps.

As I approached the foot of this stairway I saw on the front of the seventh step this warning, "No Christian is allowed to pass above this step." Soon after I began to ascend the stairway I noticed a small opening in the wall large enough to permit the entrance of a man's hand. I was told that this opened directly upon the sarchophagus of Abraham, and that up to that time only two Christians had been allowed to touch it—King Edward VII, of England, when he was the Prince of Wales, and General Grant, when on his trip around the world, after he retired from the Presidency of the United States.

As I reached the seventh step, I confess that something of a thrill passed over me, as I felt that no Christian had ascended that stair, at least in modern times, as the party in which I was, was the first military one to visit Palestine since the collapse of the Turkish rule. I looked all about, but saw nothing or anybody that could hurt me. A sentry trudged to and fro in front of the mosque with his Mauser on his shoulder; but he was a British Indian soldier. I put one foot with a hundred pounds of pressure on the step, and there was no outcry—nothing happened; I put another foot with it with another hundred pounds of pressure, and I was still alive. The Moslem could no longer carry out his will. I pressed on. At the top of the stairway I was met by one of the attendants of the mosque, who told me in good English, that he and his ancestors for twelve hundred years had cared for this house of worship. He invited me in and offered to explain to me the mysteries of the mosque.

We entered at the top of a broad aisle some eight or ten feet in width, at the far end of which was the pulpit or reading desk such as will be found in nearly all such buildings. Turning to the right, he said, "Here is the cenotaph of the patriarch! directly below it fifty feet is his sarcophagus." Opening a slit in the floor, he said, "Look down." I saw the dim outline of a great coffin and a light burning by its side. He told me it was kept constantly burning there and that it had been for unnumbered years. Turning to the left, he said, "This is the cenotaph of Sarah and her sarcophagus is fifty feet below." Moving a few steps down the aisle, he said, "This is Isaac and this is Rebekah, this is Jacob and this is Leah." Hence, it appears that Leah, the wife imposed upon Jacob by the sharpness of Laban was the real wife of Jacob, and that Rachel, though his most beloved, was wife only in some secondary sense. At the parting of the ways mentioned above, stood the tomb of Rachel, quite an imposing structure. Here she had died at the birth of Benjamin, and here she was buried.

A few steps further and he said, "Here is Joseph"; but he pointed out no wife opposite. Joseph married out of Israel. His wife was Asenath, the daughter of Potipherah, the priest of On. Of course, an Egyptian would not be buried here; but my guide seemed to know nothing of this. A tomb of Joseph is pointed out to the traveler or pilgrim just outside the walls of Shechem, or "Nablous," as it is now called. It stands but a short distance from the well of Jacob, where Jesus talked to the Samaritan woman. I said to my guide, "Jaseph must have been twins, for he is also buried near Shechem." Evidently he could not grasp the subtility of the American joke, for he did not so much as smile at my statement. So ended my interview with my courteous guide.

It has not been thought best, so long as Moslem matters are in a state of unstable equilibrium, both in the Near and Far East, to undertake the exploration of their sacred places; yet some day something of great interest to the Christian world may be discovered here and elsewhere.

The facts concerning the burial of Joseph are clearly stated in Genesis, Exodus and Joshua. Joseph having faith that God would visit his people in power and bring them up out of Egypt, exacted an oath of his brethren that they would take his bones up to the promised land. His body was embalmed and placed in a coffin in Egypt. Moses took it up with him, and Joshua buried his bones in Shechem near Jacob's well.—Methodist Recorder.

—The daily papers announce that a meeting of ministers of all denominations in North Carolina has been called for January 11 in Wesley Memorial Church, High Point, to consider our marriage and divorce laws with a view to proposing some improvements to our State legislature. We trust that our church will be well represented, as this is an important matter, and the wisdom of ministers regarding it should be greater than that of the average man selected to make laws concerning it. We presume that no sensible legislator will resent the appealing of ministers for changes in the law.

We go to church because of our need of God and God's need of us.—Rev. T. E. Ruth.

"In the family, as in the state, the best source of wealth is economy."—Cicero.

THE GIFT WORTH WHILE

We have come to another birthday of Christ. In accordance with the custom of the season we have been thinking of gifts. There are gifts for husband and wife, and father and mother, and sons and daughters and friends. Surely at this time we ought not to forget Him whose birthday it is.

There are three appropriate gifts to Jesus Christ. The first is the gift of self. In Paul's letter to the Corinthians he speaks of the liberality and consecration of the Macedonians. "They first," he says, "gave their own selves unto the Lord." It is for this that we plead today. Give yourself to Christ. This is the gift that gladdens His heart most of all.

Dr. Hallock tells of a 16-year-old girl who was a chronic invalid. The mother of the girl was a pleasure-loving woman who could not endure the thought of spending much time with her shut-in daughter. While the mother was traveling in Italy she remembered the coming birthday of her daughter, and sent her a rare and beautiful vase. The nurse brought it to the invalid, remarking at the thoughtfulness of the mother in sending it to arrive on the very day of the anniversary.

After looking at it for a moment the girl said to the nurse, "Take it away! Take it away! O, mother, please don't send me anything more! no books, no pictures, no vases. I only want you, you."

Do not give Christ only things. They will not satisfy Him. He longs first of all not for yours, but for you.

Next to the gift of self there is no finer offering we can present Him than our service. There are few words we misuse more frequently than the word "serve." Some time ago we met a young Englishman. We asked him of his life hitherto. He replied: "I passed seven years in the king's service, in the navy."

Service as he saw it meant that for seven years he had given his life to the king to do with as he saw fit. He meant that he had worked, and sacrificed, and fought, and that if the necessity had arisen he would have died for his king.

We say that we serve Jesus Christ. What do we mean? Have we worked and sacrificed and suffered for Him? Let us be perfectly frank with ourselves. If we serve Jesus Christ we must render service, otherwise we are worthless and unprofitable servants. What more appropriate act of devotion can we render after the gift of self than the pledge of real service during the coming year?

Third, is the gift of substance, the offering of what we have for those to whom He ministers through His Church. There is a little story the mothers across the sea sometimes tell their children at Christmas time. A man was coming home from work on Christmas Eve. He was thinking of his children and what a good time they would have the next day. All at once he came upon a little boy, ragged and hungry and almost frozen. He stopped and spoke to him and found that the boy had no home. So the man lifted him up and carried him to his own house, and when they had given him something to eat they tucked him away in bed with the rest of the children.

When the house was quiet the father and mother set about preparing the Christmas gifts for the children. But they had nothing for the little stranger. They were very poor and for weeks had been saving their money that they might have a goose for dinner on Christmas Day. They talked it over and decided that they would do without the goose and have just potatoes and porridge for dinner so that the little stranger might have a happy day, too. So when the children woke up the next morning there were some warm clothing and shoes for the little boy they had found.

And how happy he was. By and by they sat down for prayers, when each little child was expected to say a verse. When it came the turn of the little stranger, he said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me." And then He was gone. The Lord Himself had come to share their joy that Christmas Day.

Whatever we give or sacrifice will be blest to us in the consciousness that we have done it for Him and that we have brought joy to Him on His birthday.—Stuart Nye Hutchison, in Presbyterian Banner.

AN OLD CHRISTMAS CAROL

Oh, wake ye, little children,
And be of goodlie cheer.
Yon sun so high along the sky
Hath shone two thousand year.
And once it saw a little child
In manger lying undefiled,
And all about the cattle mild
Did lovingly draw near.
So wake ye, little children,
And be of goodlie cheer.

Oh, wake ye, little children,
And let each heart be gay.
"Good-will to men," they caroled then,
And why should ye delay?
Awake, awake, and rise and sing,
And greet ye every living thing,
For man and beast did greet your King
On that first Christmas day!
Then wake ye, little children,
For this is Christmas Day.

—Selected.

A BOOK AND A CHILD

A book is a child's introduction to the scene of meanings, to the way things are done in the world and the purpose they serve. A book is for inspiration, entertainment, and instruction.

Books must preserve that fresh, confident outlook upon life that is so happily characteristic of children. They must lead children to interpret their intuitions and profit from experience. Great books lead children to evaluate character and achievement. They contain a description of some part of the trail followed by someone else. We remember our own impressions from a book long after we have forgotten the details of its story. Great books lead children to value culture, good manners, and Christian citizenship.

Nothing is more cherished in later life than a love for literature implanted early. No one can ever build again the world he saw when he gazed off wonderingly into space as he looked up, as a child, from a beloved book.

The child demands of his books, in short, that they hold his interest by the quality of their incidents, stir his imagination by their vivid color, and teach him in a frendly, sympathetic way by their wise advice pointing toward what, to his mind, ought to be a blessed and more abundant life.—Richard K. Morton in The Congregationalist.

Denominational Enterprises

TO THOSE WHO REPRESENT US

I feel sure that I speak for every Methodist Protestant missionary in the three countries—Japan, China and India—and the two on the ocean homeward bound, who in true devotion and faithful service have done their utmost this year to promote the work assigned to them in wishing for every member of the church, and especially of its distinctive missionary organizations, a very joyous Christmas season.

In the remarkable developments in Japan more of the outward features of Christmas are present, and it tends to make more real to foreigners the most gladsome period of the year.

But in China this year the horrors of civil war have added immensely to the anxiety and labors of our loyal missionaries in that remote corner of that vast country, and where foreigners are few, and widespread misrepresentation and opposition to foreigners, fostered, it is believed, by Russian emissaries tend to distract the mind and make less real the Christmas-tide, and yet it cannot be obliterated, for our estimable missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Soderbom, found time to send me a card printed in Chinese and English.

Then in far-off India where the darkness is gross, and the people adhere to their idols and even vile practices under the guise of religion, and where Christians are ostracised, kept largely apart from their fellow nationals, there is no reflection of Christmas joy from the native side, but the Christians are making the cause of its world-wide observation known, and yearly they make it the outstanding occasion for rejoicing, and good fellowship, and religious benefit.

All our missionaries and native people rejoice to know that though far away from the center, they are part and parcel of a great church that has held aloft the banner of Mutual Rights, and maintained unimpaired democracy in American Methodism, and that amid all the sermons, and special features of the season they are not forgotten, as remembrances from individuals and organizations attest.

It would be a gracious act, one requiring very little effort on the part of any of us, and yet one that would yield much comfort and cheer to our missionaries, for any who feels inclined to send a card or a personal note of greeting and good wishes to any of our missionaries.

To aid any who so desire to do, the names and addresses are printed in another column.

They have the natural longing to share in the family reunion, and the other occasions so much enjoyed by all in the homeland, and in their distant homes a word of greeting will aid very much.

In their busy lives it may be entirely impossible for them to personally answer each one, but rest assured what you do will be gratefully appreciated.

They may collectively send a brief card of thanks to the church papers, if there is a generous response to this suggestion.

Of course, this ought to have been published earlier, but it is not too late for you to act, for "better late than never."

And now in behalf of the officers and members of the Union Board of Foreign Missionary Administration, I tender heartfelt goodwishes to every Methodist Protestant for a most joyous Christmas.

Fred C. Klein.

ANNUITIES AND BEQUESTS

The Board of Home Missions has recently received the full benefits of two annuities and one bequest. Miss Millie Bowman, a lady associated with the Children's Home, High Point, N. C., gave through Dr. Beck $100 as an annuity for the Board of Home Missions. Miss Bowman, who was a devout Christian and loyal member of the Methodist Protestant Church, passed to her heavenly home several months ago. The board has come into full possession of this fund.

Last January Brother J. H. Gregg of Ohio sent me $500 as an annuity. Before any interest was paid on this Brother Gregg also died. In addition to this I have recently received, from the executor of the estate of Brother Gregg, a check for $250 which comes to us through his will to be used for home mission purposes.

We greatly appreciate these practical expressions of interest and devotion to the church on the part of these departed friends. I would call the attention of our church members to these means of aiding the work of their beloved denomination and our Lord's kingdom.

An annuity means that you place a sum of money in the treasury of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church. The board in return will give you a regular bond on which interest is paid semi-annually and at the death of the individual the money becomes the property of the board. When there is so much fluctuation and uncertainty in investments as at the present time here is a place where one can invest at least part of their funds without any anxiety or fear of failure. In recent years our board, in this manner, has received a very creditable sum. Those who have thus given are very happy in the knowledge of the fact that their money is absolutely safe and will continue to do good long after they have entered upon their reward.

The other means of aiding the work of our board is through bequests in wills. Those who are making a future disposition of their property can well afford to place part of their money in the Lord's treasury, by remembering the various departments of our denominational work.

I will be pleased to correspond with any who are thinking of this in either way named in this communication. It is an opportunity for any to assist in extending the borders of our church and preaching the gospel in many parts of our great country. My prayer is that God may touch the hearts of some who read this article and prompt them to communicate with me. I am, yours in the Master's service,

J. M. Sheridan, Secretary,
Board of Home Missions.

THE BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS

The first Home Mission work undertaken by the Methodist Protestant Church, outside of the Annual Conferences, was in 1850 when Daniel Bagley was sent as a missionary to the far west. With the aid of Dexter Horton he erected a small church in Seattle. From this effort we now have three churches in that city with a conservative property value of $225,000.

The formal organization of the Board took place at the General Conference in 1888. Since that time the Board has been active in the organization of congregations and the erection of churches in almost every part of our denominational territory. In addition, the salaries of many pastors have been supplemented, struggling churches have been aided, and in some instances saved from extinction.

In the 38 years of the Board's active work hundreds of thousands of dollars have been received and distributed in the various Annual Conferences. Many of the churches aided are now among the largest and strongest of the denomination. The Board has thus been a great agency in extending the principles of the Methodist Protestant Church and carrying the Gospel to those needing it. The field has been limited only by the number of ministers and the amount of money at its command. Its work is one of the most important in our denominational program.

The only means of support the Board has is that which comes from the monthly distribution of the General Conference Budget and the Easter offering. There has been a steady increase in the Easter offering each year and we are planning for a great service next April, and are appealing to all the churches for their co-operation.

The Board, on account of its present indebtedness, has not been able to respond to many of the requests for aid that have come to it. This has been grievous to the Board, and unsatisfactory to the churches. There is nothing in the existing debt to alarm anyone. The amount of property held by the Board is four times that of the indebtedness. It simply means retrenchment until the debt is paid or at least greatly reduced. Nearly all the Annual Conferences have in the past received assistance from the Board and will again be aided as soon as the money is furnished.

We, therefore, in the spirit of our Divine Lord and prompted by interest and love for the Methodist Protestant Church, send out this clarion call to all the Annual Conferences, and our church friends, to rally to the payment of the Budget in full and a great Easter offering with the assurance that the Board will then be in a position to respond to the appeals that come from almost every quarter of the church.

Those holding the Centennial Christmas service and receiving the offering for the General Conference Budget will aid in the work this Board is trying to do.

J. M. Sheridan, Executive Secretary,

"The Science of Sciences"—What Is It?

(Continued from Page One)

that the science of sciences is the science of self-government. Why does he say that? Because of the primordial importance of self-control in the matter of individual life and destiny. It is by controlling ourselves that we control our fortunes. Reduced to the last analysis, the only thing a person can directly control is his own bodoy—we may say, his own muscles. Our bodies are the only medium through which we can act upon the external world. We move the muscles of the hand or the mouth or the eye or some other part of our muscular mechanism in order to produce changes in our environment. The results of our action will correspond in character to the movement initiated in our own bodies. If we do not have ourselves under proper control, we will be continually acting in a way that will not please others or ourselves. The mark we make on the world will depend on the degree of control we have acquired over the mechanism of our bodies. Self-control is indeed a very important matter, and we are disposed to agree that Dr. Payot is justified in calling the science of self-government "the science of sciences".

A KICK IN TIME

A story of heroism centers about Frank DuVall, disabled war veteran, title examiner's clerk, and a member of Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. A kick with his foot that stopped a clock and an hour and a quarter of prolonged heroism constitute DuVall's contribution to New York's health and happiness. For without that kick, a bomb—but go on with the story.

As reported by Paul E. Lockwood, editor of Brooklyn Central Magazine, this is what happened:

Entering the Supreme Court building one morning, DuVall noticed a suitcase on a windowsill. His suspicion being aroused, he picked up the bag and shook it vigorously. Though he had suspected that it might contain illicit liquor, no clink of glass bottles resulted. He put it down and kicked it gently, then a little harder. Then suddenly he became aware that it was a bomb.

This happened at the court house. Nearby were the City Hall, the Hall of Records, the Municipal Building, and the Woolworth Tower. What a healthy bomb might do in that neighborhood was unpleasant to contemplate. So DuVall, seeing his duty, picked up the bag and departed for more open country. He sought the largest open space nearby, City Hall Park, and promptly was driven out by an attendant. For an hour and ten minutes he lugged that bag about, unaware at what instant it might explode. Finally, though realizing that he himself might easily be taken for the owner of the infernal machine, he sought out a policeman, and when an inspector from the Bureau of Combustibles arrived, DuVall helped him cut the suitcase open.

It contained 25 pounds of loose dynamite, arranged to be exploded by a fuse made of acid in a shoe-polish can. The whole thing was geared to a clockwork mechanism.

DuVall's kick had stopped the clock.

DR. McNAUGHER WARNS YOUNG MINISTERS

At the annual commencement of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, of the United Presbyterian Church, on May 6, Dr. John McNaugher, president, in his address to the graduating class, among other things, said:

"The immediate risk to which you are exposed is the popularized evolutionary view of religion and the subtle and multiplying attempt to rob our creedal gospel of its root essentials and flatten it into the barren dogmatics and ethics of an attenuated theism. The Church itself is suffering from a trooping invasion of errorists who would throw to the wolves the soul-subduing certainties which have wrought themselves into the evangelism and the piety of the years. A rationalistic snake has crawled into the records of the Garden of Eden, and the Fall is hooted at.

"A half-way Christology is outlined in which the virgin birth of Jesus, his miracle-signs, his vicarious sacrifice, and his physical resurrection disappear, and we are soothed with the deliverance that these and other subtractions can be made and the residue of the evangel will still have a perfect soundness for moral and spiritual uses—all of which is equivalent to conceiving that an egg can be good in spots.

"As for radical, Simon pure modernism, it is but a thinly veiled Unitarianism, and is rotten from the floor to the roof. Between its bloodless categories and the orthodoxy in which you have been reared there is an unbridgeable gulf, one that no geometry can measure."—Selected.

"Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of Truth."—2 Timothy 2:15.

OUR STORY PAGE

SEVEN TIMES SEVEN

Linda-May came home from school in tears. "I'm never goin' to forgive that horrid Tom Grant, never," she exclaimed.

"Why, Linda, dear!" said mamma, "I wouldn't say that."

"But he's so horrid, mamma, he put some nasty, slimy fishin' worms in an envelope and d'rected it to me, an' put it on my desk, an' I thought it was a note from Bessie, an'—an' I opened it, an' all the horrid things came crawlin' out all over me, ugh! I never, never will forgive him," she added.

"Linda-May's forgiven Tom lots of times," said Sadie, staunchly. "When he put the frog in her desk and when he tied her hair to the chair back, an' other times, too."

"Yes," said Linda-May, "jus' heaps an' heaps of times, but I won't any more!"

"But, Linda," said mamma, "we must forgive, not seven times, but 'seventy times seven.' "

Linda-May did not say anything but she remembered just a few Sundays ago, Miss Annie had had that very lesson at Sunday school. Oh, yes, Linda-May remembered. "But I just can't," she said to herself, "those nasty worms."

She did not speak to Tom the next day. Then came Saturday and at Sunday school, although Tom sat very near Linda-May, she did not look back at him at all. "I'm not goin' to forgive those worms," she thought.

"Children," said Miss Annie, "we're trying very hard to raise some money to help a poor mission school up in the mountains, and I want my class to see if they cannot make a little in some way; it will be wonderful to feel you have made it yourselves."

"I don't know how ever I'm goin' to make any," she said as they walked home. "Maybe I could rent out Lady Arabella; I could charge two cents an hour."

"Huh!" said Tom Grant, "who'd pay it?"

"Nobody's talkin' to you," said Linda-May.

But the next day Papa-doctor solved the problem.

"Linda-May," said he, "when I went to see Miss Andrews today—you know she's been ailin' a long time—well, she said the only thing she fancied in the way of food was mushrooms. Now in that pasture land of mine I noticed a lot, and I know Miss Andrews would pay well for them, but you'd have to get up pretty early to gather them, Linda-May."

"Oh, I don't mind that," cried the little girl, "I'll begin tomorrow."

"And I'll go, too," said Sadie.

Sure enough, the two little girls were up bright and early. Miss Andrews was delighted. "Bring them to me every day," said she, "and when I tire of them I'll find you another customer." After the first day or two Linda-May found it very hard to get out of her warm bed, and Sadie gave up entirely. "I've got 50 cents," said she, "that's enough for one mountain child." But Linda-May did not think so.

Tom Grant's house was close to where the mushrooms grew. His mother was a widow, not well off, and Tom had to get up early and do a good deal to help every morning. He leaned over the fence and spoke to Linda-May; he even offered to help gather the mushrooms; but the little girl took no notice at all.

"All right, Miss Stuck-up," said Tom.

One morning two young men came along and stopped close to Linda-May.

"Oh, it's a little girl," said one of the men. "We want some bait; we are staying over at the hotel and we're going fishing, but little girls don't like to dig bait, do they?"

Linda-May shook her head. Then she thought of Tom. He had not been able to earn anything. She had heard him tell one of the boys he always had to do so much for his mother. But then she hadn't forgiven Tom—she never would!

"If you know any boy," said the young man, "I'd pay him a quarter, and there are some other little jobs I could give him."

Linda-May hesitated. All at once she thought—"not seven times, but seventy times seven.' " Perhaps Tom hadn't meant to be so mean, anyway—she pointed to the little cottage across the road.

"There's an awfully nice boy lives there," said she. "I'll call him."

And at school that day Linda-May found a chocolate mouse on her desk. She looked at Tom.

"I earned a whole dollar," said he, "but I liked you forgivin' me, Linda-May, best of all."—S. L. Bacon, in Presbyterian Advocate.

DORA GOES SHOPPING

Dora dearly loved to go shopping. It always gave her a thrill to spend money and to receive something in exchange.

So when her mother called her from the side lawn where she was playing with Toodles, her little, shaggy puppy, and said, "Dora, dear, I am making a cake and I am short of eggs. Please go up to the corner grocery and get me six,"—the little girl was delighted.

Sometimes there was a penny left over when she went on an errand like this, and in that case, she often had this for herself. Sometimes there were three or four pennies, or even a nickel, and so "shopping for mother" had delightful possibilities.

So in just a few minutes, Dora was trotting down the street with Toodles in tow, and a little basket on her left arm in which to carry the eggs safely. In the bottom of the basket was her mother's little red pocketbook with some money in it to pay for the eggs.

"Hurry, dear," Dora's mother had said, and Dora really meant to go straight to the grocery and come back as quickly as possible. But sometimes Dora forgot and became interested in other things, and then time passed without her having the least idea how many minutes had flown away.

There was a funny little old man at the corner with a monkey and a hand-organ. The hand-organ played high-pitched, and rather wheezy music, but Dora liked the sound of it, and the monkey was amusing.

Then by the time she started on again, Toodles had discovered a cat just inside a fence they were passing, and was determined to get that cat. He barked and barked, and it took Dora several minutes to persuade him to come along. She had to tug on the string, and as the string wasn't very strong, it broke and away went Toodles under that fence and after the cat. When his mistress had captured him again and tied a knot in the string, the idea of eggs and cake-making were quite far away.

When Dora got to the grocery, there were a lot of people there waiting to be served, and she had to stand about until her turn came.

Over in one corner was a counter where a pink-cheeked young girl was selling ice cream cones. As she scooped up the cool, delicious-looking, yellow-tinted ice cream and plumped it into the cones for the customers, it fairly made Dora's mouth water. She kept on watching and wishing for one for herself, and when the young clerk came up and said, "What would you like, little lady?" Dora stood quite still for a minute.

For the life of her she couldn't remember what her mother had sent her for, although she searched about in her mind to try and remember. Perhaps the clerk wasn't feeling very good-natured that day. He might have had a toothache, or perhaps his collar was too tight. Anyway his manner became quite impatient, and he said a bit sharply,

"Hurry up, little girl, there are others waiting. I can't spend all day with you. What is it you want?"

Now there was no doubt in Dora's mind what she wanted, and Toodles was whimpering and pulling at the cord, trying to get over to the meat counter where there was a box of beautiful bones.

So Dora, feeling she must say something, replied promptly, "Two ice cream cones, please—one choc'late and one vanilla, and a bone for Toodles."

The clerk served her, and of course there was nothing to do, but to trot right out.

The little girl didn't feel as happy as she might have done, and for some reason or other she didn't start for home. Instead of that she went across the street and sat down in the little park on one of the green benches.

Toodles promptly began to enjoy his feast. Dora took a bite out of one ice cream cone and then out of the other, but both were a little disappointing in flavor. A bird flew down on the grass and began to hop about and to eye Dora eagerly.

Then all at once she remembered—it was eggs she went shopping for, and not ice cream cones!

She finished the two of them hurriedly. Maybe it was because she ate them so fast that they gave her a stomach-ache. Anyway Dora began to cry. There wasn't money enough left now to go and get the ggs, and she wasn't sure what would happen if she went home without them.

"Well, well, what are all these tears for?" said a smiling voice right near her, and Dora looked up to see a kind old gentleman smiling down at her and leaning on his cane.

Before she knew what was happening, she sobbed out the whole story. The old gentleman shook his head.

"No wonder you have the stomach-ache," he said. "And the next time you are trusted with money, I wonder what you'll do with it!"

Dora looked up with her blue eyes wide open.

"I know," she said. "I'll buy what I go after, and if I forget, I'll go back and find out about it."

The old gentleman nodded delightedly.

"What a wise little girl," he said. "We all make mistakes sometimes, but what counts is learning not to make them the second time. Come, my dear, and we'll go back to the grocery, and I believe I can find money enough to put with what you have to buy the eggs for your mother, and I hope you haven't kept her waiting too long."

When Dora reached home, she found that unexpected callers had come, and so her mother had been delayed and the eggs were in time. She was very glad of that, and now when she goes on an errand she remembers to go right along and to hurry back.—Selected.

THE SIN OF ANGER

Last Sunday the editor was invited to preach. (He gets a chance occasionally at this season. The pastors are away on vacation.) Somehow his mind got to running on Cain. It may be that the amazing number of homicides which have occurred in recent weeks had something to do with it. What are we humans thinking about, anyhow? Can we not see that if we bite and devour one another we shall destroy one another? Vengeance, wrangling, wounds, murders cannot be prevented by the penalties of the law alone. Those penalties ought, no doubt, to be made swifter and surer than they are.

We must get back to the causes of these crimes, the tempers that lead up to them. One of these days the world will wake up to the fact that Jesus was a great philosopher. The source of murder, according to him, is anger, hatred. He even said, in his usual graphic way, that anger is murder.

We are all capable of anger. It is our reaction to irritation. It is natural. It is partly physical. And, as is now well known, it reacts strongly, often dangerously, on the body. In our days many voices are clamoring in favor of self-expression. They decry repression, inhibition, restraints. It may well be that inhibitions can be overdone. We are willing to admit that there is such a thing as a complex. But the two sayings of the ancients, Know thyself and Rule thyself, are still valid. He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city. Inhibitions from without may well be objected to. Freedom is one of our dearest possessions. But the human being who makes no effort to bring to heel his own passions and appetites is a fool. He will live as one and die a fool's death.

One of the most unruly and dangerous of those passions is anger. It poisons life. It embitters intercourse, even in the family. Cain talked with his brother Abel in the field—under the wide skies, amid the healing of wildflowers and fanned by sweet winds—and slew him. In another column we print a human story of how in a great city's court Monday is the day when family quarrels have to be adjusted.

Anger is natural. But it must never be allowed to grow chronic, to become hatred. We cannot keep evil birds from flying over us, but we can prevent them from nesting in our hair. Character is like muscular force: it grows by exercise. The inhibitions that we lay upon ourselves will not harm us. They will do us good.

Cain somehow got his anger mixed up with his religion. He was not the last one to do that. How human those old stories are! Men and women get more bitter about religion, or what they think is religion, than over almost any other matter. It is a solemn travesty. A preacher shot a man to death the other day. Next day he preached, and on a text that he seemed to think, by implication, at least, justified him. Churches are rent by controversies, and theologians grow fierce over doctrines about God. It is all very confusing—contradictory, in fact. It was his brother that Cain killed, not a stranger and, presumably, an enemy.

Such are the absurdities into which unrestrained anger drags poor humans. It is an evil beast. It lies at our door, like a savage dog. But a dog is but an animal. He can be trained, controlled. "Unto thee is his desire, and thou shalt rule over him." That is the order of things, as God meant it. But when the beast controls the man, then the man becomes a beast. And seeing it, the angels weep.—Selected.

The time calls for a church holy in the singleness of its devotion to Jesus Christ and His gospel, passionate in its devotion to all which He counts essential, careless about all for which He did not and does not care.—Rev. William P. Merrill, D.D.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

PITTSBURGH MISSION

The experience in Pittsburgh has been that the more they give for their mission, the more they give for Pine Ridge. Their families are Italian, Russian, Bohemian, Hungarian, Polish, Slavic and American They live in crowded quarters, where sanitation is an unknown quantity. A great change is soon apparent in the lives of the children after attendance. The value of a life spent among this type of our population is inestimable, as a person need be a resident of this country only a short time before he casts his ballot. Christianity leads him beside "the still waters," disregard sometimes carries him into the turbulent waters of anarchy.

Children's Home

Can we say anything stronger for the Children's Home than that Christ blessed them. While the Woman's Home Missionary Society started this work, all the churches in North Carolina Conference contribute towards its support, and the General Conference have named it a beneficiary of its budget.

Bethel Home

Again we follow in Christ's foot-steps in the divine art of healing. Bethel Home was founded by Rev. Homer Casto for tubercular persons; the Woman's Home Missionary Society assists with gifts. It is an inspiration to hear Mr. Casto tell of the faith that has upheld him through his financial difficulties.

Business Girls' Home

Investigation will reveal the need for a Business Girls' Home. All denominations have them. A worker in the Y. W. C. A. advises a church home instead of a large institution. Within the last month one of our ministers signed two applications for our girls to enter another denomination's home for girls. We advocate a home of our own.

Organizers

We desire especially to stress the fine work of our organizers. In distant churches they answer questions pertaining to all Boards; in many places they organize new Auxiliaries; in all places they carry information.

Council of Women For Home Missions

We have become affiliated with the Council of Women for Home Missions consisting of 22 denominations. It is working in closest co-operation with the Federal Council of Churches.

The funds coming to the Council on the Day of Prayer will be divided between the Farm and Cannery Groups and Religious Work Directors in Indian Government Schools.

MATILDA P. BADGER,
Chairman, Central Committee.

PINE RIDGE, KENTUCKY

The people of the Cumberland Mountains are Scotch-Irish, and a few Palatines and Huguenots. In 1907, Mrs. M. O. Everett with her mother, Mrs. O'Rear, established a Mission at Pine Ridge. She walked long distances, one day 18 miles; later a horse was given her. After 12 years of consecrated service, Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Woodford assumed the duties, answering a call from the Society and from God. Each winter we have on roll one hundred and fifty pupils, all fine up-standing reliable young people; some need and are helped by the Scholarship Maintenance Fund. This year 15 girls have been turned away because of lack of room. One of our students, a fine young man, has been preaching this summer. An alumnus is now attending High Point College, North Carolina, and has had the honor of having the class yell she composed accepted from among those of numerous competitors. We have a fine force of 11 teachers, a nurse, and a culinary corps.

In addition to existing preaching appointments, Slade, on the L. and N. Railroad, is being developed. An interesting project is the Men's Bible Class Dr. Woodford conducts in the Court House at Compton on certain Sundays; he is also President of the Wolfe County Council of Religious Education.

As a related effort, one of the finest bits of Home Mission work is that of Miss Edna M. Dexter, Religious Community Worker. She goes to the homes in the outlying districts, and does work that can be effected only through the personal touch.

Ohio Mission

The only other strictly Board interest we have is Ohio Mission, among foreign-speaking people, mostly Slavic. It is located in Empire, where we rent one room on the ground floor. Sixty-three children are on roll, and 45 families are on the list for ministration. We are fortunate in securing the services of Miss Emily Grace Brown, a graduate of Dr. Athearn's School of Religious Education, who did the foundation work, and is now in the third year of its development. She is assisted by two ladies from the Empire M. P. Church. The Conference President and the local pastor have shown their interest by visits.

There are also Branch interests for these. The Branch in which they are located assumes responsibility for maintenance, other Branches making small gifts.

The Union Board's Missionaries

Japan

Miss Olive I. Hodges, Maita Machi, Yokohama.

Miss Evelyn M. Wolfe, Maita Machi, Yokohama.

Miss Alice Coates, , 10 Moto Shiro, Hamamatsu.

Miss Mary E. Williams, 105 Tamonoi Cho, Atsuta, Nagoya.

Rev. Leigh Layman, D. D., and wife, 20 Namivose Machi, Atsuta Nagoya.

Rev. E. I. Obee and wife, 3 Hinoki-cho, Akasaka-ku, Tokyo.

Rev. J. Clyde Auman and wife, 43 Chokyuji Machi, Nagoya.

Rev. Paul F. Warner, 43 Chokyuji Machi, Nagoya.

China

Rev. C. G. Soderbom, Kalgan.

Mrs. Maude Lawson Soderbom, Kalgan.

Mr. Horace S. Williams, Kalgan.

India

Miss Mildred Miskimen, Dhulia, West Khandesh.

Miss Grace Perley, Dhulia, West Khandesh.

Miss Theresa Frank, Dhula, West Khandesh.

Rev. J. F. Minnis and wife, Dhulia, West Khandesh.

Rev. Paul M. Cassen and wife, Dhulia, West Khandesh.

STRAW-BALLOTING THE BIBLE

Little purpose can be served by the proposed 'religious poll' to be taken through the newspapers of the country by the International Advertising Association, acting for the Federal Council of Churches. The proposal, even though made with the best of intentions, bears too much the appearance of a publicity stunt; it smacks not so much of the church as of the press-agent. According to its sponsors, the poll is designed to show the extent of religious sentiment in the nation, and thus furnish a basis for a vast advertising campaign to be undertaken later. But its benefits under this heading are at best doubtful, and its flaws are of such a nature as to make the plan seem highly ill-advised.

Newspaper straw-ballots—and essentially that is what the present scheme resolves itself into—have been notoriously futile and inaccurate. They cannot be said to measure, or even reflect, the true sentiment of the communities in which they are taken. Because of their very futility, the number of intelligent persons who participate is relatively small.

But there are many surprisingly active minority groups to whom the straw-ballot furnishes a grand opportunity. Through it they attempt to show a tremendous sentiment in favor of their own particular line. While the great majority of citizens remain passively positive in their opinions, aroused to action only by some great moral issue, these busy minorities welcome every straw-ballot with enthusiasm. It is to them that the present stunt will appeal most heartily, and not to the thinking people of the nation, whose opinions are of greatest value. Such a straw-ballot as that intended, instead of determining the status of religion in America, will serve largely as a medium for little bands of atheists and non-believers to magnify their own theories into matters of vast importance.

If the sole aim of the 'religious poll' were to stimulate discussion on religious matters, it might be justified. But rather than that, the intention is 'to find out how many persons in this country believe in God.' And the results are to be utilized as material for a general campaign of publicity and propaganda.

The combination of religion and modern advertising is one that must be effected skilfully if at all. Religion is personal, individualistic. Its spirit comes from within. It cannot be 'sold' to the people, as cans of beans or special brands of cigarets are sold.—Dearborn Independent.

—Brother and Mrs. T. B. Waugh were kept from church Sunday night by the illness of their younger boy. They were to have taken part in the Christmas pageant. Their parts were taken by Brother and Mrs. J. W. Dixon.

—In the Sabathu Presbyterian church, Punjab, India, there is a Christian Endeavor Society of about fifty members. They are all active members, and by their untiring efforts more than three hundred Hindoos became Christians and united with the church.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

For a Little Boy

Perhaps, perhaps the radiant star
Which led the Wise Men from afar
Knew Nothing of their holy Quest—
Perhaps it only did its best.
And when its beam so clear and mild
Showed where there slept a little Child,
How could it know how many men
Would sorrow if it failed just then—
Or dream that it would ever be
So loved by little boys like me?

And maybe, if I truly try,
As I grow up and time goes by,
I'll learn like that bright star to do
The thing I know is brave and true.
And if my task is hard and long,
I know the Star will make me strong;
And if my will grows weak and frail,
The Star will teach me not to fail.
O Christmas Star, lead even me,—
Like the Wise Men, I too shall see.

—Wihla Hutson.

CHRISTMAS MEMORIES

Like the snowflakes softly falling,
Memories come, glad days recalling:
Friendship is life's golden treasure,
Yielding joy in fullest measure.
Here's a toast to Old-time Friends!
God enrich you, Worthy Friends!

Christmas cheer, and New Year's greeting
Newer joys, with old, competing:
Gifts of grace, and gifts of spirit,
May ye lavishly inherit!
While great peace with pleasure blends
So, before the Old Year ends,

H. T. S.

HIS MISTAKE

He longed to find the road to fame,
But not a highway bore that name.
He thought to glory there must be
A level path that he should see;
But every road to which he came
Possessed a terrifying name.
He never thought that fame might lurk
Along the dreary path called Work.
He never thought to go and see
What marked the road called Industry.
Because it seemed so rough and high,
He passed the road to Service by.
Yet had he taken either way,
He might have come to fame some day.

—Detroit Free Press.

—North Carolina's system of taxation is driving capital out of the state and preventing outside capital from coming in for investment purposes, H. S. Richardson, of Greensboro, president of Vick Chemical company, told members of the Real Estate board and their guests at a dinner meeting in Wilmington.

—It is estimated that tuberculosis in the United States wipes out a small-sized city every year. It is also estimated that to endure the disease in its present stage for the next thirty-five years would cost the nation twenty-six billion dollars. In the last twenty years education and sanitation have combined to cut the death rate from tuberculosis in two. Medical experts estimate that keeping the disease under control for thirty-five years will mean virtually exterminating it.

PRAYER

"More things are wrought by Prayer than this world dreams of."—King Arthur.

What is Prayer?

Briefly defined "prayer" is the soul's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed. It may be the momentary, passionate outpouring of the soul to its Maker; it may come in worship in company with our fellows, or as the result of the closeted seclusion which attunes to Divine harmony and creates a receptivity of soul which just appropriates the good which is earnestly desired.

Prayer knows no language, though it may express itself in any. It regards not time nor place, nor posture, though it may conceivably be helped by these. In the pressure of business life; in the crowded street, behind the counter or the plow, our Heavenly Father is ever within call.

The saying of prayers is not prayer; it may be even the deadliest formality. This applies as much to the words of the "Lord's Prayer" as to any other words: they may become as empty and meaningless as the prayer wheel of the Lama temple or the high pitched invocation of its long-robed priests.

The man who faces sudden destruction in a railroad wreck or in a sinking ship prays in spite of his irreligious past, but he does not pray like that; he prays then because he must, as he comes face to face with the reality of all realities, with God, than whom there is no help left to him in earth or in Heaven.

There is a vast difference between the impetuous, almost despairing prayer of Jacob, "I will not let Thee go unless Thou bless me." (Gen. 32:26) and the calm confidence of Jesus, "I thank Thee that Thou hast heard me, and I know that Thou hearest Me always." (John 4:42). This is the confidence which comes from hours of communion with God on the mountain top, in secluded valley, or in the frequent inward retirement from the world. Such prayer is not a begging, beseeching as of an unwilling God, but rather the glad acceptance by a soul made one with the Divine will of whatever the hand of Love may send.

"If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." (John 15:7.)

But is there nothing short of this confident resting in the Divine will that finds its reward in prayer? Surely yes! For such a condition is not attained at a bound. The prayer of the publican in the temple, "God be merciful to me, a Sinner," with its "this man went down to his house justified rather than the other," (Luke 18:14) has been repeated a thousand times.

The earnest seeker for pardon, for cleansing, for strength, to live the life which he feels is open to him, finds instant response within himself from the heart of God; a Divine energy begins to throb within him. Having turned his will toward the Divine will and commenced to work out his own salvation, he is soon conscious that God is working in him; the old nature with its downward drag is weakened and the new nature with its upward urge is strengthened; old things pass away; all things become new, and all things of God. Such a soul sooner or later arrives at Paul's experience, is anxious about nothing, 'but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God, and the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:6, 7.

Is it not strange that men by exhaustive, patient, scientific experimentation, discover and utilize the great electric and other forces which exist, yet in the spiritual world they are slow to use the power and blessing which our Heavenly Father has placed within their reach. Science, however, cannot measure the happiness of those lives, lived close to their Saviour, where a Divine energy animates the Soul—Real basic happiness is peace with God. "What drug is so potent as the spiritual refreshment that floods one's being for the asking?"

The praying life followed to its conclusion is the rejoicing happy life.

A good man once said, "The true spirit of prayer is that wherein the Lord is prevailed with, and which draws from Him whatever the condition needs, the soul always looking up to Him in the will, time and way acceptable to Him."

That sentiment holds good today.

LET US PRAY.—Pennsbury Leaflet.

A bride wrote the weather bureau as follows: "You told me a few days ago that the weather probably would be clear on my wedding day, which was yesterday. I do not need to tell you that yesterday was one of the rainiest days this season, and it not only spoiled my wedding, but ruined an expensive trousseau as well. I don't suppose I can make you pay for this, but I have lost all faith in your reports. Furthermore, I will tell my friends who are getting married not to bother with you, although they might get your report so as to know that if you say it is going to be good weather they will know that it is going to rain."

—A missionary in the Malayalan Districts of India, writes that the Christian Endeavor Societies there are the only hope of the churches. The Christian Endeavorers take the leading part in the regular conducting of Sunday services, in the visitation of the sick, and in the evangelistic work among the surrounding non-Christians. In almost all of the churches the Endeavorers have taken upon themselves the responsibility of furnishing teachers for the Sunday schools. At Punaloor the Christian Endeavor Society has established a night school for the purpose of teaching the older people of the nearby towns to read and write.

Little Joe (from next house)—May I come in the yard and get my arrow?

Lady—Yes. Where did it fall?

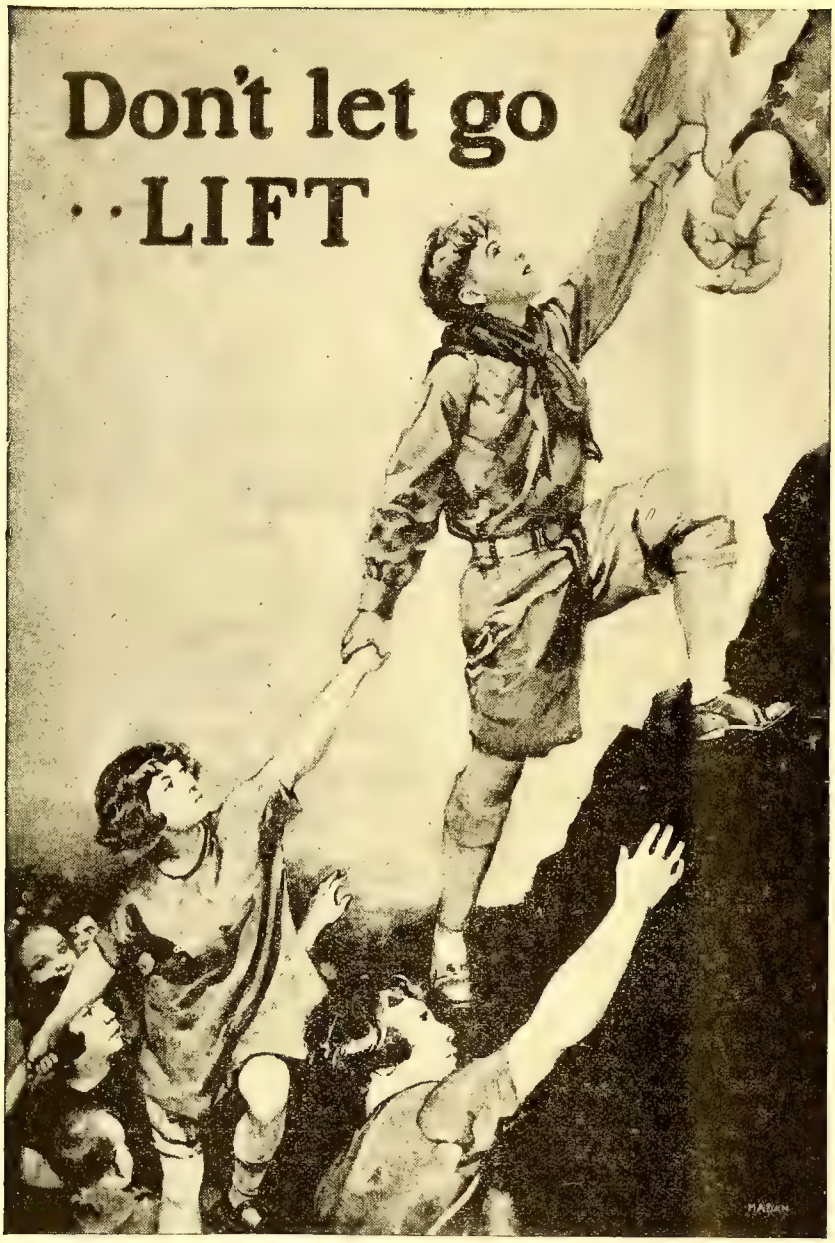
Little Joe—I think it's stuck in your cat!

Woman Onlooker, after accident—You are not a very expert driver, I take it. Just beginning, eh?

Hapless Motorist—On the contrary, I've just finished.—London Humorist.

"To-morrow is a holiday," proclaimed the calendar.

Whereupon all the people in the city rushed to the country and all the people in the country rushed to the city.—Judge.



ORPHANS OF THE NEAR EAST

A PAYING INVESTMENT

The best investment a boy or girl can make is an investment of time, and hard labor, and whatever money is necessary to acquire an education. A careful check of the record showing the experience of boys and girls who have grown to manhood and womanhood in this country in the past shows that out of five million children without schooling thirty-one will achieve distinction; with high school education 3,133 will achieve distinction, while with college education 28,840 out of every 5,000,000 will attain distinction!

The average maximum income of the untrained man is $1,200 a year; of the high school graduate $2,000; while the average maximum income of the college man is $6,000. The total average earning of these three at the age of sixty years is $45,000, $78,000 and $150,000 respectively.

Dean Lord, of the Boston University College of Business Administration, places the value on a college education as $72,000 as compared with $33,000 on the high school education. Coming from a man of national reputation and life study of the subject, this comparison merits careful consideration.

Only one per cent of the men of America are college graduates and yet this one per cent, it has been discovered, have furnished the following:

Fifty-five per cent of our Presidents.

Thirty-six per cent of the members of Congress.

Forty-seven per cent of the Speakers of the House of Representatives.

Fifty-six per cent of the Vice-Presidents.

Sixty-two per cent of the Secretaries of State.

Fifty per cent of the Secretaries of the Treasury.

Sixty-nine per cent of the Justices of the Supreme Court.

An analysis of the Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska farmer records shows that successful production varies in proportion to education. In Nebraska the record of some 409 farmers reveals that those who have received high school education produced 32.1 per cent more than those with grammar school education while those with college education produced 51.8 per cent more than those of grammar grade instruction.

FRENCH PRIESTS MARRYING

A Paris despatch to the New York Herald in December reported the organization of "the New French National Catholic Church," and the selection of Abbe Maxime Ardot, a married priest, as its bishop. The despatch says that there are several thousand married priests in France, and that an assembly of some three hundred of these will shortly consecrate Abbe Ardot as Bishop. It is stated that the first chapel edifice is being prepared in which "the married priests" who have been prohibited by the Vatican from celebrating mass and other rituals will carry on Catholic doctrines on the apostolic basis as in the Roman Church, but will no longer recognize the Pope's dicta as final. "This movement by married priests now has become international and undoubtedly will spread to the United States," said Abbe Ardot. "The Bishop of Prague sent congratulations and pledged the sympathetic support of the Czecho-Slovak Church, which has just been excommunicated by Rome. Swiss Catholicism and married priests also are supporting the movement."—The Converted Catholic.

—The use of the telephone for dispatching trains, displacing the telegraph, will be extended by the Southern Railway System over two of its important lines—Meridian, Miss., to New Orleans, La., 202.2 miles; and Asheville, N. C., to Spartanburg, S. C., 69.4 miles—giving the Southern a telephone system covering 2,363 miles of road, according to an official announcement.

—A little seaside town in Belgium, Le Zoute by name, was the scene of a Conference of missionary forces during the week September 14-20. If we count Africa as only one, thirteen countries were represented and sixty-three mission societies from Europe, America, and South Africa contributed to the personnel. The purpose of the Conference was to study the rapidly changing and developing conditions in the various parts of Africa, and to try to discover how the missionary forces might more effectively relate themselves to these conditions in order to more rapidly advance the Kingdom of God. It was clear that the time had come for all the missionary interests to come together for this purpose and under the auspices of the International Missionary Council this meeting was at last brought about. Negro leadership from America, as well as Africa, was brilliantly represented in a large and varied group of men and women, educators and preachers, whose speeches, actual presence and personal talks throughout the Conference, kept the members face to face with living realities. The missionaries themselves, and secretaries of Mission Boards, came from different areas of Africa, representing numerous communions and many European as well as Anglo-Saxon nations.

Our Children's Home

Church Offerings

Pleasant Hill, Cleveland, $6.10; Albemarle, First church, $30; Stallings, Mecklenburg, $1.10; Friendship Station, Special, $3.15; Porter, Stanly, $2; Denton, $28.08; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant charge, $3.74; J. P. Beam, Bess Chapel, $5; Fairfield, Guilford, $2.14.

Sunday School Offerings

Gibsonville, Birthday offerings, $8.29; Gibsonville, $7.35; West Thomasville, $2.29; Springhill, W. Thomasville, $3.14; South Lexington, $6.85; Friendship, N. Davidson, by W. M. Byerly, $2; Charlotte, Richland, $1.75; Charlotte, First church, $12.62; Bethel, Mocksville, $3.25; Denton, $3.28; Winston, First church, $12.03; Giles Chapel, Richland, $1.65; Friendship, Mt. Hermon, $5; Bethesda, Halifax, $1.75; Spencer, $3.67; Spring church, $1.91; Reidsville, $11.97.

Church Thank Offerings

Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, $3.15; Maple Springs, Forsyth, $9.11; Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, $1.50; Union Grove, Forsyth, $2.40; Oak Grove, Forsyth, $.90; Randolph charge, four churches, $42.13; Spring church, $16.03; State Street, Lexington, $43.24; Myrtle McCaskill, Rockingham, no church mentioned, $5.92; Charlotte, First church, $17.59; Rehoboth, Granville, $38; Winston, $24.67; New Hope, Vance, $14.

Sunday School Thank Offerings

Mt. Pleasant, additional, $3; Friendship Station, $26.45; Shiloh, N. Davidson, $18.05; Linberry, Davidson, $4; Pleasant Grove, Davidson, $2; Cedar Falls, Richland, $14; Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, $23.10; Baltmore, W. Forsyth, $4.36; Fountain Place Baraca class, $26.

Individual Thank Offerings

D. L. Carroll, Reidsville, $10; Clarence Stamey, 1006 Broadway, Lubbock, Texas, $100; W. O. Moss, High Point, $5.

The liberality of the people makes us feel that we are in the midst of a Thanksgiving people. Thank you.

E. G. LOWDERMILK.

Church Offerings

Concord, Saxapahaw, $2.15; Spencer, Spencer Station, $1.05; Union Grove, Orange, $1.80; James Braswell, Kannapolis, $2.50; Siler City, $4.83; Fountain Place, Burlington, $4; Efland, Orange, $1.30; Pine Grove, Kernersville, $1.36;

Sunday Schools

Bethel, Randolph, $1.20; Sapling Ridge, Alamance, $1.92; Whitakers, $5.50; Creswell, $3.15; Concord, Junior C. E. Society, $3; Mitchells Grove, Guilford, $2; Ray Bible class, Graham, $6.08; Burlington, $36.48; Haw River, $4.10; Concord, $30; Shiloh, Randolph, $2.54; Bethesda, N. Davidson, $9; Mt. Carmel, Forsyth, $4; Lebanon, High Point, $5.26; Sutton Philathea class, Greensboro, $25; Fair Grove, Haw River, $4.20; St. Paul, Greensboro, $13; Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, $5.66; Bethany, Randolph, $1.50; Mrs. D. T. Gaster, Sunday eggs, $3.75; Mebane, L. F. Wilkerson, remitter, $6.55; Mizpah, Haw River, $5; Worthville, Randleman, $3.73; Mt. Moriah, $3.10; Lawndale, Union, $9.75; Liberty Hill, Anderson charge, $9.85.

Church Thank Offerings

Bess' Chapel, $8.50; Mitcneils Grove, Children's Recital, $11.27; Calvary, Children's Recital, Greensboro, $81; Shoals, Pinnacle, $17.55; Knob Creek, Fallston, $3.50; Littleton circuit, by Rev. J. B. O'Briant, $10; Stony Knoll, W. Forsyth, $8.02; Yadkin College, $6.10; Shelby, $13; Lebanon church, Spring church, $10.41.

Sunday School Thank Offerings

Pine Bluff, Midland, $4.16; Siler City, $28.40; Bethesda, Halifax, $20.85; Calvary, Greensboro, $20.

Individual Thank Offerings

Miss Sue M. Whitaker, Raleigh, $2.50; Miss Mattie A. Whitaker, Raleigh, $2.50; A Friend, $20; John T. and Charles C. Ruth, Bonlee, N. C., $12.50; Sallie C. Barrow, Christmas offerings, $1; Mrs. Hulda Craven, Hopewell, Va., $5.

These offerings make us feel like saying Rejoice in the Lord always: and again I say Rejoice.

E. G. LOWDERMILK.

FROM REV. D. A. BRASWELL

It is just one year to day since we were burnt out. We lost all we had ever got together in 53 years. And worse still my poor wife was helpless then. And this morning after another year of struggle to overcome the burn-out and meet many other expenses I placed my home and all we have on the market for sale to pay our debts and that same poor helpless woman is still struggling between life and death. I think our home will just about pay all we owe. And as long as I keep well I can make enough to feed myself what time the Lord wants me to stay here. It is sad to give up wife and home about the same time. My dear brethren and sisters, I do not ask you for money, but I do ask you for your prayers and sympathy. I want to thank Sister Wiley Shoaf for $10.55 donated by the Brotherhood class of Shiloh church on N. Davidson circuit. I also want to thank all that have sent us Christmas greetings. Oh is it Christmas? Last year the smoke and ashes was mingled with my Christmas joys. The saddest thing ever has come into my life is to give up wife and home. We may never need another home down here, but I do thank God we have a home in heaven. I wrote Dr. Dixon that I would try to take care of my little band at Charlotte this year if I did not get too far away, and if the finance did not give out. They are going ahead with the work; they have floored the Chapel. Brother G. W. Stegall and his wife and sister Myrtle Nates came over Sunday evening to see us and paid $25.00 on the back salary for which they have our heart-felt thanks. I have been absent for three Sundays. They asked me to try and be with them Friday night at the Christmas tree, and next Sunday at 11 a.m. I told them I would be with them if I could. I hope our people at large will chip in and help pay for the lot so we can go in the Loan and build the church. May our Father bless you all. Pray for us.

Yours in His name,

D. A. BRASWELL.

He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.—Jesus.

MARRIED

Jackson-Oaks

A simple but beautiful wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, when their daughter, Miss Johnsie Louise Oakes, and Mr. Spencer W. Jackson were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the former pastor of the bride, Dr. George R. Brown of Reidsville. The living room in which the marriage was celebrated was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, and the bride and groom entered together unattended, and stood before an improvised altar. Just before the ceremony a sister of the bride, Miss Elizabeth Oakes, accompanied by Miss Margaret Thompson, sang "Because" very sweetly.

Mrs. Jackson is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Oakes, and is handsome and attractive, while the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Jackson of Washington, D. C. He has made his home in High Point for the past two years, and has become popular with a large circle of friends. He holds a position with J. W. Sechrest and Son, funeral directors.

After a wedding journey to New York and Washington, the young couple will live in this city. A host of friends extend congratulations and best wishes for a happy married life.

Mauldin-Little

Miss May Belle Mauldin and Mr. Floyd Little, members of prominent families of Stanley county, were happily married at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. M. R. Mauldin, of South High Point, on December 1, at eight o'clock, the writer performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Little is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ros Mauldin, a young lady of beautiful character and strong personality. She had been a resident of High Point for a few weeks before their marriage.

Mr. Little is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Little. He is a ministerial student in High Point College doing second year work. He is a jolly good fellow and liked by all the boys in school. We shall miss him very much in the dormitory.

After the ceremony they went immediately to their home on English street.

Mr. Little is going to continue his college course.

T. GLENN MADISON.

—"Questions and Answers on the Federal Reserve System" is the title of a little book just published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va.

It gives up-to-date, authoritative information, not easily obtainable elsewhere, in non-technical form on the functions and activities of the Federal reserve banks and it explains many provisions of the Federal Reserve Act and regulations of the Federal Reserve Board that are of interest to bankers, business men generally, and particularly to students of banking and economics.

—More than 2,000 young people have already registered for the thirty-first International Christian Endeavor Convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, July 2-7, 1927.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Welch Memorial.—We are indeed glad to have Pastor Pierce back with us. He has served us splendidly for two years.

On the first Sunday after conference we began a revival meeting with Rev. C. E. Ridge doing the preaching; the meeting was a great success. The church was revived and many souls were saved.

Our Sunday school is getting along nicely under the leadership of Mr. C. R. Ward. We are planning a program for Christmas.

Our Ladies' Aid held its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. G. E. McDowell with a large attendance.

We are getting along nicely with our Home and Foreign Missionary Societies which were organized in October.

We have two Christian Endeavor Societies which are doing a good work.

Johnnie Easter and Luther Medlin represented our church at the Older Boys' Conference at Winston-Salem.

MRS. D. G. HIATT, Reporter.

Fallston.—Our hearts were made sad on the morning of December 7, when Jesus came and took one of our most faithful and devoted members, Mrs. F. H. Lackey, to be with him. Mrs. Lackey professed faith in Christ when a young woman and was a sincere Christian and an active church member. She was married to Dr. F. H. Lackey about eight years ago. To this union were born five children, three sons and two daughters.

In her home she was an affectionate sacrificing mother and wife; as a neighbor and friend she was jovial and kind. To the sick she was always tender and helpful. During her illness, painful though it was, she was patient and prayerful.

On the following Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock the funeral service was held at Friendship. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, in the presence of a number of sympathizing friends and neighbors.

Her body was laid to rest in the Friendship cemetery. The flowers which so beautifully marked her grave were significant of the life she is now enjoying. She departed this life at the age of 35.

Our tenderest sympathies are extended to her family and relatives. We pray that they may look to God for comfort and strength, and so live that they may meet her face to face. at the "Dawning of the Day."

KATIE LEE CLAY.

South Lexington.—The Sunday school in our church has been climbing in attendance for several Sundays. There were 176 present last Sunday which was an increase of six over the previous Sunday. Splendid work is being done by some of the members of the school in bringing new members. Fine interest is being shown in the work of the Sunday school.

Pastor Ridge preached three times last Sunday, filling his appointment at Mount Carmel in the afternoon at three o'clock. He preached morning and night at South Lexington. This writer did not hear the morning discourse, and cannot give an account of the service. The night service was fairly well attended, considering the cold weather. The text of the sermon was Luke 2:7, "There was no room for them in the inn." It was the pastor's Christmas sermon, and was a very helpful discourse. Among the things discussed in the sermon were, the mission of Christ, the gift of God, the sacrifice in effecting the plan of salvation, human sacrifice essential in entering heaven, the preaching of the gospel is not a sacrifice but a joy, in many places there is no room for Christ, hearts of people filled with worldliness and sin, having no room for the Savior, Christ is the greatest Prince, best friend of humanity. Pastor Ridge declared: "There are three things God cannot do; He cannot lie, He cannot erase that which He has written, and He cannot see the sins of people through the blood of his Only Begotten Son, Jesus Christ."

The Christmas program will be rendered at South Lexington church Friday night of this week at 7 o'clock. A very interesting program has been prepared under the direction of the committee on training the children for the service. A Christmas tree and treat for every member of the Sunday school will be features of the service.

We were glad to have with us in the service last Sunday night Brother W. V. Hatley, his wife and children, of Friendship church in Stanly county. They came to Lexington on a brief visit with Pastor Ridge and wife.

Preaching services will be held next Sunday as usual, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Lebanon Church.—On Saturday, December 25th, at 7 o'clock p.m., we expect to have a Christmas tree and hear the children's Christmas program. We are using the educational literature furnished by our M. P. Board and will take an offering for education. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

We are, indeed, pleased to have our former pastor, Rev. Mr. Hutton, return and we are beginning a new conference year with good resolutions, hoping for a better year, broader work, and happier results than we have ever had before.

To the kind editor, and to all the readers of the Herald we extend greetings with best wishes for success and happiness throughout the coming year. REPORTER.

Asheboro.—Notwithstanding the fact that yesterday was the coldest day of the winter so far we had fairly good congregations both at the morning and the evening services. One pleasing thing about the evening services for the past several weeks has been the large number of young people. In the afternoon yesterday quite a large number of our people went out to Giles Chapel to the funeral of Brother Calvin M. Ferree.

Our Brotherhood held a very successful meeting recently with Prof. P. E. Lindley of High Point College as the principal speaker. Brother Lindley delivered a very timely address on, Changing Gears. He is a great favorite with our people and they are always glad for him to come.

The Christmas sermon will be delivered next Sunday morning and the Christmas service by the Sunday school will be given next Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Miss Mabel Cox is heading up the Committee for the service. The committee has been greatly handicapped in their work, due to the fact that the literature for the service was sent to Asheville and had to be returned to Concord and then reshipped here. But we are hoping to be able to have a good service yet. The offering will be applied on General Conference Budget.

On Friday of this week at two o'clock we are to entertain the small children of our Sunday school and their parents. The little folks will be given a treat.

There has been a good deal of sickness among our people, however, none of them are seriously ill at the present time.

The sympathy of our people is extended to two of our members, Miss Bertha and Tyson Ferree in the death of their father, Brother C. M. Ferree. J. E. PRITCHARD.

Yarborough Charge.—Quarterly conference was held Sunday, December 19. The following officers were elected: Stewards—L. E. Yarborough, E. M. Hipp, L. Yarborough, G. L. Gossett; Church Trustees—R. G. Watson, L. E. Yarborough, L. B. Gossett; Parsonage Trustees—L. Yarborough, R. K. Wilson, W. P. Dickson; J. E. Bobs, church treasurer; E. M. Hipp, church clerk.

We are planning for a good year's work.

W. P. DICKSON.

Union Grove, Forsyth Circuit.—We feel very fortunate in having Rev. Mr. Curry back with us as pastor for another year. He preaches for us twice a month, first and third Sunday at three o'clock. We have been busy if we haven't reported very often. Our Sunday school is not very large, but faithful under our leader, Mr. S. L. Tesh, Superintendent.

We had our Thanksgiving service the night of November 25th at which a good crowd was present; all brought some kind of country produce and a silver offering was taken for the Children's Home. We are having prayer meeting on the second and fourth Sunday nights.

We are practicing for a Christmas program which we will render on Sunday afternoon, December 26th, at 3 o'clock. We extend a cordial invitation to all who will come.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. REPORTER.

Mizpah, Haw River Charge.—We had a great year last year. The Lord was graciously good to us by giving spiritual blessings and material blessings also. Our Sunday school is doing very good work under the leadership of Mr. Roy Stewart. We hope the influence of our Sunday school reaches more hearts and lives than attend. Oh, if we could just get every family in the neighborhood to attend Sunday school what a wonderful Sunday school we would have. Our mothers and fathers are to be congratulated for going with the children to Sunday school rather than sending them.

Our church officials were elected before conference: very few changes were made as we considered the old ones good. Gilmer Huffines, M. L. Wagoner, and George Diamond are our stewards and better would be hard to find. Every one that needs money and wants money does not know how to get it; but these boys, with good backing, put Mizpah on the honor roll.

We were very glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Reed sent back to us. I do pray that the good people of Haw River charge are going to break the link in the history chain of changing preachers every year or two. Brother Reed has given us three unusually good sermons since conference. He has fought the devil hard the three years he has been on the work, but I believe he has come back this time determined to fight sin and the devil harder than ever.

Our prayer meetings mean much to our people.

We were very glad indeed for Mrs. Dewey Huffines to join our church. She comes to us from the M. E. Church.

The Sunday school is planning a treat for its members Christmas.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to each and every reader.

MRS. FRED E. JONES, Reporter.

Cid, Denton Circuit.—We are expecting our pastor, Rev. M. C. Henderson, on the first Sunday in January at 2 o'clock. The Sunday school scholars are to receive their treat on next Friday. We now have on roll 146. We elected on last Sunday new officers and teachers; to-wit: Mr. Ben Parrish, superintendent; Mrs. N. W. Lanier, associate superintendent; Mr. J. D. Wright, secretary and treasure; Miss Fleta Hughes, organist; Mr. M. J. Wright, teacher of senior class. Mrs. N. W. Lanier, assistant; Mr. C. M. Grover, teacher of Bible class; Mr. Ben Parrish, assistant; Miss Loula Harrison, teacher of junior class, Mr. C. O. Leonard, assistant; Miss Minnie Lambeth, teacher of no. 1 class, Mrs. M. J. Wright, assistant.

Every one of the officers and teachers were out today to fill their places.

Mr. C. O. Leonard, our faithful superintendent for three years, resigned. We regret to give him up.

Brother Leonard has been preaching for us once a month. So we hope to have his cooperation with us, as usual.

The cottage prayer service last night at Mr. Strotherman's was well attended. It goes to Mr. Ernest Baucom's next Saturday night. These services have been wonderfully attended and good interest has been manifested.

There are to be several Christmas trees with entertainments around here, so we didn't try to have one. In my last writeup there were two mistakes—one in speaking of contest. It should have said Blanche Wright, instead of Hight, and where it said Lewis it should have been Lanier. The writeups to the Herald in the beginning of the new year have been very interesting and encouraging. The Herald is such a welcome visitor in my home.

Little Kate Wright has been sick for over two weeks.

Mr. Johnnie Gallimore, of near Piney Grove, has bought a lot near Thomasville and has torn down the parsonage at Piney Grove and built a house. He intends moving to it soon. He has rented his farm to his son.

Denton Church.—Rev. M. C. Henderson gave us a sermon last Sunday which was enjoyed by all. He has been busy the past week working for the church paper and getting members for the church and Sunday school.

On Sunday morning before Sunday school time he made four visits, inviting people to come out to church.

The following were received in church at the morning hour: Rev. M. C. Henderson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Weaver, Mr. I. M. Sexton, Mr. W. G. Morris, Mrs. C. G. Loflin.

Our Sunday school is still on the gaining side. Attendance a year ago was 64; attendance yesterday, 70; offering a year ago, $2.12; offering yesterday, $2.24.

Ladies' Aid are going to put a basket in homes in our town, showing the love they have. Best wishes to the Herald for a Merry Christmas. REPORTER.

December 20.

Orange Charge, Announcements.—Rev. G. W. Holmes will fill my appointments fourth Sunday in December as follows: Hebron, 11 o'clock a.m.; Chestnut Ridge, 3 p.m.

The pastor and family are planning to spend Christmas in Sumter, S. C., with Mrs. Williams' people.

We wish each and everyone a joyful Christmas, and a Happy New Year.

Communion services in January as follows: Union Grove, first Sunday, 11:00 a.m.; Chestnut Ridge, second Sunday, 11:00 a.m.; Hebron, second Sunday, 3:00 p.m.; Efland, third Sunday 11:00 a.m.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Halifax.—We held our first quarterly conference at Ringwood church, Friday, December 18th. On account of the extremely cold weather the attendance was not what it ought to have been, but the business was transacted in a spirit of love and harmony, and some resolutions adoptel which if carried out will mean much to the work.

The people on Halifax are still pounding their pastor, and pounding with the right kind of stuff.

Since our report of the Eden pounding Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sykes and Mr. B. F. Willey, Jr., sent appreciated gifts.

While we were in Rocky Mount last Wednesday Charley Knight, Mrs. Willey Knight, Mrs. E. T. Ellington, and Miss Kathleen Shearin came from Hollister church with their car loaded with good things for the inmates of the parsonage.

We found the following names on the articles: Mr. and Mrs. Luther Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Egerton, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Shearin, Mary Lou Shearin, Kathleen Shearin, Mrs. J. W. Shearin, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ellington, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Knight, Mrs. Nannie Howerton, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hardy, Lee Hardy, Mrs. T. C. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gallaway, Mrs. Mary Hardy, Mrs. Van Gardner, Mrs. Ella Crawley, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Ellington, Miss Laura Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Hamlet.

Harmony church, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper, and Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Avent gave us gifts. We want to thank every one for this expression of kindness, and we wish for you, a Merry Christmas.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

High Point.—Last Wednesday evening the Mission Study Class took the place of the mid-week prayer service, and the third chapter of the study book, "Moslem Women," was given by Rev. E. L. Ballard in an interesting manner. After the service, a number of those present went to the parsonage laden with a "pounding" for the two pastors and their wives.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning Rev. P. E. Lindley delivered a sermon appropriate to the season, "The Coming of Christmas." The two pastors and their wives, Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard and Rev. and Mrs. P. E. Lindley, delighted the audience with a beautiful quartette.

At the evening service a delightful program of music was rendered by the choir, and this has become an annual custom. Three lovely Anthems were sung, "While Shepherds Watched," "O Lovely Voices of the Sky," and "The Christmas Herald." The lovely Cantata, "The Adoration" by Nevin was rendered in an admirable manner by the choir assisted by Mr. Arthur Fidler. The solo parts were sung by Mrs. J. H. Allred, Messrs. Clarence Schultheiss and Arthur Fidler. This evening of beautiful Christmas music was greatly enjoyed by the large congregation.

The Christian Endeavor meetings on Monday evening are being well attended by a large number of young folks. Last Monday evening a social was enjoyed, and this evening the topic, "How can we express the Christmas Spirit," is being discussed with Miss Myrtle Davis, leader.

The annual Christmas entertainment for the Sunday school will be held Thursday evening, and the pageant, "Gifts to the King," will be presented. A treat will be given to the younger members of the school. Some changes have been made in the officers of the school, and they are as follows: Superintendent, E. Lester Ballard; Assistant Superintendent, Arnold J. Koonce; Secretary, W. C. Hammond, Assistant Secretary, Chas. C. Robbins, Jr.; Treasurer, J. B. Spencer; Librarian, Miss Mamie Hough; Superintendent Intermediate Department, R. C. Boyd; Superintendent Junior Department, Miss Mary Shephard; Superintendent Primary Department, Miss Blanche York, Superintendent Beginners Department, Mrs. E. L. Ballard; Superintendent Cradle Roll, Mrs. H. C. Fogleman, and Superintendent Home Department, Mrs. M. R. W. Green.

A number of new stewards have been added to the list, which now comprises 44 members. Lewis E. Teague is chairman.

High Point College classes closed their work Saturday at noon for the Christmas recess of two weeks, and Faculty and students dispersed to their homes. Dean Young left for her home in Henderson, N. C., Dean Yarborough went to Hendersonville, N. C., Miss McIntire to Asheville, N. C. Prof. and Mrs. J. D. Hardy to Westminster, Md., and Mr. Mourane to Durham, N. C. Miss Idol will spend the holidays with her sister, Mrs. S. S. Coe in High Point, Miss Williams will go to Greensboro to visit her parents, Prof. and Mrs. T. C. Johnson expect to spend a part of the time with relatives near Salisbury, and Coach Boylin is with the basketball team on a trip through Virginia. President Andrews, Prof. P. E. Lindley, Prof. P. S. Kennett, Prof. Allred, Mrs. H. A. White will remain at their homes here. Mrs. C. L. Whitaker will go to Greensboro, and Mrs. Street to Charlottesville, Va., Prof. McCanless will remain at home here.

Holt and Garland McPherson, who are students at the State university, and Rupert T. Pickens, who is a Law student there, are at home for the Christmas holidays.

Former Salem students were pleased to hear Bishop Edward Rondthaler of Winston-Salem last Sunday morning. The Bishop is now 84 years of age, but vigorous in mind and body. He is greatly loved not only by Moravians, but by a large number of women throughout the South, who were former pupils. The Moravians are building up a congregation in High Point, and hope to have a church of their own in the future. REPORTER.

Haw River Charge.—The first quarterly conference was held at Fairgrove Church Saturday, December 18th, at 1:30 p.m. Pastor Reed read the 23d Psalm and the entire body sang one song after which the meeting was open for business.

The Secretary, H. G. Jones, called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. Every church was well represented, the attendance being larger than usual. All reports were good. The reports from the Sunday school superintendents and teachers showed that our rural churches have made progress in Sunday school work in the last few years. Dr. Johnson and Mrs. Rupert Butler from Midway, and Mrs. Fred Jones from Mizpah were the teachers to make reports and offer some helpful suggestions.

I am sure every member enjoys a meeting like this one. The spirit of the meeting was just lovely. The business was transacted quietly and in a prayerful manner.

The next quarterly conference will be held at Mizpah. A MEMBER.

Zoar, Mecklenburg Charge.—We enjoyed Brother Totten's message very much today. We have learned that he is a faithful worker. Our Sunday school is very good, also collections. Ladies' Aid society was organized today: first meeting will be at Mrs. R. J. Walker's, first Sunday in January at one o'clock. Collection was taken for the Children's Home, $4.20. We are hoping to have a successful year. BETTIE JONES, Reporter.

Whitaker Charge.—The work on this charge moves steadily onward. We are not doing any thing which would cause our fame to be proclaimed from the house top; but we are putting our sincere, earnest efforts into every phase of church work, so that each phase may meet with the greatest success possible. While some phases of the work are more important than others, yet we believe that the entire program of our local and general conferences should receive our loyal support and heartiest co-operation. We have set our faces towards this goal and trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength; looking unto Him for leadership and guidance; depending upon Him for grace and power; we will give of our strength, zeal, talent, ability to reach our goal.

Our Sunday school in the Whitakers' church is doing good work. The interest and attendances are good. Through the courtesy and kindness of the High School Superintendent we have access to a Mimeograph which aids a great deal in many phases of the work. We have begun to print an order of Worship for our Sunday school, which order will be changed from to Sunday to Sunday. This we believe will add greater interest to Sunday school work. It is also exceedingly important that the entire Sunday school enter into the worship program because this part of the service not only expresses our praise and gratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect gift, but it prepares the heart to receive the word of God while in the class room.

Our Christian Endeavor societies are doing fair work. We observed Dixie Endeavor Day. A splendid program was rendered and an offering was taken to aid Christian Endeavor in Dixie.

On the third Sunday of this month at 7:30 we presented the Pageant "Gifts to the King." Mrs. J. Henry Cutchin was general director of the pageant. It was well rendered, which means that it was impressive and beautiful. A very large audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the service and one individual said, "It was touching and impressive," while another said, "It was one of the best services ever held in Whitakers."

May this be the best year for all churches since the beginning of our conference and may that peace which passeth all understanding abide in every heart, especially during this blessed season of the year.

FRED W. PASCHAL, Pastor.

Vance Charge.—Twenty-one subscriptions this week for the Herald. Thus far sixty-five have been sent in. Harris Chapel still leads with 28 subscriptions, closely followed by Flat Rock with 23; then Gillburg with seven; next, Spring Valley with four, while New Hope has the rest. To the chairman of each committee, please get in touch with your committee and see to it that every home is worked, being in mind that this campaign closes next Saturday, December 25th.

Yours in the name of Christ.

M. P. CHAMBLISS.

Roberta.—Every phase of the work is moving along nicely. Rev. Mr. Short is a great worker and we feel very fortunate in having this good man and his family in our midst. He always brings us a helpful message.

We were glad, indeed, to have a male quartet from Charlotte worship with us Sunday morning. They sang several beautiful selections for us.

Our Sunday school is steadily growing. Even though winter is here the attendance and offerings are good. The Sunday school is now practicing the pageant entitled "Gifts To The King" which will be given on Christmas eve.

A Merry Christmas and a happy New Year to the readers of the Herald.

REPORTER.

Shoals, Pinnacle and Mt. Zion Circuit.—The last few days have been very busy. We are going to have an entertainment and, of course, a Christmas tree.

Our Sunday school is better than it has been, due largely to the contest our superintendent, Mr. J. P. Owen, put on to see which class could read the most chapters in the Bible every week. Sure, we all want to get the treat promised, but you other classes will have to "get up and get," if you expect to beat us.

How many of you folks are expecting "Santa?" Well, I am. I sure hope he will come to see you and fill your stockings to the brim.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kiger are the very happy parents of a sweet little daughter.

Best Christmas wishes and love to everybody. REPORTER.

Pilot Church.—Our pastor, Rev. A. L. Hunter filled his appointment Sunday afternoon with a good sermon as usual. It was decided by quarterly conference not to have preaching services but once a month during January and February.

We expect to have our Christmas entertainment on Christmas eve night.

Wishing all the readers of the Herald "a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

MRS. P. L. ASHBURN, Reporter.

Randolph.—All our churches are going to hold Christmas exercises on Friday evening, December 24th.

Through a mistake, last week's Herald stated that on November 25th, I married Lonnie Holt and Elaine Coble. It should have read Lonnie Holt and Elsie Coble.

A. O. LINDLEY.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for December 26—The Past Year—Its Lessons; the New—Its Possibilities. Deut. 8:1-6; Phil. 3:13, 14.

Topic for January 2.—Being True to Our Covenant with Christ. Heb. 8:10-12.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for December 26—Quarter's Review.

Lesson for January 2.—The Christian a Follower of Jesus. Mark 1:16-20; 2:13-17; 1 John 2:6.

—Dr. W. C. Linville was elected superintendent of the State Hospital for the Negro Insane at Goldsboro, by the Board of Directors, at a meeting, on December 8. Dr. Linville, who has been assistant superintendent for 12 years, succeeds Dr. W. W. Faison, who died on October 23.

—The Boy's Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Americus, Georgia, was organized seven years ago, and since that time not a single meeting has been missed. The room where the meetings are held can only accommodate forty, so there is always a long waiting list for membership of the society. One very fine piece of community work which they did was to originate the idea of conducting civic memorial services to plant trees on the court house lawn to the memory of the World War dead of Sumter County, Georgia.

—One hundred seventy-five men are now enrolled in the San Quentin Prison Christian Endeavor Society. During the past six months 600 men have been sent to the prison, and during the same length of time 60 members have been added to the Christian Endeavor Society, about half of them being new converts. The Christian Endeavor Union of California is planning to provide each inmate of the prison with a box of candy and a copy of the Book of Proverbs, this year at Christmas.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Resolutions of Respect

With our hearts full of sadness, we, the members of the adult Bible class of the First M. P. church of Concord, N. C., record the death of Mrs. Walter Ritch, who was one of our ever ready and faithful members.

Be it Resolved:

1. That we submit to God's will, as thus we pray, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

2. That we resolve to live in readiness unto death, then we will meet Sister Ritch in that bright beyond where parting is no more.

3. That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband, and commend him to our heavenly Father, who alone can give comfort and consolation in all trouble.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Adult Bible class, a copy sent to the M. P. Herald, a copy sent to the Concord Daily Tribune and a copy sent to the bereaved husband.

"Servant of God, well done.
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

MRS. CLARA CARTER,
MR. RAY SIDES,
MR. B. F. WADDELL,
MRS. LOTTIE F. BROWN.

Ritch

On November 29, 1926, death visited our community and took one of our best and most devoted Christian women, Mrs. Walter Ritch.

She has been in declining health for more than a year. About one week before her death she became very ill and continued so until her death. Through her long suffering she spent most of her time faithfully reading her Bible and praying. We learned by visiting this dear woman that she prayed without ceasing, as we are required to do. Still she found it necessary to hide at a secret place every day as long as the Lord gave her physical strength and called on her Maker as long as an hour each time and poured out her heart to Him in behalf of herself and her friends. We miss her very much in our community as a neighbor; also in our church as an active member. In her class is a vacant place; we miss her very much. For the last several months Mrs. Ritch was not able to attend church, but she loved to talk of the good things there. She loved to talk to those who came in contact with her about salvation and always desired the Lord's children to remember her in their prayers.

She was faithful to the end and received a crown of Righteousness.

ONE WHO KNEW AND LOVED HER.

Calvin M. Ferree died at his home in Asheboro last Friday. He was a member of Giles Chapel church where the funeral was conducted by Rev. J. E. Pritchard on Saturday. Brother Ferree was 72 years old. We believe he was a brother of Dr. T. T. Ferree, who was a minister in our Conference and for a time its president.

Thompson

Mrs. Mary Ellen Fox Thompson, wife of G. W. Thompson, passed from this world November 20, 1926, at the age of 69 years. The following near relatives remain to mourn the death: her husband, G. W. Thompson, five children, Mary, John, Ben, Lelah, and Otis, all of Graham save the latter who resides in Burlington; one sister, Mrs. Phil Albright of Snow Camp; two half brothers, Will, and George Fox both of Winston-Salem; one half sister, Mrs. Roxie Beck of Norfolk, Va, and one step-son, Tom Thompson of North Dakota. The funeral was conducted at Cedar Cliff church by Rev. G. W. Holmes, assisted by Rev. H. L. Isley and her pastor. Interment was held in the church cemetery. Mrs. Thompson was an extraordinarily good step-mother. She was a regular church attendant and lived during the week a noble christian life. She has been a faithful member of Cedar Cliff church since her early childhood. J. E. C.

Rich

Mary Emily Rich, almost sixty years of age, departed this life early Monday morning, November 29th. She was married to J. W. Rich in 1902, who survives her. She also leaves three brothers; Thomas Harrington, Charlotte, N. C., John Harrington, Rockingham, N. C., Fulton Harrington, Mooresville, N. C. One half brother, George Austin, Norwood, N. C. Three sisters, Mrs. Hamp Sullivan, Mrs. W. E. Spear of Concord, N. C., Mrs. J. G. Tucker of Wadesboro, N. C. Two half sisters, Mrs. Wesley Little and Mrs. R. L. Philomon of Concord.

Thirty years ago she became a Christian and thenceforth lived a beautiful and consistent life. She has for years been a valued member of First Methodist Protestant church of Concord. The church and community will feel keenly the loss by her going home. But our loss must be her gain.

The funeral was conducted from her late home in Concord by her pastor, Rev. G. H. Hendry, assisted by the Rev. Lawrence C. Little, a former pastor, in the presence of a great gathering of friends and sorrowing loved ones. G. H. HENDRY.

Hallamon

Norman D. Hallamon, aged two years, eight months and twelve days, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hallamon, of Burlington, N. C., died November 8th after an illness of only two days. Norman was a bright boy and his going has created a vacancy that only divine grace can fill. The funeral was conducted from the home by this writer in the presence of a number of sympathizing neighbors and friends, and his body was laid to rest in the family burying plot at Fair View church, Ossipee. We implore the comfort of God for the bereaved. G. H. HENDRY.

Loy

Miss Mamie Catherine Loy, the seventeen-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Loy, fell asleep in Jesus on December 5th. She leaves to mourn the loss her parents, three brothers, D. L. Loy of Atlanta, Ga., B. M. Loy of Graham, and R. E. Loy of Charlotte, N. C., and a number of relatives and friends. Miss Loy was a member of the Senior class of Alexander Wilson High School and was planning to enter High Point College next fall. The members of her class acted as flower girls and pall bearers. The funeral was conducted at Mt. Hermon church December 6th, by her pastor, assisted by Rev. S. W. Taylor. Prof. White spoke, expressing the loss of the school. The entire school turned out to pay her their last respects. After the funeral the remains were laid to rest in Mt. Hermon cemetery. Miss Loy has been a member of Mt. Hermon church since her early childhood. She has been very active in Christian Endeavor, Sunday and church services. She was one of the best loved students of Alexander Wilson School. We feel that the world has had a great loss, but she, we are sure, has gained all. J. ELWOOD CARROLL, Pastor.

Underwood

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Underwood, came to the end of its life on

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

December 12, 1926, at the age of three months and two weeks. Though all was done that loving hearts and consecrated lives could do, its spirit went home to be with our Heavenly Father. The grand-parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Underwood and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Foust, all of Grays Chapel community, where the funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. F. L. Gibbs of Liberty. May the God of all grace comfort all the bereaved.

Sharpe

Mr. Joel K. P. Sharpe left his abode here, to live with the Father, on November 28, 1926. He was born February 25, 1845 near Burlington. During his young life he married Sophia M. Garrett who now survives him. No children were born to this union. Until a few years ago Brother Sharpe was one of the leading merchants and farmers of Alamance county. His age caused him to give up the merchantile business and devote his entire time to farming. He was very active even until the very last. He was mortally wounded when struck by a car. Brother Sharpe left an almost perfect Sunday school and prayer meeting attendance record at Friendship church where he has been a church member since he was only a boy. He has helped several ministerial students, both in our conference and other conferences, to get an education; much of the aid was in the form of gifts. For many good reasons we hate to lose this God-fearing Christian man, but he has played his day well and may we take him as an example of one who lived for others. He is survived by one brother, Joel J. Sharpe of Burlington, and one sister, Polly Isley of Graham. The funeral was conducted at Friendship, December 6th, by Rev. W. F. Ashburn and the pastor. J. E. C.

—Brother W. J. Williams, of Greensboro, has moved to the new home of his son-in-law, Mr. Pickard. He wishes to rent his house near the end of the car-line on Asheboro street.

—Wills Book Stores will move to a new building on South Greene street. The present building has been sold to Mr. Meyers, the merchant.

—Rev. D. A. Braswell should be addressed at Concord, N. C.

—Mrs. L. W. Jobe has returned home from the hospital.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER

PLATED WARE :: CHINA

CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING

of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN

Printers of THE HERALD

1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193

GREENSBORO, N. C.

VANCE LEADS AGAIN THIS WEEK

Brother Chambliss and his people on Vance charge head the procession again this week in the number of subscriptions sent in. We thank them for a check for $31.50 on subscription accounts. Brother B. M. Williams and his people of Orange come next. Others follow, and we thank all. Next month is the special month designated by the Annual Conference for a campaign for Herald subscriptions and also for subscriptions to our other church papers. By a general effort we expect our subscription list as well as that of the Methodist Protestant and that of the Methodist Recorder and that of the Women's Missionary Record to grow materially.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. R. C. Stubbins, $1.50; Rev. N. H. Neece, $1.50; Mrs. M. A. Sillery, $3; Rev. W. T. Totten, $3; Rev. C. H. Whitaker, $1.50; Rev. C. H. Hill, $1.50; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, $31.50; Rev. B. M. Williams, $10.50; Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, $3; Rev. H. L. Isley, $3.

—The Junior C. E. Society at Darlington, South Carolina, has furnished a room in which to hold their meetings and have almost paid for the piano to use in their room.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS

For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

—The town of Liberty has some enterprising citizens who in a full page-advertisement in the Daily News are calling attention to their town as a place to live and invest money in business. Water, light, and sewage systems have been installed. Among the attractions mentioned are "Hearty handshake churches." Liberty is a good town and will be bigger and better.

—Rev. J. W. Wellons will be 101 years old on January 1st. He is in the Home for the Aged in Greensboro of which institution he was appointed chaplain some time ago. He is a minister of the Christian church and has been a man of great and good influence in that denomination.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER, EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

Pres Elderdice 5dec'7
Westminster MD

VOLUME XXXIII. GREENSBORO, N. C., DECEMBER 30, 1926 NUMBER 8

Why We Dread Death

We have an instinctive dread of death. The Creator has implanted this instinct in our being as a means of preventing the easy sacrifice of life on our part. If we had no such instinct, we would fall an easy prey to some of the many forces that have in them the power of death over us. This instinct is a means of self-preservation that God has armed us with. Without it we could not carry out God's program for us in relation to the present state of existence. Life would end for us before God's time. But as God's time approaches for the end of life, men find this instinctive dread of death passing away. It is succeeded by a reconciliation to the thought of death, and that by a desire for death. The gateway between this world and the next which once looked so dreadful begins to look inviting. The instinct which held us to the present life gives way to a higher instinct which makes us long for the immortal life.

But there is another cause of the dread of death which does not thus yield and pass away. It is a dread that springs from the consciousness that the soul is not at peace with God. The sense of guilt before God, the consciousness of unforgiven sin, with the thought of God as a moral judge, makes the prospect of death most dreadful. And the dread grows greater rather than less as the time approaches. Men feel that it is a fearful thing for a sinful man to fall into the hands of a justly offended God. The sting which makes death so dreadful is sin—sin that calls for punishment. This dreadful sting can be removed in only one way—by the agency of Jesus Christ. What a service it is that Jesus renders when He does this for us. There is no other way, and all men should be most earnestly pointed to this way, the only way of peace and hope and life. And innumerable are the testimonies of men who have tried this way and found that by it the last enemy is indeed destroyed. God no longer appears as an angry judge, but as a loving Father. Dread of justice gives way to hope of mercy. Because Jesus suffered for us, the just for the unjust, God can still be just and at the same time gracious and merciful. We have hope instead of fear, and our hope is based on nothing else than Jesus' blood and righteousness.

Rev. F. C. Klein Called Home

One of the surprises of the week is a telegram reporting the death of Rev. F. C. Klein, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church. He died at his home in Berwyn, Md., on Monday morning at 4 o'clock. The funeral was held at Starr Church, Baltimore, on Wednesday at 10:30 A. M.

Dr. Klein was one of the most loyal, faithful, and useful of the denomination's public servants. He was widely known and we think universally liked. He was one of the earliest missionaries that our church sent to Japan, we believe the very first male missionary. He continued to the end of his life to labor for our mission fields. The Methodist Protestant Church will miss his presence in its annual conference sessions and his labors for the cause of foreign missions.

What Will the New Year Bring Forth?

It seems natural to ask this question as we stand on the eve of the new year. No two years are quite alike in their deliverances. The author of Ecclesiastes was not quite right when he said, "There is nothing new under the sun." There is much repetition in the course of time, much going round and round, but there is also much moving forward, much progress. What new discoveries, what new inventions, will 1927 witness? No one can tell, but all can reasonably expect that there will be progress in science and art. New buildings will go up, new businesses will be projected, it may be that new states and new churches will be formed, or new combinations formed of states or churches already existing. Marriages may be expected between people who were never married before. Death no doubt will transfer many from this sphere of existence to that which God has prepared beyond.

But when we stand rapt in wonder trying to peer into the new year, are we not overlooking a principal factor that is to determine what the new year will bring forth? Do we sufficiently realize that we ourselves can largely and will largely determine what the year shall bring forth? God has given to every man the making of the world; not in an absolute sense, but quite really in a relative sense. Each of us has the making of his own world. There are enough worlds for each of us to have one of his own. We fashion our own worlds. They are what we make them. In 1927 we may if we will reshape our world and make it more to our liking. The wisest and best people are those who take their worlds as the old year gives them, and try in the new year to transform them and make them the best possible.

Instead of standing in helpless wonder before the new year, should we not rather gird ourselves with the firm resolve to make our best impress on the world of 1927? New year's resolutions of the right sort are not only in order, but are demanded of us if we are to measure up. When your friend wishes you a happy new year, he is wishing that you will consecrate yourself to the part that is yours in the situation in which you daily find yourself. Not only may the whole year be made productive of much good for you, but each day may be made to yield a glad harvest. We live not in years, but in moments. Fill each moment with beneficent effort, and the year cannot fail to have a record of worthy achievement and to show a promise of enduring reward.

—We feel sorry for our friends who invested money in Florida and lost it. Perhaps they did wrong in investing it; that is, it may be that they yielded to the desire to get something for nothing, or at least more for less. If so, they should take their punishment as just. The other fellow got something for nothing and they got nothing for something. No, that is not quite correct. They got an experience which may in the long run be worth more than the money they paid for it. Before you enter a game, it is well to inquire whether it is a worthy game, and then, if it is, consider further whether you know how to play the game.

—We covet for all our readers in the new year just before us the highest and best success possible.

AN APPRECIATION

Mrs. Jane A. Gordon, Corresponding Secretary Woman's Home Missionary Society

The Woman's Home Missionary Society has sustained a great loss in the passing of Mrs. Jane A. Gordon on December 6. For many years she has filled the important office of corresponding Secretary on the Board, and been a member of the Executive Committee elected quadrennially by the General Conference.

Of striking personality, and of dignified mien, Mrs. Gordon possessed qualities of magnetism and leadership that dominated important legislation enacted by the Board.

Resident in Pittsburgh, and cognizant of the need of Home Missionary service in a section of that city, Mrs. Gordon, securing the assistance of some of the leading members of the churches, founded the Pittsburgh Mission for Foreign-Speaking People. This seemed to instill the missionary spirit into her Branch, of which she was President for many years. Though considerable funds were required to maintain the Mission, Pittsburgh led all other Branches in the amount of apportionment for Pine Ridge.

We recall with pleasure her delight upon her first visit to the latter place,—with the fine, confident, reliable young people and with their splendid opportunities of life development and service.

Mrs. Gordon will not be with us in person in our counsels, but her influence has been such that everyone who has passed her way has been made finer, more competent for service, and more fit for the Kingdom, by reason of the contact. As efficient an officer will not be found, but the same conditions continue to allure, we still hear the call, and the watchword of our Society is "Ever Onward."

To her bereaved family, we would tender our loving condolence, and pray that into her place will come an afterglow, radiant with "the light that never was on land or sea," and the Comforter will mitigate her loss, and reveal the eternal verities.

Thou wert the loveliest saint on earth,
With kindly hand and tale of mirth,
A monument to lofty deed,
A sacrifice to all in need.
O gracious lady, teacher, friend,

A leader thou unto the end!
For thou wert e'er the star of our thought,
Into By-Paths with want distraught
Thou guided, moved, illumed the Way.
Need we still ponder—Does it pay?
O gracious lady, loved and true,
Ten thousand women honor you!

Our theme—For Others—be it enshrined,
'Round every heart be it entwined.
The primal force comes from the heart
And many share the good we impart.
O thou, triumphant, glorious one!
A crown immortal thou hast won.

Mrs. H. E. Risler
Mrs. E. A. Craig
Mrs. W. B. Gilligan
Mrs. A. P. Badger
Central Committee of the Executive Committee.

THE DISCIPLES—A DENOMINATION FACING FORWARD

Luther K. Long

The Christian Century of Chicago—an undenominational journal of religion—is perhaps the most widely read and the most thoroughly pondered of all the products of the religious periodical press.

Its editorials are notable for their penetration, broad-mindedness, and fearlessness. It handles without gloves many questions on which there are marked differences of opinion and it succeeds, usually, in carrying conviction to the minds of its readers.

Historically, this publication had its origin with the Disciples, and its leading editor is still connected with that denomination—though many churches are now represented on its editorial staff.

Just recently the Disciples held their annual convention in Memphis, Tennessee. The editorial in The Christian Century, dealing with that convention and the denomination, contains several outstanding utterances worthy the attention of every Christian who has at heart the progress of the Kingdom and the unifying of the followers of Christ. The first paragraph has a fine ring to it:

"The saving salt in the program of the Disciples of Christ has always been their passion for the unity of believers. This conserving principle has carried them through several crises which threatened either a serious division in their own ranks or the petrifaction of the body into a petty denomination in bondage to its own traditions and patterns of thought. There have been times when, to an outside observer, it has appeared that this alleged passion was only a shibboleth and that their desire for unity was only a vulgar sectarian ambition to bring the rest of the world into conformity with their opinions and practices, though it may have been an accurate enough presentation of the attitude of some of their spokesmen. There is less truth in it now than there has been at any stage in their progress since the beginning of the movement. The recent convention at Memphis revealed the heartening fact that this old passion for unity glows brighter than ever, gradually freeing itself from some of the clouds which have obscured it."

An Ear-Full

The editor continues:

"Both the utterances which aroused most enthusiasm in the convention and the resolutions by which it defined its purposes had the irenic and the liberal tone. It listened with approval and appreciation to a presidential address which sounded the note of progress, stressed the great practical and spiritual objectives of our common Christianity, and was as completely devoid of the spirit of sectarian exclusiveness as any statement of the program of the church could possibly be. It heard with relish the forceful declaration of a visiting Methodist speaker that the production of Christian character is the only thing that counts in carrying out Christ's commission in the world. It rejected a resolution that the names of churches receiving the unimmersed be excluded from the year-book, and remained cold to the suggestion that their representatives be denied the right of voting in the convention. It received the findings of its own youth convention, that every church at home and abroad must have freedom of practice and experimentation, that qualifications for membership in native churches must be left to their own determination in the light of the New Testament, and that a sufficient basis for the unity of the church is belief in Christ, love to him, and a desire to follow him as Lord. Whether or not it either approved or completely recognized the implications of these statements, it enjoyed the flavor of them, and felt itself in sympathy with the attitudes which they expressed."

Tolerance

Many of us have thought of the Disciples as slow to recognize that others outside their fellowship could really be Christians—and some of their speakers have given us reasons for thus thinking. But listen to this editor as he speaks of the present spirit and tendencies of these people:

"The typical Disciple is tolerant of a much more liberal theology than he himself holds and of liberal practices in which he does not permit himself to indulge for fear of giving offence to brethren more conservative than himself. He even looks somewhat wistfully toward such liberal attitudes and, while he counsels patience, scarcely takes pains to conceal a certain envy of those who are less hindered by consideration for the weak brother. A veteran, forty years the pastor of a great church, publicly declared that he sees no obstacle to the reception of unimmersed Christians into Disciples churches, that any church which can adopt that practice without internal dissension and division has a perfect right to do so, and that he is restrained from it only by the fact that his own church would not be unanimous about it and 'schism is the great heresy.' A fraternal delegate from the English churches, which practice close communion as well as close membership, said that he can see no way to avoid giving up both if they give up either and added, in a frank and unpremeditated burst of longing in which his heart outran the logic of his theology, 'I wish I could conscientiously believe as you do.' "

Better Views of the Bible

The Disciples have been strict "restorationists." That is, they have been set on regaining for modern times the church of New Testament times—its organization, its ordinances, all its ways of doing things. Of course this restoration of the New Testament church has never been accomplished by any denomination, and it never will be accomplished—nor would the New Testament church, could it be restored, be found to fit the needs of all of Christ's people in all parts of the world. Jesus brought a spirit and a life to the world—not a fixed organization for all times and places. But let us see what the editor has to say:

"The modern view of the Bible leaves the scholar much less confident than the Bible student of a hundred years ago was of his ability to construct a perfectly accurate picture of the New Testament church and to prove that the structure of that church represented precisely the mind of Christ. It reads the words, 'and God said,' with a different meaning. It is not so sure that apostles, who were confessedly fallible when they spoke and acted, were infallible when they wrote, and consequently it does not consider their words as precisely equivalent to commands of Christ. It treasures increasingly the total picture of Christ in the gospels, but is not willing to pin its faith unreservedly to any particular sentence which is ascribed to him. It does not quote insolated texts so confidently as proofs of doctrines or as guarantees of the correctness of ordinances and forms of organization. . . . . Insofar, then, as the modern view of the Bible has gained acceptance among the Disciples, it has cut the ground from under the feet of those whose primary interest is in what they call 'the historic position of the Disciples'—meaning by that their historic program of restoration of a 'particular ecclesiastical order.' Those who are most interested in this are quite right in their assertion that modernism is at the root of the trouble which they see invading their Zion."

All of Us Read

It is next to impossible to keep a group of believers isolated. Strictly sectarian papers, schools, and church services, are at a discount. No organization can prevent its members from listening over the radio to all sorts of addresses and programs. Does this mean the liberalizing of the thinking of all the people? It certainly means that all denominationalists have at least the opportunity to come into contact with broadening ideas. How about the Disciples? The editor continues:

"Disciples, like other people, go to school and read books. They are not unaware of the currents of thought which move in the world today. In the last 30 years their colleges have advanced from the status of junior colleges to that of real colleges with competent faculties. In the absence of adequate graduate schools of their own, their young ministers have been going to the divinity schools of Yale, Chicago, Union, and Vanderbilt, and the professors in their colleges have been trained in these institutions and others of similar quality. This year there are 29 Disciples students in the divinity school of the University of Chicago, and 33 at Yale, and this has been going on for a generation. A good many thousand Disciples read The Christian Century. The reactionaries say that the whole system of education and the ministry among the Disciples is honey-combed with modernism. They are right. It is—if 'modernism' and 'honey-combed' are the right words. Not with radicalism, but with a sane and intelligent type of modernism."

Hope Ahead

Nothing is more evident than that denominations are changing. If you could find one that is not fermenting at the present time, you would find a dead, decaying body. Every progressive organization has already gone through periods of change, and is facing others. The concluding paragraph of this editorial is full of encouragement for the Disciples denomination and for us all:

"The Disciples came through the close communion controversy without a split. They came through the Civil War and the slavery controversy without a split, though their largest constituencies were in the states nearest the line and on both sides of it. They did suffer some losses when a considerable group of strict restorationists seceded because of the belief that the use of organs in worship and the organization of missionary societies were contrary to the apostolic pattern of the church. If they can come without a division through the crisis produced by the changing view of the Bible, it will be because of a rediscovery of their original plea for unity and their fundamental principle of basing that unity upon only those things which Jesus Himself made fundamental, and by interpreting 'restoration' not in terms of reproducing an apostolic model, but in terms of restoring the emphasis which Jesus gave to the things of the spirit. That they are on the way to a successful negotiation of this crisis without serious division in their ranks is the conviction which every discerning attendant at the Memphis convention carried home."

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

God make your year a happy one—

Not by shielding you from all sorrow and pain, but by strengthening your to bear it if it comes.

Not by making your path easy, but by making you sturdy enough to tread any path.

Not by taking hardships from you, but by taking all cowardice and fear from your heart as you meet hardships.

Not by granting you unbroken sunshine, but by keeping your face bright even in the shadows.

Not by making your life always pleasant, but by showing you where men and His cause need you most and by making you zealous to be there and to help.

Not by keeping you from battle, but by bringing you off every field more than conqueror through Christ "who loves you."

God make your year a happy one!—Cleland B. McAfee.

The church is a harbor for tempest-tossed souls. She must be true to this ideal.—J. Wilbur Chapman.

HOW THE PIONEERS RECEIVED THEIR APPOINTMENTS

By H. H. Smith

The following from the pen of Dr. William H. Milburn describes the spirit in which the pioneer circuit riders received their appointments:

"The last scene of the Conference is one peculiarly touching and solemn. A hundred men, many of them married, have surrendered their right of choice, and placed their lives and fortunes, under God, at the disposal of a single man —the Bishop. He, with the wisdom of an overseer, with the simplicity and sincerity that spring from the abiding consciousness that his motives and decisions are ever in the great Taskmaster's eye, and with all a father's tenderness for the preachers and the people entrusted to him—he has considered the claims of the men and of the work, and is now to read the weighty decision. At his word they are to go forth to their fields of duty and of danger, accepting his arbitrament as the interpretation of Providence. Whither they are to go they know not, nor what shall betide them; only of this are they persuaded—that a life of voluntary poverty and hardship awaits them, and probably, a home in some pestilential river bottom, or in a region where fever stalks as a strong man armed. Nevertheless, the love of Christ constraineth them, and they count not their lives dear unto themselves so that they may finish their course with joy, and the ministry which they have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God."

"How do you like your appointment?" inquired a brother of one of the pioneers when the appointments were read out. "Very well," he replied; "yet I cannot help thinking that the cold mountainous region, its proximity to the lake, the extensiveness of the charge, and the weight of its responsibilities, will have a very bad effect on my already wretched health. Indeed, sir, I expect to lay my bones upon old Ticonderoga Circuit before the end of the year."

His fears were not groundless, for that proved to be his last appointment. Hundreds of preachers went to their difficult fields of labor in the same spirit, as the following will show:

"After a stirring sermon at an annual conference, by Rev. H. B. Bascom, on Missions, the presiding Bishop asked for volunteers for the then distant wilds of Missouri and Texas. At first there was no response; but at length there arose from near the altar an aged man. He tottered up the steps and presented himself to the Bishop, saying: 'I will go.' He had passed his three score years and ten, and had been a pioneer preacher in the wilderness of Kentucky and had opened the first academy of learning in the great valley. It was the venerable Finley. A number of the young preachers then offered themselves, and the bones of some of those young men lie bleaching on the plains of Texas and Missouri, but their ranks have been filled and the Gospel is now proclaimed all over the West and South."

The pioneer preachers were noted for their punctuality in filling their appointments. An old preacher gave Dr. Milburn this advice when he was beginning his career as a preacher: "Billy, my son, never miss an appointment. Ride all day in any storm, or all night, if necessary; ford creeks, swim rivers; run the risk of breaking your neck, or getting drowned, but never miss an appointment, and never be behind the time."

Richmond Nolley was found frozen to death on his route to fill an appointment. The death of this heroic pioneer is described as follows:

"Like many another brave itinerant, Nolley's faithfulness and self-forgetfulness cost him his life. Cost him his life, did I say? Nay, rather, but gained him immortality and eternal life among the glorious company of the martyrs, in exchange for the toils and privations of his ministry below.

"After faithful service he went up to the far-distant Conference at Baltimore, in failing health, which was the result of the severity of his work; but the bishop sent him back again, for thus it seemed best for the interests of the Church; and in those days the comfort of the man was not very much considered.

"His route lay across a swift, deep river, at that time much swollen with storms of rain, and clogged with floating driftwood. Its only bridge was his horse; but the faithful animal, with an instinct of danger, refused to enter the stream. However, his master was inexorable, and in he plunged, only to be carried off his feet in an instant. Bravely he breasted the current, and at length, completely exhausted, bore his rider to the opposite shore; but the bank was steep, and in his desperate efforts to mount it he unseated his rider, who, falling into the stream, was nearly drowned.

"At length, however, Nolley reached the shore, drenched and half-frozen, for the weather was cold, utterly exhausted, far from any habitation, and night just coming on. His faithful animal was lost, and being too weak to walk, he knelt upon the ground to offer his last prayer, as it appeared to those who found his body, from the marks of his knees in the half-frozen earth; then choosing a mossy spot underneath a tree, he calmly laid himself out for death and burial. His eyes were closed, his hands folded across his breast, and a peaceful smile lingered upon his cold, dead face."

Asheland, Va.

THE GENERAL FUND FOR SUPERANNUATED MINISTERS

The Greensboro General Conference, 1920, authorized the incorporation of a Board to take charge of a fund to be developed for the benefit of the aged, and incapacitated ministers of the church as well as their wives and children when dependent. This cause was written into the General Conference Budget. A gift from the Pittsburgh Directory of $3818.20 was the first money received. The income from the Budget the first half dozen years has brought the capital fund to nearly $35,000. That is gratifying progress but the fund is still too small to be of any particular service. Only eleven of our conferences have such funds and only three of these pay their superannuated ministers and widows anything worthy. The sums range usually from $25 to $200 a year. In these eleven conferences 71 ministers and 134 widows are receiving grants. That means that those in the other fifteen conferences are seriously neglected. They are receiving from $5 to $50 a year.

The purpose of the General Funds for Superannuates is to supplement what is being done in the annual conferences, especially where there is no such fund. Approximately one hundred and fifty ministers and ministers' widows throughout the denominations are actually being neglected. Anything is better than nothing but how far will fifty dollars, or even two hundred dollars go in caring for those advanced in years?

In his address as retiring president of the General Conference, Rev. Lyman E. Davis, D. D., said, "There is one broad field of duty which we have grievously neglected. The Superannuated Ministers of our denomination have not been adequately remembered in the Victory Campaign. This momentary withholding of the Lord's money from his worthy veterans was accompanied, however, with a tacit and holy covenant that our very next campaign should include an ample provision for these heroes of the Cross. We must redeem this sacred promise, and do it so liberally as to provide for the support and comfort of the whole denomination."

At the Tiffin General Conference the report of the Committee on Superannuates contains this sentence, "No more meritorious cause claims the attention of this body than the care for our retired ministers, and the same should enlist the active participation of the entire church."

By the action of this Conference nothing can be done with the income of the Fund until the Invested capital amounts to $50,000. It is planned then to make regular distributions on the basis of $10 a year for each year spent in the ministry of the Methodist Protestant Church, so far as the resources will permit. F. W. S.

DISHONEST TOBACCO PROPAGANDA

WILL H. BROWN

In December, 1925, when Red Grange, the noted athlete, was at the height of his popularity, and different interests were endeavoring to get his endorsement of their products, he was induced, for a consideration of $1,000, to allow his name to be used in a tobacco advertisement. He insisted, however, that there should be no insinuation in the advertisement that he smoked.

He was first asked to sign a tobacco testimonial, but would not do so, for he would not make a false statement. He said to the manager of the tobacco company that was willing to purchase a false statement:

"How can I sign a testimonial for tobacco when I know nothing about smoking?"

Jack Dempsey was once asked for a testimonial for a cigarette brand, and said to the agent who approached him: "You couldn't get me to sign that for ten times what you offer. I don't smoke cigarettes and never did."

Sousa, the famous band leader, once brought suit for using his picture, without his consent, in a tobacco advertisement. Other men of note have been offered large sums if they would consent either to the use of their pictures or their names in such ads. John Wagner, veteran short-stop of the Pittsburg Nationals, was offered $500 for the use of his autographed photograph on little cards that could be inserted in cigarette boxes. He emphatically refused the offer.

Maria Jeritza, Metropolitan opera singer, brought suit against a cigar company for $25,000 for using her picture on cigar bands for a certain brand.

"For ways that are dark," you don't have to leave America. Just hang around some of the tobacco publicity agents.

ANOTHER CHANCE

God is always opening doors of opportunity. Not alone is the dawn of a new year a challenge to our endeavor, but every day dawns with a summons to live on the heights. Every day is a new opportunity. Every day is the first day of the next three hundred and sixty-five.

"Every day is a new beginning,
Every morn is the world made new;
Ye who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here's a beautiful hope for me—
A hope for me and a hope for you."

The year opens before us. What shall be the hope of our attaining? That which has been the hope of our attaining heretofore, even the best things in the old year, namely, the power to look above, to reach beyond, to see the "hand of God setting open for us the gates of life."—Selected.

The church represents that spiritual part of humanity which seeks expression in its search for God, in its search for the ultimate explanation of life, in its search for the ultimate fountains of the human spirit.—Woodrow Wilson.

THE CONFERENCE JOURNAL

I am expecting that before you read this the 1926 Conference Journal will be in the hands of the pastors. Final proof came last Saturday, was corrected and returned to Baltimore the same day. It has been delayed a bit in the printing office, but I am not disposed to criticise, even though some of our folks seem to be rather impatient. I could get a firm to speed up the printing, but they want to be paid for it, anywhere from $100 to $250 more than it is printed for at our Book Concern in Baltimore.

You will note that the price of the Journal has been made 25 cents. We could not come out at 20 cents without reducing the matter. The fact is, the 1926 Journal has 23 more pages than last year's Journal; the increased price will barely take care of that.

Every member of the church, certainly every official member, ought to have a copy of the Conference Journal, and it ought not to be difficult for the pastors to dispose of twice as many copies as we have printed.

There is not enough money in the Journal Fund to pay for this year's printing. Will the pastors please send me the money as soon as the Journals are sold so I can pay the Book Concern instead of, as last year, waiting until Conference meets to do so.

If the pastors fail to get their allotment promptly, please notify me, and I will try to trace them.

C. W. BATES, Secretary.

OUR GIRLS OUR HOPE

The future welfare of our country depends almost wholly upon whether the girls of today are trained to do whatever is ennobling and useful. They are to be the women of tomorrow. Whatever they become by their practical education at home and in the school will in a great measure be characteristic of them during the remainder of their lives.

The home is the foundation of the state, and the most important factor in making it what it should be is the woman who presides over it. It is therefore very important that our girls be thoroughly instructed in the art of home-making ere they become home-keepers. What is needed now is thorough training in the art of cooking, laundry work, in fact, in everything pertaining to general regulated homes will send out into the world young men and women who will be a credit to their native states and a power for good wherever their future homes may be.

The great questions to be considered are: "What will the majority of our farmers' daughters do after they leave school?" "What will they be best fitted to do?" "Have they been specially trained for real, everyday duties, such as they will inevitably be called upon to assume at some period of their lives?"

Whatever training can be had, it is all-important that it be of a practical character, such as is needed in every position in life. Every young woman should be trained to do some useful work in the best way, whether she expects to teach, do office work, engage in business, or preside over a farm home, which, after all, is the ideal one, and the one best fitted to develop the highest type of woman. Happiness does not come from the possession of wealth. Better a cottage presided over by a loving, devoted wife than a palace where love has no place. The ideal life can be lived only in the ideal home, the making of which is possible by those who are specially fitted to do their share of the world's work.—Old Observer.

Getting Christ into the people will solve the problem of getting the people into the church.—Anonymous.

Denominational Enterprises

OF SUPREME IMPORTANCE

The following is sent out by the Foreign Missions Conference of North America:—

In accordance with the original and supreme purpose of the Week of Prayer, pastors are urged to secure the observance of Thursday, January the sixth, as a day of special intercession for the evangelization of the world. Some of the following suggestions may aid in preparing an order of service for the day.

Scripture Selections

Psalm 72; Matt. 9:36-38; Luke 24:44-48; Acts 1:4-8; Rom. 10:1-15.

Prayer

Thanksgiving—For the redeeming purpose of God; for His special manifestations of His grace and power; for a world open to the proclamation of His Gospel.

Confession—Of personal unworthiness, of willful sins, of selfishness, of spiritual impotence, of unfaithfulness, of doubt, of unbelief.

Petition—That more Christians may believe in the power of prayer, and that vast numbers may enlist in the ministry of intercession.

That the church may realize the greatness of the unfinished task, and that each denomination may determine and undertake its proportionate part in the evangelzation of the world.

That the principles of Christian stewardship may be studied and practiced.

That there may be a closer understanding of the nature and power and implication of the Gospel of Christ.

That missionary societies and boards and agencies may be given wisdom to meet present complex problems of administration.

That missionary activities may be rightly adjusted to changing conditions in the various fields.

That native Christians may be given unfailing courage to confess their faith and to win others to Christ.

That the native churches may realize the greatness of their opportunities and of their obligations.

That there may be raised up a larger number of able leaders for the work at home and abroad.

That God's increasing blessing may rest upon various lines of special effort, and upon workers in particular fields in view of unusual opportunities or difficulties or perils; as, for instance:

The Protestant Churches of Europe;
The evangelization of China;
The workers disturbed in China;
The world-wide work among lepers;
The mass-movements in India;
The bearers of a pure Gospel to Latin America;
The work of the Bible Societies;
The Student Volunteer Movement;
Our missionaries to the Moslem World;
The reinforcements needed in Africa, Siam, Japan, etc.

That there may be a new consciousness or Christian Unity, particularly in view of the World Conferences on Faith and Order, and on Christian Life and Work

That it may please God to grant a world-wide spiritual revival.

Fred C. Klein.

—We print elsewhere Henry Ford's reply to the challenge made by Nathan Straus. He does not accede to the proposition, but gives the reason why he does not.

A Knotty Problem For Our Legislature

State legislatures are called upon to legislate concerning a thousand and one things. Many of these things require expert knowledge which the average legislator does not possess. The best he can do is to be silent and hear what others say and think for himself, and if he cannot reach a conclusion that is satisfactory, accept the judgment of those in whom he has confidence and vote accordingly. This is not a satisfactory course, but we say it is the best he can do—unless he resign and let his place be filled by a more capable man. But some questions are so perplexing that there seems no hope of finding men with clearness of view to settle them. Elected to office, a man feels that it is incumbent on him to stick to his post and do the best he can.

What are our legislators going to do when the evolution bogie confronts them? It seems almost certain that they cannot dodge the issue. Shall the doctrine of evolution be included in or excluded from our school curriculum? It might seem the easiest way to dispose of the question to refer it to the public school authorities. But this course will not satisfy. The legislators can hardly escape grappling with the problem. Do they know whether evolution is true or false? If false, it ought not to be taught as true. If true, it ought not to be excluded as false.

But not knowing whether it is true or false, what action shall they take? It is a perplexing situation. No one need covet the responsibility to determine the matter. It is said to be a safe rule to follow, when you don't know what to do, do nothing. But in this case the legislators will not be free to do nothing. Pressure will be brought to bear on both sides. It looks as if some sort of a decision will be forced from them. What will they do? What can they do?

We cannot advise them, but we will tell them what we think. We think that the man who asserts that God made the world in a moment or in a very short time, is unable to tell how God did it. We also think that the man who asserts that God took thousands or millions of years in making the world, is also unable to tell how God did it. Any sort of theory as to how God made the world is not worth the paper on which it is written. And we also think that the man who asserts that the world was not made at all, but always existed, is a dense fool, unworthy of a legislator's consideration for a moment.

WHAT IS TRUE UNITY OF THE SPIRIT?

"Peace" in the Scriptures means harmony. But while Christ is called "the Prince of Peace," and while that harmony has been created in many lives and spheres where He has been enthroned, He clearly said that one result of His coming would be, not peace, but the sword.

It is clear that, wherever His Cross has been fully presented, there has been trouble and upheaval. All the things against which His Cross stands have at once created a state of war. The world and the flesh, in all their forms and expressions, make spiritual unity impossible, and to the extent that Christians are influenced in their judgments, their standards of reckoning, their conceptions as well as their methods and means and motives, by the world spirit or the "Adam" nature, true spiritual unity is impossible.

The fuller the presentation of the Cross, the greater the arousing of the fallen nature elements, and therefore on the one hand the greater the peril and possibility of discord; and on the other hand, the call for a more complete capitulation to the life of the Spirit as against the life in the flesh.—T. Austin Sparks, in The Overcomer.

All the members of the church are one body, and each is to live in and for all the rest.—Robert E. Speer.

MR. NATHAN STRAUS

Mr. Nathan Straus, formerly a well known Jewish merchant of New York, one of whose department stores operated under the Christian name of R. H. Macy and Company, has found his way prominently into the Press with a challenge. This device has lost somewhat of its originality; issuing challenges was a favorite pastime with Jewish publicity hunters several years ago. They quite innocently assumed, or wished the public to assume, that to ignore the challenge was a confession of error. The interesting point which they overlooked was that a challenge has already been issued to them. The debate has already been started, and one side of the argument is in. The Dearborn Independent in a very full and pertinent statement laid the matter before the only competent judges in this cause, namely, before the American people, and it is now proper for Jewish spokesmen to meet the issue by addressing their defense to the same judges. Issuing new challenges does not obscure the fact that a previous one still stands. To suggest, as Mr. Straus does, a smaller jury of New York clergymen and publicists who do not know that a Jewish Question exists and would not dare to say so if they did, is merely to pretend to be issuing a challenge while actually evading one already issued to whom it may concern.

Having, it is hoped, set Mr. Straus right as to the priority of the challenge issued by this magazine, we should like to continue our friendly service by straightening him out on other points where he seems to be misled. For example, he speaks of 'the campaign of slander against the Jewish people,' as if it were true that such a campaign was made. It is regrettable that Mr. Straus has not striven for accuracy of statement here. If every Jew were an International Jewish Financier, then Mr. Straus would be justified in saying 'the Jewish people,' and if telling the truth is 'slander,' then Mr. Straus would be justified in the use of that term to describe The Dearborn Independent's disclosures. But as neither of these suppositions can possibly be true, Mr. Straus's statement falls of its own weakness.

The 'slander' consists in calling attentinn to the claims which Jews have made for their own preeminence in the world. These claims are largely true and have been made by responsible Jewish leaders. To repeat these for the benefit of other people cannot possibly be 'slander.' Some of these statements are as follows: the International Jew invented our financial and interest system, and is today in direct control of all financial centers of government, including the United States Federal Reserve System which he organized and is now perfecting according to his original plan; he is a potent power in governments; he pulls so many strings in business that no banker or business man feels that it is safe to oppose him; he owns the Press or controls it so that only pro-Jewish facts are ever admitted to print; he influences the education of our youth to a degree unapproached by any other group; he is the most closely organized racial entity in the world with an espionage system that covers every village and every larger center in the country; he controls the revolutionary elements of the world on one hand, and the ultra-conservative elements on the other, so that he has equal power in communistic Russia and in capitalistic England; and, not to mention the theater or the motion picture or agriculture, the International Jew is the chief control in the making of war, of which he is also the chief profiteer.

All these are statements deducible from the most deliberate utterances of Jewish spokesmen and illustrated at large by Jewish history. To agree with the Jewish claim to preeminence in these matters is no more a 'slander' than to agree with their claim to preeminence in the clothing trade. Besides that, it is a service to the American people to tell them who their bosses are.

It might interest Mr. Straus's suggested jury to take up the above statements, find their numerous counterparts in Jewish literature, and then compare the claims with the actual facts.

This magazine will be glad to direct them to the sources.

To conclude this comment on Mr. Straus's interesting speech at Boston, we agree with him in all that he says about himself as a philanthropist. Philanthropy was a great thing a hundred years ago. Genuine philanthropy today means the payment of such wages as will render philanthropy unnecessary. It may be that Mr. Straus revolutionized the wages rate paid to employes of department stores which he controlled, and that he reduced all excess profits on goods, but if so he has neglected to chronicle it in the long list of his philanthropies as printed in Who's Who. Unfortunately for our full appreciation of that list, this magazine has always held that there is something disgraceful in receiving 'charity,' and something shameful in offering it. We have contended that the truest Charity was the effort to make 'charity' superfluous. But on this point we willingly accord to Mr. Straus the same freedom of opinion which we exercise for ourselves. —Dearborn Independent.

MODERN MINIMIZING OF THE GOSPEL

Dr. Francis S. Patton says that the modern gospel minimizer takes a few tablets of doctrine, dissolves them in a gallon or two of rose water of sentimentality and puts a little in an atomizer and sprays his congregation to the accompaniment of the sweetness of Christianity and the fragrance of the benevolent life. But the New Testament tells another story. It teaches that man is a sinner, that he has been redeemed by the atoning blood of Christ, that the only way to salvation is through faith in Christ the Redeemer. There are many kinds of modern liberalists, for skepticism is by no means agreed with itself. But they all prefer the sentimental concoction of which Dr. Patton speaks to the world-shaking story of the Cross on which Christ died to save sinners.—Western Recorder.

CAN DETERMINE FOR HIMSELF

A boy at seventeen can practically determine for himself whether he will be a simple burden-bearer for others as long as he lives, a leech on society or whether he will be a broad-minded, useful and successful man. If the boy at his age has no ambition to be anybody—is content to simply let things flicker and take his chance with others just like him frittering away his opportunities to acquire knowledge and caring only for the trivialties of life, he can make up his mind to carry a hod, ride the brake-beam of a freight car, or dodge the police as long as he lives or he can resolve to be a man in the highest sense, every means for physical mental and moral growth and development and must surely and easily graduate into the ever widening field of utility and success. It matters little what his boyhood enviroment may be, if he but has the ambition and the well grounded purpose he will climb out of it.—Exchange.

BELIEF IN JESUS

A Christian is a believer in Jesus. He believes that if he only throws his own lost and sinful soul on the Redeemer, there is in His sacrifice sufficient merit to cancel all his guilt, and in His heart sufficient love to undertake the keeping of his soul for all eternity. He believes that Jesus is a Savior. He believes that His heart is set on His people's holiness and that it is only by making them new creatures—pure-minded, kind-hearted, unselfish, devout—that He can fit them for a home and a life like His own; that He can fit them for the occupations and enjoyments of heaven. And, believing all this, he prays and labors after holiness.—Selected.

OUR STORY PAGE

AN EGG ON TOAST

Benjie was enjoying a week's visit on the ranch with Cousin Steve.

Steve was a great out-of-doors boy. He could fell a tree, roll across the pond on a log, ride horseback, build a chicken house, milk cows, or do almost anything there was to do outside.

But Benjie's life had been spent in an apartment house, and while he could skate, play the violin, play tennis, do indoor gymnastics, Steve sometimes called him a girl-boy.

However, Benjie was no coward, and he was game for anything, so they were having a great time.

Then one morning Sister Lesta awoke with a toothache, and daddy said he would have to take her to town at once. It was a long distance to a town where there was a dentist, and they could not get back until the next evening.

"I will leave you boys in charge of the ranch, and also in charge of mother," said daddy.

"Good!" said Steve. "We'll see that mumsy has wood and water and everything she needs, and we'll have lots of fun doing the chores. I'm teaching Benjie to milk and feed the calf."

So daddy and Lesta hurried off early in the morning, leaving everything to the excited boys.

As a rule, chores were done before breakfast, but this morning they had been so busy getting daddy and Lesta off that they did not get started until late.

"Here's the milk pail," said Steve, as he handed Benjie a bright, shining tin pail. "Now, let's see you milk."

Then Steve went to the other end of the barn and tossed a bucket of corn into the sheller for Pigly Wigly, while Benjie tied Boss and got the milk stool.

"Hey!" called Steve, laughing, "that's the wrong side of the cow. She'll kick you."

Benjie laughed and moved around.

"What does she want to be so particular for?" he said.

By the time Steve had Pigly Wigly fed Benjie had the cow milked.

"Now just watch me feed Calfie without getting a drop of milk on myself," Benjie said, laughing.

"Bet you can't do it," said Steve.

Benjie put his finger into Calfie's mouth. Then he plunged Calfie's nose, together with his own finger, into the pail of milk.

"You'd better brace against that post," warned Steve as he watched from the doorway.

But it was too late. Calfie wasn't getting the milk as he thought he should, and he gave a butt, backed by all the strength of his long legs, and Benjie was on his back getting a shower bath.

"There's lots more milk in the separator house," laughed Steve as he ducked to escape the flying bucket.

Benjie got up and shook himself like a dog just out of the creek, and tried it again.

Just then there came a cry of distress from the house.

Reaching there, they found mother laboriously working her way to the bed. She had sprained her back and now she would have to stay in bed for a few days, as she always did when this happened.

Now Steve could do anything outside of the house, but inside he was all at sea. Sister Lesta had been mother's helper. He felt that cooking and sweeping were a girl's work and beneath his dignity.

When lunchtime came he looked helplessly about the kitchen.

"Guess we'll have to have bread and milk until sis comes home," he said to Benjie.

"That's all right for us," said Benjie; "but Aunt Kate should have something better, a little something warm."

Steve looked distressed.

"But what can we do?" he said; "there's nothing cooked."

"Couldn't she have a poached egg on toast?" said Benjie. "That's generally good for sick folks. I always fix it for mother when she has a headache."

Steve looked at Benjie.

"Could you fix it?" he asked incredulously.

"Sure," said Benjie, and he went to work to build a fire.

While the fire burned up they ate their own lunch of bread and milk. Then Benjie, with the ease of an old housekeeper, proceeded to make toast and poach the egg.

The toast was a golden brown and floated in rich milk. The egg spread over it like a big white water lily. Benjie found a clean napkin, which he spread under the plate on the tray. Then a cup of steaming hot tea finished the tray.

"There," he laughed, as he held the tray over his head, "that is what the waiter calls Adam on a raft."

But Steve did not laugh. He did not feel like laughing. He was very sober. It was not pleasant to have to have the company fix a meal for your own sick mother. If the company had been a girl it might have been a little different. He could imagine how surprised and pleased his mother would be when she saw the dainty tray.

"I never in the world could have done it," he admitted to himself.

Then he braced up. He had watched the proceedings with wrapt attention.

"I'll fix it tonight myself," he said. "I'll fix it or bust."

That night after all the chores were done it was Steve who bore the tray of toast and egg to his mother. And it was Steve who fixed a double order of the same thing for Benjie and himself.

His mother was surely surprised and pleased.

"And I'll fix your breakfast in the morning, mumsy," he said. "Just see if I don't."

Mumsy smiled and wondered what had come over her boy, the boy who had always boasted of being such a real boy and not a girl-boy.

By the time they had washed the dishes and straightened up the kitchen there was just time for one game of checkers before they went to bed. It was a long, hard-fought game, and together with their strenuous day out-of-doors they were tired enough to sleep through anything.

But Steve did not sleep. He was thinking, "What shall I have for breakfast and how will I ever manage to fix it? If I had only watched mumsy and Lesta make hot cakes."

Then he thought of the cook books.

So after assuring himself that Benjie was asleep, he slipped silently out of bed and down to the kitchen. He had difficulty in finding the right one. Some of them only had cake in as if a person did not want everything but cake, and some had only salad in. At last he found one that seemed to have everything in.

It took a long time to memorize directions for coffee, mush and hot cakes, but eventually it was accomplished, and cold and tired he crept back upstairs and slipped silently into bed.

All too soon a streak of sun and a crowing rooster announced another day.

"Time we got up and got breakfast," said Benjie sleepily.

"I'll get the breakfast," said Steve.

"Well, I'll milk and feed then," said Benjie, glad to be able to do so much to help. "I can manage all right alone now."

So each boy went at his new work with a will.

Steve was slow and clumsy about the stove, but by and by he bore to his mother a dainty tray whereon was a dish of mush with cream, fragrant coffee and hot cakes with maple syrup. Never had he known a prouder moment.

"Fixed it every bit by myself, mumsy," he said excitedly.

He was so happy that a big tear came tumbling down and just escaped the steaming coffee.

"No company, especially boys, will have to fix mumsy's meals after this," he declared to himself as he went back to the kitchen.

Then Benjie came in, the glorious look of having accomplished something showing in his face.

"Got the cow milked and the calf and the chickens and the pig all fed already," he fairly shouted. "Jimmy, I'm hungry!"

"Come on," said Steve proudly; "the mush is all ready, and the hot cakes and eggs are coming. I'll dish up the mush while you wash."

"Um, it smells good," said Benjie as he sat down at the table.

When dad and Lesta returned they were surprised to find how well the place could get along without either of them.—Junior World.

HONEY BEE'S CHOICE

"Buzz! buzz! buzz!" hummed Honey Bee as she entered the flower garden.

"Buzz! buzz! buzz! I must choose the sweetest flower." She glanced around to see which was the lovliest. There were roses, lilacs, honeysuckles, snap-dragons, lilies, pansies, nasturtiums, and many, many others. All the flowers in the garden had heard that this was the day when Honey Bee was to choose the rarest flower of all to use for the queen's honey, so each flower tried to look her loveliest.

On came Honey Bee.

"Oh!" said Red Rose, proudly tossing her beautiful head, "I know that I am by far the loveliest. Every one admires my beauty. Surely Honey Bee will choose me."

"No, indeed," said Honeysuckle, "I heard my mistress say this morning that I had more fragrance than all the other flowers in the garden. Surely, I shall be chosen."

"You are both very lovely," said Lilac. "But do you suppose Honey Bee will miss my charm? Just look at me!" and with that she swayed gracely and perfumed the air.

"If Honey Bee doesn't want to choose me, I don't care a bit," said Snapdragon.

"I don't like to be always doing something for some body else anyhow. I'd rather stay where I am."

Honey Bee just buzzed and buzzed and buzzed, and kept flying around the garden.

"Perhaps Honey Bee won't choose me," said Pure White Lily, "but I shall not mind. The great Maker-of-the-Flowers put each of us here in the garden for a different purpose, and if I am not chosen I shall be just as happy. I am glad to grow. I am glad for the sunshine, the rain and the dew; but most of all I am glad because I make my little sick mistress happy. I would like to be honored by Honey Bee, to be sure, but I shall be happy even if I am not."

Little Clover heard the other flowers talking, but she said nothing. Her little heart was sad. "I am just a little wildflower," she said to herself. "I am not gorgeous nor am I beautiful. Perhaps they do not love me because I am not beautiful; but hard as it is, I shall try to be just as sweet as I can be. When I get big, I'll let the children pick me and use me in their wreaths, and then I'll be doing something to make some one happy."

"Buzz! buzz! buzz!" sang Honey Bee as she flew all around the garden again.

Suddenly she flew over to a quiet little spot in the garden.

All the flowers were excited, and said, "Where has Honey Bee gone?"

"Oh," said Purple Pansy, "she can't decide which of us is the lovliest, so she is going to rest a while before choosing."

"Not on your life," answered Snap-dragon. "You're not half as pretty as you think you are. Listen to what Honey Bee is saying."

"Buzz! buzz! buzz!
Little Clover, I'm coming to you.
Your sweet little life
So free from strife
Perfumes the garden through.
'Tis you who is rarest,
'Tis you who is fairest,
'Tis you I choose today."

The flowers were so surprised and astonished they hardly knew what to do. "How strange!" they all said. "Why did Honey Bee choose Little Pink Clover? Why, we never had noticed her before."

"I'll tell you why," said Pure White Lily. "All this time Little Pink Clover has been trying to serve just in the humble place where the great Maker-of-the-Flowers put her. She has never received any praise, neither has she sought it, and because of this, today Honey Bee has chosen her from among all of us, and rewarded her for her sweet life. Let's all bow to her to show her that we are glad that she has been chosen."

So with that, all the flowers made a courtesy to Little Pink Clover, and do you know the queen said that Pink Clover gave the sweetest honey of any flower she had ever known?—Our Little Ones.

HOW BETTY SAID IT

"Betty has been telling me all day how much she loves me," Aunt May said, as she folded her little niece in her arms.

"Why, Auntie," Betty looked up with a little flush, "I do just love you to—to pieces, and I've kept wanting to tell you so ever since you came, but somehow I couldn't. It's Alice who says right out how she loves folks—but somehow I can't."

"You've been telling me all day, and in a perfectly beautiful way," said Aunt May. "What little girl rushed down to the store after that package I'd forgotten, just when that same little girl was settling down to play 'mothers' with her sister and the children next door? What little girl hunted for as much as ten minutes till she found the back number of the Church paper that same auntie wanted?"

"Oh!" Betty's little round face was smiling and happy, "if you mean that—then p'haps—"

"There is no 'perhaps' about it," smiled Aunt May.—Selected.

WHAT IS NEEDED

What we want in this day of spineless, creedless theology and preaching is men who can say with positiveness which admits of no doubt, "I know, I believe"—men whose faith has grown out of an experience that has put the gospel to a full test in their own hearts and lives—men who would rather be pilloried by a fickle and unbelieving age as narrow-minded and out of touch with the times than be guilty of putting question-marks behind much that Jesus stressed as necessary to salvation. The people have a right to expect a preacher to have a message that has back of it a "Thus saith the Lord."—The Lutheran.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS ESTHER ROSS, Editor
Asheboro, N. C.

WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Methodist Protestant Church is composed of various departments of work, but none whose activities are greater, nor better organized than the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. Beginning at the base of the ladder forty-eight years ago we have climbed rung by rung. At the present time we are working in three fields, Japan, China, and India.

Japan, our first field of labor, at present has a well equipped school at Yokohama conducted by efficient missionaries and native workers. The Kindergartens are manned by trained workers. The evangelistic department is well cared for. The Kindergartens at Nagoya, Homoko, Atsuta, Huatsuka, Hamamatsu and perhaps two more at other points are to be fully endorsed for the excellent work accomplished through the competent instructors. It would be impossible to estimate the good accomplished by these consecrated teachers who labor day by day to so live that the little ones under their care may realize that there is a living God and thus be redeemed.

Kalgan, China, is our second field of labor. Many disappointments have been ours, but we will not grow weary in well doing. We are regretting the outcome of an inefficient number of workers which retards the progress of the Mission. We must have missionaries at this point and right now. The dispensary conducted by our Medical Missionary has met with marked success, and we are planning an extension of this work as soon as we are assured of the cessation of war. May God grant that will be soon. We have educational and evangelistic work also at Kalgan. Our need for Kalgan, "a nurse and and doctor."

In the years that have gone two young women of one of our Southern Conferences sailed for India and located in Dhulia. The mission organized by them prospered until they decided to become affiliated with the Board of Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church. For several years the said Board managed the work and in a few years transferred the department for women and children to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. We have substantial buildings at Dhulia, orphanage, school, hospital and evangelistic department. The dear little children who are homeless and otherwise needy are cared for by the faithful young women who are serving the Methodist Protestant Church at Dhulia. The hospital is beautifully situated and well equipped, but we need another nurse and a doctor. The Home Base has not been idle nor have we buried our talents. With the Church back of us, through strength from the Father, we are a band, marching on.

MRS. HENRY HUPFIELD,
President, General Executive Board.

—Eggs from hens on green feed or range have the highest vitamin content.

ANOTHER FUNDAMENTALIST-MODERNIST CONTROVERSY

The disputants are Robert Laughlin, aged seven, and Mary Wood Swain, aged five.

Robert—There is no Santa Claus.

Mary Wood—I know there is.

Robert—How do you know?

Mary Wood—Because I saw three Santa Clauses up town.

Robert—That proves that there is not just one Santa Claus. If there are three, there might be a hundred or a thousand.

Mary Wood—It proves that there is at least one.

Robert—No, it doesn't. They may all be just imitations.

Mary Wood—If they are just imitations, what are they imitations of? Tell me that!

Robert is still studying how to answer. The controversy is probably not ended.

—Since the cotton farmer can hardly get a profit from cotton grown on anything but the most fertile acres where high average yields may be made, it might be wise to try putting some of the poorer acres or marginal acres in pine trees.

—A flock of about 400 pure bred Rhode Island Red hens brought in to A. E. Allen of Wake County, $3,602.35 at a feed cost of $1,500 during the ten months of 1926 ending November first, according to a written report he has made to County Agent John C. Anderson.

—Calvary was pleased to receive two good members last Sunday. They were Mr. and Mrs. Allred, recently moved to Greensboro. They were formerly of Asheboro and were in Brother Gerringer's congregation when he was pastor there.

—By advocating a better balanced system of farming in the 40 cotton counties of North Carolina, the agricultural workers are co-operating with other states of the South to reduce cotton acreage and to put the farms of North Carolina on a business basis.

—The Christian Endeavor of Calvary church is to observe watchnight next Friday night. After a social meeting beginning at eight o'clock there will be a program rendered, appropriate to the time. The meeting will end shortly after midnight. Refreshments will be served in the form of fruit and sandwiches. Brother A. D. Wagner is president of the society.

—A good New Year resolution is one that will compel the maker to take a complete inventory of his farm this winter. This will show the true financial standing of the owner.

—Tests made by the Department of Agriculture at Washington show that North Carolina grown cottons have as high spinning qualities as cottons grown in Texas and southwestern states.

—Our impression is that one would have to travel far to find a better man than was Brother W. H. Searboro who has just died at Concord. Well may the pastor feel that he has lost a right arm.

—Rev. and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman announce the birth of a son, Nagoya, Japan, November 29, 1926.

—A carry-over of nine million bales of cotton for the coming year doesn't leave much to be grown by North Carolina farmers next season.

MARRIED

Smith-Yow

Miss Ruth Smith of Liberty, and Mr. Walter E. Yow of Asheboro, were united in marriage at the lovely home of the bride's mother Mrs. Mamie Smith of Liberty, December 24th. Mr. Yow is the son of Mr. E. R. Yow of Asheboro. We give to this happy young couple our best wishes. F. L. GIBBS.

Hester-Gray

A marriage that was beautiful in its simplicity took place on December 23, at 6:30 p.m. when Miss Nelle Gray became the wife of Junius McKinley Hester, Jr. They were married at the home of the bride near Kernersville. The home was beautifully decorated with mountain spruce, rhodendron, holly and other Christmas decorations. Miss Ila Albert presided at the piano and Miss Eugenia Stafford sang a marriage hymn. The bride and groom entered unattended to the strains of the wedding march and were pronounced husband and wife in the presence of only a few of the relatives and friends of the young couple. Rev. L. W. Gerringer, a former pastor and school teacher of the bride, performed the ceremony, using the bride's mother's wedding ring for the occasion. The good wishes of a large number of friends go with these popular young people as they launch out upon the voyage of life together.

L. W. GERRINGER.

The steamer was only a few feet from the dock when there was a sudden commotion, and a man came running, shouting to the officials to wait a moment.

Without pausing in his stride, he flung his bag on the boat, took a desperate leap, and landed on the deck with a crash.

"Good," he gasped. "A few seconds later I should have missed it."

"Missed it!" exclaimed the officer who helped him to his feet. "This boat is just coming in."—The Countinent.

Pat watched the professor staring up at the sky through the long, shiny black telescope.

Presently a star fell.

"Shure, and the man's a grand shot," said Pat.—Schurz World, Schurz High School, Chicago.

A story in three lines:
Lion and two lion hunters.
Lion and one lion hunter.
Lion.—Haversack.

—Hens pay a profit of $2 per head according to late experiments by poultry workers of State College.

—Tom Tarheel says the best permanent cure for too much cotton is to always eat and feed produce grown on the home place.

He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.—Jesus.

Our Children's Home

Gifts to Us

Rev. Geo. R. Brown of Reidsville, bedstead, springs, mattress, and a large rocking chair; E. M. Holt, Plaid Mills, Burlington, a lot of nice ginghams; Mrs. E. E. Jordan, Liberty, N. C., merchandise; Carolina Brush Co., 208 Arlington Ave., Charlotte, six mop brushes; C. E. Society, High Point College, two dresses for children; Junior C. E. Society, Concord, a dress, and goods for another; Pleasant Hill church, Forsyth Circuit, one nice comfort, on which were the names of many kind friends; Mr. H. E. Kelly, New Church, Va., a nice box of Christmas presents. Mrs. C. H. Simmons, 621 W. 29th street, Indianapolis, Ind., gifts for every member of the Home; Kester Furniture Co., 134 S. Main St., High Point, a New Home sewing machine; M. P. C. E. Society, Osceola, Iowa, (Lyel Barrows Pres.) a nice box of dressed dolls, books, games, and other toys; Mrs. Fred Younts, High Point, an overcoat, and two dozen and four ties; Philathea class, Reidsville, a box of hose; Rev. W. F. Grabbs, King, N. C., ten bushels of pears; First church, Winston-Salem, a nice lot of white gifts, mostly from Junior department; Mrs. Emma Bayliff, Graham, apples; Kappa Phi. Fraternity, High Point College, apples, oranges and candy; Mr. and Mrs. John Siceloff and children, High Point, apples, tangarines, raisins and nuts; Concord, S. S., 12 gallons grape preserves; C. E. Society, High Point College, a dress for a child; M. P. Mission Band, Efland, handkerchiefs; First Church, Stenbenville, Ohio, a box containing white gifts; Mr. Henry Millis, of High Point, came over the morning before Christmas and gave presents to every child, and among those presents was a greenback dollar for each child. The Rotary Club of which Mr. Millis is a prominent member gets credit for this kind act; Delphine and Ned Welborne of North Davidson charge, two turkeys; Ladies' Aid Society, of Mackeys, a dress, and two suits of underwear. ,

Bazaar and chicken pie supper was a decided success. Good people helped to make it so. Four hams, 50 dozen rolls eight gallons of ice cream, one case of pineapple, lettuce, three pounds of coffee, one pound butter, eight nice trays, all given by merchants of High Point.

W. H. M. S., eleven nice cakes and three sets of knives and forks; Grace Church, Greensboro, nine pounds homemade candy.

Sales of fancy work amounted to about 110 receipts for supper $150.00. Total $260.

One half the proceeds of fancy work was given to the girls who made it, and some of the supper money was given to the children, so that all might have some Christmas spending money.

Many thanks to all who are doing so much to make the Home so comfortable and so happy.

E. G. LOWDERMILK.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. H. L. Powell, $3; Rev. G. L. Reynolds, $1.50; Rev. C. W. Bates, $1.50; Rev. C. H. Hill, $1.50; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, $4.50; Rev. H. L. Isley, $1.50.

—One hundred liens on each farm in the State will provide home conveniences and comforts desired by every housewife.

A COMFORTER FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Following are the names of ladies and children who made the block for a "Comfort."

The first following are from the "Pleasant Hill" church, West Forsyth Circuit.

Mrs. Mamie Long, Mrs. Bettie J. Long, Mrs. Eliza Whitman, Mrs. Maggie Sprinkle, Mrs. Nora Hunter, Mrs. Alice Long, Mrs. Alice Berath, Mrs. Addie Anderson, Mrs. Gretchen Holder, Mrs. Robert P. Petree, Mrs. Ida Whitman, Mrs. Veala Whitman, Mrs. Nell Whitman, Mrs. Mary Ellen Long, Mrs. Florence Whitman, Mrs. L. G. Long.

Miss Ruby Long, (aged 12 years), Miss Lucile Sprinkle, Miss Ruth Long (aged 13 years), Miss Lillie Whitman, Miss Treva Long, Miss Lorine Anderson, Miss Lola Long, Miss Juanito Hunter, (aged 9 years), Miss Myrtle Long (aged 12 years), Miss Olive B. Anderson.

The following are friends from other near by churches, also some from a distance:

Mrs. Hattie Kreeger, Mrs. Martha A. Spease, Mrs. Lonnie Doub, Miss Fannie Scott, Miss Jane Allen, Miss Fannie Kerney, Mrs. Emma Spainhour, Mrs. Ida V. Doub, Mrs. Sallie White, Mrs. J. T. Briggs, Miss Laura Scott, Miss Eveline Doub, (aged 12 years), Mrs. E. E. Kerney, Mrs. Martha Vogler, Mrs. E. L. Reed, Mrs. E. S. Bowen, Mrs. John Bowen, Mrs. S. E. Newson, Mrs. John Spainhour, Mrs. Alice Scott, Mrs. Bulah Spainhour, Mrs. C. H. Smith, Mrs. Ira M. Petree, Miss Mamie Reed, Miss Dora Scott, Miss Ruth L. Smith, (aged 6 years), Miss Mabel Adell Petree, (aged 7 years), Miss Margarett L. Smith (aged 10 years).

Following are the names of men and young men who contributed toward the lining and cotton for the comfort.

C. W. Spainhour, 25 cents; R. H. Samuells, 25 cents; M. M. Spainhour, 50 cents; E. A. Hunter, 25 cents; Henry Kreegar, 5 cents; Russell Masencup, 25 cents; B. L. Sharp, 25 cents; R. N. Honcock, 15 cents; G. A. Long, 25 cents; J. P. Nance, 10 cents; H. W. Long, 5 cents; Curtis Bowen, 10 cents; Shober Spease, 10 cents; B. G. Doub, 10 cents; J. A. Long, 25 cents.

The question was asked the writer, what is the value of the comfort? Well, this is a question that cannot be answered, because the love for our Heavenly Father, and the love and tender sympathy of each of the "fifty-six" women and children have for the precious little orphans for whom they, with loving fingers contributed their part in making the blocks for this comfort, and too, the men, and young men, some of them not even members of any church, who gladly gave of their money to help buy the lining and cotton, all make it quite impossible to place a value on it. But our Heavenly Father knows, and that is sufficient. I wish to again thank each and every one who in any way helped me to get together and finish up this pretty warm comfort. The names of each one who made a block is sewed onto the block and stands out in bold relief to show just who made each one.

And now if you will pardon me I wish to tell how this particular comfort came about, or rather the idea.

Some months ago, a cousin, Mrs. L. I. Marshall living in Gage, Okla., wrote me enclosing a miniature block, showing one she was making for herself. The pattern was so attractive, that I decided I would get as many of my own church and other friends to contribute in making one for Our Children's Home, and this is the result. And now we all present it as a Christmas present to the members of the Home, and with the very best wishes for a merry, merry Christmas, and a glad, happy, and healthy New Year..

MRS. ROBERT P. PETREE.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COLLEGE BUILDING FUND

Amount previously reported	$172,242.52
By Rev. J. B. O'Briant, on note:
W. R. Carter ....08..	15.00
M. J. Morris	25.00
Sam Day	12.50
Mrs. Alice Glasgow	1.00
Box party, by Miss Fannie Barnes	19.00

The above payments reported by Brother O'Briant have been applied on a note, indorsed by a number of friends on his work, the note having now been paid in full. Brother O'Briant secured the co-operation of a large number of his members, and thus the desired result was accomplished, it would appear, without difficulty.

J. R. Stone	$25.00
Paul Demot Stone	5.00
Mrs. E. S. Welborn	10.00
E. S. Welborn	25.00
Miss Lottie E. Edwards	5.00
Mrs. J. W. Magee	12.00
Spring Church Sunday School	2.04
Mrs. C. A. Cecil	25.00
Miss Christine Fulton	6.00
Paul E. Hine	12.00
	$172,442.81

J. NORMAN WILLS, Treas.

MORE KIND APPRECIATION

My dear Dr. McCulloch:—

I do not want the Christmas season to pass without saying something of what I think the object of your life's work has meant to us all. It was by heritage that I first acquired a love for our church paper. Many years ago when I was a small boy "Our Church Record" was the only paper that came regularly to our home. We read it through from cover to cover. My father continued his subscription all through the years until his death last summer. In his private papers was a file of these papers that reached back many years.

To us who have been moving about in different parts of the state in the teacher's profession, the little church paper is about the only direct connection we have with our church. To me it is a weekly letter of the church and since practically all the names of the ministers are familiar to me, many of whom I know personally it is like getting a letter from home. It also keeps me in touch with the college and the Children's Home, both of which I am interested in.

It seems to me that it must be a great comfort to you to realize what you have done for our church through these years. May you be given many more years to stand at the helm to inspire us on to bigger things. May this Christmas be a happy one and may the New Year bring renewed energy for the work that is before us.

Very sincerely yours,

SAMUEL E. LEONARD.

—Born, December 25, 1926, to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Way, a son, C. B. Way, Jr.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Littleton.—As Mrs. B. T. Morris gave yau a report from Corrinth, I shall tell you what we—the Littleton Sunday school—are trying to do, and what has been done.

Five of our school have given their hearts to the Lord. Two joined the Baptist church. Three connected themselves to this church. Two of them joined since conference.

The junior class each started out to make or earn in some way $2.00 a piece to help meet the three hundred dollar note. The Corinth members became responsible for High Point College. Following are the names of those who earned this: Annie Perkinson, $2.65; John Caston, $2; Hortense Warren, $2; Helen Riggans, $1; Minnie Walker, .50. Total, $8.15.

Some of them sold candy. Another had a little rummage sale, another picked cotton, and the box party Rev. O'Briant last mentioned was gotten up by this Sunday school.

Now we are working on Christmas program. Want to have it this coming Sunday night, 26th. We are working with our new superintendent, Samuel Riggans, a young man of 16 years, full of life, and vim. He joined this church two weeks before conference. Was made superintendent the same night. Pray that God may always use him for good.

Brother O'Briant has filled two appointments here since he returned and has been met with better congregations. We are not a bit discouraged at this writing. All seem happy to have him with us again.

First quarterly conference held here showed that Hawkins Chapel had paid $40.00 on pastor's salary this year.

FANNIE BARNES.

Calvary.—The editor has kept you informed about ,some of the happenings at Calvary church, but there are others that we would like to have you know about.

On Sunday morning preceding Christmas our pastor preached a very helpful Christmas sermon and the choir rendered special music.

At the evening service the Pageant, "Gifts to the King," was very beautifully and impressively presented. By many this was said to be the best program given in our church. The many lighted tapers added much to the effectiveness of the service. The music was unusually good. In addition to the collection for general interests, White Gifts were presented, which were later distributed to some less fortunate families in the community.

On Thursday afternoon the Sunday school gave the children a Christmas tree in the church hut. Santa Claus was there and gave gifts and treat to about one hundred children. Some of the classes showed their appreciation of their teachers, with beautiful and useful gifts.

We were very glad to receive Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Allred, of the Asheboro church, into church membership. Mrs. Allred had already shown something of her usefulness in her work in the choir.

We regret to report that our faithful organist was kept away from church last Sunday on account of illness. She is not only missed in the church service but in the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor.

Next Sunday morning we will have communion service and in the evening the pastor will preach a New Year's sermon.

We are so glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Gerringer with us for another year. They are very helpful to us in every department of the church work.

We are looking forward to the new year, hoping that it will be the best year in our church.

REPORTER.

Mecklenburg.—After being kindly remembered at Stallings Friday night, while sitting at Brother G. W. Helms' well filled table Christmas day, Mrs. Totten and I heard the honk of a car. Out at it we found Brother W. H. Schell and his daughter Evelynn with many presents from our Beulah people. Our editor tells us to enumerate such gifts makes bad reading. As he does not know how it makes a pastor feel unexpectedly to have his larder filled with such good things, we invite him down to Stallings to help us enjoy the eating.

W. T. TOTTEN.

(That is reasonable, and we thank Brother Totten. But when the enumeration makes the editor's mouth water and the printer's mouth water and the reader's mouth water, and there is no invitation to either editor, printer, or reader to take part in the feast, it borders on cruelty to animals.—Editor.)

Denton Church.—Our Christmas program was carried out last Friday night. The program was very good. Many thanks to Miss Mary Lee Frank, and Miss Julia Loftin for getting up the program.

Our Sunday school was well attended yesterday to what it was a year ago. Year ago yesterday, 16 present, yesterday, 63 present. Offering year ago, .34, yesterday, $2.40. Largest attendance, class no. 7, Mrs. Joe Hill teacher; present 13. Largest offering, class no. 2, Mr. W. A. Johnson teacher, $0.67.

We hope by next Sunday to mark a 100 per cent. Don't forget that next Sunday is our preaching day here.

Wishing the Herald a Happy New Year.

REPORTER.

First Church, Spencer.—Owing to sickness in the home of our reporter, Mrs. C. M. Mayes, there has been no report since conference. We feel fortunate in having Rev. Glen Madison as our pastor. All are pleased with his gospel sermons, and are hoping for a good year together.

Our first quarterly conference Wednesday afternoon, December 22. New plans and aims were made. We hope we can carry them out and become a stronger and better church.

Wednesday, 7:00 p.m., our Christmas service was well attended by our little band. The children did well and our pastor told the story of "The Other Wise Man" which was very much enjoyed by all. Our collection, $7.50 to go on our Budget.

Considering our small number we have good attendance at church and Sunday school. We want to make another payment on our lot soon and hope we can get in a building of our own, for our church will go forward then. We have services the first and third Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Episcopalian church on Rowan Avenue between fourth and fifth streets which we have rented. If anyone knows of any M. P.s in Spencer or Salisbury please send us names.

MRS. A. L. MOORE.

Albemarle.—I came to the Albemarle church on the night of November 8th, coming from Georgia, a stranger to the people, but was met with every kindness and courtesy that could be expected.

The Ladies' Aid had been to the parsonage on that day and given it a thorough cleaning as it had not been occupied for some months. They also spent around two hundred dollars for new furniture so that we now have a cozy little home, nicely furnished.

Mrs. Anderson, and our little daughter came the next week. Again the Ladies' Aid was on hand. They served a good supper, and gave us a warm welcome, and we were at home the first night.

The following night the good people of the church and community gave us a pounding that bountifully supplied the pantry.

The church and Sunday school is starting off well considering the weather and other conditions due to not having a pastor for some months. The Sunday school has gone up from ninety-nine to one hundred and forty-six and we have had nine additions to the church since conference. A series of meetings of about eight days did much toward lining up and energizing the church.

We have some of as fine people here as can be found in any part of the country. They are spiritual and have enough church and denominational pride to take care of all the different interests of the church.

We are now putting on a drive for subscriptions to the "Herald."

We predict a good year for this charge. We solicit your prayers.

J. R. ANDERSON, Pastor.

Anderson Charge.—The work has been progressing nicely for the past few weeks. All appointments have been met except one which was rained out. The weather has been cold and unfavorable but good congregations have met the pastor for every service so far. I have been cordially received everywhere I have been and the people seem anxious for the pastor to come to see them. One good brother said there is always a place at his house for the preacher, that he didn't consider it any expense because it was worth his rations to eat them. But if you will believe this pastor, his rations are fine and good enough for anyone. If you doubt this come down and pay me a visit and I will take you to see this brother.

The first quarterly conference was held at Liberty Hill the second Sunday in December. The business was transacted in a harmonious and brotherly manner and I am sure we will have a good year together. The pastor presented a written report which he read while Brother J. Lee Poole occupied the chair and in a very dignified manner presented the report to the conference for its consideration. It was adopted with one exception and that being in the form of a recommendation that we pay every claim in full. Short crops make finances in bad condition but the conference voted to pay the following in full: The Annual Conference Budget, College Assessment, Superannuate Fund Assessment, and Pastor's Salary, and that we make an earnest effort by observing all the special days designated by the General and Annual Conference with an offering toward this budget. The action of the conference was gratifying to the pastor and I am sure the Anderson people will do their best to get on the honor roll of the Annual Conference this fall.

A special drive for subscriptions to the Herald will be conducted early in the New Year. So far very few of the Anderson people read the Herald, but watch for us soon.

The interest in the Sunday schools is very good but both the interest and attendance can be made much better and we are trying to do this. We hope to have much better attendance when the weather gets better. It is very good considering the weather and the fact that we are a rural people.

The Senior C. E. of Fairview church enjoyed a fruit supper and social evening at the home of Mrs. Sam Henderson last Tuesday evening which was very much enjoyed by all present. Thirty of our young people were present for the occasion in spite of the cold and rain. Games and contests were entered into very heartily and each one had a pleasant evening.

Our community was grieved by the death of Mr. John Acker last week. Mr. Acker was not a member of our church, but was a man of many friends in the Fairview community. The funeral was conducted at Fairview M. P. Church by Rev. Mr. Field of the Baptist church assisted by the writer and the remains laid to rest in the church cemetery. His family and friends have our heartfelt sympathy.

Sunday school and preaching service were very well attended last Sunday. At the evening service a good sized congregation was present. The Pageant, "Gifts to the King," was presented at Liberty Hill Church with an offering for G. C. B. The Pageant was preceded by a few recitations by the children. Miss Jessie Pearson read a beautiful Christmas story and Miss Kate Campton sang very beautifully "We Three Kings of Orient Are." The pageant was directed by Mr. Marshall Maites of Greenville, S. C. Mrs. J. Lee Poole and Miss Kate and Romaine Poole also assisted in preparing the program.

We were glad to have Mrs. Ben Pearson worship with us at both services Sunday. Mrs. Pearson has for some weeks been confined to her home and undergoing treatment at the hospital.

We are sorry to report Carrol Poole, daughter of Brother J. Lee Poole of Greenville, suffering with whooping cough, a Christmas present that very few if any appreciate. Everyone hopes that Carrol will soon be well and in Sunday school.

Wishing the Herald and its readers a happy and prosperous new year.

M. IVEY CRUTCHFIELD, Pastor.

Calvary, Greensboro.—The pastor and his family had a most enjoyable Christmas. The time was spent at home with the exception of a part of Christmas day when they partook of a most delicious turkey dinner with Brother and Sister Willis Booth. A large number of our church people, relatives and friends remembered us with Christmas cards and valuable gifts. Some of the gifts were good to eat, some good to wear, some good to smell, and some just good to look at. Those who presented their gifts in person have already had our thanks, others will receive direct thanks by mail, but if any should not in any other way, I take this means of saying that all the remembrances were sincerely appreciated.

We are just hoping that all our friends whether in our church or out had as good a time as we had.

May the dear Lord help us to manifest His spirit of helpfulness and good will all the year through.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

Liberty, Siler City.—The Christmas season has been one of good cheer down our way and we hope all our Herald readers have had a wonderful Christmas, also.

There are times when a pastor is more proud of his folk than at other times. Especially at this time I am proud of what our folk at both churches have done in the way of "Christmas Pageants". The pageant 'Gifts to the King" was used in both of our churches. At Siler City there were more people involved than we had members of the church. They worked faithfullly and gave the community, so it reports, the best pageant the community has ever enjoyed. It was staged last Wednesday evening before a large and appreciated audience.

At Liberty Sunday evening we had over 100 characters involved and a huge throng of people present who reported that it was the best staged pageant Liberty had ever witnessed. The offerings at both places were very liberal. "We wish to thank our Lawrence Little and the board for giving us such an adaptable pageant."

We greatly miss Dr. F. A. Shepard, who was called home to be with the Father a few weeks ago. We are praying that others will continue to try to fill the vacancy that he left in his going.

Miss Eliza Cole, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, at Long's Hospital, Greensboro, has returned to our community. We are glad to have her with us again in our church activities.

Mr. H. C. Causey is at the Clinic hospital, Greensboro, we hope he will soon be well and with us again.

We are glad to have Messrs Elkins, Buckner and Stuart with us from High Point College during the Christmas season.

The writer has been favored with so many kind rememberances during the season that space doesn't permit mentioning them. Let me say that it is a great pleasure to serve such good people and may God help each one of you for being so thoughtful and good to me.

Best wishes to all for a bright New Year.

F. L. GIBBS.

Rockingham.—Our Sunday school has been doing fine since we last wrote. We have 193 pupils on roll. Our offering December 19, was about $50.00. We hope to have yet an increase in number and in spirit.

We held our first quarterly conference December 18. At this conference the secretary of the conference for another year was elected, Miss Pauline Mills. The Advisory Committee was elected which was Mr. Holmes Collins, Mr. G. F. Gardner and Mr. W. M. Connell. We now have all of our plans laid for another year. We hope, by the help of God, to be able to carry out our plans and have a more successful year and do more for the upbuilding of the Kingdom than ever.

Beginning the first Sunday in the new year, our children expect to begin their meetings again. We will meet at a quarter until ten o'clock every Sunday morning for the children's hour, a Bible study together.

I think we have all had a very good Christmas together. On Christmas eve night we had a program and a Christmas tree at our church.

Rev. J. H. Trolinger gave us a short talk and near the close we took a Christmas offering. We had a beautiful tree filled with presents and a Christmas sack for each Sunday school pupil which was delivered after our program or Christmas service. Everyone seemed to enjoy the service.

Rev. J. H. Trollinger, by the aid of some of our members, carried a Christmas sack to the prisoners in the jail, on the chain gang and to the old folks at the county-Home, in the name of our church. I think everyone appreciated it to the highest.

We hope everyone of the readers of the Herald and its editor had a merry Christmas and we wish you all a happy new year.

BIRDIE CONNELL, Reporter.

Chapel Hill, Davidson Circuit.—Brother Ridge preached a good sermon yesterday. Congregation small, but attentive. We also had Sunday school, but few in number.

There was prayer meeting Sunday night, ten there. Mr. Rufus Johnson made a good talk, also Mr. Jimmie Smith. Everybody is pleased to have Mr. Ridge back.

LIZZIE CRANFORD.

Greensville Circuit.—The first quarterly conference will convene at Philadelphia on Saturday before first Sunday in January, 1927. All officials take due notice hereof and govern themselves accordingly.

H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

Canaan, Denton Charge.—Our pastor, Brother Henderson, delivered a good sermon yesterday. May God's richest blessings go with him and his family.

We are glad indeed to report that our Sunday school is improving very much. There were 69 present yesterday and the collection was $2.00 while there were only 28 present a year ago and only 85 cents collection.

We ask the prayers of the Herald readers and our friends for our church that it may continue to improve and that the members may strive to do more good work throughout the coming year than ever before.

We had a Christmas tree and a short program on Christmas eve, 2:00 p.m. The program was very good according to the training the children had and the time it was gotten up in. The Ridge brothers also sang a quartet which was very much enjoyed by the people.

REPORTER.

North Davidson Circuit.—The Christian Endeavor Society held its regular weekly meeting on December 17th. The Society met at the church and rendered their program. After the program the society practiced for their Christmas exercise, which was given on Thursday night. The program was "White Gifts for the King." The gifts were sent to Rev. D. A. Braswell of Concord as a token of love at Christmas time.

MRS. PROTUS KOONTZ, Reporter.

BRIEF BUT REAL

Just to wish a "Happy New Year" to the Herald family—Editor and printers.

S. W. TAYLOR.

AN APPRECIATION

Christmas with the pastor and his family has been a time of great interest and happiness. Expressions of appreciation and love on the part of our people have been unstinted and continuous. Thanksgiving opened the gates, and the stream has been almost continuous since. The mistress of the manse was the glad recipient of a beautiful floor reading lamp, the gift of the Philathea class. And following in quick succession came a deluge of beautiful and useful articles from the Clyde Auman missionary circle. These assurances of love filled the elect lady with emotions of gladness and appreciation. But more must be said. Eats, toothsome eats, substantial eats, eats of all kinds and from sundry sources have filled our larder and loaded our table. And the end does not seem to be yet. The climax, however, was reached on Christmas day. Immediately after the community Christmas service, which was held in our church, we were escorted by a whole congregation of our people to the back yard of the parsonage to be introduced to a brand new closed Chevrolet car, a gift to the parsonage family from the congregation. The Christmas spirit was indeed running riot, and we need not tell you that our hearts and eyes were full to overflowing with joy and gratitude. Such evidences of esteem, and such efforts to assist a pastor in doing his best work get beyond the surface of matters, both on the part of pastor and people. They reach to where the fountains of life really are, and the natural response must be stronger and sweeter currents. May heaven reward the generous givers, and help us to prove our gratiful appreciation by an ever increasing service.

S. W. TAYLOR. and Family.

Halifax.—Christmas has come and gone and we have been the happy recipients of a number of Christmas presentts, for which we want to express our appreciation to everyone.

"A Pounding?" yes, a real pounding, on Thursday evening before Christmas, the members of Bethesda church began to visit the parsonage, each one bringing something for the pastor and family. This procession of friends included Mrs. Harrell, Joseph Hunter, R. B. Hunter, F. M. Taylor and family, Richard Taylor, J. H. Vinson and family, Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Neville, Willie Hill and wife, N. M. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mitchell, Miss Ethel Harrison, Miss Helen Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter, Mrs. Lila Willcox, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Aycock, Mr. Thomas and family, and Herbert Harris.

We want to thank everyone for this kind remembrance, and the editor for his patience.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

Second M. P. church, Charlotte.—I was at my post Sunday 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. I had been absent three Sundays. It seemed like a long time to be away from my little faithful band. I remember a few years ago we only saw the sun but once or twice during the month of February. But the sun did come out and we enjoyed it the more. There have been many long, cold lonely cloudy nights and days. But the sun seems to be breaking through the clouds and the sun is lighting up the day. Sunday 11 a.m. Brother G. W. Stegall presented a nice Bible which cost $6.50 and a nice box that was placed on the Christmas tree for the pastor. Sunday night Brother J. L. Belk presented me a splendid pair of driving gloves given by himself and wife. I think it was Sister Myrtle Nates that gave me one dozen real nice handkerchiefs. Saturday evening just as I was getting ready to start to Charlotte I received a box by express. It was a box of good things donated by the Christian Endeavor class of Shiloh church on N. Davidson circuit. Sent by Sister P. L. Koontz, president of the society.

This is the second time we have been kindly remembered by the good people of Shiloh church in the past few days. God has blessed them and He will continue to bless them. Sister Mary A. White of Middleburge, N. C., R. F. D. 1, sent us $5.75 donated by her Sunday school class. Our grand daughter, Miss Inez Hamilton, gave me a real nice shirt. Mrs. Nora Lee Davis gave me some real nice handkerchiefs. Our son, Mr. J. S. Braswell and his good wife, sent us a check for $5.00. All these good things make it a beautiful spring March after a long, cold, cloudy February. And the many nice Christmas cards and the many kind encouraging words from the bankers and business men who have stood by us all these long years, and still hold out a helping hand. I have no words to express my feelings. I say thank you all and pray God's richest blessings on all of you. My face is lifted up towards heaven and I am pressing homeward. We are planning to hold our first quarterly conference next Saturday night, January the first, at 7 p.m. We will re-organize our Bible class next Sunday morning. My wife is still alive, struggling between life and death. We are watching her every hour, day and night. Pray for us.

D. A. BRASWELL.

Concord.—The Christmas tree and part of the Christmas exercise was held Friday night at 7:30 p.m. The church was filled to capacity for the program, as is always the case when old St. Nick is expected. The church was decorated very beautifully for the occasion. The large tree on which part of the presents were hung, for there was not room for them all on the tree, was also very beautiful. At the close of the program a large horn was heard from the rear of the church, every eye was anxiously awaiting the appearance of Santa Claus, at last he arrived and immediately began unloading the many presents.

The pageant, "Gifts for the King," was given at the Sunday evening service. Each department and organization of the church presented its gift to the King.

At the Sunday morning service Brother Hendry brought us a very appropriate and inspiring Christmas message.

On Christmas morning the Senior Christian Endeavor society with Santa Clau went to the County Home, and sang Christmas carols, after which Santa Claus presented to them the fruits from the society. The old folk were very happy to have St. Nick present and give them all the fruit they could eat. It made all us Christian Endeavorers feel that we had really done something to make others happy on Christmas and were all the more happy ourselves for it.

We are trying to make our pastor and his family as comfortable here as possible. The Baracas have furnished the dining room very nicely with a dining room suite and rug. Mr. L. H. Sides gave a hot water tank for the bath and the Ladies' Aid Society is having it installed. Most of the other part of the house was already furnished.

Miss Ethel Blackwelder and Mr. Cornelius Sides of High Point College, are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Blackwelder, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sides, respectively.

Miss Mabel Craven, daughter of B. R. Craven, became the bride of Mr. Robert Pinion, on December 24, 1926. Rev. Lawrence Little officiating. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, only a few friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Pinion will make their home with the bride's mother for the present.

One of the dearest men of our church was taken away from us December 22. A man whom we all knew and loved, Brother W. H. Scarboro. It can truly be said that Brother Scarboro was the father of our church, being a charter member, and showing his faithfulness and loyalty all these years. Brother Scarboro was superintendent of the Sunday school for about 15 years. He was also choir leader for many years. Perhaps no other department of the church will feel his absence more than the choir. Each time the choir rises to sing a very familiar voice is missing. The life that this dear Brother lived is an example for us all. His influence shall remain with us through remaining years of time.

The funeral service was conducted at the church, by the pastor, assisted by an ex-pastor, Rev. Lawrence Little.

BERNICE NASH, Reporter.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Topic for January 2.—Being True to Our Covenant with Christ. Heb. 8:10-12.

Topic for January 9.—What Confession of Christ Includes. Rom. 10:1-10. Luke 12:8, 9.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson for January 2.—The Christian a Follower of Jesus. Mark 1:16-20; 2:13-17; 1 John 2:6.

Lesson for January 9.—The Standard Of Christian Living. Luke 6:27-38.

—Prof. Lassiter, son of the late Rev. W. C. Lassiter, was among the visitors at Calvary church last Sunday night. He is principal of schools at Madison, N. C.

—One pastor overcame his type writer in telling about a pounding this week. He had to fall back on his goose quill or fountain pen. But the story he tells is worth relating. We congratulate him on having such a people.

—Mrs. W. M. Shaw, an aged and highly respected member of Tabernacle church, died on Tuesday. Funeral conducted by Bros. Ashburn and Millaway at the church on Wednesday.

—The emperor of Japan died last week. He had been infirm for a long time. His successor had been the real ruler for some time, so that no political changes are expected.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Scarboro

"I have lost my right arm," said General Lee upon being informed of the death of Jackson the night before. Such a statement could be truthfully made in regard to the homegoing of this good man which occured Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, December the 22. The tallest pines of the forest which help to make the forest what it is must eventually fall and when they do great is the vacancy that is created. More than that, great are the wounds inflicted on the remaining ones by its fall. This too, is true in relation to the death of this man who has meant so much to the community in which he lived these last forty years of his life, and to the church of his love and devotion, as well as to the great kingdom of the outer world.

A charter member of First Methodist Protestant of Concord, N. C., and through all the interveaning years a pillar on which the church could rely for any service within his power. He rendered notable service to the church as Sunday school Superintendent for more than eighteen years. There are to be found today as a result of his labors great numbers of young people in his church who will say they owe an inestimable debt to this indefatigable Christian servant. He has been choir director since the organization of the church and in this connection rendered valuable service, only giving up the place after a prolonged illness this summer in which he suffered a first heart attack.

It would be difficult to say too much in eulogy of this good man. He will not be among us visibly but he will continue his labors for many a day, through the influences that he set going in his days of earthly life.

The Concord Daily Tribune of December 23, carried the following:

"William Henry Scarboro, well known Concord merchant, died yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock at his home on Ann street. He had been ill for several months with a heart malady and his condition for ten days had been so critical that his death was not unexpected.

"Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3:30 at the First Methodist Protestant Church, of which the deceased had been an active member for many years. Rev. G. H. Hendry, pastor of the church, will conduct the services and interment will be in Oakwood cemetery. Rev. Lawrence Little will assist in the services.

"Mr. Scarboro was born in Montgomery county on December 28, 1868, a son of the late Robert Henry and Adaline Scarboro. He moved to Concord about 35 or 40 years ago. He was married in 1888 to Miss Annie E. Warner, of Montgomery county.

The deceased was one of the most active members of the First Methodist Protestant Church. He was superintendent of the church's Sunday school for about twenty years and was in charge of music in the church and Sunday school at the time of his death. He was a member of the Patriotic Order Sons of America and Junior Order of United American Mehanics.

"Surviving are his wife, five children, five brothers and two sisters. The children are: P. H. Scarboro, Mrs. Joe Fant, Mrs. L. M. Burris, T. H. Scarboro, and Miss Martha Scarboro, all of Concord. The sisters are: Mrs. Mary Earnhardt and Mrs. A. M. Honeycutt, of Concord, and five brothers are: Joe Scarboro, Norwood; Fred Scarboro, Mt. Gilead; R. E. Scarboro, Bessemer City; Daniel Scarboro, Salisbury, and Clay Scarboro, Gastonia."

A large congregation attended the funeral attesting their love, and he was interred in Oakwood cemetery beneath a large bank of flowers of rich profusion. Thus closed a life that illustrates "life at its best."

G. H. HENDRY, Pastor.

Reavis

We, the women of the Ladies' Aid Society of Flat Rock M. P. Church, desire to offer a tribute of love and esteem to the memory of our dear sister and friend, Mrs. J. W. Reavis.

We love her for what she was in herself; her cheerful, true, open hearted, large souled Christian character. She was always an inspiration and help to all who knew her.

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call her to her reward,—

Therefore, be it resolved that this society shall ever hold her in loving remembrance and her Christian influence among us as a Sister.

Resolved, that we have lost a dear friend and her husband and children have lost one of the dearest wives and mothers.

Especially do we extend our sympathy to the husband and children of the one who has gone to her reward and forever to be with the Lord.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the families and one to the M. P. Herald.

Mrs. A. E. WHITE,
MRS. T. P. HESTER,
MRS. A. H. DAVIS,
MRS. J. T. HESTER,
MRS. B. W. JONES.
Committee.

Ferree

Calvin Madison Ferree, son of the late Samuel and Kizzie Ferree, was born in Randolph county, April 16, 1854, and departed this life December 17, 1926. On December 25, 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Alma Lamb. Fourteen children were born to these parents, eight of whom are living. They are, I. L. of Greensboro, C. E., G. M., L. F., and H. G., of High Point, Mrs. W. B. Lamb, Miss Bertha and Tyson Ferree of Asheboro. There are two living brothers, John Ferree of near Cedar Falls and Marshall Ferree of Aberdeen, N. C. Fifteen grandchildren also survive.

Brother Ferree was one of Randolph county's best men. Many years ago he professed saving faith in Jesus Christ and united with Giles' Chapel Methodist Protestant church where his membership remained until his death. For many years he was one of the pillars of the church and many pastors have learned to lean upon him for encouragement and support. He was of a family of loyal Methodist Protestants and was a brother of the late Rev. T. T. Ferree, M. D., who was at one time President of the N. C. Annual Conference.

Brother Ferree spent the most of his life on the farm. He was a good farmer and a good manager and was one of the leading citizens of his community. About eight years ago when his health began to fail he moved from his farm which was about three miles from Asheboro in to Asheboro where he spent the remainder of his days. He had the confidence of the people of his county and was appointed several years ago to the office of County Administrator, which office he held as long as he lived.

For the past year he has been in a critical condition many times, but by a strong constitution and will power was able to stay the hand of death much longer than it seemed that he could. During his last days the writer visited him many times. His faith was strong. He realized that the end was near, but said he was ready to go. Before his going he called

NEW — a magazine for PARENTS!

CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents, brings sound fact and information of help in raising healthy, successful children from crib to college. Well-known child doctors, psychologists, educational authorities, food and fashion experts are editors and contributors. Its articles are as interesting and gaily illustrated as its fiction.

Infant Care	Child Health
Patterns	Moral Training
Recipes	Study Programs
Menus	Good Movies
Discipline	Book Reviews
Schooling	Entertainment

Subscription price $2.50 a year
Two years $4.00

Send check and order to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD, Greensboro, N. C. They will be forwarded without delay to CHILDREN, The Magazine for Parents.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$1.50 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

his family to him and gave them his parting message and went home.

The funeral was conducted at Giles' Chapel Sunday afternoon, December 19, by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. B. Trogdon and Rev. Fred Love. It was estimated that the congregation would have filled the church three times and the floral offerings were beautiful.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

—Thursday, January 6, 1927, and the New Willard Hotel in Washington, D. C., are the date and place of the annual meeting and banquet of the National Citizens Committee of One Thousand for Law Observance. Fred B. Smith, chairman of the Committee, is to preside at the meeting, and the speakers as announced include Colonel Raymond Robins, Senator William E. Borah, Senator Morris Sheppard, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, General Lincoln C. Andrews, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

—A new fifty-cent piece is soon to be issued by the United States Treasury. It is a memorial coin commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Bennington. On one side is a profile of Ira Allen (brother of the famous Ethan) with the words: "He Founded Vermont, the 14th State." On the other side are the words: "Battle of Bennington." "United States of America," and "1777—HALF DOLLAR—1927."

—The battle of Bennington was fought at Bennington, Vt., August 16, 1777, between the New Hampshire militia under General Stark, and a part of General Burgoyne's British army. It was a big victory for the Americans. More than 200 British soldiers were killed and 600 were taken prisoner. The Americans lost 14 killed and 42 wounded.

—Virginia is the latest State to arrange for a big road-building program. That State plans to spend a total of 65 million dollars on roads during the next five years. Twelve hundred miles of improved highways will be added to Virginia's present road system. At least half of the new routes will lead to Washington, D. C., the national capital.

—A reduced rate for air mail, beginning February 1, 1927, is announced by Postmaster General New. The new rate is ten cents for each one-half ounce. That rate will carry a letter or package to any place in the country over air routes and necessary connecting railway routes. The present air postage rates are based on the distance the mail is carried.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Co-educational, denominational, but not sectarian.

Splendid courses in modern language, English, science, education, religious education, etc., offered by competent instructors. Correspondence solicited.

R. M. ANDREWS, President

WEDDING GIFTS

COMMUNITY AND STERLING SILVER

PLATED WARE :: CHINA

CUT GLASS AND POTTERY

Buy at

ODELL'S

WHERE QUALITY TELLS

Greensboro, N. C.

PRINTING

of the Better Class

We are prepared to execute promptly any order, from a visiting card to the most elaborate catalog, at reasonable prices. Write us in regard to your needs in the printing line; we guarantee to give complete satisfaction.

"All that's worth printing is worth printing well"

McCULLOCH & SWAIN

Printers of THE HERALD

1103 ASHEBORO STREET P. O. BOX 1193

GREENSBORO, N. C.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

LOOSE LEAF BOOKS

For Ministers' Use

WILLS BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

GREENSBORO :: :: NORTH CAROLINA

—The Republic of Liberia has just ratified an agreement made with Harvey S. Firestone more than a year ago. Mr. Firestone is president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, of Akron, Ohio. Under the agreement Liberia leases one million acres of land suitable for rubber growing to an American company headed by Mr. Firestone for ninety-nine years. The company plans to spend 100 million dollars in developing this land into rubber plantations.

—Elihu Root, of New York, is the winner of the Woodrow Wilson Prize for 1926. That reward, consisting of a medal and $25,000 in cash is given by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

—Grace church had its Christmas service last Sunday evening at five o'clock. A collection was taken to purchase oxen for the use of the mission in India. For a number of years Grace people had been sending money to pay for a Christmas dinner for all at the mission. This year Brother Minnis requested that the collection be for the purchase of oxen needed for service by the mission.

—There are 300,000 boys and girls of club age on the farms of North Carolina. So far only about 20,000 are enrolled in junior club work.

—Rowan county, North Carolina, has the honor of winning the handsome silver cup, offered by the Southern Railway System to the grower of the best ten ears of corn produced in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky or Tennessee, the trophy having been awarded to J. A. Patterson of China Grove.

—Two hundred and twenty-three farmers sold over $18,000 worth of products on the Hendersonville curb market during 1926.

—Mr. Junius McKinley Hester, Jr., and Miss Nelle Anne Gray announce their marriage on Thursday, the twenty-third of December, Nineteen hundred and twenty-six, at Kernersville, North Carolina.